Waldbaum's sells share of company interest

Thumbs up

anaging Editor The Milton G. Waldbaum Company has reached an agreement, in prin-cipal, to sell 50 percent interest in the company to Michael Foods, Inc. of Minneapolis, Minnesota. Michael Foods, Inc. is a holding company with an extensive interest in the processing and distribution of food products.

"It is anticipated that the financial production capabilities and capacity of the Waldbaum Company will greatly enhance the already suc-cessful operation of the Milton G. Waldbaum Company," according to a news release recently provided from the Waldbaum Company to The Wayne Herald.

The news release said that the operation of the Milton G. Waldbaum Company will "continue to be centered in Wakefield, with no changes in officers or the management of the company.

Dan Gardner will continue in the role of president and chief executive officer. Other key officers will be David Gardner, vice president and chief operations officer; Mike Alvano, treasurer and chief financial officer; Don Paulsen, vice president of farm operations; Dean Hughson,

True leaders

April 22 marks the seventh annual observance of Girl Scout Leader's Day. Locally, 23 leaders in the Wakefield, Wayne and Winside area oversee scouting activities for 222 girls ranging from Daisies to Senior Scouts History has shown us that effective civic, business and governmental leaders can move mountains for the common good. It also has shown us the adverse effect poor leaders can have on our lives.

What insurance do we have that our leaders are prepared to make the right choices for all of us? Do we place enough importance on the training they receive before they assume such influential roles?

The Girl Scouts recognizes the need to prepare youth for the challenges ahead. The values, self-confidence and leadership skills gained through Girl Scouting will help girls make sound decisions on issues that affect all of us. An atmosphere of fun and friendship, combined with challenging activities, makes Girl Scouting the perfect training ground for tomorrow's

What kind of people are responsible for this vital learning process? Adults who are committed to youth and who know the importance of guidance during the early years. These Girl Scout leaders juggle full business, social, academic and family lives, and still find time to form partnerships with girls.

As important role models, Girl Scout leaders are in the ideal position to help girls gain a better understanding of the world around them. They offer the friendship and encouragement around them. They offer the friendship and encouragement that help girls build self-worth and solid values. The efforts of thousands of Girl Scout leaders are helping girls become responsible citizens and effective leaders.

April 22 is Girl Scout Leader's Day nationwide. The Wayne Herald is proud to acknowledge the outstanding volunteers who are taking the lead in our community through Girl Scouting

The meeting is sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Comments are being solicited on the eight issues that have been published in the Federal Register Notice dated March 9, 1988.

Under the Endangered Species Protection Program, the EPA must ensure that pesticides will not jeopar-

In Nebraska, the Act has identified two bird species, the Interior Least Tern and the Piping Plover, and one plant species, the Blowout Penstemon, as endangered.

The EPA is yet to finalize the size and scope of impacted areas in Nebraska that will have pesticide prohibitions. It is anticipated that the Endangered Species Protection Program will be implemented in Nebraska in 1990.

"THIS MEETING provides an op-portunity for Nebraskans to express their concerns, and to encourage practical applications of EPA pro-grams," explained George Beattle, assistant director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture. ### Marker removal

I live at Sunnyhill Villa right next to Mayor Park. I enjoy my view of the park from my living room win-dow, but I don't like the cemetery dow, but I don't like the cemetery markers all over the park. I've been told by several other residents that visiting relatives and friends comment on our cemetery next door to us. A plaque could be placed at the south end with names of Mayors and bushes planted in their honor with name of park above the list — just remove the white crosses, please. The work being done on the alley looks great. I hope they seed it to grass.

In bad shape

Dear Wayne County Commis-

Dear Wayne County Scients.

The new parking lot to the east of the county courthouse is nice enough, but why is the building itself being allowed to deteriorate so? I believe it in the building itself being allowed to years. was the vote of the people two years ago (perhaps more) to preserve our "castle on the hill." Yet, the front entrance hasn't been used for decades trance hasn't been used for decades because of the sagging threshold and the side entrance door is very shabby and rickety looking. I understand that the few improvements made inside have been makeshift and as inexpensively as possible. Perhaps, it is your intent to let the structure deteriorate to the point of no return, regardless of the will of your constituency?

If the disrepair of our facility were any indication of our interest in keeping the county seat, the prognosis would be dismal. How much money is there and why isn't wifat is there being used for badly needed repairs on the beautiful old building itself, instead of all around it? ad of all around it?

Wayne woman feels special bond toward Winside museum project

Wayne resident, Mathilde Reeg has a special interest in a project linside residents began about two years ago.

When members of the Theophilus Church voted to disband their congregation, a proposal was made to residents of Winside to have the church relocated in the community for use as a branch museum of the Wayne County Historical Society.

While the church building and its contents were donated for use as a museum, money was needed to move the building and restore it.

Last June, the community project became a reality when enough money was raised to relocate the church.

Fundraising efforts continue, however, to complete work on the building before it is opened as a museum. gregation, a proposal was made to residents of Winside to have th

ON SATURDAY, April 23 the Winside Museum Committee has scheduled a Spring Filing fundraiser in the village auditorium to raise money to complete the museum.

Among items donated for the event is a queen size quilt made by Mrs. Reeg, who was a member of the Theophilus Church for 63 years. She is currently the oldest living member of the disbanded congregation.

MRS. REEG, 88, constructed the eight-colored lavender, blue and pink quilt in just three weeks and made two matching pillow shams. While the Wayne resident donated her time and talents, cost of the materials was donated by Schumacher Funeral Homes of Wayne and Winside.

"The pattern is called Trip Around the World," says Mrs. Reeg. "I first made this pattern about two years ago, and have done 23 since then. I just love to do them."

THE ENERGETIC and lively woman says she has no idea how many quilts she makes in a year — "but it's quite a few."

She cuts strips of material in three thicknesses, then cuts squares from them. The squares are sewn together on her first and only 1918 treadle sewing machine.

While Mrs. Reeg has to sew part of the backing by machine and part of the scalloped-edged border, each block is hand quilted by "quilting in a ditch" (stitching in the seams instead of on the outside of the

MRS. REEG SAYS she began working with quitts when she was about 12 years old. Her mother said she had to recover all of her quitts before she "went off and got married."
"We used to tie all the quilts back in the 1920's."
Following her marriage, Mrs. Reeg did quilting with the Ladies Aid and a few family members until 1952 when she started doing the work on her own.

Mrs. Reeg has been widowed for about five years. She and her husband Fred were the parents of two sons — Ray farms west of Wayne and Donald is deceased. One granddaughter, Jana Reeg Steidinger, resides in Wisconsin.

"Jana works in the library at the University of Wisconsin Stout in Menomonie where she has hung on a wall a velvet 'crazy quilt' 1 made for her," smiles Mrs. Reeg.

Mathilde knows of her quilts also being in the states of New York,

Washington, Minnesota and Arizona "My husband thought that hanging quilts on the wall was the craziest thing to do, but it makes me real proud they want to do that."

* MRS. REEG says she has never advertised her quilting. "People just pass on the information and I get calls from lots of folks.
"A lot of times quilts are found in old trunks or boxes by loved ones after someone passes on. They call me and ask if I'll put the pieces together or finish it.

Yve had to try to find missing pieces of material on a number of occasions. I have lots of different scraps that I've saved over the years, and lots of times people give me boxes of material they don't want.

"If I have to go out and purchase material for a quilt it takes me about a day. I have no vehicle so I take the Wayne mini bus downtown to one of my favorite stores and start there. Lots of times I have to go from store to store to find just the right color combinations and the right threads."

American Cancer Society conducting fund drive

Get ready! There's going to be a street fight in Wayne this Saturday when approximately 150 American Cancer Society volunteers will invade Wayne County neighborhoods to spread the word about mammography and to raise money to battle cancer.

This year's door-to-door campaign is called "Street Fight," and volunteers will be talking some tough facts on breast cancer. For instance, one in 10 women under age 40 will contract breast cancer some day, making it the number two killer of women: a mammography (recommended annually for women over age 40-50) can detect cancer when its the size of a small dried pea and survival is almost 100 percent; a breast self-exam each month can help women detect it.

FUNDS RAISED during the crusade will be used for research, education for youth, adults and medical professionals, and for rehabilitation and service programs for cancer patients. Sixty percent of all money raised will stay in Nebraska and will be accessible to Wayne County. Volunteers should report to the First United Methodist Church fellowship hall at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday for training and distribution of materials, after which they will canvas their respective neighborhoods.

THE TRIP TO South Korea, site of the 1988 Summer Olympics continues for Wayne-Carroll students. By water they have traveled 1,875 miles into the North Pacific Ocean at the 40th latitude. On land, the students have passed by British Columbia and the corner of the Yukon Territory in Alaska, going past Juneau and Valdex, Alaska and nearing Mount McKinley. At right, fifth grade resource student Hamer assists Middle School resource teacher Vicki Mayer add up the miles.

8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre

FEATURED SOLOISTS during the concert band performance will be Connie Webber, professor of voice and music education, and Dr. Christopher Bonds, professor of strings.

Webber will sing George Gershwin's "Summertime" and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," and "Italian Street Song" from the operetta "Naughty Marietta."

Bonds will perform a violin solo during "Meditation" from the opera "Thals."

Other selections include music from the new award-winning musical 'Les Miserables," which won a Tony award for the best new musical in 1987, and has been playing to sell-out crowds in New York and London, according to Dr. Raymond Kelton, interim director of bands at Wayne

JAZZ CLASSICS such as "Mack the Knife" and "All of Me" will be featured when the lazz band performs.

Two members of the band will be featured in solo performances. Brad Strieve, alto sax, does a solo in "Broken Promises," and Cheryl Kopperud during a number of Big Band selections.

A LARGE CROWD LAUGHED ITS way through the second annual men's "Tootsie" style show last Saturday evening at Hoskins Public School. A free will offering was taken at the door with all proceeds going to the Hoskins Youth Recreation Fund. Twenty-eight "outfits" were modeled during the event. Jim Webster in his Reba McIntired creation, center right photo, was voted Queen of the Show. Also pictured during the event, clockwise from upper left, is a young Hoskins tot wondering if these men are for real; "mistresses of ceremonies" Drex Cushing, at left, and Dan Bruggeman; Webster; John Gallop Jr. in his bunny outfit; and Curt Orr after an afternoon of gardening. First runner-up in the show was Gary Ehrenfried as Miss Spuds McKenzie, and second runner-up was Richard Behmer as Carmen Charmin. Last year's Queen, Darrell Maier, crowned this year's Queen and presented trophies to all the winners. Peg Behmer welcomed the group and introduced the ushers, Vicki Walker and Vicki Johnson, and narrators Cushing and Bruggeman. Judges were Gloria Doffin, Carl Mann, Irene Fletcher, Ramona Puls and Duane Lienemann.

Eastern Nebraska below normal

Moisture lacking

Recent rains have contributed little to the Nebraska subsoil moisture reer to the Neoraska sussoil moisture reserves, according to soil scientists at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. They say Nebraska is now more vulnerable to a possible sum-mer drought than in recent years.

Extension soil specialist Alice Jones has conducted deep soil proces throughout eastern Nebraska. Her results show the top 3 feet of soil is about 2 inches short of moisture. Five feet of most eastern Nebraska soils can be filled to capacity with 10 to 12 inches of water. Eastern Nebraska, vhich has relatively little irrigated far mland, depends mainly on rainfall for moisture.

"A large area of eastern Nebraska A raige after on testistan rectasts and continues to be from 15 percent to as much as 50 percent below normal precipitation for subsoil recharge, which begins Sept. 1 and ends about May 15," said R.E. Nelld, extension climatelogist. climatologist.

As a result, a growing crop may not get the moisture it needs. "This deep soil reserve is used much like a bank uses its savings deposits to loan money," the scientists said. "When rainfall isn't sufficient, a plant turns to soil water reserves to provide the required moisture."

The chances of making up the loss of moisture is slim. Analyses of long-term weather records since 1900 in:

show that in years when preseason precipitation was below average, the probability of achieving an average yield was 50-50. "It closely depends upon whether the growing season precipitation" is above or below average," the scientists noted average," the scientists noted.

The most rainfall usually occurs during the 30-day period between May 15 and June 15, which is a critical time to obtain moisture for Nebraska's streams. lakes, ponds and reservoirs. Timely rains in July, the holtest time of the year, are important for crops, the scientists said.

TWELVE YOUTHS participated in the Bible Quiz Festival. The lower division team (grades 7-9) included Shannon Arduser, Shane Kardell, Diane Boysen, Jason Kvols and Scott Carlson of Laurel, and Phillip Bloom of Dixon. They won three of three quizzes against a team from Overland Park, Kan.

The upper division quiz team (grades 10-12) also won three of three quizzes against teams from Wichita, Kan. and McCook, Neb.

Members of the upper division team were Lana Erwin, Diane Olson, Kristie Kvols, Tonya Kamrath, Scott Boysen and Vonda Boysen of Laurel. Quiz material included the New Testament books of I and II Peter and Hebrews. The 12 youths began studying the material in August 1986, coached by Judy Kvols of Laurel and Judy Brenner of Concord.

They held practice quizzes during the year with adult members of the church and with teams from Marshall, Minn.

THOSE TEENS WHO achieved superior ratings at the festival, and both upper and lower division quiz teams, are now qualified to compete at the national conference, "Making opportunity for more of depositors' funds.

Interest-bearing accounts at your bank compete with a variety of other investments. Some, like stocks, may appear to offer greater return interest, but commissions paid to brokers affect your net yield. And other investments may not offer the safety of bank savings. Money on deposit in your Nebraska' bank is insured up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, an independent agency of the federal government. No such insurance exists in the stock market or on other speculative investments. That swhy it's wise to carefully study the safety of investment alternatives that appear to offer higher yields.

HERE'S THE REAL LOWDOWN O INTEREST RATES.

There are two types of interest that affect you and your money: the interest you pay and the interest you earn. Here's how they work and how they're related.

The interest you pay.

Today, interest rates on loans are about the lowest they we been in recent years. That's great if you're borrowing money. You may wonder why banks don't always offer loans at such low rates. The truth is, they would like to.

But interest rates are largely influenced by outside economic factors such as the health of the national economy, the rate of inflation, how much the federal government borrows and how much this costs your bank to attract the funds used to meet loan demand, just to page a few. The money your bank has available for loans comes from depositors who are earning interest on their funds. The interest rate charged by your bank for loans depend to a high degree, on the interest rate paid to those depositors.

In the banking business, the interest charged on loans is on the average higher than the interest paid on deposits. Without the difference between the two, or the margin, your bank would be unable to cover its operating expenses.

Nebraska Bankers are committed to oaning money to Nebraskans to help the conomy of their state. We also realize tha we have a responsibility to our depositors t we have a responsibility to ou loan money wisely and safely

It reported that old one hundred, who absolutely refused to let anyone near her or her new calf, had had this year's calf on the same day as her daughter had had her first baby. And guess what, like mother, like daughter! like daughter!

I rather like Dick's suggestion as a solution. He says we need to load the whole family on a truck and head for

HARD WORK HAS MADE NEBRASKA'S THIRD LARGEST

There's no time for relaxation for the people that run our state's travel and tourism industry. Over the 12 months of each year, more than 16 million nonresidents travel through the state. Along the way, they contribute over $1.3 billion to our state and local economies.

Nebraska tourism has grown to become our third largest industry with its revenue contribution increasing 30% since 1980. Employing 35,000 people, travel and tourism is definitely on the move as one of Nebraska's major growth industries.

Nebraska is gaining a favorable reputation nationally thanks to our abundant outdoor recreation (100 public lakes, 5,000 miles of rivers, and 100,000 acres of star danational park land). Not to mention regionally prominent d special events that:

Another reason tourism works for Nebraska is Nebraskans themselves. Paid employees and volunte every community across the state go out of their way make visitors to our state feel welcome. And that is o the major attractions of Nebraska.

Sure, it's a lot of hard work, but the rewards are great and no one ever said the business of relaxing should be easy.

Four Medicines for Glaucoma

Glaucoma, a condition of increased pressure from fluid build-up within the eye, is the leading cause of blindness in the United States. Eye specialists commonly use one or more medicine groups to treat this condition. Each group has its own specific advantages and disadvantages.

Beta Blockers: These medicines reduce eye pressure by slowing the production of aqueous fluid within the eye. Timolol was the first of the beta blockers used in glaucoma.

Adrenalin-Like Agents: Epinephrine and related compounds are thought to ease eye pressure by improving eye fluid drainage.

Cholinesterase Inhibitors: Physostigmine, demecarium bromide, and echothiopate iodide cause drainage of aqueous fluid from within the eye for prolonged periods of time (several days for some of these Direct-Acting Miotics: Pilocarpine and related medications reduce eye pressure by causing certain eye muscles to contract, which open the canal that drains fluid from the eye.
