Squirrel damage

Actual damage caused by a squirrel which got entangled in the substation behind the Wayne Municipal Plant and caused a blackout on Sunday, Jan. 17 was estimated at approximately $5,750. Repairs included replacement and labor for fuses and bushings damaged by the squirrel.

Hoskins fire

The Hoskins Fire Department was called to the Earl Schoonover farm northwest of Hoskins at 9 a.m. Monday to put out a barn fire. Sheep and little lambs inside the building were chased out and no livestock was lost. However, the barn was demolished and tons of hay were destroyed in the fire.

Immigration

The Wayne State College International Club will be sponsoring guest speaker Wu Horace on the college campus Friday, Jan. 29 at 3 p.m. in the north dining room of the Student Center. Horace, an immigration lawyer, will speak on immigration laws and will field questions afterwards, according to Jagadeesh Nair, International Club member.

Congenial gal

Kaye Hansen of Wakefield, representing Wayne County in the Nebraska Pork Industry Queen Contest, received the Congeniality Award during the Queen Coronation Banquet Jan. 8. Julie D. Classen of Ayr was named the Nebraska Pork Industry Queen.

Only a test

The city of Wayne will conduct the monthly testing of the Civil Defense Outdoor Warning System at 1 p.m. Jan. 29. Each siren location will be tested separately, in the following order: Siren located behind the Wayne Fire Hall, at 3rd and Oak Drive, in Greenwood Cemetery, at 8th and Main Streets, at 6th and Valley Drive and at 14th and Providence Road. All signals will be tested in the silent mode, except for tornado, which will be allowed to run approximately 15 seconds at each location to test the effectiveness of the system.

Legislature

A uniform school opening date for primary and secondary public schools has been proposed in the Nebraska legislature. State Senator Elroy Hefner said testimony has been divided between people who want to promote Nebraska's tourism industry and people who do not want to lose local control of public schools. Hefner said proponents of the bill said that families could use the extra time to take vacations and thus create more revenue to finance education. Opponents felt that school calendars should be based on the individual needs of each district. Under LB 841, public schools could not open before Sept. 1 in 1989 but in following years, schools could not open until the day after Labor Day. The Education Committee took no action on the bill but is considering an amendment so that the uniform opening date would operate on a two-year trial basis.

RECIPIENT OF THE 1987 Wayne Citizens of the Year Award was Paul Otte of Wayne. He was recognized for his "outstanding service to the community."

Otte named Wayne 1987 Citizen of Year

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Paul Otte of Wayne was announced as Wayne's Citizen of the Year during the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce annual meeting Sunday night at the Black Knight.

Close to 200 people attended the Chamber festivities that featured the presentation of a plaque to the Citizen of the Year's review of Chamber achievements and recognition to retiring and present board members and council chairpeople.

Otte was presented the Citizen of the Year award by last year's winner, J. Alan Cramer.

Cramer read portions of letters from community organizations, schools and churches which registered support of Otte's nomination as Citizen of the Year.

Grace Lutheran Church representatives said Otte had dedicated many volunteer hours to tasks such as maintenance on the church grounds and equipment, while serving as a member of the voters assembly and as past chairman of the church's board of trustees.

A Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce representative wrote that Otte had an "ambitious talent" and "is a sterling example to all of our youth."

He assisted in the remodeling of the Chamber office.

A Wayne State representative said Otte came to the aid of the school's physical education department, helped install a new fence around the baseball field and was instrumental in the placement of the Hall of Fame pictures at Rice Auditorium.

Otte was also cited for his work at the baseball complex. "If there was a loose board, Paul was there to fix it," said Cramer. Otte also served on the Wayne-Carroll High School Athletic Task Force.

He and his wife, Ginny, sponsor the Dennis Otte Award, given to an eighth grade football player who shows the most improvement during the regular season. The plaque is donated by Hank and Glenda Overin. Otte served four years in the Air Force. He is also a board member of Wayne Industries.

IN ACCEPTING the Citizen of the Year Award, Otte said he was "at a loss for words."

He said he enjoys volunteer work. He added that there are others who volunteer time and effort who are equally as deserving of recognition.

"It's just that I have an advantage because my work is highly visible. When I do something, it's usually outside and when the project is done, it's left outside standing for people to see," said Otte.

But there are others, such as those who put forth volunteer time and effort to raise money for heart or cancer research, who work behind the scenes and do not get the recognition they deserve.

This is the 10th anniversary of the Citizen of the Year event. The first recipient was Dean Pierson in 1978.

Others who have received the award include: 1979 — Stan Morris; 1980, Arnie Reeg; 1981, Wayne Marsh; 1982, Bob and Marilyn Carhart; 1983, Lyle Seymour; 1984, David Ley; 1985, Bud Froelich; and in 1986, J. Alan Cramer.

Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce Past President Carolyn Vakoc opened the annual meeting program, introducing and recognizing 1987 board of directors and council chairpersons.

THOSE SHE introduced, while recapping 1987, were Sam Schroeder, chairman of the Internal Development Council; Ken Olds, chairman of the Legislative Committee; Brent Pedersen, chairman of the Visitor-Newcomer Council; Don Koeber, chairman of the Christmas Decoration Committee; Rich Zrust and Will Davis, co-chairmen of the Retail Council; Gary VanMeter, chairman of the Small Business Development Council; Ken Liska, chairman of the Agri-Business Council; and Randy Pedersen as chairman of the Wayne Ambassadors.

Outgoing board of director members of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce are Virgil Kardell and Dick Sorenson. Don Koeber, past president, will also go off of the board.

Vakoc introduced Sam Schroeder as the new president of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, who introduced the remaining board members that include: Carolyn Vakoc, past president; Rich Zrust, Marie Mohr, Joan Lage, Jeff Beckman (to replace John Struve), Jacque Kinnett, Bill Jammer and Mark Sorenson.

Linda Brown serves as executive vice-president to the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

Wastewater treatment plant recommendations considered

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

A diagnostic report of the city's wastewater treatment plant didn't get a passing grade from a Lincoln engineering firm.

The firm of Olsson Associates was contracted by the city council approximately 120 days ago to investigate why the city of Wayne had been in violation of its discharge permit.

And now it appears that the city council will have to dig into the city reserve coffers to correct the areas as recommended by the contracted engineer firm looking into the design, performance, operation and maintenance and the administration of the waste water treatment plant.

"Order of magnitude" costs to fulfill all of the recommendations by the Lincoln engineering could reach up to $253,000 or more.

It was in the mid-1970's when Wayne and other cities in Nebraska were required to upgrade their sewage treatment standards. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) carried the brunt of the cost for constructing the million dollar-plus new wastewater treatment plant completed and in operation by May of 1985. The city's share in the construction costs, according to City Administrator Phil Kloster, was 12.5 percent; while the state paid 12.5 percent and EPA had a 75 percent.

The facility was designed by the engineering firm of Bruce Gilmore and Associates of Columbus, and the designs were approved, according to Kloster, by the Environmental Protection Agency in Washington.

IT WAS IN May of 1987, Kloster said, when the city of Wayne was first notified of failing to meet the standards of the permit that was issued to the city. Later in the year, the city council approved a consent order that would accept, without litigation, a proposal to have a diagnostic evaluation of the city's waste water treatment plant.

The firm of Olsson Associates was contracted for a $2,460 fee to look into why the city was in violation of its permit. The problems must be remedied by July 1, 1988, according to Kloster.

JIM CONDON, professional engineer with Olsson Associates, explained the study results to the city council Tuesday evening.

A good share of the problem can be found in the city's lift stations which pump the waste water to the treatment plant, according to Condon.

There are times when the lift stations would be pumping 300 to 500 gallons a minute, shut off to zero and then both would run pumping nearly 1,000 gallons a minute into the treatment plant.

"It's like getting into a car, driving 25 m.p.h. and jumping to 100 m.p.h.

You may have an average speed of 25 m.p.h. but you're wearing and tearing down the car. That's what the lift stations are doing," mentioned Condon.

He said the treatment plant is designed for 700,000 gallons a day. "Pumping 1,000 gallons a minute to the treatment plant is twice of what it was designed for," he said. "That amount is well in excess of what it [the treatment plant] can handle."

Controlling the flow at the lift stations was one of Condon's top listed priorities he recommended the city of Wayne to consider, through the use of a variable motor drive system. That cost could be estimated at $40,000.

Second in priority would be to have a full-time position at the treatment plant to man the operations, costing an estimated $20,000, recommended Condon.

And a third priority would be to correct the lack of loading into the bacteria-filled bio-discs at the treatment plant, a measure that could cost from $10,000 to $30,000.

Condon said completing the first three priority items would bring the city into compliance without significant problem. Four more priorities would enhance the waste water treatment system, he said.

Those four priorities, in the order stated include reducing the hydraulic

Street improvement plans approved

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

Wayne's city council approved, by a 6-1 margin, a resolution approving a one and six year street improvement plan.

The plan covers the first 12 months of this year (1988), and then five years after that, according to City Administrator Phil Kloster.

Projects slated in 1988 include the widening of Main Street in Wayne, on the west side between Fourth Street and Fifth Street (to the width of Main Street south of 4th Street); and the scheduling of some asphalt overlay on three blocks within the city limits, if an asphalt company is in the area and available to do the work.

Previous to Tuesday night's resolution approval, the one and six year street improvement plan had been presented to the city's planning and zoning commission.

The planning commission voted not to include the widening of Main Street between Fourth Street and Fifth Street as part of the one and six year program.

THE COMMISSION'S reasons for deleting the project were to preserve the nine trees on the west side of the street where the widening was proposed.

However, a majority of the city council members decided to include the project and the $10,000 allotted for the widening work, leaving the option open as to whether or not to carry it out during 1988.

An alternate to the widening proposal, mentioned to the council, was to construct an east-west one-way alley north of the public library. Customer parking would then be permitted south of businesses along the alley.

Councilman Freeman Decker first motioned to approve the proposed one and six year street improvement plan, with the widening project to be deleted as the planning commission

Heart Month events planned

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

February is Heart Month and the Wayne County Affiliate of the American Heart Association has scheduled several events to educate the public on heart disease — the leading cause of death in Nebraska.

Among activities planned during the month is a Chamber of Commerce coffee in Wayne, hosted by the Wayne County Affiliate, on Friday, Feb. 12.

Also scheduled during the month is a house-to-house campaign in Wayne to raise funds for the Heart Association. Marian Simpson, publicity chairman in Wayne County, said tentative dates for the fund raising campaign are Feb. 14-21.

Simpson said that while the drive will be conducted by volunteers in the residential areas only, any business that wishes to contribute as a business may do so by contacting Mrs. Simpson or Don Koeber, president of the Wayne County Association.

Steve Peterson

KICKING OFF ACTIVITIES during Heart Month will be a program on "New Advances in Heart Pumps," scheduled Monday, Feb. 1 at 7:30 p.m. in the Woman's Club room, located in Wayne city auditorium.

The public is encouraged to attend the program which will be presented by Steve Peterson, certified clinical perfusionist and a registered vascular technologist who has worked with open heart surgeries since 1972. Peterson is currently employed at the offices of Drs. Roman and Stavens in Sioux City.

Peterson will speak and show slides about advances in pumps and techniques to bypass the heart. Peterson said recent advances have given patients that extra chance for survival if their heart fails.

HEART DISEASE AND stroke continue to claim more Nebraska lives than any other cause of death. During 1986, the rate of heart disease deaths was more than twice the rate of cancer deaths.

Of the 14,662 deaths in Nebraska during 1986, 6,751 (46 percent) were caused by a form of heart disease, compared to cancer deaths at 21.5 percent.

Statistics show that in Wayne County there were 62 deaths. Of those deaths, 35 (56 percent) were heart related. In the City of Wayne, out of 39 deaths, 23 (59 percent) were heart related.

SIMPSON SAID $3,575.75 was collected during last year's Heart Fund Drive in Wayne County. Volunteers this year hope to collect $4,000 by June 30.

Persons with questions regarding activities during Heart Month are asked to contact Simpson at 375-3560 or 375-2200, ext. 214.

Area election filing deadline draws near

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing Editor

While most of the national headlines focus on the presidential race and the U.S. senate seat, there will also be elections of local interest involving city councils and village boards and area school board posts.

The deadline for incumbents to file for re-election is Feb. 25. Non-incumbents must file for election by March 11. Filing must be done at the Wayne County Clerk's Office before the announced deadlines.

Those who have terms that expire in 1987, from the local area, include the following as provided to the county clerk's office:

Second District Wayne County Commissioner — Robert Nissen of Wayne.

Wayne-Carroll School District Board of Education — Joyce Reeg, Carter Peterson and Arnold Emry.

Windside School District Board of Education — Gene Jorgensen, Bill Burris and Dean Mann.

Wakefield School District Board of Education — Ronald Wenstrand, Merlin Greve and Mary Kay Otte.

City of Wayne — First Ward, Stanley Hansen; Second Ward, Darrel Fuelberth; Third Ward, Randy Pedersen; Fourth Ward, Freeman Decker.

Village of Winslow — Nancy Warnemunde and C.O. Witt.

Village of Carroll — Howard McLain, Susan Gilmore and Mark Tietz.

Village of Hoskins — Pat Brudigan and Kenneth Elkins.

Weed Commission Board Members — Lester Menke, Don Pipplitt and Dwayne Rethwisch.

As of Tuesday, Jan. 26, none of the above-mentioned individuals have filed for re-election to their positions.

Only one notice of candidacy has been filed with the Wayne County Clerk's Office — that by incumbent Gerald Conway for the State Senate District 17 seat.

Veto power

Just what is wrong with having the President of the United States be given the tools and the power to line-item veto expenditures within the individual spending packages presented by Congress?

Let's not lump all the appropriations together and present them to President Reagan. There's got to be some way to cut the fat. And one way is through line-item veto.

U.S. Senator David Karnes, in his "Report to Nebraska", mentioned that hundreds of wild pigs have launched an attack in Hawaii, eating thousands of exotic plants. The U.S. government will spend a quarter of a million dollars to defend the plants.

Here's another instance: Approved will be $8 million to support a French school for North Africans.

And another: A privately owned dam in South Carolina will be given $13 million.

How about this one: $6.4 million to be given for a new, Bavarian-style ski resort in Idaho; or $2.6 million to promote the consumption of fish (pork and beef have check-offs to take care of promotions); or $500,000 for a bridge over Mud Creek in Oklahoma.

Said Karnes: "The newest federal budget will raise taxes by $9 billion.

Various members of Congress seize their chance to load up on pork for the home folks and carry out personal vendettas against real and imagined enemies.

Karnes said that at the request of Senator Edward Kennedy (Massachusetts), legislation was proposed and passed which would have the effect of forcing the New York Post and Boston Herald newspapers to shut down. Karnes said both papers were coincidentally outspoken critics of Senator Kennedy.

Price tag of the measure was $604 billion.

Who should pay?

The city of Wayne could be paying over $250,000 in costs to correct what permit violations are now occurring at the city's new wastewater treatment plant.

But should it be the city's cost to correct the problems which led to a May, 1987 administrative order from the Department of Environmental Control to face the penalty or comply with the permit standards specified by the state?

In this instance, the city should not have to pick up the entire $250,000 plus tab for the corrections.

Plans submitted by the engineering firm that designed the wastewater treatment plant were approved by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). They had to be approved before construction could even begin on the facility. So the facility was built with the approved design of the EPA.

Now the city council finds out that there are priorities that must be ironed out before the city can get back in compliance with its permit.

Those eight recommendations total up to $270,000, and it appears that the chances of EPA funding to remedy the problems are nil.

For now, the city council must look into dipping into the reserves, and perhaps study some long range financing, to get back into compliance by July, 1988.

It doesn't seem right that the city should have to come up with the funds to modify operations at the treatment plant. Olsson Associates, who conducted the diagnostic study, said they would have probably designed the facility with more flexibility in mind.

But, the Olsson Associates engineers added that other engineers would probably do things different, and the issue is more of a "designer's prerogative."

The question right now is: Who is going to have to foot the bill for all of this?

If it must come from the city, then intervention by our state and federal representatives should be demanded to investigate what can be done to keep this from happening, and give some relief to other cities which are caught in this situation.

had stated. After no second came, Decker withdrew his motion.

Randy Pedersen then placed a motion to approve a resolution on the one and six year plan as presented. Council members Sheryl Lindau, Stan Hansen, Larry Johnson, Pedersen, Carolyn Filter and Darrel Heier all voted in favor of the resolution (Darrel Fuelleber was not present at Tuesday's meeting). Decker voted no on the motion.

"When we appoint a committee who makes recommendations to us, and we do not go along with them, especially when their vote is unanimous, then it's a slap in the face to the committee," mentioned Decker.

PROJECTS slated for 1989 include surfacing, storm sewer, curb and gutter work on Grainland Road in Wayne and some street improvement work on Walnut Street and East 13th Street near Wayne State College.

In 1990, the listed project includes construction of storm sewer and some ditch work from the National Guard Armory building to the Department of Roads facility on the east edge of Wayne.

"Maintenance only" is scheduled for the years 1991 and 1992.

In other action the city council:

•Was approached by Al Ehlers about recent advertisements running in The Wayne Herald. Ehlers asked if the city was participating in the Great Wayne Giveaway being promoted in the newspaper. "I have a serious problem with my utility money being used to support programs to offer gifts to out of town people. To me, that's what (the advertising) is doing," said Ehlers.

City Administrator Phil Kloster said it was "specifically requested" that the advertisement not be tied in with the giveaway program, but instead be used only for promoting the city of Wayne.

•And were informed by Kloster that Governor Kay Orr's proposed budget carried a "pleasant surprise" for municipalities.

He said Orr requested restoring the state funds for municipalities at the level provided during 1982-83.

The proposal would allow municipalities across Nebraska to share $17.9 million in state aid if the budget is approved.

Adoption bills under bill consideration

The period for introduction of bills in the Legislature ended this past week, with a total of 454 new bills introduced. This is 87 fewer than introduced during the last short session in 1986. Since new bills will be combined with the carryover legislation from last year, the Legislature will address a total of 688 bills this year.

The Speaker of the Legislature anticipates that public hearings on the new bills will be completed by March 6th. Hearings take half of each working day. The Legislature will then go back to full day sessions of debate on the Legislative floor until adjournment in April.

I have several carryover bills, two of which deal with adoptions and are now before the Legislature. LBs 301 and 372 modify our state adoption laws in some important areas. LB 301 would make voluntary exchange of information contracts between adoptive and biological parents legally enforceable. The change addresses a problem which affects a number of children who are presently in foster homes.

The biological parents of some of these children realize that they cannot provide a suitable home for their child, but they still wish to maintain contact with them. Attorneys representing these parents have no recourse but to tell them that any sort of exchange of information agreement they might enter into under our present law is unenforceable. Therefore, some parents refuse to place their children for adoption because they do not want to lose contact with them.

By making such an agreement legally enforceable, more biological parents are expected to place children for adoption. The exchange of information would be made through the Department of Social Services and such an agreement would not in any way affect the adoption decree itself. We currently have many children that have been trapped in foster care for many years with no hope for the benefit of a normal family life. Additionally, it is estimated that the taxpayers may save as much as $1/2 million by having these children in regular homes rather than state supported foster care.

Also before the Legislature is LB 372. None of the provisions of this bill would be retroactive and in no way would the bill affect adoptions which occur prior to September 1, 1988. All adoptions taking place prior to that date would still be governed by present law. LB 372 would require medical histories to be made of an adopted child and of either or both of the biological parents if they are available at the time of the petition for adoption. These histories would not contain identifying information and would be available to the adoptive parents and child.

Under LB 372, an adoptee whose adoption occurred after September 1, 1988 would be able to obtain information about his or her biological parents if the biological parents have not filed a nonconsent form with the Bureau of Vital Statistics before the child reaches the age of 21. The adoptive parents would be able to file their own nonconsent form as well.

Both of these bills have been working on in the Legislature for several years. At the public hearing held last year, there was no opposition to either bill. I believe we have hammered out legislation which satisfies all concerned parties and will be a welcome addition to the state's adoption laws.

New EPA regulations labeled as unnecessary

Nebraska law requires that all community public water supply systems be under the supervision of an operator certified by the Nebraska Department of Health. The construction of public systems including wells, intake, treatment, distribution and storage facilities must be constructed in accordance with plans and specifications approved by the Department. In addition, non-community systems are tested for coliform bacteria quarterly and most of the 462 municipalities test one time per month.

The probability of microbiological contamination of groundwater community supply systems constructed to meet this strict criteria is considered by the Nebraska Department of Health to be remote. Out of the 1,435 public water supply systems in Nebraska only six systems serve nine municipalities throughout the state. In fact, there has not been a confirmed outbreak of waterborne disease in Nebraska since records have been kept starting in 1969.

The Environmental Protection Agency has published increased microbial sampling requirements in the Federal Register. These regulations which would go into effect in 18 months, would dramatically increase the frequency of testing for coliform in Nebraska's public water supply systems and could have a significant negative financial impact on the state's smaller communities and non-community systems. Those systems serving 2,500 people or less would pay increased costs and those serving 1,000 or less would have their annual laboratory costs more than doubled if these regulations go into effect. Non-community systems will be particularly hard hit if they are required to go from testing on a quarterly basis to five tests per month.

I have written to the Environmental Protection Agency to point out that these new regulations are unnecessary and unrealistic for a state like Nebraska. I have told the EPA that increased costs are not justifiable for smaller communities and water systems, given the fact that there have been no demonstrated health benefits or needs. These communities are just beginning to feel some relief from an otherwise sluggish rural economy and any unwarranted expense will be particularly painful to those who ultimately pay the bills.

I have asked the EPA to modify the proposed regulations and grant a waiver to those community and non-community systems which have complied with the strict state requirements and which have demonstrated no need for additional health protection relating to waterborne disease.

INCONSISTENCIES IN COUNTY LOAN RATES

In the past I have expressed to Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng my concern about some discrepancies and inconsistencies in the Nebraska's county loan rates, especially those for corn. Further examination of recent corn price history and the means which USDA used to determine these loan prices leads me to question further whether USDA's formula supposedly adopted to more accurately depict the actual market influence in the loan prices has been successful.

I do not believe that the numbers taken from Agricultural Prices releases from the National Agricultural Statistical Service support the USDA action to lower most of Nebraska's county loan prices significantly below the national average. If anything this data shows that U.S. prices are not that much higher than corn prices in Nebraska and that these differences may be lessening.

I have provided Secretary Lyng with the NASS data and pointed out to him that it reveals flaws in the study which was used to alter county corn loan rates. I have asked that the study be re-evaluated and that an independent, experienced statistical analyst be engaged to evaluate the methodology used by USDA to determine loan price changes.

Learning the issue

The recent decision to select Nebraska as the host state for the first five state regional low-level radioactive waste disposal facility has significantly increased the interest of Nebraskans. I imagine there are a lot of people who are just learning about the issue.

It might be of interest to your readers to know some of the basic criteria that would exclude an area from further consideration, since US Ecology will begin environmental suitability studies in specific locations in mid to late 1988.

Many people are concerned about possible groundwater contamination. There is no doubt that groundwater protection will be a primary concern of our agency when we evaluate an area for environmental suitability to host a facility. What is important in groundwater protection is the geology of an area and how that geology affects the ability of any potential contaminations to reach an underlying aquifer.

The disposal site must be such that it can be characterized, modeled, analyzed, and monitored. Areas must be well drained and free of flooding or frequent ponding, with the surface well above the groundwater table. For example, sites within a 100 year flood plain, sites without sufficient depth to groundwater, and sites in areas of complex geologic structure would be prohibited. In addition, a facility could not be located in an area which receives substantial amounts of surface run-off.

Areas with fractures or history of seismic activity would have to be carefully evaluated. Protected areas, such as components of the National Parks System and wildlife refuges would be excluded from consideration.

The area chosen must stand the test of environmental suitability so that there is an assurance that the basis of geology alone, the site is stable and isolated enough from both groundwater and surface water to protect public health and the environment for 500 years. Additional protection is provided by placing this material in an above-grade reinforced concrete vault that contains sophisticated monitoring and drainage systems.

Why 500 years? Because the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission strictly limits acceptance of waste by concentration and the type of radiation emitted. The NRC requires that the waste must be isolated from intruders (anyone who accidentally or intentionally enters the facility and expose the waste to the environment) for a 500 year period. The most concentrated waste in the facility would not pose a significant health hazard after that time.

Sometimes there is confusion between how low-level radioactive waste is hazardous to human health and radioactive half-life. Half-life is a way of determining how long a material will remain radioactive. Materials with long half-lives are not always hazardous. Carbon-14, for example, is present in all living things and has an extremely long half-life.

What is important in determining hazard is the type of radiation and the concentration of that radiation. A common example would be the dregs of household ammonia cleaners we allow to go to our landfills. If you took all of that ammonia and somehow concentrated it you would have a significant hazard. However, the hazard is diluted considerably by the vast volume of other materials in the landfill.

This is not to downplay the importance of proper disposal of low-level radioactive waste. Three shallow-land burial facilities in other parts of the country using a design that is prohibited by Nebraska law, have resulted in local environmental contamination. Even though there has been no effect on public health in these situations, I believe our Compact made the right decision by moving away from the old method and favoring an above-grade reinforced concrete vault system, which includes many safeguards the old facilities never had.

Even so, let's take a look at the worst possible situation imaginable: A complete failure of an above grade facility such as the one proposed for our region. Keep in mind that all low-level radioactive waste is transported and disposed of in solid form, so there is nothing to leak unless you allow water to enter the above grade vault. If water is kept from the waste, there is no way for groundwater contamination to occur.

But, what if every precaution to keep water from the waste failed; all the moisture detection devices throughout the vault malfunctioned; the leachate collection systems in the floor of each cell did not collect water, and the water detection system underneath the concrete cell floors failed? What if somehow water was allowed to move through the waste undetected and in spite of thorough analysis of underlying geology, to find a path to groundwater?

The design calls for a ring of monitoring wells to surround the vault. These wells would be used to routinely check the quality in any underlying groundwater. If any radioactive contamination were to occur, steps would be taken to clean the water. It is possible to clean groundwater contaminated by radioactivity. In fact, such a cleanup operation is technically less difficult than many we're successfully conducting in Nebraska today.

Because radioactivity is easily detectable, and groundwater moves very slowly (usually in inches or feet per year), cleanup would start before contamination had the opportunity to move very far.

I believe that regional disposal facilities make sense, especially compared to the alternative of seven disposal sites at the region's nuclear power plants. Not only does this compound the hazard by multiplying the sites, it places disposal facilities in flood plains.

Regional waste disposal means sharing liability and sharing the costs for finding the right location, construction, design, and operation with four other states. Without the support of the other Compact states, Nebraska would still need access to a disposal facility by 1993, according to Congress. If we build our own facility, it would be at the taxpayer's expense.

It's time to put the low-level radioactive waste disposal issue into perspective. This would be a State-regulated and monitored facility that will see an average of two trucks a day and will hold up to 5 million cubic feet of solid waste after 30 years of operation. Most importantly, our agency will not allow it to be placed anywhere but in a location that will protect public health and the environment for 500 years.

Nebraskans need to know that there are several avenues for public involvement in the important decisions ahead, including facility location. Governor Orr has stated it won't be located in a community without community support. US Ecology has said that a citizen's committee will help determine what areas merit study. Our Department will undoubtedly have a Public Hearing regarding the permit application sometime in 1990. LB426 calls for the establishment of a committee within 30 days of permit application. This committee has the power to hire independent experts to help as needed.

Now that Nebraska has been selected, Nebraskans should be exploring these ways of seeing that our concerns regarding public health and environmental protection are fully addressed. The most important decisions are still ahead of us. Dennis Grams, P.E. Director, NDEC

In Dixon County Seat belt poster contest underway

The 1988 "Get-It-Together" seat belt poster contest is once again being sponsored by home extension clubs in Dixon County.

courage youngsters to enter the contest.

FIRST, SECOND and third place posters, plus one honorable mention poster, will be selected from each school for county contest competition.

Posters entered in county competition will be judged by extension club members after April 1 at the Northeast Center near Concord.

Wayne wins despite Jekyll and Hyde showing

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

Playing some what of a Jekyll-and-Hyde ball game, the Wayne Lady Blue Devils defeated visiting Pender 48-37 Tuesday night.

Wayne jumped out to a quick 18-6 lead after the first quarter of play, and seemed to be in control of its own destiny.

However, the Lady Blue Devils were outgunned 14-4 in the second quarter and clung to a 22-20 lead at intermission.

Wayne Head Coach Marlene Uhing felt her squad might have relaxed after the quick surge in the first quarter of play. "When you relax, the first thing that shows is the defense," Uhing said. "We seemed to be playing defense with our hands in the second quarter and not our feet, which caused us to get more fouls."

Uhing noted that when a team starts relaxing in the middle of the game because they're satisfied with their play, it's usually a sign of inexperience.

The Lady Blue Devils came out of the locker room ready to play in the third quarter and quickly built a 12 point lead. But then the lackadaisical style of play haunted them again, as the visitors rallied to trail by six at the third quarters end.

"We have to work on playing a complete ball game," Uhing noted. "If we could get the girls to play just as consistent on both ends of the court, we could be a better ball club."

The bright side of the game for Uhing's squad was the successful free throw shooting. Wayne netted 6-10 from the charity stripe.

Uhing was also pleased with the play of Teresa Ellis. "I thought Teresa played a good game all around," Uhing said. Ellis scored eight points in the contest, but accounted for 14 more on seven assists.

Dana Nelson led the scoring attack of Wayne with 14 points. Christy Hansen followed with 12, while Holli Paige chipped in seven. Paige was also credited with five assists.

Heidi Reeg netted six points for the Blue Devils, and led the rebounding category with six caroms. Marni Bruggemann hauled down five rebounds.

Wayne's pressure defense forced 21 Pender turnovers, while the Blue Devils suffered 11.

In the junior varsity game, Wayne defeated Pender 38-14. Deanna Schluns and Jennifer Hammer paced the scoring attack with 10 apiece.

IT LOOKED like a volleyball match during part of Wayne's game against Pender Tuesday night. Here Holli Paige challenges the taller Pender team on a rebound.

Meanwhile Reeg playing in only one quarter, led the rebounding with five caroms.

The Lady Blue Devils will be in action again this Thursday when arch-rival Harrington Cedar Catholic pays a visit to Wayne High School. Uhing noted that Cedar Catholic will be a tough challenge for her squad.

Wayne wins conference

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

One of the team goals for the Wayne Blue Devil Wrestlers before the season started, was to win the conference tournament.

Last Saturday, the Blue Devils accomplished that feat by defeating O'Neill and South Sioux City at the conference meet in South Sioux City.

"Winning the conference tournament is just one of the goals we set for ourselves as a team," said Wayne Head Coach John Murtaugh.

"I was very pleased with the way our kids wrestled with the desire to win," Wayne scored 80 points, 14 more than O'Neill and South Sioux City, which tied for second with 66 points.

Murtaugh noted that his kids have been working extremely hard in practice. "I think the kids really deserve to be conference champs," Murtaugh said.

If the Wayne grapplers needed a confidence booster heading down the stretch toward a February district wrestling meet, this was definitely it. "We officially began our drive to the district meet in Monday's practice," Murtaugh said. "However, our district is without question the toughest in the state in class B."

Although Wayne hasn't really turned any heads of those in charge of wrestling ratings, Murtaugh believes that his squad's tough schedule could pay dividends come district time.

"We have a very strong schedule," Murtaugh said. "I think by wrestling all of the rated teams on our schedule, that we have gotten stronger, thus enabling us to improve."

Wayne still has a couple of meets before the district meet to be held on February, 12-13.

This Thursday, the Blue Devils will be in dual action at Lyons-Decatur. They will follow that up Saturday when they travel to Albion's Invitational.

The grapplers will be in action at home for the last time next Tuesday, when they host Columbus Lakeview.

Wayne brought home five individual first place medals Saturday. The five winners included: Chris Janke, 103; Tom Etter, 140; Shane Geiger, 145; Chris Lutt, 171, and Brian Nelsen, 189.

On a side note, the Blue Devils did receive some bad news. In the 135 lb. division, Wayne's Greg DeNaeyer has been ruled out for the year. DeNaeyer tore some ligaments in his knee on January 4, and is expected to under-go surgery.

Murtaugh noted that his team received medals as a team for winning the conference. "Since they only gave medals to the first place wrestlers, they gave each member of the winning team an individual medal," Murtaugh said.

Following is an account of how each wrestler for Wayne fared.

103—Chris Janke. Won by forfeit; Won 5-2 over Dan Schock, South Sioux City; First Place Finish.
112—Mike DeNaeyer. Lost 7-5 to Chad Opp, O'Neill; Won by Technical Fall, 18-1 over Shane Olson, South Sioux City; Second Place Finish.
119—Trevor Wehrer. Lost by Pin to Randy Schroeder, South Sioux City; Lost by Pin to Jeff Scott, O'Neill; Did Not Place.
125—Jeff Struve. Won 8-0 over Dana Lee, O'Neill; Lost by pin to Lance Dwyer, South Sioux City; Second Place Finish.
130—Cory Wieseler. Won by forfeit; Lost by Pin to Aaron Mussen, O'Neill; Second Place Finish.
132—OPEN

140—Tom Etter Won 12-6 over Dave Alder, O'Neill; Won by forfeit; First Place Finish.
145—Shane Geiger. Won by forfeit; Won by Pin over Dave Claussen, South Sioux City; First Place Finish.
152—Jason Ehrhardt Won 14-3 over Todd O'shel, South Sioux City; Lost 5-1 to Ron Hall, O'Neill; Second Place Finish.
160—Jason Cole Lost 2-1 to Jim Johnston, O'Neill; Won by Pin over Brian Tomosen, South Sioux City; Second Place Finish.
171—Chris Lutt Won by forfeit; Won by pin over Dave Schock, South Sioux City; First Place Finish.
189—Brian Nelsen Won by forfeit; Won by Pin over Brian Claussen, South Sioux City; First Place Finish.

Reserves wrestling in the meet could not be counted on for points, but were used to add matches.

112—Eric Cole. Won by Pin; Lost by Pin.
145—Jesse Braderson. Lost by Pin; Lost by Pin.
142—Rusty Hammer. Won by Pin.
140—Dave Hewitt. Lost 10-8.

171—Joel Pedersen. Won by Pin.

Winside grapplers place third

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

Winside got the aid of all its wrestlers last Saturday at the Oakland-Craig tournament, thus providing for a third place finish in the field of nine, and scoring 107 points.

The race seemed to be for third place, as Winside battled Howells and Scribner-Snyder for the honor.

A consolation pin by Doug Heinemann over David Brown of Northeast gave Winside a two point lead over Howells and ensured the third place finish.

Team standings were as follows: 1. Norfolk Catholic, 134; 2. Battle Creek, 132½; 3. Winside, 107; 4.

Howells, 105; 5. Scribner-Snyder, 101; 6. Northeast, 81; 7. Tekamah JV, 50½; 8. Oakland-Craig, 47; 9. Macy, 28.

Winside did bring home three first place medals. It seems that the magnificent trio of Doug Paulsen, Mace and Max Kant are combining to become the number one force in class D, in the 125-130-135 lb. weight groups.

For opponents the combined record of the three is perhaps more feared than the wrestling. The trio sport a 62-3 record, with Max Kant still undefeated in the 135 lb. category.

On this day however, the Kants may have taken one giant step toward Lincoln. Mace captured first place on Saturday by defeating Norfolk Catholic's Jeff Heimes. Heimes was previously rated first in the state in Class C

On the other hand, things weren't a whole lot easier for Max. He wrestled Tyler Gatzemeyer, of Lyons Decatur. Gatzemeyer was previously rated second in Class C, before Kant decisioned him 9-5 in the finals.

As mentioned earlier, it was a total team effort for the Wildcat grapplers. In the 103 lb. division, Chad Carlson brought home a third place medal. Winside Head Coach Paul Sok was pleased with all his wrestlers performance as a team, but still has reservations on whether they are wrestling up to their potential.

"I felt that Chad should have been in the finals of his weight class," Sok said. "He had wrestled Matt Conklin, Tekamah, before and beaten him, but Saturday I think that Chad might have been over-looking him."

"Overall I think we had a good day," Sok said. "But I still think we can wrestle sharper as a team."

Winside also had two place fourth in the invitational. Shane Frahm succumbed to Tim Haase, Howells in the consolation match, while Brian Thompson was defeated by John Wrage, Howells in his consolation match, ensuring fourth place for each.

Sok also seemed elated by the presence of Jeff Gallop and Kerry Jaeger, who each won a match at the invite.

In the recent Omaha World-Herald rankings, Doug Paulsen, Mace Kant, and Max Kant are all rated second in the state in Class D.

In the 125 lb. category, Paulsen is behind Ken Kslasek, Clarkson. In the 130 lb. category, Mace Kant trails Kirk Benda, Elgin Pope John, as the states best wrestler to date in Class D.

Max Kant is ranked behind Don Seifred, Sargent, as the top grappler in the 135 lb. category.

As a team, Winside is rated fifth in the state.

Wayne defeats O'Neill

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The Wayne Lady Blue Devils raced to 24-10 half time lead over visiting O'Neill Monday night, and coasted to a 58-26 win, boosting their record to 8-3.

The game was a post-ponement from Saturday night.

Wayne Head Coach Marlene Uhing was delighted to see her squad jump out to a quick start. "I thought the first five minutes of the game was very important," Uhing said. "The girls really played hard, and we used our press to our advantage."

Coming into the game, Uhing shuffled the line up a little to accommodate for the under the weather feeling of Dana Nelson and Marni Bruggemann. That meant putting Hollie Paige at point guard.

"Hollie didn't get her normal amount of rebounds, because when you play point guard, you're not playing under the basket very much," Uhing said.

Never-the-less, Nelson, who only played approximately half of the game, drained the nets for 16 points. Teresa Ellis chipped in 14, while Christy Hansen was the only other Blue Devil in double figures with 12.

The margin of victory may have been the only doubt in the spectators minds during the game, as Wayne was virtually never threatened. However Uhing noted her concern over the consistency of her team's play.

"There's a couple of things that we need to work on," Uhing said. "The first being of course the free throw shooting." Wayne made nine of its 23 attempts from the charity stripe, for only 39 percent.

"I just don't think we are concentrating when we get to the line," Uhing added. "The second thing we need to work on is blocking out on the boards," Uhing said. "We were really inconsistent in that department against O'Neill. We would do a good job on some trips down the floor, but on others, we let them get the rebounds when we should have."

Uhing did note that she was pleased with the patience Wayne showed on offense. "At times O'Neill played good defense and we really had to work for our shot by reversing the ball," Uhing said.

In the junior varsity game, Wayne defeated O'Neill 49-22. Deanna Schluns led the Lady Blue Devils in scoring with nine. Amy Wriedt added seven.

Jennifer Hammer was the leading rebounder for the winners with 10 caroms. The win left the junior varsity with a 4-5 record on the year.

Free throws cost Wakefield in double OT

Photography: Kevin Peterson

WAKEFIELD'S SCOTT LUND could run, but he couldn't hide against the Ponca Indians.

It is often said that if you hit your free throws consistently you will win the close games. For the Wakefield Trojans, the opposite side of that adage became apparent Monday night as they lost their first conference game of the season, 59-55 in double overtime to visiting Ponca.

With very little time remaining in the first over-time, Mark Johnson missed the front end of a one-and-one, and Ponca grabbed the rebound and took it the length of the court and hit a 3-point field goal to tie it up, thus sending it to another overtime, which proved to be too costly for the home team.

Wakefield Head Coach Paul Eaton noted that this was a tough loss considering that his squad had it all but won in the first over-time.

"I was pleased with the way our kids hung in there against Ponca," Eaton said. "But I think one of the keys was the fact that we didn't do a very good job of checking out on the boards."

Ponca outscored the Trojans 5-1 in the second overtime period. Wakefield may have been hurt by the loss of four players by way of fouls.

"We played a man-to-man defense," Eaton said. "I think that's why we had more fouls."

It seemed that Wakefield's number one problem, aside from the lack of blocking out on the boards, was the failure to hold Ponca's Gerald Armstrong off the boards and from scoring on the offense.

Armstrong finished the game with 23 points, and was definitely the key to Ponca's success down the stretch.

Wakefield was not without scoring punch of its own, as Scott Lund teased the twine for 23 points. He was the only Trojan in double figures.

Johnson and Stuart Clark each added eight points in a losing cause. Todd Krafke and Mike Nelson headed the rebounding category with six apiece.

Wakefield forced into playing catch up in loss

The Wakefield Trojans were forced to play catch up the whole game Tuesday night, when they traveled to Walthill. The Trojans fell 60-55, to lose their second game in as many nights.

Wakefield Head Coach Paul Eaton noted that his team just couldn't get any breaks in the game.

"Walthill played a very good first quarter," Eaton said. "But we just couldn't buy any breaks, which in turn forced us to play catch up the whole game."

Take away the first quarter of play and Wakefield wins the game by a point. The Trojans were out gunned 21-15 in the opening quarter. They managed to cut the lead to three at intermission, at 37-34.

By the end of the third quarter, Wakefield had drawn to within one point. But Walthill stretched it out a little in the fourth quarter and outscored the visitors 15-11 to assure the victory.

Eaton noted that he didn't get a strong performance from his usual scorers. "Stuart Clark was held to two points," Eaton said. "Scott Lund coming off a 23 point performance the night before against Ponca, was held to just six points."

Most of the scoring punch for the Trojans came at the hands of sophomores. Sophomores like Andy McQuistan, Matt Tappe, Mark Johnson and Chris Loofe accounted for 31 of the team's 55 points.

Senior Mike Nelson however, did a tremendous job of hitting the boards for Wakefield. Nelson finished the night with 14 caroms, to go with his nine points. "Mike really had an outstanding game," Eaton said.

Wakefield will now turn its attention to Friday night, when they travel to Laurel to play the Bears. The Trojans will definitely get a conditioning check as they will begin a four game stand in five days, beginning Friday.

WAKEFIELD'S STUART CLARK attempts a shot, while Ponca's Gerald Armstrong has other ideas.

In last year's event, 318 teams from the Midwest participated and nearly $40,000 in prize money was awarded to the bowlers. The "Special Individual" prize of $1,300, was won by Ralph Hohnstein of Garland.

A unique feature of the WNAX is the Finals which are held at the conclusion of the Phase I qualifying competition. Top finishers in each event vie for a purse of over $8,000.

Skillet Iron Supplement

Does food absorb iron when it is cooked in an iron skillet?

According to one study, the iron content of spaghetti sauce simmered in a glass dish was 3 milligrams, but was 87 milligrams when cooked in an unenameled iron skillet. And even though scrambled eggs are cooked quickly, they still absorb some iron from a skillet. Because iron cooking utensils do impart iron to the foods we eat, some nutritional authorities advise cooking foods in iron utensils whenever possible.

Another way to increase the amount of usable iron in the diet is to eat foods that contain vitamin C, a vitamin which increases absorption of iron from the gastrointestinal tract. Foods which contain at least 25 milligrams of vitamin C can more than double the amount of iron absorbed from iron-containing foods.

Foods frequently absorb minerals from containers in which they are stored, cooked, or served. It is not advisable to use utensils that are galvanized because of the potential for zinc toxicity. Also, imported, decorative "dishes" should not be used for food because they may impart toxic levels of lead or arsenic.

Wayne State now 9-7

Lady Wildcats beat Pittsburg in double OT

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The Wayne State Lady Wildcats split a pair of road games last Friday and Saturday night. On Friday, the Wildcats defeated Pittsburg State in double overtime, 83-80. Meanwhile on Saturday, the three game road trip in four days proved to be too much for the Lady Cats as they dropped a 64-57 decision to Missouri Southern.

Wayne State Head Coach Lenny Klaver was pleased to see his squad play the way they did last week. "We won two out of the three games we played on the road," Klaver said. Wayne State improved its record to 9-7.

In Friday's action, Pittsburg State came into the cozy confines of home with a 13-4 record. Intimidation was not to be as the Lady Wildcats rallied from four down at intermission, to tie the score at 38's just into the second half of play.

The lead changed hands back and forth, with Pittsburg State taking the last shot of regulation. "We were up by two, and they hit a real tough shot to send it into overtime," Klaver said.

With the Lady Cats leading 76-74 in the first overtime, and very little time remaining, Pittsburg State hit another tough shot, sending it to yet another overtime.

This time Wayne State held its lead and won by three. Michelle Blomberg proved to be too much for the Gorillas of Pittsburg State to handle as she netted a game high 25 points. Blomberg nailed four of the six 3-point field goal attempts.

Linda Schnitzler chipped in 21, while Dawnn Bern-Tucker added 15.

Kris Smith led the barrage of rebounding for the Wildcats hauling down 11. Tucker had 10 caroms, to add to Wayne State's total of 52 rebounds, compared to 40 for Pittsburg State.

On Saturday night, Missouri Southern was found to be an ungracious host, defeating the Wildcats by seven, 64-57.

Wayne State splits its road games over weekend

By Kevin Peterson

There are two things that a traveling team can expect to come up short on in college basketball. First, you can usually expect to have a poorer field goal percentage for the game than the home team, and second, you can expect to shoot less free throws.

However, it was totally the reverse for the Wayne State Wildcats Saturday night as Steve Aggers squad played at Missouri Southern.

The Wildcats blistered the nets, hitting 61 percent of their shots. On the other hand, the Wildcats had 22 attempts from the charity stripe, while the home team got but five.

The end result was a 74-48 thrashing by the Wildcats. "We WAYNE STATE'S Linda Schnitzler attempts to save the ball from going out-of-bounds as former Wayne High grad Kecia Corbit looks on.

"We didn't shoot the ball well at all against Missouri Southern," Klaver said. "However, a lot of the credit goes to Missouri Southern and its great defense."

Wayne State trailed at intermission, and failed to make it up, even though the two teams were about even in the second half.

Schnitzler led the Wildcats with 16, while Smith added 10. Smith was also accountable for 13 rebounds to lead Wayne State in that category.

A key factor may have been that Wayne State was only allowed two foul shots the entire game. The Lady Cats also hit only 37 percent from the field, while yielding 19 turnovers.

Missouri Southern held the red hot Blomberg to nine points. They also held Tucker to nine points, but were out rebounded 49-35.

DAWNN BERT-TUCKER receives the lob pass over St. Mary's defenders in action Tuesday night. The Lady Wildcats won 77-51. Linda Schnitzler led the Wildcats with 20 points while Tucker netted 17.

Wayne defies tradition

In any sport, there always seems to be one team that you have trouble beating every year. It doesn't seem to matter if you have more talent, the psychological part of the game becomes an intangible if you can't seem to get over the hump and beat them.

For the Wayne State Lady Wildcats, the trouble spot had been Midland. In fact, Wayne State had never beaten Midland on its home floor.

That was until last Wednesday they hadn't. Wayne State traveled to play the 11-3 Midland team, and left Fremont with an 81-79 victory over the favored team.

"This is definitely a great step for our program," Klaver said. "This game might be the big key for us."

By beating Midland, Wayne State earned the highest possible points for the rating system.

The game was close through out. At intermission, the Lady Cats clung to a two point advantage, 38-36.

"The lead changed hands several times in the second half," Klaver said. "Neither team had any big leads."

With very little time remaining in regulation, Wayne State pressed Midland, and forced a turnover. This provided a three on one break. Linda Schnitzler passed off to Dawnn Bern-Tucker, and she layed it up and in, boosting the visiting Wildcats to an 81-79 lead, with only 10 seconds remaining.

Midland called for a timeout to set up a play for the last shot. Klaver told his girls to pressure the ball, but just enough so it would take them time to get the ball down the court.

"We weren't trying to steal the ball and possibly get called for a foul," Klaver said. "Our objective was to make them take as much time as possible getting the ball down the court."

However, on the inbounds pass, Wayne State stole the ball and held it for the remaining ticks of the clock, to ensure its first ever victory at Midland.

The Lady Cats got 20 points or more from three individuals. But none attracted more attention than Michelle Blomberg.

Blomberg set a school record by hitting 7-8 3-point field goals. She went on to score a game high 25 points in a winning cause.

Schnitzler tossed in 21, and Tucker netted 20. Tucker was also the leading rebounder in the contest, hauling down 11.

For the game, Wayne State shot 48 percent from the field, while hitting 12-16 from the charity stripe for 75 percent.

Again the Lady Wildcats out rebounded the opponent, this time 35-30.

Winside's heroic comeback falls two points short 47-45

What do you tell your team at intermission when they are trailing by 28 points? Obviously it's not a situation many coaches dream of being in.

But for Winside Girls Head Coach Jill Stenwall, that's the position her team was facing. "I really didn't know what to tell them," Stenwall said. "We were trailing 33-5, and we shot 1-22 from the field in the first half."

Stenwall did note that she told her team to keep putting the ball up, and even to try some 3-point field goal attempts.

The result was astounding. Stenwall's squad outscored visiting Osmond 36-8 in the third and first part of the fourth quarter, to tie the game at 41.

"We just kept plugging away, and finally the ball started falling," Stenwall said. "We even made some of the 3-pointers we attempted."

Winside eventually fell to a 47-45, but after a comeback such as theirs, the only part of the game that they lost was the final score.

What keyed the comeback efforts of the Wildcats was the play of Kristy Miller and Carmen Reeg. "Carmen played a great second half of defense," Stenwall said. "Kristy helped with her shooting from long range, and overall the girls showed more hustle in the second half."

Stenwall noted that her team did not change any defensive strategy at intermission. They just stuck to the same game plan, but the execution was more precise.

Winside turned the ball over 12 times in the night-marish first half, and only five in the second half. Another key to the come back was Winside's ability to steal the ball.

"We had nine steals for the game," Stenwall noted. "Reeg had three in the third quarter, and they all came at crucial times because we scored on them."

Miller finished the contest with 14 points. Reeg followed with nine, but led the rebounding charge with 11 caroms. Lisa Janke scored seven points, but was also in double figures in rebounding with 10.

Allen beats Coleridge

Laurel succumbs to rated Homer

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The order was tall, but the Laurel Bears traveled to Homer Tuesday to play the Class C-3, ninth rated team, and came up two points short in its upset bid, falling 59-57.

Laurel Head Coach Mark Hrabik was pleased with his team's overall play, but was disappointed with the outcome. "It's nice to play a rated team as close as we did," Hrabik said, but when you're as close as we were, it's tough when you lose.

The game was close the whole way. Laurel was outgunned early by the quicker Homer team, and trailed 16-10 after the first period of play. "I think the reason we got down early was because we really didn't estimate the extreme quickness of Homer," Hrabik said. "Doug Manz came down the floor a couple of times in the first quarter and was clearly pick-pocketed for some easy points. He adjusted and played a great game from then on," Hrabik added.

Laurel outscored the home team 13-10 in the second quarter to trail by three at intermission. A key to Laurel's first half of play may have been the lack of good free throw shooting. "We were 0-6 from the line in the first half," Hrabik said.

Never-the-less, Hrabik's Bears kept plugging away, and after a see-saw third quarter, both teams were sitting where they were at intermission, with Laurel down by three.

Things looked bleak for Laurel in the early going of the final quarter. "We got down by nine points," Hrabik said. "But again we kept plugging away and finally we tied it up on a Scott Marquardt bucket with 30 seconds remaining in regulation."

Homer kept the ball and seemingly was going for the last shot. However, they shot the ball with 10 seconds left and missed, after a struggle for the loose ball, Homer came up with it, and rather than let them have the easy lay-up, Laurel fouled them with five seconds remaining.

Homer connected on both free throws and Laurel was unable to get a good clean shot off at the buzzer. "In the fourth quarter our free throw shooting came around," Hrabik said. Laurel hit six of seven in the final stanza, to aid in the comeback attempt.

Marquardt paced the Bear attack with 18 points. Kyle Nixon followed with 14, while Manz netted 11. John Schutte led the rebounding charge with nine.

As a team Laurel out-rebounded Homer 35-27. Laurel will be in action this Friday night when it hosts Wakefield.

The Allen girls saw the return of Lana Erwin in their game against Coleridge Tuesday night. The result was an Eagle victory, 51-37.

Allen Head Coach Gary Troth was more than pleased with his team's performance. "We played a good game," Troth said. "Coleridge tried to press us, but we managed to get through and still score."

Of course along with the good comes the bad. Allen may have been lifted by the return of Erwin, but Amy Noe suffered a knee injury, and will be out of action indefinitely.

Troth's team hit the .500 mark for the season at 5-5, but he notes concern about the future opponents. "It's bad enough that I have to keep altering the line-ups because we're not healthy," Troth said. "But this Thursday we travel to play Emerson, and they are a really good sound ball club."

The Lady Eagles jumped out to a 12-8 lead on the visitors from Coleridge, and clung to the four point lead at intermission at 22-18.

The third quarter saw Allen put on a scoring clinic of its own. The Lady Eagles outscored Coleridge 20-7, to take a comfortable 17 point lead into the fourth quarter, 42-25.

Troth was able to use a lot of girls in the final quarter, and still the closest the competitors could come was 14.

For the game, Missy Martinson led all Allen scorers with 12 points. Candace Jones followed with 11, while Erwin netted 10.

Elizabeth Hansen was the leading rebounder for the Eagles, hauling down eight caroms, while scoring nine points.

As a team Allen out-rebounded Coleridge 36-32, and in the turnover category, Allen suffered 17, while Coleridge gave the ball up 19 times.

Allen shot 66 percent from the charity stripe hitting 7-11 attempts. Coleridge was 9-19 for 47 percent.

After the match-up with Emerson this Thursday, Allen will play Saturday night in the first round of conference at home against Ponca.

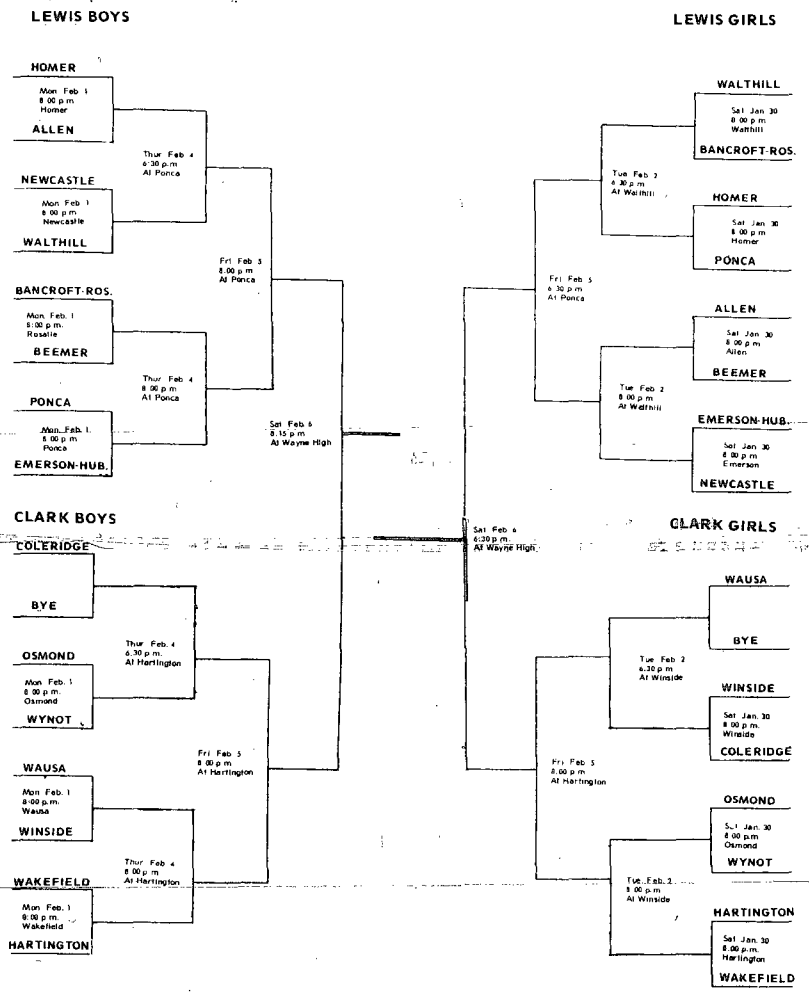

Lewis & Clark tourney begins

The Lewis & Clark conference basketball tournament gets under way this Saturday, beginning with the girls. The first round games are at home for all seeded teams. However, the second round games for the girls will be held in Winside and Walthill, while the semi finals will be in Ponca and Hartington. In the boys division, the second round games will be held at Ponca and Hartington, with the semi finals also being held at Ponca and Hartington.

The finals of the girls and boys will be at Wayne High School, February 6.

The number one seeds for the tournament are the Homer boys and Walthill girls in the Lewis division. Meanwhile, the Coleridge boys and Wausa girls head the list of seedings in the Clark division.

The following is the brackets and times of all games. All first round games will be preceded by junior varsity action.

Study

problem situations at the treatment plant, which could cost $65,000; allowing for additional training of treatment plant operators, estimated at a cost of between $3,000 to $8,000; development and instituting a good sludge management program, estimated to cost up to $50,000; and to select options in relation to the aeration of the city's lagoon system that would improve energy efficiency, estimated to cost up to $60,000.

An eighth priority mentioned by Condon was to allow the city council to become more aware of what's going on at the treatment plant so that they can properly fund and administer to the facility.

FEDERAL FUNDS could be available if the waste water treatment facility (with the design approved by EPA) completely failed to operate. However, Condon said the Wayne treatment plant "was not a total failure."

Because of this, federal funds would probably not be available to assist the city in correcting the design of the current system.

Kloster was asked by Councilman Freeman Decker if funding was available to accomplish the corrections.

"We hadn't planned on quite that much," said Kloster. "To do much more than priority items one, two and three, we would end up having to go with some long term money to fund it."

"It is my feeling that the plant can work," Condon said.

The city council motioned to accept the report from Olsson Associates. The report will be forwarded to the State Department of Environmental Control for evaluation and recommendations.

by Pat Meierhenry

We were all ready for a snow day. I called the office about 9 a.m. to say I'd be there as soon as the roads were open and they said, "We've got it covered. Stay home." Welcome words and I did just that.

I read the newest Reader's Digest and baked three pies. Ann cleaned out my stacks of miscellany under the buffet and even talked me into throwing some away. We all took naps. A nap is such a wonderful recuperative device. I wish this whole country would just slow down for a mid-day siesta every day.

Choir was cancelled, so the Big Farmer got to watch the Nebraska-Louisiana State game. After surprising Missouri a few days before, the Huskers looked bad against the Cyclones. And three days later, Missouri beat Iowa State. I wish someone could explain these things to me.

On the 17th, we picked up cousin Syd and her husband after church and drove to York for a golden anniversary. Uncle Harley and Aunt Edna looked healthy and lovely and I got to visit with lots of good York county folks.

WE EVEN spent a few minutes with the York fire chief and his wife, who are good old friends. We had to hurry back to Norfolk because yours truly was guest speaker at the Norfolk support group for widowed, divorced and separated.

What a humbling experience! One hundred single people who had been married; all ages, who were coming together monthly out of a common need for fellowship. What could I say that might help? One hundred hurting people, in one room, committed to helping and supporting each other.

We used my standard equipment: music, laughter and tears. I told them, to begin with, I had not been widowed or divorced, thank God; but that every person married any length of time has contemplated murder and/or divorce! They end every meeting by group singing of "One Day at a Time," which we all could do well to remember. It was quite an experience.

Another group I've had opportunity to share with this month was a bunch of EMAT's at West Point. They wanted advice on "Dealing With Bad Runs."

AGAIN, A feeling of humility. These men and women, for absolutely no financial compensation, take a long, tough class on first aid, extrication and transportation.

Then they run around for the rest of their lives with portable beepers on their belts.

When that beeper goes off, they do not know what they are responding to. They simply jump in the rescue unit and go.

One woman there had been the first to arrive at the scene when her husband had a pickup accident. He died later that night.

She summed up all we had said during the evening when she talked of going to the next regular meeting at the fire hall and expressing her feelings.

She didn't put it off. She shed the tears. The other members of the crew shed theirs. They acknowledged their anger and grief. And they all are still wearing their beepers.

Whatever they gained from me, I'm sure I gained more. If you know a volunteer emergency medical technician, give them a word of appreciation today.

To ease student concern on AIDS

WSC to install condom dispensers

Wayne State College will be installing condom dispensing machines in the school's seven dormitories on campus in an effort to ease student concern about the possible spread of communicable diseases.

The WSC student senate resolution recommending condom dispensers was acted upon last December. Concern about AIDS and other communicable diseases was the primary reason the student senate had approved the resolution.

The recommendation was passed on to Max Lundstrom, dean of Student Services at Wayne State, who presented the request to Dr. Joseph Fleck, interim president of Wayne State College.

Fleck approved the installation of condom dispensers on campus. He recognized the student senate's unanimous passage of the condom sales motion and felt it was one of the right steps to take, based on the fears students have in regard to the AIDS issue, according to Jeff Beckman, director of college relations.

Installation of the dispensers would serve as a precautionary measure that would in turn, also educate the public on AIDS and other transmitted diseases.

Beckman said the company which is the college's current vending machine supplier will install the dispensers this week. There will no state money or revenue bond money used in the installation of the machines.

Beckman said the college will receive a 10 percent return on the dispensing machines, which will be given to the student senate, earmarked for education awareness on AIDS and other communicable diseases.

Peru State College has already announced that it will sell condoms in vending machines in the school's five dormitories. The college had adopted the policy as part of an education program on AIDS.

The issue of allowing the sales of condoms is also being discussed among administrators and students at Chadron State College, according to recent reports.

The Golden Years

by Gil Haase

You can remain sharp and quick-witted if you keep your mind well-honed, according to a study by University of Florida psychologist Walter Cunningham. "The minds that seemed to be maintained the best," he said, "are the ones that people use the most. It seems the exercise of intellectual abilities helps preserve them. Older people can help themselves by making a conscious effort to be mentally active — play chess or other thinking games, read or take courses."

Exercise might help ease ocular hypertension or glaucoma. Research at the University of Oregon found that when nonexercisers were introduced to a program of jogging, cycling or lifting weights for 45 minutes three times a week, the fluid pressure in their eyes dropped. Further testing is still needed.

Remember When? 1949 — The highly acclaimed film, "All the King's Men," based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning Robert Penn Warren novel, brought Broderick Crawford a Best Actor Oscar for his role as a corrupt Southern governor.

MY HEARTFELT thanks to all of our friends who continued to remember me with expressions of love and concern during my extended hospitalization and recovery. Your cards, calls and visits were welcomed. Your prayers were a comfort and an inspiration. May God bless each and every one of you. Jim Hummel and family. J28

A SINCERE thank you to all who sent cards, for visits, phone calls and gifts I received while I was at Providence Medical Center and since returning home. A special "Thank You" to Pastor Johnson, Dr. Wiseman and the hospital staff. May God bless you all. Mary Drake. J28

THE WAYNE HOSPICE GROUP would like to say thank you to all those who helped in any way during the Memorial Christmas Tree fund raising effort. As a non-profit organization, the Hospice group relies solely on contributions and prayers. We thank our community for a very successful first year. Special thanks to State National Bank, First National Bank, Bev Etter, Bill Dickey, and a very special thank you to Jeanie Sturm for her great enthusiasm and support for our group. She was a real blessing to us during this time. Special blessings to all of you who contributed in any way to our group. Thank you. The Wayne Hospice Group Volunteers.
