Park dedicated

The public is invited to attend the grand opening and dedication of Niobrara State Park on Saturday, July 11 at 10 a.m.

This is northeast Nebraska's newest outdoor recreation complex, perched on 1,231 acres with a view of the Missouri and Niobrara river valleys.

Featured developments include 15 fully modern, all-weather cabins, nearly six miles of new roads, and an interpretive shelter honoring the region's native American history.

The shelter is a gift from Alan Cramer of Wayne, who will be giving the dedication address at the grand opening. Cramer is a director with the Nebraska Game and Parks Foundation.

Other speakers include Governor Kay Orr; Colonel Steven West, Commander of the Army Corps of Engineers, Omaha District; State Senator Elroy Heifer; James Denney of the Omaha World-Herald; Niobrara Mayor Paul Theofilo; Margaret Green of Niobrara; and John Schulenberg, Superintendent of Niobrara State Park.

Staff change

Peg Wheeler of Wayne has joined the staff of the League of Human Dignity. She is an independent living advisor assisting people with physical disabilities to achieve optimal independence in their lives.

Wheeler will be working with the physically disabled in the counties of Wayne, Dixon, Thurston and Dakota. She replaces Deb Matcha, who has been transferred to the Lincoln office of the League.

Peg received her bachelor of science degree from Wayne State in Human Relations in 1985. She was previously employed at Wayne Care Centre.

Lynley Potts also will be joining the staff during the summer. She is an intern with the League from Wayne State College.

Anyone desiring information about the League of Human Dignity or its services may call 371-4475.

Fit and Show

All Dixon and Wayne County 4-H members are invited to attend a dairy fitting and showing clinic Friday, July 17 at 1 p.m. at the Dixon County Fairgrounds in Concord. The clinic will last about three hours.

Jack Warner of Allen will demonstrate how to groom the cows and heifers for show. Tim Volk of Battle Creek will conduct a showmanship workshop and work with participants and their calves individually. If the member does not wish to bring their own project animal, hater broke calves will be available for them to use in learning the showmanship technique.

Dr. Ken Liska, Wayne Veterinary Clinic, will present a session on herd health and necessary vaccinations for show cattle.

There is no charge for the clinic. 4-H members outside the Wayne/Dixon area wishing to attend call pre-register on a space available basis with the Dixon County Extension Service.

For more burial space

Greenwood Cemetery renovation planned

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

A project aimed at increasing the number of burial spaces at Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne is expected to begin this fall.

Members of the Greenwood Cemetery Association Board of Directors approved the approximate $5,000 expansion project last April. Entailed in the project will be to eliminate over 200 cedar trees on the north end of the cemetery and replacing the area with approximately 186 more burial spaces in addition to the landscaping with smaller trees, shrubs and perennial flowers.

Rowan Wiltse of Wayne, president of the Greenwood Cemetery Association, said reasons for the cemetery rearrangement are twofold. The cemetery association consists of five board members, a secretary, treasurer and the membership that includes all those who have purchased one or more burial plots at Greenwood Cemetery.

"We can see that in the next 15 to 20 years, we are going to run out of room. And we can no longer buy land that is adjacent to the cemetery at this time," Wiltse said.

Land north of the cemetery is being developed as a subdivision. To the west is a waterway. East of the cemetery are houses and south of Greenwood Cemetery is the highway.

WILTSE SAID Wayne, like other communities, experienced growth that was not anticipated. "Now the cemetery is bordered on all sides," Wiltse mentioned.

"So the option we had was to utilize what space we have — and the north grove [in Greenwood Cemetery] was left unattended," he said.

Presently, upon entering Greenwood Cemetery, individuals can drive their vehicles around the first circle drive and advance northward through a line of trees to a second circle drive. In that second circle drive are over 200 cedar trees that have grown 50 to 60 feet in the air, according to Wiltse. "They have lost their aesthetic value," he said.

By removing the cedar trees, the cemetery association will gain 186 additional burial spaces. A burial space presently costs $200, so that would bring approximately $35,000 to $40,000 in the operation of the cemetery, Wiltse mentioned. "All that for an investment of $5,000," he said.

THERE ARE about 3,600 burial spaces currently available at Greenwood Cemetery — most of them in the section of the newest addition that is located on the west edge of the cemetery.

"We opened up the new addition to the west in 1956; over 30 years ago, and now that is over half full of purchased burial sites," Wiltse remarked.

Plans for the expansion of the cemetery began last year, Wiltse said. The board began discussion with Gail Korn at Garden Perennials and Brent Pedersen of Country Nursery about the project. On April 30 of this year, the cemetery board approved the cemetery project, which is scheduled to begin this fall.

What a blast!

WAKEFIELD COMMUNITY CLUB sponsored a half-hour fireworks spectacular at Eaton Field, watched by over 350 spectators, during Saturday's July 4th celebration. Rain cancelled the ballgames, but the fireworks show went on as scheduled.

Chickens 'rule the roost' on Saturday

Chickens will have the luxury of becoming the "king of the roost" this Saturday, July 11, in Wayne as the annual Chicken Show takes place, with most of the activities scheduled at Bressler Park.

This year's theme of the Wayne Chicken Show is "Chickens in the Movies."

The day begins early as runners toe the starting line at Milton G. Waldbaum Co. in Wakefield and run to Wayne's Bressler Park. The race begins at 7:30 a.m.

One hour after the race is started (8:30), the roosters will have something to crow about as they compete in a contest to see who can record the most crows within a certain time frame.

Stomachs won't go hungry in the morning as there is a free omelet feed from 9-11 a.m. at Bressler Park. The Chicken Flying Meet, sanctioned by the International Chicken Flying Association, will take place at 9:30 a.m.

Two events will be going on throughout the day on Saturday. The Chicken Arts and Crafts Fair is scheduled to be available for viewing between the hours of 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Adults and children from the area can display their roosters and hens which they picked up as chicks earlier this year.

ANOTHER EVENT going on Saturday and Sunday will be the Chicken Show Softball Tournament at the softball complex — with awards presented in both men and women divisions.

Plenty of chicken-related parade entries will be strutting down Wayne's Main Street to Bressler Park, beginning at 11 a.m. on the corner of 1st and Main. Trophies will be awarded to entries judged on "chicken-ness" and the theme of the 1987 Chicken Show.

Judging will also take place at noon to decide on the winning entries for the biggest midwestern chicken; best

Chicken Show hen; and the biggest, lightest, prettiest and oddest egg (entries must be bona fide chicken eggs, so keep those ostrich eggs at home).

One of the highly publicized events nationally of the Wayne Chicken Show (which made a hit on the Johnny Carson Show and on a John Deere promotional film) is the National Cluck-Off Championship. This event will take place at 12:30 p.m.

Last year's National Cluck-Off Contest champion, John Agler of Wayne, who appeared on the Johnny Carson Show last year, will be a judge this year. The five-time winner said last year that he would not compete in this year's show.

THE WAYNE Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Chicken Feed (of barbecued chicken) from 1 to 3 p.m. at Bressler Park for those who grew hungry cackling or crowing away into a microphone, or anybody else with an appetite.

Tickets can be purchased in advance, for $2 each, from Chamber members or from other participating businesses. Cost for a ticket on the day of the Chicken Show is $3.50 each.

At 2 p.m. will be a Tae-Kwon-Do exhibition, displayed by the Wayne Tae-Kwon-Do Club.

Then at 2:15 p.m. is the Chicken Song Contest, where contestants can peek out their own lyrics and cackle them to a tune.

Another popular event each year of the Chicken Show is the egg drop/catch contest, where participants vie for top honor and risk egg in the face by attempting to catch a raw egg barehanded that is dropped for the city of Wayne's cherry picker. This event takes place at 3 p.m.

One new event in 1987 will be the Great American Chicken Shoot, scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. All one has to do is toss a rubber chicken into a hoop. However, experts believe this sport could leave basketball fans in a stew.

THE FINAL event of the day will be the Chicken Olympics, which starts at 4:30 p.m. There will be a kids division (ages 7-8, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14 and 15-16) followed by an adult division.

Each team will have three males and three females. Last year's champ of Chicken Olympics was KTCH Radio. Several teams have already entered the contest in an effort to dethrone the champs, according to Olympics coordinator Lyle George. However, more are needed.

Some of the egg-oriented events will include the shoe scramble, egg roll (rolling an egg down a path with your nose); egg toss; three-legged chicken race; spoon race; and a mystery event, according to George.

Hospital receives special equipment for rehab, testing

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Providence Medical Center has received $19,200 worth of special equipment to be used primarily in the cardiac rehabilitation and stress testing areas.

The Wayne Hospital Foundation and the Hospital Auxiliary jointly donated the funds for the purchase of an electrocardiograph, treadmill and treadmill interface box, baud modem and a monitor.

One primary feature of the new equipment is that the data, after the patient uses the equipment, can now be self-interpreted by staff members at Providence Medical Center.

Previously, staff members would dial a phone number and transmit the EKG or other tests to Creighton University for interpretation. The interpretation would then be relayed back to Providence Medical Center. Even with the new equipment, there are occasions when Creighton University still must be consulted for interpretation of results.

However, Marci Thomas, administrator at Providence Medical Center, said the purchase of the new equipment will result in a savings of interpretation fees charged to the patients.

Equipment used previously in cardiac rehabilitation and stress testing was not computerized, Thomas said. The treadmill that was used in the testing for the past five to seven years at the hospital had belonged to Wayne State College and had to be returned, she added.

Thomas said the EKG machine can be useful in other areas of the hospital.

The Hospital Auxiliary contributed $8,000 and the Wayne Hospital Foundation donated $11,200 toward the purchase of the new equipment.

Constitution still meets the challenges

Two hundred years ago, on July 4, 1787, the delegates in Philadelphia for the Constitutional Convention celebrated Independence Day with an elaborate round of dinners, patriotic addresses, and military drills.

At the time of that Fourth of July celebration, the Founding Fathers, who had convened in Philadelphia to revise the Articles of Confederation, had not yet decided what powers they would give to the Congress, or how they would distribute power among the states and regions and interest groups that made up America in 1787. While some of the delegates were holding forth on high matters of philosophy and theory, others were passing around sheets of paper showing the projected vote count in the new Congress under one scheme or another.

It is impossible, from James Madison's description of the proceedings to judge the volume of their voices and the color of their faces

Cong. Doug Bereuter

during that contest for power, but the strong words suggest that the Founding Fathers spent the early part of July, 1787, yelling at each other.

Finally, in mid-July the convention accepted the scheme we have now:

an equal vote for each state in the Senate and proportional representation in the House of Representatives. At that point, the pace of their work quickened.

On Sept. 17, they completed their work on this new national Constitution. "What have we got?" Benjamin Franklin was asked near the end of the convention. "A republic," Franklin replied, "if you can keep it."

Now, 200 years later, the United States is preparing to honor our Constitution, the oldest written instrument of national government in the world. That Constitution is as relevant today as it was to our Founding Fathers. Since its framing, it has been periodically tried — and sometimes battered. But in each instance, the Constitution, including its Bill of Rights, has met the challenge.

AN ERROR ON THE LEGISLATIVE QUESTIONNAIRE

Sometime in the next week all households in the First Congressional District will be receiving a copy of my 1987 Legislative Questionnaire. I hope that residents in each household will take time to consider the issues in the questionnaire. The information that I receive from constituents can help me to better represent them.

Unfortunately, there is a typographical error in the section of the questionnaire marked "Additional Information." In that section I have asked respondents to indicate the size of the community in which they live. Instead of asking whether the community is under 5,000 or over 5,000, the questionnaire asks whether the community is under or over 50,000. That figure is an error. There is only one community in the First Congressional District that has over 50,000 residents.

Publishers' Perspective

by Gary and Peggy Wright

Week Number 1 of the "changing of the guard" at the Wayne Herald and Marketer went very smoothly.

We deeply appreciate Alan Cramer and Jim Marsh for their patience in answering our myriad questions. Thanks to their helpfulness, an important continuity is being maintained in this 109 year old business — 40 of which has been under Cramer family ownership.

These next few weeks will be spent intensely studying the nuts and bolts business aspects of the newspaper, shopping guide, job work and web printing components which make up the total package of the Wayne Herald and Marketer. It's going to take quite awhile to get our feet comfortably on the ground in Wayne but we're not worried about any timetable because we've "budgeted" a life-time for that purpose.

During our previous 10 years of working together on newspapers as husband and wife, we've found a definite division of duties works best for us and our staff. We'll continue this co-publisher "formula" as it applies to situations in Wayne.

With two small boys (one still a pre-schooler), Peggy will shuffle much of her Herald and Marketer workload into time slots that still will make her available to handle the kids' needs. Her expertise is computers, bookkeeping, mailing and some camera darkroom.

Gary will spend most of his time participating in and overseeing the day-to-day tasks more visible to readers and advertisers: news content, advertising promotions, composition, circulation, printing, public relations and staffing.

Of course, ownership duties won't be able to be that specifically defined without some overlap but for now we'll work toward implementing that general breakdown.

Although we'll be working long hours, the sheer size of this operation — one of the largest non-dailies in Nebraska — dictates a great deal of responsibility will continue to be delegated to the Herald and Marketer's competent staff and department heads.

We'll share this editorial space with our very capable Managing Editor Chuck Hackenmiller. Chuck will continue to pick topics of general interest for our Monday issues while our commentaries on Thursdays primarily will deal with in-house matters pertinent to our newspaper readers and advertisers.

As we become more immersed — and versed — in the "politics" of the community, we too might offer our personal views on subjects of local concern.

Don't get 'taken in'

Pickle cards labeled 'big business'

Pickle cards saved a Lincoln charitable organization that helps troubled teenage girls from financial disaster.

But the couple who set up and ran the pickle card operation for the charity made the big money — three times what the charity received.

Women in Community Service paid $285,000 over an 18-month period to Don and Delores Mulder (doing business as D & D Consultants) for operation of a more than $3 million pickle card business. WICS used its remaining $92,000 in pickle profits to run its halfway house for teenage girls.

The payment to D & D Consultants may appear high, said Ed Schwartzkopf of Lincoln, past president of WICS. But the pickle venture saved the organization from going under. "We were on the verge of selling our equity and deciding what charitable group to donate the proceeds to," Schwartzkopf said.

If the group had been better educated about the pickle business, it may have been able to work out a better arrangement, he said. "But when you're on the Titanic, you're not concerned about rearranging the furniture."

THE PICKLE profits may have been the salvation of the 17-year-old program but the arrangement was not legal, according to the Nebraska Department of Revenue.

The Department has threatened to suspend the WICS pickle card license for six months and the issue will ultimately be decided in court.

State law prohibits groups licensed to raise money through pickle cards from spending more than 10 percent of their gross proceeds on expenses.

The Charitable Gaming Division of the Revenue Department contends with WICS spent more than 10 percent of their gross proceeds on expenses.

The Charitable Gaming Division of the Revenue Department contends that WICS spent more than 10 percent of its 3.7 million in gross pickle proceeds during an 18-month period on expenses, including the fee paid to D & D Consultants.

WICS contends that the flat 10 percent limitation is unconstitutional — a violation of the constitutional protection of free "commercial speech" — and that neither the fee nor the state sales tax should be included in the 10 percent limitation.

THE 10 PERCENT limitation was intended to discourage large pickle outfits from moving into the state and to guarantee that as much profit as possible went for charitable purposes, said Roger Hirsch, deputy director of the Revenue Department.

Pickle cards are big business in the state, a $100 million industry which garnered the state about $2.4 million in tax revenues from the 3 percent pickle card tax last year.

Pickle cards are generally small pieces of stiff cardboard usually sold in bars for between 25 cents to $2. The front of the card shows the winning combination (3 diamonds for $100 for example). On the back are perforated tabs which, when pulled, show whether the card is a winner or not.

In earlier days the cards were often sold from pickle jars — hence the name pickle cards. In other regions they are known as break-opens or pull-tabs or paper slots.

Only nonprofit groups — everyone from the Eagles to church groups — can be licensed to raise money through a pickle card lottery. About 530 groups in the state are licensed. About 160 licenses are in the Douglas and Lancaster County. The rest are spread out across the state, according to Revenue Department records.

The 10 percent limitation and the required accounting does create some problems for organizations which use pickles as a fund raiser, Hirsch said.

The sales agent who takes advantage of organizations is another problem area, he said. The agent promises to take care of everything and then is able to do some skimming, he said.

Groups are easily taken in by the promise of easy money, not realizing that they could make a lot more money by handling the pickle operation themselves, Hirsch said.

He recommends that groups interested in getting a pickle card license first sit down with the Gaming Division staff and find out how to run a pickle operation correctly.

Navrkal condition updated

The following information was received from the Navrkal Family in regard to Jody Navrkal's condition following his automobile accident in June:

Dear Wayne Friends,
Since Jody's accident, he has never stopped fighting — he was unconscious for seven days. After moving from intensive care to the Brown Neuro Unit, he has begun his trip back to recovery.

Jody broke the right half of his face — including his nose, cheek bone, chin and numerous small bones. His eye was black and very swollen. He also had a couple of nasty cuts on his face.

Jody went into surgery the day of the accident to have a small hole drilled into his skull to relieve pressure on the brain. He also developed staph infection and kidney infection.

The doctor said Jody's entire brain was bruised, although the left side is hurt worse — thus his right arm and hand are still partially paralyzed. Jody spent 10 days in Brown Neuro and was then transferred down to Rehabilitation. What a relief — he made it this far!

Jody seems to like Rehab. He has speech therapy, physical therapy, occupational therapy, recreation therapy, plus a visit to the psychiatrist once a week.

It's a relaxed atmosphere, but he is expected to do things himself — like eating, drinking, dressing, shower and walking. Jody had surgery on his jaw on Sunday, June 21. He now has his mouth wired shut, so it is very hard to do these things. The wires are to be removed about the middle of July.

He can have only two visitors at a time because of his confused state, but he would love a card from home. His address is: Jody Navrkal, Rehab—677, Marian Health Care, 6th and Jones, Sioux City, Iowa. Please pray for Jody's complete recovery — thank you. The Navrkal Family.

There is approximately $6,000 to $10,000, for mental rehabilitation, which the insurance won't pay for, according to the Navrkal family. Fund raising efforts are underway, with donation places located at State National Bank and Trust, First National Bank, both of Wayne; and First National Bank of Wakefield.

On July 6 the Wakefield high school seniors sponsored a fund raising car wash, and another benefit car wash is being planned in Wayne at an undetermined date.

A benefit dance is planned in Wakefield on Friday, July 17 and a benefit Poker Run is slated for sometime in August.

State announces plans on highway road projects

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Highway 15, within Wayne and approximately 8.2 miles south of Wayne, isn't the only area road project slated to be contracted for this fiscal year.

The Nebraska Department of Roads has recently released its version of "Nebraska Highway Program for Fiscal Years 1988-1998 and Beyond."

In the book that details the construction projects slated across the state for Fiscal 1988, Governor Kay Orr writes that this fiscal year "calls for the expenditure of $162.3 million on the state highway system — a program which addresses the most urgent needs of our citizens."

FISCAL 1988 projects in District Three (consisting of 15 counties in northeast Nebraska) require expenditures of approximately $13.7 million.

Those area projects include: Highway 9 north of Allen, 3.4 miles of grading, structures and surface, $1.9 million; Highway 15 south of Wayne, 8.2 miles of resurface and surfaced shoulders, $1.35 million; Highway 15 in Wayne, 1/2 miles of resurfacing, $83,000; and Highway 275, from Wisner to West Point, 12 miles of resurfacing and surfaced shoulders, $1.397 million.

The Highway 15 project is scheduled to begin around August.

Area projects listed in the District Three 5-Year Program are: Highway 9, Wakefield to Emerson, 7 miles of grading, structures and resurfacing, $2.22 million; Highway 15, Laurel to Concord Junction, 4.5 miles of grading, culverts and resurfacing, $1.21 million; U.S. Highway 20 between junction of Highway 116 and Highway 9 in Dixon County, 8 miles of resurfacing and surface shoulders, $1.04 million; Highway 35 east of Wayne, 7.5 miles of grading, structures and resurfacing, $1.54 million; and Highway 57 north of Belden, 4.2 miles of grading, structures and resurfacing, $765,000.

Slated for 1994 and beyond is Highway 35 east of Hoskins, 7.4 miles of grading, structures and resurfacing; and Highway 35 north and south of Winside, 7.3 miles of grading, structures and resurfacing.

THERE ARE eight engineering districts in Nebraska. Of the total amount allocated toward state highway projects, $68.5 million is for primary system; $11.2 million for the secondary system; $7 million for bridge replacement; $7.5 million for the North Omaha Expressway; and $63.2 million for statewide rehabilitation work.

For rural health care funds

Grant application made

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Providence Medical Center of Wayne and Wakefield Health Care Center have joined other area hospitals, including St. Luke's Regional Medical Center and Marian Health Center, to apply for a grant to improve rural health services.

Both hospitals submitted the grant as part of Prairie Hills Hospital Alliance, an organization set up to address rural health care issues.

The grant, which 15 other hospitals have joined in requesting, seeks nearly $1.4 million in funding. The request has been submitted to Robert Wood Johnson Foundation that deals with health care issues.

The proposal specifically requests a grant of $885,000 over a four year period, plus a loan of $500,000 to help recruit physicians and purchase equipment and facilities to give rural residents better access to doctors in their communities.

Much of the grant application focuses on the special need in rural areas for doctors who treat heart disease, stroke and cancer and outlines the areas in the Siouxland region which lack primary care physicians.

It proposes that funding be used to set up clinics in cooperation with area hospitals and physicians.

Fifteen grants are expected to be approved for funding nationwide by sometime in the fall.

To be nominated, students must excel in academics, extracurricular or civic activities. Elizabeth's sponsor was the Rev. Gary Klatt.

Home run powerage has many answers

by Gregg Dahlheim

Why don't we start our own little controversy about whether the baseball made by Rawlings for Major League baseball is juiced up.

Everyone has heard the thousands of quotes from players, managers and other baseball people that swear that this year's version is livelier off the bat. Rawlings sticks to its guns that there is no difference in this year's and last year's balls.

I might as well throw my hat into the ring with my version. I think it is a combination of several things. For one, everyone knows the pitching is down from past years. This year only 19 pitchers that have recorded five or more decisions have ERA's of 3.00 or under. Sixty-five pitchers have ERA's between 4.00 and 5.00 and 47 have ERA's over 5.00.

Bob Gibson puts the blame on all the rule changes that have been implemented designed to add the hitters. Gibson may have something there.

These may be some of the reason for the record-setting runs per game pace currently being set in both leagues.

Another thing is that the modern version of baseball players are much larger and stronger than players of the past. They spend a good chunk of time in the weight rooms beefin' up while the majority of their predecessors wouldn't have stepped foot into the modern-day sweatboxes.

We've all heard about the pace rookie Mark McGwire is setting. The Oakland first baseman has 30 home runs with less than a week to go before the all-star break. He is one of 10 guys in the history of the game to have at least 30 dingers by the break. When Roger Maris broke Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in one season back in 1961 he had 31 at the break. Reggie Jackson leads all in that category when he connected with 37 round trippers by the mid-summer classic several years ago.

McGwire isn't the only one hitting em' out. George Bell of Toronto has 28, Kent Hrbek has 23 in the American League and Jack Clark, Eric Davis and Dale Murphy have 24 and Andre Dawson has 23 in the National League. Another mind-boggling stat is Clark is on pace to drive in more than 160 runs this season.

Would you believe that lightning hitting Chris Speier has already ripped two grand slams this year and such livewire hitters as Bill Doran and Juan Samuel are in double figures.

Allow me to play Devil's Advocate for a moment. Couldn't it also be possible that Commissioner Peter Ueberroth instructed Rawlings to make the ball jump out of the ballpark at a greater rate. After all, surveys conducted by the commissioner's office has found that the spectator wants to see more offense. What better way than six or seven taters a game. Fans don't pack the parks to watch 2-1 ballgames anymore. Personally I would rather see an offensive show than a pitchers' dual.

So it goes, the question will probably go unanswered through the annals of baseball history. But in the meantime it will cause numerous pitchers sleepless night after sleepless night.

Although rain showers spoiled a full day of baseball at Eaton Field on the Fourth of July it didn't ruin the fireworks fun later that evening.

Afternoon rains washed out games between the Wayne and Wakefield Midgets and Junior Legion squads and a contest between the Wakefield Town Team and a team from Papillion. But the fireworks went on.

A thank you should be extended to the Wakefield Community Club for a job well done with the aerial show. The display lasted about 30 minutes and left people talking about it long after that.

Marsha Kratke of the Wakefield Community Club said about 350 people attended the show and many more watched from outside the park boundaries. Kratke said the rain was responsible for the smaller than normal crowd.

But overall I think it went off well.

Community support needed

A need to increase scholarship dollars and the operating budget and bringing the athletic program, the community of Wayne and Northeast Nebraska together are three priorities that must be achieved to have a successful athletic program, according to newly appointed Wayne State Athletic Director Pete Chapman.

Chapman, who became the NAAIA school's athletic director effective July 1 replacing Ron Jones, said he has a lot of work ahead of him if the aforementioned goals are to be attained.

Wayne State must clear large obstacles in order to be able to compete on the same level as its conference opponents in all sports.

Chapman said the athletic department receives a yearly operating budget of about $105,000 from the state to finance the eight sports Wayne State offers, that doesn't include the intramural sports. That is less money than the athletic department received from the state in 1980, Chapman said.

The athletic director said for the upcoming year Wayne State will receive about 70 tuition waivers from the state to offer to athletes. The athletic department also will use $32,000 received in fund raising activities for athletic cash scholarships. The $32,000 is equivalent to 17 full-ride scholarships.

Tuition waivers just pay for the students' classes he or she is enrolled in. The scholarship money is used to pay for classes, room and board. The waivers and scholarship money is divided among seven sports, mens track receives no waivers or scholarships.

Chapman said instead of using the scholarship money on only 17 students, the money is divided among numerous athletes. He said one kid may get $300 towards room and board and another athlete will receive $100.

Chapman, who is also the Wildcat football coach, said that is one area that the rest of the members of the CSIC rate ahead of Wayne State.

Chapman said Washburn University gives out roughly 55 full rides in football. Last year the Wayne State football program awarded the equivalent of seven full-time scholarships. The Washburn mens basketball team has about 10-12 scholarships to hand out. Coach Steve Aggers had a little more than three full rides. The womens basketball team had less than three scholarships to allot. Missouri Southern and Missouri Western award about 35 football scholarships and 8-10 basketball scholarships. Emporia State has 35 football scholarships to give.

Chapman said his goal is to cut down the large margin between Washburn and the rest of the league and Wayne State. He said it's not something that can be done overnight. Chapman said CSIC rival Kearney State also faces many of the same financial problems that Wayne State is encountering.

Chapman said he has dreamed about what he could do with 45 scholarships but he said but he comes back to reality rapidly.

"Sure I dream about that but I can't worry about that I have to worry about what we've got," he said.

The AD said a way to make up the difference is to increase the fund-raising efforts. Chapman said the athletic department has set a goal of $50,000 for fund raising for the upcoming year. The Milton G. Waldbaum Company is doing its part by matching the department's first $10,000 in donations.

"Even if we get to...when we get to 50, when we make our $50,000 that still puts us in the mid 20's, 22 or 23 scholarships for a whole athletic department," he said.

Chapman said if the department receives $50,000 this year he can see the goal next year being much larger.

The athletic director said it is tough getting people to donate. He said they have to donate because they want to. Chapman said he can't offer them anything in return but the association with a good program.

PETE CHAPMAN replaces Ron Jones as athletic director at Wayne State. He will also double as head football coach.

In looking at the operating funds, Chapman said the only way the school can help itself is by fighter monitoring of the revenue-producing sports, which are football and mens basketball. That will be harder than raising money for scholarships because for years people haven't had to worry about it, according to Chapman.

Beginning this year the football and basketball programs, in an attempt to raise revenue, will be selling season passes and reserved seating. Only college students with student passes will be admitted free. Chapman said he hopes it won't effect attendance but it might until people get used to it.

Success breeds community enthusiasm. Chapman said he would like to see the people of Wayne and Northeast Nebraska get involved with Wayne State athletics.

"A positive program does so much for the feeling of a community," he said. "Everyone likes to be associated with a winner."

And if Chapman's attitude is any indication of what is in store for the future of Wayne State athletics, the forecast is sunny.

Wakefield dumps two DCBL foes

The hot play continued for the Wakefield Town Team as it took a pair of games in Dodge County League action this past week.

Wakefield, 4-0, downed Fremont 10-3 and on Thursday Wakefield buried Snyder 20-0. Snyder came into the Sunday contest with a 9-3 record and in sole possession of second place. The two wins left Wakefield one-half game behind Snyder in third place. West Point still sets on top of the league with a 13-1 mark. Wakefield has won eight of its last nine games.

Against Snyder Wakefield erupted for 12 runs in the third inning to build its lead to 15-0. The hosts tallied five more in the fourth and won on the 15-run rule after five.

Wakefield pounded out 14 hits while pitcher Joel Ankeny allowed just one Snyder hit. Ankeny got the shutout victory while he struck out two and didn't walk a batter. Rob Kreikemeier took the loss for Snyder going two and one-third innings. Kreikemeier entered the game second in the league in pitching with a 2-0 mark and a ERA of 4.00.

Mike Meyer led the hit parade for Wakefield. Meyer went 3-4 white knocking in six runs. He also uncorked a grand slam in the third inning. Neil Blohm cracked his sixth home run of the season, a three-run shot in the bottom of the first. Mark Kubik went 1-1 with a solo blast in the fourth, Mike Hoffart was also 1-1 with a two-run dinger in the fourth, and Wayne Guy went 1-3 with another two-run homer in the fourth. Brian Blatchford went 2-2 with a pair of RBIs.

Against Fremont the hosts scored in every except the sixth. Eight Fremont errors assisted the winners.

Bob Utemark was the winning pitcher as he went the distance giving up three runs on five hits while walking six and striking out 10 batters.

Meyer once again led the way at the plate. The catcher went 3-5 with a double. Blohm was 2-4 with a home run. Brian Soderberg finished 2-4 with a pair of ribbies.

Thursday Wakefield will be on the road for an important game in Blair. Blair stands in fourth place with a 9-5 mark.

Juniors solid in two victories

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Wayne Junior Legion improved to 5-11 with a pair of wins over Pender and Wisner. The Juniors combined clutch hitting with fine pitching in the victories.

The Junior Legion "nine" pounced on 11 hits in their 8-6 edging of Pender.

The locals had their hands full trying to contain Pender shortstop Brad Vogt. Vogt stole the thunder by cracking two home runs and a double off the wall in four plate appearances. Fortunately for Wayne both dingers came with bases empty.

The locals grabbed a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first. Bill Landanger led off with a single. The centerfielder stole second and third and scored on Russ Long's base hit. Ted Lueders, who walked, scored on a single by Rob Gamble.

Pender closed the gap to 2-1 on Vogt's first homer in the top of the second. Wayne came back with a four spot in the bottom of the second. RBI singles by Lueders and Gamble and a sacrifice by Long accounted for the runs.

In the top of the third back came Pender with four runs to make the score 6-5. Four walks by Lueders and a couple of fielding errors helped Pender.

Wayne got its last two runs in the bottom of the third to take an 8-5 lead. Steve Luft reached on a single and went to third on a pair of past balls. Luft scampared home on Mark Creighton's RBI single. Scott Nichols scored the other run on a double by Landanger.

The fourth, fifth and sixth innings went by without either team posing a serious threat. In the top of the seventh Pender opened with a single but the runner got thrown out on the paths. Vogt followed with his second round tripper. The tying run got to second before Longe retired the next two hitters to earn the win.

Longe relieved Lueders in the fourth. Lueders allowed five runs on two hits. He struck out seven in three and one-third innings.

Landanger and Gamble led the hosts with three hits apiece. Gamble knocked in three runs while Landanger was credited with one ribbie.

the Wisner game. A two-out single by Tim Rabe ruined the no-hit bid as the locals went on for a 7-2 win.

Lueders started the game and mowed down the Wisner hitters without many problems. He left the game after four innings of shutout ball to earn the victory. Jorgensen came on and finished the game giving up two runs on one hit while striking out three.

Wayne got all the runs it needed in the bottom of the first. Four of the first five batters that came to the plate scored. Landanger, Lueders and Longe all singled in the inning. The locals knocked the Wisner starter out of the game after Steve Luft's flyball to centerfield was misplayed into two runs.

Wayne posted another run in the second. Lueders singled and went to second on a past ball. Longe then came up and knocked Lueders home with his second hit.

Wayne made it 6-0 in the fourth inning. Once again Lueders started it off with a base hit. Robbie Gamble and Ted McCright also singled in the frame. The locals completed their scoring with one in the fifth. Bill TEAMMATES CONGRATULATE Steve Overin (right) after he connected on his second home run of the game against the Sioux City Stingers.

Independents bury West Point for second time this season

The West Point Town Team probably doesn't want to have anything more to do with the Wayne Independents as Wayne dropped West Point 14-5 Tuesday night for its second win of the season against its neighbors to the south.

The win, along with a 19-1 shellacking of the Sioux City Stingers last Thursday pushes the Independents to 4-2.

In the West Point game the locals broke open a scoreless tie in the bottom of the fourth with eight runs. Mike Greckl and Jerry Peppmuller had two-run doubles, Steve Overin had a two-run single, Jeff Hausmann collected a RBI double and Pat Salerno ripped a run-scoring single to account for the Wayne offense.

West Point made it 8-4 in the top of the fifth on a grand slam by rightfielder Pat Wordekemper. West Point got its last run in the top of the sixth on three straight singles.

The Independents came up with three in the sixth and three more in the seventh. Mike Hoffart collected two ribbies and Greckl tallied one RBI in the sixth. Overin accounted for two runs in the seventh with his third homer in two games. Hoffart followed him with a solo shot. Hausmann got the win for Wayne as he pitched five innings giving up four runs on six hits. Greckl came in to finish the game on the hill. Overin led the Independents offensively with four hits while Salerno added three hits.

Against Sioux City the Independents collected its 19 runs and 17 hits in a game shortened to seven innings.

Wayne exploded for six runs in the first and eight more in the fourth inning. Overin led the Independents offensively. The third baseman finished the game 3-4 with five RBIs and four runs scored. Among Overin's hits were two home runs. Salerno also added three hits in the game. Mark Priegnetz, Peppmuller, Greckl and Kevin Maly contributed two hits apiece. Pat Calvert was the only Independent not to hit safely.

Wayne struck early and often in the first frame. After Jeff Pasold walked to start the inning Salerno reached on a bunt single. That set the table for Overin's three-run shot to right field. Greckl knocked in the fourth run with a triple and he scored on a throwing error on Jeff Hausmann's groundball. "Howie" later scored the locals sixth run of the game. Wayne made it 8-0 in the bottom of the second. Overin led off with a 390-foot solo blast to left centerfield. Priegnetz scored the second run on a single by Maly.

The Stingers got their only run in the top of the third. Kyle Sanderson led off with a triple and scored one out later on a wild pitch by Kevin Hoffart.

The Independents collected eight runs on eight hits in the bottom of the fourth. Priegnetz, Peppmuller, Pasold and Salerno each ripped doubles in the inning and Overin, Hoffart, Peppmuller and Greckl added singles.

Wayne closed out its scoring in the bottom of the fifth. Priegnetz's bases-loaded triple accounted for all three runs.

Greckl started the game and earned the win. He threw three innings giving up no runs and allowing a lone single in the second inning. He also struck out seven Stingers in the stint. Hoffart came in from the bullpen in the fourth and threw two innings of one-run ball. Hausmann pitched the last two innings and K'd six of the seven Sioux City batters he faced.

Wayne gals record two wins

The Wayne girls softball teams sent Emerson home with a pair of losses last Thursday night in a doubleheader played at the Wayne Jaycees Softball Complex.

The games were moved because of a scheduling conflict with the Midget and Junior Legion teams.

The 15 and under girls whipped Emerson for the second time this season by a 16-7 score in a four-inning contest. The 18 and under squad had a tougher time finally disposing of the guests by an 8-3 score.

In the first game the Emerson 15 and under girls scored first but surrendered the lead for good in the bottom of the first.

The locals put two runs on the first inning when Karl Luft doubled with one out and scored on Shannon Holdorf's two-run homer.

The girls got seven more in the bottom of the second on a double by Shawn Schroeder to lead off the frame and singles by Bree Bebee, Holdorf and Lisa Casey.

Emerson closed to 9-6 in the top of the third. A triple and two doubles caused most of the damage. Wayne got three back in the bottom of the inning on a pair of singles. The locals made it 16-7 in the bottom of the fourth when four Wayne runners crossed the plate. The game was called after the fourth inning because of the one-hour time limit.

Holdorf, 5-3, pitched all the way for Wayne and earned the win. Bebee and Holdorf each collected a pair of hits for the winners.

The win for the 18 and under girls upped their record to 16-8. It was also the third time this season that Wayne has beaten the club from Emerson.

Emerson quickly grabbed a 2-0 after the first inning. A lead-off home run by the Emerson centerfielder got things going for the guests.

Wayne tied the score in the bottom of the second. Robin Luft walked and scored and Suzy Luft singled and came around to score.

Wayne took the lead for good in the third with three runs. Suzy Luft and Amy Schluns singled in the frame. The locals upped it to 7-2 in the fourth on a two-run double by Tonya Erleben. Both teams got a run in the fifth to close out the scoring. Pitcher Jennifer Hammer retired Emerson in order in the sixth and seventh to earn the win. Hammer went the distance allowing just two hits, none after the second inning.

Offensively Wayne was paced by the two-hit performances of Schluns and Suzy Luft.

Wayne was scheduled to host Pender on Tuesday evening but the game was moved to Thursday with the first game set for 6 p.m. The games will finish the league-portion of the schedule.

Luff wins twice

Midgets up mark to 7-3 with two wins

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

The Wayne Midget squad boosted its win streak to five games with wins over Pender and Wisner this past week.

The hosts took control against Pender in the bottom of the first enroute to a 7-3 win.

Trailing 1-0, Wayne posted four runs in the frame and never relinquished the lead after that. Kevin Hausmann opened the inning with a walk. The third baseman came around to score on Jess Zeiss' double. Wayne posted three more runs with two outs when Jeff Luff, Rusty Hamer and Jarrod Wood scored.

Both teams went down quietly in the second and third innings before Pender cut the lead to 4-3 in the top of the fourth. Both of the visitors' runs came after the first two hitters reached on walks.

Wayne got the two runs back plus one in the bottom of the inning. With one out Jason Danielson, Zeiss and Luff all hit safely and later scored to build a 7-3 lead. Pender got one in the top of the fifth but Luff pitched his way out of a bases-loaded jam to preserve the win.

Matt Peterson started the game on the mound for Wayne. He pitched into the fourth inning allowing three runs on one hit. Luff came on in relief and earned the win. He threw two and two-thirds innings of hitless, shutout ball. Offensively Danielson, Zeiss and Cory Frye all collected two hits in the contest.

The Midgets used a six-run fifth inning to overcome a 5-3 deficit as they downed Wisner 9-5. Wayne, 7-2, avenged a 5-4 loss to the team compiled of players from Wisner, Beemer and Pilger in a game played June 15.

bottom of the second. Wood started it off with a walk. He went to second on a past ball and to third on a ground ball to second base. Wood came home on a past ball to Frye. Frye then walked and scored on a sacrifice fly by Hausmann.

Wisner made it 2-1 with a run in the top of the third but Wayne got the run back in the bottom of the third. Luff doubled with one out and scored on a past ball.

Both teams went down in order in the fourth before a total of nine runs crossed the plate in the fifth inning. Wisner grabbed a 5-3 lead in the top of the inning on triples by Jason Spangler and Kevin Schutt.

But back came the locals with the winning runs in the bottom of the inning. Hamer and Greg Schmidt each collected two RBI's in the inning and Hausmann knocked one run home.

The visitors tried to stage a rally in the top of the sixth. The first two hitters received walks which forced Luff from the game. Danielson spelled Luff and got the save. Danielson walked the first batter he faced to load the bases. After that he toughened up and struck out the next two hitters and got Chad Denker to roll back to the mound to end the game.

Luff not only earned the win but he also led Wayne offensively with a single and a double in three trips.

The Midgets will travel to Pierce for a 6 p.m. game Friday before playing in a tournament at O'Neill on Saturday and Sunday.

Infant swimming isn't what it's cracked up to be

Infant swimming sounds like a harmless activity to build a new generation of Olympic swimmers. Or perhaps it is a well intended means to teach infants and young children to swim and not be afraid of water. The intent may be good but in reality it may lead to few benefits and significant risks.

All new exercise programs have supporters and opponents but the amount of controversy created by infant swimming should raise important questions. First, The American Academy of Pediatrics has found little justification for infant swimming. Realizing that infant swimming will continue, they have issued an official policy statement on infant swimming programs (AAP News 1985; 1 Sept. 15). The Pediatrician and Council on Child and Adolescent Health issued a number of recommendations based on problems experienced in infant swimming programs.

"A parent who enrolls an infant in a water adjustment program should understand the risks and accept responsibility.

"The swimming program should follow guidelines set out by the national YMCA.

"Supervision of each infant should be on a one-to-one adult to infant basis.

"Instruction should be done by an instructor qualified in infant CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation).

"Infants with known medical conditions should have approval of their physician before starting this program.

Infants. It may occur as the infant continues to swallow water while submerged. As the infant swallows more and more water the concentration of salts in weakness, nausea and vomiting, seizure or coma. When this problem occurs it usually does so in infants less than nine months old.

A second concern occurs when the infants soil the water with urine and stool. Parasites, namely Giardia and certain bacteria and viruses, can infect all children swimming.

Symptoms include persistent diarrhea and abdominal distress. Several precautions can help prevent this problem. Proper pool maintenance and chlorine levels keep the organism levels down. Infants should wear tight fitting plastic pants to minimize soiling.

Additional medical concerns include erosion of dental enamel and eye irritation in the acidic pool water. Other physicians have voiced concerns when these children have had placement of tympanotomy tubes (ear tubes).

Most of the risk to these infants decreases as the infant matures and is able to control swallowing and hold their breath underwater.

The fact remains that infant swimming with forced infant submersion remains controversial. Participation in such programs should be done only after discussion with your Pediatrician or Family Doctor and the class sponsor or instructor.

Should you have a question for Sports Medline, write to Dr. Steve Henry 1361 Tyler Park Drive Louisville, KY 40204.

Nebraska Game & Parks

Nebraska's game fish archery and surface spearfishing seasons are again underway, offering archers the chance to try their skill at most public fishing waters across the state.

Game fish may be taken from July 1 through Dec. 31 from sunrise to sunset, statewide, except that paddlefish may only be taken by archery from June 1 through July 31 in the Missouri River from Gavins Point Dam to the mouth of the Big Sioux River, (mile marker 734). The archery and surface spearfishing season is closed in the waters of the Missouri River from mile marker 734 downstream to the Missouri border.

Nongame species may be taken by archery or surface spear year-round, sunrise to sunset, and may be taken 24 hours a day from April 1 through Aug. 31.

All put-and-take lakes stocked by the Game and Parks Commission are closed to archery and surface spearfishing, as are Two Rivers, Louisville, Kearney County, Fremont, Mormon Island and Windmill state recreation areas, and trout streams.

Archers are allowed to use long bows and compound bows drawn by hand to take fish. Arrows must have a single barbed point, and must be attached to the bow by a line. Only hand spears with barbed points may be used for surface spearing.

All size limits, daily bag and possession limits applicable for hooks and line fishing are also in effect for archery fishermen.

Goose permits

You say it's too early to start thinking about this fall's goose hunting season? It's not if you want to apply for a goose hunting blind at Schilling Wildlife Management Area for the coming season.

The Game and Parks Commission is accepting blind applications through Aug. 30. Applicants will be competing for the use of a blind for one day during the waterfowl hunting season. By regulation, the season on the Schilling Area runs from Oct. 15 through Dec. 15 each year, unless federal guidelines prohibit those dates.

All applications must be returned by Aug. 30 to be eligible for the Sept. 2 drawing.

Hunting hours at Schilling WMA are 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. daily.

Old Settlers run

The annual Winside Old Settlers Road Race will be held July 18 beginning at 8 a.m.

This year there will be two races, a one-mile fun run/walk and a three-mile road race through the streets of Winside.

The early registration, which ended July 8 was $6. Registration until the day of the race is $7. All entrants will receive a t-shirt, while medals and trophies will also be awarded. Race packets may be picked up the day of the race from 7 a.m. to 7:45 a.m. Entry forms are available at Wayne Sporting Goods in Wayne and Lee & Roste's and Oberle Market in Winside.

The age groups for the male and female are 14 and under; 15-19; 20-29; 30-39; 40-49; and 50 and over.

What are the risks?
A growing number of medical experts are concerned about reported problems of infant swimming classes. Water intoxication is an uncommon but significant problem for

Blacks and Baseball

As the highest ranking black administrator in major league baseball, I've been asked many times in recent weeks to respond to statements made by Al Campanis of the Los Angeles Dodgers. When asked why there were no black managers or general managers in baseball, he said blacks may not have "some of the necessities" to fill those positions. Within two days Campanis apologized and resigned his position as vice president of the Dodgers.

There was irony in that this was said on a television program paying tribute to Jackie Robinson, who broke the major league color barrier 40 years ago. The entire 1987 baseball season is dedicated to Robinson's memory. Forty years may seem like a long time ago. But even today, I'm constantly reminded of how I got where I am. It's only because of Jackie Robinson.

Even when I broke into pro baseball a few years after Jackie made it with the Dodgers, it was still tough for black players. I played for a minor league team in Jacksonville, Fla., in 1953. Along with Felix Mantilla and Horace Garner, we were the first blacks to play for a southern minor league team. Everything but the locker rooms was segregated. I was young and wanted to play baseball and this was part of the price that had to be paid.

Those days are thankfully over and now a fourth of the major league players are black. That's on the playing field. In all of baseball history, there have been only three black managers and one black general manager. There are none now.

The only black general manager was the late Bill Lucas of the Atlanta Braves. Bill was my brother-in-law, and I've always considered him one of the greatest students of the game I've ever known. He worked very hard at his profession. He knew talent. He knew that in order to have a great ball club, you have to build through the farm system. That's why so many of the players on the Braves division championship team in 1982 came through his farm system. Bill Lucas certainly demonstrated that he was capable of running a major league team, that he had the "necessities," to use Mr. Campanis' word, to be a good general manager.

In a way, I think Mr. Campanis unintentionally did everybody a favor by calling attention to the problem. Even before this controversy, I had discussed the problem with baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth. I believe he is committed to this issue.

The problem is obvious now to everyone. I believe the solution is equally obvious: hire more blacks. That's all there is to it. Give a Joe Morgan or a Frank Robinson a team to manage. Open up the front offices. Being the only black vice president of a major league team is a distinction I would just as soon lose. H heights will be planted in the improved area, along with 11 varieties of perennial flowers. In the center of this will be a gazebo, to be constructed by the construction class at Wayne State College.

Also planned are three walkways (either bark or brick).

"We've been contacting lumber mills in the area to see if there is anyone interested in taking the cedar trees. There will be no charge for the lumber. All we ask is that if the trees come out, the roots go with them," mentioned Willse.

"We're not doing this just for the sake of moving 200 cedar trees," he added. "It will give a nice new look and generate nearly 200 new grave spaces."

OTHER DECISIONS recently made by the Greenwood Cemetery Association, in an effort to alleviate future grave space shortage, was to allow for grave stacking if the request has been made by the family—meaning that two individuals (such as husband and wife) are buried at the same site.

The cemetery board is also planning to reclaim unused grave sites where the perpetual care has not been paid, according to Willse. "We'll be looking at how many of these grave sites are in the older part of the cemetery," he said. Once the legal action is taken to reclaim the grave site, then the heirs have one year to respond.

With the additional space, the increase in revenue for the added grave spaces will generate more income in operating the cemetery.

Revenue for the non-profit Greenwood Cemetery is realized through the grave site purchases. When, for instance, someone buys two grave sites at the current price of $200 each, the total cost is $400.

That amount is broken down to a third (approximately $130) to go toward maintenance and upkeep of the grave sites, called perpetual care; while the remainder (about $270) goes toward the association's general fund.

CURRENTLY, THE cemetery association has accumulated up to $100,000 in principal in the perpetual care fund. However, state statute allows the association to use only the interest of that principal. Willse said, which amounts to $9,000 annually to pay for the sexton's salary, maintaining the equipment to offer the perpetual care (such as the tractors and the mowers), winter snow removal and chemical spraying in the spring and in the fall.

The general fund money is used for eventual replacement of equipment or roadways or replacement of trees and shrubs.

Willse said the general fund balance currently stands at approximately $9,000.

ORIGINALLY, there was no perpetual care written into the purchase of a grave site. The care and upkeep of the site was usually financed through subsidies on memorials and gifts. The perpetual care fund was started at Greenwood Cemetery around 1940.

He said the association is planning a fund drive to help pay for the cost of the cemetery improvement. "We'll start with a pancake feed this fall, and contact some of the area's civic organizations to help raise money for the project."

For now, Willse and the cemetery board are alerting the public as to the cemetery association's plans and needs.

"All that's been heard is that the trees are going to be coming out. They have not been told the whole story," he said.

ABOVE, A LINE of trees and a roadway that lead to the circle of trees that will be eliminated at Greenwood Cemetery. Below, what the renovation will look like, once completed, as drawn by Ted Blenderman.

75 years of fire fighting

AN ESTIMATED 200 persons helped the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department celebrate its 75th year during an open house last Saturday afternoon. In addition to serving free hot dogs and chips (top photo), fire fighters displayed several pieces of equipment, gave demonstrations, and offered free rides on the department's 1936 Fire Truck (center photo). Among those taking advantage of the free rides was Sean Addison (bottom photo), son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Addison of Wayne.

CHLORDANE & YOUR GARDEN

Chlordane is often used around the foundation of houses to prevent termite infestation. Gardeners sometimes have concern about planting gardens near these treated areas.

Vegetables and fruit trees will not pick up chlordane through root systems. Because chlordane is insoluble in water, it is not taken up along with nutrients and minerals. Chlordane is not systemic in plants.

Chlordane is no longer registered for use on food crops, fruits or vegetables. It cannot be used in soils with the intention of growing the above-mentioned crops. If root crops, (such as radishes/carrots), vegetables and fruit crops are already growing in soils which must be treated, everything should be discarded because of possible external contamination. Plant your fruit, vegetable or root crops at least 3 feet to 5 feet away from the treated soil or foundation wall.

Avoid digging in treated soil because it can disrupt the chemical barrier and will allow termites to enter the structure. As long as the soil is not disturbed chlordane will not move from the treated zone.

GARDEN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

- Q. What spray can you use on cucumber beetles?
A. Sevin is the insecticide of choice; it has a high degree of effectiveness against cucumber beetles. It will not harm the actual pollination process but it will kill pollinating insects.
- Q. If potato vines are dry should they be dug now or left in the ground?
A. When the leaves are dead and vines are green is the best time to dig potatoes.
- Q. What causes brown spots on the bottom of tomatoes, both the green and ripe fruits?
A. Blossom end rot. It is the result of fluctuating moisture and a possible deficiency of calcium. The best thing to do is put down mulch and to try to knock off the high and low points of moisture creating a consistent supply of moisture.

Agriculture

Farm population issue confronted

That the U.S. farm population has declined dramatically during the past four decades is well-known. Exactly how much is harder to determine and it depends a lot on what you mean by "farm population."

First, there's what might be called the classic definition of farm population: all persons living in households on farms, regardless of their occupations or sources of income. That number was 23 million in 1950 but only 5.4 million in 1985.

There used to be a strong relationship between living on a farm and working on a farm, but no more. Today nearly 30 percent of people who live on farms have no occupational or income ties to farming. So the classic definition of farm population is really a measure of farm resident population.

But, nearly 30 percent of farm operators live off the farm, often in a nearby town. More than 70 percent of hired farmworkers live somewhere else, too. These folks and their involved with or dependent on the business of farming.

VERA BANKS, demographic statistician with the Economic Research Service of USDA, has come up with some alternative definitions for the U.S. farm population. One is "farm occupation population," defined as all persons living in households where at least one member's principal employment is in a farm-related occupation. There is no residency stipulation here, but the definition excludes households where farming is secondary activity. In 1985, the farm occupation population was 7.4 million -- compared with the farm resident population of 5.6 million.

Another alternative is "farm income population," defined as all persons in households where at least one member receives some farm self-employment income from the operation of a farm, whether as owner, renter or sharecropper. Again there's no residence requirement, but this term excludes households whose members receive only wages or salary for farm work. The farm income population was 6.3 million in 1983.

The classic definition and Bank's alternatives overlap each other. Put them all together and you could come up with the "total farm related population," defined as all persons in farm-related households -- farm residence or farm occupation or farm income. That number was 11.3 million in 1983 -- twice the size of the classic definition of farm resident population. Still, it represents only 5 percent of the total U.S. population.

Each of these definitions has its advantages and its drawbacks, which tells us that the "farm population" is diverse. That we already knew.

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation
by Cheryl Stubbendieck, Vice President/Information

families are not counted in the U.S. farm population. That means the classic definition no longer tells us the number of people economically

On barter provision

Bereuter seeks CCC action

It is time for the State Department and the Office of Management and Budget to get their act together and work with the Department of Agriculture to implement a Farm Bill provision authorizing barter of surplus CCC commodities for oil for the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, according to Representative Doug Bereuter.

Section 1169 of the 1985 Farm Bill authorizes the USDA to make at least $300 million in surplus CCC commodities available to the Department of Energy for barter to acquire oil for the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. The State Department and OMB apparently are impeding this process. Bereuter told Administration witnesses at an International Economic Policy and Trade Subcommittee hearing on Wednesday that current law requires that pilot barter projects be completed, and that Congress expects the Administration to carry out the directive.

Bereuter was a strong supporter of the barter provision when it was added to the 1985 Farm Bill. Subsequently, in August of 1986, when President Reagan was preparing to meet with President de la Madrid of Mexico, Bereuter wrote to the President and to other Administration officials urging them to raise the issue of a barter arrangement with Mexico for oil. The First District Congressman says that the Department of State and the Office of Management and Budget indicated then that they did not support the concept of barter.

"In looking back at the various provisions which were debated during consideration of the 1985 Farm Bill, I think it is safe to say that this barter provision was one of the least controversial sections. Barter for strategic materials received bipartisan support, regional support, and the support of various farm and commodity organizations," Bereuter said.

Bereuter said that he agrees with USDA officials that "a program involving the exchange of CCC-owned commodities for petroleum from Mexico would increase exports of agricultural commodities, reduce the cost to CCC in storage payments, help to recapture some of the lost U.S. agricultural market shares in the Mexican market, and aid the U.S. balance of payments by replacing cash payments."

"The circumstances which were conducive to implementing a barter arrangement with Mexico in 1985 are equally compelling today," Bereuter said. "In fact, many other countries in the Caribbean, Latin America and Africa are suitable for barter arrangements, and these opportunities should be pursued."

Cultivating for growth

A FARMER MAKES a cultivating pass through a bean field that is dwarfed by the water tower being constructed on the east edge of Wayne.

Garden contest begins

Not sure who you'll vote for in the next election? Why not enter the race yourself -- the 1987 VICTORY GARDEN Contest, that is -- and see if you and your vegetable garden can capture the eye of the VICTORY GARDEN's viewing audience.

The popular weekly 30-minute public television series, which is telecast with closed captions for hearing-impaired viewers, is seen on Saturdays at 8:30 a.m. over all stations of the Nebraska ETV Network.

The ninth Annual VICTORY GARDEN Contest is open to all amateur vegetable gardeners in the country. To enter, mail a color photo -- no slides, please -- and schematic diagram of your garden plot, as well as a list of crops being grown, to: VICTORY GARDEN Contest, Box 1987, Boston, MA 02134. The deadline for entries is Monday, July 27. After that date, VICTORY GARDEN staffers will travel throughout the country to examine competing plots, narrowing the field of competitors to four finalists. Finalists will be featured on two consecutive VICTORY GARDEN programs, airing Aug. 29 and Sept. 5 on Nebraska ETV.

The VICTORY GARDEN will review all four finalists on the following program (Sept. 12), and 'VICTORY GARDEN' host Bob Thomson will instruct viewers on how to vote for their favorite garden by Sept. 18. The winner will appear on the VICTORY GARDEN program telecast Oct. 3, to receive what has become the Emmy Award of amateur vegetable gardening -- the coveted Silver Trowel Trophy.

In addition, the winner will be awarded a week's trip for two to Scotland in May 1988. Activities will include tours of that country's most spectacular gardens and a visit to the Glasgow Garden Festival -- Europe's premiere horticultural event. In 1981, Grand Island resident Jeanette Hansen was one of the semi-finalists in the nationwide contest.

Crop water use

Listed below are the average daily crop water use rates in inches per day for the past week for the Wayne area. The average crop water use rates are determined for corn at two emergence dates, May 5 and May 20, soybeans with an emergence date of May 22, and alfalfa with an emergence date of April 15.

| Crop Water Use Rate (Inch/Day) | Average June 30-July 6 |
|--------------------------------|------------------------|
| Corn (5/5) | .23 |
| (5/20) | .19 |
| Soybeans (5/22) | .18 |
| Alfalfa (4/15) | .25 |

Be wary of cutworms, mites

This is the time of year to watch for western bean cutworm and spider mites on corn, extension entomology technician Jim Kallsch told the University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension agricultural climate situation committee July 6. But farmers should not be overly worried about the insects.

"If this were a hot year, we would be nervous," Kallsch said. "But it's been milder, so there is less of a threat."

Western bean cutworms may be identified by white egg masses on corn leaves. Spider mite colonies develop on lower leaves and spread upward, Kallsch explained.

While mild temperatures have reduced those two potential insect threats, last week's rains may have thwarted the ongoing chinchbug invasion in south central Nebraska. "The rain appears to have been beneficial," Kallsch said. "The rain buried the chinchbugs beneath the soil."

UNL extension climate resource specialist Ken Hubbard rated this year's precipitation levels generally good. "There are some dry pockets where farmers are really hurting," Hubbard said, "but central and northeast Nebraska are ahead of normal for all crops."

Early-planted wheat is considerably ahead, he added, while later-planted crops are near normal.

by Pat Melenhenry

It was a quiet Fourth at this house, I could hear fireworks at the neighbors when I went for a quick walk.

I spent the day cleaning a closet. It is the only closet on the ground floor, and it gets pretty full. Plus, it had not been cleaned for a long time.

I can't explain why I kept some of the things I found. Things like worn-out purses, and polyester uniforms, and my wig. Remember when every woman had a wig?

I got one because I thought it would be so handy; and because my dream is to always have beautiful hair. But it gave me a headache, and was usually too hot.

So, after filling a waste basket and a Good Will bag, we have room in our closet again.

Corn is much higher than knee-high. Beans are growing. So are the cockle burrs. The moderation in temperatures has been welcome, as well as the drop in humidity.

The mama cat has been bringing the two kittens to the south porch, but they are still "scaredy cats."

OUR NIECE Sarah came home with us from the family reunion, and tomorrow she gets traded for her brother David. She has been feeding the bottle calf, helping babysit and clean houses, and getting in a few strokes at Maskenthine. She's also lost a retainer, so we are searching the house tonight.

Someone commented in Sunday School this morning that I seem to lead an eventful life. I think, for the most part, it isn't anymore so than anyone else's. I just talk about it more.

But I read something many years ago, and I recently saw it reprinted. It's supposed to have been written by an 85 year old in a nursing home, and it says:

"If I had my life to live over, I'd try to make more mistakes next time.

I would relax. I would lumber up. I would be sillier than I have been this trip. I would climb more mountains, swim more rivers, and watch more sunsets. I would burn more gasoline. I would eat more ice cream and fewer green beans. I would have more actual troubles and fewer imaginary ones.

You see, I am one of those people, who lived prophylactically and sensibly and sanely, hour after hour, day by day.

Oh, I have had my moments. I'd have more of them. In fact, I'd try to have nothing else. Just moments -- one after another, instead of living so many years ahead of each day.

I have been one of those people who never go anywhere without a thermometer, a hot water bottle, a gargle, a raincoat and a parachute. If I had it to do over again, I would go places and do things. And travel lighter than I have.

If I had my life to live over I would start going barefoot earlier in the spring, and stay that way later in the fall.

I would play hooky more. I wouldn't make such good grades except by accident. I would ride more merry-go-rounds. I would pick more daisies.

I've always appreciated these thoughts, and tried to live by them.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Red Wyandotte? I'm Mike Scott on special assignment for The Wayne Herald. Our annual Chicken Show is this weekend, and this year's theme is Chickens in the Movies. Since you've directed some of the most famous movies, I was hoping you could give me a history of your eggceptional career."

"Well, Mike, my career hatched way back in the silent era. At that time, one of my biggest stars was the great comedian Charlie Cheeplin. He loved to strut his stuff on screen. After that, I directed Citizen Chick-Kane. You could say that I came out of my shell by developing new film techniques for that picture."

red Boris Karloff and was a movie worth crowing about. I'm honored that it became a horror classic. Certainly one of my greatest films was the Bogart classic: The Maltese Chicken. The success of the detective drama inspired me to direct Dressed to Kill."

"This series of successful movies spurred me on to make the Oscar-winning film From Here to Eggternity. I received my next Oscar for Guess Who's Not Coming To Dinner, starring Sidney Poitier, Spencer Tracy, and Katherine Hepburn."

"During the 1960's, I was fortunate to work with Hepburn again, this time co-starring with John Wayne in Rooster Cogburn. After that, some time passed before my next movie, the comedy Fowl Play. Since then I've made a few money-making movies, including Poultrygeist 1 and II, The Clucks Back, and Star Trek IV: Wrath of Chic-Kahn, which scrambled to see.

"Right now I'm incubating a project that is ruffling a few feathers. It's called 'Chicken: 100 Years of Movies, and Most Hollywoodducers aren't too game about it."

"There's just one movie that still brooding about, though. I don't understand why Jonathan Livingston Chicken laid an egg box office."

A very long time ago,
When I was only ten
I had a pet rooster
And I had a pet hen.

The hen's name was Scarlet.
The rooster I called Rhett.
I always took good care of them.
They were the best that you could

But then one day the radio said
A tornado was near our farm
I ran down to the cellar
To keep me safe from harm.

And when the storm was over
I searched for my rooster and hen.
I guess Rhett and Scarlet must have

Ear Infections in Children

Physicians continue to see an increasing number of children who have ear infections. In fact, it has been reported that one in three children who visit a doctor will be diagnosed as having an ear infection. And most children will have had at least one ear infection by their third birthday.

These infections of the middle ear are termed otitis media and, in two out of three cases, are probably due to bacteria that find their way from the throat to the ear or ears via the eustachian tubes. A thick, yellow or white fluid may fill the middle ear and produce pain, fever, and hearing loss. It is not uncommon for the ear drum to rupture. Fluid may be noticed on the child's pillow upon awakening.

A variety of antibacterial agents and antibiotics are prescribed by physicians for ear infections. These include ampicillin, amoxicillin, sulfonamides, and several of the cephalosporin-type antibiotics. Antihistamines and decongestants are sometimes also prescribed for use with bacteria-fighting agents. Pain relievers and fever reducers such as acetaminophen are usually recommended.

and The Gatlin Brothers bring the 1987 edition of the Fair to a close on Sunday, Sept. 13.

The Golden Years by Gil Haase

The 85-plus population is the fastest-growing group in America, according to the United States Department of Health and Human Services. "While the increase in the very old population is one of the major achievements of improved disease prevention and health care in this century," the department reports, "it has far-reaching implications for public policy because of the high probability of health problems and the need for health and social services for this age group."

Now that advertisers have caught on to the aging trend, there seems to be an endless stream of new products and services aimed at senior citizens. A new magazine geared strictly for grandparents made its debut this year and more and more TV commercials and print advertisements are featuring older performers and models.

Remember When? May 7, 1915 - The Cunard steamship "Lucania" was sunk without warning by a German submarine off the coast of Ireland. Of the 1,924 people aboard, 1,198 drowned, including 114 Americans. The sinking made United States' entry into World War I almost inevitable.
