in Oct. of 1929, the bold headlines read "Wall St. Lays an Egg."

The lead paragraph of the article read: "The most dramatic event of financial history of America is the collapse of the New York Stock Market. The stage was Wall Street, but the ontookers covered the country. Estimates are that 22 million people were in the market at that time.
"Tragedy, despair and ruination."

Tragedy, despair and ruination rayeuy, despair and rollation spell the story of countless thousands of marginal stock traders. Reports of names in show business losing as much as $300,000 is not hearsay. One caustic comment to that was that the theatre is enough of a gamble without its people to venture into Wall street."

In a single day that October in 1929, 16 million shares were sold off. In the continuing selling panic, stock values dropped some $150 billion by the end of the year. By mid 1932, stock losses increased to about 75 billion. The nation was later able to get out of the Depression.

ON MONDAY of this week, the stock market created uneasy situa-tions for many as the Dow Jones average plunged 24 percent below Friday's level — an percentage greater than that "Black Monday" of

She advises those who are con-

Public radio features Wayne

Somebody in Wayne will be getting a phone call between 11:30 and noon on Saturday, Oct. 24.

All because of a throw of a dart.

The Wayne Herald learned Mon-day that a public radio station in Madison, Wisconsin will be featuring Wayne on its broadcast of "Whad" Ya Know?" hosted by producer Michael associate producer at the Wisconsin public radio station, the format of the show is to have a person from the studio audience throw a dart at a 3 foot by 5 foot map of the United States sometime during the two hour "Whad" Ya Know" broadcast. Last "Whad' Ya Know" broadcast. Last week, a young lad who goes by J.J. threw the dart right at Wayne,

"Where the dart falls, that town gets saluted," said Packard.

THE ENTIRE show begins Oct. 24 at 10 a.m. and ends at noon. The Wayne segment will be on the air bet wen 11:30 and noon, sandwiched between the "Whad' Ya Know" quiz contest and a number by house pianist John Thulin.

Wayne will be saluted through a brief report on the community's origins and what has been developing in the community recently, and the mentioning of the unique features which exist in the community today, according to Packard.

The show's host, Feldman, will then ask the audience for a letter for a last name. He selects a name and places a phone call to that Wayne person. "If he doesn't find anyone at home, he goes on to another call. He'll go until someone who answers is willing to talk," said Packard.

Gifts will also be provided to the person that receives the phone call Remick home among tour stops SUNDAY'S HISTORICAL tour of three Wayne homes, the Presbyterian Church, Wayne County Courthouse and Ley Home Museum was labeled a success by the tour organizers. There were 963 tickets purchased for the event, drawing people from California, New York, Missouri, Colorado-lowa: South Dakota, Omaha and Lincoln and even China. Ticket sales and a donation raised $5,000 for renovation and repair of the museum. Plans are to have another home tour next year, possibly expanding the list outside of Wayne and into homes in Wayne County. The event was sponsored by the Wayne County Historical Society and Questors.

Sad situation

SOMETIMES, THE SIRENS of the fire engines and the hustle and bustle of people at the scene of a blaze can be a traumatic event even for the family pet, as was the case Tuesday afternoon when a hog barn burned to the ground at the Jim Youngmeyer residence about 8½ miles south of Wayne. Nine sows and approximately 50 to 60 little pigs perished in the fire. Wayne fireman Bob Stanley comforts Queenie, the Youngmeyer pet boxer, during a break from fighting the fire.

Council approves pay increase

A salary package increase of around 3 percent for full-time nonprobationary city employees was ap-proved last week by a 7-1 vote of the Wayne City Council.

Councilman Randy Pedersen voted against the salary increase.

'On the average, it was a 2.9 to 3 percent increase," said ministrator Phil Kloster. said City Ad

The package covers approximately 40 full-time employees throughout city's various departments, including administration Increases ranged from 7 percent for an individual in the utilities department to 1.5 percent in the general fund area.

Kloster said the package increase will cost the city approximately $23,000. Of that amount, $10,000 will be taken from the general fund while the rest will be taken out of the utilities funding.

He said the increases annear to be in line with other entitles who have made salary adjustments, and in most cases would have been less than what the cost of living has run.

The council, he said, was fair yet prudent with the funds that were available.

Much has been written on the recent-post-season success of the Minnesota Twins. After all, Jt's been since 1965 when the team composed of heavy hitters like Harmon Killibrew. Tony Oliva; swift infielders like Zoilo Versailles; pitchers like Camillo Pascual, Jim Mudcap Grant and lefty pitcher Jim Kaat, nudged their way into a World Series.

J. was 11 years old then—that ripe young age when baseball-players were heroes and the summer just wasn't long enough.

I've always been a true Twin fan—more so when the games-were played under natural conditions in the playing field at Bloomington, Minnesota (Minneapolis suburb) rather than under the big bubble called the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome, where, instead of once losing the baseball in the sun, it now gets lost in the lights.

Growing up in a dominantly rural area just south of the Minnesota border in northeast lowa. Twins game tickets were not easy to come by for farm lads (like myself). It was important for money to be spent on non-luxury items like food or machinery parts. And indeed, going to a Twins game was a privilege looked upon with envy.

We were comforted that the play-by-play could be heard on at least two radio stations in our area, and occasionally, a televised game would come over KROC in Rochester, Minnesota. I'd listen to it while milking the cows, or on a Sunday afternoon while playing a sandlot baseball game.

AND I, LIKE most of my other friends which followed the games

AND i. LIKE most of my other friends which followed the games, could hardly wait to read an account of the game as translated in a daily newspaper. Almost always, our "summer" conversation always seemed to start with: "Hey, how about them Twins."

My fondness of the Twins was nurtured by the Knights of Columbus organization. They made it possible for young people in our rural area, who normally couldn't afford the admission fee to a game, to take that two-hour drive up north to Metropolitan Stadium. On that day, the Twins organization would sponsor a hitting clinic before the game.

Twice, as a lad on the Knights of Columbus excursions. I watched from the left field bleachers at Metropolitan Stadium and commented: "This is sure much better than listening on the radio or watching felevision."

And I know my parents would have liked to be there also, but they couldn't get away from the tedious work that befell them on game day.

METROPOLITAN Stadium was a pretty park, although it had no notoriety like Fenway, Wrigley Field, Candlestick Park, Comiskey Park, Shea Stadium, Yankee or Tiger Stadiums. Years later, I went as a chaperone on the Knights of Columbus bus that

Years later, I went as a chaperone on the Knights of Columbus bus that transported youths to the games. And I became a kid with them, again captured by the buzzing and electricity of professional baseball. Most memorable moments during my trips to Metropolitan Stadium included Tony Oliva smacking one out of the park, helping the Twins get a win just as sprinkles were coming from the heavens above; and later in the 60's, when I got a rare opportunity to get an autograph from Rod Carew, who was the 1967 Rookie of the Year in the American League. In 1965, the Twins lost to the Los Angeles Dodgers (against the mighty Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale), four games to three. Twins shortstop Zoilo Versalles finished as the league's most valuable player. They were led to the series by Coach Sam Mete.

Other Twins who stand out in my memory are Bob Allison, Rich

Collins, Al Worthington, Earl Battey, Jim Perry, Dean Chance, Dave Boswell and Managers Cal Ermer, Billy Martin, Bill Rigney, Now, Manager Tom Kelly, one of the league's youngest managers, has a young group of go-getters by the names of Gagne, Hrbek and Gaetti, Reardon, Brunanski, Gladden and Puckett — names that certainly go hand-in-hand with a modern complex like the Metrodome

THOSE TRIPS to Metropolitan Stadium, were enough memories to last long during summers filled with routine chores, hay bailing, harvesting and other jobs on the farm. The Twins cultivated my interest, each and every season.

Those memories of the baseball summers of old—recalling the few times of a lifetime in seeing the Twins play at Metropolitan Stadium—still are around and difficult to dismiss, even though I haven't been "as loyal" over the past years because of distance from the Twin Citles. But each year this country boy looks at the pre-season scouting reports to see where they Twins are picked to place, and approach the season

Déjà vu strikes again for Cats

For a fleeting second Saturday afternoon it appeared that Wayne State was about to pull off one of the bigger upsets of the year in the atternoon it appeared mar wayne State was about to pull off one of the bigger upsets of the year in the NAIA.

Then it happened. A 46-yard reception with nine seconds left followed by a five yard-touchdown pass with just three ticks on the clock to give the lcabods a 29-25 win on homecoming day at Wayne State.

It marked the second time in amany games that the Cats have led late in the final period only to lose in the waning seconds. The loss dropped the Cats to 0-6-1, 0-3-1 in the CSIC.

The Icabods upped their mark to 4-3, 3-0-in conference play.

The Cats posted a 17-0 first-quarter lead and the upset appeared to be in order. The locals still led at intermission by a 17-7 count. Wayne State made it 19-7 after three quarters before being outscored 22-6 in the final period.

Lady Trojans not sharp in victory

It wasn't pretty but when you're 12-0'not all of them can be.

Wakefield remained undefeated by taking Bancroft-Rosalie in two games 15-8, 15-2 on Parents Night Tuesday evening. The Lady Trojans, ranked third in Class C-2, played the game without their leading spiker, senior Kodi Nelson. Nelson suffered a senior Kodi Nelson. Nelson suffered a severely sprained ankle last Friday in practice. She will miss Thursday's match against Emerson-Hubbard and is still questionable for the Lewis and Clark Conference Tournament set to begin Monday.

Wakefield's starting lineup was broken up for the first time this season, according to Coach Paul Eaton.

"We subbed a lot of girls tonight," Eaton said. "It hurts when you lose your hammer hitter." Lana Ekberg and Jessica Robins, Lana Ekberg and Jessica Robins, who started in place of Nelson, took up the slack. Ekberg, a senior was 8-10 with four aces and Robins, a sophomore, finished 10-13 with five kills. Fellow sophomore Julie Greve hit 14-16 spikes. As a team, Wakefield was 42-52 with 13 ace hilts. In the first set Wakefield led by as many as nine points, at 10-1. The Lady Trojans gradually let the Lady Panthers back into the game. Bancroft-Rosalie cut the lead to 10-5 and 12-7 before the hosts won the first game when Karen Hallstrom's serve couldn't be returned.

In the second set Wakefield again jumped to a big lead early in the game. The Lady Trojans scored five points before the guests got on the board. Bancroft-Rosalie missed board. Bancrott-Kosalie missed many serves in the first part of the game allowing Wakefield to stay on offense. The Lady Trojans led 14-1 with the serve but allowed the Lady Panthers to get their second point after a side out. Cathi Larson won the game when her served couldn't be returned.

Hallstrom and Tricia Schwarten were the leading scorers with six points apiece. Molli Greve added five in the winning cause. Schwarten was also the leading server hitting 9-11 with four aces. Hallstrom was 8-8 and with four aces. Hallstrom was 8-8 and Susan Nurenberger, seeing her first extensive varsity action of the season, was perfect on her eight serves. The Lady Trojans hit 88 percent from the serving stripe, 46-52. Schwarten was 25-25 setting the ball with five set assists and 26-28 in the passing department passing department.

The Wakefield junior varsity won the opening match of the evening in three sets 15-12, 8-15, 15-2.

Concerning state legislation

NACI discusses issues

Key past state legislative actions. Key past state legislative actions, and those issues which will likely be decided in the 1988 meeting of the Nebraska Legislature, were discussed recently during a Wayne forum at the Black Knight hosted by the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry, Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and Wayne Kiwanis

Present at the forum were Jack Swartz, president of the Nebraska Swartz, president of the Nebraska Association of Commerce and In-dustry (NACI): Dan Vodvarka, staff vice-president of NACI; District 17 Senator Gerald Conway of Wayne; and Stephen Frayser, deputy director with the Nebraska Department of Economic Development.

"Last legislative session, the thrust was on economic develop-ment," said Swartz.

He mentioned the package of legislative bills enacted which deal with the economic development of Nebraska. The first he mentioned was LB 270, a bill that would give tax credits to those business that would start up new, or expand, in Nebraska. Qualifying businesses would have to create at least two new jobs and invest $100,000 in business facilities to gain the tax credits.

SWARTZ said LB 775 has received most of the media attention this year. A qualified business that creates 30 or more new jobs and that invests at least $3 million or more in business facilities is eligible for: a refund of all sales tax on depreciable property purchased in connection with the business; an election to immediately use the sales only factor or use the phase in provision under the revised corporate unitary tax law in computing income attributable to Nebraska; an employment creation income tax credit of 5 percent of the payroll of the new jobs created, for seven consecutive years; and a 10 percent investment tax credit on investments on depreciable property at

"We are losing some of our best and brightest," said Frayser. He said diversification will also play a large role in the future of Nebraska. On LB 775, Frayser said the state could be offering the best incentive package in the world, but industries still might not choose the state. "Any one thing can keep the state from being a competitor." Frayser said. However, the passed legislation reveals that Nebraska's attitudes and opportunities show that the state

"is a serious contender and a player to be considered."

Success breeds success, Frayser, adding that the total $1 billion in investments proposed will

"get people's attention."

Just in northeast Nebraska, the investment for economic development, through LB 775, will bring on at least 1,000 new jobs.

Frayser also promoted "Celebrate Nebraska '88", a year long series of events throughout Nebraska celebrating both the state's heritage and future. The promotion will renew a strong sense of state and communiy pride; increase tourism revenues o the state and communities tourism is Nebraska's third largest industry); and build awareness of Nebraska's business climate.

Those in attendance at the forum were asked opinions on education funding of public schools and colleges; sales tax rebate for existing business that purchase new equip-ment and machinery to retain cur-rent jobs; labor relations dealing with comparable worth, health in-surance and worker's compensation; economic development dealing with Initiative 300 and economic priorities; and tort reform, primary ballots and state superfund.

Grave marker designed

A grave marker designed by a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity at /ayne State College has been accepted by the national office for use by all KE members.

The grave marker is now available to any TKE member in the nation. Mike McMorrow of Wayne State's Lambda Chi chapter designed the marker after Paul Campbell, the chapter adviser, presented the idea. Two weeks later, McMorrow's design was on its way to the International TKE headquarters in

After the initial acceptance of the design, the international office could not find a foundry to produce the grave marker, That's when Wayne State alum John Krebsbach of Lincoln stepped in and found a company in Kansas to produce the grave markers

"The idea came about because basically you're in the fraternity for life," id McMorrow. "Its a way of honoring the deceased and gives national cognition to us."

Joel E. Johnson, Past Grand Prytanis of Tau Kappa Epsilon, was in Wayne

Oct. 3 to accept the grave marker and attend the ceremony unveiling the marker on the gravestone of Norman Brown, a Wayne State TKE who died in 1981. Brown was a Wayne native who died in a motorcycle accident in June of 1981 near Richland.

SAMPLE SOIL NOW FOR FERTILIZER NEEDS By sampling your fields now for phosphorous, polassium, pH and residual not person to the property of time to make fertilizer decisions this winter.

To make the most profitable use of your fertilizer dollars, you need to know what soil levels are for each potentially limiting nutrient. Soil testing helps you determine which nutrients may be deficient, as well as which are already in good supply.

Testing in the fall can avoid delays in the spring due to peak loads on soil testing laboratories, and the difficulties involved in finding time and proper soil conditions to take soil samples.

Many farm operations hire extra help. Sometimes these helpers may sit in a truck waiting for the next load of grain to haul. Having hired hands take a soil sample will increase efficiency by getting a jump on next year's work and by making heter use of personnel.

sample will increase efficiency by getting a jump on next year's work and by making better use of personnel.
Follow these rules for sampling:
• First, have a sturdy plastic pail and a sampling instrument. You can use a soil probe, but a tile spade will do. Split each field into areas of about 20-30 acres. Take 15-20 samples 0-8 inches deep and put them into the pail. Deeper samples will be needed for residual nitrogen.
• After the 15-20 samples are in the pail, mix the sample thoroughly, and put about a pint of soil in a small paper bag or soil sample box. If wet samples are going to be saved, air dry them in a protected, dust free area of the garage or shop. For them to dry properly, keep the bag or box open or spread each sample on a flat grocery store bag.
• Remember to draw a map of the field, and mark the map and bag with the same code.

Dysmenorrhea Relief

One of the most effective treatments for the pain associated with primary dysmenorrhea, commonly known as menstrual cramps, is with a group of agents referred to as the nonsteroidal antiinflammatory drugs (NSAIDs).

The NSAIDs are thought to minimize the symptoms associated with dysmonorrhea through a direct suppression of the release of substances in the body known as prostaglandins, specifically, prostaglandin F-2 alpha and prostaglandin E-2. These prostaglandins sensitize certain receptors in the body to pain. Blood concentrations of prostaglandins have been found to decrease when the NSAIDs are administered. Some researchers have found that as high as 90 percent of the women studied reported a reduction in menstrual cramps when properly treated with one of the NSAIDs.

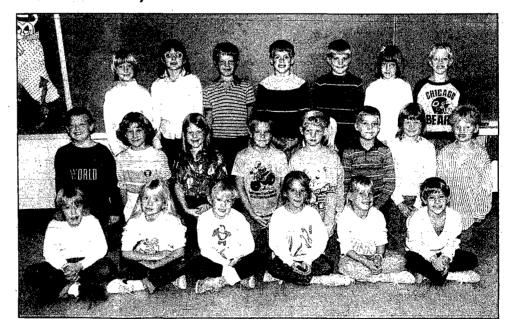

The generic names for some of the commonly used NSAIDs are ibuprofen, naproxen, and mefanamic acid. These drugs are also often used for other conditions such as headache and rheumatoid arthritis. Sometimes the dose required for the symptoms of dysmenorrhea is higher than the dose needed in other Ibuprofen is the only NSAID available over the counter. The other products mentioned are available on prescription only.

Today, we know there are two types of sexual impotence: physical impotence and psychological impotence. When a man faces a sexual crisis, his partner suffers, too.

Now St. Luke's offers a free and confidential educational program to help men and women understand impotency and the methods of treatment available.

Our next program will be held in the Dakota Room at St. Luke's from 7:00 until > Tuesday, October 27 "Understanding Impotency and Treatment Alternatives'

We encourage you to call for seating reservations, however, you are welcome without pre-registration.
