TWO ACTIVITIES took place Thursday, Sept. 17, as the Wayne community and schools paid tribute to the 200th anniversary of the United States Constitution. Early Thursday afternoon, Wayne-Carroll School district's elementary and middle School students, over 500 in all, encircled the high school practice football field and track. Middle school students memorized por-tions of the constitution and recited their part before the large audience. The band and choir also performed. A color guard unit was also present at the ceremony, representing the com-munity's veteran organizations. In the photo above, the students joined together in saying the Pledge of Allegiance. Photo at left, Kent Hall of Wayne (Boy Scouts in the background) reads his delegated part of the Constitution during a Thursday night public reading of the historical document at the community park near The Wayne Herald. Grant awarded for farm women survey

Wayne State College faculty members, Associate Professor of Sociology Dr. Jean Karten and Assistant Professor of Nath Dalal, have received a research grant from the American Association of University Women (AAUW) Educational Foundation.

Karlen and Dalal, (both members of the Wayne Branch of AAUW), will coordinate the study of the economic contribu-tion of the farm women—of Nebraska. Institutional support is being provided by Wayne State College.

The objective of the project stwo-fold: first, to conduct a survey of rural women and compile a socio-economic and demographic profile of the sample and second fo analyze statistically the economic contribution of these farm women.

Women's on-farm, domestic, volunteer work as well as off-farm employment will be considered. If proper data are col-lected, an attempt will be made to compare the economic worth of the farm women with that of their male counter-

If any farm-women in this area are willing to participate in this survey, please contact Dr. Karlen or Dr. Dalal at Wayne State, Social Sciences Division, Wayne, NE 68787 or call at 375-2200 ext. 292. Any cooperation from interested individuals or organiza-tions/agencies will be ap-preciated.

United Way goal announced

High radon levels in the home can cause health problems High radon levels in the home can cause health problems Radon, a radioactive gas, can pose health problems for home owners. Radon results from the breakdown of various minerals. This invisible gas exists naturally in soils and rocks containing uranium, granile, shale, and phosphorus or industrial wastes from uranium or phosphate mining.
Scientific studies of miners exposed underground to varying levels of radon show that the greater the exposure, the greater the risk of lung cancer. Young people are more susceptible to radiation damage

Concern about this tasteless and odorless gas arose in the late 1960's. In the west, some homes that had been built with materials contaminated by waste from uranium mines contained high levels of indoor radon.

RECENTLY, SCIENTISTS discovered that houses in various areas of the United States may have high indoor radon levels caused by natural-deposits of uranium in the soil.

A great deal of publicity has surrounded the discovery of homes with high radon levels. Little has been said about the facts of radon contamination. The risk of high radon levels is unknown in Nebraska.

Radon can seep through cracks into houses. This accounts for 95 percent of radon in the home. Houses that are tightly constructed and have poor ventilation can allow the extra build-up of radon.

About five percent of radon enters the home via the water supply

ALTHOUGH MOST houses in the United States probably don't have high ALTHOUGH MOST houses in the United States propably don't have high levels of radon, no one knows which residences do contain too much of the gas. To target the homes at risk, officials at the Nebraska Department of Health and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency encourage people to call or write for a copy of the EPA bookler, "A Citizen's Guide to Radon: What it is and What To Do About It." Consumers may also request a list of EPA approved companies that will test homes for radon levels. Wakefield betters Wausa spikers in battle of undefeated

When two undefeated teams meet

When two undefeated teams meet-something has to give, that was the situation Thursday night in Wakefield when the Lady Trojans hosted the Wausa Lady Vikings. Wakefield entered the game 4-0 and ranked sixth in Class C2, while the Lady Vikings were ranked third lib. Class D1. with a 3-0 mark. After about 90 minutes of excellent volleyball by both teams Wakefield came out on top in three sets by came out on top in three sets by scores of 15-13, 12-15, 15-13. Wakefield Coach Paul Eaton said it was the best played match at Wakefield in the last two or three

Things didn't start out that way for the Lady Trojans. Wausa jumped on top 8-0 in the first set thanks in large part to the net play of Wausa's Laura Anderson. Eaton said the 5-11 senior is the best hitter he has seen in a long time. The Lady Vikings depended heavilly on Anderson which me has been in a long time. heavily on Anderson which may have hurt them down the stretch whe had a few problems getting the ball over the net.

Kodl Nelson got Wakefield back in the match in a blg way. The 5-10 hit-ter served 10 straight points for the hosts to give them a 10-8 lead. Wausa mänaged to return only two of Wausa Coach Greg Conn was saued a yellow card for objecting a ball with his team leading 12-11. The posts fled the score at 12-12 before anderson fled the match with three externors serves.

Wausa appeared to have the nomentum heading into the final set. But in fact it was just the opposite. Wakefield came out on fire and posted the first seven points. Eaton said during that stretch his team played the best volleyball of the season.

The Lady Trojans upped their lead to 12-1 on four Greve serves. Wakefield got stuck on 12 while-Wausa mounted a late charge.

Several rallies later the Lady Vikings cut the lead to 13-8. Wakefield made it 14-8 before Wausa scored the next five points to cut the lead to 13-13. It appeared the guests tied the score when Karen Halistrom's hit-sailed out of bounds. The spike was

A part of everything you spend in local stores goes to make your town a better place to live for you and your family. Merchants pay taxes, make charitable contributions and support local institutions. The merchants are your neighbors and they want to work with you to improve and support the good life in your community. You'll be helping your neighbors and yourself.

When you shop locally, everyone benefits. It's more convenient so you save gas and time. You get friendly, knowledgeable service because local merchants "know" you and appreciate your business. They depend on you to keep their stores going strong. And some of what you spend goes back into the community in the form of taxes and charitable contributions paid by the merchants.

Cards of Thanks I WISH TO thank all our friends and relatives for all their calls, cards, flowers and visits while—I was—in the hospital and since my return home. Thanks to Pastor Youngerman for his calls and visits and comforting words, also thanks to all those who helped Warren with field work and chores. Warren and Shirley Baird. S21

THANK YOU to the many people who remembered me in so many ways while I was in the hospital. A special thanks to the Wayne hospital staff God bless you all. Paul Koester

Chicago - President Ronald Reagam has proclaimed the week of Sept. 20-26, 1987, as National Farm Safety Week. The 44th observance of the week is sponsored by the National Safety Council, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"The President's action points out the need for everyone connected with agriculture to continue efforts to reduce the number and severity of accidental injuries and work-related illnesses so very costly to farming families and to our nation," said T.C. Gilchrest, president of the Chicago-based National Safety Council.

Agricultural work accidents resulted in about 1,700 deaths and 170,000 disabling injuries in 1986, according to preliminary Council statistics. Jack Burke, program manager for agricultural safety at the Council says many farm and ranch residents affor were seriously injured or killed in home, recreation and roadways accidents. In addition, an undetermined number of farmers and farm workers were victims of agricultural work-related illnesses known to cause disability and constitution of the proportion of th sometimes premarture death, he said-

Agriculture remains among the nation's most hazardous major industry divisions with an accidental death rate of 52 per 100,000 workers in 1986, a slight increase from 1985.

This year's theme for Farm Safety Week "Farm Safety Makes Good Sense," stresses the significant financial advantages of investing time and effort into preventing injury and illness on the farm, especially during times of economic stress.

By the President of the United States of America

We Americans know that our efficient farmers each supply food and fiber for more than 100 people, including many, who live abroad. We know too, sadly, that farming and ranching have always been hazardous occupations—that every year agricultural producers suffer a disproportionate number of serious and often fatal injuries and illnesses during work, travel, and recreation, and that an additional toll is extracted in property damage, time loss, and medical costs. We do find that accident rates are declining, however, and this good news can help us further promote farm and ranch safety.

Most accidents and work illnesses can be prevented, often by simple and inexpensive or no-cost-measures. Protective equipment, used in many industries to help assure worker safety and health, proves equally useful on farms and ranches if always used when jobs or working conditions call for it. Complex preventive measures are rarely required, and safety and health information is available from many local sources. But best of all; of course, is exercising appropriate care in all daily activities to protect ourselves from potential hazards ahead of time.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, by the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, of by the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, of by the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, of 1987, as National Farm Safety Week. I urge all those who live and work on farms or ranches to take necessary precautions to protect their safety and health, both on the job and off, both at necessary precautions to protect their safety and health, both on the job and off, both at home and on the roads: I also urge everyone allied with agriculture to strengthen their safety and health efforts by example and by educational programs. I encourage all home and on the roads: I also urge events and activities in observance of National Safety Week and to note the vast contributions-Americans in agriculture make to our Nation.

IN MITTHESS WHEDEOE I have because set my hand this piceteenth day of time in

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this nineteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and eleventh.
