Rolling Away The Stone

Managing Editor

The heavy stone was moved. Jesus was gone. Fear, suspicions first filled the air. It didn't occur to them that Jesus had risen. Only that His body was no longer there.

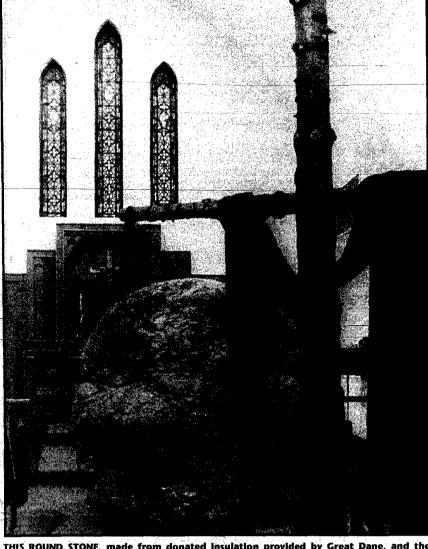

The stone — so heavy, so large — is like the burden we carry deep inside. Why are we fearful of rolling back "our" stone and uncovering our weaknesses where they hide?

Are we afraid to look and find in our hearts that emptiness is all we will be able to see? Or do we find a lasting strength inside us knowing a great miracle has set us all free?

We can start all over. Enjoy a fresh new start. And we can witness the miracle and believe. Or we can let the glorious moment pass and just continue to doubt and grieve.

Easter has its traditions, of course, and we never fail to keep these in sight. However, it's what is behind the stone that makes our troublesome burdens light.

Only when we've lifted that heavy stone and allow our fears, worries to pass through, will our hearts find strength in the risen Christ to begin our lives anew.

THIS ROUND STONE, made from donated insulation provided by Great Dane, and the cross are two symbols to be used during services at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Brownfield: Grain prices unchanging while other goods rise in costs

By Chuck Hackenmiller

Well-known farm radio personwell-known farm radio person-ality Derry Brownfield, Tom Dorn and Bill Zechman rounded out the guest speaker list at Tuesday's Marketing Seminar sponsored by the AgriBusiness Council of the Wayne Area Chamber of Com-merce.

Over 100 people attended the noon luncheon and afternoon seminar that took place at the Student Union on the Wayne State College campus.

Brownfield and a partner established the Brownfield Radio Network in 1972, broadcasting farm news and market information on a daily basis. He is also a farmer.

During his keynote address, Brownfield laced his speech with doses of humor. He told the audience that he was considered a "market specialist" by the Missouri Department of Agriculture.
"I think I got that title because I had been a farmer a long time,"

Brownfield said.

HE BEGAN farming in the late 1940's at the age of 16, starting out with 200 acres of land. "There's been only three good years of farming for me since then. They were in 1947, 1948 and 1949," he said.

Back in 1947, wheat sold for about $4 a bushel and corn was around $2.50 a bushel. "You could buy a brand new tractor like a M Farmall] for $1,000 to $1,200. If you sold a thousand bushels of corn, you could have got yourself a brand new tractor," Brownfield

He said he sold his first crop of wheat in 1948 at $4 a bushel, it was hauled to the elevator site in a wagon that was assembled with parts from an old car frame.
"In 1948 a person could get a new automobile for around $1,000. You could sell a cow for $300. So a person could take three cows to town and bring back home a new Ford or Chevy," he "And the cars could run 100 miles per hour. And the bumpers on each end of the car — well you could bump things with them."

IF THE SAME inflation rate IF THE SAME Initiation rate continues at the pace it has since 1947, Brownfield surmised that soon-enough cars will be selling $100,000; houses for $1 million and a can of sodd pop for $5. dark what will corn be selling for. Two dollars or more, about the same as it was in 1947," he said.

The world market, talks of establishment of a world bank and today's national deficit are several key topics that have a significant impact on the economy as a whole. "We've got more people on the receiving end of the federal government than on the paying end," said Brownfield. He said the interest on the national deficit rises approximately $8,000 a second.

Brownfield said the average new home (a three-bedroom, modest home) is valued at $113,000 and the average American household earnings in these homes total around $31,000. "Since the 1980's, however the typical average house owner has owned more than they owed," he

Expo draws crowd of over a thousand

The 1989 Wayne Expo was, for the most part, labeled successful by participating businesses and organizers of the event.

"It was an excellent Expo," said Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce executive vice president Linda Brown. "It met our expectations and beyond."

During the three days of the Expo (last Friday, Saturday and Sunday), attendance was estimated in the thousands. "Exhibit booths were busy during all three days. It wasn't until the later hours on Sunday that things died down a bit," she said.

The event was sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and participating members. On Saturday morning, an omelet feed took place at the Expo location (Wayne City Auditorium) which was free to the public and co-sponsored by the Milton G. Waldbaum Company of Wakefield.

Brown said that at least 650 people or more were able to help themselves to free omelets, served up by Waldbaum employees and Chamber members.

Participants in the expo included Doescher Appliances; Jammer Photography, Pac 'N' Save, Northeast Nebraska Builders, The Wayne Herald and Marketer, Lindsay Soft Water of Norfolk, Wayne State College Library, Zach Propane, and Carhart Lumber.

Others included Pizza Hut, Wayne Monument, Trio Travel, Wayne Greenhouse, Midwest Land Co., KTCH Radio, Diamond Center, Koplin Auto, Office Connection, Sav-Mor Pharmacy, Providence Medical Center, Complete Computer System, Logan Valley Implement, Wayne State College Applied Science Division, Wayne Municipalities, Ellingson Motors, Mines Jewelers, T&C Electronics, Arnie's Ford-Mercury and the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

March — National Nutrition Month
Ever hear the old saying "You are what you eat?" More and more, research is proving that bit of folk wisdom to be true. How we perform, our appearance and our mental well-being are affected by what we eat.
Celebrate National Nutrition month by making a lifetime decision—choose good nutrition.

Proper nutrition can reduce the tisk of obesity, osteoporosis, cancer and heart disease. To help you improve your eating habits and your family's nutrition lifestyle try some of the following tips.

ily's nutrition lifestyle try some of the following tips.

Heart Smart Tips

—Foods that are high in complex carbohydrates, if eaten plain, are low in saturated fat and cholesterol as well as being good sources of vitamins, mineral and fiber.

—Eat 50 to 60 percent of your daily calories from carbohydrates.

—No more than 30 percent of your calories should come from fat.

Saturated fats should be 10 percent or less of the calories since they tend to raise the cholesterol level in the blood.

to raise the cholesterol level in the blood.

—To figure 30 percent of the calories in grams of fat, multiply the calories by .30 and divide the product by 9 (the number of calories in 1 gram of fat). For example: 2,000 calories x .30 = 600 : 9 = 67 grams. To figure 10 percent of calories in grams of fat use .10 instead of the .30 above. Example: 2,000 calories x .10 = 200: 9 = 22 grams.

—The cholesterol is found only in foods from the animal kingdom. These foods include meat, poultry, eggs, milk, cheese and fish.

—Eat less than 300 mg of cholesterol each day.

Calcium Smart Tips

—Use milk, instead of water, when you prepare creamed soups.
—Add powdered milk to soups, casseroles, sauces and beverages such Practice moderation. Too much protein, too much fiber and too much alcohol can affect calcium absorption.

—Exercise. While physical activity can streng⊕en your bones, inactivity causes bone loss. So try walking, jogging or bike riding to build up your bone strength.

—Get outside in the fresh air and sunshine. Sunlight helps your body produce Vitamin D, which helps use calcium.

Fiber Smart Tips

Increase consumption of whole-grain cereals (wheat, oat, rye) breads and pasta, bran, fruits and vegetables, legumes, nuts and seeds. Bran cereal is a concentrated source of fiber.

—Look for "dietary fiber" content on food labels to accurately identify the total amount of fiber that makes a physiological impact.

—Increase fiber consumption slowly. Digestive discomfort can be reduced if fiber is added gradually over several months.

—Drigh planty of liquids 6 to 8 glasses a day otherwise fiber may ac-

-Drink plenty of liquids, 6 to 8 glasses a day; otherwise fiber may acy cause constipation. You've heard the expression, "Too much of a good thing..." Well, too much fiber can affect absorption of some nutrients, including calcium, iron, magnesium, zinc and copper. So, keep higher fiber intake as part of a well-balanced diet.

—Use fiber supplements only under your doctor's advice. The evidence about the benefits of fiber are associated with fiber-containing foods. Few foods, except cereal brans, are concentrated sources of dietary fiber, so get your fiber from a variety of food sources.

Calorle Smart Tips

—Weight control means achieving and maintaining a weight that makes us look and feel our best.
—Learn how to eat — not how to diet. Eat slowly. There is a 15 to 20 minute delay before your brain realizes your stomach is satisfied. So eat slowly and you'll tend to eat less. Eat regular meals. You'll be less likely to overeat later on if you're not a meal skipper. Reduce the sugar content in a recipe by one-half with minimal effect on product quality. Reduce the fat content in a recipe by reducing fat by 2 tablespoons at a time until the product is still suitable but fat content is lower.

Umpire in Chief

announces clinic

Nebraska State District Umpire in Chief, Mr. Bob Jacobsen of Winside, announced today that the Nebraska Softball Association (NSA) will conduct rules and mechanics clinics.

Everyone is encouraged to attend as the clinic is open to all interested in softball rules. There is a $2 registration fee at the door. Umpires who wish may register at the clinic. Team coaches are invited to attend as well. The ASA holds several clinics of this type each year for the purpose of training umpires and coaches. At each clinic there will be a discussion of new rule changes along with demonstrations of field mechanics and information on general softball rules. There will also be information on umpire uniform requirements.

ASA registered umpires have many benefits including membership in pire uniform requirements.

ASA registered umpires have many benefits including membership in the National Governing Body for Softball in the United States, and receiving assignments to State, Regional, National and International events. Each umpire receives one million dollars worth of liability insurance plus accident insurance. With their registration they receive an ID card, National patches for their uniform, Rule Books, Umpire Manuals, and subscriptions to State and National softball Newspapers.

For additional information, contact Bob Jacobsen, Box 182, Winside

For additional information, contact Bob Jacobsen, Box 182, Winside, NE 68790, telephone, 402-286-4587.
The first clinic will be held March 29 in Norfolk at the King's Lanes Meeting Room at 7:30 p.m. Emerson will host the second clinic at the First National Bank beginning at 1:30 p.m. April 16. April 23, is the date of the third clinic to be held in Columbus at 1:30 p.m. Norfolk will again be the site of the fourth clinic to be held April 30, at 1:30 p.m. at King's Lanes grounded out seven hits in its initial game of the 1989 campaign.

Laura Stuerman pitched the Wildcats to an 8-1 victory in the Cats' second game against South Dakota. Kris Pestal and Shell Schuman combined for five of Wayne State's nine hits including a ome run by Schuman.

That was Laura's first complete.

"That was Laura's first complete. college_game_ever as a pitcher," Feagan said. Wayne State lost its next two games against Oklahoma City, 7-0, and 3-0 to Central Missouri before Ronda Peck got her initial win of the season with a 2-1 victory over Benedictine. The Wild-cats rounded out play with a 3-0 loss to Missouri Western.

"All three of our pitchers got a win," Feagan said. "That's a good way to begin the season." Feagan noted that Oklahoma City was the best competition that the Cats faced. "We stayed with them for about five innings, but they started pounding the ball after that," Fea-

Overall Feagan was pleased with his squads' performance. "All 15 of the girls we took started at one time or another," Feagan said. "Our second day of competition saw us commit a lot more errors."

SAV-MOR PHARMACY Antihistamines Aid Ulcer Patients When we mention antihistamines, people may think of the ingredients in many nonprescription cold medicines. Antihis-tamines are included for their "drying" effect. A special class of prescription-only antihistamines has proven to be useful in the treatment of peptic ulcers. These special antihistamines, referred to as "H-2 receptor antagonists," are used alone or in connection with other ulcer medicines such as medicines which neutralize acid (the antacids). Peptic ulcers are open sores or intestines.

wall of the stomach or small "Peptic" means that the ulcer is associated with pepsin, a digestive enzyme which works along with hydrochloric acid to help digest many of the foods we eat.

Cimetidine and rantidine were the first H-2 antagonists available to treat peptic ulcers. Both of these antihistamines have chemical structures that are similar to histamine. These and newer H-2 antagonist medicines such as famotidine compete with histamine at H-2 receptor sites in the pastrointestinal tract, reducing the output of hydrochloric acid and, indirectly pepsin. Ulcer healing may require up to three months of therapy with these special anti-

Ecumenical Good Friday services set in Wayne

The Wayne Ministerial Association invites the public to take part in community Good Friday services on Friday, March 24, which will include a processional beginning in the State National Bank park at Second and Main Sts. and proceeding to Redeemer Lutheran Church. Persons wishing to take part in the processional are asked to meet at the State Bank park at noon. There will be four stops en route to Redeemer Lutheran, where services are expected to conclude at 1 n.m.

p.m. The Rev. Franklin Rothfuss, pastor at Redeemer church, said a parallel service will be conducted at noon at Redeemer Lutheran for persons unable to take part in the processional. Theme is "Following the Cross of Jesus."

Wayne pastors taking part in Friday's services, in addition to Roth-fuss, include the Rev. Bob Schoenherr, the Rev. Gordon Granberg, the Rev. Leroy Iseminger, the Rev. John Mitchell, the Rev. Donald Cleary, the Rev. Vic Coston and the Rev. Keith Johnson.

Bereuter: ag challenges many

The greatest economic force in the State of Nebraska is and will always be agriculture. In spite of the difficulties this industry has encountered in recent years, the American farmer remains the most productive farmer in the world.

The challenges that face agriculture and rural America are many, but our farmers have consistently demonstrated their ability to surmount obstacles. I join in a sin-cere and grateful salute to the American farmer and all Americans involved in agribusiness.

During this week I have had Agriculture Advisory Committee meetings all around the First Congressional District. These meetings are very important to me and to my staff. I have been meeting with these Nebraska farmers and agribusiness people regularly for the past ten years, and I appreci-ate their valuable assistance. AGRICULTURE IN NEBRASKA

Nebraska's citizens rely on agri-culture to a greater extent than citizens in any other state. Our population is small, but we rank fourth (after California, Texas, and lowa) is total crop and livestock re ceipts. And, Nebraska is fourth nationally in the export of agricultural commodities.

Most Nebraskans are aware that we are challenging Texas for the top spot in the beef industry. This year we became number one in fed cattle marketed, and all indications are that Nebraska's feeding industry will continue to

One third of Nebraska's agricultural products are exported. U.S. agriculture can compete efficiently on the world market, and I have been working in Washington and with our trading partners to assure that U.S. farmers have equal access to markets abroad.

to markets abroad.

The export of U.S. agricultural commodities is good for the United States and good for Nebraska. Agricultural exports this year will generate over one million in the commodities.

Farmers considering the purchase of an irrigation system need to look closely at the design and economics of various irrigation packages, according to Irrigation Specialist Bill Kranz of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Northeast Research and Extension Center.

"Knowing when a piece of equipment is a good buy involves many issues. Purchase price, labor requirements, repair and maintenance charges, life expectancy and the stability of the energy source are all important consideration," Kranz said.

"Although most of these factors are cost-oriented, the amount of labor available and the field conditions are often deciding factors when purchasing equipment," he

Each irrigation system is made up of three main components: the well, the pumping plant and the distribution system. If the system is to operate effectively, each com-ponent should operate at near peak efficiency.

CONTRUCTING a well with excess capacity and developing the irrigation well properly insures that the well will maintain productivity.

A simple water analysis will determine whether incrustation or iron bacteria could be a problem. Ni-trate concentration can be used to commercial fertilizer application.

The pumping plant should be capable of supplying water to the sprinklers at the flow rate and pressure desired. A pump test should be conducted every three to five years to insure that the pump is operating efficiently. Otherwise, water distribution may be less uniform than necessary.

less uniform than necessary.

The delivery system selected should apply water uniformly while minimizing the amount of runoff generated from irrigation. Therefore, the selection of a sprinkler package should be based on information collected at the delivery site. Several factors should be evaluated, including soil texture, infiltration rate, water application rate, field elevation change, water supply rate and tillage practices. The more field evaluation that occurs prior to the equipment purchase, prior to the equipment purchase, the less problems will be encoun-tered during normal operation.

Labor requirements must also be considered when selecting irrigation equipment. Each type of ir-rigation system has some labor re-quirements for system operation and management, and these re-quirements can become major costs for the investor.

"On average there is nearly 100 hours per season less labor required to operate a center pivot compared to a large volume gun or towline. If the time is not available, the cost goes higher," Kranz said.

FARMERS shouldn't assume that irrigation equipment invest-ment will guarantee a significant income increase, according to Farm Management Specialist Timothy Powell of the Northeast Research and Extension Center in "Investment costs when all new equipment is purchased for a cen-ter pivot irrigation system can run about $60,000. Purchasing an irrigation system should be an investment decision," Powell said.

How the irrigation system will be financed, such as annual lease or purchase payments, is another im-portant investment decision, he said. These costs should be included in the decision.

"The variable and fixed costs of the system must be compared to the expected yield increase due to irrigation. These costs and returns should be estimated for the lifetime of the system using some-what conservative estimates," Powell said.

Although yields may increase, farmers might not make as much money in the end because of increased costs, according to Powell. In some cases, he said, farmers are better off financially staying with dryland farming.

The selection of irrigation equipment is an involved process, but a process which could save money. People interested in purchasing irrigation equipment need to investigate system design and system operation prior to pur-chase." Kranz concluded.

Individuals interested in obtaining more information on the irriga-tion equipment selection process may contact Kranz or Powell at the University of Nebraska Northeast and Extension Center at

With legislature

Tax relief becomes big issue

Without question, one of the major issues confronting the Legislature this year is property tax relief. To date, the Revenue Committee has advanced three significant, but somewhat contradictory bills to the floor. These bills to the floor. bills to the floor. These bills were advanced with the intent of having the various approaches of each bill frame the floor debate on the issue. The committee has yet to act on a fourth measure that was in-troduced at the request of the

The first bill put out by the committee is LB 84. This bill provides for a ten percent rebate for property owners. The rebate would begin in 1990 for property taxes paid the previous year. Corporations would not receive the rebate tions would not receive the rebate unless they were nonprofit or a smaller subchapter S corporation. The amount of rebate would be based on all real estate taxes actually paid. Taxpayers would submit an application to the Department of Revenue by November 1st of each year. The committee proposed an amendment that would limit any rebate to a maximum of $2,500.

A second bill, LB 747, in its original form would exempt the first $3,000 of the actual value of any homestead from property tax-ation. The first time that a homeowner claims this exemption, the owner must file an application with the county assessor for approval. This bill revives the concept of the general homestead exemption taken regardless of age, disability status, or income of the homeowner. Such a general exemption was enacted in 1984 and repealed during a Special Session in 1985 without ever having been funded. The committee has proposed an amendment increasing the exemption to the first $6,000 of actual value. with the county assessor for ap-

LB 611, the third major bill that was advanced, changes the method for funding education. The sponsor claims the bill would provide about thirty-five million dollars in property tax relief. The bill calls for a one percent tax on income for a one percent tax on income which would be imposed on resi-dents of a school district for public school support. The revenue proalso be placed on estates, corporations, and non-residents generating an income in our state. The tax collected from these other sources would go into an education fund to be distributed to school districts whose property tax rate districts whose property tax rate equals or exceeds the statewide average rate.

LB 809, introduced by the Governor, creates the Nebraska Property Tax Relief Trust Fund Act. It provides a mechanism which allows direct property tax relief when state General Fund revenues ex-ceed economic forecasts. The mechanism calls for any receipts in excess of the amount forecasted by the Nebraska Economic Forecasting Advisory Board be de-posited into the Fund. The State Board of Equalization and Assess-ment would then meet to determine the percentage of property tax relief that is available. The per-centage would equal the amount in the fund divided by the amount of property taxes levied statewide. Monies in the Fund would then be distributed to the counties according to the percentage determined by the Board; the counties would in turn reduce their property taxes levied by that amount. No distribution would be made if the total amount in the fund is less than ten million dollars. in the fund divided by the amount

As well as these four major proposals, there are several other bills that would effect the property tax burden to a lessor degree. In the most common approach, the State would take over all or part of the cost of various services that are cost: of various services that are now being paid for by local property taxes. This approach appeals to some Senators, however, history shows that this technique has never translated into significant property tax relief over an extended period.

The survey was mailed to 25 K-12 school districts in the six-county area served by ESU 1.

"We'rer constantly evaluating our programs," Garwood told board members Tuesday night, adding that the most valuable evaluation does not come from the ESU 1 administration but from the people who receive the services provided by ESU 1.

General mill levy services which school administrators were asked to evaluate included media, van delivery, coop purchase, nursing service, inservice/staff development, opening day workshop, AV repair service and typewriter repair.

Garwood told board members Tuesday night that survey results showed the nursing program to be the most popular service provided by ESU 1, according to area school administrators.

Of the 24 administrators responding to the survey, 19 rated nursing services as very good, while five rated the service as adequate.

Administrators receiving the survey also were asked to evaluate special education services provided by ESU 1. The most popular ser-vices, according to the survey, in-clude psychology, speech, audiol-ogy, pre-kindergarten and physical therapy.

BOARD MEMBERS Tuesday night unanimously approved the implementation of a mentor teacher program.

The program, as explained by Garwood, would involve local school districts who would be

-school districts who would be asked, on a voluntary basis, to identify their best teachers.

Those teachers would then be asked to visit other districts requesting their assistance in a particular subject area. ESU 1 would pay the home district the cost to hire a substitute teacher.

The program also would involve a follow-up day where the teacher

Garwood said the mentor teacher program was an idea presented by the ESU 1 advisory council, comprised of school superintendents within ESU 1's boundary area. Total cost to ESU 1 would be approximately $5,000.

IN OTHER BUSINESS Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members:

-Met in executive session with ESU 1 Attorney John Gerrard of Norfolk who explained negotia-tions regarding the resignation of an ESU 1 employee. Upon reconvening in regular session, board members voted unanimously to accept the employee's resignation because of a continuing illness;

—Directed Administrator Garwood to contact banks within the service unit's boundaries regarding the investment of ESU 1 funds in excess of needed operating capi-tal. Garwood will solicit interest rates from the banks for certificates of deposit for time periods of 30, 60, 90, 180 and 365 days. The investments will be placed in units of $50,000, $75,000 and $100,000 blocks. Board members will decide the amount and lengths of time to invest in banks that yield the best rate of interest. Garwood said the final decision will be based on the best rate of return while still providing the best cash management for the service ingnight for mass servers.

I guess it was considered a reward, of sorts, from those times previously when you were called upon to serve Mass at 6 a.m., having to wake up at your parents' beckoning — and mostly in an uncooperative state mood. Servers assisted the pastor of the parish in the celebration of the liturgy. You could always tell it was getting close to Easter when all the surplices and the cassocks were taken to the cleaners and the Sisters were arranging practice schedules.

A surplice is a loose-fitting,

A surplice is a loose-fitting, broad-sleeved white vestment worn over the cassock. And a cassock is a long, close-fitting garment worn by those participating in church services. Ours was black in color.

Every available Mass server was utilized on Holy Thursday, Good Friday, Easter Vigil Saturday and Easter Sunday. Processions of the altar boys was a tradition, then. It was impressive, some say, to see altar boys was a tradition, then. It was impressive, some say, to see the boys march in and create the mood of the occasion.

Now, with the many boys in our Catholic parish qualified to be Mass servers, there were plenty of surplices and cassocks in the storage closets to try on. But some were not in the greatest condition. And It was usually the "bigger boys" who had the first choice on the cassock of surplice to wear.

That meant those in the lower grades were out of luck and left to wear those cassocks that were in deteriorating conditions and usually, ones that were either too big or too small.

Many of these cassocks had little or no buttons, held together hy safety nine that you boned by safety pins that you hoped would not open up and stick you while walking in the procession.

Velcro is popular now. It was back then, too. We boys liked it because instead of taking off our cassocks button by button, it could with that cassock and all its discomfort. It was almost as if a part of me was missing.

The Farmer's Wife By Pat Melerhenry

It's been a pleasant Palm Sunday. We've just finished a supper of split-pea soup and the Big Farmer is engrossed in "Return of the Jedi." I can't get into that stuff, so I'm reading old Saturday Evening Posts that my mom saves for me.

I remember when "Star Wars" first came to a local theatre. The rest of the family went to see it. When they came home, they said, "You were right, Mom. You would not have enjoyed it." I did like "E.T." But that's all the sci-fi I can handle

My mom also saves Redbook My mom also saves Redbook magazines for me. The January issue has a quiz for husbands and wives to find out how much they know about their spouses. I'm a sucker for these; I love to bug the Big Farmer with them.

The second question says, "If your spouse won a million dollars, the first thing he/she would blur is the first thing he/she would buy is ... Our answers were exactly the same: "Pay off the bank!" After that, we could argue about new cars and trips to Europe. I suppose the kids would expect some help with school loans, too.

THE TEST goes on to ask "if your spouse could change profes-sions, what would he be?" And, "if a movie were made of his life, who would he pick to play himself?" Interesting questions!

The calendar says tomorrow is the first day of spring. I wonder if the weather man will realize it. Those pesky boxelder bugs are still flying around.

I dug the Easter baskets out of storage today. I bought some Russell Stover chocolate eggs for them. I don't think I'll color any. We don't like hard-boiled eggs. Thank goodness we are past the baby chick and white rabbit days!

also bought Easter cards. I could not believe the funny ones. There were all kinds of rabbit pho-tos. One had a drawing of two pink rabbits eating chocolate peoplel Tomorrow is also Ag Day. I guess we'll celebrate by watching "Heartland," the new series that takes place in Nebraska. And we'll follow Nebraska in the NIT; and Oklahoma and Missouri in the NCAA. The long road to the Final

NOW, BACK to that quiz. I wonder if Barbara Streisand would make a good Farm Wife? I wonder how I would do as a travel agent? I wonder if all these funny little ani-mals on the TV screen will win their

And I'll finish up with the article by Estelle Getty. Who's Estelle Getty? Sophia on "The Golden Girls" and It's called "If I Knew Then What I Know Now, So What?" Sounds like my kind of information.

Members were reminded of the Spring Rally to be held at Gethse-mane Lutheran Church in Omaha

Farmers to be asked to assess farm bill

Nebraska farmers and ranchers can share their opinions about the next farm bill through a survey to be mailed in May, an extension marketing specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln said.

The survey will be sent to 1,000 producers across the state to determine how they feel about national farm policy issues. Lynn Lut-gen, an agricultural economics professor, said the survey is part of a cooperative effort by 25 landinstitutions in major agricultural states.

Survey results will be presented to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Congress, farm organizations and other interested groups. "Congress is working on the 1990 farm bill, which in all likelihood will become the 1991 farm bill," he said. "It appears that what this survey really will be doing is refining the present farm bill."

fining the present farm bill:

PRODUCERS will be selectedrandomly for the survey, Lutgen said. Responses will be confidential and a summary copy will be aimed to those who want it.

Producers will be asked for views federal spending priorities. ner issues include farm commodity programs, crop insurance, international agricultural trade, developing overseas markets, the conservation reserve and other conservation programs.

*A lot of discussion has been going on about what should be-in-cluded in a farm bill," he said. "Most commodity groups are developing or have presented papers on what they want included. This survey is important to get the views of farmers and ranchers."

The survey should take 30 to 45 minutes to complete. Results are expected by late summer. The Nebraska survey then becomes part of a national survey to be sent part of a nati to Congress.

LAUREL-CONCORD KINDERGARTEN ROUND-UP

Laurel-Concord Public Schools will hold a morning and afternoon kindergarten round-up session on Friday, April 7. Language development, vision and hearing screens will be administered at that time. Round-up is for children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1989. All children entering school at this time should be five years old by October 15, 1989.

The children must be fully Immunized before they begin school in August of 1989. The school nurse and kindergarten teacher will have an orientation session with the parents the day of round-up. Parents should bring the original birth certificate for their child. A copy will be made that day.

If you are planning to send your child to kindergarten this fall, please return this registration form by Tuesday, March 28 to Lynette Joslin, School Nurse, Laurel-Concord Public School, Laurel, NE 68745. An exact schedule will then be returned to let you know when to help your children.

Gardening program extended

Goldenrod Hills Community Action Agency has extended its gar-dening program from last year. Last year Goldenrod served 246 families through the gardening program.

This was made available through a grant from Community Food and Nutrition office in Washington, D.C.

At that time seeds, education, workshops, free labor and the use of tillers, rakes, hoes, hoses, and shovels were being offered. Be-cause the grant was for one years funding, Goldenrod will not be able to provide all the above services What will be provided this year will be free seeds and the use of the garden equipment.
The Human Development

The Human Development worker that is assigned to certain counties will work one on one with the gardening clients. Income guidelines will be used to determine chief-the beautiful to the county of th mine eligibility. Information on the program has been sent out in April's issuance of food stamps in April's Issuance of lood stamps in cooperation with Social Services. If you are interested in the pro-gram and would like some information, please call the central office at Goldenrod Hills at 529-3513 and ask for Virgene Dunklau.
