Return to Wayne State

Twins revisit past

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Twin Californian brothers, Dewayne Gramly of San Francisco and Paul Forbes of San Jose, were bestowed special honors during their visit Wednesday to Wayne State College.

However, the greatest experience of excitement of their Nebraska trip happened Thursday. They drove to Fullerton, Nebraska to meet a nephew. There, they had hope to see pictures of their biological mother.

The fraternal twins were born Feb. 15, 1917. When they were four months old, the twin brothers were adopted by two different families.

It wasn't until about one year ago when the two brothers were reunited — a 70-year time frame which the Guinness Book of World Records states is the longest "separated and then reunited" twins on record.

Gramly graduated from Wayne State (Teachers) College in May, 1937, with majors in Education, Music and English. His degree was a Bachelor of Fine Arts.

ON WEDNESDAY evening, Gramly was presented a "Half Century Club" certificate by interim Wayne State College President Joseph Fleck. The award is given to those people who have come back to Wayne State College for the 50th year reunion. His twin brother, Forbes, received a certificate which made him an honorary alumnus of Wayne State College.

Prior to the award presentation that evening, Gramly had performed an organ and piano recital at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne. He dedicated his performance to Mrs. Albert C. Carlson, Gramly's piano study while at Wayne State was Albert Carlson, he said.

Of the several organ and piano pieces he played, he dedicated one song to David Sanderson. The song was sung by WSC graduate Sharyn Whipple.

"This is a very emotional thing for me, coming back to Wayne," he told the audience. His return to Wayne was on May 27, the exact date 50 years ago when he received his bachelor's degree from Wayne State.

"At this time 50 years ago, I was getting up and anxious for graduation," he told the audience.

AFTER THE concert, he and Forbes answered questions from the audience. "For 22 years, we lived 50 miles apart and we didn't even know it," said Forbes.

Over 25 years ago, Forbes made inquiries about his brother's whereabouts at the orphanage in Omaha, but failed to get any substantial results. He renewed his efforts again several years ago, making reference calls to Ogallala and Gibbon, Nebraska. Information began to accrue and he found Gramly's adoptive parents, who provided information which eventually led to Gramly's location in San Francisco.

For nearly 15 years, Gramly had an unlisted San Francisco telephone number. By coincidence, he decided to have the number once again listed. Forbes, then residing in San Jose, California, made the connection with Gramly through the listing in the telephone book.

They met in June of last year at Gramly's apartment. Gramly said he knew all along that he was adopted. Forbes said he had learned from a

Theatre takes in talent of all ages

Want to do something this summer in the Wayne community that can involve the entire family and can be exciting and fulfilling?

One doesn't have to take the family on a long vacation just to make the summer enjoyable, according to Ted Blenderman of Wayne. There's another activity available in Wayne that can be just as rewarding, but not as expensive.

Blenderman will be directing this year's summer musical "Guys and Dolls" production, which will be the 17th Wayne Community Theatre production and the ninth musical since the non-profit incorporated organization was revitalized in the late 1970's.

This is Blenderman's fifth directorship of a musical. And he has appeared and helped to design sets in at least four other community theatre productions.

At one time, the community theatre had been discontinued in the 1960's, according to Blenderman, and an effort was made to revive the productions in the early 70's. "But it never got off the ground," Blenderman said.

In the spring of 1978, Helen Russell had asked Blenderman to direct "Carnival." "We had nine people try out for a cast of 40," Blenderman said.

A CALL WENT OUT to the community for more participation and the response was overwhelming. "We really got the community involved. We ended up with 40 people," Blenderman said.

The production was performed as a dinner theatre presentation, the first of three straight dinner theatres that were musicals.

"Carnival" provided the community theatre organization with more enthusiasm.

"That production showed us that the community was really interested, not only in participating but in attending the performance," Blenderman mentioned.

"It was very gratifying to have that kind of support," he said.

After "Carnival" came the following productions: "California Suite"; "Fiddler on the Roof"; "On Golden Pond"; "My Fair Lady"; "Last of the Red Hot Lovers"; "The Music Man"; "Billie Spirit" (in which Helen Russell had suffered an injury during rehearsal and ended up performing the production in a wheelchair); "South Pacific"; "East Lynne"; "Wayne, America"; "Lunch Hour"; "They're Playing Our Song"; "Night of January 16" (which was performed in the Wayne County Courthouse); "Kiss Me, Kate"; and "Harvey."

NEXT TO THE "Wayne, America" performance, which was played during Wayne's centennial year, Blenderman said the most popular musicals have been "Fiddler on the Roof" and "The Music Man."

"We had a large number of people involved in those productions — at least 40 to 50 people," he mentioned.

The community theatre board of directors schedule a spring play and a summer musical every year. Purpose of the organization is to foster, promote, encourage and increase the practice, knowledge and appreciation of the art of theatre in Wayne and the surrounding area.

One of the drawbacks of the community theatre in recent years, according to Blenderman, is recruiting people to audition and participate in the productions.

"Almost every year, three to five people say to me 'I wish I could do that (audition for a role in the play), but I don't have the talent'. I answer them by saying that they absolutely have the talent and that they just don't know it yet. They find out later about their talent when they get involved with the production," mentioned Blenderman.

CHUCK HIGBEE, prior to coming to Wayne, had small parts in high school plays and was not experienced in theatre. But recently he had a leading role in the musical "Kiss Me, Kate" and now he (and his family) looks forward to each community theatre season.

"It's an exciting thing to be on stage and performing live before an audience," Higbee said. "And for the Wayne community, it should be exciting for an audience to see a live musical production."

If the talent is not in performing, Blenderman said there is always a need for talent in organization, construction of sets or in public relations. "There are so many jobs in theatre," Blenderman said.

Higbee said his whole family has become involved in community theatre. "There's a chance for entire families to be involved in it," he said, "and Wayne seems to be a family

News and Notes

Buying a better towel

Towels can be an expensive investment for a family, especially with the need for large terry towels increasing with summer.

Buying wisely can help a family save money over the long run, and understanding how a towel is constructed can make buying easier.

Towels are made of terry cloth. Terry cloth is made with three sets of yarns — two warp yarns that run lengthwise and one that runs horizontally, called the filling.

When the cloth is woven, the extra set of warp yarns interlock and are pulled above the background weave to form the loops or pile.

The loops can be made of a single or double thread. High quality towels have double thread loops that make the towels more absorbent and wear longer. Each loop acts like a tiny sponge to absorb moisture.

THE LOOSER AND SOFTER the loops, the more rapid the absorption. Unfortunately, these towels do not wear well. Towels having tightly twisted, firm loops wear well. A one-eighth of an inch loop is best. Also, the more loops per square inch, the more moisture the towel can absorb.

A well-made towel has a closely woven, firm background. When the towel is held to the light, tiny and regular pin-points of light indicate the weave is good. Weak, open spots indicate a loose, mending construction.

Conventional towels have loops on two sides. Velour towels, also called plush or velvet, have loops on one side that are sheared, creating a softer, more luxurious texture and deeper color. Sheared towels cost more but absorb less because the loop tops that soak up moisture were removed. However, the reverse side of many velour towels is not sheared.

BORDERS AND EDGES on good quality towels should not shrink more than the towel itself. Properly finished side-edges, called selvages, should give satisfactory wear for the life of the towel. Selvage edges can be finished three ways.

Woven selvages should be firmly woven, uniform and sturdy with all filling yarns binding the warp. This tapelike selvage usually is found on high quality towels.

Overedged selvage, made with an overcast stitch, should be stitched evenly, close and tight for maximum durability. This finish generally is used on washcloths. Hemmed selvages should have small, even and firm stitches.

Hems should be turned under at least one-fourth of an inch and sewn with small, close stitches, backstitched at the corners and be free from loose threads.

Fringed hems should be thick and uniform in length. The plain area above the fringe should be woven tightly.

PBS summer series

'Reading Rainbow' books available at local library

Librarian Kathleen Tooker has announced that most of the books featured in the PBS "Reading Rainbow" series are available at Wayne Public Library.

The PBS series, which brings award-winning children's picture books to the television screen, will air daily, Monday through Friday, from June 1 through Sept. 11. Each episode is 30 minutes.

This year's series will include 10 newly produced shows along with 35 earlier ones.

Each "Reading Rainbow" episode features a book that will challenge children's reading skills and at the same time entertain.

Host LeVar Burton makes the topic of each book come alive through travel on location or a story told by animation, music video, dance or song.

THE 10 NEW "Reading Rainbow" episodes this year include:

June 1 and Aug. 31 — "The Life Cycle of the Honeybee," which explores where honey comes from and how it's made. Burton visits a beekeeper and examines a beehive up close.

June 2 and Sept. 1 — "Keep the Lights Burning, Abbie." The true story of a young girl who kept her lighthouse operating during a tremendous storm. Burton travels to a modern-day lighthouse in Maine and sails on a 100-foot schooner.

June 3 and Sept. 2 — "Chickens Aren't the Only Ones." Burton visits a chicken farm and searches for the answer to the age-old question, "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?"

June 4 and Sept. 3 — "The Paper Crane." Burton celebrates Japanese culture by visiting a restaurant in New York, where he explores the ancient art of origami and ornamental carving of vegetables.

June 5 and Sept. 4 — "The Runaway Duck," a funny story that chronicles the travels of Egbert the duck. Burton takes viewers to Maryland's Chesapeake Bay to learn about waterfowl and the arts of duck carving and calling.

Aug. 24 and Sept. 7 — "A Three Hat Day," the story of R.R. Pottle III, who loves hats and searches for the perfect wife who wears the perfect hat. Burton visits a shop where magical hats "transport" him to such destinations as the home of the world's largest model railroad layout, a racetrack where a jockey gives him riding pointers, and the Nassau Coliseum.

Aug. 25 and Sept. 8 — "Rumpelstiltskin." Burton visits a Renaissance festival in California and enjoys the music, colorful crafts and fanfare of the period.

Aug. 26 and Sept. 9 — "Best Friends," which focuses on the importance of special relationships in life. Burton and viewers learn how Seeing Eye dogs are trained.

Aug. 27 and Sept. 10 — "Meanwhile Back at the Ranch," a feature book which details a hilarious day in the life of a rancher's wife when her husband goes to town. Burton gets a taste for the real wild west when he rides the stagecoach and meets a stunt rider on the streets of Old Tucson.

Aug. 28 and Sept. 11 — "My Little Island." Burton travels to the Caribbean for an inside look at island culture and the tropical vegetation.

Juniors split tourney games

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Wayne Junior Legion opened its season in fine fashion Thursday with a 5-1 triumph over rival West Point in the opening round of the Chuck Ellis Memorial Baseball Tournament in Wakefield.

The locals used a pair of fine pitching performances plus some timely hitting to eliminate their neighbors to the south.

Ted Lueders was given the starting assignment by Coach Hank Overin. Lueders threw three innings of scoreless, one-hit ball. In the three innings he worked, Lueders fanned four West Point batters. In the fourth Scott Hammer came on in relief of Lueders. Hammer went four innings giving up one hit and one run to earn the win. The lone hit came against the first hitter he faced in the fourth inning. Clean-up hitter Tom Notteman uncorked a solo home run to center field to cut the Wayne lead to 4-1.

Neither team could mount any offense in the first two frames. Wayne broke the scoreless tie by striking for four runs in the bottom of the third.

Steve Lutt started the inning by receiving a base on balls. In an attempt to sacrifice Lutt to second Ted McCright laid down a bunt and was safe at second on a throwing error by the pitcher. Lutt went to third on the error and McCright advanced to second on a steal.

With runners on second and third with no outs Lueders rolled an infield groundball. McCright forced Lutt off the bag at third but he scored on a throwing error at the plate. McCright and Lueders came around to score on a single through the drawn-in infield by Russ Longe. Jason Jorgensen concluded the scoring in the inning when his triple to left field scored Longe, making it 4-0.

The locals scored their last run in the bottom of the sixth. Bill Landanger scored on Hammer's ground ball when the West Point fielder couldn't come up with it cleanly.

Wayne faltered five runs on only three hits, thanks in large part to seven West Point errors. Wayne committed three errors and stranded seven baserunners.

The Juniors advanced to the second round Saturday night when they were pitted against the Wakefield Junior Legion.

SCOTT HAMMER is forced out at home during the Junior Legion's first game against West Point. Hammer earned the win in the contest.

In the meantime, Overin's squad opened play in the Wayne Junior Legion Tournament Friday night against Elkhorn.

There wasn't much to cheer about for the home-crowd folks. Elkhorn dumped the locals 14-1 in six innings. Elkhorn limited Wayne to just three hits, while it pounded-out 10 hits.

The winners never trailed in the contest. Elkhorn broke the game open in the third inning when they sent 10 batters to the plate. The Anglers scored five runs on five hits to take a commanding 8-0 lead. The winners also chased starting pitcher Russ Longe from the mound in the inning. Longe, 0-1, was charged with eight runs on eight hits. Robbie Gamble came on and finished the contest.

Wayne averted the shutout with a run in the top of the fifth inning. Catcher Scott Pickett reached first after being hit by a pitch. He scored all the way from first on Longe's double in the left-centerfield gap. Longe was thrown out trying to stretch it into a triple to end the inning.

Elkhorn closed out the scoring by tallying four more in the bottom of the fifth on just one hit. The ballgame ended when Hammer grounded into a doubleplay.

Sunday at 2 p.m. Wayne will play O'Neill in the second game of the round-robin tournament.

Norfolk wins Midget crown

Chuck Ellis tourney nears end

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The clouds finally parted and allowed the 16th annual Chuck Ellis Memorial Baseball Tournament to resume.

The tournament, played in Wakefield, is held in memory of Charles "Chuck" Ellis who helped lead the Wakefield Junior Legion team to win the Ralph Bishop League and the District 3 and Area A championships in 1969. On April 19, 1970 Ellis, 17, was killed in a automobile accident.

For the second-straight year the tournament field has been expanded to a Midget and Junior Legion tournament.

In second-round action the Wakefield Midgets were ousted from the tournament by Fremont Thursday afternoon by a 9-4 score.

Wakefield, who advanced by thumping Pendre 22-17, scored the first run of the game but Fremont won the game with a three-run third inning.

Wakefield posted a run in the top of the first inning. With one out shortstop Scott Lund tripled to left field. He scored one out later when Andy McCoustan sacrificed him home.

Fremont grabbed the lead for good in the bottom of the frame on a couple of Wakefield miscues. The first run came across when a pickoff attempt failed at second base. The throw from pitcher Matt Tappe sailed into center field. The runner advanced to third and scored when the throw from center went over the head of the third baseman. The second run crossed the plate when centerfielder Troy Lee couldn't come up with a flyball.

Fremont scored three more in the fifth to take a 5-0 lead. The big blow was a two-run double by Todd Way. Wakefield got another run in the fifth inning. Lund walked, stole second and third. The throw to third by the Fremont catcher got away and Lund came home.

Wakefield cut the lead to 5-4 in the top of the sixth. Matt Tappe reached base on his second hit of the game and scored when Tony Halverson stole second. Halverson scored on a wild pitch.

Fremont came back and put the game out of reach by striking for four runs in the bottom of the inning.

Tappe started the game for Wakefield and was saddled with the loss. He went five innings allowing six runs on six hits. Chris Loofe relieved Tappe and pitched to one hitter. McCoustan came on and threw the last inning giving up three runs.

WAKEFIELD'S TONY HALVERSON scores from third base on a wild pitch during the Midgets' 9-4 loss to Fremont.

In the championship game in the Midget division Norfolk Blues dinged Fremont 16-6 in five innings to claim its second-straight championship.

The Wakefield Midgets will next be in action tonight (Monday) at 6 p.m. in the first round of a tournament in Madison.

The Wakefield Junior Legion squad also won its first-round contest. Wakefield nipped Lyons-Bancroft 11-10 on Friday.

By looking at the box score you would think that Lyons-Bancroft went away the winners. Wakefield scored 11 runs on just three hits.

Lyons had a more balanced attack as they tallied eight runs on 10 hits. Lyons pitchers walked 11 Wakefield batters.

Mike Nelson went the distance in gaining the win for the locals. Nelson's control was excellent as he fanned eight batters while walking only three.

Wakefield went on top 2-0 in the bottom of the first inning. But the visitors tied the score with a pair in the top of the second.

The game breaker came in the bottom of the fourth inning when Wakefield struck for seven runs. The big blow of the inning was a two-out, two-run double by centerfielder Troy Lee. Doug Roberts doubled earlier in the frame. Roberts finished the game 2-3 with a pair of baggers.

Lyons-Bancroft got most of its offense from two hitters. Greg Gallop accounted for a home run, triple and single while scoring four times. Larry Johnson went 3-4 with a double and two singles.

The win enabled Wakefield to advance to the semifinals against Wayne which was played Saturday evening. No tentative date has been set for the Junior Legion championship game.

In Dodge County

Wakefield town team edged

Wakefield lost its second one-run game of the season May 21 when they traveled to West Point for Dodge County action.

The hosts scored five runs in the eighth and ninth innings to take a 5-4 decision. West Point boosted its record to 2-0.

Wakefield scored single runs in the first, fourth, sixth and seventh innings to take a 4-0 lead. Meanwhile starting pitcher Joel Ankeny was cruising along until the eighth inning. After walking the first two men in the frame Ankeny had to leave the game because of a sore back. Bob Utermark came on in relief and was saddled with his first loss of the year as he allowed three runs on three hits in an inning and a third.

Ankeny allowed two runs on six hits while walking five and striking out four in seven innings of work. Eric Campbell got the win for West Point. Campbell, who pitches for Creighton University, upped his mark to 2-0.

Leftfielder Mike Clay led

Wakefield offensively. He went 2-4 with one RBI. Four other players had one hit apiece.

Coach Joe Coble said the team played well but an error in the ninth inning hurt Wakefield. In the team's two losses it has blown leads of four and six runs.

Wakefield was washed out again Thursday night in a scheduled game at Snyder. The locals were scheduled to try again on Sunday when they were to play host to Blair in their home opener.

Boat Safety Week June 7-13

Popeye, the world's most famous sailor, urges all Nebraska boaters to sign up for the Game and Parks Commission's "Nebraska Better Boating" home study course during Safe Boating Week, June 7-13, and enjoy safe family boating outings throughout the year.

The free "Nebraska Better Boating" course is designed as an education course for the boater and his family. It teaches a variety of boating skills, like proper trailering, safety afloat, recognizing signs of changing weather, knots, first-aid, how to avoid accidents, and what to do if someone else has an accident. Some insurance companies offer reduced rates for folks who have successfully completed the course.

To register for the course simply write "Nebraska Better Boating," Nebraska Game and Parks Commission, P.O. Box 30370, Lincoln, Ne., 68503. "But don't wait to take the course before following safety rules on the water," says Nebraska Boating Law Administrator Andy Nielsen.

Nielsen points out that there are a lot of boat owners competing for space on Nebraska waters. "Last year (1986) there were more than 50,000 boats registered in Nebraska alone, and a like number of other craft that do not require registration were also used on our waters. Many people spent a lot of time enjoying water recreation, but there were also six people who lost their lives on state waters during 1986.

Nielsen offers a few tips for making all boating trips safe ones:

- check all of your boating equipment before heading out to the lake.
- Make sure it is in serviceable condition and that all required equipment is aboard the vessel. Personal flotation devices must be readily accessible so they'll be handy if they are needed, not stored away under the bow or locked in a compartment where no one can get to them in an emergency.

- check the trailer tires and wheel bearings to be sure they are in good shape.

- the law requires a 1987 license plate on the trailer and current registration decals on the boat.

- be aware of any sudden weather changes. If electrical storms or strong winds occur, get off the water FAST.

- be sure there are personal flotation devices on board for the driver and all passengers and insist that all passengers under 12 obey the law and wear a PFD whenever they are in the boat.

- just as on a highway, avoid drinking alcohol and driving a boat, and be aware that intoxicated boaters cause accidents too.
