Hearing officer dismisses case

By Chuck Hackenmiller Managing editor

A hearing officer has dismissed the case heard before the Ne-braska Department of Education between the Nebraska Depart-ment of Social Services and the Wayne Public Schools

Earlier this year, the Nebraska Department of Social Services had filed a petition for the administrathe a petition for the administra-tive hearing to determine whether the school district is "legally re-sponsible" to contract for educa-tional services for two behaviorally disordered students. The depart-ment said the two students are residents of the school district and they filled a petition to determine they filed a petition to determine if the public school is legally obli-gated to contract for special education services.

Both behaviorally disordered youths were placed in a program located in the former Modern En-ergy Systems building on the west edge of Wayne. Swedish-Nebraska relatives meet

A photo appearing nearly 16 years ago in the Chicago Tribune brought together the Backstrom families from Nebraska and their Swodib relatives Swedish relatives.

Last week, several members of the Backstrom family met in the Wayne Woman's Club room to get acquainted with their Swedish cousins, Hugo and Sonya Floren, during their first visit to the United States.

The Nebraska and Swedish cousing first became acquainted in 1973 with the help of Mrs. Ingrid Granath of Norfolk and her late husband Lars.

The Granaths, who had moved to Norfolk from Sweden, found a picture of five children that had been placed in the Chicago paper Melin had found the old photograph and placed it in the newspaper in hopes of locating his relatives. The only clue was the Backstrom name and a signature in the corner of the photograph from Craven Studios.

AFTER SEEING THE photo. Granaths called the Backstroms of Wayne to inquire as to whether they were relatives of the Backstroms pictured in the newspaper.

Wayne residents Lawrence and Blanche Backstrom visited the Granaths and found the photo to be that of Lawrence's father along with two of his aunts and two un-cles...tawrence said he remem- bered seeing the photograph in his parents' home.

This past weekend over 2,000 of the state's finest high school athletes gathered in Omaha's Burke-Stadium to take part in the annual State Track & Field Meet.

As always there were many memorable performances by the athletes including former Wakefield standout Theresa Stelling, now with Auburn. Among the area standouts, none shined brighter than the standouts area standouts.

with Auburn. Among the area standouts, none shined Brighter than Winside freshman Jenny Jacobsen. Miss Jacobsen established a phe-nomenal feat just by qualifying for state in four events. Then she went to Omaha and placed in all four at the state meet including winning the gold medal in the Class D-200 meter dash. She placed second in the 100 meter dash and she placed fourth in the long jump and the 400 meter dash. All in all she scored 26 points and for her efforts as a team, Winside finished fifth. Laurie Plendi and Mark Johnson also did a fine job for Wakefield. Plendl was not projected to place in either the 1600 or 3200, but she fooled the prognosticators by placing second in the 1600 actore, placed fifth in the 1600, eclipsing the Wakefield school record and eclipsing his coach Paul Eaton from that record book.

eclipsing his coach Paul Eaton from that record book. This column is designed to congratulate each area athlete who gualified for the state meet. After all, you have to be good to even be there. A special tribute is also in order for Wayne coaches Rocky Ruhl and Dale Hochstein. In this their second year at the helm of the Blue Devil track squad, seven girls and five guys qualified. Jim Winch over at Winside also deserves a little credit for coach-ing the Wildcat track teams which scored at the state meet. John-Torczon over at Wakefield deserves a little ink as well as does the two-some of Gary Troth and Sandy Chase at Allen. Golfers deserve championship A few quick thoughts about the state golf meet held in Wayne last Thursday. Personally, I felt that the Blue Devils not only had the best team among the 15 entered in the meet, but they also de-served it more than any other team.

best team among the 15 entered in the meet, but they also de-served it more than any other team. This group of guys, allow me to re-introduce them, jed Reeg, Robb Reeg, Elliot Salmon, Eric Runestad and Kevin Hausmann, have stuck together through thick and thin. Wayne probably has had the best team the past couple of years, but a little hard luck at the wrong time didn't produce a state championship team until this year. Upon the completion of the first nine holes, Kevin Hausmann-came in with a 40 L was pretry impresed with the 40 considering came in with a 40. I was pretty impressed with the 40 considering that Hausmann really had to battle his way into even playing in the state tournament.

I walked up to Mr. Hausmann and asked him what his favorite pop was. He said Mountain Dew and I responded with, 'If you shoot another 40 on the front nine I'll buy you a 12-pack of Mountain Dew.' Well; Kevin didn't shoot a 40, but he shot a respectable 44. Don't worry Kevin, I'm a reasonable guy, you earned yourself a 6pack of the Dew. Back to Omaha

Alright back to the Omaha. I have to share some of the experiences that myself and my counterpart, Mr. Mike Gross of KTCH, suf-fered through over the weekend. Normally on my state tourney trips I wouldn't bother about writing what went on. Unfortunately, this past weekend the trip was so bizarre that I can't help but share it with you

The part weekend the tip was so bizarie that then but shale it with you. First of all we tried for a few days a couple weeks ago to get reservations for motels. Most of them seemed to be booked, but Mike called me at work one day and told me he found one that was extremely reasonable in price. Without hesitation I called and made a reservation. Walking out of Burke Stadium at 9:00 Friday night I was feeling pretty good about getting into the car and driving to the motel and relaxing. Remember that word relaxing and remember the time of 9:00 p.m. They will come into play a little later. At any rate, driving to the motel I noticed that things just weren't looking right. There was old shacky buildings on either side of the street, shady characters on both sides of the street and it was then that I realized that we weren't in the best part of Omaha.

It was also then that I turned to Mike and said something to the It was also then that I turned to Mike and said sometiming to une effect of, no wonder it was a reasonable rate at the motel because someone probably had to stand guard while the other slept. About two blocks before we got to the motel-as we were-travel-ing on the far left lane of our three lanes of traffic we heard a cop coming. What was unusual about the way he sped by was the fact that he was on the lane to the left of us and he was going the same way was were and we were in the far left lane.

Next came a fire truck followed by an ambulance. By this time I knew we were in the wrong place because we were forced to turn to the next block because of the car wreck ahead of us. There we were on the street where all the ladies of the evening hang out. We finally got to the motel and when we went in to pay, the lady could barely speak English. We checked in and decided to go eat at the Boñanza down the street. Mike missed the turn and we turned at what we thought was the next intersection to go around the block.

As we turned into the intersection we noticed a not so well As we turned into the intersection we noticed a not so well groomed man sitting in a lawn chair practically in the middle of the intersection. I thought this was fairly strange so I inadvertently stared at the man. About 100 yards farther down the road we no-ticed we had turned into a déad end and was forced to turn around. This time we got near the man and noticed about six or eight other guys were standing rather close to him and they all looked about as neat as the man in the lawn chair. I nicknamed the lawn chair map 'Guido' and figurad we had just entered cuido's turf. For

We did and still with the three lanes of traf-fic coming we could not enter the street. But after looking at these gentleman7, we decided to take our chances driving right into the middle of all the traffic. We did, and we made it. Just when we thought we were safe we turned into a Burger King to make yet another turn. There was a car ahead of us and it seemed like they were doing the same thing we were I fail com-

Mike obviously thought that the car in front of us had taken off and before you could say look-with we had connected with their human. out! we had connected with their bumper.

After we got out and found that everything and everyone was o.k., we were on our way again. We finally made it to Bonanza and guess what?—IT WAS CLOSED!

Kelly will major in communica-tions at Wayne State and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Watsabaugh of Omaha.

Summers is a 5-9 point guard who averaged 13.7 points and 7.9 assists per game as a senior. He shot 58 percent from the field and 77 percent from the line. "Davy has a great knowledge of the game and understands what to do on the court. He is a leader and a quarterback-type player who will get better with time. We believe he will develop and mature into a fine_college_guard and we're pleased that such a fine area player will join our program," Aggers said. Summers is a 4.0 student at Oakland-Craig and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Summers. ---Nunn is a 6-4, 185 lb. swing player who will be a Junior at-Wayne State after playing two seasons at Casper Junior College for Coach John Morrison. Nunn av-eraged 8.3 points and 5.2 rebounds a game last year while shooting 49 percent from the field. As a freshman Nunn had 17 slam dunks as a part-time starter on Caspers' squad that finished sixth in the national junior college tournament.

"Melvin is a great defensive player and hard-nosed competitor who can be a defensive stopper," Aggers said. "He has excellent of fensive rebounding abilities and is a very athletic player who can run the court and adapt to our style of play.

Superintendent William Gannon Dorothy Garvin Rath Award for Meritorious Scholastic Achieve-ment to Valedictorian Becky Stanley

In presenting the valedictorian's address, Stanley began by saying that 20 years ago her father graduated from Laurel High School as valedictorian of his class. She wore her father's honor cord in addition to her own. Stanley continued by saying how the class of 1989, as well as the world, has changed since be-ginning their education in 1976 and how they have grown as a class as well as individuals.

THE HIGH SCHOOL group Ex-pressions, directed by Claudia Dvorak, sang "Passages" and "Leave You With a Smile." Superintendent Gannon presented Haskell Awards to one elementary and one high school teacher voted upon by the senior class as helping them the most during their school years. This year's recipients of the award were Star Smith, second grade teacher, and Joan Brogie, high school speech and English instructor.

Gannon also honored two individuals for 25 years of continuous service to Laurel-Concord Schools. Honored were Laverne Johnson (1964-89) and Mary Dahlquist (1962-89). Jim Dahlquist accepted the award on behalf of his mother, who is recuperating from heart surgery.

Becky Stanley

SUPERINTENDENT Gannon presented the Class of 1989, with the awarding of diplomas by Jim Lipp, school board member.

CLARK ILLUSTRATED his graduation address theme, "What a Lot a Little Is," by recalling how in 1626 the Indians sold what is now called Manhattan Island to white settlers for a pile of trinkets worth about $24. "Manhattan's value as real estate is now appraised at $23 bil-lion. But, if the Indians had sold the trinkets for $24 cash and placed it in a six percent com-pound interest account, their in-food plot cover can help wildlife survive winter periods when other foods may be in short supply._____ Considerations when planning a food plot include:

Plant in a long, narrow shape, 10 to 30 feet in length, along the edge of a field.
About 1/8 to 1/4 acre is a good size good size. • Ideal planting would be at least one area per 40 acres of crop land. . Several food patches distributed over an area are better than one large patch. • Plants that stand up well should be included so there will be food above the snow.

 PLOTS SHOULD be planted near cover. The plot will receive more use if cover for shelter from weather and escape from preda- counties.

tors is nearby. A plot in the middle of a large, bare field would be used very little. A shelterbelt is a good planting site, particularly if it has good cover near the ground. Another good site is along a fence row, ravine, stream or odd area especially those with grass and shrub cover to provide protection.

A mix of food varieties will dependably serve more wildlife needs. Grains to consider are mil-let, milo and a cultivated variety of sunflower. Millet is excellent for quail, pheasants, mourning doves and many kinds of songbirds. Milo is also used by quail, pheasants, songbirds and wild turkeys. Sunflowers are especially attractive to songbirds and a cultivated variety won't spread and take over the farm. Seeds for wildlife food plantings will be available free of charge this spring from the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission. The seeds will be distributed through the Cooperative Extension Service and the SCS in Dixon and Wayne

Men and women differ in how well they retain memory as they age, according to a study at Johns Hopkins Hospital. The study of 220 healthy men and women age 40 to 89 was reported in the Journal of Clinical Psychology. Not much difference in remem bering was found between mer and women under 60. But for those over 60, the research report said: "We found older women were able to retrieve information (from their memory) -- so much better than men."

Should older people stop exercising? The National Institute of Aging says: "Many older people enjoy - and benefit - from exercises such as walking, swimming and bicycle riding. Exercise at any age can help strengthen the heart and lungs, and lower blood pressure: See your physician before beginning a new exercise program." - 5
