Road block

TRAFFIC ON HIGHWAY 35 ABOUT two and a quarter miles east of Wayne was blocked for nearly three hours Monday following a semitrailer accident. Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen said Darrell Carlson of Sioux City was driver of the 1984 Kenworth truck and trailer which jackknifed on the highway at about 12:30 p.m. Carlson, who was driving for Artex, Inc. of South Sioux City, said he lost control of the trailer and the front steering wheels went onto the south shoulder of the road, causing the tractor to go overtop a culvert. The trailer ended up across the highway, blocking traffic until approximately 3:30 p.m. Janssen said the trailer was empty and minimal damage was reported. The driver was uninjured.

College fills finance position

Two announcements involving personnel at Wayne State College were released this week.

Andrew K. Soll has been named vice president for administration and finance at Wayne State, according to college president Dr. Donald Mash. Soll comes to Wayne State from George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia, where he served as assistant vice president for planning and budget and was budget director.

He will be responsible for looking after the preparation of budget and financial documents at Wayne State, and he will supervise the general administration of the college.

"We've attracted an outstanding person to the college," Mash says. "Mr. Soll has looked after a large and dynamic university operating budget for a number of years. He understands the ins and outs of public institutions and most importantly he has experience on both sides of the table — as university administrator and as a state unit chief and budget analyst for higher education."

"He couples his comprehensive knowledge of education and finance with a people-oriented administrative style. We're fortunate to have attracted him and his wife, Beverly, to Wayne State College."

MRS. SOLL WILL join the music faculty and will establish a center to promote the extension of Wayne State's fine arts and other cultural activities.

Prior to eight years of service at George Mason, Soll served as unit chief for higher education, Illinois Bureau of the Budget, executive office of the governor, 1977-80; budget analyst, education division, Illinois Bureau of the Budget, 1976-77; and graduate assistant, office of the chancellor, University of Illinois at Urbana/Champaign, 1974-76.

Soll received his master's degree in higher education administration from the University of Illinois, 1976; master's degree in music from the University of Illinois, 1973; and bachelor's degree in music from Oberlin College in 1969.

DR. MAX Lundstrom has been promoted to assistant vice president for information management at Wayne State College, according to Dr. Donald Whisenhunt, provost and vice president for academic affairs.

In his new position, Lundstrom will serve as the computer center supervisor, computer training coordinator, liaison officer with the North Central Association, and institutional director.

"This is a very significant appointment," said Whisenhunt. "We have needed a person to coordinate these very important tasks for many years. With the information explosion and new information age, it is imperative that we stay abreast of the latest developments in information management. With this position filled, the college will be much more effectively administered."

LUNDSTROM CAME to Wayne State College in 1958 and has served the college in a variety of capacities.

Against State, Region IV Lawsuits filed

Two lawsuits were filed on Aug. 15 in Wayne County District Court against the State of Nebraska, acting through the Region IV Area Office of Developmental Disabilities.

Plaintiffs Dennis and Eleanor Roggach of Bassett have filed a lawsuit for special and general damages on behalf of their minor child (Ronny) in the amount of $483,032.66.

The second lawsuit against the same party was filed in the name of parents Dennis and Eleanor Roggach in the amount of $128,525.30.

The lawsuit filing document states that the minor child was severely burned in June, 1985 at a Region IV facility in Wayne. The district court filing document reports that the minor child entered the bathroom area of the Region IV facility, fell in to the bathtub and his clothing caught the hot water control knob or handle, causing him to suffer severe burns from the scalding hot water.

THE PLAINTIFFS, in the filing, claimed negligence of the defendant — the State of Nebraska acting through the Region IV Area Office of Developmental Disabilities — in the two lawsuits filed in district court.

In the district court filing, it was entered that the minor child, as a result of the burn incident, has suffered first, second and third degree burns over his face, right arm and hand, chest, torso, back, buttock, thighs and side; endured scarring, disfigurement and mental and physical pain; has enhanced the child's seizure disorder; and has resulted in the loss of use of a portion of minor child's body, hands included.

The total fiscal 1989 budget of $1.43 million reflects an increase of 6 percent over fiscal 1988 expenditures, which will result in a 4 percent increase in total property tax dollars collected.

Below are programs that will realize additional funding as a result of the budget increase. These programs represent 55 percent of the ## Accident claims life

The Wayne County Attorney's Office and the Wayne County Sheriff's Office are investigating the death of a rural Pender man late Tuesday afternoon.

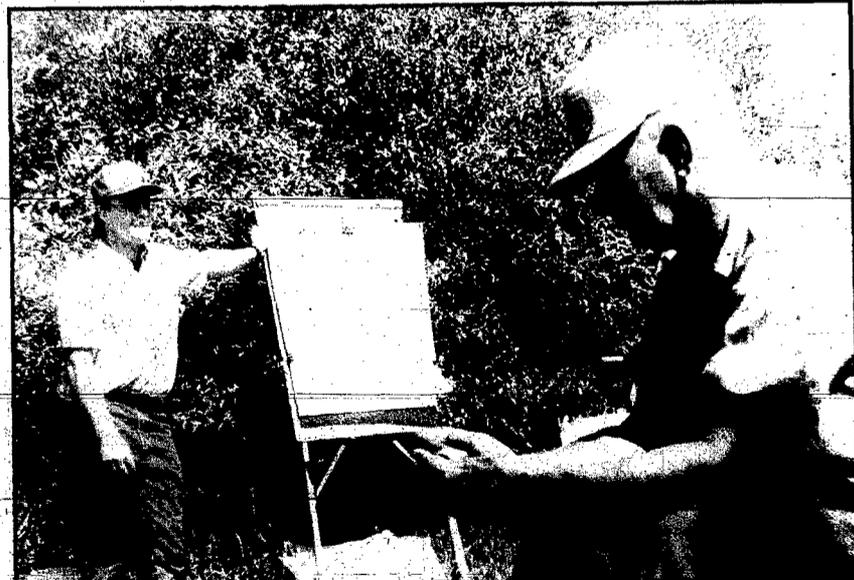

Jay Kai, 21, was working on the family farm 10 miles south and one west of Wakefield when he was found by his father, Roy Kai, in a barn near the power washer equipment he was using.

Attempts by the family and Wisner rescue workers to revive Kai were unsuccessful.

WAYNE COUNTY Sheriff LeRoy Janssen said Kai was pronounced dead at the farm by Wayne County Coroner Robert Ens.

An autopsy was ordered in the case to assist in determining the cause of death. Preliminary autopsy reports indicate death was caused by low voltage electrocution.

Janssen said the accident occurred about 4 p.m.

For home canners

Low-sugar, no-sugar jellies easy to make

Reduced sugar and sugar-free jelly is now easy to make at home.

For years, attempts to make low and no sugar jelly have been less than successful. Now, however, there are several products on the market that are as easy to use as regular fruit pectines, according to Esther Wyant, home economist in Lancaster County.

The reduced-sugar jelly is made with a heavy-duty pectin, so less is required to get the same amount of fruit juice and less sugar is used also.

The jelly yields the same texture and color characteristics as regular jelly, but only if directions are followed. If less than the recommended amount of sugar is used, the juice won't gel at all, Wyant said.

SUGAR-FREE jelly uses a calcium-jelling pectin that gets the juice without added sugar. If a sweeter jelly is preferred, sugar, honey or an artificial sweetener may be added. Sugar-free jelly also has the same color and texture of standard jelly.

Unflavored gelatins may be used to thicken sweet fruits or apple juice, Wyant added. For a sweeter flavor, liquid aspartame — a low calorie nutritive sweetener — may be added.

Gelatin-based spreads should not be heat processed. They should be refrigerated and used within four weeks.

SUGAR-FREE jellies are low in calories with about 11 calories per tablespoon as compared to 53 calories for the same amount of standard jelly.

Homemakers thinking about making sugar-free jelly this season should know that the amount of jelly per package of thickener and per quart of juice is much less than with the standard recipe.

One package of standard pectin yields approximately seven to eight cups of jelly, said Wyant, but one package of the sugar-free products yields about three to four cups.

Wyant added that since sugar acts as a preservative in jellies, the sugar-free jellies may deteriorate more rapidly than usual.

Surviving the back-to-school money crunch

Back-to-school usually means a fat billfold or a fat credit card bill.

"But it doesn't have to be that way," says Kathy Prochaska-Cue, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension family economics and management specialist.

Back-to-school expenses fall into two categories — school-related costs such as supplies and activity fees, and non-school-related costs such as clothes and accessories.

"Unless you know what your child will need for school," said Prochaska-Cue, "consider waiting so you won't have the wrong items on hand. But do try to set aside some money beforehand to help handle the cost."

"One parent I know actually waits until the second or third week of school before shopping for clothes. By then, the kids have decided what the current 'in' and 'out' items are, so things which never get worn are not bought."

FORMER HUSKER running back Jon Kelly was on hand to enlighten the Wayne Sports Kickoff Night Tuesday night at Wayne High School.

Speakers highlight kickoff night

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The Wayne Sports Kickoff Night was held Tuesday night at the lecture hall of Wayne High School with all prospective high school athletes for the coming year and their parents, along with teachers, media and other sports fans in attendance.

After a short welcome address by Wayne Athletic Director Ron Carnes, Wayne State Football coach Pete Chapman took the stage. Chapman is also the Athletic Director for Wayne State and he addressed the crowd on changing academic guidelines.

Chapman stated that there are two criteria that the NCAA schools look at in an athlete before they can accept him for an athletic scholarship or even as a walk-on.

The criteria consists of scoring at least a 15 on the ACT or SAT, and the athlete must have completed a core curriculum of classes meeting the grade point average of 2.0 in the core curriculum classes.

Chapman said where athletes sometimes lose perspective of their true GPA is when they take other classes besides the core curriculum classes and they combine the grades.

If an athlete fails to meet one or both of the two guidelines set by the NCAA, they are ineligible to play or practice for their freshman year.

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), has three guidelines in which prospective athletes must meet two of three. The guidelines consist of a 15 on the ACT or SAT, 2.0 overall GPA, no core curriculum of classes, or you must be in the top half of your class.

Chapman noted that students as young as ninth graders should start taking into consideration the classes they take and how they meet with college requirements.

A positive note for the state of Nebraska as mentioned by Chapman was that a lot of recruiters from other states were visiting athletes from Nebraska because Nebraska had one of the highest ACT averages in the country.

Wayne Wrestling coach John Murtaugh then got up to recognize the athletes who excelled in the weightroom over the summer.

Murtaugh recognized two groups of students. The first group, the All-State Club, in which the athlete is in attendance for weightlifting 90 percent of the time. The second group, the Varsity Club, in which the athlete is in attendance at least 70 percent of the time.

Those receiving all-state recognition and a T-Shirt for their endeavors were, Chris Lutz, Todd Barner, Jason Ehrhardt, Matt Bruggeman, Mike Hillier, Willy Gross, Greg DeNaeyer, Mike DeNaeyer, Trevor Wehrer, Eric Liska, Jesse Brodersen, Jason Fink, Chris Janke, Jason Cole, Tom Elter, Aaron Wilson, Shane Geiger and Teresa Ellis.

Those receiving the varsity recognition included Doug Larson, Dan Wiseman, Jim Murphy, John Murphy, Eric Cole, Neil Carnes, Chris Corbit, Todd Fuelberth, Brad Uing, Reggie Carnes, Trudy Planz, Wendy Trube, Dana Nelson, Karmyn Koenig, Rachel Haase, Kristy Hansen and Holly Paige.

The Varsity Club honorees will receive certificates for their endeavors.

Ex-Husker speaks

Former Nebraska running back Jon Kelly was spotlighted following Murtaugh's short address. Kelly, one of the two guest speakers during the 75-minute presentation, spoke on the trials and tribulations of giving 120 percent during practice as well as the game.

Kelly encouraged high school athletes to try as many different sports and activities as they can during their brief four years. "Dedication and desire far outweigh any god-given ability," Kelly said.

Kelly also noted that the secret to athletics is that it allows you to adapt to other things in life besides athletics. "Athletics teaches more than sports—it teaches you about life," Kelly added.

Kelly went on to encourage athletes to set goals for themselves and their team, and then to push themselves to the limit to reach those goals. Kelly concluded his address with some brief excerpts from a Vince Lombardi book.

Carnes then gave a brief address on the Omaha World-Herald All Sports Awards given at the end of every school year to high schools who have a composite of success in many different activities.

"Last year Wayne High School scored 13 points and ended up in the bottom half of all the Class B schools," Carnes said. "This year I would like to see us set a goal to finish in the upper one third in our class."

Richard Crawford was the final speaker of the night. Crawford who has been blind since he was 10 years old, has not let blindness become a hindrance in his life.

Crawford noted that he participated in athletics despite being blind. He even became a state rated wrestler in the state of Iowa, earning fifth place at the state meet his senior year.

Crawford gave his parents the bulk of the credit for his success which now earns him a six figure income. "I have the greatest parents in the world," Crawford said. "After my blindness hit my parents didn't stand in my way and baby me all the time. My mom didn't like it when I wanted to wrestle or go to a public school, but those were goals I had set—and I accomplished them."

"Self image is very important," Crawford said. "We mirror our self image." Crawford said that the trouble with sighted people is that they let their sight impede their progress.

"One great choice that every athlete has is that they can be as good as they want to be," Crawford said. "The athlete becomes what he thinks about, and if they don't then they are cheating the coach, their parents and themselves."

Crawford then turned his attention to drug and alcohol abuse. He sternly warned the young athletes that using drugs and alcohol is a losing situation. "You're a loser if you have to use drugs and alcohol," Crawford said. "They are excuses for the athlete's inability to accomplish their goals."

Crawford's address drew a standing ovation from the packed lecture hall. His address ended the Sports Kickoff Night.

KTCH softballers win twice at state tournament

KTCH's slow pitch mens softball team travelled to Columbus this past weekend to take part in the Mens Class D-Rec State Tournament. KTCH qualified for the state trip during the Wayne-Chicken Days Tournament last month.

The locals opened up state play by taking on Larks Lounge of Columbus. KTCH scored in every inning as did their counterparts. However, with the score knotted at 7 heading into the bottom half of the fourth inning, KTCH blasted eight runs and never looked back enroute to a 10-run rule 20-10 victory in five innings.

Randy Bell's 3-run double in the inning proved to be the big blow for Larks Lounge. Kevin Maly went 4-4 in the opener with a triple, double and a pair of singles. Meanwhile, Mike Grosz went 3-3 and Dean Milander 3-4, including a triple and a double.

Bell managed a 2-3 performance with 4 RBI's to his credit. Alan Johnson was 4-4 in the first game while Duane Smith rapped a pair of hits in two at bats. Barry Dahlkoetter also stroked a pair of hits while John Melena and John Swanson laced singles.

KTCH downed Miller Beer out of Beatrice was KTCH's next opponent and even though the locals scored three runs in the first inning on four consecutive singles by Alan Johnson, John Melena, Randy Bell and Kevin Maly, Miller Beer eventually overcame the quick deficit and went on to defeat KTCH 13-7.

With Miller Beer leading 7-3 heading into the top of the sixth inning, KTCH started a rally. Randy Bell led off with a single and then scored on Kevin Maly's double. Dean Milander then tripled to score Maly and then scored himself when Brian Denklau sacrificed a fly ball.

Miller Beer, however, put the game on ice with six runs in the bottom of the sixth inning. Alan Johnson and Randy Bell each enjoyed 3-4 batting performances while Dean Milander was 2-3 with a triple.

Kevin Maly and John Melena each recorded two hits with Maly lacing a double. Brian Denklau, Barry Dahlkoetter, John Swanson and Wes Lueth all stroked singles.

KTCH had their hands full in the third game of the tournament as well, playing Dickinson Trucking out of Columbus. KTCH won by the slimmest of margins, advancing to yet another round of play with a 11-10 victory.

Andy Karavas led off a productive first inning with a single, followed by John Melena's single. After a sacrifice fly by Randy Bell advancing both runners Kevin Maly singled to score both runners. Maly later scored on a single by Mike Nissen.

Leading 3-0 heading into the top of the third inning, KTCH witnessed a Dickinson rally of four runs on five hits. KTCH however, answered with a rally of their own as Karavas and Melena began the inning with singles. Karavas scored on an error which put Bell on base and both Melena and Bell scored on the ensuing triple by Kevin Maly.

The game was far from over though as Dickinson came right back in the fifth inning to tie the score at 6's. In the bottom of the inning Karavas once again led off with a hit, this time a triple, and scored on Melena's single. Melena scored on a single by Brian Denklau.

KTCH added two more runs in the sixth inning to make it a 10-6 game heading into the last inning. Dickinson responded with four runs in the seventh to tie the game. In the bottom of the seventh inning, Brian Denklau led off with a single. Dean Milander singled to advance Denklau to second with one out.

Mike Nissen then sacrificed Denklau to third but with two out, Barry Dahlkoetter then came up and singled home the winning run.

Karavas finished the game with a very productive 3-4 performance including a triple. Barry Dahlkoetter and Mike Grosz each went 2-3 while Kevin Maly went 2-4 with 4 RBI's and a triple.

Brian Denklau went 2-2 in the game while John Melena was 2-4. Mike Nissen, Wes Lueth and Dean Milander all laced singles.

State trip ends
KTCH finished the state tournament with a 2-2 record. They ended with a loss to Funk's of Ewing, 11-9.

Several walks and errors allowed Funks to score 9 runs in the first three innings. KTCH was held scoreless until the sixth inning when they unleashed an arsenal of offensive power as they pushed across six runs.

"USER FRIENDLY" COMPUTER TERMS AND DEFINITIONS

What is computer memory? The memory is the space within a computer where information is stored while being actively worked on. Most microcomputers have a small amount of read-only-memory (ROM), containing the built-in programs that start the operation of the computer when it is turned on, and a large amount of random-access memory (RAM) for the user's programs and data. Except for ROM, memory goes blank when the computer is turned off; any data in it must be copied to disk or tape if they are to be saved.

The memory requirements of a computer are dictated by the software that is to be run on it. Consult with your local dealer, they will be able to help you determine how much memory you will need.

'Hacken' Away

by Chuck Hackenmiller

Nearly 30 years ago, the biggest problem in school was keeping the school bullies from picking on all the lower grades. Every once in a while, some student would sneak behind a storage shed and puff on a cigarette.

Mothers and fathers worried more about the best bargain on school clothes and lunch boxes and trying to figure out what school supplies their children said were necessary and what actually were not part of the required necessities.

Slide rules weren't important then. Number 2 pencils, colors, 12 inch ruler and scissors were.

But in today's society, there are other things new which we must prepare our students for as they grudgingly say goodbye to summer and head back to the schools — such as what a marijuana joint looks like, or that "crack" isn't what it is cracked up to be.

The 20th annual Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitudes Toward the Public Schools indicates that the public has identified the use of drugs as the number one problem confronting the public schools.

THIRTY-TWO percent of the public believes this. Coming in second is "lack of discipline."

And in third place falls "lack of proper financial support", followed by "difficulty getting good teachers" and "poor curriculum/poor standards."

Ninety percent of the general public believes that the public schools, and 94 percent of public school parents, should have an AIDS education program.

Sixteen years ago, when I graduated from a public high school (in a class of over 100 students), the big concern then was where our birthdays fell in regards to the draft.

Sex education classes were not the topics discussed during physical education classes, but personal hygiene was a requirement to learn.

World Geography was an elective in high school, but required learning during grade school and junior high years. Today there are complaints that students do not gain enough education requirements in geography and history.

TO PROVE that — get out a Trivial Pursuit game and start asking questions relating to geography or history and just see how many out of 10 can be answered.

Television in the classroom was at a pioneer stage when I was attending grade school some 25 years ago. Through a half-hour television program (that could be seen on any television set outside of school) we learned about Iowa Heritage and the Indians that settled in the area.

Today the use of videotapes makes learning through picture tubes much more convenient and covered a broader scope of education in all areas.

No computers were used in our classrooms in either the elementary or high school levels in my public school. Manual typewriters and use of electric adding machines were electives. Modular scheduling was new at the time.

Do they still divide numbers by the long method? Do teachers still enjoy receiving apples from students? Are recesses as long as they were back, then? Do they still require instruction for types of earth science?

Sometimes, people (me included), get too wrapped up in the cost of education and neglect the part of the quality of education.

MY SON STARTS his first year of school (kindergarten) next Monday, which is probably why this column is so nostalgic. I'm worried that perhaps as he gets older I won't be able to help him with his homework because of my old-fashioned methods. I'm worried about what influences will dictate his future.

And then I have to evaluate how we (parents as teachers) have taught our child at home. Does he know that giving another child a black eye is no way to settle an argument, and that talking out of turn is rude and impolite?

That taking drugs will endanger his health and life? That he shouldn't be ashamed of being friends with somebody that nobody else wants to be friends with? That girls are not monsters?

That misbehaving not only results in bad marks on life but also on his report card? That if he respects older people, he will get respect in return? That he does not get graded for falling asleep in class and that he better pay attention or things will pass him by? That he doesn't have to always follow the band wagon and participate in activities because many others do, but instead will search all avenues to find out what he himself enjoys?

That he not be afraid to tell his parents his troubles or fears? That the world doesn't end when failure occurs? That, just like mathematics, there is a solution to every problem?

You know, maybe it isn't too late to shine up that red apple for the teacher.

Some traditions are hard to break.

Pesticide regulations not specific

Every farmer who employs non-relatives should be interested in proposed rules for protecting farm workers who apply pesticides. The Environmental Protection Agency is accepting public comment on the proposals through Oct. 6.

The new rules would replace a one-page regulation in effect since 1974. Typical of federal regulations today, the proposal runs 55 pages, with another 220 pages to explain the first 55.

The proposed rules would cover all agricultural establishments, such as farms, forests, nurseries and greenhouses. Livestock uses are exempt. About 2.5 million farmworkers would be affected by the rules.

The goal of the program, of course, is to reduce the incidence of pesticide poisonings. Estimates of poisonings have ranged from 12,000 up to 300,000, depending on who you ask.

The rules address virtually every aspect of ag pesticide use, but in some cases are not too specific. For example, a "sufficient quantity" of water for emergency whole-body washing, eye flushing and routine hand washing must be "reasonably accessible" during application of pesticides. Further, the water must be of drinking water quality.

Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation

by Cheryl Stubbendieck, Vice President/Information

WHAT IS A sufficient quantity? Is a five-gallon container enough? What distance constitutes reasonable accessibility? From the field to the farm house? A jug on the tractor? A Snyder tank at the edge of the field?

Any drinking water quality? Why not water from an irrigation well? Some of this well water would meet drinking standards, some wouldn't.

Despite the vagueness, such regulations may be preferable to an earlier draft that specified the number of feet from the field to the water, unimpeded access, and water in a certain temperature range. As for the drinking water quality standard, one Washington source says the EPA simply doesn't know how else to define clean water. And, it's important, too, to consider that regulations are written for the worst possible situation.

Here in the Midwest we are likely to be less affected by some of the provisions, such as those specifying how soon workers may re-enter a field where pesticides have been used. When the most toxic pesticides are used, fields would be closed for 48 hours, warning signs would have to be posted and oral warnings would have to be given to workers. Workers could not re-enter the field until the time had expired, except under certain conditions and wearing specified protective equipment.

Generally this is no problem in a corn field, but would be in vegetable production, where harvest occurs over a longer period of time and the unharvested portion of the crop continues to need pesticides.

ONE PROVISION that does affect Midwestern farmers is the requirement that workers be notified of all pesticide applications that are made, unless no worker will be in the treated area or a neighboring area. The method of notification varies ac-ording to the type of operation. Workers not involved in the pesticide application are not allowed in the area during application. There's no problem with this as a general concept — most farmers do this to some extent anyway — but each farmer needs to consider the specifics for his production situation.

Another provision farmers need to be aware of is that everybody in the chain of ownership is legally responsible if there is deliberate non-compliance with the rules, although the person who failed to comply may legitimately be fired or otherwise disciplined. EPA has said that it will not inspect farms with fewer than 10 employees on a routine basis, but will get involved if it suspects "significant" infractions are occurring on a given farm.

Many of the provisions for worker protection are sound. What EPA is having trouble with — as it always does — is understanding specific situations. It needs to hear from farmers how its proposals would affect them in their day-to-day farming operations and how the rules can be revised to accomplish the goal of workers protection without placing unnecessary burdens on agricultural producers.

County

There is less total expenditure requirements budgeted for the rural road improvement district than was budgeted for requirements in 1987-88, $189,125 compared to $176,375.

Wayne County road and bridge fund's required expenditures increased by 2.9 percent over expenditure requirements budgeted last fiscal year. That amount is $1,154,987 compared to $1,121,772 the previous fiscal year.

However, property tax requirements for the road and bridge fund decreased 8.3 percent.

The amount budgeted for the institutions fund equals that of last fiscal year at $12,000. However, property tax askings have increased from $3,424.72 to $6,515.60.

OTHER BUDGETED total requirements and percentage of decrease and increase in comparison to last fiscal year are: employment security fund, a decrease of 1.7 percent; relief/medical, an increase of 3.3 percent; veteran's aid fund, an increase of 3.8 percent; special police fund, an increase of 5.2 percent; and county improvement, budgeted at a decrease of nearly 1 percent. Increases in the general fund budget, according to County Clerk Orgetta Morris, can be attributed to higher insurance costs, the creation of a full-time highway superintendent position (filled by Sid Saunders) and a 4 percent increase in salary — for six months starting Jan. 1, 1989.

Morris said the various county departments were asked to freeze their budget equal to that of last fiscal year, with the exception of the 4 percent salary increase to employees.

W.C. CORN

A new Nebraska-produced gourmet popcorn is now available in Wayne. W.C. Corn has been successfully test-marketed since July, 1987, and is now being distributed in the Wayne area.

"We're very pleased with the response we've gotten to W.C. Corn," company spokesperson Jacque Kinnett said. "In addition to white and yellow popcorn, we also produce caramel and cheese corn, which will be available here soon."

W.C. Corn personnel use Nebraska-grown popcorn, adding the finishing touches. All coatings are prepared locally, using real butter and brown sugar for the caramel coating, and real cheddar cheese for the cheese popcorn. "People have told us that our caramel corn is the best they've ever tasted," Mrs. Kinnett said. "We feel it's essential to use top-quality, natural ingredients. We don't use any powdered cheese in our cheese corn, and I'm sure people can tell the difference." Both salted and unsalted corn, for those on a sodium-restricted diet, are available.

W.C. Corn is located at 7th and Main, Wayne, in the Dairy Queen parking lot. Business hours are from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. The company has six employees. W.C. Corn is also available at many grocery stores and convenience stores in the area. For more information about retail locations carrying W.C. Corn, contact Jacque Kinnett at 375-1404 during business hours, or 375-1805, evenings.

To school and back: Making every trip a safe one

The Principal's Office
By Donald V. Zeiss, Principal

With the fast approaching "first day of school" in Wayne, some 800 children will travel to and from school. Almost every day, all those children make the trip safely.

To make that happen, your public schools have taken a number of steps to keep our children safe, on their way to and from school, as well as in school buildings and on school buses.

- Children learn basic rules of safety from kindergarten on.
- Playgrounds and buildings are monitored to prevent accidents and injuries.
- School bus drivers are trained, and buses are carefully maintained to make school-provided transportation as safe as possible.

But the schools can't do it alone. We all share in the responsibility for keeping our children safe. Here are some ways you can do your part:

As a driver:

- Be alert for children at all times, but especially during the hours when they are likely to be travelling to and from school — that is, between 8 a.m. and 4:15 p.m.
- Obey school speed zones.
- Stop when you approach, from either direction, a school bus that has stopped to take on or drop off passengers. It is illegal to pass a stopped school bus that has its red lights flashing and/or its stop arm extended. The reason that is so important is that most children who are injured or killed in school bus-related accidents are struck within an area extending for about ten feet on all sides of the bus. In this area, sometimes called the "death zone," children cannot be seen by the bus driver, and they are often hidden from approaching drivers as well. Never take a chance on passing a stopped school bus.

- Even after a bus has started moving, be cautious — children might linger in the area.
- Naturally, you obey all traffic laws — speed limits, warning signs, stoplights — but don't assume children will. Expect the unexpected — a child running out into the street from between parked cars, for example, or dashing across an intersection in a misguided attempt to beat a red light.

As a parent or guardian, make sure children in your care understand basic rules of safety. Although they learn these rules in school, the learning needs to be reinforced at home. Emphasize such rules as:

- Never cross the street without looking both ways. The old rule, look right, then left, then right again, is worth repeating. And never go into the street except at a marked intersection.
- If children must walk where there are no sidewalks, teach them to stay well off the road and always walk facing traffic, so they will see and be seen by oncoming vehicles.

- Be sure children know the basic rules of school bus safety, especially those for getting on and off the bus safely. One of the most important is to walk "ten giant steps" in front of the bus before crossing in front of it. This keeps the child in sight of the driver, who can signal when it is safe to cross.
- Teach children to answer with a firm NO if a stranger offers to give them a ride (and never ask anyone to pick up your children who is not well known to them).
- Have rules about when children will get home from school. If they have permission to go to a friend's house, or some other place after school, you may want to have them call you when they get there and when they leave.

- Be sure children who ride bicycles know the traffic laws and safety rules for safe riding, and that bikes are properly equipped with lights and other safety features.

To help you work with your child on learning the rules of safety, the Wayne Public Schools is offering two free brochures: "To school and back: Have a safe trip," which gives safety rules for walking or riding bicycles to school; and "To school and back: Have a safe ride," which gives safety rules for school bus riding. Brochures may be obtained at the elementary, middle school and high school principal's offices.

Personal nonfarm income up

Nebraska's nonfarm personal income was up 0.9 percent between the fourth quarter of 1987 and the first quarter of 1988, according to Jerry Deichert, Senior Research Associate at the University of Nebraska at Omaha's (UNO) Center for Applied Urban Research (CAUR). He said that the increase was comparable to the national increase of 1.0 percent.

For the first quarter of 1988, Nebraska's personal income totaled $23.4 billion; nonfarm income was $21.5 billion; and farm income amounted to $1.9 billion.

According to Deichert, even though nonfarm income was up, Nebraska's total personal income dropped 6.0 percent. He said the decline was misleading because it was due primarily to the timing of farm payments. Farm income was off 47.8 percent for the quarter.

Personal income is estimated quarterly by the U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis. It is the sum of wages and salaries; other labor income; farm and nonfarm proprietors' income; dividend, interest, and rental income; and transfer payments (such as social security).

Agricultural services were the state's strongest sector with an increase of 8.0 percent, according to Deichert.

The remaining sectors with increased incomes were construction, 4.0 percent; wholesale trade, 2.1 percent; government, 3.0 percent; finance, insurance, and real estate, 1.5 percent; retail trade, 1.0 percent; and manufacturing, 0.9 percent. Durable goods manufacturing was up 1.7 percent and nondurable goods manufacturing rose 0.2 percent.

MINING WAS unchanged, but two sectors recorded declines in income: including transportation and public utilities down 0.1 percent, and services, -0.9 percent.

"Agricultural services; construction; durables manufacturing; wholesale trade; finance, insurance, and real estate; and government recorded larger percentage increases than comparable national sectors," said Deichert.

Of the other components of personal income, dividends, interest, and rents were up 0.8 percent, and transfer payments rose 3.4 percent.

"An important measure of the current state of Nebraska's economy is wages and salaries which comprise more than half of the state's personal income," added Deichert. "Wages and salaries grew 0.8 percent during the first quarter of 1988. This is compared to the national rate of 1.0 percent."

Compared to the first quarter of 1987, Nebraska's personal income for the same period of 1988 was up 3.0 percent, according to Deichert. He said that this was less than the national rate of 6.3 percent.

Deichert added that the state's nonfarm personal income increased more rapidly than total income (4.7 percent for the year), but was below the national rate of 6.5 percent.

During the same time period, Nebraska's wages and salaries recorded a similar pattern as they were up 4.2 percent while the nation's grew 6.4 percent.

With the exception of construction, Nebraska's nonfarm sectors recorded gains during the twelve-month period ending in March, 1988. However, Deichert pointed out that only mining and manufacturing had growth rates exceeding their comparable national sectors.

President and Chief Executive Officer

First Federal Lincoln is pleased to announce that profits and reserves are once again "up."

Thanks to increased efficiency in our operations and greater customer acceptance of our products and services, First Federal Lincoln showed a net profit, after reserves were set aside, of $2.7 million for the first six months of 1988. Total assets as of June 30 reached $1.3 billion, the highest level in our 81-year history. We know our customers appreciate the fact that as a mutual association, profits go back into our reserve fund, adding to our strength and stability.

Another figure of which we are particularly proud is our net worth ratio of 4.71 percent. Not only is it "up," it is among the highest of major savings and loans in Nebraska and far exceeds regulatory requirements.

Savings deposits at mid-year were over $1 billion. Customers invested in our traditional savings programs as well as our new PayoutPLUS certificate of deposit, which features regular "payouts" of principal and interest. Tax-deferred annuities, mutual funds and other investment alternatives were also well-received and contributed to our "up" savings picture.

Home mortgage loans have always been, and will continue to be, the "bread and butter" of First Federal Lincoln's lending programs. Many people were introduced to us through their home loan and have continued as regular customers. This year, we helped more customers reach their financial goals through three new loan programs: agricultural real estate, equipment lending and auto dealer lending. This diversification helped our lending division to be "up" by $2.5 million despite a soft real estate market in the state.

We know our customers appreciate convenient banking, so we have continued our expansion into more Nebraska communities. This year, we opened new offices in Gering, Gibbon, Seward and Gothenburg. Our Edgewood office moved to new, expanded quarters to better serve customers in southeast Lincoln. Fremont customers have a new office with a 24-hour Money Service automated teller machine and a drive-up window. And in central Nebraska, our Kearney and Broken Bow customers are enjoying newly remodeled facilities.

You can look forward to more "up" news from First Federal Lincoln for the remainder of 1988 and beyond. Most of our offices will soon be able to handle both teller transactions and investment management at one desk, and many will offer the convenience of 24-hour Money Service ATMs.

Expansion will continue to go "up" as well. A move for the Indian Village office and a new office at 40th and Old Cheney will better serve our Lincoln customers. In Omaha, a new location for the Park Drive office will accommodate our west Omaha customers more efficiently. And this fall, Beatrice will move to new quarters and a new office will open in Minden.

As First Federal Lincoln grows, we will continue to uphold the standards which have made us strong—prudent investment of your funds, a high level of staff courtesy and professionalism, and a selection of outstanding financial products to help you meet your goals.

Hope You Had A Happy Birthday Charles! From The Gang!

The GOLDEN YEARS

When Academy Award-winning actress Bette Davis celebrated her 80th birthday, she did so quietly. She admitted that she had originally given herself five years to make it in show business, and now sixty years later she is still working regularly!

To help alleviate tension, John Mason, Ph.D., a stress management specialist, in Southern California, recommends a simple but powerful relaxation technique: deep breathing. Inhale slowly, then pause for a moment before exhaling fully and completely. While exhaling, let your muscles loosen. Dr. Mason recommends taking at least 40 deep breaths every day to keep tension under control.

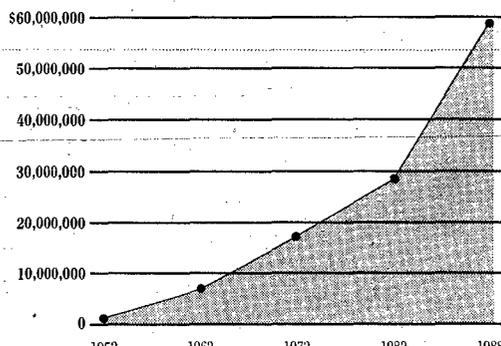

Remember when? — One cold day in 1938, hundreds of teenagers lined up in front of New York City's Paramount theater, literally spilling out into the street and stopping traffic. When the early morning movie was over, a big band on an elevating platform rose from the orchestra pit. The youths screamed and began dancing in the aisles as Benny Goodman starting playing a new kind of music — something called "swing!"

Presented as a public service to our senior citizens, and the people who care about them by the Wayne Care Centre, 918 Main Street, Wayne, Nebraska 68787.

Check-off voting date established

Dates and voting procedures have been announced for the referendum on continuation of the Pork Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Order.

The Order, which established a national check-off on hogs and imported pork, requires a favorable vote for continuation. The referendum has been set for Sept. 7 and 8. Voting will be at county extension offices during normal office hours.

Pork producers and importers of pork vote at the county extension office serving their county of residents. For residents of Dixon County, the extension office, is located at the Northeast Research and Extension Center in Concord.

The Wayne County Extension office is located in the Wayne County Courthouse. According to Rod Patent, agriculture extension agent for Dixon and Wayne Counties, the offices will be open for voting between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. in Dixon County and 8:30-5 p.m. in Wayne County on Sept. 7-8.

PRODUCERS who have produced pigs for sale in commerce and were subject to the check-off between Nov. 1, 1986 and Sept. 6, 1988 are eligible to vote in the referendum. Absentee voting is allowed prior to the referendum. Absentee ballots are available upon written request between Aug. 1-26.

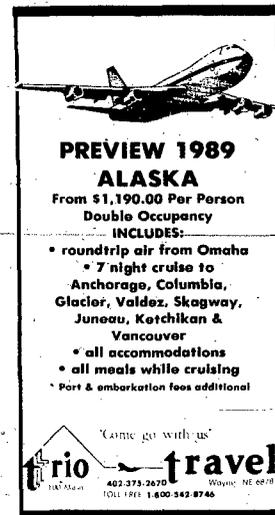

Registration for the referendum takes place as producers vote. In addition to individual producers, corporations, partnerships, family units and other entities are allowed one vote. An authorized representative of the entity may vote. Individuals associated with the entity may vote individually if they are eligible to vote as individuals.

ELIGIBILITY of voters may be challenged after votes are cast. Written challenges may be accepted by county ASCS offices through Sept. 12. Voter lists will be available for inspection at the ballot sites during polling hours, and afterwards at the county ASCS office.

The ballots will be counted on Sept. 22.

Request cards for absentee ballots are available at the county extension office. Or producers may request ballots by writing to Bill Ahlswede, Extension Swine Specialist, A218 Animal Science UN-L, Lincoln, NE 68583-0908. Include name, mailing address, city, state and zip code as well as county of residence and phone number.

Completed absentee ballots must be received at the county extension offices by Sept. 1 to be valid.

News Briefs

Sorensen attends policy session
 Richard L. Sorensen of Wayne was one of 119 agricultural leaders from around the country who was in Rapid City, S.C. Aug. 14-16, guiding the future of the National Live-Stock and Meat Board.
 During its annual meeting, the Meat Board celebrated its 66th year of building dollar demand for red meat — beef, pork, lamb, veal and processed meats — through industry check-off. Sorensen and other directors reviewed existing programs and approved new ones. Sorensen is a pork director representing Nebraska.
 The meeting this year was also the 25th anniversary of the species divisions of the Meat Board. Those operating divisions — Beef Industry Council, Pork Industry Group and the Lamb Committee — work to carry out specific programs of promotion, information and research which benefit producers and others raising, processing or marketing those animals. At the same time, Sorensen notes, the three species divisions also "leverage" funds to carry out projects of joint interest and concern.

The Farmer's Wife

Heat and wind! We had a two-day break and they're back. In the mornings, as I walk, it feels like the beginning of fall. By noon, the temperature has climbed again.
 The corn has seemingly given up the battle and silage cutting has already begun. One wonders what the beans are filling pods with.
 The Big Farmer refuses to stack hay that is too wet or too dry, so he's put in some long mornings aiming at the hay cage.
 I've decided that there were some jobs this summer I am grateful I did not have: One - Hauling hay bales; Two - Detasseling corn; Three - Walking beans; Four - Working on the additions to Lutheran Hospital; and Five - Working on a highway crew.
 Speaking of detasseling corn, I saw a sign on the way to Omaha the other day that said, "Happy one hundredth; Rob-See-Co."
 That would be Robinson Seed Company at Waterloo, the company my Dad raised seed corn for and I detasseled for.
 I drove to Omaha on Friday because Sue and my Sis and I went to see "Oklahoma" at the Orpheum. Sue and I decided we had not seen this on stage since Winside High School did it. We remembered that Jeff Farran was Curly, Pat Dangberg was Ado Annie, and Jane Witt was Auntie Em. But who played Laurie, and Will Parker, and Jud?
 Since I'd never been in the Orpheum, I did a bit of gawking; at the chandellers, the mirrors, and all the stairways. It's quite a theater.
 THE PLAY was great. Curly was handsome, Laurie was sweet, and the

by Pat Meierhenry
 "dream-scene" was the best I've ever seen.
 "But I admit I felt uncomfortable at the finals; singing the praises of Oklahoma in Nebraska is almost unheard of these days. I wonder if "The Boz" has ever seen it.
 I didn't see any more of the Republican convention than I did of the Democratic, but I sure have been reading about it. I'd never heard of Dan Quayle either.
 The crickets are about to drive me out of the house. My pager makes a sound much like one, and when one started early in the morning last week, I woke with a start, thinking it was my pager.
 They are everywhere—in closets and drawers, under the sink, and really thick in the basement.
 One of the gals in our department is as afraid of crickets as I am of mice. She jumps and hollers as they come hopping across the floor.
 A friend was telling me the other day that her ten year old is scared of crickets, but hates to admit it.
 He didn't want to go to sleep one night for fear they'd bite him. She told him not to worry, that they eat clothes but not people.
 To which he responded, "Sure, I'll wake up with no underwear on!" Ah, the worries of childhood.
