State college board approves fund requests

Spurred by a study indicating that the four Nebraska State College are the four Nebraska State College are inadequately funded, the Board of Trustees approved substantially higher budget requests for the 1989-91 biennium during a meeting Friday morning in Chadron.

Amounts of the state college system budget were released on Monday, Aug. 1 by the office of information at Chadron-State College.

winside Public Schools proposed operating budget will increase approximately $41,615 or 4.12 percent over last year's budget.

However, the operating budget tax request will increase about $69, according to Winside Superintendent Don Leighton.

"This is due to the fact that we received more revenue than had been expected and that there will be a drop in the cash reserve of about $39,000," he said.

Leighton mentioned that because of miscalculations over the last two years in the bond fund, and a shortage of receipts in that fund, the bond request will have to be increased

The history of the church was read by Mrs. Etfa Fisher, anniversary chairman, and special music was furnished by a Welsh quartet comprised of Erwin Morris, John Rees, Milton Owens and Stan Morris, accompanied by Mrs. John Rees.

LOREN KUCERA of Clarkson, moderator of Homestead Presbytery, extended greetings, and Dr. Harp of Lincoln, executive director of Homestead Presbytery, spoke.

Pastor Axen was in charge of the anniversary message, and the au-dience sang "Bless Be the Tie That Binds," accompanied by Mrs. Tillie

Two hundred and fifty persons were registered for the celebration, which closed with cake and refreshments in the church fellowship hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jenkins of Garden City, Kan. became owners of a quilt made by the Presbyterian Women and sold with sealed bids.

SUNSET PLAZA

Sunset Plaza at Hwy. 81 and 275 Bypass in Norfolk has provided the public with 20 years of customer service, not to mention all of the entertaining activities that take place there each week. The Plaza recently celebrated its 20th anniversary on May 21, 1988.

Marketing director of Sunset Plaza for the last six months is Pat Cope, who moved here from Amarillo, Texas with her husband Spencer, and two children, Tera and Jeremiah. Pat says it's the variety of businesses here that attracts customers, and also their excellence in customer service. The Plaza has an in house reward system for outstanding services to the public.

Nonse reward system for outstanding services to the public.

Manager of the Sunset Plaza, which houses over 33 businesses, is Michael Johnson, who recently moved to Norfolk from Indiana with his wife Ashley. During the month of August, there will be two fashion shows, a gem and mineral show, a 5 hour blitz sale, a back to school teen bash, and farmers' markets every Saturday — not to mention the great bargains all month long. Sunset Plaza hours are 10 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday-Friday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. on Saturday, and noon:5 p.m. on Sunday.

Professor presents paper

Dr. Kathryn Carter, associate professor of communication at Wayne

Dr. Kathryn Carler, associate professor of communication at Wayne State College, recently presented a paper at the International Communication Association Convention in New Orleans.

Carler co-authored the paper, titled "The Subjective/Objective Dichotomy in Communication Research. Gender Images in Research Traditions," with Dr. Carole Spitzack, assistant professor of communication at Tulane University in New Orleans.

The paper illustrates how gender affects research and how science gets fied to masculinity, according to Carler.

Carter, who began teaching at Wayne State in 1986, earned her bachelor's degree from Mississippi State In 1976, her master's degree from Texas Christian University in 1978, and her Ph.D. from Southern Illinois in 1985.

becoming infested with spider mites, according to Rod Patent, extension agent-agriculture for the Wayne county area.

While not a major problem as of yet, if continued dry conditions persist fields should be closely watched.

Spider mites in Northeast Nebraska are generally associated with corn, appearing in mid-late July and occasionally causing serious problems, usually in the western part of our district where normally less rainfall occurs at this time of the year. In Northeast Nebraska mite populations in corn usually begin to decline during the third week in August.

Mite damage usually starts at the edge of a field and moves inward, but "hot spots" can be found anywhere there may be abnormal stress.

Lower leaves are typically injured first. Mites suck fluids from plant cells, causing small yellow stippled areas to appear on the undersides of leaves. Leaves then turn yellow and then brown. Large areas of an in-

Bacterial blight can be seen in some area fields and should not be confused with spider mite damage. It is of minor_importance but may cause panic if rumors about mites start. Symptoms of bacterial blight include pale green, water soaked spots on upper and lower leaf sur-faces. The centers of these spots will dry out and turn reddish-brown to black with a pale yellow halo sur-rounding each spot. As the spots enlarge, they merge to produce large, irregular dead areas. The dead areas frequently drop out or tear away due to high winds and this is sometimes confused with other feeding.
