Medi-Tedi program expands

By Chuck Hackenmillar
Managing editor

Medi-Tedi is certainly making the rounds these days.

You'll find the stuffed animal in ambulances; highway, sheriff and police patrol vehicles. Earlier this year, Dixon hosted a pancake feed — to benefit the fire department and rescue unit — and Medi-Tedi was represented along with Smokey the Bear.

The Medi-Tedi has been adopted by the Nebraska State Health Department-Division of Emergency Medical Services as a mascot for children. Medi-Tedi serves as a friend of a child who is in need of comfort after physical or emotional trauma following an emergency situation.

Stuffed animals, like Medi-Tedi, tend to have a calming effect on traumatized children who could be injured, emotionally upset or scared. The panda is about eight inches high.

TUESDAY NIGHT, area fire department and rescue unit personnel were presented their first Medi-Tedi to place in their respective transportation units during a burn emergencies workshop at the Wayne Fire Department.

Represented at the workshop and receiving a Medi-Tedi were Wally Barth of the Stanton Rescue Unit; Colby Gillespie of the Hoskins Fire and Rescue Unit; Marian Creighton from Providence Medical Center; Aage Petersen, Battle Creek EMT-A; Gary Schieffer, Osmond EMT-A; Art Barker, Wayne Fire and Rescue Unit; Ver Neal Marotz, Winside Fire and Rescue Unit; and LeRoy Janssen, Wayne County Sheriff. Medi-Tedi's were also presented to the Wayne Police Department.

Helping to distribute the Medi-Tedi bears Tuesday evening were Miron Jenness, Gary West and Joe Teeter, all of Wayne, who are members of the Northeast Nebraska EMS Advisory Committee.

THESE Medi-Tedi stuffed bears will be placed in over 1,000 ambulances and first responder units across the state. They will also be placed in approximately 225 state patrol cars and in the county sheriff's vehicles across Nebraska.

Once the bear is given away, it is the child's bear to keep. Another Medi-Tedi will be sent to the rescue units or law enforcement agencies for future emergencies.

The Medi-Tedi bears are paid for by private donations. Funds can be sent to support the Medi-Tedi program by making checks out to "Medi-Tedi Program" and mailed to the Nebraska Department of Health, Cashier's Office, P.O. Box 94925, Lincoln, Nebraska 68509-4925.

Janet M. Cusick conducted the burn emergencies workshop Tuesday evening. She is a burn trauma nurse with St. Elizabeth Hospital in Lincoln and she is a fire fighter with the Lincoln Fire Department. The workshop was sponsored by the Nebraska Burn Institute; St. Elizabeth Hospital; Northeast EMS Advisory Committee; Providence Medical Center; Northeast Community College; and the Nebraska Department of Health, EMS Division.

The last of the couple's six children, Allen, graduated with distinction on May 13 with a BS degree in chemistry.

Allen had been initiated in Mortar Board in 1988 and in Phi Beta Kappa in 1989, and served two years as rush chairman for the Ag Men Fraternity.

LYLE, THE oldest of the George children, graduated with an agricultural economics degree in May 1980 and is presently employed as an independent manufacturer's representative with Restful Knights of Wayne.

All six children are graduates of Laurel-Concord High School.

HAROLD GEORGE, a native of Broken Bow, graduated from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln with a BS in agricultural engineering.

His wife, Marie (Lindgren) George, was born and raised on the farm where the couple now resides and received her BS and MSW from the University.

Going back another generation, Harold's father, the late Clarence George, was graduated from UN-L in 1911, along with a brother, Ralph George, a chemistry major and member of the football team, who graduated in 1909.

Arthur George, a charter member of Farm House Fraternity and a member of the Class of 1913, was a professor of agricultural economics at UN-L until his retirement.

Vincent George received his degree in engineering in 1916, while an aunt, Marguerite George, attended classes in the field of arts and science.

Mrs. George said this was all in the era when team and wagon was the means of travel for the 20-mile trek from Broken Bow to Ansley, where they boarded the train for Lincoln.

95 to compete

Wayne to host state golf meet

By Chuck Hackenmillar
Managing editor

Wayne Country Club's 18-hole golf course will be the site this Thursday for the Nebraska High School Class B State Golfing Championship.

Ninety-five high school golfers, representing 35 Class B schools, will be coming into Wayne to compete for team and individual honors. Most will be arriving in Wayne on Wednesday to practice on Wayne's par 36 golf course in preparation for Thursday's competition, which kicks off at 9 a.m.

This isn't the first time Wayne Country Club has hosted the state high school boys golf tournament. The most recent was in 1986 when the Wayne Blue Devils finished in seventh place, after placing first in districts, with a 335. The team event was won by Gering with a 324 mark, followed by Crete, Blair, York, Lexington, Fairbury, Wayne, Elkhorn Mount Michael, Minden, Grand Island Northwest, Chadron and Grand Island Central Catholic.

THREE WAYNE players who will be competing Thursday — Jed Reeg, Eric Runestad and Rob Reeg — all were on that 1986 Wayne High golf team. The other two team members on the 1986 team were Tom Perry and Dave Ellis.

Jed Reeg is the only "returning" state tournament medal winner from Wayne.

Crete, York, Lexington, Grand Island Northwest, Chadron and Wayne will again be competing for team championships at the Wayne Country Club. Other teams in the running are West Point, Columbus Scotus, Waverly, Nebraska City, Syracuse, Lincoln Pius X, Hastings Adams-Central, McCook and Gothenburg.

The Wayne Country Club golf course, at least 40 years old, will be groomed and readied for the tournament play by country club personnel. Pin placement on the greens will be decided by golf course superintendent Ken Dahl and club professional Larry Berres. "It will go on a six, six, six basis — six easy, six moderately hard and six difficult pin placements," said Berres.

"The tougher the hole, the easier the pin placement. The easier the hole, the tougher the pin placement," he said.

BERRES said the toughest hole to par on the Wayne course will be No. 11 — a 381-yard par four hole on the back nine which features a water hazard on the right and a fence line along the left. "Compared to other holes on the course, there are just too many ways on this hole for the golfers to get into trouble," Berres said.

Most golfers do well in gaining pars or birdies on the par five No. 16 hole, also on the back nine of the country club. "Especially if the south wind continues to prevail," Berres mentioned.

"The toughest of the putting greens is No. 18 hole, without a doubt," he said. "No. 11 green ranks right behind it."

Both the front-nine and the back nine holes at the country club are irrigated. The front nine holes are irrigated automatically. However, the back nine holes are irrigated by a quick coupler system that has to be moved around often.

Therefore, the back nine is suffering moisture stress right now that would normally occur in August. The country club board of directors is currently reviewing bids for installation of an automatic irrigation system for the back nine holes.

Berres said the 18 hole course still is the best in northeast Nebraska when comparing how the dry spell has affected other courses.

So the course should provide a strong challenge to the 95 high school golfers competing Thursday.

RUNESTAD, district medalist, will tee off with the first foursome at 9 a.m. on Hole 1, matched with three other district medalists. Rob Reeg and Elliot Salmon will also be teeing off with different foursome groups on Hole 1. Jed Reeg will be among the foursome in the second group teeing off on Hole 10.

Wayne High had the second lowest district golf score with a 322. Lincoln Pius X shot the best district score with a 317, and Lexington was third with a 323.

The GOLDEN YEARS

By Joe Drake

Older people tend to keep giving to charities even when they worry about their own financial future, according to a survey of American patterns of giving and volunteering. The survey found that contributions by all United States households average 1.5 percent of income. People were asked, among other things, if they were worried about having enough money for the future, and 56 percent of those who contribute to charities said yes. Among them, only people 65 or over gave an average of two percent or more of their household income to charity. The survey was sponsored by the Independent Sector, a coalition of corporate, foundation and volunteer organizations which seeks to increase the level of contributions and volunteering.

Don Drake, of Big Cove, Alabama, is cited as a model giver and volunteer. He gives $10 a week to his church from his $300 monthly Social Security check and spends two hours a day delivering lunches to shut-ins. Drake is 86.

Area Thinclads ready for the State track meet

Thirty-six athletes from the coverage area of The Wayne Herald will compete against the top athletes from around the state Friday and Saturday as the Annual State Track & Field Meet gets underway at Omaha Burke Stadium.

There have been a lot of success stories from all the area teams but the loudest speaking in terms of performance have to go to the following: From Wayne, Kristy Hansen, the 3200 meter relay, the sprint relay team, Tammy Geiger, Danielle Fallesen and Tonya Erxleben. This doesn't mean that the rest of the squad didn't have any impact because they definitely did, but these people really excelled and made the Wayne girls track team the best they could.

Miss Hansen qualified for the state meet in four events including the 100 meter dash, 200 meter dash, sprint relay and the 3200 meter relay. Hansen joins Holly Paige, Teresa Ellis and Tammy Geiger on a relay squad that scored first or second during all invites and duals this season.

The sprint relay team involves Hansen, Danielle Fallesen, Tonya Erxleben and Dana Nelson. What an excellent blend of experience and youth. Hansen, Erxleben and Nelson are all seniors with loads of experience. Fallesen is in her freshman year and qualified for state in two events.

Tammy Geiger is the other freshman on the squad who had major impact on the success of the Blue Devils. Geiger qualified for the state meet in three events including the 400 meter dash, 800 meter run and as a part of the 3200 meter relay.

As already mentioned Danielle Fallesen qualified for state in two events with the sprint relay and the high jump. Tonya Erxleben did likewise in the same events. But the story doesn't stop there however. Fallesen, a freshman, transferred to Wayne this season from Plainview. She waltzed in and dominated the high jump at most track meets.

Tonya Erxleben, a senior, was Wayne's predominant high jumper for the past couple seasons. Erxleben had jumped 5'0" as a junior high student but never did it again until this season. Now both Erxleben and Fallesen have qualified together for the state meet—a real tribute to the perseverance and the quality person Tonya Erxleben is.

Although the boys team qualified for state in two events—the 1600 and 3200 meter relay teams, it is still a tribute to a squad which was marked heavily with inexperience.

The foursome of Greg DeNaeyer, Adam Mrsny, Craig Dyer and Willy Gross will run in the 3200 meter relay and the almost identical foursome of Greg DeNaeyer, Casey Dyer, Willy Gross and Craig Dyer will make up the 1600 meter relay which won the district meet race.

These two groups of relays make up a group of young men which exemplifies the true meaning of dedication and desire. Casey Dyer gets a little special ink from this sports editor because it takes a special courage and guts to be able to run a 53 second quarter mile with a broken bone in your back.

Wakefield moves on. The culture shock is over! Life without Theresa Stelling on the Wakefield track team has been different, but not impossible. Laurie Plendl, who in the last two years has been overshadowed by Stelling, has stepped into the limelight and it's a step that she's not willing to give up lightly.

Plendl qualified for the state meet in the 1600, 3200 and as a member of the 3200 meter relay. Although her times do not match the state leader from Auburn—a la Theresa Stelling, Plendl has dominated much of northeast Nebraska this season in the distance events.

Julie Greve qualified in the 800 meter run and she too is a member of the 4x800. Cathi Larson, Dorena Murfin and Kristen Miller are the other members of the 3200 relay. There is five names listed on that relay because Miller and Murfin have alternated throughout the year as the fourth member of the squad.

Turning to the boys team, senior John Wriedt will end his high school athletic career this weekend in the state meet with the shot put. Wriedt will play football next season for the Wayne State Wildcats. Mike Tuller will make a return trip to the state meet in the triple jump while Tony Krusemark does likewise in the 110 meter high hurdles. Freshman Brent Oetken will make hopefully the first of several trips to the state meet for him as he qualifies in the 400 meter dash. Oetken is also an excellent high jumper.

Winside anxious. Perhaps the most successful story of all area Thinclads this season is the performance of Winside freshman Jenny Jacobsen. It's hard to believe that she'll be a Winside performer until the next presidential election year. Jacobsen qualified for state in all four of the events she participated in all year, and all are individual events including the 100, 200, 400 and the long jump.

Junior Tina Hartmann will make a return trip to the state tournament this year in the 100 hurdles. Hartmann is another one of those gutsy performers as she battled a back injury most of the season and still qualified. Senior Kristy Miller will end her high school athletic career in the state meet as a high jumper. Miller has a lot of athletic ability and will be playing basketball at Concordia College in Seward next year on a scholarship.

Tim Jacobsen will also end his high school career this weekend as he will participate in the long jump and as a member of the sprint relay team with Cory Jensen, Max Kant and Vince White. Max Kant also qualified in the 300 intermediate hurdles and Steve Heinemann qualified in the 1600 meter run in this his final performance as a Winside Wildcat.

Laurel and Allen qualify. The numbers weren't devastating for those who qualified in Laurel and Allen this year but improvement was marked in both schools. In Laurel, Troy Twohig and Brian Penne, both underclassmen, will represent the Bears. Twohig will high jump and triple jump for Laurel and Brian Penne, the district champion in the long jump will do his forte at the state meet.

Last year Laurel qualified for state in one event only and this year they have improved to qualifying in the three. For the Allen Eagles last year was nonexistent as far as state qualifiers because there wasn't any. This year the girls sprint relay team consisting of Amy Noe, Missy Martinson, Carla Stapleton and Candace Jones qualified and this foursome did not lose a race until districts so you know they can fly.

That's a little synopsis of each school and for those interested in what times the area athletes will be performing, the following is a list from each school's participants.

Aggers signs recruit

WAYNE-Kyle McCormick of Mid Plains Community College in North Platte, will play basketball for Wayne State, according to head coach Steve Aggers.

McCormick, a 6-7, 210 lb. forward, averaged 17 points and 10 rebounds for Mid Plains. He was selected to the second team of the Nebraska Junior College Conference.

"Kyle will give us immediate help on the front line and has the versatility to play both forward positions," Aggers said. "Kyle is older and mature and very experienced and should provide our team with maturity, leadership and stability. He is an outstanding perimeter shooter and a great rebounder. He should be able to relieve some of the pressure off our inside people."

A native of Madrid, Neb., McCormick is a graduate of Madrid-Wheatland High School where he was an all-state selection. He is the son of Merry and JoAnn McCormick of Madrid.

Members and friends of the Wayne Evangelical Free Church honored the Rev. Larry and Sandy Ostercamp and family on May 7.

Ostercamps are moving to Meriden, Iowa where he will serve as pastor of the Evangelical Free Church in Meriden.

Pastor Ostercamp had served the Wayne congregation for 16 years.

JANET KARDELL was seated at the guest book. The program, led by Virgil O. Kardell, chairman, included three songs, "This is the Day," "Sweet, Sweet Spirit" and "We Are One in the Bond of Love," sung by the congregation, and "Amazing Grace," sung by Elijah and Sue Powell.

Devotions were given by the Rev. Gordon Granberg of the First Baptist Church.

Members of the audience were given an opportunity by Virgil L. Kardell to express their appreciation of the Ostercamps' ministry in their lives. Letters were read from former members unable to attend.

Scott Kudrna, John Mayberger and Carl Johnson presented a video of the Ostercamp family's 16 years at the Wayne church.

GAIL GRAY presented a gift to Sandy Ostercamp from the Free Church Women's Ministries. Mrs. Ostercamp also was presented a gift from Charles Kudrna on behalf of the congregation for her many years of service.

Pastor Ostercamp was given a clock with an inscription noting his 16 years as a faithful shepherd.

The program closed with the song "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," followed with refreshments.

After 12 years, Miller graduates

After 12 years of studying, Galon Miller has graduated and received his bachelor's degree.

Miller, a former resident of Wayne where his father farmed and operated a dairy, received a degree in Administrative Office Management during commencement exercises May 13 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Miller finished his high school education and enlisted in the United States Navy in May of 1973 — just as the Vietnam War was winding down. He was assigned to the USS Wichita after nine months of electronics training. In November, 1977, he was honorably discharged from the service.

He began a job as field service technician repairing computer systems while also taking classes at a two-year college in Pleasant Hill, California.

The following year, after he married, he attended college full-time on the GI Bill while still working 40 to 50 hours a week.

Miller achieved sophomore standing when his first daughter was born. It was at this time he decided to lighten his educational load and become a part-time student.

The Millers moved to Nebraska and he accepted a position with Donnelley Marketing of Lincoln. During that time, he began to attend the University of Nebraska-Lincoln as an evening student, taking two courses a semester to acquire a degree in Administrative Office Management.

Miller said he is proud to be graduating after 12 years of study and he is thankful to Donnelley Marketing for the support. The company had paid a good portion of his tuition after the GI Bill ended.

He now serves as a Senior Projects Manager and Computer Systems Analyst.

He encourages adults who are considering entry or re-entry into college to enroll. "I made it across the 12 years...through all the obstacles...and I am now finishing my degree. I hope that encourages others to continue with their education," Miller said.

Meet John Thiel, a Marian Heart Expert

Living in the Wayne area doesn't mean you have to travel far to be cared for at a major cardiac center. There's one right here in Siouxland. Your neighbor John Thiel found that out 3 years ago when he had open heart surgery at Marian Health Center.

"Marian Health Center is much closer to Wayne than Omaha for both me and my family which made visiting a lot easier. I would say the quality of the program in Sioux City is one of the finest in the area."

It's Marian that provides a full range of diagnostic and treatment services including cardiac catheterization, angioplasty, open heart surgery and cardiac rehabilitation.

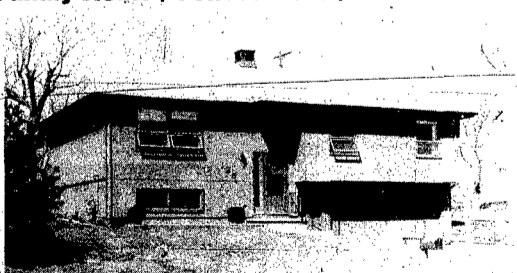

That makes Marian Health Center the Heart Center for all of Siouxland.

He's also your neighbor.

Border change proposed

As the Legislature heads into the last few days of the session, the work on the budget continues. The past week we discussed the mainline budget presented by the Appropriations Committee. Several amendments have been attached to the budget and more changes are expected.

Some increases have been proposed to the general operating expenses of state government as well as aid to existing programs. Increases were made to entitlement programs such as special education reimbursement programs. These reimbursements were increased by $3.9 million in the 1989-90 year and by $9.5 million in 1990-91. The largest individual increase to a program was in part brought about by changes in federal law. Under the Federal Nursing Home Reform Act, the federal government provided substantially decreased funding in this area causing the state to pick up a much greater share of the costs.

THE REMAINING amount of revenue over expenses is available for current proposed legislation. Some of the larger programs competing for these funds for example are property tax relief (LB 84) and teacher salaries (LB 89). Additionally, many smaller programs have received first round approval. Sustainable funding will make it more difficult to find support for these programs during the second round of debate.

The Nebraska Constitution requires the state to have a balanced budget. To achieve this, priorities must be determined. This will cause some very tough decisions in the few days remaining.

Last week, second round approval was given to LB 817, a bill I co-introduced in conjunction with the Governor. The bill declares the middle of the current main channel of the Missouri River to be the boundary between Dakota County Nebraska and Union County South Dakota. Currently, the border is where the channel was located when we entered into a compact with South Dakota in 1905. However, disputes have arisen as the forces of nature and human intervention has changed the course of the river channel. According to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, this section of the river is now stabilized and should not create future problems.

UNDER THE bill, approximately 1,400 acres of Nebraska land located across the river would be deeded over to South Dakota. The change in the river's course has caused this portion of land to be literally inaccessible to Nebraska. (This makes it almost impossible for Nebraska to provide services to these areas.)

South Dakota earlier this year signed a version of the boundary legislation. Both states will present the agreements to Congress for ratification. Before the agreements were entered into all affected Nebraska subdivisions were contacted. There was common consensus and no objections were found. Additionally, the bill does not affect the private property rights to the land being transferred. There are several other problems associated with the border up river between South Dakota and Nebraska as well as with Iowa, however, a consensus solution has not been reached.

Topps gain theatre awards

Tracy Topp Trisha Jo Topp

WINSIDE-Trisha Topp of Winside, a senior theatre arts major, received the "Doc" Miller award for her work in theatre at Nebraska Wesleyan University's annual speech and theatre banquet May 12. The award is in memory of the late Enid Miller, who served as head of the speech and drama department at Wesleyan from 1924-54. In addition, Topp was also selected outstanding Plainsman Player and named an outstanding achiever for her work in theatre. Tracy Topp of Winside also received an outstanding achiever award.

Toxic algae possible in ponds

As warm weather approaches, livestock producers should examine ponds and shallow lakes for blue-green algae, which are potentially hazardous to animals consuming contaminated water sources, said Dr. Norman Schneider of the University of Nebraska's Veterinary Diagnostic Center.

The blue-green algae blooms are not always poisonous. Toxic blooms most often occur when high daytime temperatures are combined with shallow surface water containing agricultural fertilizer runoff or animal waste.

almost all Nebraska waters. Blue-green algae often overgrow shortly after heavy growth of green algae have died down. Blue-green algae float on the surface, and the algal layer often is thickest on the windward side of a pond or lake.

ber of toxins are produced by a variety of blue-green algae. Algal poisons often break down rapidly so waters may remain toxic for just a few days.

ALGAL POISONING can cause sudden death and may cause clinical signs similar to pesticide poisoning, he said. Humans could be affected if they swallow some toxic algae while swimming.

Blue-green algae blooms suspected of being poisonous can be reported to Schneider at (402) 472-1434; or to Sidney J. Stohs or Steven J. Hermansky at Creighton University, (402) 280-2020, who are studying the development of an antidote to the toxin.

Migraine Headache Relief

Over 40 million Americans seek the advice and care of physicians each year for the relief of headaches. Migraine headaches are one of the most common headache types, occurring in about 15 percent of persons over 40 years of age. Migraine headache occurs when blood vessels in the head enlarge and press on nerves, causing headache pain. The pain is reported to be severe and throbbing or pulsating, typically occurring on one side of the head but sometimes spreading to the opposite side of the head.

Although stress is the major factor triggering migraines, headaches can result from exposure to bright lights or a stuffy room to the ingestion of foods such as chocolate, aged cheese, nuts, and citrus which contain the blood vessel dilator tyramine.

Mild migraine headaches may respond to nonprescription medicines such as aspirin or acetaminophen. More severe attacks may require ergotamine, which constricts blood vessels. Some medicines can also be used to prevent migraine headaches. Propranolol, one of the most effective medicines against migraines, prevents blood vessel dilation. Other medicines which prevent migraines include amitriptyline, clonidine, and methysergide.

Two groups decorated the same room, one group using warm colors and the other, cool colors to show the degree of difference. The Farmer's Wife

By Pat Meterhenry

It was one of those incredibly beautiful Spring mornings here today—no wind...birds singing, a plane in the distance, the smell of lilacs still present. As I sat on the porch, the pup licked my hand and begged me to play. (You guessed it, Kathy and Ann had to give up on Corky.)

I have a Mother's Day orchid for my new suit, and I team it with pearls given to me by the Big Farmer thirty years ago. (Barbara Bush has made it okay to be a size 14 and to wear pearls.)

The altar at church is covered with geraniums in honor of Pentecost, and we have a guest trumpet player to accompany the choir.

Then we trek to the Stop Inn for dinner, where we can admire the babies and catch up on who is coming home for the summer.

Jon was home for a very short time, and we all got sun-burned at the NAIA track meet at WSC. The Plainsmen were the winners, thanks to an incredible group of freshmen; and we were able to watch old friends from Doane, Concordia, and KSC in their events. Wish we could get to Omaha for State track on Friday and Saturday.

MAY IS a goose-bumpy month, because of Mother's Day and Mother-daughter banquets, confirmations, graduations and alumni banquets.

We drove to Central City on Friday evening for commencement at Nebraska Christian High School. Mike's sister Darlene watched as the last of her six gave the valedictory speech. What an achievement—all have been either salutatorians or valedictorians.

I marvel at our neighbors again display their faith by continuing to plant corn. One said this morning: "The directions say to store in a cool, dry place; so I put it in the ground!"

He added that his Dad always said he had never lost a crop due to poor moisture in May. So we stay hopeful, and watch the skies and pray.

The dirt mover is making terraces across the road and he says he's never seen the sub soil so depleted.

As we discussed all this over dinner, someone else quoted an old saying that says "Plant in the dust, bins will bust!" We can only hope it's true.

I KNOW there have been center pivots going since the middle of April. On May 5, the water was making icicles and freezing on the ground.

I spent an enjoyable afternoon with the Carroll Woman's Club this week. That little Welsh community never ceases to amaze me.

I was sitting at a table with some grandmothers and one commented on Sue's column about her Grandmother. She remarked that most grandchildren believe their grandmothers to be very good cooks. (Just shows what practice can do.)

Hers were no exception. Her daughter reported that she overheard one of the children telling the other that Grandma is a good cook. "And," she added, "she even cooks on Saturday!"

"Out of the mouths of babes." You might know the Big Farmer is on the couch. The Chicago Bulls are lulling him to sleep today.

Time for the farmer's wife to get back outside to enjoy the gorgeous weather. Who knows, it may rain later.
