

Dr. Ralph Barclay

Dr. Ralph Barclay, chairman of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Division at Wayne State college, has been selected as the president of the board of directors of the Wayne County American Heart Association.

The mission of the American Heart Association is to reduce death and disability from diseases of the heart and blood vessels, and it works to fulfill its mission through research, public education and community programs, according to Barclay.

In the past 10 years, there has been a 27 percent decrease in heart attacks, strokes have declined by 42 percent, blood pressure related deaths have dropped by 41 percent and rheumatic fever related deaths have been reduced by 44 percent.

Barclay, who came to Wayne State in 1965, earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from Bradley University, and his Ed. D. from Columbia University.

Spring concert

The Wayne Elementary School Spring Concert is scheduled for Monday, May 8.

The performances will take place at the Wayne-Carroll High School gymnasium beginning at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the free concert.

Orchestra concert

The annual Wayne-Carroll spring orchestra concert is scheduled for Thursday, May 11, 7:30 p.m. at the high school lecture hall. Performing groups include: the fourth grade beginning string class; fifth grade string class; sixth and seventh grade string trio; and the high school string students. Part of the concert will be repeated at the elementary school Friday at 2:30 p.m.

The public is invited to the free program.

Fourth grade students participating will be Bethany Johnson, Megan Rose, Angie Victor, Rachel Walton, Tom Zach, violins; Stephanie Bailey, Natasha Lipp, violas; and Rachel Blaser, cello.

Middle and high school string students are: Amy Barner, Sarah Blaser, Craig Broders, Cena Johnson, Erin Langemeier, Kari Schindler, Saminaz Zaman, all violins; Todd Campbell, Travis Koester, Trudy Kramer and Claire Rasmussen, violas; and Sharon Foote, Kerry McCue, Sarah Terhune, cellos.

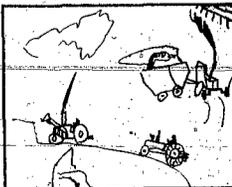

Brother/sister

The final event of the Wayne-Carroll school year was a bowling party at Melodee Lanes on Sunday, April 23.

Twenty big brothers and 27 little brothers participated, along with 16 big sisters and 29 little sisters.

Most of the Wayne High W-Club members sponsored a fifth or sixth grade student for the school year. Other events during the school year were the introductory get-together after a Wayne High volleyball game this past fall; and attendance of a WSC men's basketball game together in January.

Faculty sponsors for the bowling activity were Don Koenig, who coordinated the fifth and sixth grade part of the program, and Bob and Marlene Uhing.

A year into life

Michael and Megan beating the odds

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

It was early 1988 and Wayne residents Doug and Paula Schwarten were eagerly anticipating sharing their lives and love with a new baby come mid-summer.

Married nearly eight years, the young couple had planned, and prepared for the child that Paula was carrying — due to arrive July 31, 1988.

Nearly five months into the pregnancy, Doug and Paula were told to prepare the nursery for not one, but two. Paula was expecting twins.

"Of course we were excited," smiles Paula. "Doug and I had looked forward to starting a family for so long, and the thought of twins in the house was wonderful."

Paula, the daughter of Myron and Arlene Kuhl of Plainview, counted the months while continuing to work at Wayne's First National Bank. Doug, son of Merle and Lois Schwarten of Wakefield, is employed as traffic manager at Great Dane. He too looked forward to July and his new role as father.

DOUG AND PAULA'S joy and anticipation came to a sudden end on April 20, 1988 when Paula began experiencing premature labor pains — nearly 15 weeks before her July 31 due date.

She and Doug immediately rushed to Norfolk. From there, Paula was taken by Life Flight Helicopter to St. Joseph's Hospital in Omaha.

Five days later, on April 25, 1988, Paula gave birth by Caesarean section to Megan, 1 lb., 8 oz., and Michael, 1 lb., 13 oz. Both were 13 1/2 inches long and nearly 14 weeks premature. And both were delivered with a team of at least seven doctors each.

"The nurses and doctors were able to stall the labor for five days," says Doug, adding that it gave them enough time to administer two rounds of steroids to Paula and crucial time in the development of the tiny infants' lungs.

"Another week would have made all the difference," says Doug. "Even a couple more days and Megan and Michael may have had fewer complications."

Because Megan and Michael were so premature, their eyes were still fused together at birth.

"They both opened their eyes for the first time on Mother's Day," smiles Paula.

Two-inch square gauze pads were used to diaper the tiny infants.

AT 26 WEEKS, Doug said infants are considered viable — capable of living, growing and developing. "The organs just aren't developed in infants less than 26 weeks old," adds Doug.

The most common serious problem facing a newborn premature infant is the immaturity of his lungs. As a result, both Megan and Michael received surfactant with their first breaths to help develop the lungs.

Both were also baptized immediately when their parents were told there was a 50-50 chance of survival.

"Without the surfactant Megan and Michael probably would not have lived," says Paula, adding that following their birth Michael remained on a respirator for two months while Megan stayed on the respirator for three months.

"They were just too young to breath for themselves," explains Paula, adding that the ventilators also helped maintain Megan and Michael's blood oxygen levels.

DURING THAT TIME, following Paula's release from the hospital, the Schwartens worked at their jobs in Wayne from Monday through Friday. Every weekend was spent in Omaha to be near Megan and Michael.

"We spent every Friday night to Sunday night in Omaha," says Doug. "We never missed a weekend."

During the weekends, Doug and Paula stayed at the Ronald McDonald house and were able to visit the nursery any time day or night.

"As a parent," says Doug, "it was often very difficult to step into the nursery with so many sick babies. We had to scrub up and dress in sterile gowns, and alarms were constantly going off around us."

Megan and Michael were eight weeks old before Paula first held them. "I wasn't even really holding them," recalls Paula. "I just picked them up an inch off the bed."

During the week, when Doug and Paula were back at their jobs in Wayne, they received videotapes of Megan and Michael taken by the staff at St. Joseph's.

Villains, heroes get billing in upcoming play

"Way, Way Down East," an old fashioned "meller" by Earl J. Dias is the next playhouse production of the Wayne Community Theatre, directed by Gil Haase.

Scheduled to open next Thursday evening (11th) in Wayne State's Ley Theatre, the curtain will rise at 8:00 p.m. as Friday and Saturday, the 12th and 13th.

The play, a part of an evening of exciting vaudeville, is set in the not-so-gay nineties and opens in the Ludlow farmhouse where Ezekiel and Hepzibah are about to lose the house because they don't have enough money to pay the mortgage.

Loving Lily is sent to Banker Skinnem to convince Tedious J. Impossible to extend the payment. BUT, all will be lost unless Ronald Fitzwilliam's invention for Bertram J. Moneybags, president of the rail-

ON THE EVE OF THEIR FIRST BIRTHDAYS, little Michael, at right, and Megan Schwarten pose for this picture with their mom and dad on the front steps of their home in Wayne.

COMPLICATIONS developed shortly after birth when both Megan and Michael began suffering brain bleeds. "In premature infants," explains Paula, "the vessels in the head are so fragile that they just burst."

Paula adds that brain bleeds are graded on a scale of one to four — with four being the worst. While Michael's bleed was graded between two and three, Megan suffered a grade four brain bleed.

"The blood inside Megan's head dried and blocked the spine," says Paula, adding that the blockage caused a build-up of fluid in her head.

Because Megan was too small to undergo surgery for a shunt to drain the fluid into her abdomen, the doctors performed intraventricular taps where they inserted a needle through the soft spot in Megan's head to rid her of the fluid build-up.

"They did this daily," recalls Paula, adding that nearly 7 cc's of fluid were drawn off each day.

On June 29, at 3 lbs., 9 oz., Megan had her first shunt surgery. Everything appeared to go well until July 14 when she underwent her second shunt surgery, replacing the first shunt.

"Megan will have the shunt for the rest of her life," explains Paula, adding that the shunt will be replaced as she grows.

IN ADDITION TO being placed on ventilators following their birth to assist in breathing, both Megan and Michael were constantly fed Hiperal through a central line leading directly into their main arteries.

"Hiperal," explains Doug, "consists of pure protein and was required just so Megan and Michael could maintain their weight."

road is purchased in time to save them.

The scenes continue to the woods and the railroad tracks near the farmhouse, returning to the conclusion in the Ludlow living room. Will happiness once again reign and triumph over evil? The answer will be revealed during the 30 minute performance.

In completing the evening of black-outs (long ago forgotten), the audience will be taken back to the exciting days of vaudeville as cast members and other community entertainers shine in song, dance and skits with variety to whet the appetites of any age of theatre-goers and even those who haven't been to the theatre in years.

Expect to see Evelyn Sheckler, Sue Scott, Galen Wisner, Marie Skokan, Jennifer Schmitz, Ben Wilson, Marco Garlick, Sam Wilson and Maurice Anderson, all in "Way, Way Down East."

The olio acts and black-outs will be performed by Gwen Jensen, Gil Haase, Marco Garlick, Marie Skokan, Ben Wilson, Lisa Soseman, Sue Scott, Clyde Flowers, Jason Polt and hopefully still others. Serving as MC will be Ted Blendenman and Bonnie Siefken will accompany the musical numbers.

In Wayne and other Nebraska schools Youth fitness evaluated

Just how fit are students in Nebraska schools? And how does Wayne compare to the state averages?

These questions were answered following tests involving 3,000 students from 38 Nebraska schools (including Wayne-Carroll). And the results show a need to increase endurance and strength programs, particularly for those who have completed their required physical education classes.

The report was from researchers from the Center for Fitness and Healthful Living Education at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. These researchers report that the overall fitness level of students nationwide has declined significantly from standards of 20 years ago.

STUDENTS age 12-17 (in Wayne and in other schools across the state) were tested for cardiovascular fitness, muscular strength, endurance and flexibility, according to Deborah Loper, Nebraska Youth Fitness Study director. Skin-fold tests were also performed to determine body fat.

Loper said that in most categories of the tests, Nebraska students are slightly above what is an already low national average. Body fat content is higher than the national median, she added, and she said that Nebraskans also need to improve their upper body strength and cardiovascular performance.

The Nebraska averages show a decline in endurance and strength for advanced secondary students [junior and senior students] who have completed their physical education requirements.

Marlene Uhing, physical education instructor at Wayne-Carroll High School, helped coordinate the fitness testing of Wayne students participating in the statewide research project.

WAYNE SCHOOL results of "better or worse" statistics were as follows (using the means for Wayne students, not particular individuals) —

Sit-ups: Wayne boys and girls did slightly better than the Nebraska averages. "Also, our younger students did better than the older, which is consistent with Nebraska results," said Uhing in a news release.

Flexibility: Wayne students did slightly worse than the Nebraska average.

Body Fat: Wayne students had a slightly higher percentage of body fat than the Nebraska average, and the older students were worse than the younger, Uhing mentioned.

Pull-ups: "Our students did better than the Nebraska averages, and our older better than our younger," mentioned Uhing.

ALL CONSIDERED, Uhing said Wayne results were consistent with the findings for Nebraska.

"Wayne students were slightly better than the Nebraska results on sit-ups and strength tests. We were similar in cardiovascular tests. We were slightly worse in tests of flexibility and body fat than Nebraska," Uhing said.

To combat these trends, Loper said Nebraska Department of Education will fund workshops on curricular changes to help schools correct students fitness deficiencies.

By care centre firm

New facility to be constructed

A new facility will be built in Wayne to replace the Wayne Care Centre.

That announcement came last Thursday from Care Centre Management of Sioux City, owners of the Wayne Care Centre. Administrator Gil Haase reported Thursday that Care Centre Management is in the process of looking for necessary ground to build a replacement care facility that will be "much more applicable to existing regulations and to the new ones that will be implemented within the next two years from Federal and State agencies."

"The new Care Centre will be all on one floor," according to Haase, "and hopefully we'll be able to almost double the private room capacity which would help satisfy the needs of those presently inquiring about nursing home care."

"Also, no room will be more than two beds," he said. Haase also stated that it is under discussion that a possible Alzheimer's wing or area will be included in the building plans. Under existing state certificate of need regulations, the present structure cannot be used as another nursing home.

The owners [Care Centre Management] are exploring the possibilities available to them for the present care facility's use or conversion.

The present facility is licensed for 94 residents and there are currently 83 residents at the facility. Haase said the new facility will also be licensed for 94 residents.

Tim Boyle, chief operating officer of Care Centre Management, said he would not be able to give a construction start until the ground has been obtained and operational plans are completed.

Toelle-Biermann repeat vows

Sharolyn Faye Toelle and Brian Biermann exchanged marriage vows on April 22 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wisner. Officiating was the Rev. Herbert Biermann of Granton, Wis., uncle of the bridegroom.

Soloists were the Rev. Michael and Carol Walther of Kearney, and organist was Starla Loewe of Scribner.

Parents of the couple are Morelle and Wiltrude Toelle of Beemer and George and Elaine Biermann of Wayne. Lighting candles was Ralynne Toelle of Beemer.

ON HER WEDDING day, the bride appeared at her father's side in a gown of white satinette featuring a double draped skirt edged in Chantilly lace which swept into a chapel-length train.

The gown featured a Queen Anne neckline and dropped waistline, both trimmed in Venice lace and pearls. The Juliet sleeves featured lace-bridal points.

The bride wore a picture hat decorated with silk flowers, pearls and Venice lace, with a net puff flowing into a double tiered veil. She carried a cascade of white and pink miniature carnations accented with red roses and silk ivy.

NATALIE TOELLE of Norfolk served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Pam Brodd of Fremont and Lisa Giese of West Point.

They wore tea-length dresses of French royal blue satin featuring sweetheart necklines with lace covering the bodices and long sheer sleeves. Each carried lace nosegays of pink miniature carnations and ming fern-with offset-ribbon streamers.

Best man was Gaylen Goeller of Pilger, and groomsmen were Aaron Biermann of Wisner and Brian Brodd of Fremont. The bridegroom was attired in a black tuxedo with a black cummerbund and bow tie, and his attendants wore black tuxedos with royal blue cummerbunds and ties.

Ring bearer was Christopher Giese of West Point, and ushers were Jonathan Haddock of Wayne, Daryl Brodd of Fremont, Paul Schutte of Wisner and Corey Loewe of Beemer.

A RECEPTION WAS held in the Wisner city auditorium following the ceremony. Hosts were Robert and Laura Ann Brodd and Carl and Dorine Biermann.

Cal and Mary Bretz of Grand Island were seated at the guest book.

Assisting at the reception were Jean Bradfield, Lois Munderloh, Lila Jahnke, Reb Snyder, Lori Schutte, Marlene Ludwig, Lois Sherburne, LaVon Biermann, Sharon Hurd, Cindy Stahler and Teri Biermann.

THE NEWLYWEDS are making their home in Wisner. The bridegroom is engaged in farming and the bride is employed as a secretary in the law offices of Boeckenhauer and Feller in Beemer.

New 4-H, youth agent serving five-county area

Lynda Ohrt is the new extension agent—4-H and youth hired to help coordinate the 4-H program in the extension programming unit of Wayne, Dixon, Thurston, Dakota and Cedar counties.

Ohrt comes to the area from Platte County where she was the extension agent—4-H and home economics for two years.

OHRT SAID THE 4-H enrollment of Platte County is comparable to the total enrollment of the five county area she now serves, however, the number of events, fairs and area to cover is five times greater.

Ohrt added this will present some challenges and lessen her ability to have as much personal contact with the 4-Hers as she prefers.

"My goal though is to provide more programs and opportunities for all of the 4-Hers and leaders by utilizing the talents of the extension staff currently in the five counties as efficiently as possible."

Ohrt will be consulting with staff from all five counties on ways to strengthen and streamline 4-H and youth programming.

Lynda Ohrt

OHRT HAS A BS in family environment and an MS in consumer economics from Iowa State University.

She now resides in Wakefield and plans a June 17 wedding to Gregg Cruickshank who is the athletic director and social studies teacher at Wakefield High School.

Joy Blecke was hostess for the May 3 meeting of Cuzins' Club. Members played 500 with prizes going to Dorothy Mau, Ruby Moseman of Emerson and Frances Nichols.

Next meeting will be June 7 at 1:30 p.m. with Donna Lutt.

News and Notes

By Mary Temme, Extension Agent-Home Ec

Clean up your act

Home Extension Clubs in Northeast Nebraska have been helping homemakers develop leadership skills and learn about themselves, their homes and their families for over 50 years.

During National Extension Homemakers Week, May 7-13, Home Extension Club members concerned about their environment have selected the theme "Clean Up Your Act." Homemakers, young and old, working and at home have a stake in preserving the quality environment we have in Nebraska.

EVERY DAY, each Nebraskan generated 4 to 8 pounds of trash. The existing landfills are reaching capacity. Many communities are facing tough decisions regarding the location of new landfill sites. While it may not be possible to totally eliminate waste, there are a number of sensible options we can take personally to help ease the problem.

The first option is to limit the waste. The less garbage that is generated the less communities will have to handle. Purchase items in packages that are biodegradable. Maintain and repair equipment to extend its useful life.

Buy household chemicals with caution. Cleaning products, lawn and garden chemicals, solvents, paints and glues can become environmental hazards. Purchase these in small quantities which you can use up quickly. If you have leftover lawn fertilizer, pesticides or paint thinner, share it with others.

ANOTHER OPTION for waste management is to recycle items for multiple uses. The most common recycled items are paper, glass and aluminum cans. Recycling a ton of paper saves 17 trees. There are recycling centers located across Nebraska. Check in your community and put your waste to a good use.

Used motor oil can be recycled as well. Many service stations will take used oil as a community service. Put used oil in a clean plastic container for recycling. Be sure to thank your service station agent for providing this service for you, your community and your environment.

New technology offers some assistance in waste management as well. Plastics and foams are some of the most persistent ecological concerns. It may take multiple lifetimes — if ever — before these materials begin to degrade.

Technological advances have resulted in new plastics made partly with cornstarch. The cornstarch speeds up the breakdown of the plastics in the landfills. And, this technology provides a new market for Nebraska's agricultural products.

DO YOUR part for waste management. Buy only what you need, exchange waste by sharing extras with others. Recycle as many products as you can. Ask for biodegradable plastics or use paper bags when you buy groceries.

Join with extension homemakers in Northeast Nebraska this week. Clean up your act and remember garbage is a problem for you, me and all of us.

Engagements

Gallop-Lienemann

Mr. and Mrs. John Gallop Sr. of Norfolk announce the engagement of their daughter, Laurie Gallop of Hoskins, to Ed Lienemann of Hoskins, son of Virginia Sullivan of Pampa, Texas and Duane Lienemann of Hoskins.

Plans are underway for a July 1 wedding at the Peace United Church of Christ, Norfolk.

Miss Gallop is a 1981 graduate of Winside High School and a 1985 graduate of Wayne State College. She is employed at DeLay First National Bank in Norfolk.

Her fiancée was graduated from Winside High School in 1973 and is employed at Vulcraft in Norfolk.

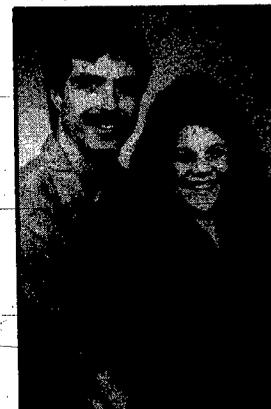

Stottle-Herrmann

Michelle Marie Stottle and Mark Paul Herrmann will exchange wedding vows on June 10 at The United Lutheran Church of the Master in Omaha.

Miss Stottle attended Wayne State College and is presently attending the University of Nebraska-Omaha, majoring in interior design.

Her fiancée is a senior at Wayne State College majoring in criminal justice with emphasis in security management with a business administration minor. He will graduate in May.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dorff of Omaha and Burton Stottle of Valrico, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Herrmann of Laurel.

Russell-Eurich

Making plans for a June 10 wedding at Christ United Methodist Church in Lincoln are Karen Russell and Keith Eurich, both of Lincoln.

Their parents are Vernon and Darlene Russell of Wayne, and Roger and Gwen Eurich of Crete.

The bride-elect was graduated from Spencer School of Business, Grand Island, and is employed as an office assistant for the City of Lincoln. Her fiancée is employed as a sheet metal worker for Bryant Heating & Air Conditioning.

Puls-Conway

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Puls of Wakefield and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Conway of South Sioux City announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their children, Kristin Ann Puls and Joe Daniel Conway.

They will be married June 23 at St. Michael's Catholic Church in South Sioux City.

Miss Puls was graduated from Wakefield High School and is employed at Great West Casualty of South Sioux City. Her fiancée is a graduate of South Sioux City High School and also is employed at Great West Casualty.

Policy on Weddings

Because our readers are interested in current news, all weddings and/or photographs offered for publication in The Wayne Herald must be in our office within 14 days after the date of the ceremony (no exceptions for holidays). There will be a $10 flat fee for stores and/or photographs submitted after that time (up to two months).

Wayne dominates Invite

The Blue Devil golf team seems to be peaking at the right time. In their final meet before Conference and Districts, Wayne hosted the annual Harold Maciejewski Invitational with a total of 15 teams taking part.

All Wayne did was unofficially establish its lowest score ever with a 303. West Point won a playoff with Oakland-Craig for runner-up honors with a 328. Fourth place was cooped by Wayne's junior varsity squad and fifth place went to O'Neill. Norfolk Catholic finished sixth.

"Talking with Harold Maciejewski, we believe that Wayne's total may be the best ever by a Blue Devil foursome," Wayne coach Terry Munson said. "The kids all came out and shot very well and consistent."

Jason Peterson, the Oakland-Craig senior who has been called the best golfer in the state of Nebraska, finished first with a 71. Wayne's Elliot Salmon came in a close second, finishing even with a 72. Jed Reeg and Rob Reeg finished in the third and fourth positions with scores of 74 and 76 respectively.

Eric Runestad notched a sixth place finish with an 80 and Mike Nicholson finished 10th. Kevin Hausmann finished 12th with an 84 and Jason Claussen was right behind with an 85. Claussen was the varsity's fifth golfer on the day but his 85 was not counted with members Elliot Salmon, Jed Reeg, Rob Reeg and Eric Runestad.

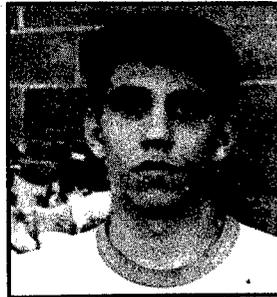

The junior varsity finished in fourth place with members Kevin Hausmann at 84, Mike Nicholson at 84, Brian Moore at 86 and Kyle Dahl at 88. Greg Schmidt was the junior varsity's fifth golfer but his score was not added.

West Point's Chad Kurlm finished with a 79, good enough for fifth place while Justin Witted and Ross Peterson of West Point finished in the seventh and eighth positions with scores of 81 and 82. Columbus Lakeview's Scott Snoozy finished ninth with an 83.

Cole signs with KSC

Former Wayne-Carroll wrestling standout Jason Cole, has signed a letter of intent to attend Kearney State College to participate in wrestling, according to Antelope wrestling coach Ed Scantling.

The Antelopes have won the NIAA Area III title for the past two years. Other newcomers who have signed letters-of-intent to attend Kearney State include Kipp Erickson of York, Gregg Conner of Burwell, Pete Ybarra of Brush, Colorado, Anthony Tamayo of Council Bluffs, Iowa, Damon Shada of Grand Island, Mike Borer of North Bend, Matt Prieto of Omaha, Chad Beaman of Council Bluffs, Iowa and Michael Moyers of Ralston.

Camp set for all-stars

John Schoneberg of Sutton and Jim Miller of Omaha Marian have been selected to coach a high school all star team that will travel to Mexico in August. The two coaches have accumulated 460 career wins and 16 state tournament appearances between them.

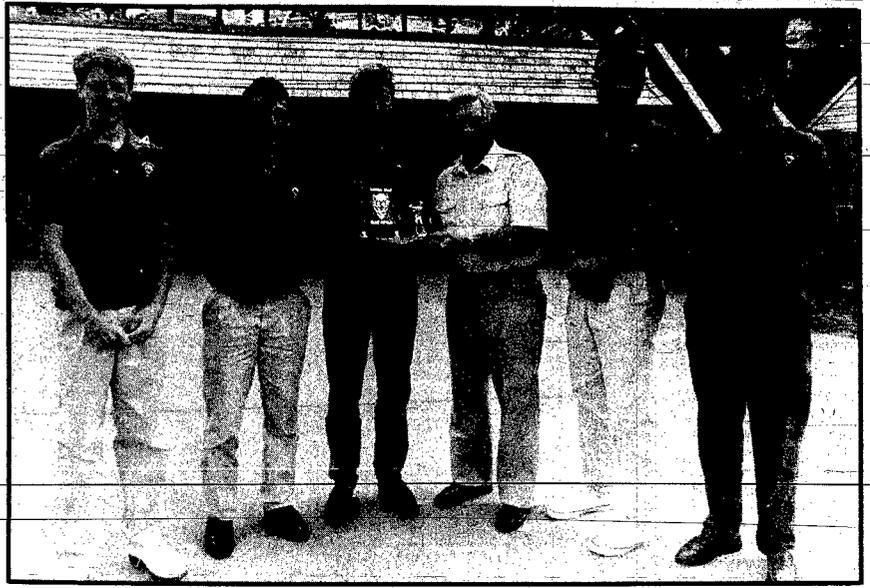

Schoneberg has coached girls at Sutton for the past 14 years. He has a coaching record of 205-64. His teams have made five state tournament appearances, finishing second in 1986. His 1988 team was ranked third in the final polls. He also coached the 1984 Nebraska Coaches' all star game.

Miller has coached basketball at Marian for 13 years. Always a contender in the tough Metro Conference, Miller's teams have won 255 games while losing only 51. His teams qualified for 11 state tournaments in a row, winning the state championship in 1985.

Marian was runner-up in 1984, 1986 and 1987. He coached in the Nebraska Coaches' all star game in 1985. Miller was the girls' basketball state Coach of the Year in 1985 and was twice nominated for the National Coach of the Year.

This marks the second year a team of Nebraska all stars have traveled to Mexico. The players are selected from three weekend basketball camps held at Doane College in June. The team will practice at another camp at Doane July 28-30. They will leave for Mexico August 1 for seven days. The team will play 10 games in the Mexico City area. The final two days will be spent in Acapulco.

Sixteen high school players will be selected. Any Nebraska high school student in grades nine through twelve of 1989-90 is eligible. For more details on the try-outs, contact Gene Steinmeyer at Doane College or call at 402-826-8247.

Thinclads in action

The Wayne-Carroll track teams ran into a stubborn Battle Creek team Thursday as they participated in the Battle Creek Invitational. Both the host girls and boys won easily with the Bravettes scoring 196 points, 106 points ahead of runner-up Wayne with 90. Hartington Cedar Catholic finished third with 77 and Randolph placed fourth with 41. West Point-Central Catholic rounded out the top five teams in the girls standings with 35 points.

For Wayne it was one of the few times they didn't win an invite this season. The Blue Devils could only muster two individual first place finishes amidst the rainy and windy day. Danielle Fallesen and Tonya Erleben finished first and second respectively in the high jump with a 4'10" effort and Heidi Reeg did likewise in the shot put with a put of 33'6".

Teresa Ellis and Holly Paige managed runner-up placings in the 800 and 1600 meter runs. Ellis was clocked in a second place time of 2:36.3 in the 800 and Paige was timed at 6:11.6 in the 1600. Wayne's sprint relay team of Dana Nelson, Tonya Erleben, Danielle Fallesen and Kristy Hansen finished second with a 53.5 clocking.

Kristy Hansen managed a pair of individual third place finishes with a 13.3 clocking in the 100 meter dash and a 27.6 clocking in the 200 meter dash. Teresa Ellis managed third place in the 3200 meter run with a time of 13:02.1 and Wayne's mile relay team finished third with a time of 4:41.0.

Dana Nelson was Wayne's lone fourth place finisher as she long jumped 15'3" for the placing. Deanna Schlus meanwhile, placed fifth in two events including the long jump with a leap of 15'1 1/2" and a 400 meter dash time of 69.0. Danielle Fallesen tied with Dana Nelson in the 200 meter dash with 28.4 times. Nelson also finished sixth in the 100 meter dash with a 13.7 clocking. Wayne's 3200 meter relay team finished fifth with an 11:13.1 time.

Boys finish third

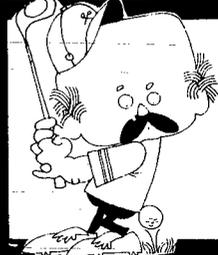

Wayne scored 721 1/2 points to finish third behind Battle Creek with 1841 1/2 and Randolph with 89. Madison finished fourth with 54. Craig Dyer had the Blue Devils only individual first place finish with a 53.0 clocking in the 400 meter dash. Wayne's 1600 and 3200 meter relay teams also checked in with a first place finish as the foursome of Greg DeNaeyer, Adam Mrsny, Craig Dyer and Willy Gross notched first place in the 3200 relay with an 8:48.3 effort, and the foursome of Greg DeNaeyer, Casey Dyer, Willy Gross and Craig Dyer placed first in the 1600 relay with a 3:36.0 effort.

Todd Fuelberth finished third in the 3200 meter run but no time was kept because of the eight lap race, only seven could be completed because of the weather. Wayne's 4x100 meter relay team finished third with a 47.3 clocking with team members Jess Zeiss, John Murphy, Adam Mrsny and Mike Hillier.

Jess Zeiss recorded two fourth place finishes for the Blue Devils in the long jump and the 200 meter dash. Zeiss leaped 19'10 1/2" and was clocked at 24.1 in the 200. Matt Bruggeman finished fourth in the discus with a toss of 129'10" and Eric Liska took fourth in the shot put with a put of 46'1 1/2". Mike Hillier also recorded a fourth place finish with a time of 11.8 in the 100 meter dash.

Hillier added fifth place finish in the 200 meter dash with an effort of 24.4 while Matt Bruggeman did likewise in the shot put with a 43'5" put. Willy Gross was clocked at 2:16.0 in the 800 meter run which was good enough for fifth and John Murphy ran to a fifth place tie of 48.3 in the 300 intermediate hurdles. Scott Fuelberth placed fifth in the 1600 meter run with a 5:26.2 effort.

Chris Fredrickson triple jumped to a sixth place leap of 39'4" and Kanichi Saito finished sixth in the 1600 meter run with a 5:27.4 effort.

LADIES AID

Twenty-five members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church Ladies Aid met Wednesday with Bev Hansen, aid president, giving the welcome.

The LWML Pledge was said in unison and Laura Jaeger led in devotions with a mother/daughter reading and the singing of "What A Friend We Have In Jesus."

Pastor Fale led the Bible study "Lord I Am Still Hungry" from the LWML Quarterly. The secretary and treasurer reports were given. Erna Hoffman reported on the centennial souvenirs. A motion was made and carried to order a commemorative plate, glass bell and glass toothpick holder. Doris Marotz will also serve in the committee with Mrs. Hoffman.

Correspondence was read from Less and Elaine Menke, the Wayne County Extension Office, Katie Bleich and family, St. John's Church in Pilger, Martin Luther Home and Gary Phillip.

The visiting committee reported: Margaurite Janke reported on articles from the Lutheran Witness.

Project Hope encourages members to continue saving coupons for them, especially soap and paper products. Members voted to continue the bazaar as in the past. The Ladies Aid will pay half of the cost for each child attending Camp Luther this summer. Bev Hansen reported on the LWML convention in Carroll.

Hostesses were Mary Janke and Marcia Fale.

The next meeting will be Wednesday, June 14 at 1:30 p.m. The birthday table will be observed. Janice Jaeger and Norma Janke will be hostesses.

AMERICAN LEGION

Twenty-five members and two guests, including the District 3 Commander, of the Roy Reed American Legion Post 252 met Tuesday at Winside.

The group discussed the proposed new Legion Hall project. A committee was appointed to seek bids, floor plans and advise the group. Members include Dick Schmidt, Dean Mann, Randy Miller, George Voss, Dave Bloomfield and Ray Jacobsen. Discussion will continue at the next meeting.

The secretary and treasurer reports were given. Ray Roberts, commander, conducted the meeting.

The Memorial Day program will be held Monday, May 29 at the village auditorium at 10:30 a.m., concluding with the firing squad at Pleasant View Cemetery. The auxiliary will be serving their annual noon dinner at the Legion Hall.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, June 6 at 8 p.m.

RESCUE CALL

The Winside Volunteer Rescue Squad was called to the Norris Hansen farm Tuesday at 7:05 a.m. They transported Mrs. Hansen to Lutheran Community Hospital in Norfolk due to illness.

WEBELO CUB SCOUTS

Susan Fuoss and Rita Magwire met Wednesday with the Webelo Cub Scouts. They worked on a geology lesson. Brian Deck served treats. The next meeting will be Wednesday, May 10 after school.

WOLF CUB SCOUTS

Seven Wolf Cub Scouts met Tuesday with leader Joni Jaeger. They worked on "Your Living World" lesson discussing how to clean up your neighborhood and how to conserve electricity. Aaron Hoffman brought treats. The next meeting will be Tuesday, May 9 after school. Evan Robb will bring treats.

The infants were gavage fed through a tube leading from their nose or mouth to their stomach. "We started out at 3 cc's of formula (1/4 teaspoon) every four hours," says Paula.

"We thought it was great when Megan and Michael were finally started on formula," adds Doug.

ON AUG. 10, 1988, Michael was released from St. Joseph's Hospital and was at last able to join his parents at home. His weight had climbed to over 5 1/2 pounds.

Paula smiles as she fingers through Michael's photo album and a picture taken nearly two months after his birth in a small red baseball cap — an ice cream holder she and Doug had purchased at Baskins-Robbins.

"Michael weighed 3 lbs., 11 oz. and we had to put cotton inside the cap to make it fit his head," laughs Paula.

"We thought he was so big," smiles Doug.

ALTHOUGH MICHAEL was home, he still required special care and Doug and Paula were trained in the technique of gavage feeding him through a tube running from his mouth into the stomach.

Although he was on regular formula, Paula said Michael soon developed a formula intolerance leading to colitis, esophagitis, and ulcers.

"He simply wouldn't take anything," explains Paula. "He would just scream. It was very, very painful."

"Michael would cry so hard that nobody would come to our house because they couldn't stand it," adds Doug. "I don't know how we stood it."

During this time, Paula said she would try feeding Michael with a nipple. "He would maybe take a teaspoon every three hours, and then we would go back to gavage feeding and he would just scream."

After visiting a gastroenterologist, Michael was placed on several medications and the gavage feedings continued. By the end of October he was taking a bottle.

DOUG AND PAULA'S excitement of having Michael at home was soon overshadowed by the news that Megan had begun seizing.

"They told us Megan probably wouldn't live through the week," says Doug. "We said our good-byes, went out and bought a dress to bury her in," adds Paula. "We went through the entire grieving process."

"It about killed us that day," recalls Doug.

As she had done from the day she took her first breath, Megan continued to be a survivor and to fight for her life. The seizures were brought under control with phenobarbital, a drug which she continues to take.

"As Megan grows the phenobarbital level needs to be increased," explains Paula, adding that the seizures which Megan suffers from may eventually go away.

"We've learned to live day to day," says Doug.

MEGAN WAS transferred from St. Joseph's to Providence Medical Center in Wayne on Sept. 21 to be nearer her parents and brother.

On Jan. 21, 1989, Doug and Paula were at last able to bring Megan home with them. Two days later, on Jan. 23, Megan was back in an Omaha hospital to undergo fundalpyclation surgery tightening the opening to her stomach.

"Megan was throwing up constantly from formula intolerance and a severe gag reaction," explains Paula.

Megan was in and out of the hospital four times during February, and again during Easter, with bouts of pneumonia and a gag reflex.

Since Easter, Megan has remained at home with her parents and brother.

ON APRIL 25, 1989, Megan and Michael Schwarten celebrated their first birthdays — complete with party hats, ice cream and cake.

Like any other young parents, Doug and Paula are only too happy to show-off and brag about their "miracle" babies.

Michael, who has a smile for everyone, recently began rolling over and vocalizing. "He says 'da da' every once in a while," beams Doug, and he takes a bottle and eats baby food.

"We really don't know what all Michael will be capable of doing," says Paula, "but we have every hope that he will develop as a normal child."

"Although Michael does have some motor problems on his left side, you can see his mind working constantly. He wants to do more and go faster."

"WE KNOW MEGAN suffered brain damage from the severe brain bleeds," says Paula, "and the doctors and specialists tell us they're not sure what we can expect."

"Megan," says Doug, "has surprised doctors time after time and is already doing things they said she would never do."

"Megan coos a little, can move her legs, and loves to get her hands to her mouth," adds Paula.

Although Megan was taking formula from a bottle last fall, Paula says they have had to return to feeding her through a gastrostomy tube. "We're still hoping to get her back to the bottle."

ALTHOUGH MEGAN and Michael have continued to surprise both their parents and doctors, the twins still face more than their share of problems.

Both suffer eye problems caused by retinopathy of prematurity — an eye disease associated with the use of supplemental oxygen in premature infants whereby blood vessels, instead of growing outside around the eye, grow inside the retina causing it to detach.

Both Megan and Michael have undergone eye surgery to freeze the blood vessels.

"Doctors were able to save the retinas in Michael's eyes," explains Paula, "but the damage from surgery was so bad that his eyesight is very poor and even with his glasses he can maybe see clear about a foot in front of him."

"The surgery was not as successful for Megan. We just don't know," says Doug, adding that although Megan is blind in her right eye, the sight in her left eye is good enough where doctor's don't feel she needs glasses at this time.

BOTH MEGAN AND Michael suffer from cerebral palsy — a nerve and muscle dysfunction — although doctors aren't sure to what degree.

Michael, who has gained just one pound since Christmas, will re-enter Children's Hospital in Omaha on May 12 with suspected ulcers caused by his formula intolerance.

"We think it may be ulcers that are preventing him from gaining weight," says Paula. "His eating has slowed down and he's spitting up more and more."

In addition to undergoing four shunt surgeries since birth, Megan has battled meningitis and several bouts of pneumonia. "Megan was on the ventilator so long that it caused her immune system to be very weak," explains Doug.

Megan also suffers from a gag reflex and in addition to taking phenobarbital to control her seizures, also undergoes aerosol atropine treatments to open up her passageways to make breathing easier and dry up her normal secretions.

Both Megan and Michael receive physical therapy and early developmental therapy weekly.

"We do lots of exercises every night," smiles Paula, "and we still see the doctors an awful lot."

DESPITE ALL THE problems the past year has brought, Doug and Paula remain optimistic about the future.

TIMELINE

Need for daycare

This year, the day care problem is a red hot issue. Both state and national senators are wrestling with the question of how to adequately care for the children of working parents. It seems like a very modern problem.

But Nebraska women have always worked. Most of this work was invisible, since it wasn't done for wages, and it was done in the home or on the farm. Still, some women worked for wages outside the home. And if these women had children, they had to worry about what we now call "daycare."

Immigrant women were among those most likely to work for wages, often as domestic helpers in "American" homes. Hattie Plum Williams, a sociologist from the University of Nebraska studied these workers. She recounted the effect of the day labor of "Russian-German" women in Lincoln on their children around 1910.

"THE MOTHER leaves the home at 7 or 7:30 in the morning and the small children have from one to two hours of undirected time to put in before school. Tasks which have been set for them are either slovenly done or neglected altogether so that they may join their mates at play on the streets or school grounds. Especially this is true of the boys both before and after school."

"The girls on the other hand put in their time after school at the heavier housework which must be done "after hours" — the washing, ironing, scrubbing, baking, etc. Although overwork undoubtedly sometimes results, its effects on the whole are less detrimental than no work or such carried on unsystematically.

"Not infrequently small children are locked in the house if the weather is bad or out of the house if the weather is good. Not long since a pastor called upon a parishioner at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and found three children, aged 2, 4, and 6, locked in the house since their mother left in the early morning."

"Sometimes the most careful parents do this to avoid indiscriminate playmates on the streets or danger from colds because the children are too small to wrap themselves up carefully, but the fearful danger from fire makes it a hazardous practice."

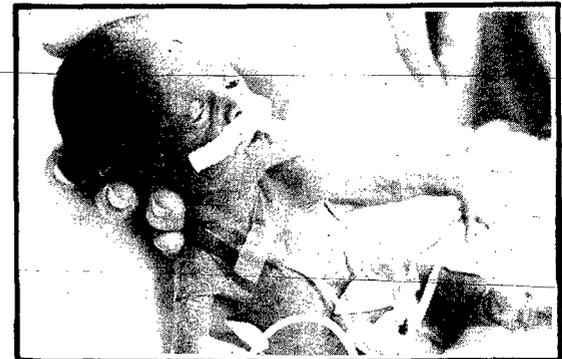

"IN WARM OR pleasant weather the streets are swarming with children from 2 to 4 years old whose mothers are gone from home half to three-quarters of the day. A small effort has been made by public and private means to meet this situation."

"A junior kindergarten for children from 3 to 5 years of age in the North settlement partially meets the need there; while one of the schools in the south side has accepted into its regular kindergarten children from 3 to 5, although they are below the legal school age."

"It looks as if a couple of day nurseries were urgently needed, but there is a question whether it would not do more harm than good by encouraging out-of-home work where it was not necessary."

Megan, who now weighs 14 pounds, and Michael, at 12 1/2 pounds, remain their mom and dad's pride and joy.

"Megan and Michael are doing pretty good right now," says Paula, "and we're just enjoying having them home. We love it!"

"It's been a tough year," says Doug. "We're tired and we always have to fight depression. But we love our babies and we want them to remain home with us, not in an institution."

Both Doug and Paula say their employers have been wonderful. "We've had to miss a lot of work," says Paula, "and not once have either of our employers complained."

"They also say they couldn't live in a kinder, more considerate community. Last July, the Wayne County Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8212 sponsored a benefit breakfast in Bressler Park to help Doug and Paula with medical expenses. Nearly $600 was raised during the event and matched by Lutheran Brotherhood."

"So many people remembered us at Christmas," says Paula, "and the churches have been wonderful in continuing to pray for us."

Paula said during the time that Megan and Michael were hospitalized, the Evening Circle of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne provided the family with meals and coupons for pizza. Schwartens also were adopted by the Sunday school classes of the Lutheran Church in Dakota City.

Schwartens also are quick to praise the doctors and staff at Providence Medical Center for the care and concern they showed during Megan's hospitalization in Wayne.

"IT'S TOUGH," says Doug, "but Paula and I have learned to live day to day. We love our babies."

"I think the whole purpose of this past year has been to teach us about love," adds Paula.

"We had to grieve the death of a perfect child. That's how we've come to accept Megan and Michael."

Beef: exactly the right stuff

I love beef. Love pork, chicken and fish, too. Problem is, what I can't get enough of is what I can't get too much of.

Understand all that? Eating an over-abundance of meat is now a no-no for me. That's what happens when your uric acid count is high.

Yea — people call it gout. It's not to the stage where my whole foot has to be wrapped thickly with cloth and I have to walk with a cane. It started with the big toe on the left foot. At first I thought it was an old softball injury, but the acid test proved me wrong.

So with all those delicious beef burgers, T-bones or other steaks, chicken and all the other types of delicious meats — my intakes have to be controlled.

Now, I don't mind staying away from some meats, like liver or pickled tongue and heart. Gizzards are fine. And Rocky Mountain Oysters are, should we say, an experience in itself.

And at least I can still sharpen my skills in barbecuing. It has taken years of experience, though. Those first few attempts at grilling barbecued ribs, smothered with sauce, sure turned out messy.

Keeping the meat from absorbing the smell of the charcoal lighting fluid and stopping that awful gas taste from getting into the hamburgers was quite a task.

Sometimes it was hard to decide if I was turning over a burger or if a lump of charcoal was in its place.

Those days are long gone. Most of my grilling efforts are success stories.

DID YOU realize that beef's value to Americans doesn't stop at the dinner table?

On the average, 43 percent of a beef animal is edible meat. The rest is almost completely utilized as by-products in many different forms.

Beef by-products are found in: Food Uses — Gelatin comes from the hooves, horns, hides and bones and is used in making ice cream, yogurt, candies and marshmallows. Fatty acids are used in the manufacture of chewing gum.

Household uses — Beef fatty acids are found in candles, cosmetics, detergent, insulation, perfume and soap. Piano keys and combs are derived from hooves and horns. The hide provides leather goods, luggage and upholstery. Collagen-based adhesives are used in making bandages, wallpaper, sheet rock and several glues. The gelatin helps make photographic film and phonograph records and paint brushes are made from hair.

Pharmaceuticals — The most widely known by-product is insulin used to treat diabetes. Others help heal burns, aid digestion, coagulate blood, remedy arthritis or allergies and regulate blood pressure. Medical sutures are derived from cattle intestines.

Transportation — Chemical manufactures use numerous fatty acids from inedible beef fats and proteins for many lubricants and fluids. For instance, antifreeze contains glycerol. Tires are made with stearic acid, which makes the rubber hold its shape under continuing surface friction. Asphalt on roadways has a binding agent from beef fat.

BEEF by-products are also a part of hydraulic brake fluid, airplane lubricants and runway foam, car polishes, steel ball bearings and textiles for car upholstery.

All in all, several hundred by-products come from cattle, including over 100 pharmaceuticals. New uses continue to be discovered daily.

So remember beef the next time you feel a big sneeze coming on or your child has some really bad dream.

Why? Because some countries have begun using cattle gall stones to remedy colds and relieve bad dreams in children. Its primary use in these countries is as an aphrodisiac.

HOSKINS VILLAGE BOARD PROCEEDINGS

April 25, 1989

The Hoskins Village Board met in regular session at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall. Board Members present were: Ken Elkins, Pat Brudigan, John Schourich, Darrell Maier and Russ Doffin. All minutes were taken while the convened meeting was opened to the public.

The March Minutes were read and approved. Selling bulk water was discussed. The concern of the town board is that filling water wagons or water trucks causes damage to the water hydrant used especially in the winter months. It was decided to raise the rate to $4.00 per thousand gallons for a limited number of loads. Excessive hauling is not yet solved until a better system of loading is devised.

Town clean up days will be May 5th and 6th and May 12th and 13th. Pickup will be available for people who do not have hauling means. The Fire Hydrant by Wieble's house is broken. It was decided to replace it with a new Mueller hydrant.

Larry Bruggeman asked permission to keep the Bar opened till 1:00 a.m. on April 28th for their Grand Opening. Motion by Elkins. Second by Maier to grant permission. Carried. Bob Wortman of Johnson-Erickson Engineers was present at the meeting. He was representing Richard and Mark Strate. He presented and explained a temporary plating plan
