Winside board candidates present views

A public meeting, featuring four of the six candidates running for three positions on the Winside Board of Education, took place last Tuesday evening at the Winside High School Present were candidates Connie Bargstadt, Dean Mann, Dan Jaeger and Pat Miller. Unable to attend were candidates Doug Shelton and Randy Jacobsen.

Randy Jacobsen.

Bargstadt, in presenting her views on education, said she and her husband stress to their own children about furthering their education after graduation from Winside High

"We feel that of all jobs in the United States, 60 percent of them are white collar jobs. I want them to be able to have a good education here and get prepared for when they go out on their own and are in college and so they can compete with all the other students that are in college," Bargstadt said.

She said the students have had a lot

She said the students have had a lot of opportunities and a good background at Winside to prepare them for advanced education.

She is running for school board, she said, because she has a good positive feeling about the school and is happy with what is being offered to the children.

"The main reason I am running is "The main reason I am running is that I want to give something of myself back to my community and this is one way that I can do it, to do the best job that I can as a school board member," she said.

BARGSTADT said she wants "to e a well-informed school board "To be that, I would hope people in the community can come to me and give me their concerns and I would take them very seriously and be unbiased," she said. "Finally, I just feel that this school is the future and its future will determine the future of the community.

Candidate Jaeger, who farms south of Winside, believes that Win-south of Winside, believes that Winside has an "awfully good school system."

"We're providing a pretty good education for our kids. The reason that I'm running is because as a parent of school-age children, I have an obligation to see that kids get the best education they can." he said.

an obligation to see that kids get the best education they can," he said.
"On the other hand, I'm a taxpayer and I think our school needs to be run efficiently and economically as best as we can," he added.

However, Jaeger said he would not like to see curriculum and all the things that is offered at Winside cut just to save tax dollars.
"We still have to put our children.

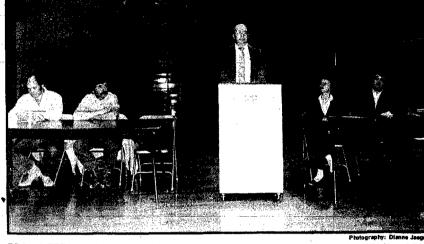

"We still have to put our children at the head of the list. Our ultimate goal is to give them the best education we can give them. If they don't get a good high school education, how can we expect them to compete?" Jaeger said.

Another candidate, Dean Mann, briefly addressed the audience and said he believed that children in the winside area are getting quality education.

"I think we've got quality education here and we've got to maintain it at a reasonable cost to the taxpayer," Mann said.

THE FOURTH candidate to speak, Pat Miller, said she is running for election because she feels there is a need to improve on the involvement and knowledge of what's going on in the Winside school with the tax

"It takes more than one person on the school board to get anything done," Miller said. "One might go in there and try to decide to change something, but others need to voice their opinion to help get your opinion across in an effort to work for the bet-terment of the school or the taxpayers who are voting for us," she

"We have a good school system here. We need to keep it and we need to improve on it. We still need to watch tax dollars because everything is tighter everywhere," said Miller. Miller said this would be her biggest involvement with the school board. She would work with people and get things more balanced out in the school board myst be sure there is no "reduction in our education." The elementary school population at Winside is really growing, she said. "We will have to look at that,"

If reduction in force is a solution,

Finally, Miller suggested that the power of the school be placed back into the hands of the school board.
"With all of us working together we can make this a better school than it is already," she said.

Commission approves entire Wayne County grant request

By Chuck Hackenmiller

A $175,000 grant to Wayne County was approved on Friday by the eleven member board of the Nebraska State Crime Commission. The grant will be used to financially assist Wayne County in the operation of a controlled it would determ

By Dec. 8, Wayne County, as well as other counties across the state, must keep juveniles sight and sound separated for adults at the jail sites.

In order for Wayne County to keep juveniles and adults at their facility juveniles and adults at inter facility beyond Dec. 8, it would require extensive remodeling to meet the federal jail standards, according to Jansen. The estimate cost for the remodeling, to comply with the federal law, would reach over $100,000, he said.

State board candidates quizzed

Dr. Stephen Becker of Wisner and Dr. stephen becker of wisher and walter Thompson of Oakland are contending for the Third District representative post of the Nebraska State Board of Education Below are each candidate's response to four questions posed by The Wayne Herald.

Becker: This is a question brought up everywhere. Reorganization is a financial question, and thus is in the jurisdiction of the local school

In addition, Nebraska statute provides parents the right to educate their children in private religious or home set tings if they are acting in accordance with sincerely and deeply held religious beliefs.

I certainly recognize their right to do this; however, the State Board of Education and the State of Nebraska Education and the State of Nebraska have a responsibility to monitor the activities of these, as well as all other schools to see that children are receiving a solid and appropriate education. Consequently, I support supervision of these settings to closer supervision of these settings to insure that they are "playing fair" and following the basic policies and procedures to comply with the law. What has happened in Nebraska, though, is sad. When the legislature voted to allow the "Home School" as voted to allow the "Home School" as we know it today, they dumped some kids right out of education. Our State Board of Education was instructed to test and regulate this new form of school. They, on the other hand, insist that they can't

Indoor air pollution

The quality of the air is not a big concern for most Nebraskans. It may be dusty or smoky at this time of year, but usually air pollution is no problem. The quality of air in our homes may be another story. The combination of more chemicals and pollutants in the home and reduced ventilation rates make indoor air pollution-a-concern.

Air pollutants in the home come from a variety of sources, including equipment that burns fossil fuels such as oil, gas, kerosene or wood; building products that release chemicals as they age; chemicals used for cleaning, maintaining or improving the home; activities of the residents such as smoking or hobbies involving chemicals; and natural sources such as soil, water, plants involving chemicals; and natural sources such as soil, water, plants and outside air

WHEN ONE OR MORE of these sources are coupled with low ventilation rates you may notice the effects of indoor air pollution. Low ventilation rates are a result of tight house construction without controlled ventilation equipment or practices.

Some of the symptoms of home air pollution may include excess moisture in e symptoms of home air poliution may include excess mo the home, lingering odors, or health problems of a resident. The health effects may be allergies, headaches or respiratory problems that appear to worsen when the person is at home.

Many problems can be prevented with simple home maintenance tasks. Many problems can be prevented with simple home maintenance tasks. Replacing or cleaning filters on appliances can reduce dust and other allergens. Careful maintenance of any appliance or equipment that burns fuel is necessary. That includes water heaters, furnaces, space heaters and others. Make use of ventilation fans in the kitchen, bathroom and aftics to remove excess humidity. Use cleaners, aerosols, paints and other chemicals safely. Read and follow label directions for these products.

"I was very proud of the kids' effort," coach Lonnie Ehrhardt said, "Our only setback was giving up too many points in the first quarter."
Wayne held the edge in total offense with:183 yards, compared to 177 by O'Neill., Wayne's offensive total came by 169 yards rushing and 14 yards passing. O'Neill rushed for 172 yards and passed for just five.

Chad Davis led the Blue Devil ground attack with 94 yards on 20 carries. Rusty Hamer finished with 71 yards on 20 carries.

The defense for the Blue Devils was outstanding. Chris Lutt led the Wayne forces with 13 tackles. Kip Mau and Greg DeNaeyer had 11 apiece while Willy Gross accounted for eight.

Neil Carnes, Doug Larsen, Jeff Lutt and Matt Bruggeman all con-tributed six tackles apiece, while Kevin Hausemann, Eric Runestad and Rusty Hamer had five stops

The score was knotted after the first quarter at eight apiece. Allen scored when Rusty Dickens plunged over from one yard out. Dickens also converted the two point attempt.

Allen's next score came on a 65 yard run by Chase on the first play of the third quarter. Rusty Dickens then scored his second touchdown of the game on another one yard dive, also Allen rushed for a team total of 194 yards compared to Newcastle's 284 yards. The Eagles passed for a total of 66 yards compared to just 13 for Newcastle, making the total yardage comparably close at 260-297 in Newcastle's favor.

Freshman Kevin Crosgrove led the Eagle defense as he went over the 20 tackle mark for the third straight week. Crosgrove finished with 22 tackles, giving him 125 for the year. Rusty "Mohave" Dickens had 10 tackles and Rec tackles and Ben Jackson 12, to lead

MEMBERS OF THIS year's seventh grade volleyball team included, left to right, Laura Bauermeister, Tami Jo Schluns, Sarah Witkowski, Beth Dorcey, Clair Rasmussen and Jill O'Leary. The seventh graders finished with a 3-2 record and the eighth grade, a 4-3 record under the direction of Roger Reikofski. The eighth grade won its first round game of the West Point tournament, defeating the Guardian Angels of West Point, 15-10, 3-15, 15-0. They lost in the finals to Howells, 3-15, 10-15. Last Monday the seventh grade downed Wakefield 15-7, 15-11 while the eighth grade did likewise 15-10, 15-0. Reikofski noted the quality play this year of front row players Kristine Swenson, Susie Ensz and Erin Pick. He was also pleased with setters Danielle Nelson and Liz Reeg, along with Kim Kruse, Angie Thompson and Emily Wieser's hustle.

THE OTTE AWARD, given to the most improved eighth grade football player, was presented by Junior High football coach Al Hansen and Ginny Otte to Brian Brasch. The annual award recipient is voted on by the players. Past winners include Kevin Maly, Rick McNeill, Jeff Simpson, Joel Pedersen, Jimmy Main, Kip Mau, Trevor Wehrer and John Hadcock.

Wakefield thumps Wildcats

Winside suffers numerous injuries in defeat

Sports Editor
On paper it looked as though Win-On paper it looked as though Winside's football game against Wakefield would be highly competitive. Winside, playing at home, had speed in the backfield with Max Kant, a great option quarterback in Tim Jacobsen and a good sized fullback with quickness in Chris Nau. Wakefield on the other hand

Wakefield on the other hand, sported big lineman John Wriedt who is highly tauted by recruits, agility in the backfield with Tony Halverson and the quality passing arm of Chris Loofe.

Loofe.
However, the game of football is not played on paper, and what should have matched the potent offense of Winside against the stiff defense of Wakefield turned into a M.A.S.H. unit for the Winside ball team.

In the second quarter, Winside lost fullback Chris Nau, carried away by the ambulance with a mild concus-sion and a jammed neck, and quarterback Tim Jacobsen, with a

Things never looked up for the Wildcats after that, as they succumbed to a 68-30 thrashing from the Trojans.

Wakefield scored 22 points in the first quarter and added 29 more in the second quarter to take a 51-14 lead into intermission.

Tony-Halverson started the scoring explosion for Wakefield on a 40 yard explosion for Wakefield on a 40 yard burst. Kurt Boeckenhauer scored next on a 29 yard carry in his first carry of the game.

This game really featured Boeckenhauer. On his second carry of the game, he rambled 58 yards for another touchdown. His third carry was a missed nitch by quarterback was a missed pitch by quarterback Chris Loofe, but his fourth carry was a 28 yard touchdown run. Chris Nau scored both of Winside's first half touchdowns on runs of three second fouchdown of the game in the second period on a 13 yard run. Scott Lund also got into the scoring act with an 18 yard run in the second quarter.

The blitzkrieg continued for the lightening quick Trojans. Matt Tappe hit Tony Krusemark on a 33 yard pass play late in the second quarter to account for Wakefield's 51 points. In the second half Wakefield came out and upped the score on a field goal of 27 yards by Chris Loofe. Then Winside's Cory Jensen plunged over from three yards out.

Kerry Jaeger followed suit with another three yard run in the first quarter while Wakefield settled for two fourth quarter touchdowns. The first came on a one yard run by Mark Johnson, and the other, you guessed it, a 14 yard run by Kurt Boeckenhauer.

Both Boeckenhauer and Halverson

Both Boeckenhauer and Halverson were over 150 yards rushing with Boeckenhauer notching four touchdowns and Halverson, a pair. Wakefield rolled up 471 yards on the ground, and 55 through the air. Winside mustered 213 yards rushing and nine through the air.

Chris Nau had 76 yards rushing before being injured midway through the second quarter. Kerry Jaeger came in and did a good job of rushing the football for Randy Geler's team, gaining 69 yards on 15 carries. Max Kant led the Winside defense with 16 tackles while Cory Jenser followed with 11. Winside finished the season with four wins and five losses

"We took a big step up in improv ing our program from a year ago," Geier said. "It just seemed that after the Wynot, loss we suffered a couple of weeks ago, we just didn't respond-after that."

Manley honored

RICHARD (DICK) MANLEY was given special recognition at the monthly meeting of the Wayne Airport Authority by Mayor Wayne Marsh in appreciation for his six years of service with the Wayne Airport Authority. Manley has been active on the Board over the years and served during the time that the present airport master plan was developed and the only surfaced runway was widened and lengthened, as well as new lighting installed on that runway. Manley resigned recently as a result of his moving to Omaha, following his retirement at Wayne State College. Mayor Marsh appointed Carl Rump to serve out Mr. Manley's term on the Airport Authority.

Business Notes

Occidental Nebraska Federal Savings Bank announced a loss of $4,834,840 or $3.23 per share for the first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1988. This compared to a loss of $5,025,881 or $3.31 per share for the same period or s.3.3) per share for the same period ended Sept. 30, 1987. Hal Huddleston, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Savings Bank, said that operating results continue to be adversely affected by lost interest income, provisions for losses on loans and real estate owned and one retiring and real estate owned, and operating costs associated with non-performing

The Savings Bank's non-performing assets, which currently total $102 million at Sept. 30, com-pared to $112 million at June 30, 1987, are down significantly from $138 million reported at Sept. 30, 1987. Huddleston also indicated that the process of converting the non-performing assets into earning assets will take time and that the ability of the Savings Bank to recover from the losses associated with the ability of the Savings bank to recover from the losses associated with the non-performing assets will be primarily dependent upon it's ability to attract an infusion of capital into the organization.

Loans Are Just Numbers. Borrowers Are Real People.

Working with numbers is part of the lending business. But first and foremost, ag lending is a business of people.

A loan officer has to understand that every borrower's business is different, and that behind every loan are real people. We place a high value on getting to know each customer. That's where service starts.

Meet the people who are part of today's Farm Credit Services team, people who understand that ag lending is more than loans... it's people.

Janssen, Atty Ensz, Clerk Morris and several Wayne County residents.
The topic under consideration was compliance with the Federal Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act, Altioner Robert Ensz spoke to the Board about Federal Funding and compliance with Federal laws. His concerns were in the area of civil, liability regarding juvenile rights and the legal ramifications. He believes that the S125.00.00 grant would be adequate. He stressed the fact that the present jail facility would not be in compliance as both an adult fall and a juvenile detention center.
LeRoy Janssen, Sheffik, discussed the cost of construction to bring the present facility into compliance if Wayne County were to go in it's own and miniatin both adult and invanite facility into compliances stored to the control of the present facility into compliances stored to the control of the present facility into compliances stored to the control of the present facility into compliances stored the control of the contr

Tim Austin of the Nebraska Crime Commission explained the legal flability to the federal govern-ment if we still to comply with the juvenile justice program. He also explained the whys and wherefors of the Juvenile Justice Program in the nation and the statle. If we do not come into compliance there will be no federal funds and the county would still have to meet those requirements. The real issue is doing the right thing to keep Wayne County free of lawsuits.

Probation Officers Brown and Wright spoke of the difficulties to be encountered after December 8, 1988.

What do you feel are the present strengths of Nebraska schools?
Becker: So far, Nebraska has had an uncanny ability to maintain the best schools in the country, despite being critically underfunded. Our overall strength that seems to have carried us through is obvious — that being the culture that we as Nebraskans, and to a larger extent Mid-Westerners, have inherited.
Our Judeo-Christian longing to understand—and—to—improve—has allowed our children to similarly strive. We need to also recognize that the state has been able to maintain a high level of education with a minimal expense, due largely to our educators working for less.

Thompson: Nebraska children and young children, intelligent and healthy, are the greatest strength of our schools. Nebraska parents and communities, in general, are another strength, as they provide stable homes and tremendous community support for students. support for students.

Nebraska teachers are generally very bright and dedicated to the best learning possible for their students. In fact, our well-educated and com-mitted teachers are in demand mitted teachers are in demand across the country.

As a result of these strengths, Nebraska students score fifth highest in .the nation on ACT—(college entrance exam) scores. Nebraska ranks third in the nation in the percentage of students who graduate from high school, and 50 percent of the bitch school craduates seen to our high school graduates go on to higher education. Nebraska schools do well in national competitions in business and other vocational educational areas. What do you feel are the general?

Thompson: 1 believe Nebraska schools rely much too heavily on property taxpayers for financial support; although that is not the fault of port; although that is not the fault of school staff. I also think schools are underfunded in state aid and are forced to limit opportunities because of tight budgets. That problem too, is not the fault of educators. Nebraska-schools must, I believe, build more partnerships with each other, an especially important need with the smaller schools. Cooperative programs already ex-smaller schools.

Cooperative programs already exist, but I believe more sharing of human and material resources among districts would help meet student needs at lower costs. I believe educators in schools, and all of us connected with education, need to inform the public more regularly about what education does and why it is important.

We need to "tell our story" more We need to "fell our story" more often, and we must welcome the active involvement of volunteers, business and industry and other groups in education. The entire state must work together in order to achieve adequate funding and to obtain the support necessary to help schools which are now successful to become even better.

schools and underpaid our teachers in comparison to neighboring states. And, at the same time, overtaxed ourselves with unreasonable property taxes. We need a way to continue improving education by retaining our teachers and at the same time relieve our property tax burden. In the near future, we will be forced to come to some kind of a solution this semainty impossible stips.

to this seemingly impossible situa tion.

A second part of this problem is something that a member of the State Board of Education can and should be dealing with. That is the overregulation and complicating of accreditation. The State Board of Education is not only there to regulate, but also to help.

Instead of helping schools to meet and stay accredited, they have developed a three-tier school accreditation standard — Double A, Accredited and Approved. In the process they are losing their own credibility. They have many incredulous rules to be accredited. One such example is a requirement to have horizontal files in a school library, and if you have vertical files to have horizontal files in a school library, and if you have vertical files you are penalized.

Such nit-picking has nothing to do with education. It instead is a common component of a department which needs to be reviewed. Last year, the State Department of Education hired SRI (a firm owned by one of the heard members) to do a Education hired SRI (a tirm owned by one of the board members) to do a study on their effectiveness. One of its main criticisms was with its commissioner and that report was then filed away and never released to the
