Meeting brings out thoughts on gas issue

Approximatêly 25 people at-tending a public input session in Wayne before members of the Natural Gas Study Review Board

Tuesday. Of the nine people who pre-sented their views, eight decidedly favored keeping the Wayne gas system as it currently is being man-aged and operated by Peoples Natural Gas. The session took place at the Wayne City Council Chambers. Five of the six review board mem-bers were present, including Sid Hillier, Bill Dickey, Pat Gross, Gerald Schafer and Andrew Soll. The re-maining board member is Jacque Kinnett. Kinnett.

Hillier, board co-chairman, said the review board was authorized in December to study the present natural gas system in Wayne. The responsibilities of the board inresponsibilities of the board in-cluded making a neutral review, study, analysis, investigation and examination of the gas study re-port completed by HDR; and to conduct investigations into the lo-cal gas distribution system. "These are not prevention. They are intervention," Kramer said

Real problems in causing the young people to react in negative or destructive ways are low self-es-teem; poor communication skills; inability to handle conflict and anger constructively; lack of know-ing about alternatives, options and choices; no understanding of the consequences of their behavior; relationships, marriage, parenting, family life and careers; and misunderstanding of male/female roles. "Students have to learn coping skills and handle conflicts and learn to deal with anger," Kramer mentioned.

SPORTS Juniors capture high scoring game

The Wayne Junior Legion team The Wayne Junior Legion team came out on the front end of an 18-17 contest at South Sioux City Monday night but the news was not all good for Wayne fans. The Midget team at South Sioux snapped Wayne's win streak at 11 games as Wayne lost a close 9-8 decision.

In the Legion contest Wayne scored in every inning of play with the biggest damage coming in the fourth inning where they scored four runs. South Sioux scored in only four innings but they had inonly four infinings but they had in-nings of seven runs, six runs and three runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings respectively. Midaets down Emerson

On Friday night in Emerson Wayne's Midgets won its eleventh consecutive game with a 10-2 de-cision over Emerson. Jeff Griesch picked up the win for the locals. Griesch and Matt -Bruggeman combined to strike out 11 Emerson batter batters.

Offensively Wayne was led by Jeff Griesch as he nearly com-pleted the cycle with a double, triple and a home run to his credit. Griesch's accomplishments at the plate as well as at the bat almost single handedly beat Emerson as he accounted for three rbi's.

Brian Lentz was the only other batter with more than one hit as he connected with a double and a single. Rusty Hamer slashed a triple while Ryan Rhode, Dave Hewitt and Cory Wieseler all doubled, and Jim Hoffman and Trevor Wehrer

The win upped the juniors record to 8-S following the loss of the night before at the hands of West Point, 13-2. Angela Schnier was given the loss and Wayne had just two hits, a triple by Holli Holdorf and a single by Schnier.

When New York City sponsors a fair, it's bound to be big and lively. So it is with the annual "Ability Is Ageless" Job Fair for people over 54, sponsored by the city's Department for the Aging. Started in 1981, the one-day event now draws 4,000 men and women along with recruiters from 100 compa-nies. "The fair gives people interested in hiring mature people an opportunity to meet those interested in working," said Janet Sainer, commissioner for the aging. Many of those look-ing for jobs are in their 60s or 70s.

"Drink your milk!" Long after directing those words at their children, today's elderly men and women should bear them in mind. Many older people do not get enough calcium in their diets. Calcium helps to prevent osteoporosis, which weakens bones and makes them susceptible to fractures. Good sources of calcium are milk cheese, yogurt, cooked dried beans, collards and broccoli. Ask your doctor.

The Wayne Herald, Thursday, June 22, 1989 Control measures listed

Yellowing evergreens may mean spidermites

Many phone calls and samples sent in to have checked for prob-lems of yellow foliage in cedars and spruce this year have been di agnosed as having spider mites.

Mites damage plants by sucking the plant juices from the leaves. They feed on the undersides of leaves, causing yellowing and a stippled appearance. Infested ev-ergreens often have a bronze cast and turn brown. On woody plants, defoliation follows the characteristic yellowing or fading, whereas herbaceous plants soon wilt and Mites spin very fine irregular webs over the foliage and stems of plants, resulting in an unsightly, 'cobwebby' appearance. These webs protect the eggs and young mites from wind and rain. The mites are very small. A white paper held under a branch that is shaken is needed to see the mites. Even then, it may be difficult without a magnifying lens. Rubbing a hand across the paper will "smear" or "streak" the mites for easier viewing.

Frequent high-pressure spraying with cold water from a garden hose helps to reduce red spider mite infestations on evergreens. Several commercial spray materials are available. If used properly, they are effective. Sprays kill mites on direct contact, so they must be applied to the undersides of the leaves. Sprays do not affect the leaves. Sprays do not affect the eggs, however, or remain active long enough to kill newly hatched mites. Applications should be repeated when mites reoccur, usually in a week, or when injury is evident. Control measures are most needed

Control measures are most needed during dry, warm periods of spring and summer. Some of the more commonly obtained and used insecticides in-clude Kelthane, Diazinon, Malathion and Orthene. Kelthane is a specific miticide and has ap-peared to give the best control. A NebGuide is available from the local County Concertive Ex.

the local County Cooperative Ex-tension Office entitled Red Spider Mite Control. This publication gives a more detailed discussion about mite damage and control measures.

the frontier

Frontier justice was often swift, if not just. Here's an example from the spring of 1887, which ap-peared underneath the headline "Lechery and Lead/A Bullet for a Beast."

"The most sensational murder that has happened in years in Ne-braska was committed last evening in the district court room at Hast-ings, where Dr. G.W. Randall, said to be a traveling quack, was shot through the head and instantly killed by a man as yet unknown, who escaped in the confusion that who escaped in the confusion that immediately ensued. The circum-stances are of a highly sensational character, and grew out of the criminal assault made by the pris-oner on the person of the 11-year-old daughter of Mason Hart, a farmer living near Edgar in this state.

"The child had been placed in "The child had been placed in the doctor's care for treatment on an infection of the eyes, and had been induced by him to take up her abode in his house, where, it has been shown, he, with the assistance of his wife, accom-plished her ruin. He was arrested and brought to trial. Prior to the hearing threats of lynching had been made by Mr. Hart's friends.

"AFTER THE little girl had been placed on the witness stand, and after repeated attempts had been made to break down the story which she told, the courtroom was startled by the report of a pistol fired from the crowd of spectators, and were horrified to see the prisoner fall, apparently lifeless. Im-mediately confusion reigned, some of those present rushed to the aid of the prisoner, others fled, panic-stricken, and in less than a minute the courtroom was cleared. Medical aid was summoned, but could do nothing. Death had been in-
