No relief predicted from sweltering temps

By Chuck Hackenmiller Managing Editor "When it's hot, it's hot. When it's not, it's not." A jot of northeast Nebraska

A lot of northeast Nepraska residents are singing that tune to the Sound of electric fans and air condi-tioners as temperatures since Mon-day, July 20, have continued to soar in the 90 degree plus range.

Wednesday's weather outlook ap-pears to show no relief from the scor-ching temperatures. Outside construction work con-tinued in the area on Tuesday despite the swelling heat which reached a high of nearly 100 degrees. Construc-tion workers labored on the roof of the Rice Auditorium throughout the day. The water tower construction day. The water tower construction crew could be seen climbing high on the sphere as that project on the east side is nearing completion. And the peak energy alert sounded in Wayne several times Tuesday, as

It has for almost all of last week, with request to curfail electrical use of air conditioners or other appliances, after 8 p.m. City Administrator Phil Kloster said "things have not been good dur-ing the past 10 days in the electric

HE ANTICIPATED that a savings of $60,000 has been lost because of the longevity of the heat wave and possi-ble lack of cooperation in par-ticipating in the energy alert.

The city of Wayne receives a bill monthly from the Nebraska Public Power District, suppliers of Wayne's electricity, based on the demand load which the city has set on a particular day in which the demand load was the highest. That rate would be ap-plied to the city's monthly billing for the next 12 months, simply because NPPD must provide the highest maximum power available, according to what was the city's highest peak demand Paying for a peak load high of 8,000 kilowatts, for instance, would be less costly than if the peak demand was 9,000 kilowatts.

Tuesday's kilowatt high peak reading shattered the previous high peak load of 8,400. "It was pegged at 9,000 kilowatts," Kloster said.

The city is presently 600 to 700 kilowatts more than what the peak was about a year ano 'We're losing it bad. We need the public's help," he added. Kloster said he has heard stories about some he added. Kloster said senior citizens who are trying real hard to conserve energy. Those able to cooperate in the alert, but don't, he said, make things "unfortunate for those people who have made the sacrifice," Kloster mentioned. "Tvoically, wed on thave a string "Typically, we do not have a string of days [of 90 plus temperatures] as we have had in the past," he said.

THE CITY ALREADY knows there will be a rate increase forthcoming from Nebraska Public Power District, earlier projected at 4.1 percent.

In addition to feeding electricity to the city of Wayne, Nebraska Public Power District also has contracted and pays for the use the city's six engines at the light plant as a back-up to produce more electricity, if

Entering into this reserve arrange ment has resulted in a lesser rate that the city pays to NPPD for its electrical distribution, according to city officials. Wayne city officials, however, agree that air conditioning is essen-tial for sustaining a healthy environ-ment to some individuals suffering ment to some individuals surrering from physical alilments. For these people, the energy alert should be disregarded for their protection. The Nebraska Department of Health, in a news release, has advis-Hearin, in a news release, nas dovis-ed, all people to curtail strenuous physical activities during extramely hor, humid weather to avoid heat stress. Populations at increased risk for heat-related illnesses include the elderly, diabetics, the obese and those who take certain types of tran-quilizers and anti-depressants. Those exposed to the heat should drink plenty of fluids (avoid alcohol) and wear loose, light-colored clothing and spend as much time in cool places if possible. Wayne City Council passed a 1987-88 city budget Tuesday night that reflects an approximate 3.6 percent decrease from last fiscal year in

Cent gecrease from last fiscal year in total property tax askings. Nobody from the audience spoke for or against the budget proposal during Tuesday's public hearing in the council chambers.

The general fund property tax ask Ing decrease from $367,344 from the 1986-87 budget to $352,650 for 1987-88. Other property fax revenue is needed for the airport and special assessments, which will bring the total property fax asking total to $498,636 — about $18,366 less (or a 3.6 mercent decrease) than the previous percent decrease) than the previous fiscal year.

, Total general fund revenue will be down 22 percent. Of substantial decrease is the line item of federal grants. There were $252,750 in

"Fourth, WAYNE AMERICA would end the search for a suitable regional designation," George mentioned.

THE FIFTH benefit, he said, is that the new water tower is the least expensive and most effective billboard that the city of Wayne has. For substantially less than the cost of renting a highway billboard for only a year, the city of Wayne will own a permanent promotional display that will help attract new business and residents for many years in the future. ONION MATURITY CNION MATURITY You can determine the maturity of onions in your garden by checking the neck of the plant to see if it is dry and the top has kinked over. Other indicators are roots drying up on the stem plate at the base of the bulb, outer scales of the onion drying and loosening, and darkening of the outer scales on yellow onions. Usually when 50 percent of the onions in your garden are kinked, most varieties are ready for harvest. Onions should be cured before storage. The onion should be placed in a warm (60:80 degree) dry place (humidity below 80 percent). The neck should be dry and the outer two or three scales dry and firm when the curing process is completed. Warm dry days will hasten the curing process. Do not place the onion bulbs in full sun during the curing process.

VEGETABLE SPAGHETTI

Vegetable spaghetti is a novelty item which has grown in popularity over the past few years. The fruits are ripe when they change to a yellow color and are 8 to 10 inches long. The shell should still be soft enough to be dented by your thumbnail at Iding. The shert should be baked or boiled for 20 to 30 minutes. Sort the seed once the fruit should be baked or boiled for 20 to 30 minutes. Sort the seed once the fruit is cut in half. Rake out the flesh in long spiral spaghetti-like strands. Season with salt, pepper, and butter or mix with spaghetti sauce.

ROSES Always be sure that roses have a sufficient amount of water. A good, thorough soaking at least once a week if there is no rain should provide the moisture needed. Try to keep the water off the leaves to lessen the danger of leaf disease. Watering in the morning is recommended.

The next thing to do is to give the roses a feeding of 10-15-5 fertilizer. This is around the base of the bushes and worked into the soil very lightly. Be sure to spread it evenly and not leave the fertilizer in clumps.

In order to produce more blooming wood on hybrid teas, cut the plant back by about one-third in July. Cut branches back to a lateral bud. This July prun-ing will leave the plant without blooms in August but the September and Oc-tober blooms, will more than make up for it.

Don't forget to apply that preventive spray program to control blackspot and nildew. Benomyl will control both; however there are other good fugicides available.

Depilatory Hair Removal

The desire to remove unwanted hair is ancient. According to the newest edition of the handbook of Nonprescription Drugs, some of the early hair removal methods included application of ants' eggs, hot leeches, and the blood of yellow frogs. Today's alternative to plucking, shaving, waxing, or bleaching unwanted hair is the use of chemical products known as depilatories. These agents break chemical bonds between molecules in hair proteins in the hair which results dissolving below the skin line. After a few minutes, hair can be wiped or rubbed from the skin.

Most depilatory products contain relatively safe chemicals termed thioglycolates. Some older pro-ducts contained barium, strontium, and calcium sulfides which were faster acting but had a strong odor and were quite poisonous if swallowed.

Testing for sensivity to thioglycolates is easy. Apply a small amount to an area of skin for 15 minutes, wash away, and look for undue redness 24 hours later. If skin irritation occurs with actual depilatory use, application of hydrocortisone cream may provide relief.
