Look for resurfacing of Highway 35 east of Wayne to begin some-time in June. Nebraska Department of Roads

District Engineer Thomas McCarthy said the 9.35 mile project is tentatively scheduled to begin on June

The project will start near the east city limits of Wayne and continue eight miles east, then about 1.35 miles north toward Wakefield. McCarthy said milling will be involved. Two inches of resurfacing will be applied, with asphalt over the top, he added.
"There will also be some guard rail work done," he said.
"Our intent is to keep the highway in shape for at least five

The purpose, McCarthy said, is to stop a waterfall that is going up and down the creek and doing damage to the bridge and the new water main belonging to the city of Wayne.

He said there is still work remaining on the Highway 9 project north of Allen. That project will continue when the railroad bridge work is completed.

National Poster Child has local connections

The last name of "Park" should be familiar to Wayne residents. And now the name will be known at least nationally. That is because Sarah Park, daughter of former Wayne resident Randy Park [and his wife Terri] is the National Poster. Child, for the March of Dimes.

Sarah is the grandchild of the Loren Parks. He was principal at Wayne Elementary from 1963 to 1967, and then from 1967 to the mid 70's, was principal at the Wayne Middle School.

Randy, Terri and children Sarah and Christopher reside in Lincoln. Randy, a graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School, is now a Nebraska Highway Patrolman and a security roll High School, is now a Nebraska Highway Patrolman and a security officer for Governor Orr. He was in Wayne recently to accompany Covernor Orr on her visit during "Capital For A Day". Terri is a part-time secretary.

Their daughter, Sarah, age seven, was born with a birth defect called spina bifida. Loren said-she wears a short leg brace, below the knee on down, and walks with crutches.

SARAH WAS officially notified in February, during a trip to Florida, that she was the National Poster Child for the March of Dimes. She was featured in the May 1989 edi-tion of True Story magazine in an article written by R. Elizabeth

As the article states: 'In addition to the brute realities of tight finances, Terri and Randy must face up to the cold hard facts about up to the cold hard facts about their daughter's handicap. Sarah has already undergone four operations and during one of them, a shunt [drainage tube] was implanted to remove-excess fluid from the brain. They know that Sarah's treatment will continue for a long time to come."

The article, which strongly depicts a positive philosophy shared by the Park family members, also mentions that Sarah "radiates a zest for living and a desire for new adventures."

SPINA BIFIDA is a birth defect acquired during development in the uterus. It affects one in 2,000 the uterus. It affects one in 2,000 babies each year and it is one of more than 3,000 known birth defects. Although surgical repair does not cure the spinal cord abnormality, surgery and other measures can greatly improve the outlook for children with spina blida.

Loren said Sarah served as the Nebraska Ambassador for the March of Dimes during 1987 and 1988. As National Poster Child, Sarah is traveling extensively. She has made appearances in San

She has participated in filming and photo sessions and will appear on a segment of Kids World on the Nickelodeon network.

Sarah is active in singing, swimming, bike riding, and Girl-Scouts and she wants to be a nurse and mother when she grows up, according to the article in True Story. Her triumphant spirit has touched millions. millions.

To make plastic degradable

Hefner bill advances

State Senator Elroy Hefner said the Legislature took a giant step in helping Nebraska farmers and landfill operators when they re-cently advanced his bill.

The bill, LB 325 which is called the Degradable Products Act, passed by a very strong vote of 37-0.

"Time is running out for us. We need to do something now with the plastic products we are dump-ing in our landfills. These plastic products do not degrade and will last hundreds of years in our envi-ronment," Hefner said...

"We have the technology. We have the process to make plastic degradable by using 6 to 20 percent cornstarch in the formula," he mentioned. "This will cause the plastic to degrade in a couple of years. We need to work with our plastic manufacturers and nudge them along to produce degrad-able plastics."

LB 325 would do that within a three year period, Hefner said. It would require the plastic rings that hold beverage containers together to be degradable by 1991; plastic garbage and grocery bags to be degradable by 1992; and plastic diapers to be degradable by 1993.

"This proposal would be a great boon to our corn farmers by using millions of bushels of corn each year, Hefner said.

ka Press Association Convention in Omaha.

The Kearney Hub and the North Bend Eagle won sweepstake honors in the Contest, scoring highest overall in various categories judged by editors and publishers in Wisconsin.

J. Alan Cramer of Wayne was joined by Governor Kay Orr in presenting the Mark E. Cramer Award to the North Bend Eagle.

Mark E. Cramer, father of J. Alan Cramer, was a newspaper publisher in Nebraska and lowa. The award in his name, a statuette of a farm woman removing her newspaper from a country mailbox, goes to the top point-getter in the weekly division.

A feature written by LaVon Anderson captured third place honors in the largest class of weeklies. The story was about Dean and Margaret Schram who were married 50 years ago during the Wayne County fair. Said the judges: Nice feature. Should evoke happy memories for many older seaders:

Anderson's lifestyle pages were judged a second place. "Easy to follow the lay-out, clear and consistent headlines and a nice mix of content," the judges said.

The Heriald's other award came in the best use of color for advertising. It featured the color work on last year's Christmas tab. "Nice reproduction," was a comment from the judges.

Reproduction staff members include Alyce Henschke, Judi Topp, Jeff Sperry and Alan Pippitt.

The Wisconsin judges commented favorably on the quality of entries and the intense competition for the awards.

Weekly newspapers competed in 20 categories ranging from personal columns, photographs to special sections. The Wayne Herald competed in the largest weekly circulation class.

Upcoming program to focus on 'Color Expressions in the Home'

Market researchers report that color is a primary consideration in consumer purchases of interior furnishings. In one study, color-was-the reason customers identified for 60 percent of returns to one merchandiser.

In an effort to help understand the complexities of color and how to use color to provide an envi-ronment that meets family needs, the Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor a program, "Color Ex-pressions in the Home."

The program, which is free to representatives of community groups, will be held on Tuesday, April 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne County Courthouse meeting room. The program will demonstrate that planning color surroundings according to personal needs be-gins with understanding how color affects individuals and how it can be used to create a home to meet specific needs.

Pat Wordekemper, Tim Wobken and Rob Zulkoski received the other three hits for the Wildcats.

In the nightcap Wayne State scored in the first inning as John Staab singled and later scored on a single by Scott Schultz, Kearney State came back to tie the score and the two squads continued to battle in a tie throughout the fifth inning with a 3-3 score.

Tim Wobken broke the tie in the sixth inning as he scored on a wild pitch. Wobken had reached base on a single but two wild pitches by Kearney State enabled Wordekemper came up with an rbi single in the seventh inning to add insurance.

Corey Weinmaster took the win from the mound which moved his record to 4-1. Don Graham came in and took the save. The Wildcats came up with nine hits. Scott Schultz went 3-4 with a double and two rbi's, and Tim Wobken also went 3-4. John Staab; Pat Wordekemper and Rob Zulkoski also notched singles.

During first game action on Sunday Kearney State pitcher Brian Benson threw a five hitter which enabled the Lopers to notch a 7-2 victory over Wayne State. Destry Jaeger and Pat Wordekemper notched two hits apiece including a triple by Wordekemper. Scott Schultz singled to account for the five Wildcat hits.

Chris Simon took the loss from the mound pitching the first five innings. John Hagen pitched the fi-nal two innings and shut the Lopers down. "John did an excellent job during the final two Innings," klaver said. "We just couldn't get anything going on offense."

In the nightcap Don Graham was on the mound for Wayne State. Through six and one third innings of play, Graham was sensational, tossing a three hitter at the time. It was at that point however, that he could not continue because of a sore arm. Graham had pitched at Briar Cliff on Thursday and at Kearney on Friday. nd at Kearney on Friday.

With men on first and second and one out, and the score tied at 1-1, Kearney State went on a rampage. The Lopers scored eight runs in the inning as they shelled pitchers Therron Brockish and Corey Weinmaster. Jeff Pasold also came in and he closed out KSC's potent bats.

"We intentionally walked a cou-ple guys during the inning to try for the double play," Klaver said. "Kearney just hit everything we threw after Graham went out." The

During last Thursday's games at Briar Cliff, the Wildcats forced a split, winning the first one 7-5, but dropping the nightcap, 10-2. Mike Emory picked up the win in game one and Don Graham got the save. The two-some combined to scatter five hits. Highlights included 2-run doubles by Therron Brockish and Scott Schultz, and a 3-run homer by Tim Wobken.

John Hagen took the loss in the second game as Wayne State was shelled for nine runs in the first three innings. John Staab and Rob Zulkoski each recorded a pair of hits and Destry Jaeger laced a triple.

The Wildcats recaptured the lead and the game in the sixth in-ning. Mikelle Waller led off the inning reaching base by way of an error. Lori Rath and Tanya Gappa then hit consecutive singles. Wayne State then held off Doane in the seventh inning to reach the semifinals. Wayne State came away with 10 hits in the contest including a double by Shell Schumann. Natalie Highman, Jodie Gil-fillan and Mikelle Waller all laced a pair of singles while Kris Pestal, Tanya Gappa and Lori Rath had one single apiece.

Wayne State faced the host team St. Mary's in the semifinals and up until the top half of the seventh inning it was a 2-1 game in favor of Wayne State. Doug Fea-gan's Wildcats however, unleashed an arsenal of power in the final in-ning, scoring four runs and holding of St. Mary's to earn a spot in the finals.

The Wildcats unloaded for nine hits against St. Mary's led by Lori Rath's two singles. Others singling were Shell Schumann, Lisa Jacobsen, Natalie Highman, Laura Stuerman, Jodie Gilfillan, Eva Coons and Roni Johnson, who by the way, earned the victory from the mound.

Obviously it's nice to make it to the championship game of a tournament, even if you don't win. However, in Wayne State's case, the final game was all their's to win or lose going into the bottom of the seventh inning. Wayne State maintained a 2-0 lead with Ronda-Peck on the mound.

Wayne State's defense couldn't come up with the big plays in the final half inning and Morningside came away with the 3-2 win. The final inning saw a base on balls, an error, a single, an out, and the rinal infining saw a base on bails, an error, a single, an out, and the winning single.

The Wildcats actually out hit Morningside by an 8-3 margin. Eight different players recorded the hits. Shell Schumann, Lori Rath, Lisa Jacobsen, Kris Pestal, Natale Highman, Tanya Gappa, Ronda Highman, Tanya Gappa, Ronda Peck and Jodie Gilfillan were the recipients of the singles.

Youngster wins gold

Drew Sasse, grandson of Fred and Loreene Gildersleeve of Wayne, participated in the Ne-praska Junior Olympic Trials in Karate, held in Springfield, NE on April 8. Drew won gold medals in sparring and forms in the Z-year old division. Since Drew will not be old division. Since Drew will not be eight years old until October, he will have to wait another year be-fore competing at the Junior Olympics. (Minimum age to par-ticipate in junior olympics is eight.)

Sasse is, however, qualified to compete at both the Regional Tournament in Tulsa, OK and the National's in Chicago. Drew started karate less than a year ago and according to his coach, John Roseberry, he's made some remarkable improvement in just that time. Roseberry is an instructor at the Sho-Rei-Shobu-Kan School.

Wayne State student presenting 'Habitat for Humanity' program

Wayne State College student Steve Burge of Sioux City will pre-sent a program this Sunday evening, April 23, on the "Habitat for Humanity" program he partici-pated in recently in New York City.

Burge will be speaking at 7.p.m. at the Campus Ministry House lo-cated on the Wayne State College campus. A potluck supper will pre-cede the program at 6 p.m., and the public is invited to attend

"HABITAT FOR Humanity" is a non-profit Christian housing ministry which works in partnership with people in need-to-improve the conditions in which they are forced to live.

The program, which was begun during the Carter administration, challenges people of compassion to provide the initial capital through gifts and non-interest loans — to build or renovate sim-ple, decent homes for the inade-quately sheltered.

A combination of simple house plans, donated materials and volplans, donated materials and volunteer labor help keep building costs down. Houses are sold at no profit, with a no-interest mortgage repaid over a 15 to 25 year period. The house payments are recycled to build more houses through a local "Fund for Humanity." Each project, in the United States and around the world, is governed by a local, interdenomi-national Habitat committee or board of directors which sets up an impartial family selection process and makes sure that the houses are affordable to the needy.

BURGE, A non-traditional student at Wayne State, traveled to New York City to participate in that city's "Habitat for Humanity" program during spring break, March 19-26.

His week-long participation in the program was sponsored by the Wayne State College Campus

Burge, who was joined in New York City by 25 volunteer college students from across the country, said that during the week the stu-dents visited churches and churchrelated organizations to learn what they are doing to assist the homeless.

Among the many places the students visited was Covenant House, which is 90 percent privately funded and provides shelter to teens and adolescents. Students also visited churches which provide shelters for homeless men and women, including homeless AIDS work is done strictly by volunteers, including the homeless who will reside in the building once it is completed.

Steve Burge

IN THE AFTERNOON, the students worked on an actual Habit project which involved renovating a six-story building on Manhattan's lower east side.

completed.

"The people who will eventually occupy the building have to show up and help when they are not working at their regular jobs," pointed out Burge, "or they don't get to live there."

Burge said the majority of Habitat projects begin with burned-out buildings which are purchased from the city for $1 or $2. Various groups are then recruited to renovate the structure to make it suitable for housing.

suitable for housing.
"The project benefits both the city and the homeless," pointed

BURGE, A WAYNE State freshman with a double major in business management and political science, has been involved in numerous civic projects to help the under-privileged. He said his interest in helping others less fortunate than himself began when he joined his local Jaycees chapter nearly 13 years ago.

"That's when I really became involved in helping others," said Burge, adding that the last line of the Jaycee creed states that "Service to humanity is the best work of life."

BURGE ADDED that he would recommend participation in the "Habitat for Humanity" program to anyone.

"I'd do it again in a minute," said

Steve. "It wasn't all work. "It was a lot of fun too." After visiting New York City's Covenant House, Steve said he is seriously thinking about returning to work there one year as a coun-selor. "You don't have to have a degree in counseling," said Steve. "You just have to know how to listen and help steer kids in the right direction."

BURGE SAID HIS program Sunday evening will focus on all aspects of his week's stay in New York City, including the spirituality which surrounds the "Habitat for Humanity" program.

Burge said he also would like to stress the many opportunities available to college students and the community through the Wayne State College Campus Ministry House.

American Indians missionary speaking Tuesday in Wayne

The Rev. Steve Nerness, nationally appointed home missionary to the American Indians at Central Indian Bible College (CIBC) and on the Sioux and Chevenne reservations in Mobridge, S. D., will be guest speaker on Tuesday, April 25 at 7 p.m._at Wayne World Outreach Center, 901 Circle Dr.

The Rev. Bob Schoenherr said the public is invited to hear Nerness' message.

"My great grandmother was an American Indian. I've had a burden for these special people for 11 years. I am confident God will use my family in this area. Through the pastoring of a home missions church, I saw God increase the congregation from just my family to 80 members and saw him save souls, fill people with the spirit, and heal others," said Nerness.

NERNESS SAID alcoholism, abuse and suicide among Ameri-can Indians are more than twice the average of the rest of the American population.

He intends to reach these peo-ple with the help of his wife Mary, and children Steve, age 17, Misty, 12, Israel, nine, and Jacob, four.

and see souls saved. We want to share with people the importance of home missions emphasis on Indians," explained Nerness.

BOTH MR. AND Mrs. Nerness attended Central Bible College. He graduated with a B.A. in Bible. Before his call to CIBC, Nerness worked on the Navajo Reservation in Arizona during college and pas-tored a church in Webster City, lowa.

Byrd Scholarship awarded

WAYNE-Joel Hansen, a student at Wayne-Carroll High School, was one of 11 high school seniors in each of Nebraska's three Congressional Districts who earned Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholarships.

The scholarship program, named for U.S. Senator Robert Byrd, began in 1987 as an effort to recognize the top senior scholars in every state in the nation. Each winner will receive a $1,500 scholarship to assist in defraying expenses of the first year of study beyond nigh school.

Nebraska winners were selected using criteria established by a panel of educators from high schools and colleges within the state. Chief among those criteria are scores from the ACT (college entrance tests), each candidate's overall grade point average, and each candidate's rank in his or her high school graduating class.

Hansen will be presented the award during ceremonies Tuesday, May 2 at the Red Lion Inn in Omaha.

You've neard me expound about EMT's before. Most in our area are volunteers. They've taken an 81 hour class, on their own time, and struggled to learn the basics of first aid, extrication, and basics of first aid, extrication, and transportation.

They take an exam, carry beepers, respond to the calls, and take continuing education classes to stay current in the field. They do this because they care about their communities.

I remember the immense feeling of relief after I arrived at the scene of our daughter's accident, when I saw the Winside rescue unit come over the hill and saw the guys I had taken the class with jump out and take charge.

THEREIN LIES the problem. When they respond to a call, they never know who they will find introuble. I know one woman who picked up her daughter, a fire chief who went after his Dad, and al farm wife who found her husat farm wife who found her hus-it could be a friend, a neighbor, a classmate; or maybe a child, and they have one at home the same age. These runs can cre-ate sleepless nights and nightmares, and may eventually lead to burnout.

It has formed state-wide CISD teams. made up of professionals and experienced volunteers, who will be available to rescue unit personnel after a bad call. The initials stand for Critical Incident Stress Debriefing. Debriefing is the key. IN AN ADDITION effort to offer advice about dealing with stress to EMT's, I've been giving a presentation called "Dealing With Bad

It started in West Point over a year ago. That squad had had a whole series of tough calls. I met with them in their fire hall on a very cold night, and found a warm reception. I stressed the importance of dealing with our feelings by talking about them.

At the end of the evening, I At the end of the evening, a saked for comments—A woman-about my age stood up and said, "I want to emphasize the value of talking and sharing. When you re-sponded to my husband's accident four months ago, it was hard for everyone. Coming to the regular meeting two days after the funeral meeting two days after the funeral was very difficult for me. But talk-ing together, and crying together, was good medicine for all of us."

That was how I met Rita Weiler, who is now the coordinator for his area's CISD team. We've been traveling together since. We've tried to respond to every request, and we've put on a lot of miles. Lyons, Bancroft, Norfolk, Winside, Norfolk area, Fernanch Bloomfield, even Fremont, have made up our itinerary. Next week it's Neligh, then Allen, and later to Kennard, if we can find it.

EVERYWHERE, we meet caring and committed men and women who are dealing with their emotions and asking themselves, "Did we do enough? Did we do it right?"

When I recall what emergency medical services in rural areas were like thirty years ago, especially the level of training and the type of vehicles, I have to say, "We've come a long way, Baby!"

And I'm very pleased that Ne-braska is the leader in this effort. Our rescue unit personnel are a valuable resource; a resource we often take for granted. We need to help them help us.

FEDERAL SCHOOL FUNDS DECLINING

Federal support for public schools fell last year to its lowest level in 20 years--six percent of overall school funding.

Yet federal contributions have always been a small part of school funding (they were eight percent five years ago). State and local governments pay the lion's share.

On average, states now pay nearly 50 percent of the cost of education, and local governments pay 44 percent. The level of state support varies widely, however, from a high of 91. percent in Hawaii to less than one percent in the District of Columbia. And there is no uniform trend in state support of schools.

WHILE THE state share of school funding has fallen during the past five years in California, Illi-nois, Michigan, Texas and Virginia, it has been boosted in Arizona from 45 percent to 65 percent. Smaller increases were granted in the northwest over the past five

Unfortunately, the outlook for state support of education in the near future is uneven at best. Many states have been hit hard by farm and oil revenue declines. Thus, Iowa, North Dakota, Louisiana, and other states with economic woes increased school spending the least during the past four years.

WITH SCHOOL spending now at a record high nationally, and with expenditures expected to in-crease by 16.4 percent from 1987 through 1992, many states will face_some_tough_financial_and-po-

Most states will need to raise taxes significantly to carry out edu-cation reform.

In those parts of the country where state taxes are not in-creased, local tax support may become the key to maintaining or expanding good educational op-portunities.

The Division of Humanities at Wayne State College Joins with The Nebraska Committee for the Humanities, the John G. Neihardt Foundation, and the Nebraska State Historical Society to sponsor the Nei-hardt Spring Conference at the Nei-hardt Center in Bancroft on April 29,

This year's conference, entitled "John G. Neihardt and Eastern Thought," will coincide with the University of Nebraska Press resissue of Neihardt's The Divine Enchantment. The program will explore the influence of classical Eastern religious philosophy, particularly that of India on Neihardt's thought and its presence on ivendral's thought and its presence in his work from the youthful The Divine Enchantment, to his mature masterpiece, A Cycle of the West. The daylong conference will be divided into two main sessions. The morning session will begin with Hilda Neihardt Petri's personal reminiscence of her father's interest in Eastern thought. Troy Organ, Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Philosophy, Ohio University, will discuss some of the fundamental religious and philosophical viewpoints of Hindu thought as expressed in the Upanisads, and show how Eastern consciousness provides a necessary complement to Western world views.

Northeast Nebraska Update

In the afternoon session Sally Mc-Cluskey, a writer/consultant for Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich, will discuss the specific evidence of the influence of Eastern thought on Neihardt. Follow-ing her presentation, McCluskey will join Organ and James Gulick, Curator of the Heritage Room of the Bennett Martin Public Library in Lincoln, Nebraska for a panel discussion on the relationship between eastern and western thought today.

NEIHARDT CONFERENCE APRIL 29

Those attending the day-long conference may also tour the Sioux Prayer Garden with Maxine Kessinger, the Director of Interpretation for the Neihardt Foundation and have lunch of Interpretation for the prepared by the Women of St. Paul's Altar Guild. The program is free and open to the public.

What is the maximum human lifespan? Most experts believe it is 115 to 120 years, the National Institute on Aging reports. The longest documented life -- recorded in Japan -- was 120 years. What about stories of people living as long as 150 years in Soviet Georgia, the Himalayas and the Vilcabama region of Écuador? Long lives are no uncommon in those areas, where people develop hardy lifestyles amid rugged conditions. But evidence is lacking to pinpoint actuages, and suspected in stories about 150 year-olds.

Topical and Oral Acne Medicines

Acne is one of the most difficult-to-treat of all the skin conditions. Effective topical and oral acne medicines include:

Benzoyl Peroxide: This top-ical medicine is considered the most effective of the nonprescription acne medicines. Benzoyl peroxide drys the skin and helps peel away dead layers that might otherwise clog openings in the skin. It also causes the release of oxygen in the skin, which kills bacteria associated with the development of acne.

Tretinoin: This prescription-only topical medicine is often reserved for moderate to severe acno that does not respond to benzoyl peroxide.

Antibiotics: Topical antibiotics, such as erythromycin, clindamycin, and tetracycline, are often effective in treating mild to severe acne. Severe acne often requires oral antibiotics, how Isotretinoin: If oral antibiotics are not effective, isotretin oin, a derivative of vitamin A, is sometimes considered. This oral medicine decreases sebum production in the skin and is effective in treating severe acne. Iso tretinoin should not be taken by women who have recently become pregnant.
