High honor

Dan Gardner of Wakefield was named 1988 Poultry Industryman of the Year during the Nebraska Poultry Industries, Inc.'s annual meeting last Thursday.

Gardner, president of the Milton G. Waldbaum Company of Wakefield, was honored for his many years of service and leadership to the poultry industry, according to awards committee chairman Thomas Sullivan, University of Nebraska-Lincoln professor of animal science.

"The growth and success of Dan's company has had a great impact on the economy of northeast Nebraska and the whole state," said Sullivan. "Expansion of egg processing operations and the development of egg and pullet production have provided many new jobs. In addition, each laying hen... provides a needed market for one bushel of corn or grain sorghum and one-half bushel of soybeans."

Gardner, a New York City native, also was cited for his work with regional and national poultry and egg organizations. He is director of the Poultry and Egg Institute of America, a director and past president of Midwest Egg Producers and a director of Egg Clearing House, Inc.

Give blood

The Siouxland Blood Bank will be accepting donations at Providence Medical Center in Wayne on Thursday, March 17 between the hours of 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Kerrey bid

Bob Kerrey, former Nebraska Governor, announced in Omaha his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

In his announcement Thursday, Kerrey asked Nebraskans to join him in the race "to be what we can be."

Kerrey, a native of Lincoln, served as governor from 1983-1986. In 1970 he was awarded the nation's highest award for military service — the Congressional Medal of Honor — for heroism during the Vietnam conflict. The Nebraska native is also a successful businessman owning and operating several restaurants and fitness centers in the state.

"I would like to represent you in the U.S. Senate. I know that when I ask for your vote, I can only promise this: I will not betray you; I will not dishonor the trust you place in me; and I will not forget the respect that I owe you," said Kerrey.

Warning system studied

By Chuck Hackenmiller

Managing Editor

Wayne/Wayne County Civil Defense officials are exploring ways to increase the effectiveness of the city's warning system for people in the Wayne community.

The Wayne Herald received word that a demonstration of the HollyAnne "Informer" Life Saving System will take place on Thursday, March 31, 11 a.m. at the city council chambers in Wayne.

"Even with the installation of our new outdoor warning system several years ago, we felt there was still room for improvement," said Vern Fairchild, assistant director of the Wayne/Wayne County Civil Defense, in an invitation to the Wayne Herald editor to attend the demonstration.

Fairchild said that while many communities utilize a warning system through their local cable television companies "we were not satisfied with the obvious disadvantages of most systems."

For example, he said, there is possible prohibitive cost to install and maintain the system; and that the signal could not be received if the television set was not turned on.

The HollyAnne System, manufactured in Greeley, Nebraska, uses existing cable television distribution systems to instantly deliver warnings throughout the community.

When a warning activates the system, the HollyAnne receiver units receive an electronic signal over the television cable which turns them on. This process allows the local public official in charge to access the cable system for alerting purposes.

Once the system is activated, the receiver emits a distinct warbling tone, audio message, or both. The process does not require a television set.

The HollyAnne System also allows certain units or clusters of units to be activated without alerting others. It can also provide other helpful communication functions through its receivers. It can receive 24-hour weather reports from the National Weather Service through radio transmission into the system. Residents could access these direct forecasts and reports by pressing a button on the HollyAnne receiver.

Winside EMT squad considers defibrillator

Another "volunteer" is under consideration for membership among Winside Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs).

Earlier this month, a group of Winside EMTs met with Bobette Wolensensky, Emergency Medical Services coordinator for the Nebraska Department of Health, to discuss the possibility of adding a new "volunteer" to the squad's ranks. The "volunteer" being discussed was a complicated piece of equipment called a defibrillator.

Currently, members of the Winside Rescue Squad use Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) to attempt to keep patients alive until they can be delivered to a hospital where a defibrillator is available. With the addition of this equipment to the Winside ambulance, the life-saving defibrillator can be taken to the patient instead of the patient being taken to the defibrillator.

Presently, Humboldt and Blair are the only "rural volunteer squads" in Nebraska which are licensed to carry defibrillators. This is in sharp contrast to many other states, including Iowa, where, following a study on their effectiveness, defibrillators have been added as standard equipment for EMTs in over 80 rural communities.

The Iowa study revealed that about one in 100 victims of out-of-hospital cardiac arrests were surviving, a figure reflected nationwide. When the ambulance squad members were equipped and trained in the use of defibrillators, the survival rate increased to nearly 20 percent.

How it works

Just what does a defibrillator do?

In a normal heartbeat, the action of the heart is triggered by electrical impulses which cause the heart to pump blood in a coordinated fashion.

When the electrical impulses malfunction, ventricular fibrillation can result, and the heart stops beating, instead moving in rapid, irregular contractions. Obviously, such a condition is fatal if not corrected within a matter of minutes. The patient is in cardiac arrest.

A defibrillator is designed to reestablish the correct electrical impulses in the heart through the use of electrical stimulus or shock.

The type of defibrillator the Winside squad hopes to purchase is automatic in that it conducts its own analysis of the patient's needs. It monitors the condition of the heart and if the heart is in ventricular fibrillation, it will administer the electric shock.

The squad members will be in constant radio or telephone contact with a hospital while using the defibrillator.

OF THE 46 calls the Winside EMTs responded to in 1987, 23 were cardiac-related. National data shows that defibrillators raises the rate of survival from about 3 percent to up to 30 percent.

Cost to adding defibrillation skills of the Winside EMTs will be around $9,000. This amount includes the cost of the defibrillator itself, which will be about $8,500, and tuition for the EMTs.

Said VerNeal Marotz, captain of the Winside EMT squad: "Even if we save only one life with the training and the equipment, it will have paid for itself."

Marotz says the next step in implementing this idea is to survey citizens' feelings about this training.

The group will be working with the State Health Department EMS Office to complete the survey, and they hope to have input from citizens by March 28.

If citizens response is positive, then the Winside squad will begin identifying the funds necessary to purchase the defibrillator and pay for the training.

While everyone at the Winside Rescue Squad's response area will receive a survey in the mail, those wishing to visit with the squad can do so by calling VerNeal Marotz at 286-4227 or Aric Magwire at 286-4275.

Contracts accepted for Garwood, Tappe; committees formed

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

Members of Educational Service Unit One's board of directors voted unanimously last Tuesday night to accept signed contracts from ESU 1 Administrator Rodney Garwood and Special Education Director Duane Tappe.

Garwood and Tappe were both offered two-year contracts at last month's ESU 1 board meeting.

Garwood's contract for 1988-89 calls for a salary of $40,000 — up $1,000 from the previous year. Tappe's salary was set at $36,500, up $500 from 1987-88.

BOARD MEMBERS, meeting at ESU 1 headquarters in Wakefield, also were presented a list of board committees for 1988 as prepared by Ken Lahrs of Ponca, board chairman.

A new committee, mutual concerns, is comprised of Chairman Lahrs along with Jim Martindale of Creighton.

Purpose of the mutual concerns committee is to provide an additional forum for board members, ESU 1 employees and administrators to discuss issues away from the negotiating table.

Appointed by Lahrs to the board's negotiations committee were John Post of Bloomfield, Jan Rohan of Newcastle and Leo Krampfer of Dakota City.

On the board policy committee are Post, Randy Shaw of Wayne and Paul Steffen of Hartington.

The insurance committee is comprised of Lahrs, Steffen and Martindale, and members of the building committee are Marvin Borg of Concord, Bev Novak of Thurston and Shaw.

Claire Hansen of Coleridge will serve as the board's representative on legislative issues.

ADMINISTRATOR GARWOOD reported to board members Tuesday night that the owner of the Wayne Children's Development Center has agreed to pay $650 towards the cost of inspecting for asbestos in the building. ESU 1 board members voted unanimously to accept the agreement.

Garwood also reported to the board that the title was located for the existing building which is shared between ESU 1 and the Wakefield Masonic Lodge.

Garwood said the title states that the Masonic Lodge can only sell its share of the building to ESU 1 or to another organization for lodge purposes.

On the other hand, the title also states that in the event of a fire ESU 1 would be required to provide a meeting hall for the Masons, should ESU 1 choose to rebuild on the lot, or return the existing lot to the Masons.

"There are very unusual conditions imposed on both of us," said Administrator Garwood. No action was taken on the matter at Tuesday night's meeting.

IN OTHER BUSINESS Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members:

—Recognized ESU 1 staffer Kay Cattle of Wayne as recipient of the Georgia McQuistan Memorial Award for 1987-88. The award recognizes ESU 1 employees who have done outstanding work in their field and have been willing to become involved beyond the requirements of their job. Cattle has been employed by ESU 1 for 12 years and serves as a pre-kindergarten teacher for handicapped children.

—Heard a report from Jean Dowhower, coordinator of the ESU 1 resource department.

Dangberg's name was drawn as the winner of the vacation trip. Johnson's name was pulled as the winner of the $500 in vacation bucks.

SPECIAL FLIGHT packages are available to 1) Phoenix; 2) Las Vegas; 3) any major airport city in the entire continental United States, except Alaska. For those who would rather stay on the ground, bus tours are available to 4) the Ozarks; 5) the Black Hills; 6) Wisconsin Dells or; 7) Denver and the Rockies.

Dangberg said she has made no traveling plans at this time, but looks forward to using the free "trip for two."

"The biggest thing I ever won before was five cherry pies at one time," said Dangberg.

Johnson was even more surprised of her winnings. "I just dropped my name in at three places. And that was it!" she said.

Shopping by mail

Americans will buy over $4 billion worth of merchandise this year from 5 billion mail-order catalogs. From fruit to furs, toys to tools, almost anything is available from a myriad of specialized and general catalogs. In addition to catalogs there are other ways to shop by mail. Local retailers often send out special catalogs announcing seasonal sales. Direct marketers reach you through coupon ads in magazines and newspapers. Other direct mail campaigns offer club memberships and send items such as books or records automatically unless you say no. Toll-free numbers on television result in mail order, too.

ONCE YOU'VE ordered something through the mail, such as sportswear for example, you'll begin receiving catalogs relating to all kinds of sports equipment or sports magazines. One company will rent a list of prospective customers selling a similar product. Name and addresses also are generated from magazine subscriptions, from conference lists or even from the phone book. But it is possible to receive less catalogs and advertising if you wish. Many catalogs state their mailing-list policy, including an address to write to if you don't want your name rented or traded. If you don't want to be on national mailing lists, you can write to Mail Preference Service, Direct Marketing Association, 6 East 43rd St., New York, N. Y., 10017-4609. Or you can be added to their lists if you choose.

ALTHOUGH SHOPPING by mail is fast and easy, be sure to follow some guidelines to avoid potential problems. Read descriptions of merchandise carefully since pictures can be misleading. Make sure there's a stated merchandise return policy. Check to make sure handling and shipping charges aren't so large as to counteract a bargain price. If you haven't heard of a company, or if it doesn't include an address or phone number, contact the Better Business Bureau. Have a good idea of the retail value and do some comparison shopping among catalogs. You have a right to warranty copies before buying a product. Keep a record of your order for follow-up purposes.

Wayne County Power District; people serving the needs of people

The Wayne County Public Power District was organized in 1938 under Chapter 70 of the Nebraska Statutes as a political subdivision of the State of Nebraska. The setting of budgets, rates and operating policy of this non-profit public electric utility is at the discretion of a locally elected, six-member board of directors.

Directors presently serving on the board are Willis Meyer, Wayne; Don Larsen, Wayne; Glenn Loberg, Carroll; George Jaeger, Winside; Larry Silhacek, Pierce; and Vernon Ganseboom, Osmond. The board hires the manager, who currently is E.A.

"Sam" Schroeder, to administer the policies and to coordinate the operating activities of the District.

The Wayne County Public Power District provides electric services to the rural areas of Wayne and Pierce Counties. The Wayne County Public Power District does not generate any electricity but purchases the energy required by its 2,598 rural consumers from the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative. The local public power district distributes electricity to its consumers through over 1,105 miles of 12,000 volt distribution line and 57 miles of 69,000 volt sub-transmission line.

The operation, maintenance and administration of the district is professionally handled by 16 full-time employees. These skilled employees have an average of 16 years experience in providing District consumers with a reliable and economical supply of electrical energy.

Besides supplying electric service to its own consumers in the rural areas, the District shares with neighboring power districts and NPPD the job of maintaining a sub-transmission line network that carries wholesale electric power to villages and cities in northeast Nebraska — including Wayne, Wakefield, Osmond, Randolph and Winside.

The Wayne County Public Power District has a continuing goal to improve the reliability of electrical service demanded by today's electric consumer — be they farm, commercial, residential or public institutions. The District is also striving to always make electricity an economical energy choice for the people they serve.

FARMS, AS WELL as other entities, gain from the reliability of electrical service.

In the dark about public power?

Let us shed some light on the subject.

Today, Nebraska's unique public power concept actually boasts of hundreds of public power systems from the municipals — to rural power districts and cooperatives — to large generation and transmission public power districts.

Electric rates among the lowest in the nation, public ownership and control, responsive service, and historic pride are among the many benefits Nebraskan's derive from living in the nation's only totally public power state.

Engelson dominates stats

The Wayne Blue Devils basketball statistics for the 1987-88 season revealed that Nick Engelson was amongst the leaders in virtually every category for the Blue Devils.

For the 21 game season, Wayne Carroll averaged 63 points per contest, while giving up 56. However, Wayne's opponents shot a better shooting percentage from the field than they did.

The Blue Devils shot 42 percent from the field on the year, while opponents connected on 45 percent. There is consolation however. Wayne shot the ball 481 times on the year, compared to 379 for its opponents.

From the charity stripe, Wayne shot 60 percent on the season, while opponents mustered 59 percent.

Breaking down all the scoring by quarters, Wayne outscored its opponents on the year, in every quarter with the first and second quarters being the strongest.

The only place the Blue Devils were defeated was in the bonus periods, where they were outscored 9-8 on the year.

Individually, Engelson averaged 17.9 points per game while scoring 376 points on the season to lead the Blue Devils. Scott Hammer followed with a 16.6 average and scoring 349 points on the season.

Hammer grabbed 98 rebounds on the season for a 4.6 per game outing. Zeiss led the Blue Devils in the assist category, dishing off 5.1 assists per game, and totaling 108 on the year. Engelson and Hammer followed with a 2.7 and 2.5 per game average.

Engelson also headed the steal category, snatching 4.8 steals per outing, and totaling 102. Zeiss ended the season with 61 steals and Hammer recorded 56 on the year.

Jarrod Wood was the third player to average double figures with 10.8, while scoring a total of 227 points.

Doug Larsen ended the season averaging 5.4 points per outing, while Jess Zeiss rounded out the starting quintet with a 4.3 point average.

Willie Gross and Jed Reeg were the leaders off the bench, each contributing 2.4 points per contest.

Engelson headed the list in rebounding for Wayne also. He contributed 7.3 caroms per outing, while totaling 154 for the year. Wood followed with 6.9 per game and 146 for the year.

Ironically, Larsen finished the year with 115 points for his 5.4 points per game, while at the same time he ended the year with 113 rebounds for a 5.4 average.

Wildcats split double header

The Wayne State baseball team returned to action on Thursday, March 10, as they continued their road swing through the state of Oklahoma, stopping in Lawton Oklahoma to play Cameron College.

The Wildcats earned a split from the host team by winning the first, 12-9, and losing the nightcap, 16-3.

Jeff Pasot picked up the victory in the opening game, while Corey Weinmaster earned the save.

Wayne State trailed 3-1 heading into the third inning when Destry Jaeger took matters into his own hands.

After two Wildcats had reached base, Jaeger cracked a three-run home run to cap a five run inning for the Wildcats.

Wayne State showed the big stick in this contest, smacking 17 hits enroute to the 12 run game. Jaeger finished 2-4 from the plate, but picked up five RBI's.

Craig Koehler ground out four hits in the contest including a double. Randy Yärke also paced the Wildcats with four hits, including two doubles. Pat Salerno earned three hits in the first game, with a single, double and triple, and Dale Irving also picked up a triple.

In the nightcap, Head Coach Lenny Klaver went with an all freshman line-up. Pitcher John Hagen picked up the loss, while the Wildcats fell to 2-4 on the season.

Cameron, on the other hand, is now 12-3 on the year, and was aided in the nightcap with an eight run first inning.

ALLEN'S LANA ERWIN (defense) led the Eagles offensively all season as well as being a consistent defensive player.

TIM JACOBSEN led both the Lewis and Clark conferences in scoring this season with a 29 point per game average.

Wayne State loses pair

In Wednesday's Wayne State College baseball action, the Wildcats visited Oklahoma City, to play Oklahoma Baptist in a double header.

The Wildcats were not so fortunate to split with the home team as they dropped the first game, 7-1, and the second as well, 3-1.

In the initial game, Oklahoma Baptist exploded for six second inning runs to break the Wildcats backs.

Corey Weinmaster took the loss for Wayne State, while only pitching 1 2/3 innings, and giving up five walks. Don Graham gave up one run in the sixth inning while going the rest of the way.

In the nightcap, Oklahoma Baptist got two runs in the third inning which proved to be all they needed in its slim 3-1 victory. Kevin Hoffart picked up the loss on the mound.

The Wildcats only run came in the sixth inning, when Destry Jaeger sacrificed Craig Koehler who was on third after reaching base, and advancing to third on Pat Salerno's double. Randy Yärke also picked up a double during the contest.

Wayne State's record dropped to 1-3 on the young season.

Klaver's last season successful

The first winning season in 10 years and a second straight appearance in the District 11 playoffs highlighted the 1987-88 women's basketball season, according to Head Coach Lenny Klaver.

Klaver's squad finished the year 16-14 overall with an 86-73 loss to eventual champion Doane College on March 2. The .552 winning percentage was the first over .500 since the 1977 squad finished 20-11 under Chuck Brewer.

The semi-final game against Doane marked the first time the Lady Wildcats had won a district playoff contest in seven seasons and the first round victory over Midland on Feb. 29, was the first home playoff contest for Wayne State in 10 years.

The 1987-88 squad set 11 school records including five new individual records by junior guard Linda Schnitzler. The Battle Creek native now holds school records for most field goals made in a career, 624; most field goal attempts in a season, 512; Most field goal attempts in a career, 1,361; most free throws made in a career, 250, and most steals in a season, 76.

Point guard Michelle Blomberg owns two school records including the career assist mark, 453, and best free throw percentage in a season, 77 percent.

Jodene Finck set a school record with five blocked shots in the game against St. Mary. Wayne State also set a school team mark of seven blocked shots in that game.

Schnitzler earned first team all-district honors for the third straight year, while Blomberg, seniors Dawnn Bern-Tucker and Kris Smith earned honorable mention all-district.

AMONG THE THINGS THAT WORK BEST IN NEBRASKA ARE NEBRASKANS.

Quality labor and Nebraska have gone hand in hand for many years. And it's one of the most important factors placing our state at the top of the list in national productivity studies.

Over 763,000 Nebraskans are currently at work within our state, with an unemployment rate of only 5%, well below the national average. Other statistics we can take pride in include low absenteeism, low turnover, fewer work stoppages, and workman compensation rates that are among the lowest in the U.S. Fifty-three thousand new jobs have been created over the past five years, putting more Nebraskans to work than ever before.

All of which really isn't surprising. In Nebraska, the Midwest work ethic blends with Western spirit and enthusiasm. Our "can do" attitude is reflected in every area of employment — from agriculture to industry, from high fashion retailing to high tech research. This attitude is also reflected in Nebraska being one of only seven states guaranteeing the right-to-work within the state's constitution.

It's just one more in a series of positive signs demonstrating that positive things are at work in Nebraska.

The money you spend helps your community grow & prosper

A part of everything you spend in local stores goes to make your town a better place to live for you and your family. Merchants pay taxes, make charitable contributions and support local institutions. The merchants are your neighbors and they want to work with you to improve and support the good life in your community. You'll be helping your neighbors and yourself.

When you shop locally, everyone benefits. It's more convenient so you save gas and time. You get friendly, knowledgeable service because local merchants "know" you and appreciate your business. They depend on you to keep their stores going strong. And some of what you spend goes back into the community in the form of taxes and charitable contributions paid by the merchants.

Check hostage explained

In last week's column, I reported that the Judicial Resources Commission would decide whether to nominate a county judge in the 8th District to replace Judge Neil McCuhan. The Commission could have used the vacancy to appoint a new judge to a different District. The public hearing included strong support from northeast Nebraska and testimony from Senator Hefner and myself that the vacancy should be filled within the 8th District. The Commission voted to do so.

As of this past week, public hearings on all of the bills introduced this year have been completed leaving the entire day for floor debate. This will continue until the conclusion of this session on April 8th.

Floor debate offers the opportunity to vote for or against a bill. During the first two readings, it also offers the opportunity to make changes in a bill in order to compromise or improve the legislation. Often a bill is significantly altered by an amendment. LB 987 is an example. It provides for the creation of a master lien list to be distributed by the Secretary of State. A controversial provision dealt with holding a check "hostage."

A check hostage situation can begin when a farmer borrows from a bank, a fertilizer dealer, and other suppliers to plant a crop. To protect their debts the creditors may file liens, claiming part of the income from the crop. When a produce buyer such as a grain elevator buys the farmer's crop, the buyer looks at a state computer list for creditors under the farmer's name. The buyer then writes a check to the farmer and all the creditors listed so that an en-

by Sen. Gerald Conway

amendment during debate that would rewrite the check hostage section. My amendment eliminated "consequential damages" and rewrote the section so that damages and the responsibility for payment of costs would be more clearly described for a wrongful refusal to endorse. This amendment satisfied all parties, including the representatives of the various dealers, bankers, and farmer groups. The amendment was adopted and LB 987 was advanced from General File on a 31-0 vote.

Another bill of interest that was debated this week was LB 294. The bill is a carryover bill from last year that changes corporate tax rates. Last year, LB 775 overhauled the state's corporate income tax structure by creating a substantial series of tax credits for qualifying corporations. LB 294 was originally introduced as part of the Governor's 1987 tax package, but it was not acted upon. To help make up for some of the lost revenue, a 1-1.1-percent tax increase would be placed on corporations with taxable incomes above $50,000. About 100 corporations in the state is all that will carry enough credits from LB 775 that their taxable incomes will not reach this amount.

Revenue projections indicate the bill will raise $640,000 in 1988-89, $1.4 million in 1989-90 and $2.8 million annually thereafter. In light of the reduced corporate tax brought about by the impact of LB 775 and LB 773 of last year, I supported this bill as a modest step for corporate Nebraska to pay its fair share along with the rest of us. Working together, we can create a strong environment for economic growth.

dorsement by each will be required before the check can be cashed. By refusing to endorse the check, a creditor can hold it "hostage," until that creditor receives some kind of assurance that he will be paid. Disputes can last for months; the result is that the farmer and the other creditors aren't paid.

THE ORIGINAL check hostage section stated that any creditor who "wrongfully refuses" to endorse a check would be liable to other creditors for damages, including "consequential damages," attorneys' fees and court costs. A dispute arose over this section. Proponents argued it was necessary, otherwise check hostage situations would occur more frequently because dealers' liens would be added to the master list. Opponents feared "consequential damages" could include large amounts of interest and even bankruptcy costs if that somehow became the result of non-payment.

To overcome this conflict, which jeopardized a good bill, I offered an

Choral festival planned

Nine high schools will participate in Wayne State College's 17th annual Choral Festival on Wednesday, March 16 in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Building.

Students will arrive at 8:30 a.m. and rehearsal starts at 9 a.m. Individual and massed choir rehearsals and performances will be presented throughout the afternoon.

Albion, Chadron, Norfolk, Pender, Stuart, Wayne, Granville-Spalding (Iowa), Stuart and Lincoln Northeast Chamber Choir (Honor Choir) will participate.

The participants are selected through taped auditions, according to Dr. Cornell Runestad, professor of music at Wayne State, and director of the festival.

"This festival gives students a high quality mass choir experience," said Runestad. "There will be 600 to 700 of us singing together that day, and this will give each individual high school choir a chance to perform individually for each other in a live performance situation."

He added that the festival is also good preparation for upcoming high school spring choir concerts.
