The State Supreme Court earlier upheld the -conviction of Lewis Ashker, also of Wayne, in the murder of Plihal, who was found dead at his home. An autopsy showed he was Novaock and Ashker were convicted of first degree murder in separate trials and were sentenced to life in prison without parole.

NOVAOCK HAD contended that in sufficient evidence existed linking him to Plihal's death.

He argued he was not reliably iden tified as having been in Delmont with Ashker in June, pointing out that some witnesses at his trial said they saw him in a green pickup and others

According to an Associated Press news release, the Supreme Court said it was reasonable for a jury to believe that Novaeck was in Delmont with Ashker at the time of Plihal's death and that Ashker's pickup was damaged in a collision with a ctothesline pole in Plihal's back yard. The justices observed that a ball point pen from a bank in Wayne also vas found on the ground near the

THE JUSTICES said a jury could reasonably believe it was more than coincidence that Novaock would coincidence that Novaock would drive many miles to visit a small, out-of-the-way town he had not lived in for a year on the same night that a local resident and former neighbor was robbed and murdered.

Novaock was a former Delmont resident and neighbor of Plihai.

The Supreme Court said testimony of a pathologist at Novaock's trial could create the conclusion that more than one person inflicted Plihal's wounds, adding that the evidence in-dicates Novaock was "more than a passive bystander."

Students wheel and deal on the stock market

By Gregg Dahlheim

What does a small group of York Stock Exchange have in common? More than you would imagine. are participating in a national competition that involves the stock

KEEPING UP with the stock market news has become almost a daily ritual for these Laurel-Concord students as they compete in national competition. These students are now planning their next strategy. Seated from left are Chris Ebmeier, Randy Sherry, Jennifer Lipp, Heather Thomas and Emily McBride, Standing are Jessie Monson and Amy Adkins.

The competition is a 10-week program in which small groups of students buy and sell stocks. The students start with $100,000. They can invest in any stock they wish as long as they purchase at least 100 shares. Then the students decide what they will do with their stocks on a weekly basis. Records are kept and a weekly stock portfolio is sent to the teams to show how they are doing.

This is the first year the program has been offered statewide in Nebraska. Currently 246 teams from 96 schools from across the state are participating in the competition.

Clark said the Nebraska contingen cy is very small compared to p ticipation nationwide. He said thinks the concept will grow and he hopes to increase the number of teams from three, which he has this

Other schools participating in the competition from Northeast Nebraska are Leigh, Crofton, Bancroft-Rosalie, West Point, Humphrey Humphrey phrey, Humphrey St. Francis, Tekamah-Herman, Battle Creek, Neligh, Wausa, Howells, L Decatur Northeast and Albion.

The program is being made available through the Nebraska Council on Economic Education and the economics department at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, The program is in part financed by BLN-Investment Corp., Kilpatrick, Petis, Smith, Polian Inc. and Central States District Securities Industrial Association.

Clark said the students generally buy the more popular stocks. Broadcasting System (CBS) are a few of the favorites.

After the first two weeks the Laurel teams weren't faring too well. Of the two market portfolios that were available, one had lost $5,800 and the other was down $8,910. But the other was down $8,910. But the groups have eight weeks to make up their losses.

Team 1 consists of Arny Adkins, Jessie Monson, Emily Jessie Monson, Emily McBride, Heather Thomas and Sherri Mc Corkindale. Team 2 is made up of Curt Curry, Becky Stanley, Chris Ebmeler, Jennifer-Lipp and Mike Freeman. Chad VanCleave, Matt Felber, Randy Sherry, Jason Berg and Kelly Daberkow make up team three

As you could imagine the drastic

As you could imagine the drastic drop in the market Monday left many of the students in a state of frenzy. "Monday's fall brought a lot of questions." Clark sald. "They wondered if they lost all their money. It made them aware."

Clark said he is also learning from the competition. He said if the pro-gram becomes popular enough he hopes to include it as a regular class

Currently the groups plan their strategy for the upcoming week before and after school.

There may not be a famous Wall Street trader come from this group but they will be more knowledgeable for their efforts.

October is...
October is the month for falling leaves, apples, trick or treaters and popcorn.
Combine the last three Items and you have what you need for a happy Halloween.

Trick or treating has become a popular custom for children on Halloween. It can also be fun for morn and dad. Consider escorting your younger children or helping older children make a list of homes to visit. By concentrating on who you will see at each home, some of the emphasis on candy_can be reduced. Help your child learn a trick or perform in return for a treat. Young children might enjoy doing a finger play or rectiting a simple poem. Older trick or treaters can perform a magic trick or some type of acrobatic feat.

Many times the trick can be identifying the youngster in costume. Make sure children can see out of masks or costumes. The excitement of trick or treating combined with dark sidewalks can lead to trips and falls.

WHETHER YOU ARE welcoming trick or treaters to your door or planning a Halloween get-together at home, the following recipes can help provide tasty

Apple Oatmeal Cookies 1/2 cup margarine, softened

1/2 cup honey

½ cup honey
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup unsifted whole wheat flour
½ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon coda
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
1 medium-size apple, chopped fine
1½ cüps uncooked oats
Beat margarine, honey, egg and vanilla together. Mix flour, soda and cinnamon together. Add to egg mixture. Add apple; mix well. Stir in oats. Drop spoonfuls onto a well greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes.
Makes approximately four dozen cookies. You can add other fruits such as bananas, cherries, etc.

Popcorn bars

1 cup sugar

1 cup sugar
½ cup fight corn syrup
½ cup dark corn syrup
1 cup chunky peanut butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups salted peanuts
6 cups popped corn, lightly salted
In heavy pan combine sugar and syrup. Bring just to a boil, move from heat and add peanut butter and vanilla. Stir till smooth. Mix the popcorn and peanuts, then pour the syrup mixture over them. Pour into a 9 x 13 pan that has been greased. Pat down well.
