Asbestos is a fibrous material used for making fireproof articles. It is known to cause asbestosis, a lung condition caused by the inhalation of asbestos dust

The U.S. Congress passed, in 1986, the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act (AHERA) which mandated the Environmental Protection Agency to establish rules and guidelines (by October, 1988) for all schools (K-12, K-8. Class VI, home schools, private schools, Christian Schools) to assess, abate and control the asbestos-containing materials in their facilities

By October, 1988 the schools must perform an in-depth assessment study of each school facility (by an accredited inspector); have samples laboratory; file-a report of the study outlining the locations of the materials; notify staff, parent and teacher organizations as to the results of the study; and write a comprehensive management plan detail-ing the response action to be taken for each material in that school's

Mash excited about WSC

"I am confident that I can do what is required to help Wayne State Col-lege move along in the direction of a well established and comprehensive college," said Mash, age 45 and currently excutive vice president for Administration at George Mason

University in Fairfax, Virginia.

Mash said that he recently spent 11/2 days in Wayne meeting with college officials and members of the community. His initial perception of

That management plan must be implemented by July, 1989, according to Wayne-Carroll Superintendent Francis Haun.

ALL OF THESE required pract ices will, lead to the expense of thousands of dollars carried by the school district. And in Wayne-Carroli's situation, the district will be paying for inspections that, based on previous inspections, show little or no roblems with asbestos in the

"The old rule was that the superintendent and custodian would walk through the buildings and if have it tested. If it proved positive, then the asbestos would be cap-sulated or removed," said Haun. "Now the law requires contracting with certified asbestos inspectors," he said. "And Nebraska doesn't have wey many of them."

Most recent inspections for asbestos at the Wayne-Carroll schools occurred in 1983 and 1986. A laboratory did the testing in 1983, and the Environmental Protection Agen cy tested the facilities again in 1986. In both instances, assets posed no significant problem in the district buildings, according to Haun. Friable asbestos, meaning areas where ashestos crumbled and had the potential to disseminate into the was researched in the 1983 in spection.

'Asbestos inspections in 1988 will look for and identify all tiles, walls and pipes," said Haun.

Thus far, Haun said he has contacted three firms (from Columbus, Nebraska; Anoka, Minnesota; and Sioux Falls, South Dakota) that can supply certified asbestos inspectors. The Wayne Carroll Board of Education will meet to make the choice of who will do the inspection work. The Nebraska State Department of Health will oversee the licensing of the asbestos inspectors, according to

Judging from one of the asbestos inspector contacts that Haun made, the cost for the inspection could run 8 cents a square foot

Wayne-Carroll's high school covers approximately 72,000 square feet, so the cost of the inspection would be around $5,800. Add on another $3,200 for Wayne Elementary and the total inspection cost could exceed $11,500, according to square footage figures mentioned by Haun.

Haun said he doesn't anticipate asbestos abatement to be a high cost factor. The brunt of the expense from the new regulations should come inspection and management to control asbestos in the plans to buildings Haun said the high school contains a minute amount of asbestos. Middle School has asbestos in the boiler room — on the pipes and boiler itself. Neither are friable," he said.

THE ELEMENTARY school, he said, "has a small amount, if any, in the boiler room."

The Wayne Lady Blue Devils dropped its season record to 9-5, after losing to visiting LeMars lowa, 46-41 Monday night.

"Overall, I thought this was our best effort since Christmas," Uhing said. "We executed our offense just like we diagram it in practice.

Uhing did note that what cost her team the victory was rather poor free throw shooting. The Blue Devils only connected on 5-17 attempts, compared to 11-20 for LeMars.

Wayne also did a good job on handling the ball, suffering only 11 turnovers for the night.
"LeMars was physically the most talented feam we have faced this year," Uning said. "That doesn't mean they played as hard as Hartington Cedar Catholic, but the physical talent belongs to LeMars."

As mentioned earlier, the Blue Devils started off slowly. In fact, very slowly. With just under a minute remaining in the opening quarter, Dana Nelson stole the ball from the visitors and raced down the court and scored Wayne's only bucket of the first quarter.

Ironically enough, Wayne may have been in a scoring slump, but its defense was stiff, only allowing eight —teMars points, to only trail by six after one.

Unfortunately, Wayne never over-came that lead. They had a chance to tie the game in the fourth quarter but missed the shot, and then they were forced to foul, and LeMars hit its free throws down the stretch.

Uhing said her squad felt good

Uhing also noted the key ptay off-senior Marnie Bruggemann. "Even though Marnie isn't scoring a lot of points, her presence is important," Uhing said.

Bruggemann is Wayne's board crasher. She excels inside the paint, and is never short of hustle after a loose ball. Although Bruggemann only stands 5'4, more often than not she'll come out of a scramble for the ball situation standing ten feet tall. ## Wayne State defeats rated Emporia

Sports Editor
The Wayne State Wildcats came up winners in two of the three home games played during action this past eek. Last Friday, the returning national champions Washburn came to Wayne State. Currently the Ichabods of Washburn are rated seventh in the nation with a 17-2 record.

However, the Wildcats seemed unfittimidated by the highly talented Ichabods, and gave the visitors a tussle to the end, losing 75-68.

Wayne State Head Coach Steve Ag gers noted that Washburn is probably the best team his squad has faced so far this season.

"I think Washburn is a very intelligent ball club," Aggers said. "I really feel that they are the best team we've played." Aggers was quick to point out that Fort Hays State has a really strong team, but that its in-dividual talents stand out more than the team efforts

Never the less Aggers' team battled and—competed on high level against the previous champions. "You have to remember that Washburn had its returning point guard and center from a year ago, and that's a good nucleus to build the rest of the team around," Aggers rest of the team around," Aggers

Obviously the visitors were due to get beat, and Wayne State supplied the fire power to get it done.

Allen Head Coach Gary Troth felt

his team's success in the first round of the Lewis & Clark tournament

Revenge could have been the motivating factor behind Winside's first round conference win over Coleridge Saturday night in Winside.

Fleck deserves praise

Saturday's announcement of who will be recommended to the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges as the next president of Wayne State College — Dr. Donald Mash from George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia — was made with reference to the commendable work of Dr. Joseph Fleck as interim president.

He is certainly deserving of the compliments.

Dr. Fleck has moved Wayne State College during this transition period and "his cooperation and guidance are invaluable," said Pete Kotsiopulos, chairman of the state college board of trustees.

Dr. Fleck came on board as interim president at a time when faculty relations and public relations at Wayne State were strained. He was named to the position in April, 1987 following the resignation of Dr. Thomas Coffey, who had received no confidence votes from a large number of faculty members at Wayne State.

Immediately, Dr. Fleck stressed the importance of moving the college in a positive direction, eliminating any perceptions of "institutional drift."

Because his title is "interim" president, he cannot be confused as an individual serving a "caretaker's position."

Dr. Fleck has taken charge, but not to the point of being overly domineering in his position.

He has followed through with his goals that included working together to assist the college in moving forward in positive ways; establishing a confidence in the decisions that guide the college; and pursuing aggressive public relations on behalf of Wayne State. His most recent endeavor is trying to persuade legislatures to fully fund, at the tune of $1.3 million, the removal of asbestos on three college campus buildings. His concern about the health of faculty, students, and administration personnel is characteristic of the leadership which Dr. Fleck has shown during the past nine months.

His caring attitude and his willingness to listen is a quality that is admired among the college and Wayne business community.

And we are confident that those traits by Dr. Fleck will continue to be displayed until his interim presidential post

ON TUESDAY, Dr. Fleck said the asbestos removal $1.3 million request was made on Monday, along with several other requests concerning Wayne State, to the Nebraska Legislature's appropriation commit-tee. Governor Kay Orr, in her propos ed budget, had asked that $538,000 be appropriated for the asbestos removal project.

However, Dr. Fleck pointed out that the three buildings on campus are basically "equal in terms of hazards" and all three should be dealt with in regard to the asbestos Asbestos removal at Wayne State College was approved, if the funding was available, by the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State College, said he will be working in the four months to make the presidential change a smooth transi

"And I will be working with Dr. Mash on those issues that extend beyond that four month period," Fleck said.

Some items have long range implications and Fleck said he will apprise Dr. Mash so that he knows about the situations when coming aboard as president

Some of those issues include the athletic conference changeover and searching for a Vice President for Finance at Wayne State College.

TIRE TIPS

WHEEL MISALIGNMENT IS THE LEADING CAUSE OF PREMATURE TIRE WEAR.

It can be extra hard on the new, wider radials. And if your car has independent rear suspension, the rear wheels may need realignment, too.

The signs of misalignment are easy to spot. The tire treads could be scuffed, worn down, and in the worst cases almost nonexistent on the outer or inner edges

Problem is, by the time you see those signs it's probably too late to sa te tire. What's really needed is a periodic check-up to make sure your sheels are in line.

We can do that for you, quickly and accurately, with our FMC computerized four wheel alignment equipment. So, save your tires, and your money. See us soon

HOW TO EAT BETTER THAN MOST AMERICANS

There is more information about nutrition available today than ever before, but most Americans still don't eat very well. With only a little effort, you and your family can do much better.

your family can do much better.

A recent survey of American habits show the following rather dismal trends:

White bread and crackers are the number one source of calories, followed closely by doughnuts and cookies. Along with soft drinks, these nutritionally empty foods provide about one-third of the carbohydrates Americans consume.

Do it better by substituting whole-grain breads and crackers for the nearlyempty calories of the white variety. Even enriched white breads don't have as many nutrients as whole-grain ones, and they have almost no fiber. Bake your own cookies and other goodies, using whole grain flour, vegetable shortening and natural sweeteners such as honey or molasses. Better still, use fruit, nuts and popcorn for snacks.

• More than twice as many people drink whole milk as drink low-fat or skim milk.

Most people — including most children — need to cut back on their consumption of fats. Try switching to low- or no-fat dairy products. If skim milk tastes like polluted water to you, make the switch by mixing skim and whole milk, gradually increasing the proportion of skim. Look for low-fat or no-fat versions of cottage cheese, yogurt and other dairy products as well — often, you can't tell their taste from the fat-laden kind.

tell their taste from the faf-laden kind.

• Ground beef is the major contributor of fats, including damaging saturated fais. Hot dogs and luncheon meats are the most frequently consumed meat products, and are the prime source of sodium and the second most important sources of fat.

Most Americans need to reduce their consumption of sodium, as well as of fat. Choose the leanest cuts of beef and other meats, and increase the amount of poultry and fish in the diet. If you or your children carry lunch to work or school, limit processed meat sandwiches to once or twice a week, at most, and substitute chicken, turkey or water-packed funa the rest of the time. When you opt for burgers, choose the leanest grade of ground beef. It if doesn't seem moist enough when cooked, added a grated potato or other grated vegetables to the mixture for added nutrients as well as moisture.

• Alcohol is the third leading source of calories for Americans.

By treating alcohol with respect, limiting yourself to a glass or two of wine or an occasional beer, you will eliminate empty calories from your diet. You will also set a good example for your children — and that's important, because alcohol abuse is a growing problem among children as young as eight years old.

old.

As you can see, it doesn't take much to lift diet far above the national norm.

To improve it even more:

• Eat more complex carbohydrates, such as whole grains (in breads, cereals, pasta, rice, or bulgar), vegetables, and fruits. These toods are the energy-producers, providing vitamins, minerals, and fiber needed to keep the bedy criminals smoothly.

body running smoothly.

• Whenever possible, eat your vegetables and fruits raw and unpeeled, for whenever possible to be benefits. When you cook vegetables, try steaming maximum vitamin and fiber benefits. When you cook vegetables, try steaming maximum vitamin and fiber benefits. When you cook vegetables, try stearning them lightly.

• You need protein, but most Americans get more than they need, and protein often comes combined with fat. Look for lean sources of protein: poultry, fish, combinations of carbohydrates such as beans and rice or peanut butter and whole grain bread, low-fat cheeses.

• Watch out for hidden fat and sodium in processed foods. Check the labels carefully — and whenever possible, use fresh instead of processed foods.

Vitamins for Hair Loss

Airline magazines run ads for expensive vitamins for the hair. Should I purchase these vitamins?

With magazine print advertising, especially when there is a photo or, better still, before and after photos, it is difficult not to believe that what the ad is aying is true. Ads are carefully written to keep the dollars flowing in through the mail. Such is the case ads for many vitamin or vitamin/mineral preparations that promise to prevent or restore hair loss, clear up acne blemishes, or cause dramatic weight loss.

It is true that some hair loss can occur with a dramatic vitamin or vitamin/mineral deficiency. This is not the kind of deficiency typically found in developed countries. Most hair loss in males is hereditary and due in part to the presence of the male hormone testosterone. Women do not tend to have male-pattern baldness because they have little testostérone

Good nutrition, which includes appropriate vitamins and minerals, is essential to good health. Less expensive supplements found on the pharmacy shelves are as good as, and often better, than those obtained through mail order.

Hearing-aid implants and anti-cancer vaccinations may well be common-place in the year 2000, according to predictions made by 227 world-class research scientists, surveyed by Louis Harris & Associates as part of a study on medicine in the 21st century. In addition to the projected vaccination against certain forms of cancer, scientists foresee catheter-based procedures or Cott-dissolving drugs-to-replace-winest heart-bypass operations. They also predict elimination of AIDS, measles, polio, malaria and hepatitis. However, researchers say, the common cold will according to predictions made by chers say, the common cold will still be with us.
