Board gives nod for training room

Wayne-Carroli's Board of Education has approved a plan to remodel the boys locker room facilities in order to make room for a boys and girls athletic training room.

Last month, the board agreed to implement an athletic trainer/preceptorship with Wayne State College for the fall athletic season of the 1988-89 school year. Wayne State College will provide the high school with a senior who is majoring in athletic training. A com-pensation of $25 per week, for 10 weeks, will be paid to Sedory for his work in a supervisory capacity observing and offering assistance to the WSC athletic student trainer.

A second part of that proposal was to remodel the boys locker room and install an athletic training room where care (such as taping and other injury-prevention tactics) could be given to boy and girl athletes. Cost of the remodeling was an-ticipated at under $1,000 with the project expense to be picked up by the Wayne-Carroll Athletic Booster Club.

This past Tuesday night, the board cation reviewed the locker room situation and unanimously ap-

Customers can count on dependability and reliability when their insurance needs are taken care of by the First National Agency, located at 303 Main St. in Wayne.

Co-managers Steve Muir and Gary Boehle have 11 years of insurance experience to their credit. Both began with Aetna Life and Casualty and worked for the company several years before joining First National Agency as comanagers over two years ago. Working with them as bookkeeper/secretary is Jackie Nicholson, who has been with First National Agency almost six years.

'One of the reasons we joined the First National Agency was the fact that we could sell all lines of insurance and offer a broader range of services," says Muir, adding that First National Agency has represented Travelers Insurance Co., one of its oldest insurance carriers, for ap proximately 50 years.

"We can write just about anything," adds Muir, "from autos and homes to life insurance, annuities, group health plans and crop insurance." First National Agency added two new crop/hail companies this year, and is in the process of looking to add another farm company

Muir said the First National Agency represents many insurance companies which allows it to remain competitive. And, he added, the company is always looking to expand its insurance services so that it can be even more beneficial to the public.

Both Muir and Boehle urge individuals and companies throughout northeast Nebraska to let the First National Agency quote them a price on their insurance needs

"Your insurance is only as good as your agent," adds Boehle, "and we're willing to go the extra step."

HOW DOES SHOCK SAVER V WORK?

The Leviton SHOCK SAVER V instantly detects leakage current flowing through your body to the ground. When the sensor spots as little as 4-6 milliamps of leakage, it automatically turns off the electrical current fast enough to prevent injury to anyone in good health. Current leakage between 5 and 13 milliamps can cause muscle contractions strong enough to prevent the roles of a faulty appliance. Leakage groater than 200 milliamps can be fatal (a 25 watt light bulb uses 200 milliamps).

WHAT THE GFCI DOES FOR YOU

ce protects you against hazard as electrical shock that may be caused if your body becomes a path through which electricity a reach ground. This could happen when you touch an appliance or cord that is "liba" through faulty mechanism, damp or worn, n, etc. You don't even have to be on the ground itself to be shocked; you could be touching plumbing or other material that ground.

When protected by the GFCI you may still feel a shock, but the GFCI should cut it off quickly enough so a person in not not have serious electrical injury (infants and very small children may still be affected).

Investigate the ground fault condition of once by making a thorough check to determine where the ground fault exists in the equipment plugged into your GPL. Cerract the defect at once. Carry out the test procedure outlined below to ensure that your OFCI is operating properly. If the GFCI does not reset, this indicates a ground fault still exists, and must be corrected.

must go through an adoption program. "We give the customer the egg where the bird came out of, or a picture of the bird in its early stages and sometimes pictures of the bird's parents," he said.

Prices for Cunningham's exotic birds start at $1,000. The most expensive ex otic bird, he said, can sell for around $16,000.

Exotic birds are not necessarily a cage bird. They demand a lot of time and attention and are not be placed in a cage all day," he said MAKING SURE that the bird will be going to the right home environment is litical. "If It's not right the first time, you don't want the bird to go home to crifical. "If it's not right to home," said Cunningham.

Eggs from the exotic birds are placed in incubators. Birds such as the Amazons can lay two to five eggs. Macaws can lay two eggs at a time, or three sets of eggs a year

The baby exotic birds are hand-fed by Cunningham every two hours during weeks. "We want them to be receptive to people," he said After 11/2 to two months, feedings are reduced to three times a day

Extensive care of the birds requires constant vigil. "This is the first time in four years that I've been able to get away from the business," he said

How does one obtain the necessary expertise in raising exotic birds?
"There has been no real studies done on the raising of exotic birds until the last few years. They are finally getting together on that. We go to a lot of seminars, do a lot of reading and go by a lot of trial and error," said Cunnicoham.

'People come to me. We adopt to no pet shops, zoos or wholesale outlets,'

'We're in this business for the sake of the exotic birds," he added

CURRENTLY, HE serves as secretary-treasurer of the 100-member Coastal Avian Society based in California.

He is directing more of his business efforts in preserving the exotic birds which are becoming endangered species. Recently he became a member of an organization hoping to slow down the destruction of rain forests in the countries of South America, Australia, Africa, Mexico or Indonesia.

"Sections of rain forest the size of the state of New Jersey are being destroyed every month," he mentioned. Because of this, some of the exotic birds are fast becoming endangered.

Cunningham also expressed concern about the smuggling of the exotic birds into the United States. "Smuggling is very illegal. It can also be dangerous because of the diseases which the birds can spread," he said.

Most of the birds are adopted by Californians, he said, and are adopted through a "strictly private" nature.

But some of the exotic birds which reside in the Rain Forest Exotics business are not for sale, because they are considered by Cunningham askip pets. The birds can weigh up to 10 pounds and can live to be 80 to 100 years old.

There are not all exotic birds that dwell in the the store. Hummingbirds pass from plant to plant scattered throughout the business.

"We have several talking birds, so I have have to be careful with what I say ecause they can pick up easily whatever they hear," he said.
One bird even knows a tew verses of "Somewhere Over the Rainbow", he

Feed grain program payments updated

John W. Neuberger, State Executive Director of the Nebraska State ASCS Office recently indicated producers that have enrolled to participate in the 1988 Feed Grain and Wheat Program are aware that advance payments were available if requested during signup on potential deficiency payment earnings. These advance payment earnings. These advance payments are being advance payments are being calculated by the County Office computers and paid one half in cash and one half in commodity certificates.

Neuberger stated the cash advance portion of the payment was made by County ASCS Offices as soon as possible after signup was completed.
Many of these cash payments were made in May because of the volume of checks to be issued from the Cour ty Office and the slowness of the soft-ty Office and the slowness of the soft-ware which were furnished by Washington for the computers. The County Offices, have no control over the software calculation process. The certificate portion of the ad-vance payment has been publicized to be issued at or near May 16, 1988. The same calculation process will be performed by the computers will be performed by the computers with new software that will become available in County Offices on the weekend of May 14. The computer calculation process is slow and certificates cannot be processed until the calculations are completed. Neuberger stated, there will be considerable delays in counties with more than 500 tarms in the processing and mailing of certicates to pro-ing and mailing of cerficates to producers. Some counties with a large number of producers participating could take in excess of three weeks from the date that calculations begin release so producers would understand the delays they may experience in receiving their advance certificate payment for 1988 participation.

payment for 1988 participation.

Neuberger reported that he regrets that certificates may not be available to all producers at or near May 16, as previously announced. However, Washington is working to improve the speed of the current software and considerable effort will be made to speed up the calculation process in
