In the preliminary 1987-88 Wayne-Carroll School District Budget, it was proposed that receipts from non-resident tuition would be $327,500, which would have been approximately $30,650 less than the previous school year ($358,150).

Instead of a decrease of 8.56 percent over budget receipts for 1986-87, the decrease will be approximately 6.76 percent.

Wayne County non-resident tuition is also paid to other surrounding schools, including Winside, Wakefield, Pender, Pierce, Wisner-Pilger, Laurel, Randolph, Lyons-Decatur, Norfolk, and Stanton.

The non-resident tuition must now be certified by the school boards of the respected school districts.

Work on T.V. tower underway

People tuning in to KXNE Channel

19 in the surrounding area may have noticed there has been problems viewing some of their favorite Nebraska Educational Television Network programs.

Repairs are currently underway at the KXNE transmitting tower, located approximately 13 miles west

Bill Ramsay, director of the Nebraska Educational Television Network's (NETV) engineering and dechnical service, said partial public television service has been restored when NETV network KXNLF, Channel 19, Norfolk transmitter went back on the air at approximately 11/12 a.m. on Monday, July 20.

The transmitter had been off the air since July 10. At the time it went off the air, Ramsay said if was presumed that the transmitter anten-presumed that the transmitter antenna was damaged by a severe thunderstorm.

However, as repair, work progresses on the tower repair, Ramsay said Tuesday morning there appears to be no damage to the top or bottom of the antenna. The problems appear to be in the pllow compections to the to be in the elbow connections to the antenna, he mentioned.

Antenna specialists S.G. Communications of Tampa, Florida have been assisting the network engineer with the Monday inspection of the bottom half of the antenna, eventually permitting the network operation to resume within one half of its normal power.

PRIOR TO July 10, detection was made of a puncture in one of the pro-tective coverings of the transmission line, approximately 600 feet up the tower. Moisture found its way through the hole and there was "enough water to shut down the operation." Ramsay said. The covering had been patched but did not hold.

Approximately 160 feet of transmission line had to also dry out, he added. In addition, some 43 spring hangers, which hold the transmission line in place, were broke — which is nearly half of all the spring hangers originally installed on the television tower in 1967.

"Workers had climbed to the top of the antenna on Tuesday morning as a stiff wind blew, investigating the pro-still wind plew; investigating the pro-blem areas.

Ramsay mentioned that for the safety of the engineers working on the tower, more than Jo00 feet above ground, broadcast services will be in-terrupted as needed when personnel must be near the active antenna. Work will proceed on the tower as rapidly as the weather and the wind conditions permit.

HIGH SURFACE winds and addi-ional thunderstorms had hampered

Phone rate hike meeting draws few

One patron of Eastern Nebraska Telephone Company showed up for a public meeting in Wayne concerning the proposal to dramatically in crease local access phone rates. The Eastern Nebraska Telephone. Company exchange serves residents and businesses in the Belden and Carroll areas. The company also serves patrons in Macy, Meadow Grove, Osmond, Rosalle, Walthill and Winnebago.

If the rate proposal is put into effect. Belden's present local access residential rate will increase from $4.50 to $12.95, and the business rate will jump from $7.75 to $19.95.

The rate for Carrolt will-increase from $5.25 to $12.95 for residential rates and $8.25 to $19.95 for business rates if the proposal is approved.

"So far we have received over 90 valid petition signatures [against the Eastern Nebraska rate increase proposal]." Dibbern said.
She said the Public Service Commission currently has accountable at Eastern Nebraska who are doing an audit to see of the rates are fair and to have the public meeting, Dibbern mentioned.

The Public Service Commission was able to review the request and make a decision on if it was fair and reasonable.

Now, the request for rate changes can only be reviewed by the Public Service Commission two ways, Dibbern said.

There "must" he reduced to keeping the rates down and making phone interest and that if the petition drive its successful, a public hearing will be set on the rate request within 40 days, most likely in an Eastern Nebraska. Telephone exchange community. After the public hearing, the Public Service Commission must issue an order on the request.

MICHAEL JACOBSON, general manager of Huntel Systems and Eastern Nebraska Telephone Company, said the reason for the public meeting in Wayne was to explain and educate the customers about the proposed rate increase. "I had hoped people would be here so we could ex plain or respond to the questions and concerns," Jacobson mentioned.

'Nobody likes to raise rates," he had a rate Increase for nearly 17 years. From 1977 to 1986, the rate of return for Eastern has decreased from 7.5 percent to 3.1 percent. Local regular revenue has dropped from service revenue has dropped from $275,703 in 1982 to $242,827 in 1986 and operating expenses have risen from 1977's total of $527;205 to 1986's figure of $1,323,840.

Jacobson said toll revenue (such as long distance calling and other miscellaneous services) has increased during the last five to 10 years, which is one reason why the company held off in any rate increases the past years. However, in the past 10 years, the company has invested approximate ly $1.3 million in improvements and upgrades to the local telephone system.

Had the local access fine rates increased the same as the Consumer Price Index, the residential rate to day would be approximately $23. However, Jacobson said rate applications, hearings and legal fees. are expensive and simply add to the ratepayer burden long distance revenue among other companies is now declining. "And that continues to be the trend," Jacobson said.

To compensate for the decline in ing distance revenue, the local rates just go up, he mentioned.

Successful tourney

We would like to thank those people who helped to make the Wayne Chicken Show Softball Tournament a success again this year. Special 'Thank Yous' go to Rod and Teresa Sievers, Alan and Donnie Riedel, and their children, for helping us get the fields and concession stand into decent shape for the weekend. We all worked long hours in the mud on Fri-day so that things could go pretty much on schedule on Saturday.

There were more teams involved this year and we were especially thrilled at the number of local teams that participated. We estimate that at least 600 people came to Wayne for this event alone!

Chamber Insights

Executive Vice President — Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and Wayne Industries, Inc.

In every dry in America, the businesses of the community are associated the first together in a joint effort to preserve and protect the American free entities system, and to promote economic expansion. These associations known by a variety, of names, with the most common being the Chamber known by a variety of names, with the mean setting of the commerce.

Chambers of Commerce are voluntary organizations, established by the businesses of the area. A governing board, elected by the membership, usually in turn, selects a paid executive, the function of this paid executive is basically that of an organizer, a catalyst. The Chamber of Commerce Itself eats as a sales and public relations agency for the entire area. Most industrial and commercial developers shecking out a community look first to the local Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber of Commerce is expected to represent and promote the basic storning for it's particular area.

Yet, not all Chamber of Commerce programs are commercially oriented. Today's problems present a serious shallenge, and it has been found that onrest, not all Chamber of Commerce programs are commercially oriented. Today's problems present a serious thatlenges, and it has been found that on lythrough commitment on the part of the business leadership can significant improvement be achieved. Human relations, schools, employment, housing, and other issues affect almost every city in the country. And Chambers of Commerce everywhere are actively seeking solutions to these problems. Since political opinions vary widely within the Chamber of Commerce membership, partison activity is avoided. Most Chamber of Commerce, however, are involved in none way, or another in some form of political activity. In the past, businesses have woughly been reluctant to speak out on controversial issues, but experience has shown that business must do so if free enterprise is to survive. In fact, the political sense is none place where the United Voice of the Chamber of Commerce can be most effective.

So what's int it or you? The Chember of Commerce should very definitely be considered a department of your local businesses. In any community, all successful volunteer efforts of any kind, rely heavily upon business for leadership and support. There is work being done in your community by business people working directly through the Chamber of Commerce, which directly diffects the growth and success of your local businesses.

All business prospers in a community where commercial, industrial and professional leaders are involved tegether in a community problem solving.

Wayne gals end season

with wins

By Gregg Dahlheim

The Wayne girls 18 and under soft ball team concluded its regular season in fine fashion Sunday afternoon by taking two from a Stanton squad.

The locals improved to 22-8 with 8-3 and 3-2 wins in a pair of five inning games at Hank Overin Field.

Stanton was a well-tested op-ponents for the gals. Both Wayne and Stanton will be advancing to the girls Class B state tournament in North Plate July 24-26.

The locals started the first game red hot to match the weather conditions. Wayne errupted for all eight of its runs in the first two innings.

The girls jumped on top 3-0 in the bottom of the first. Amy Schluns and Traci Gamble led off the inning with

In the second game Wayne had to rally from a 2-0 deficit in file bottom of the fifth to earn the sweep. The girls had a little luck on their side by scoring three runs in the last inning on three walks, a flyout to rightfield and a strikeout. Hansen, Gamble and Robin Lutt all started the half inning with walks. Gamble scored the finst run on a past ball. Hansen came home to tie the game when the Stantom catcher tried to pick her off at third and in the process over-threw the third baseman. That moved the winning run on the second past

Robin Lutt to third. Lutt then scored the winning run on the second past ball of the inning.

Robin Lutt also did the job of the mound. She galned the victory by giving up two runs on two hits. One of the hits was a first-inning bunt which resulted in Stanton's first run. Wayne, 22-8, will be making its fifth straight appearane at the state tour-nament. Last year the girls finished 2-2 record. Both of their losses, to eventual state champion North Platte and Nebraska City, were by one run with controversial plays ending the game.

This year Wayne will be matched against the Nebraska City Rebels in a 6:30 p.m. game on Friday.

Strate said if her team can get b the first round they will be in pretty good shape.

and assistance and, frequently, forming a friendship which lasts
long after the case is over.

Safety experts tell us that most injuries in the home happen to older adults. Among the most common are falls in the bathroom. For the safety of all members of the household, use non-skid applique pieces or special anti-slip coatings on your bathtub or shower floor. And be sure that bathroom throw rugs have non-slip backings.

CHEMIGATION PERMITS

CHEMIGATION PERMITS

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District chemigation inspection program has operated very well in its first season and the heavy workload did not cause delays for Irrigators. The Nebraska Chemigation Act, passed by the Unicameral in 1986, became effective January 1, 1987. The Act has two major provisions:

1. Irrigators who apply any chemicals or fertilizer through an Irrigation system must first:

a. Attend a training sestion and pass an examination to be a certified applicator

b. Install required safety equipment at each chemical injection site

c. Obtain a Chemigation Permit from the local NRD

2. NRD's must establish a program to inspect and issue permits on chemigation systems.

The law which was passed by the Legislature has met with mixed reviews. Some farmers regard it as an infeingement on their right to farm as they wish. Others say "we need to protect our groundwater, but we shouldn't have to take a test or, pay for the permits."

Most people realize that some regulation is necessary to protect our groundwater quality. Whatever your opinion of the law, it is the law and we must comply with it.

The Chemigation Act requires an investment of time and money in fixing existing equipment or purchasing new, becoming certified applicators, and paying $30.00 for permits; (310.00 for renewals). This investment will pay off by protecting our groundwater from accidental contamination and give the public added confidence that chemigation is being done property.

Inspectors in the Lower Elkhorn NRD have completed approximately 450 inspections with a high percentage of the systems passing on first visit. Also important, the time from application for a permit to the inspection and permit issuance was normally two or three days. People who had to get chemicals applied in a short time were not delayed by the permit process.

For people who have not applied for chemigation permits yet, it is not too late. Application forms are available from County Extension and Lower Elkhorn NRD offices. The completed forms then must be sent to the NRD-office with a check for $30,00 for each chemical injection site. inspectors in the Lower Eikhorn NRD have completed the NRD office with a check for $30.00 for each chemical injection site.

As of January 1, 1987, it became illegal to apply chemicals (including nitrogen fertilizer) through an irrigation system without a chemigation permit. In order to Insure compliance with the law. the NRD will Investigate reports of illegal chemigation. Persons chemigating without a permit are: 1. Subject to a Civil penalty of not more than $1,000 or 2. Guilty of a Class II misdemeanor for each day of continued violation.

Chemigation remains a very efficient and cost effective method of applying needed agricultured-chemicals. However, its potential to adversaly affect our precious groundwater hos made the new regulations necessary. As with other regulations, these require a certain amount of cost and red tape, but with local (NRD) control these are minimal and the result is worth it.

For more information on the Chemigation Act, contact the Lower Eikhorn NRD.

CONSERVATION RESERVE ACRES

CONSERVATION RESERVE ACRES

The fifth sign up for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is now underway (July 20-31). The program is an excellent opportunity not only to reduce agricultural, surpluses, but also to take marginal cropland out of production and return it to permanent cover. Normally, this means various mixtures of permanent grasses, but the Lower Elkhorn NRD would like to have you consider trees too.

In the last 25 years, Nebraska has lost many trees to disease, center pivot irrigation, new construction, firewood cutting, old age and poor maintenance practices. Some of these losses are understandable and some are worthwhile uses of trees, but the problem is that we heven't replaced the trees we lost.

Trees serve us in so many ways, that with a little thought, most people have several places where they need new trees. Old farmsteed and feedlot windthyeaks may need free rows replaced or added to improve effi-thought, most people have several places where they need new trees. Old farmstead and feedlot windbyacks may need tree rows replaced or added to improve efficiency. If you don't even have a farmstead windbreik, you are burning extra heating fuel needlessly. Small odd areas that were difficult to farm will make excellent walnut or firewood plantations. Research has shown that 1-3 row field windbreaks not only control soil explon, but increase crop prodiction by conserving soil moisture. Shade and beauty are two obvious qualities that we same times forget.

Wildlife numbers have declined steadily over the past-25 years, as a direct result of lost habitat. The Conservation Reserve Program will do a great deat to reverse the treat of habitat losses. Many thougands of acres in northeast. Nebraska will be reseded to grass mixtures for a ten year period and hopsfully will stay in grass perintly. We must also make the most of this oppor manently. We must also make the most of this oppor-tunity to plant trees and shrubs. For this reason the Lower Elkhorn NRD is offering to pay the landowners share of the cost of establishing wingbreak and wildlife, plantings on CRP acros. Don't miss this opportunity to improve your send with trees! Approved plantings will be paid 50% by CRP and 50% by the Lower Elkhorn NRD under the Wildlife Hobitar Program: In other words you may set a tree planting at

KEEPING SOWS COOL

Sow comfort is essential to assure high feed intake, good milk production and well doing baby pigs. Hot weather can cause heat stress in sows with a resultant decrease in overall litter performance.

An airflow rate of at least 500 cubic feet of air per minute per sow should be provided through the farrowing house. Some producers have increased air flow rates to 1,000 cubic feet per minute per sow with very positive results at a low cost. The extra 500 cubic feet per minute per sow represents one good quality 36-inch fain in a 20-sow unit. To be most effective the air should be directed down the wall into the sow space. Solid partitions are necessary to prevent drafts over small pigs. Inlets must be sized to assure they don't cause a restriction to airflow.

Producers were used.

Producers who want an additional hedge against possible heat stress problems should consider adding drip coding. Drip coolers are not a substitute for adequate airflow. A drip cooling system uses drip irrigation nozzles or 1/16 inch holes drilled in a plastic pipe to allow water to drop into the front shoulder or neck of the sow. Water slow rates are typically a to 5 gallons per hour for partially stated farrowing facilities and 1 to 1.0 gallons per hour for systems with total slats or mesh. Water should not be allowed to drain aff, the sow and cause wer conditions in the creep area. Wef, floors mean acours in boby pigs. Cooling is achieved as heat from the sow is used to evaporate the water from the skin surface.

A simple manually controlled drip cooling system can be installed in a 20 sow farrowing house for less than $150. A more sophisticated system can be installed with a thermostat, manually adjusted flow control/pressure valve, solenoid valve and filter for about $350. These costs are in addition to the ventilation

Field experience has shown sow comfort in facilities equipped with drip coolers and a good high capacity ventilation system to be at least as good as in facilities equipped with evaporative coolers, shout cooler or air conditioning. Installation, operating and maintenance costs are less than 10 percent of costs for the alternative systems.

Researchers occasionally will become interested in a medicine that has been around for a long time. One such researcher is Michael Rask, Chairman of the Academy of Neurological and Orthopedic Surgeons. For over 30 years Dr. Rask has used colchicine for individuals experiencing certain types of back pain. Colchicine, which is not currently recommended as a ain reliev ed in treatment of pain associated with gout. With gout, one or more joints become extremely tender due to uric acid crystal accumulations.

According to a recent report in American Pharmacy, Dr. Rask has used colchicine in some four thousand patients, one thousand of whom suffered from "resistant disc disease" — a condition in which bed rest, medication, or surgery do not bring pain relief. According to Dr. Rask, colchicine often reduces inflammation in both the disc and spinal nerve root.

Although colchicine has been around for centuries the mechanism by which it relieves inflammation is not fully understood. It may in some way affect white blood cells (leukocytes) that are involved in the inflammatory process
