SATURDAY was the last business day for Lindahl's store in Allen. The store (at left) was built in 1913. Connie Lindahl, above, is the proprietor of the business. The store carried merchandise of all varieties, including hardware, clothing, groceries and shoes.

Lindahl family business closes

By Chuck Hackenmiller

Managing Editor

Odds are that if one believed there is some piece of equipment, hardware or footwear that cannot be found anywhere that one person hadn't checked out Lindahl's store in Allen.

After all, Lindahl's had an assortment of almost everything under the sun.

Saturday was Lindahl's last day of being open for business. Connie Lindahl of Allen, now the lone proprietor of the store following the death of her husband, Laurence (Swede), in March of 1986, said a lot of good memories will live on despite the closing of the business.

John and Emelia Lindahl built the present merchantile store 74 years ago (1913), after a fire destroyed the previous wooden building which housed the business.

Swede worked in the store with his father (John). He took over the management of Lindahl's in the early 50's, following his father's death. Swede had also established a truck line that introduced some of the first semi-truck trailers in this area, according to Connie.

Connie, who married Swede in 1950, began working in the store in the later years of their married life. "It used to be that if you wanted something and couldn't find it anywhere, just ask Swede and he'd be able to get it for you," she said.

SHE CITED an instance where an individual couldn't find a pair of Wolverine Shoes anywhere — except at Lindahl's. Often Swede would trade his merchandise for another product. "He was always trying to help somebody out," said Connie. He would trade a pair of coveralls for a big carton of tobacco.

"Everything was sold here, from soup to nuts. There were tons of feed, chicken eggs, cream, clothing, shoes and other groceries or dry goods," she mentioned.

Big nights for Lindahl's were on Saturday and Wednesday nights, when the town of Allen was hopping with activity in the 1950's and later years. A cream station, long ago, was located below the store.

As of Friday of last week, the original shelves of Lindahl's were bulging with new and used hardware and general merchandise. One trip down the aisles of the store verified that Lindahl's carried a variety of inventory for all occasions.

For instance, there were bobby pins, large assortment of gloves and watch bands. On one area of a shelf were several strange-shaped sticks, specifically for the use of punishing a disobedient or naughty misbehaving child.

What else?

THERE WERE a variety of knives and cooking utensils, files and drill bits, pulleys and springs of all sizes, locks with keys and candles or Christmas decorations, and nuts and bolts of almost every size or shape.

In the clothing area there were coveralls being sold for a person with a size 60 waist, size 50 Hanes Briefs, long underwear, and feed caps, straw hats or cowboy hats on inventory.

One could buy, for a good price, some dress shoes, work shoes, tennis shoes, baseball shoes or even boots.

A compartment that contained hundreds of small four to five-inch wide drawers contained items such as new Model T or Model A parts, bolts and screws, pump leathers, welded cow ties and pig rings.

To get rid of unwanted pests, there were rat poison and fly cakes available for sale.

On another shelf was a product "Peter Pan Newest Beauty Bar With Chlorophyll".

Attached to the old ceiling of Lindahl's are old signs advertising a variety of products.

A SIGN TACKED to the wall said "A closed mouth gathers no foot" and "Who's worried about automation? I'd like to see the button that would work my kind of hours!"

What happens to the inventory left over remains to be seen, said Connie.

She is closing the business because of the escalating expenses involved in the operation of the store. "There's insurance on the real estate and taxes. And I have to operate the

Hospital board approves plans for new wing

By Chuck Hackenmiller

Managing Editor

Providence Medical Center's Governing Board approved a building addition to the hospital during a meeting Monday evening.

Expansion of services, outpatient clinics, community service meetings, storage requirements for equipment and records, maintenance equipment storage, a need for open access for income ambulances, and an interest in — and a need — for child/adult day care prompted the board's decision to approve the building addition.

According to Marci Thomas, administrator at Providence Medical Center, the new 12-bed wing will be structured so that "if ever there were a need for more acute care beds, the ground floor space could be converted to acute care rooms and the storage, meeting rooms and other areas could be moved to the basement with little added construction."

SHE SAID that when Providence Medical Center was originally built, it was with the idea that someday there would be a need for a 20-bed addition.

"The Governing Board of Providence Medical Center has approved plans for the 12-bed equivalent addition plus an extension on the ambulance garage area," said Thomas.

Early spring is projected for the groundbreaking of the estimated $400,000 building project. Thomas said donations have made the building project at the hospital possible without undergoing a major fund drive.

Thomas said the estate of Martha Saul left $50,649.70 to Providence Medical Center and the August Thun estate left some farmland to the Wayne Hospital Foundation.

"The Foundation has agreed to donate funds not to exceed $200,000, from the proceeds received on the sale of the Thun land, to the building project. The remainder of the money needed for the building addition will come out of the funded depreciation of Providence Medical Center," mentioned Thomas.

She said it would be great not to use the hospital's funds, but at the present time it is felt that "the time is right" to build. Although donations would be readily accepted, and appreciated, the building of the wing will not be delayed to allow for complete outside funding of the project.

OVER THE past 12 years, Providence Medical Center has continued to progress and grow to meet the needs of the community, according to Thomas.

In 1975 there were two physician clinics in Wayne and three practicing physicians. Now there are five physicians, a physicians assistant and many specialists on the medical staff.

There were no outpatient clinics in 1975. But in 1987 there are many and include: Orthopedic; Urology; Ear, Nose and Throat; Cardiology; and Gastroenterology. The list also includes Ultrasound, Mammography, Echocardiogram and Venous Doppler. A radiologist visits three times a week rather than one.

"Providence Medical-Center also provides a meeting place for many civic groups," said Thomas.

Those groups using the hospital meeting location include the Cancer Society, Wellness for Weight Control, Ladies Auxiliary and American Heart Association. The rooms are also used for CPR classes, Lamaze and hearing clinics.

"At times there have been wall-to-wall people, using halls, etc.," Thomas remarked.

THE NEW WING will have a meeting room large enough to accommodate 70 people, a cardiac rehabilitation room, an activities room for the Swing bed patients and a detention cell for drug and alcohol abuse patients.

The pharmacy will be moved from its present location to the new area. In the present pharmacy location will be an Outpatient Clinic office.

In the new wing there will be a laundry storage and sewing room, medical record and equipment storage rooms and an intensive care room adjoining the two now available for cardiac patients.

Also, there are two rooms designated as family support rooms, and these rooms will be used for adult day care or child day care rooms. — If the State gives final approval.

Examples as to when the day care rooms would be used, according to Thomas, is when a homebound adult is brought to the day care rooms during a day when the person who provides the care must be out of town.

Or, if a child suffers from chicken pox and cannot be taken to a babysitter while the parents work, the child could be taken to the day care room.

Variety of activities planned

Pumpkin Days event set

Pumpkin Days in Wakefield will take place this Saturday, Sept. 26, promising a wide variety of entertainment and activities throughout the day.

The Pumpkin Days event is being sponsored by the Wakefield Community Club and co-organizers of the event include Delores McCuddin, Alden Johnson, Becky Keidel and Norman Minola.

"Wayne has their Chicken Days. So we wanted to do something, too," said McCuddin of Wakefield Cleaners. "This will be the first Pumpkin Day. Hopefully it will be a success and we will do it again next year," she said.

The idea for Pumpkin Days was formulated after personally reviewing a similar-type festival that takes place each year in an Ohio community, according to McCuddin.

A Kiddie Parade starts off the Wakefield Pumpkin Days festivities at 9:30 a.m. There will be no motorized vehicles in the parade. "Just push, pedal and pull," said McCuddin. The route will begin at Erb's Car Wash and end at the Farmer's Union. Children are to gather at the starting point of the parade by 9 a.m.

a.m. to 2 p.m., games are scheduled for all ages (babies to adults) at the Wakefield City Park. Among the events are the obstacle course pumpkin roll, junior tractor pull, relays, crawling diapers race and "other events that will keep the children and adults busy," said McCuddin.

From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., will be a free, omelet feed at the city park.

And at 2 p.m., a half-hour melodrama entitled "It's Cold In Them Thar' Hills!" will be performed. Following the play, two groups from the Emerson Senior Center — some singers — and the Elderberry Band — will supply entertainment.

Contests also are scheduled for pumpkin baking, pumpkin decorating (carved or uncarved), largest and smallest pumpkins.

All entries in the contests must be at the city park by 9 a.m. on Saturday. Anyone can enter the contests.

The baking contest can feature bars, pies, bread or cookies — anything that uses pumpkins as an ingredient. The recipe must accompany the baked item and plate of six for bars and cookies. There will be a cake decorating contest, which will be later used for a cakewalk. Judging will be on cakes decorated with pumpkins in mind.

From 9-5 p.m. the American Legion will have a Fine Arts Display for public viewing. All types of art are welcome, such as paintings, drawings, ceramics, woodcraft, crocheted or knitted items and quilts and other items. Exhibits pumpkin-related will be judged.

There will also be a yard decorating contest. Those attending Pumpkin Days are encouraged to view the decorated yards with the pumpkin theme.

Throughout the day, the Show and Shine event will bring automobile enthusiasts an opportunity to view collectible and classic automobiles. Several local antique car owners and the Corvette Club have announced they will be displaying their automobiles for the spectators' pleasure.

Closing out the Pumpkin Days activities will be a dance from 9 p.m. to 11 a.m., with music by "Headwind" at the Legion Hall. There is an admission charge to the dance.

"All kids who enter the contests will receive some sort of prize," said McCuddin.

ACCORDING TO the time table provided to the committee members, the Board of Trustees President Selection Committee will screen the number of president candidates to at least 50 between Oct. 15 and Nov. 1.

On Nov. 5, the local Review and Comment Committee will be meeting to work on the profile (such as what characteristics, experiences or background to look for in a president) for potential candidates.

From Nov. 5 to Nov. 30, the local committee will identify at least 10 candidates (from the 50 screened candidates) who match the suggested profiles, and they deliver their report to the Board of Trustees' President Selection Committee by Dec. 3.

From Dec. 4 to Dec. 10, the Board committee and Board staff will conduct an in-depth background check and select the candidates to interview.

THE LIST OF candidates would be narrowed to at least three candidates at the Board of Trustees meeting Dec. 9-10. Between Jan. 11 and Jan. 17, the Board of Trustees selection committee will conduct interviews of the candidates. Later, the local Review and Comment Committee will orient the candidates to the college and Wayne community and a follow-up report will be filed by the local committee.

Wakefield wins contest - again

The Wakefield High School Trojans Marching Band captured the first place trophy in the 1987 Band Day festivities which took place Saturday in Wayne.

The 19th annual Wayne State College Band Day was sponsored by Wayne State, the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and the Wayne Second Guessers Club.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the marching band competition title has gone to Wakefield High, directed by Diane Trullinger.

Judges for the Band Day contest for Class C-D high school bands were Don Schumacher of Pierce High School; Bryon Braasch of Norfolk High; and Larry Jones of Madison High.

Each of the three judges mark their scores on marching execution and precision (worth 40 points); sound (40 points); appearance (10 points); and overall general effect (10 points).

The maximum total points which a band can achieve is 300 points (100 points from each judge). Wakefield's total points numbered 284.

GARY DAVIS, Wayne State band director, said that because the contest is street marching, more preference is given toward execution and precision rather than sound, although both merit 40 points from the judges.

"The judges said that Wakefield's performance in marching, in alignment and spacing, was superb," Davis said. The Trojan band gained 115 total points out of a possible 120 in the marching execution and precision category.

Stanton, directed by Scott Kardell, finished in second place. Third place went to Hartington (directed by Sharyn Whipple), and the fourth place winner went to Silver Creek, directed by Tracy Briggs.

Wakefield will receive a first place trophy and a $300 scholarship certificate, which will go to any of the school's seniors who will graduate and participate in the Wayne State College band next year. Stanton also received a trophy and the same amount of scholarship certificate.

Hartington and Silver Creek each received a $200 scholarship certificate.

The scholarships are provided by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and the Second Guessers.

Davis complimented the Wayne community and businesses for helping with the Band Day festivities, labeling the success of the event as a "community effort."

WAYNE HIGH School, Middle School and the 120-member Wayne State College Wildcat Marching Band also participated in the Band Day parade on Saturday morning, but were not eligible to compete in the band contest.

The entire Band Day participants played at halftime of the WSC-SW State football game Saturday afternoon.

at the hospital. Professional nursing personnel would not be required to take care of these individuals, so the day care program would provide an opportunity for volunteers to staff the operation.

THOMAS SAID THE garage and ambulance storage area will be extended to allow a free lane for emergency entrance by incoming ambulances.

"Presently, an ambulance has to be moved each time another town is transporting to our hospital, or the ambulance has to be backed in for unloading," she said. "The maintenance equipment can also be stored in this new addition."

Members of the Providence Medical Center Governing Board include: Felix Dorsey, Wayne; Mary Ann Christensen, Laurel; John Struve, Wayne; Kenneth Olds, Wayne; Denis Christensen, Pender; and Sister Kevin Hermesen, Sister Agnes Salber, Sister Anella Salber, Sister Gertrud Marie Wolfer, Sister Salvina Seufert and Sister Matilda Handl.

Connie has three children: Larry, who is an assistant manager for Cactus Feeders, Inc. in Texas; John of Linn Grove, Iowa who is a foreman for Brower Construction of Sioux City; and Mrs. David (Della) Rasmussen of Homer.

She anticipated a good crowd on Saturday to browse through the store and purchase some of the items drastically reduced in price. That was the day the Senior Citizens Center of Allen had their Farmer's Market.

The final days gave people the opportunity to take a trip down the store aisles that have been traveled by many — for that special item so rare to find.

HARVEST WITH SAFETY

We want to keep you as our most-valued customer

If you're planning the construction of any new storage bins, be sure to take the placement of existing power lines into account. For the best use of your farm space, storage bins are often erected along property lines. Again, that's just where the power lines usually are.

If you simply can't find adequate space to construct those bins away from power lines, why not contact your electric power supplier for some advice. Someone will be sent to your farm to survey your potential building sites and work with you in order to come to the best possible results. Your complete safety and comfort are primate concerns to your electric power supplier. We'll be happy to assist you in developing a safer farm. Harvest with safety and you'll continue to enjoy a productive life and a productive farm.

While harvesting, when you reach the end of your field and turn your equipment, there's a very good chance power lines will be nearby. Always be alert to power lines on your property lines.

Wakefield makes it six in a row

By Gregg Dahlheim
Sports Editor

It wasn't their best effort of the season but it didn't have to be as the Wakefield Lady Trojans upped their record to 4-0 with a two-set win over Hartington Tuesday night.

Wakefield Coach Paul Eaton said he was worried about the match against the Lady Wildcats. He said Hartington had been playing well lately. With the exception of two losses to Wynot, the Lady Wildcats were undefeated in three matches. Eaton said his team played extremely well in its last match against Wausa and usually teams don't perform that well two matches in a row.

But all worked out for the best as the Lady Trojans, rated fifth in Class C-2, recorded a straight-sets win by identical 15-8 scores.

The first set was tight throughout the early part of the game. Kodi Nelson gave Wakefield some breathing room when she broke open the game with six straight serving points to give the hosts a 14-7 lead. The teams exchanged points and Wakefield took the first set.

The second set was a different story. Hartington led by as many as 5-1 before Wakefield got going. Sophomore hitter Jill Herbolshelmer kept her team in the lead with her net play.

After a Wakefield timeout the hosts started their comeback. The Lady Trojans most reliable server, Mollie Greve, served three points and pulled Wakefield to within 5-4. Hartington rebuilt the lead to 8-6 before the Lady Trojans tied the game at 8-8. The hosts grabbed their first lead of the set at 9-8. From there Greve served five points and gave Wakefield a 14-8 lead. The Lady Trojans captured the next point and the match.

Nelson and Greve were Eaton's leading scorers with 10 points apiece. The Lady Trojans served 44-53 for 89 percent, well below their average. Greve missed her first serve of the season but still wound up 14-15. Nelson was 13-14 from the stripe. Karen Hallstrom was the top Wakefield spiker. The junior was successful on 10-13 hits with five aces. Lana Ekberg was 9-11 with a pair of aces, Julie Greve was 8-9 with an ace and Nelson was 7-9 with two aces. As a team Wakefield was 35-43 at the net.

The JV's also downed Hartington in two sets by scores of 15-1, 15-7. Eaton said he is happy that his team is still undefeated but he said the girls still need to improve.

Wakefield will take an eight-day break before traveling to Wynot Oct. 1. Two years ago the Lady Blue Devils broke a seven-game Wakefield winning streak. Eaton said this time his team will be ready.

Plott was credited with three unassisted and six assisted tackles. Plott had a quarterback sack and recovered two fumbles in the fourth quarter that set up the winning TD's in Wesleyan's 49-27 victory over Northwestern of Iowa.

Lady Blue Devil golfers win Stanton triangular

The Wayne Lady Blue Devil golf team traveled to Stanton Tuesday and captured a triangular against Stanton and Columbus Lakeview.

The locals posted a team score of 211 to win by six strokes over Lakeview. Stanton placed third with a 228. Holly Paige claimed top honors as she carded a nine-hole total of 49. Kari Snoozy of Lakeview finished second with a 50 and Ann Perry and Jill Jordan, both of Wayne, tied for third with scores of 52. Lakeview's Staci Leathers rounded out the top five in fifth with a 54. Wayne's Andrea Marsh finished the day with a round of 58.

Coach Dick Metteer said he was happy with the win. He said it was a good tune-up for Saturday's Wayne Invitational. The coach said his team is looking forward to competing against some of the top teams in the state at the meet. Metteer said in order to win the invitational a team will have to shoot as close to 400 as possible.

Teams participating at the Invitational are Columbus Lakeview, Columbus Scotus, Omaha Duchesne, Valley, Stanton, Norfolk, Elkhorn, Blair and Wayne. The meet will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the Wayne Country Club.

Sports Briefs

Kratke records ace

Marcia Kratke became the first woman to record a hole-in-one at the Logan Valley Golf Course when her three-iron shot on number three found the cup.

The event, which was witnessed by her son, Todd, occurred on Sept. 13. After searching for her ball around the green without success she spotted the ball in the bottom of the cup.

What made the shot even more remarkable was the fact that Kratke was hampered with a cast on her right foot.

FB winners named

Brenda Sunderman of Wayne was the winner of the first Wayne Herald football contest of the season.

Brenda tied with the second-place finisher, Helen Barner of Wayne, as each missed the Temple vs. Pittsburgh game. Temple upset the Panthers 24-21. But Ms. Sunderman came closest on the tiebreaker, which was total yards in the Southwest State vs. Wayne State game. Mrs. Barner guessed 550 yards, while the winner estimated 600 yards. The actual total yardage in the game was 784 yards.

The first-place prize is $50 in football bucks and second place is worth $20. Look in Monday's Herald for this week's contest. All entries are due no later than 5 p.m. Friday.

Junior high locals blanked by Pierce 28-0

The Wayne Junior High football team ran head on into a tough squad from Pierce Tuesday night losing for the second time this season.

The young Bluejays blanked the locals 28-0 behind halfback Chad Toelle. Toelle burned the Wayne defense for four touchdowns, the longest being a 51-yard run on the last play of the first period. Toelle got all of his yards to the outside as the Blue Devils did a good job of clogging up the middle, according to Coach Al Hansen.

Pierce put the game out of reach in the second half with three Toelle TD's. Hansen said his team played much better than it did in the opening loss to Norfolk Catholic.

Regg Carnes topped all Wayne ball carriers with 92 yards on 16 carries. Carnes was also on the receiving end of a 25-yard pass from Jim Murphy. John Murphy recorded a 35-yard kickoff return.

Shawn Powell and Carnes were the top tacklers on the Wayne defense with five and four respectively. Another defensive highlight came when Troy Kaup blocked a punt at the Pierce 26-yard line. But from there the Wayne offense stalled.

The junior high will be in search of its first win Oct. 6 when they host Schuyler in a 4:30 p.m. ballgame.

Lady Eagles blow by Beemer in two sets 15-4, 15-3

Allen got back on the right track and derailed Beemer Tuesday night in straight sets 15-4, 15-3.

The Lady Eagles were coming off a three-game stretch where they haven't played very well. Coach Gary Troth said its good to see his team back playing to its potential again.

Allen, 5-2, played a more aggressive style of volleyball, Troth said.

"We really got after the ball," he said. "We stayed on the offense and used our heads at the net."

The Lady Eagles hit 92 percent of their spikes, 35-38. Missy Martinson was 10-10 with four aces while Liz Hansen and Candace Jones were each 9-10. Jones had four ace hits and Hansen added three kills.

Troth said setters Amy Noe and Angie Jones were "awesome." The coach said the pair executed real well. Every set ball was hittable. Troth said. Noe was 15-15 and Jones 12-12 in sets. Allen hit 87 percent of its serves, 34-39. Leslie Isom and Lisa Boyle were each 7-7 with two aces while Noe and Candace Jones were both 7-8. Candace Jones was the leading scorer—with seven points. Boyle and Martinson each tallied six points.

In the preliminary matches Allen came up on the short end. The Allen JV's lost in two sets 14-16, 8-15 while the C team went down in three sets 1-11, 11-9, 9-11.

Next up for the Lady Eagles is the Newcastle Invitational Tournament. The tournament will be held on Monday and Tuesday. Allen received a first-round bye. The Lady Eagles will play the winner of the Wynot vs. Walthill match in the second round. Ponca, Newcastle and Homer round out the tourney field.

Blue Devil JV's dumped

The Wayne junior varsity dropped its second game of the season Monday when Pierce dumped the locals 21-6.

The only bright spot for the junior Blue Devils was a first quarter 75-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Mike Hillier. It brought Wayne to within one at 7-6. The junior Bluejays scored insurance touchdowns in the second and fourth quarters to ice the win.

Coach Ron Carnes said his defense played pretty well but several Wayne turnovers gave Pierce the ball deep in Wayne territory. Kip Mau was the leading tackler for Wayne with 10 stops. Adding eight tackles were Tim Loberg, Neil Carnes and Jess Thompson.

Carnes was also encouraged with the return of Corey Frye. The junior has bounced back from an ankle injury which has hobbled him since early in the season.

Wayne freshmen claim Norfolk tournament

The Wayne freshmen volleyball team returned from the Norfolk Junior High Invitational Saturday with the first-place trophy.

The Lady Blue Devils won three matches on their way to the championship. The locals downed Madison in the opening round, Elkhorn Valley in the second round and the Norfolk A squad in the finals. Pierce came back and finished third in the tournament.

Wayne downed the hosts in the final match by scores of 15-2, 15-13. Rachel Haase was the leading scorer with 11 points. Deanna Schluns and Teresa Bennett each tallied seven points. Jennifer Hammer was the top spiker with eight.

The Lady Blue Devils opened the tournament by clipping Madison in two sets 15-13, 15-11. Schluns led Wayne with 12 points. Amy Tiedtke added 11 in the winning cause. Hammer was again the top girl at the net with nine spikes, three going for aces.

Wayne got to the finals by tripping Elkhorn Valley in three sets. The locals won the first set 15-5 before dropping the second set 9-15. The Lady Blue Devils came back and took the third set 15-2. Haase scored 12, Bennett got nine and Schluns and Hammer each tallied seven points.

Wayne entered play with an 0-2 mark. Wayne Coach Jackie Day said the girls went into the tournament very confident. Day said they (the Wayne girls) thought they were going to win. The coach added it was the best her team played all season.

Nebraska Game & Parks

The first days of the archery deer season, which opened the morning of Sept. 15, should tell Game and Parks Commission biologists if the state's deer herd is experiencing significant losses from a cyclic disease.

The outbreak involves Epizootic Hemorrhagic Disease (EHD), or perhaps a closely related viral disease known as bluetongue. According to Dr. Gary Anderson, research pathologist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Department of Veterinary Science, EHD attacks mainly mule deer and prong-horned antelope. But EHD does not affect many, and there is no direct evidence of it harming domestic animals or other species of wildlife.

Dick Gersib, the Game and Parks Commission's Wildlife disease specialist, has received reports of about 60 deer found dead or dying by Sept. 14, which, compared to other years, is quite a high number for the period ahead of the archery season. Most of the reported deer mortality so far has taken place in northeast Nebraska and the eastern half of the Platte Valley.

When bowhunters report what they find in the fields and woods the first days of the season, biologists will then know much more about the magnitude of this year's EHD mortality. Although deer hunters might find fewer deer and lower success this fall, a big EHD outbreak would not bring about the closure of archery or firearm deer seasons, Gersib said.

EHD outbreaks appear to recur about every 10 years, with minor losses taking place in intervening years. A major outbreak occurred in 1974 through 1976, and deer die-offs in 1963-64 and 1953-55 now appear to have been from the same cause. In each case, there was no increase in related livestock disease.

EHD is spread by a biting gnât. The Game and Parks Commission usually begins receiving reports of dead deer the first part of September, not long after the peak of the insect population, and the outbreak ends with the first hard freeze.

The virus causes high fever and internal bleeding, which is often apparent at the mouth, nose and vent. Infected animals appear to have trouble breathing, lose their fear of man, and seek water, which is why, they are often found near ponds and streams.

Bowhunters should pass up animals exhibiting unusual behavior, not because the deer may have EHD, but because it might have something else. EHD virus is very sensitive, and would not survive cooking, but something else, perhaps a toxic substance that could be passed on through the venison, might be involved.

Gersib asks anyone finding a dead or sick deer to notify a Game and Parks Commission conservation officer or other Commission representative as soon as possible. It is particularly important if the animal is still alive, since biologists need blood and tissue samples from living animals for laboratory confirmation of EHD.

Winside upset hopes dashed by Wausa

Winside went into Wausa Tuesday night looking for an upset and nearly came away with one before the Lady Vikings rebounded for a tough three-set win over the Wildcats.

Wausa dropped the first set 6-15, then came back and took the last two games 15-6, 15-13 to claim its fourth win of the season against one loss.

Winside started off slowly but got fired up in a hurry in the opening set.

Winside Coach Jill Stenwall said her team played tough but the Wildcats' season long bug-a-boo, serve-receiving, reared its ugly head again. Stenwall said neither team did a good job of serve receiving. The Winside coach said her team spends a lot of time working on it in practice but the girls still come up short in match situations.

The Wildcats served well hitting 90 percent from the line. Ann Meierhenry was 17-18 with two aces, Kristy Miller was 10-10 and Tricia Hartman was 8-8. Meierhenry also paced the Wildcats in scoring with 12 points.

Winside got good play at the net against the Lady Vikings. The guests were 66-76 with 23 aces. Lori Jensen was the top hitter going 18-18 with four aces. Miller was 17-17 with a team-high 10 kills. Hartman added nine spikes while Meierhenry and Carmen Reeg each tallied eight spikes.

Stenwall said her blockers did a good job of slowing down Wausa's Laura Anderson. Stenwall said the Wildcats switched off with single, double and even triple blocks on the 5-11 senior. That frustrated her and caused her to hit several balls into the net or long.

The Winside JV's and C squad also lost at Wausa. The junior varsity was nipped in three sets 15-7, 7-15, 8-15. Junior Wendy Boldt was the top Winside scorer with 12 points. The C team was downed in three sets by scores of 11-6, 6-11, 8-11. Freshman Shannon Holdorf topped the Wildcats with nine points.

Winside, 3-4, has lost two in a row and three of its last four. The Wildcats will try to snap the streak tonight (Thursday) at Stanton.

REDUCING LOSSES DURING SOYBEAN HARVEST

Operating a combine so that soybean losses are minimal is very important. Harvesting losses of greater than 10 percent of total soybean yield are common in Nebraska. By harvesting at the right time with properly adjusted modern equipment, losses can be cut to 3 percent.

Harvest soybeans when they reach 13 percent moisture. This moisture content will give lower losses and better seed quality. Harvesting above 16 percent, without special drying management, will result in dockage at the elevator. Harvesting below 10 percent will result in high losses due to shattering and lodging.

Another consideration is that moisture content of soybeans can vary considerably from morning until afternoon.

Variations as large as 4 percent have been observed. Therefore harvest dry beans after a dew (early morning) or after a light rain. This will reduce the possibility of pod shatter at the header.

MORE THAN 80 percent of the machine losses are due to header losses.

- 1. Shattering the pods during cutting.
  - 2. Cutting the stalk but failure to convey the material into the combine.
  - 3. Failure of not cutting the stalk; this failure usually results from leaving pods on the stubble because they are lower than the cutter bar.
- These losses at the header can be reduced by the proper adjustment of the ground speed, height of the cutterbar, reel speed and reel height. Operate at a proper ground speed; a slow speed will cause shatter losses to increase. A fast speed will cause problems of overfeeding and poor control of header height. Field studies show 3.0 to 3.5 mph is optimum for straight combining beans.
- Cutting soybeans at the correct height can reduce header losses. Keep the cutterbar as low as possible to get those pods low on the stalk. Watch and keep the cutterbar from rocks, soil and other debris. Sharp knives also will keep from shaking the plants.
- The reel speed and height are two important adjustments.

The proper reel speed should be about 25 percent faster than the combines forward travel speed. This speed will push the plants into the cutterbar and header with minor stripping of pods. As a rule of thumb for a 42-inch diameter reel, use 11 RPM for each one mph of ground speed. The height of the reel should be adjusted so that the bats or fingers leave the plants just as they are cut.

Most importantly, check harvesting losses.

TO ESTIMATE harvest loss, count the beans in a square foot area: a count of four beans equals a loss of one bushel per acre. If the observation is less than one bushel per acre, the combine is adjusted properly; don't expect zero losses. If the losses are greater, take the time to investigate and properly adjust the combine.

An alert operator that understands the sources and causes of soybean losses as well as the adjustments needed to correct these losses will get the most out of the field.
