Transplant returns Kavanaugh to normal life

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing editor

Easter is a time for new beginnings.

Jack Kavanaugh of Laurel is one who understands what a new start can do for a person. As a man nearing death, he was given new life through a new heart.

After nearly three months of recuperating from a heart transplant, Jack can't wait for the grass on his home lawn to turn green and be ready for mowing; or to go on a few trail rides with his two horses. He would like to get back to a "normal life" when his health permits.

Things haven't been so normal for Jack since 1986, when the symptoms of a heart attack overpowered him as he was working with a load of grain at Cargill in Sioux City. Later on as time progressed, the hospital in Osmond verified that Jack had suffered a heart attack.

This was startling news to Jack — a man who had no high blood pressure problems or a "high cholesterol count." It must have all been related to stress," Jack mentioned.

HEART PROBLEMS continued for Jack. In September of that year, he went to a Sioux City cardiologist, where they conducted tests on the health of his heart. "They found that Jack had no chance for a bypass because there was nothing to bypass through," said his wife, Betty.

The heart attacks continued during 1987. In December of that year he was given steroid medication, Betty said, and the results were favorable until about the middle of 1988, when Jack suffered another bad heart attack.

In June, 1988, Jack went to the Minneapolis Heart Institute of Abbott Northwestern where he underwent an evaluation to see if he was a candidate for a heart transplant. And it was on July 24, 1988 that Jack committed himself to a decision that he would have to undergo a heart transplant to be performed at Abbott Northwestern.

He was admitted, on Aug. 10, 1988 to the Minneapolis hospital where he was hospitalized for two weeks. Abbott Northwestern Hospital is located in the old part of Minneapolis, Betty said.

AFTER THE two-week hospitalization period, the Kavanaughs stayed until Nov. 1 at the Waste Accommodations Center where Jack continued to be under observation by the heart transplant staff, headed by Dr. Robert Emery. Jack and Betty then moved to an apartment in Carver, Minnesota, which was about 30 miles away from downtown Minneapolis.

Betty, who is postmaster at the Laurel Post Office, received assistance from the Omaha Postal Service Division in helping her relocate to a position of "officer in charge" at a post office in Carver. This allowed the Kavanaughs to earn income to help offset the cost of the heart transplant costs.

Two times a week, Jack continued going to the Abbott Northwestern Hospital where they regulated his medication. Also while at Carver and in their trips to the hospital, both Jack and Betty met many people who had undergone transplants and those waiting for transplants.

Jack was also allowed to do some non-strenuous volunteer work at the hospital. "I really got to know a lot of people by doing this. It was fun work, too," he said.

Through all this, Jack's health conditions were deteriorating.

IT WAS 7 a.m. on Dec. 23 of 1988 that the call came from the hospital that it was time for the heart transplant. He had received two calls previously about the availability of a new heart, but both transplant opportunities never materialized.

"So I wasn't too excited when the third call came. I guess I knew that I didn't have too much choice because I didn't have much time left. I wasn't in the best of health," Jack said. "I think that I was down to my last two days. I don't think I would have made it past Christmas."

"His blood pressure and pulse, at the time, were almost down to zilch," said Betty.

The surgery, led by Dr. Emery and the transplant team (which not only included the surgeons but also coordinators, social workers and chaplain) took 14 hours. It began at 2:30 p.m. on Dec. 23 and was completed in the early Christmas Eve morning hours. The surgery ran into complications, according to Betty.

Betty said she called her family together. They arrived at the hospital to wait out the surgery, as did other relatives and friends. They prayed together. Food was donated to the family. It was a Christmas Eve that the Kavanaughs will never forget. "What was happening was quite a strain. We pulled together. I can't say enough about how much this meant to us."

Inauguration luncheon tickets available

Wayne residents are invited to the inauguration of Wayne State College's ninth president, Dr. Donald Mash, on Friday, April 7.

The event begins with an inauguration luncheon featuring a keynote address by Nebraska Governor Kay Orr at 11:30 in the North Dining Room of the Student Center.

"Dr. Mash is stressing Wayne State College's regional role," says Dr. Donald Whisenhunt, academic vice-president and inauguration chairperson at Wayne State.

"We invite and encourage citizens from each community in northeast Nebraska to attend. Wayne State is northeast Nebraska's state college. We want the entire region to feel welcome at the inauguration and at all other events on the Wayne State campus," added Whisenhunt.

Although satisfied with his services

Bookhardt contract terminated by Wakefield care facility

Wakefield Health Care Center has terminated the contract of Dr. John Bookhardt effective Sunday, March 12.

According to a report in the Wakefield Republican, Bookhardt's termination was prompted by the disclosure that his certification to receive Medicare and Medicaid funding for his service was suspended in 1986 by the Office of Inspector General of the United States Department of Health and Human Services.

The suspension was in conjunction with an offense relating to his participating in the Colorado Medicaid program.

Bill Faust, administrator of the Wakefield Health Care Center, said in the Wakefield Republican that the hospital could not continue to operate without Medicare and Medicaid funding because almost 70 percent of the hospital's expenses are reimbursed through Medicare and Medicaid.

It was reported that Bookhardt has a valid license to practice medicine in Nebraska. Faust said the hospital officials were fully aware of a pharmaceutical provision attached to Bookhardt's license, but had no knowledge that he had been suspended from participation in the Medicare and Medicaid programs.

He also said the community of Wakefield, the Wakefield Health Care Center and its board of directors had been very satisfied with Bookhardt's services and regretted his termination.

Faust said the hospital staff and board of directors have begun efforts toward recruiting a physician and continuing to provide medical care to the community.

Dr. Laura Ackie is providing medical coverage for the health care center and the Wakefield Clinic. Also, Dr. Coe remains on the medical staff.

In connection with accident

Thies receives jail sentence

Jeff Thies of Winside was handed down a jail sentence in connection with a one-vehicle accident in January that resulted in the death of a passenger who was riding in a vehicle he was driving.

The passenger, Steve Bentley of Norfolk, was killed when thrown from the pickup driven by Thies on a country road curve 1 3/4 miles west of Winside. At the time, the pickup was being pursued by a Wayne County deputy sheriff.

In February, Thies was found guilty in county court on a count of motor vehicle homicide and a count of operating a motor vehicle to avoid arrest.

During county court action on Thursday, Thies was sentenced to six months in jail for the count of motor vehicle homicide and was sentenced to one year in jail on the second count of operating a motor vehicle to avoid arrest.

The sentences are to be served concurrently, meaning that the maximum time Thies will spend in jail is one year.

His sentence will be served in the Pierce County Jail, according to Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen. Wayne County Jail is currently being used for a juvenile detention center.

The Nebraska Civil Defense Agency, along with the National Weather Service, will again sponsor Tornado Awareness Week in Nebraska, scheduled March 26 through April 1.

Assistant Wayne County Civil Defense Director, Wayne Police Chief Vern Fairchild, said Thursday that the civil defense department will be participating next Wednesday, March 29, in a statewide emergency drill to test state and local response actions.

"The exercise will consist of a mock tornado watch at 10:15 a.m., followed by a mock tornado warning at 10:45 a.m. In the event of an actual severe weather risk at the time of the drill, we will cancel the drill," said Fairchild.

Wayne's civil defense sirens will be blowing at the time of the simulated alert, according to Fairchild. "We will activate the tornado sirens for sixty seconds at 10:45 a.m. that Wednesday," he said.

THE CITY of Wayne has approximately 10 spotters who will also be participating in the drill. Six reside outside of Wayne and the other spotters are members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, Wayne Police Department and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

When the simulated watch and warning are issued, it will be the signal for schools, hospitals, institutions, governmental agencies and individuals to practice the actions they would take if an actual tornado were to threaten their community.

"If this were an actual tornado warning, all persons should seek below ground shelter upon hearing the sirens. This will be a good time for teachers, parents and others to practice their tornado plans," Fairchild said.

"Remember, there is no such thing as an 'all clear' signal given on the sirens. So if you should hear the tornado signal being given several minutes after the first signal, it will probably mean that another tornado has been sighted and you should remain in your shelter," Fairchild mentioned.

AN AVERAGE of 33 tornadoes strike Nebraska each year, damaging property and at times, causing injury and death. Taking the proper action can effectively reduce the number of injuries and deaths should an actual tornado threaten the community.

The following information may be helpful in correcting mistaken notions about tornadoes.

News and Notes

Easter — 'Tis the season of the egg

Egg Salad Week, an American innovation, is the logical successor to Easter Sunday festivities.

Although many families expect a week of egg salad sandwich lunches, there are many other ways to serve after Easter hard-cooked eggs.

Egg salad itself can be jazzed up with the addition of chopped vegetables, herbs, spices and shredded cheeses. It can be served on salad greens, spread on any type of bread product or warmed to fill crepes, tortillas or patty shells. It also makes a delicious dip for fresh veggies or chips.

Deviled eggs are another Egg Salad Week favorite that seem to have an unlimited number of adaptations. Minced ham, shrimp or olives, chopped green chilies or chives, grated Parmesan cheese and toasted sesame seeds are but a few of the additions enterprising Americans have added to these popular stuffed eggs.

You can also place deviled egg halves on a bed of pasta or vegetables, cover with a creamy sauce and warm in the oven for a delicious and inexpensive main dish.

ALTHOUGH OTHER countries may not celebrate Egg Salad Week, they do have their favorite uses for hard-cooked eggs. In the U.K., its Scotch eggs — hard-cooked eggs covered with a coating of sausage and bread crumbs, then cooked golden brown.

Eggs Meulemeester is a Belgian dish consisting of sliced hard-cooked eggs and seafood in a creamy white sauce base.

And the French learned years ago that the addition of hard-cooked eggs can turn a salad into a meal, with their classic Salade Nicoise.

In Germany and other countries of central Europe, eggs that go into Easter foods are not broken, but blown out. The empty shells are painted and decorated with bits of lace or cloth, then hung with ribbons on an evergreen or small leafless tree. If blown eggs are part of your own springtime traditions, you should use the contents in a full-cooked dish such as a casserole, quiche, cake or bread.

CELEBRATE THIS happy season with your family's favorite traditions. Many were made possible by the incredible edible egg!

Deviled eggs are an American classic, a most likely to be featured item at get-togethers across the country. Delectable Deviled Egg Casserole is a fresh, new way to present these tangy favorites — nestled in a warm bed of creamy macaroni and spinach. The rich flavor and striking appearance of this dish make it fancy enough for a springtime party brunch. But, it's also an easy, economical and nutritious way to use after-Easter hard-cooked eggs for a family dinner.

If you refrigerate eggs just after hard-cooking and leave them out for Easter hiding or display for only a few hours, they'll keep for about a week's worth of meals and snacks. Smooth, easy peeling is more likely if you hard cook eggs bought a week or two in advance. Time hard-cooking carefully and cool eggs immediately and thoroughly in cold water to prevent a dark surface on the yolks.

Delectable deviled egg casserole 8 servings

- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 3/4 cup (6 oz.) plain yogurt
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika
- 1/8 teaspoon ground red pepper
- 8 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 jar (4 oz.) diced pimiento, drained
- 1 package (7 oz.) salad macaroni shells, cooked and drained
- 2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
- Paprika, optional

In medium bowl, blend together mayonnaise, yogurt, lemon juice, salt, paprika and pepper. Set aside.

Cut eggs in half lengthwise. Remove yolks and set whites aside. In small bowl, mash yolks with fork. Reserving 1/6 pieces for garnish, if desired, blend in pimiento and 1/4 cup of the reserved sauce mixture. Refill whites using about 1 tablespoon yolk mixture for each egg half. Top each half with one piece of reserved pimiento, if desired. Set aside.

In greased 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking dish, gently toss macaroni with 1 cup of the reserved sauce. Spread evenly in dish. Top with spinach. Gently press reserved egg halves into noodle mixture. Pour remaining reserved sauce over eggs. Cover with aluminum foil.

Bake in preheated 350 degree F. oven until bubbly, 15 to 20 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika, if desired.

Wayne Herald releases all area team

Dana Nelson, Kristy Miller, Tim Jacobsen and John Schutte are the only four members of last year's basketball all area first team, to return to this year's all area team, released by the Wayne Herald.

Nelson, a senior, was once again very instrumental in leading the Blue Devils to a successful season and a berth in the B-5 district finals in Norfolk. Her three point expertise and quick handed defense posed problems for many opposition.

Heidi Reeg joins her teammate on the first team all-area squad with her performance on the season. Although Reeg played inconsistently throughout much of the first half of the season, she became a force for the Blue Devils and led the team in rebounding.

Among Reeg's attributes is the ability to block out on the boards on defense and come up with the offensive rebound against taller defenders.

Winside's Kristy Miller returns to the first team for her second straight year following a very successful season. Miller's quickness enabled her to drive the baseline and hit the soft jumper. She also spent a lot of time at the free throw line for coach Paul Giessele. Her quickness left many defenders reaching with their hands to play defense, thus fouling her.

Allen senior Amy Noe makes her first and only appearance on the first team. Noe, a senior, was instrumental in helping the Lady Eagles throughout the season. Although she doesn't stand very tall in stature, Noe played very big in hitting the long jumpers.

For the first time in several years a freshman makes the all area first team. Wakefield's Lisa Blecke was nothing short of spectacular in her first year of varsity basketball. If Blecke keeps improving she could very well be one of the most prolific scorers and rebounders in Wakefield history by the time she finishes her high school career.

Our sixth female athlete to make the all area first team is Laurel junior Shana Carstensen. Carstensen, starting in her first year of varsity play, led the Bears in scoring at 11.3 points per outing, and rebounding at 5.8 per game. She hit 47 percent of her shots from the field.

Carstensen was third in scoring in the NENAC Conference, third in field goal percentage, and sixth in free throw percentage. She is currently the leading field goal percentage shooter in Bear history for a season and a career.

"Shana is one of the most improved players I've coached and I look for her to do even better in her senior year," coach Pam Thies said.

The Wayne Herald all area second team consists of Wayne's Teresa Ellis, Kristy Hansen and Holly Paige, along with Allen's Candace Jones and Missy Martinson, and Laurel's Amy Adkins.

The honorable mention squad consists of Tina Hartmann and Jenni Topp of Winside, Lisa Anderson of Wakefield and Sherri McCorkindale and Kim Mathiason of Laurel.

Turning to boys action, Tim Jacobsen finished off his high school career with some very impressive numbers. Impressive enough to be named the Wayne Herald's basketball player of the year.

"Jac" hit 45 percent of his shots from the field while nailing down 72 percent of his free throws. Jacobsen averaged over nine free throw attempts per game so the charity stripe was no stranger to him. He finished his senior season averaging 27.2 points per game while hauling down 13.3 rebounds per outing.

"Tim is an excellent ball handler," coach Randy Geier said. "He played point guard against the man-to-man defense and did a great job of scoring and rebounding." Geier noted that Jacobsen's quickness and jumping ability has impressed many college coaches.

"Jac's average of 27.2 points is deceiving in only one area," Geier said. "He is a total team player who worked extremely hard and has an extremely good attitude." A lot of times you'll get players who average 30 points a game but aren't team players. With Jacobsen however, Winside got the world.

Among Jacobsen's many records include most points in a game, 42, and career points, 1293.

Wayne had two players make the first team all area squad in Jarrod Wood and Jess Zeiss. Wood hit an unprecedented 56 percent of his shots from the field. And just because Wood is a post, doesn't mean he didn't hit from anywhere but the paint. There were several instances where Wood hit shots from the top of the key.

Jess Zeiss did a marvelous job of quarterbacking the Blue Devils. Zeiss was a press buster almost by himself. His decision making on the court was unparalleled and his season performance earned him honorable mention on the all state team.

Andy McQuistan enters the all area team for the first time in his junior season. McQuistan became a force for Paul Eaton's Wakefield Trojans as he crashed the boards and scored at will several times.

McQuistan will return next year to lead the Trojans in what could be a banner year. McQuistan's play has earned him honorable mention on the all state team in C-2 as well as runner-up male basketball area player of the year.

The last two members of the first team all area are from Laurel. John Schutte returns to the all area team for his second straight year and the chances look good for him to make it three in a row next season. Schutte has great strength and can hit the outside jumper which makes him a double threat.

Schutte also has the uncanny ability to find an open player while he's driving to the hoop and is getting double teamed.

Troy Twohig joins Schutte on the first team with his spectacular play throughout the season. Twohig started varsity for the first time this season in his junior year. Twohig often found himself getting picked up man-to-man after becoming a zone buster from the outside. He can drive the baseline and hit the jumper on the run as well as sinking the 3-pointer.

The second team all area consists of Doug Larsen and Rob Sweetland from the Blue Devils along with Randy Prince and Steve Heinemann from Winside. Mark Johnson and Stuart Clark of Wakefield make up part of the second team as does Allen's Todd Hohenstein.

Honorable mention honors go to Todd Erwin and Doug Manz of Laurel along with Willy Gross from Wayne and Scott Lund of Wakefield. Rusty Dickens of Allen also gets credit on the honorable mention team.

So there you have it, the all area teams for the 1988-89 year. There were many memorable performances by several athletes. We should also congratulate Dana Nelson, Kristy Miller, Andy McQuistan, Jess Zeiss and John Schutte for making honorable mention all state in their respective classes. And of course our hats are off to Tim Jacobsen for making the first team all state in Class D-1.

Our area girls coach of the year goes to Marlene Uhing for the second consecutive year for guiding the Blue Devils to within one game of the state tournament. We're going to have a dual boys coach of the year for a couple of reasons. Paul Eaton deserves it once again for his guidance of the Wakefield Trojans. He will share the honor with Laurel coach Mark Hrabik. Hrabik guided Laurel to its first winning season since 1981.

Wayne stats revealed

Statistics from the Wayne Blue Devil varsity basketball squad throughout the season reveal that the fourth quarter was the most prolific scoring quarter for Wayne. The Blue Devils amassed a season total of 352 points in the final stanza alone, over 70 points more than the next closest period.

Wayne was outscored in only one quarter, the third, by six, 287-281. Wayne averaged 57 points a game while giving the opposition 54. Wayne netted 41 three point field goals, but the opposition drained 58 of the bonus shots.

On the individual side, three Blue Devils finished the season with double figure averages in scoring led by Jarrod Wood's 14 point per outing average. Rob Sweetland ended the season with an 11 point average and Willy Gross made good on his 10 point per game average.

Sweetland connected on 33 of Wayne's 41 three point field goals. Willy Gross hit four of the long range goals while Jed Reeg, Doug Larsen, Kevin Hausmann and Adam Mrsny connected on the others.

Jarrod Wood connected on 56 percent of his field goal attempts to lead Wayne in shooting percentage. The Blue Devils as a squad hit 43 percent of their field goals. Neil Carnes followed Wood with his 54 percent shooting. Doug Larsen connected 49 percent of his shots and Jess Zeiss nailed 40 percent of his field goal attempts.

Four Wayne players finished the season with at least a 70 percent free throw percentage mark. The Blue Devils as a team connected on 63 percent of their charity tosses.

Rob Sweetland led the team as he hit 75 percent of his free throws. Jed Reeg and Willy Gross were right behind hitting 74 percent of their charity tosses. Jess Zeiss was the fourth member to break the 70th percentile as connected on 51 of 73 attempts for 70 percent.

Reserve stats released

Wayne's junior varsity basketball squad put up 53 points per game this season, ten better than their opponents. The first and third quarters seemed to be the best for the reserve Blue Devils as they scored nearly 100 more points combined in those two quarters than they did combined in the second and fourth quarters.

The Blue Devils also managed to play some quality defense as they allowed their opponents a dismal 39 percent shooting percentage from the field. Wayne shot 46 percent from the floor.

Craig Sharpe and Craig Dyer were the offensive point leaders throughout the season for coach Ron Carnes. Sharpe finished with a 12 point per game average while Dyer managed 11 points per contest. Brian Lentz followed with a nine point per game average and Jeff Griesch and Chad Metzler averaged six points apiece.

Metzler and Griesch led the team in three point field goals with seven and six respectively. Griesch also led the team in steals with 27, but Craig Dyer and Craig Sharpe were right behind with 26 steals apiece.

Jeff Griesch and Chad Metzler led the team in assists with 22 and 17 respectively. Meanwhile Craig Sharpe and Brian Lentz led the team in rebounding as Sharpe hauled down 88 boards on the year and Lentz came away with 62.

Janssen gets surprise from touring preschool

Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen gave a tour of the Wayne County Juvenile Detention Facility March 22 to Mrs. Ehrhardt's preschool class (Stepping Stones Preschool).

However, Sheriff Janssen didn't know that the tour was part of a plan to celebrate his birthday. While he gave the tour, jailers, deputies, secretary and his wife were getting ready for him to come back into the office. A "Happy Birthday" poster, made by the preschoolers, hung in the main office.

And during the tour, Janssen's son Ryan sneaked into the crowd of preschoolers.

Then, Janssen became suspicious.

As they emerged from the tour, the sheriff gave each child a Play It Safe color book. Then the preschoolers lined up and sang to Janssen. The children were then given Easter baskets and cake baked in ice cream cones as treats, made by the jailers.

FINAL PHASE

Nine members of the Winside Museum Committee met Monday at the museum to discuss what needs to be done in the "final phase" of completing the museum. Plumbing installation, painting, shelving, floor coverings and outside back steps are needed prior to opening the museum on a regular basis. It is estimated $4,000 needs to be raised to cover these costs and pay some outstanding bills. Members are selling tickets for a handmade queen size quilt with matching pillow shams and a hand crocheted afghan to help with these funds. These will be drawn for at the June 10 quilt show sponsored by the Museum Committee.

A letter will be mailed out to all past contributors in the near future showing a complete financial statement.

The next committee meeting will be Monday, April 17 at 8 p.m.

IF YOU CAN THINK OF A LOCAL CIVIC PROJECT THAT DOESN'T INCLUDE A BANKER, JUST CALL ONE.

Nebraska's bankers spend countless hours each year in voluntary efforts that support their hometown. They're involved in the community and in the projects that improve it. That's because they live and work here too, and they share a respect for friends and neighbors who are equally committed to making things happen.

Lending just comes naturally to a Nebraska banker, especially when it's lending a helping hand.

Through programming units

Extension services expanded

The Nebraska Extension Service has merged its faculty in Nebraska's counties into 23 entities called Extension Programming Units. These units of comprised counties will work together on educational programs such as water quality or nutrition and health.

University of Nebraska faculty and staff will work as a team through the EPUs. Extension director Leo Lucas said in a media briefing March 22 in Norfolk that he believed this approach was a more efficient use of Extension offices and offers a higher quality of programming.

"We've listened to the public — I've talked with about 80 groups in Nebraska — and they have said they do not want their county Extension office to close. They want a contact point with the University of Nebraska," Lucas said.

"The plan is not to close Extension offices. It is, however, a local decision because local funding pays for the maintenance of those local offices."

There currently are 83 Extension offices for Nebraska's 93 counties, so not all counties have a separate Extension office, he noted. "The key is to use new technologies — such as 800 phone numbers, radios and satellite delivery systems — to get current information to the people of Nebraska," he said.

"Increasing Agriculture's Profitability" is one of the top educational program priorities of Extension. Lucas said six Extension initiatives were identified after Nebraskans were interviewed and surveyed.

Other key programs are revitalizing rural communities, enhancing water quality, improving nutrition and health, strengthening individuals and families and conservation of natural resources.

There are now satellite delivery systems in 23 of Extension offices

At ag advisory meetings

Farm Bill extension favored

Fresh from a series of Agriculture Advisory Committee meetings in the First Congressional District, Representative Doug Bereuter said on Wednesday that the farmers he talked to expressed the almost unanimous view that by and large, the 1985 Farm Bill is working rather well.

"Participants at these meetings have indicated to me that the current Farm Bill is working well," Bereuter said. "The meetings confirmed my view that we need to adopt provisions to allow more flexibility for planting decisions, as we've begun to do during 1988. Certainly, hearings would be held on the current farm program during 1989 and 1990, but at this point, the meeting participants are inclined to favor the extension of the present Farm Bill for a year or two."

BETWEEN March 17 and March 20, Bereuter had regional meetings in Wayne and several other seasons.

"I meet at least every other year with Agriculture Advisory Committee groups, made up of members who are all First District residents involved in farming and agribusiness," Bereuter said. "Then I make a point of sharing the suggestions and concerns expressed at these meetings with my colleagues on the appropriate House committees and subcommittees."

Bereuter said there is widespread feeling that major reform is needed in the Federal Crop Insurance Program. "It is clear from the comments I heard that the ineffectiveness and lack of attractiveness of the Federal Crop Insurance program is a continuing program," he said. "And, most of the farmers I talked to believe that the Farmers Home Administration has strayed too far from its original purpose."

Bereuter said that participants in the meetings generally agreed that the conservation programs are working as originally intended, but that there was strong feeling that the Soil Conservation Service needs to exercise more common sense in implementing the programs.

HE SAID the most of those participating felt that the farmer-owned reserve for commodities should be continued, but most farmers objected to the fact that commercial elevators receive higher storage rates than farmers. Participants expressed support for Bereuter's efforts to establish a system of premiums as an incentive for the delivery of high quality grain.

The advisory groups were concerned about tax issues, and most participants felt as a top tax priority that farmers should once again be allowed to income average. There also was concern about livestock issues, including the EC's ban on beef imports containing hormones, concentration in the meat packing industry and activities in the futures market.

"These meetings are extremely helpful for me as Congress prepares to review the Farm Bill and as I consider other legislation that affects the agriculture sector," Bereuter said.

WAYNE STATE COLLEGE

Northeast Nebraska Update

There are several courses at Wayne State College that may be very helpful for Northeast Nebraska businessmen and businesswomen. The Division of Business will offer several this summer.

THE ENTREPRENEUR offers timely information designed for the owner that wants to manage and reduce the risk of doing business. Dr. Kenn Hallgren, class instructor, believes the course material will focus on the most critical aspects of successful business ventures. You may join this class to discuss the blending of individuals, their opportunities, and the business environment.

FRANCHISING is an alternative small business ownership plan. Dr. Ken Halsey, instructor, knows the answer to the many questions prospective franchisees should "ask" before entering into such agreements. While franchising reduces the risk of failure to start-up businesses, people considering this option will want to know about associated costs and benefits.

COMPUTERS can be your electronic support system. You will want to be sure the computer serves your needs, and that you know how to manage the computer. What can you really expect the computer to do for your business?

MS-DOS classes will help you learn how to manage the operating system of an IBM or IBM compatible computer.

to organize your computer's hard drive, and to find those files you thought were lost. Learn how to make backups of files crucial to your business.

HELP FOR SMALL BUSINESS-PERSONS AT WSC

BUSINESS MICROSOFTWARE class will help you answer some of your computing questions related to software selection and give you hands-on experience with a leading software package in each of three types of application — word processing, database management, and spreadsheets. Instructors for the summer computer offerings in May and/or June are Jean Lutt, Cheryl Bowers, and Vera Hummel.

If you want more information, please call the Division of Business, 375-2200, ext. 245, Wayne State College. If you wish to enroll, please contact the Registrar's Office at Wayne State College.

LOWER ELKHORN NATURAL RESOURCES DISTRICT

Chemigation Training Session

The Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Nebraska will be offering chemigation certification training sessions and examinations on Tuesday, March 28 at 9:00 a.m. at the Villa Inn, Norfolk. This will be the only chemigation certification offering this spring in the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District.

The Nebraska Chemigation Act was enacted by the Nebraska Unicameral and became effective January 1, 1987. The purpose of the act is to safeguard our precious surface and groundwater resources by ensuring that individuals apply chemicals through irrigation systems safely. The Act requires that anyone who applies chemicals (any substance other than water; including fertilizers, insecticides, herbicides, etc.) through an irrigation system must first obtain a permit from the local Natural Resources District. This applies to groundwater and surface water.

Each person involved with applying chemicals through the irrigation system must attend a training session and pass a written test to become a Certified Chemigation Applicator. Certification is good for four years. (This Certified Chemigation Applicator should not be confused with the EPA's Pesticide Applicator Certification.)

Preregistration for the upcoming training session is essential in order to obtain study materials. Experience has shown that individuals do much better on the examination if the material is studied beforehand. Registration blanks are available at local Cooperative Extension Service Offices. The cost for the training is $15.00.

For further information concerning the Nebraska Chemigation Act please contact the Lower Elkhorn NRD, Norfolk at 371-7313.

Driving test changed; has more questions

As of April 3, individuals making applications for a Nebraska motor vehicle operator's license will be taking a new knowledge test.

The present knowledge test has been in place for over four years. The number of questions has increased from 20 to 25, but the passing grade will remain at 80 percent.

To ensure passing grade, all applicants are encouraged to read the Nebraska Driver's Manual which is available free of charge in every county.

An individual with a valid Nebraska license is not required to take the knowledge test if they present a violation-free driving record to the examiner. They are still required to pass a vision test and at the discretion of the examiner may be required to take the driving test.

The fee for each driving record is $1.75 and it must be in the form of a check or money order payable to the Department of Motor Vehicles. A stamped, self-addressed envelope may be included.

The driving record can be requested no more than 95 days before the expiration of the driver's license and it must be presented before the license expires.

To order the driving record, use the following address: Department of Motor Vehicles, Driver Record Section, P.O. Box 94789, Lincoln, NE 68509-4789.

Betty said she was told by the surgeons that Jack's new heart would start, and then stop. They were also having problems getting the bleeding to stop. "Later in the night, they gave him an artificial heart to allow part of his heart to rest," Betty said.

THERE WERE more prayers and words of encouragement from Father Rowan of Carver, a friend of the Kavanaughs, and others.

The surgeon took out Jack's artificial heart and put in the new heart. His new heart took off and the road to recovery began.

Betty and Jack consider the surgery a Christmas miracle. "It was the neatest Christmas present we have ever had. And we never had a present. But we had a miracle and that is what Christmas is all about," said Betty.

He was moved into the hospital's intensive care unit. "From then on, it was quite a struggle, but Jack put it all together," she said.

Jack, the 71st person to undergo a transplant at the Abbot Northwestern Hospital, was moved out of intensive care to the isolation ward, which called for a real celebration on New Year's Eve. Five weeks after the surgery, Jack began feeling better.

"I'm getting stronger and feeling better every day. I couldn't have handled it all, though, without the support of everybody," Jack said.

Two weeks ago, Jack and Betty returned to Laurel. Betty continues her duties as Laurel postmaster.

Jack is anxiously waiting to do some outside work.

HIS IMMUNE system must be built up to tolerable levels and he has to be careful not to catch a cold or flu. He takes medication, but not as much as the 27 pills a day he was taking prior to making the decision to undergo the heart transplant.

"The first year is the most critical," Jack said.

He remains optimistic about the longevity of his new heart. It didn't come with any guarantees, he said. "It's just like a used car," he added.

Words cannot express how much appreciation and gratitude the Kavanaughs have for the family who donated the heart. They know the heart Jack has in him is from a person age 33. "But we also are saddened knowing that it will not compensate for that family's loss," Betty said.

With each beat of his new heart, Jack is grateful for having wonderful family members and friends — and for a second chance at life.

Dr. Russell Rasmussen

Rasmussen gets award

Dr. Russell Rasmussen, professor of chemistry at Wayne State College, has received the Loren Eiseley Award from Bishop Clarkson College of Nursing in Omaha

The Eiseley award is presented each year to a Nebraskan who, through teaching and/or writing, has shown the blending of science and humanism that Eiseley demonstrated. Rasmussen is the first person outside the Omaha area to receive the award.

"Dr. Rasmussen is most deserving," says Dr. Jogindar Johar, division head, mathematics and science. "We are proud to have such a fine person on our staff."

Rasmussen, who came to Wayne State in 1969, earned his bachelor's degree and Ph.D. from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

Tornado

create them, tornadoes can form any time of the day or night.

— There is no such thing as an average tornado, but the typical tornado moves from the southwest to the northeast, following the parent thunderstorm. A tornado can be erratic and change direction suddenly.

— Tornadoes rarely move in a straight line and is not stopped or hindered by terrain.

— Tornadoes vary greatly in size, intensity and appearance. Most of the tornadoes occurring each year are weak, with wind speeds in the range of 100 miles an hour. About one in three tornadoes is classified as strong.

— Rain, hail or clouds may block the view of a tornado from any given direction.

— Every tornado is a potential killer. Seek shelter immediately when a tornado is sighted.

— Another misconception is that during a tornado, air pressure can be relieved in a house by opening a window. People should not take the time to do this. Too many have been injured or killed by exploding windows.

Public radio goal surpassed

The Norfolk/Columbus area has surpassed its $55,000 local fund raising goal, thereby qualifying for the $140,250 in federal matching funds for construction of a public radio station.

The Nebraska Educational Telecommunications Commission applied for the matching grant to cover up to 75 percent of the $195,250 capital construction cost for a new public radio station in the Norfolk/Columbus area to the U.S. Department of Commerce's Public Telecommunications Facilities Program in January.

The new station's coverage area will include Wayne, Wakefield, Laurel, Albion, Battle Creek, Bloomfield, Clarkson, Clearwater, Coleridge, Columbus, Creighton, Elgin, Hartington, Howells, Humphrey, Leigh, Madison, Meadow Grove, Neligh, Newman Grove, Norfolk, Osmond, Pender, Pierce, Plainview, Ponca, Randolph, Stanton, Tilden, Walthill, Wausa, West Point and Wisner.

Jo Taylor of Wayne was one of the Norfolk/Columbus campaign team members.

The Public Radio Nebraska Foundation and Commission plan is to construct the entire statewide public radio system with a combination of private and federal funds, with no capital appropriations required from the state. State appropriations joined with federal and private support, as with the Nebraska ETV Network, will then be sought for annual operations.

Those interested in supporting the campaign to bring public radio to Greater Nebraska may write or call the Public Radio Nebraska Foundation, P.O. Box 82003, Lincoln, NE 68501, 402/472-3611, ext. 346.

Farm Bureau visits Washington

Members of Nebraska Farm Bureau's Board of Directors visited Washington, D.C. March 4-8 to voice their concerns on a number of issues to the state's Congressional delegation. The trip was part of Nebraska Farm Bureau's expanded involvement in national affairs issues.

Nebraska Farm Bureau President Bryce Neidig of Madison told each of the state's U.S. senators and representatives, in separate meetings, that Farm Bureau is opposed to increasing taxes to balance the federal budget deficit.

Farm bureau leaders also told the delegation that the federation supports the direction of the 1985 farm bill and opposes modifications in the program that would change the direction away from its market-oriented goals.

Farm Bureau also supported legislation to prevent the reclassification of anhydrous ammonia as a poisonous gas; opposition to the American Heritage Trust act which would create a dedicated trust fund for the acquisition of private lands by federal, state and local agencies; and Farm Bureau's push for EPA to reopen its comment period on regulations governing pesticides and agricultural workers.

Among those from this area participating in the trip were John and Marilyn Anderson of Wayne. He is a member of the Nebraska Farm Bureau's state board of directors.
