Personal income per capita ranked low

Wayne County's personal income per capita, based on 1987 figures, is ranked as low as 89th among the 93 Nebraska counties according to the Bureau of Economic Analysis of the U.S. Commerce Department's most recent statistics.

Those statistics were published in the Saturday edition of the Omaha World-Herald. Wayne County's statistics were verified by The Wayne Herald in a telephone call to the University of Nebraska Bureau of Business Research.

The state's statewide personal income per capita average is $14,300, compared to $13,726 recorded in 1986. Wayne County's personal income per capita figure was established at $11,506. The population of Wayne County is around 9,858.

Thurston County's personal income statistics were the lowest, ranked 93rd at $9,388 per capita. The highest personal income per capita was in Wheeler County (population 1,060) at $29,473.

Dixon County ranked 83rd at $11,963 per capita while Cedar County registered at 91st ($11,268), Cuming County 51st ($13,741) and Stanton County 63rd ($13,272).

Merlin Erickson, research associate with the University of Nebraska Bureau of Business Research, said the numbers continue to be revised, but they usually change very little.

WAYNE COUNTY was ranked 88th in 1984 and in 1986, the county was ranked at 85th in personal income per capita.

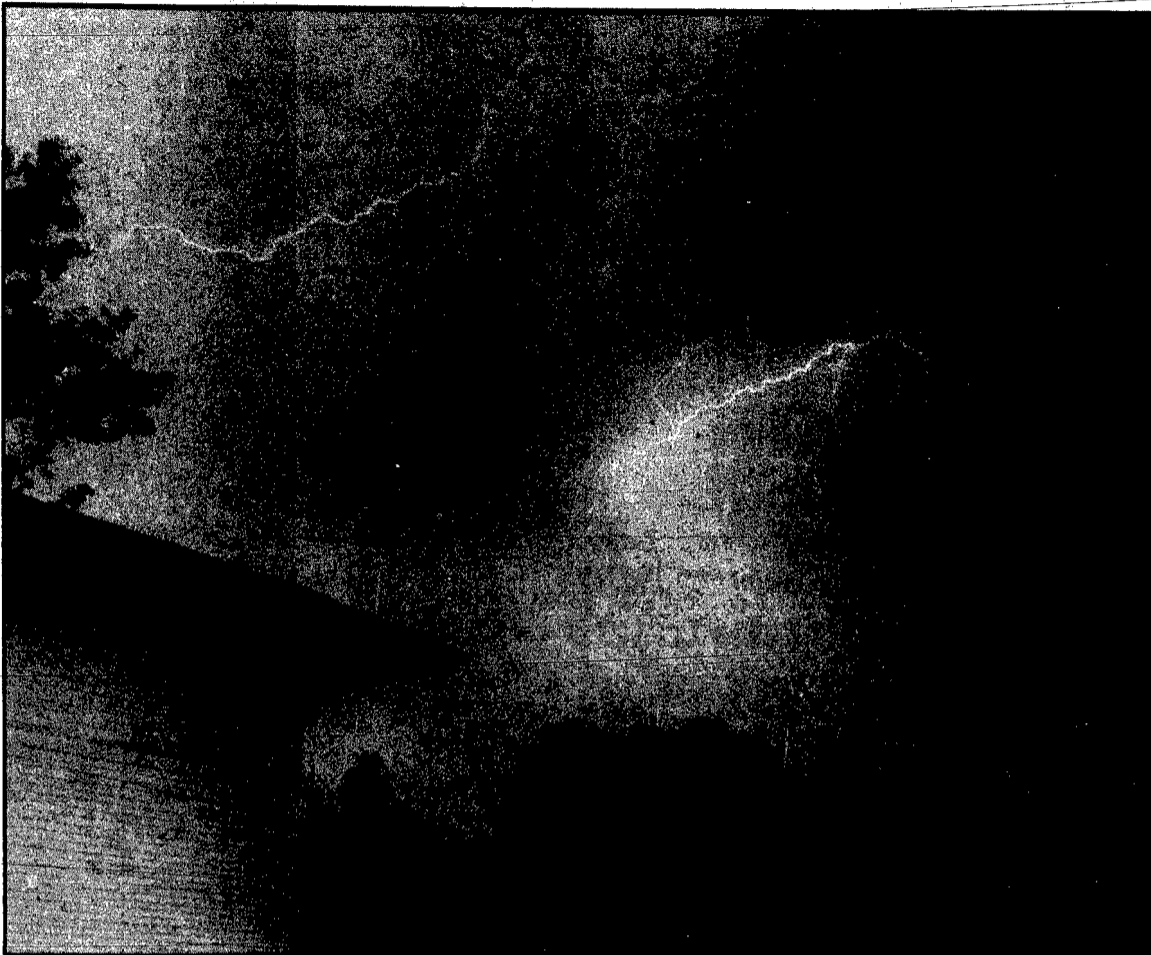

Erickson said that in most cases, counties which are heavily dependent on farming or ranching are generally higher in personal income per capita. Farm income can also include government payments.

Those counties which are on the lower end of the scale could be more reliant upon personal income received from the service sector, government or the wholesale and retail trade industry.

Erickson said personal income per capita figures in 1988 have not been tabulated.

Personal income is the sum of private and government wage and salary disbursements, other labor income, farm and non-farm proprietor income, personal dividend income, personal interest income and transfer payments — less the social personal contributions for

Still below average accumulation

Rain finally falls in area

A heavy rain this past weekend and on Monday brought welcome relief to dry conditions and spiraling humid temperatures.

Any measurable precipitation during the latter part of June and up until Friday, July 14 never seemed to materialize.

But then the rains came.

The Wayne area got over an inch of rain that Friday evening and more showers fell Saturday, adding to the rainfall accumulation. Then, on Monday evening the sky opened up again to drench the Wayne area with another .30 of rainfall. West Point, in nearby Cuming County, was the recipient of close to 1.5 inches of rain and some pea- to marble-sized hail. Just outside of Sholes, Monday's cloudy, stormy weather yielded only a few sprinkles.

July appears to be the only month in this dry 1989 summer that the Wayne area will have an opportunity to reach average July rainfall numbers (over the last 10 years), according to Wayne weather observe Pat Gross.

The 10 year average rainfall for July is at 2.73 inches. As of July 18, approximately 2.11 inches of rain has been recorded by Gross, compared to 2.01 inches of July moisture marked for the same time last year.

STILL, Wayne lags well behind the last 10 year average in rainfall amounts for the first six months and into July.

The average rainfall would be 16.68 inches accumulation when

Barn near Carroll burns to the ground

The barn had among its contents at least 120 little pigs, straw and hay according to Krueger.

Volunteer Fire Department was called later to assist in putting out the fire.

Krueger said Tuesday he believed the cause of the fire was lightning.

Of the 120 pigs in the barn, 50 were able to get out. The remaining 70 perished in the blaze. He also said the large barn was filled to the roof with straw and hay bales.

July 31 rolls around. But as of July 18, current rainfall amounts totals only 7.5 inches — which is 9.18 inches short of the 10-year average.
The recent rains will certainly improve upon the report issued Tuesday from the Nebraska Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Figures were received as of last Friday before the rains came.
At that time, soil moisture in topsoil was listed as 75 percent short and 25 percent adequate (compared to 53 percent short and 47 percent adequate the previous year at this time). Subsoil moisture was rated at 90 percent short and only 10 percent adequate (compared to 71 percent short and 29 percent adequate the year before).
The reporting service listed the corn crop as 3 percent very poor, 20 percent poor, 38 percent fair and 39 percent good. At least 20 percent of the corn has silked, compared to 51 percent at this time last year and 38 percent average.

SOYBEANS are considered 23 percent poor, 51 percent fair and 26 percent good. Thirty percent of the bean plants have blossomed compared to 64 percent of last year and the 52 percent average.
The report on alfalfa hay was rated at 4 percent very poor, 28 percent poor, 49 percent fair and 19 percent good. Across the state, 55 percent of the second cutting has been completed, compared to 80 percent the year before and 65 percent as the average.
And the sorghum crop has been rated as 5 percent very poor, 33 percent poor, 32 percent fair and 30 percent as good. One percent of the state's sorghum crop has headed, compared to 4 percent last year.

Puttin' up with Pete

The final journey

Friday morning around 6:00, 14 area girls and their families will pack up for the weekend and head to Grand Island where the annual State Softball Tournament will be for the 19 and under team.

It will be a familiar site for the girls, after all, it was just one short year ago that they made the same trip and came away with a third place finish. Now this year, the same girls will make the return trip with hopes of returning with an even better finish.

For head coach Darrell Bailey and his wife Sue, it will be their last state tournament appearance because they have both received teaching jobs in Cedar Bluffs beginning in August.

You see, Darrell has become a special friend of mine during the past two years that he has coached the Wayne girls. Last season in his first attempt at coaching a class B team he took the girls all the way to a third place finish. What he and his wife have accomplished in those two short years is nothing short of astounding.

His knowledge of not only softball, but basketball, football and baseball have intrigued me and I have thoroughly enjoyed his friendship on the golf course as well. So you see, not only will I travel to Grand Island to cover the softball tournament in hopes that Wayne will play well, but it's also a last chance for me to see a special friend of mine do what he loves to do—coach a winning team. Good luck my friend! Not only this weekend but in the future. You'll be sorely missed and I wouldn't have missed the opportunity to meet you and become your friend for the world.

As mentioned earlier Bailey returned every starter at every position this season and the girls know what it's like to play in the state tournament. Robin Lutt has done a super job at the mound this season. She has tossed a no-hitter and several 1-hitters throughout the year and has accumulated an ERA of 2.82. She also struck out a total of 128 batters while finishing the regular season with a 15-7 record.

Lutt has thrown to the likes of Tracy Gamble all season and let's face it, Gamble is simply one of the finest catchers around. Tracy also leads off for Wayne and oddly enough, she accomplished something that perhaps less than a handful of lead-off batters have ever accomplished and that is leading the team in rbi's. She finished with 45.

Tonya Erleben in right field finished the regular season as the team's best batter with an unprecedented .586 average. Erleben also slammed five home runs which led the team. Tracy Gamble followed with a .435 while Shannon Holdorf notched a .426 average in her relief role. Robin Lutt finished with a .389 and Marnie Bruggeman was right behind with a .383. Everyone on the team was over .300—incredible.

Wayne's infield is definitely sound with Kristy Hansen at first, Leslie Keating at second, Dana Nelson at shortstop and Suzy Lutt at third base. What strikes my fancy is that you don't have to tell the girls what to do while they're in the field. If there is a runner on base they do an excellent job of looking her back before getting the sure out and they do an awesome job always getting the lead runner.

Shelly Gilliland, Marnie Bruggeman and Tonya Erleben in the outfield are very sound fielders. You won't see a ball being dropped after it hits a glove and they do an excellent job of hitting the cut-off on the return throw to the infield.

The total team unity that Wayne displays is another plus. They all support each other and they all seem to get along well off the field as well as on the field. The respect that they show the Baileys as coaches shows the coachability and the willingness to improve that it takes to become a winner.

Whether Wayne does well at the state tournament or not doesn't matter in the sense that all of these girls are winners already. But hey, a little hardware from the state tournament wouldn't be so bad either. Good Luck!

Ehrhardt wins big at State Games

Jason Ehrhardt received the "Iron Man Award" in the wrestling portion of the annual Cornhusker State Games this past week following his three-first place finishes and one second place finish in the four categories he was entered in.

Ehrhardt won the Freestyle competition for the age 14-16 category and won the Folkstyle competition for the age 13-15 category and won the Takedown competition for the age 15-17 category. He placed second in the Greco-Roman category for the age 15-18 category.

Three other Wayne wrestlers took part in the Games as well and they did very well. Jason Cole, who will attend Kearney State College this fall to wrestle, placed first in the Folkstyle category for age 16-18 and placed third in the Folkstyle category for age 18 and older. Chris Janke managed a first place in the Takedown category for age 15-17 and placed second in the Folkstyle category for age 16-18.

Jason Fink placed second in the Takedown category for age 15-17 and placed fourth in the category of Folkstyle for age 13-15.

"I think the kids represented the Wayne wrestling program very well," Wayne-Carroll wrestling coach John Murtaugh said. "They haven't had any organized practice since the season like everyone else in the competition but I think they did a fine job."

The competition took place at Lincoln East.

Second Guessers get new name

The Wayne Second Guessers, primarily a booster club for Wayne State athletics, has been dissolved for the coming year and been renamed the "Catbackers" according to Wayne State Athletic Director Pete Chapman.

"It's not like we just totally abandoned the Second Guessers," Chapman said. "The Second Guesser board decided to make the chapter inactive in order to form the newly created Catbackers which in essence is the same kind of organization but under the Wayne State Foundation."

According to Chapman the move was decided for a couple of reasons. First, the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association), heavily suggested moving any fund raising organizations to the Wayne State Foundation and second, for the past few years the active membership in the Second Guessers has declined.

Lyndon Wieseman has been appointed as the director of the Catbackers and he'll be in charge of setting up meetings and bringing in guest speakers. Chapman also noted that a board consisting of 10 members will be among the advisors for the Catbackers.

That board includes the following: Kirk Gardner, Bob Reeg, Grant Ellingson, Dennis Spangler, Phil Griess, Dick Sorensen, Jim Lindau, Don Koerber, Bob Jordan and Don Larsen.

Also new to the Catbacker Club is the membership set-up. "Memberships will no longer be limited to just Wayne but for Northeast Nebraska," Chapman said. "Fund raising not only benefits athletes but Wayne State College and Northeast Nebraska."

Chapman emphasized how well the student athletes at Wayne

State have performed in the classroom as well as the field during the past several years. "This year our student athletes in all sports combined came up with a cumulative grade point average of 2.83," Chapman said.

Cost of the physical will be $10 and must be paid at the time it is given according to athletic director Greg Cruickshank. Athletes are also reminded to bring a urine sample in a labeled bottle.

Longest Day of Golf

WAYNE-The Wayne Jaycees are planning a "Longest Day of Golf" to benefit the American Cancer Society. A foursome of golfers will play from sunrise to sunset on August 3.

In Wayne the Longest Day of Golf will be played at the Wayne Country Club with Mike Nicholson, Jason Claussen, Kyle Dahl and Jason Johs making up the foursome. Funds raised from the foursome pledging a donation for each hole completed will support cancer research and education in Nebraska.

According to Longest Day Chairman Mark Winger, the Jaycees have pledged 50 cents per hole and is encouraging other civic groups to do the same. "By August 3, we would like to be playing for at least $20 per hole," Winger said.

Anyone who wishes to support the American Cancer Society's cancer control programs to make a pledge to Wayne's longest day team by calling Wayne Country Club at 375-1152 or contact Mark Winger at the First National Bank.

Tennis Tournament

WAYNE-The City Parks and Recreation Department is planning now for its Third Annual Wayne Tennis Open Tournament to be held August 11-12-13 at the Wayne Tennis Courts.

Players may enter two events plus mixed doubles and all matches will be two of three sets with 12 point tiebreakers. The entry deadline will be Monday, August 7 at 5 p.m.

Entries received early by Friday, August 4 at 5 p.m. are automatically entered in a free drawing for (a) a new Wilson Kramer Midsize Tennis racket, strung and with cover, (b) a Prince racket thermal bag, (c) a water thermos jug.

Drawing will be public on Thursday, August 10 by the Wayne Herald Sports Editor. Trophies will be awarded to first and second places in each division. Balls will be furnished and will then be on sale for $1 a can after the tournament.

Entry fee is $8 for singles and $12 for doubles/team. Those interested in obtaining an entry form are asked to send a self addressed stamped envelope to Box 45, Wayne, Neb. 68787. Entry blanks may also be picked up at Wayne Sporting Goods, Hardees and the Wayne Rec Center.

Midgets defeated

Due to the rainfall received in the Wayne area this past week only one baseball game was played by the Wayne Midgets. On Monday, Wayne traveled to Wisner and dropped a 6-3 decision which saw its season record slip to 21-4.

Brian Lentz was given the loss from the pitching standpoint despite Wayne's lack luster performance in the hitting department. The locals managed just four hits with three being for extra bases. "We got some big hits but we got them when no one was on base," coach Hank Overin said.

Rusty Hamer tripled while Matt

Bruggeman and Brian Lentz each doubled. Chris Fredrickson rounded out the hitting attack with a single. The game was called after the fifth inning because of rain but it was enough to call it a full game.

The Midgets split the season series at 1-1 with Wisner as Wayne defeated Wisner 3-1 back on June 23 despite only getting one hit. The Midgets will play Bancroft on Wednesday before playing South Sioux on Thursday.

The Wayne Legion will travel to play Wisner on Wednesday following a contest between the Laurel-Wisner Midgets. The game is set for approximately 8:30 p.m.

Baseball districts, softball state begin

This weekend will be extremely busy for Wayne baseball and softball teams as the girls 19 and under state softball tournament begins Friday in Grand Island and the Legion and Midget area district tournaments begin in Blair.

Darrell Bailey's crew will embark on Grand Island on Friday with a first round game against Peru at 11 a.m. If Wayne should win the opener they would play again at 5 p.m. Friday against Anderson Ford of Grand Island, who received a first round bye.

If Wayne were to lose its first game they would come back Saturday to play the loser of Humboldt and Phillips at 9 a.m. Wayne will be looking to improve on last year's performance which earned them a third place finish.

The Wayne Legion begins area district play at Blair on Sunday night with an 8:00 contest with Blair. The double elimination bracket set up has Wayne playing the winner of Morse Bluff-South Sioux on Monday at 8 p.m. if they defeat Blair and the winner of the losers contest between Hartington-Hooper/Uehling-Tekamah-Herman on Tuesday at 2:30 p.m., if they should lose the first round game.

The Midgets begin district play next Wednesday at 12:00 p.m. against Hartington. The Midget portion of the tournament is just single elimination. If Wayne gets past Hartington on Wednesday they would play the winner between Wisner and the Ponca-Hooper/Uehling game at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Wakefield's Legion will play the winner of Randolph and Pender on Monday night at 8:00 in Dodge. The Midgets will begin play against Arlington on Sunday at 5:00 p.m. in Dodge.

CORN AND CALLUS CARE

Corns and calluses result from the accumulation of layers of dead skin on the surfaces of the feet. The most frequent cause of either condition is the wearing of ill-fitting shoes. Treatment of corns and calluses may begin with soaking the feet in warm water and using a pumice stone. Cutting corns or calluses with a knife or razor blade is a dangerous practice and can lead to infection.

Applying a moisturizing lotion after using the pumice stone may be helpful. Nonprescription products containing salicylic acid may help in corn removal by loosening dead skin. Over a period of days, corns become soft and can be rubbed away, although normally safe, such corn removal products should be avoided by persons having diabetes or circulatory problems because excessive inflammation and infection may occur.

Krause. The Starlette Baton Twirlers, taught by Eileen Damme, performed next. Performances included two summer recreation groups (one from Hoskins and one from Winside) consisting of 48 participants.

Solo performances were by Kim Damme, a former Nebraska State Champion and Miss College Majorette; Kay Damme, Nebraska State Two Baton Champion; and Becky Forsberg of Laurel and Mindy Janke of Winside. Kim and Kay performed a duet and five Winside second graders did a group routine.

A TOTAL OF 43 entries were in the Wayne County Old Settlers Grand Parade. First place entry went to Corinne's Costume Sewing of Carroll. Second place was won by Trinity Lutheran Church and third place was awarded to St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Judges were Pat Brudigan of Hoskins; Linda Monk of Carroll; and Sandy Bartling of Wayne.

Grand Marshals for the parade were long-time residents and community leaders Charles Farran and Dr. N.L. Ditman. Honored as long-time Wayne County Old Settlers were Albert Jaeger, Gotthilf Jaeger, Ella Miller and Marie Suehl.

A barbecue of pork and beef, served to approximately 635 people, took place after the parade at the village auditorium.

A Celebrity Auction took place during the barbecue, with over 50 items donated. The proceeds of $225 went towards new auditorium stage drapes. Auctioneers were Orville and Doug Lage.

Some of those donating items and/or autographs were Richard Nixon, President George Bush, Vice President Dan Quayle, Governor Michael Dukakis, Shirley Temple Black, Miss Piggy, Johnny Cash, Bill Orr, Mark Calcavecchia, Arline Zoffka, Wayne Green House, 7-Up, Pepsi and two local distributors.

The Town and Country Club gave away a hand stitched picture made by Dorothy Jo Andersen, which was won by Ray Jacobsen of Winside. There was also a cash drawing by the American Legion. Winners were Chuck Prince, Winside, $100; Virgil Isebrand, Wayne, $75; Frances Bak, Wayne, $50; and Raymond Walker, Norfolk, $25.

The Winside firemen played Bossy Bingo and winners were Doug Jaeger, Fritze Krause and Lila Hansen, each receiving $50 and some pork.

AN OPEN house was scheduled at the Winside Museum and Theophilus Church during the afternoon. Several game booths were available on the street after the rains ended and a few clowns from Norfolk were in the park also painting faces for the children.

The activities concluded in the evening with square dancing at the Winside School; Shiloh playing at the village auditorium; and a teen dance at the fire station.

social insurance (social security is not included).

THE PERSONAL income is measured before the deduction of personal income tax and other personal taxes, and it is reported in current dollars, said Erickson.

"Per capita personal income is the annual total personal income of residents divided by the residential population as of July 1 of the current year," he added.

Erickson pointed out that every soul, from babies to the elderly, who are residents of the county are included in the per capita figures.

Budget increased

NORFOLK-The Northeast Board of Governors of Northeast Community College tentatively approved the 1989-90 general fund budget of $8.60 million at their July meeting.

The budget is an increase of $1.05 million, or 13.96 percent over 1988-89. Of this increase, 8.78 percent is needed to fund the continuation budget, 1 percent for economic development and the remaining 4.18 percent is for new or expanded programs and services.

The property tax levy of 6.61 cents per $100 valuation will not increase.

Final action on the 1989-90 budget will take place following a public hearing before the regular meeting on Aug. 10.

Old Settlers

Remove drunken sailors

The Coast Guard can have a difficult time in keeping a drunken sailor from driving a 211,000 ton oil tanker through Prince William Sound if it doesn't have a way to learn that his motor vehicle driver's license has been revoked for drunk driving.

I am cosponsoring the "Coast Guard License Verification Act," which is intended to help prevent future maritime disasters like the Exxon Valdez oil spill. This bill permits the Coast Guard to access the National Driver Register in order to verify that merchant vessel officers -- masters, mates, pilots, and engineers -- have accurately reported any alcohol or substance abuse violations from their motor vehicle driving records.

At present there is no easy way for the Coast Guard to check a merchant officer's assertion that he has no driving-while-intoxicated offenses on his record. This is an effort to help the Coast Guard keep drunk drivers off the water and in the port.

Crack Down On Unsolicited Computer-Generated Calls
Unsolicited computer-generated telemarketing calls can be an invasion of privacy and a potential hazard. Many people have expressed their outrage at the inconveniences associated with these calls. A number of health and safety officials have complained that once a call is made, it often fails to disconnect after the recipient hangs up. This could mean the difference between life and death for a person in dire emergency.

Keeping In Touch

By Cong. Doug Bereuter

Last year, a New York woman unsuccessfully tried to call an ambulance from her home for her child who had collapsed. When she picked up her phone, all she could hear was an unsolicited automated sales pitch which would not disconnect. The woman was forced to call for help from a neighbor's home. Luckily the child survived.

I am cosponsoring the "Automated Telephone Solicitation Protection Act," it would prohibit Automatic Dialer Recorded Message Players from making calls to the emergency line of any hospital, medical physician or service office, health care facility, and fire or law enforcement agency.

Under this bill, random computer calls would be permitted only in response to a specific request by an individual involved in a business relationship with an automatic dialer. Businesses which would profit from automated dialing services would be permitted to receive these calls, but only if they chose. Even these calls would be required to disconnect five seconds after the person called hangs up.

Comprehensive Adoption Reform

Another bill that I am cosponsoring provides that States enact a comprehensive adoption reform program by 1993 as a condition of receiving Federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance.

The bill provides that States have laws requiring professional assessment of prospective adoptive parents and that biological mothers be assured of adequate legal representation. States also would have to require itemized declaration of adoption costs and require that prospective parents petition to adopt a child within one year after the child is placed in the home.

Rain-makers were hired

"In 1894 the citizens of Callaway were somewhat confused," the account read. "They had hired a 'rain-maker' to produce moisture in their community, and then, after it had rained, they were not certain that the man was actually responsible for the downpour. Some persons believed that his rainmaking efforts only coincided with those of Mother Nature's, and did not think he was entitled to payment."

In the dry "dirty thirties," workers from the Nebraska Writer's Project researched earlier attempts at rainmaking. In the Callaway case, "the rainmaker arrived on July 6, 1894 with a wagon-load of rainmaking apparatus which he assembled in a vacant building. 'The rain-making machine is a very innocent-looking affair' and somewhat disappointing at the first glance," remarks the Callaway Courier of that date, "but as the stuff that does the mischief is inside, the true inwardness of the contraption is not visible to the naked eye."

The machine consisted of two ten-gallon earthenware crocks, one of which was referred to as "the thunder-mug," the other as "the lightning-mug." Each had a cover from which extended a four inch pipe. Certain chemicals were placed in the crocks and the machine began its magic function. "Caseous fumes poured from the pipes and went swirling off to the north where they appeared to gather into a huge black cloud. The rainmaker informed his curious and hopeful audience that if the cloud brought rain within five days, the experiment was a success. If not, then there was something wrong with the atmosphere.

NEBRASKA TIMELINE

By the Nebraska State Historical Society

"For five days the mugs spouted their fumes over the region and then ceased. That night the joyous people witnessed a good soaking rain. The rainmaker was regarded as a genius."

The more cynical in the community suspected the rainmaker's "genius" was nothing more than good luck. The editor of the Courier sniffed, "The rain was no different from showers which have fallen on this vicinity weekly, since the first of June. The rain would have fallen anyway, even if the rainmaker and his jugs were thousands of miles away."

Still, a deal was a deal. One of the great advantages of the rainmaker's scam was that no one could prove who or what made it rain!

Country Leanings

By Chuck Hackenmiller

The Smell Of Rain

It has been a long dry spell. Disappointments make it hard to cope. Dark clouds tease, raising broken spirits; only to pass, offering an empty hope.

And then comes a distant thunder. Once again the anxiety stirs. Will this front yield moisture, before more hardships from a drought occurs?

Suddenly a brisk cool breeze blows. Scents from the country fill the senses. The humidity will soon be lifting as the nurturing of the land commences.

Before the anticipated storm draws near and sprinkles fall upon the flesh, appreciate and partake of the sensation to inhale the air — clean and fresh.

All of the parched earth benefits from the drenching that it gains. But another most satisfying feeling is to absorb the splendor before the rains.

Scout now for beetles in fields

Corn producers need to scout for the presence of both western and northern corn rootworms in fields now, to determine the need for control of these damaging pests during this and next year's crop seasons, University of Nebraska-Lincoln entomology specialists said.

Bob Wright said western corn rootworms are the predominant species throughout the state, while northern corn rootworms are most abundant in northeastern Nebraska.

During the remainder of July and in August, beetles will be laying eggs that overwinter in the soil, producing rootworms in the spring which may be economically damaging to crops if continuous corn is grown, Wright said.

"Weekly scouting for beetles is the only way to determine whether economic infestations are likely to occur next year," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources insect specialist said.

Scouting should begin now and continue at weekly intervals until threshold levels are exceeded or beetle activity stops, which usually is by the end of August, Wright said.

BEETLE COUNTS can provide growers with information on the potential of corn rootworm damage during this season and next year, he explained.

Producers can determine in which fields it would be profitable to apply foliar insecticides to control beetles before they lay eggs this summer.

Information on beetle numbers during 1989 can be used to predict the potential for damage in 1990.

"If beetle counts exceed an average of three beetles per four plants at any time during the period of beetle activity, damaging populations of corn rootworms are likely to occur in that field next year," Wright advised.

To prevent or reduce rootworm damage in cornfields exceeding this threshold, fields could be rotated out of corn, or treated with a soil insecticide if corn is planted again.

FIELDS REMAINING below .75 beetles per plant do not need a soil insecticide next year, Wright said, based on research conducted on the western corn rootworm. A threshold for northern corn rootworm has not been documented in Nebraska, he noted, but similar numbers of beetles probably would be required to warrant treatment. "This threshold assumes 24,000 corn plants per acre; if different plant populations are used, the thresholds should be modified," Wright said.

Scouting for rootworm beetles must be done in a careful fashion to ensure accurate counts, he said. Details of this procedure, in a NebGuide on determining the need for insecticide treatment of western corn rootworms, can be obtained at local Cooperative Extension offices.

ion, the public hearing is just a formality the committee must go through to pacify the taxpayers. If there is anyone else who is opposed to this rezoning, there's one more chance. The request for rezoning now has to be approved by the Mayor in Council.

Bob Burke, Concerned Sunnyview Homeowner

Thanks

We are thankful for the beautiful rain which we needed so badly and received in the Winside and surrounding area the night before and morning of the Wayne County Old Settlers Reunion July 15, 1989.

And now we would like to say 'thank you' to everyone that contributed in any way to make our day a success. Some activities were cancelled because of the rain — death, etc. And some had to be changed to different times and places, but many went on as planned.

We were happy we had so many entries in our parade and to all the surrounding towns who were here we are most grateful for your coming. To the several different Veterans organizations who marched in our parade — you made our day.

With four dances in town that evening, our town was happy and jumpin' — free coke and popcorn were provided at the teen dance.

The 1989-Wayne County Old Settlers Reunion in Winside is now history — thanks again to all who participated and helped and hope you had a good day!

Come and help us celebrate our centennial year July 20, 21, and 22, 1990 in Winside.

'Public Hearing' just a formality?

I recently attended a public hearing with the Zoning Commission. The purpose of this hearing was to evaluate the recommendation for rezoning land from single family homes to multi-family apartments in the Sunnyview Development.

My goal in attending this meeting was to express my thoughts and feelings on why the Sunnyview neighborhood would be better off without additional "low rent" apartments.

The Sunnyview area is a family oriented development. The increased traffic could prove to be a hazard to the many children who live in the area.

A comment was made by the company requesting rezoning, "the purpose of this development is to provide more housing in a smaller area." The construction of another apartment complex will over-populate that area. If there is a need for housing low income families, then let's try to fill the many empty houses in Wayne.

There were only three people in attendance opposing the rezoning request. In most cases there is strength in numbers. It might have made a difference if more opposing this rezoning had attended and voiced their opinions.

Before the start of the meeting, I knew we were running down a dead end street, when two of us overheard a committee member whisper to another committee member, "this should only take about 30 seconds." Is this the frame of mind all of Wayne's committee and council members have?

I feel the Planning Committee had their minds made up before the meeting started. In my opin-

Grain prices expected to trend downward

The basic trend in the cash grain market will be downward through the summer and into the fall harvest season, with producers' best and perhaps only hope of commanding higher prices that of selling quickly during a market rally.

That's the prediction by Lynn Lutgen, University of Nebraska-Lincoln grain marketing specialist, following the release of U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated acreage reports for corn, sorghum and soybeans and wheat production estimates July 12.

But the relatively small differences between USDA figures and grain trade guesstimates are likely to have much less effect than the weather on prices for all three commodities, Lutgen said.

"We're in an interim weather market," he said. "The overriding factor in the market is what the weather is going to do," both in the Corn Belt, and in the short term, to yields of spring wheat in Montana and the Dakotas still to be harvested.

USDA acreage figures, based on farmers' expressed planting intentions, came up slightly negative, pricewise, for corn, and slightly positive for soybeans, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources economist said.

THE CORN acreage figure was nearer the upper end of the range predicted by the trade; the soybean total was nearer the lower end. Wheat production estimates as of July 1 were negative relative to price, especially for hard red winter wheat, which is raised in Nebraska.

"Prices are headed down; period," Lutgen reiterated, with the possibility of $5.90 to $6 per bushel soybeans this fall, compared to $7 a year ago. "Corn could be headed for the $2 mark."

Particularly damaging to soybean price prospects is a report by the World Agricultural Outlook Board, which also came out July 12, Lutgen said. This report, which is not based on a survey but reflects USDA analysts' judgment, estimates a 47 percent increase in soybean stocks from Sept. 1 of this year to Sept. 1, 1990—from 125 million bushels to 265 million bushels.

Extreme weather patterns which have caused roughly 50 percent of major U.S. cropland to be extremely short of subsoil moisture with crops "just hanging on," and the other 50 percent—in the eastern Corn Belt—to have soggy fields, make yield predictions tough, he said.

"Northern Great Plains (Montana-the Dakotas) is the 'market-maker' on wheat now, just as it was two or three weeks ago," before the start of the Nebraska harvest, Lutgen said. Weather-caused losses in yields could push wheat, (selling for around $4 a bushel in Nebraska country elevators in mid-July), into the $4.20 to $4.30 range. "If they have excellent spring wheat yields, it could push winter wheat down to $3.80."

PRODUCERS with wheat on hand should watch the Northern Great Plains market closely, and sell in the very near future, when a momentary price rise develops, the specialist said. "You will never recover storage and interest costs in the long term," he advised farmers. Producers with old crop corn, either in on-farm storage or in an elevator, also "have a tough row to hoe" in trying to wring a few more cents a bushel out of a weakening market, Lutgen said.

"The only way Pik-and-Roll will work would be if the market goes haywire—prices jumping 10 to 15 cents, assuming no change in the ASCS posted county price," he explained. "That's the day (of a price rally) you Pik-and-Roll before the posted county price catches up. But you must have you PIK's (certificates) in place."

However, Lutgen cautioned producers to make sure that their corn is eligible to Pik-and-Roll before they line up PIK certificates. "A rules change effective May 31 makes it imperative that you check with your local ASCS office," he said.

If neither the Pik-and-Roll route nor selling during a market rally will pencil out to cover the loan redemption price, interest, and any storage revenue loss, "you'll have to forfeit the grain" to the ASCS's Commodity Credit Corporation, Lutgen said.

Corn could be cash-contracted with the elevator to be delivered in a month or two, Lutgen said, which would avoid losing storage fees paid on farmer-owned grain. But, he warned, there's risk in fluctuating prices "and when the contract is due, you have to deliver the grain; you can't go back and forfeit it."

A PLATFORM FOR THE 90's

By Paul Burke

Independent Candidate for Congress
First Nebraska District

I support those members of the Congress who believe it is time to resume the Constitutional duty of Congress: "To coin money and regulate the value thereof."

In support of that duty I make these proposals:

- 1) An International agreement for a trade dollar based on gold.
- 2) Use of the gold in Fort Knox to pay off the national debt.
- 3) U.S. oil producers to join O.P.E.C.
- 4) A similar international organization of exporters of grain and other farm products.
- 5) A labor contract for all exporters of manufactured goods based on a living wage for all workers.

To insure a political climate for such an undertaking, I make these proposals:

- 1) An end to criminal war propaganda.
- 2) An exchange of all hostages and military and political prisoners.
- 3) An amendment to the Charter of the United Nations to prevent the super powers from sitting in judgment on themselves.

I will send a copy of my book, "The Adventures of a Farm Boy," to every one who makes a contribution to my campaign.

PASSES BURNING ORDINANCE

The Wakefield City Council, at the July meeting, passed an ordinance restricting burning within the city limits. The Wakefield Community Club recently made a request that the council consider such an ordinance.

The ordinance, which will become effective Sept. 4, states that there be no burning of garbage or trash openly, in burn barrels or incinerators. The ordinance does, however, make provisions for the mayor to designate specific dates for burning of leaves in the fall and spring.

Along with the ban on burning within the city limits, the city is offering the service to residents to dispose of their burning barrels and the contents. If residents will call the City Clerk's office, city employees will pick up the barrels and haul to the dump at no charge.

In other action the council accepted the resignation of Bob Hollman and voted to hire Dwight VanderVeen as a maintenance worker for the City. Hollman had been employed by the city since April of 1975.

The council also heard a pair of proposals for pension plans for city employees from company representatives. They also approved Chris Loofe's Eagle Scout Project of painting house numbers on the curb in front of each home in the city.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS

The Benthack Clinic opened in the Wakefield hospital building on July 10. Wakefield has been without medical service since Dr. Bookhardt's contract was terminated in March and fill-in physicians could not be obtained. The hospital was officially closed in mid-June.

Some remodeling work has been done at the hospital for the clinic. A doctor will be at the clinic on Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays from 1 to 5 p.m. The clinic is planning an alternating schedule with the two doctors, Robert Benthack and Benjamin Martin, along with physician assistant Gary West. Kelly Brown is the office nurse. Rhonda Trube is the receptionist.

The phone number will have the former downtown clinic number of 287-2267.

NEW BOOKS

"Playmates" by Robert B. Parker, "The Bailey Chronicles" by Catherine Cookson, "Henry McGee is Not Dead" by Bill Granger, "Love and Marriage" by Bill Cosby and "Primal Scene" by Yale Kramer are some of the new books recently acquired by Graves Public Library in Wakefield.

There are also a couple of new books from National Geographic entitled "The World of the American Indian" and "Yellowstone Country."

For the younger generation there are some Sweet Valley High paperbacks including "Lost at Sea," "Perfect Shot" and "Deadly Summer."

Community plans for Centennial events in Allen

The executive board of the Allen centennial committee met July 8 and announced that letters are being sent to area communities informing them of Allen's centennial celebration slated to take place July 4-7, 1991.

Executive board members attending the July 8 meeting in the village office were Larry and Kathy Boswell, Gary Troth, Marcia Rastede, Julie Sullivan and Doris Linafelter.

The group voted to sell the present style of T-shirt until a centennial logo has been chosen, at which time new T-shirts will be ordered.

Twenty-two entries were submitted for the logo contest and results will be made known as soon as they are available.

GARY TROTH PRESENTED a cover letter and survey sheet which he compiled. The letter and survey will be sent to all residents of Allen with their July water bill. All rural boxholders in the Allen school district also will receive the letter and survey.

The surveys are to be returned by Aug. 1 to the village office where results will be tabulated. Survey items receiving the most votes will receive priority consideration in planning the community's centennial.

It was noted that several committees are needed, including a food coordinating committee and a fund raising committee. Residents willing to serve on a committee are asked to mark their survey sheets.

It was reported that a sign has been completed for the fire truck to be used in area parades. When not used for this purpose, the sign will be posted on the Jerry Schroeder property at the southern outskirts of town.

It was suggested that a resident of Emerson, who recently was involved in planning that community's centennial celebration, be invited to speak to the Allen Community Development Club.

ALLEN'S CENTENNIAL colors will be red and white and everyone will be encouraged to plant red flowers in 1990 and 1991.

A centennial bulletin board will be erected between the post office and town office/library building.

The Allen newspaper, which is no longer in existence, would have been 100 years old in 1991. Persons with information on any of the old newspapers are asked to contact Doris Linafelter.

The centennial committee also is planning to place signs in front of Allen businesses with chronological listings of former businesses in that building. Persons interested in helping compile this information are asked to contact a committee member.

By Pat Meierhenry

It's easy to focus on weeks when everything seems to go wrong; especially when, at our house, there seem to be so many. About the middle of this past week, it dawned on me that there were a lot of very positive things happening. For curiosity, I began to keep track. On the whole, it was a very good week.

For starters, we got our compliance audit back from Blue Cross at the office. Once a year, they send us a list of 20 charts. We make copies of these and mail them. Our new medicare contractor had been especially nit-picking and we had been holding our collective breaths about the audit.

The printed report was followed by a telephone call and both were very, very good. They said we were being complete and had actually few suggestions to make. What a relief!

Then, a sales rep took us all out for lunch. And we found a great Home Care reference book at a book display at the hospital.

I got visits made to both satellites. It cooled off. I got my ironing done. On the weekend, it rained.

One sad thing brought tears and that was the death by my friend, Helen. But even that was the end of pain and misery for her.

AT NOON on Saturday, 20 old Lincoln General grads gathered for lunch at a restaurant in Lincoln. We requested a separate room with doors that close, because we had had a little problem with noise disturbing other patrons 10 years ago.

There were screams, hugs and laughter again. "And many jokes about the bran muffins that accompanied the fruit plate. Margie just didn't feel they were necessary!"

We really are a traditional bunch: no divorces, still working as nurses, enjoying grandchildren

(some of us). Two have master's degrees, several have bachelor's, one is on the State Board of Nursing.

A couple of husbands have had heart attacks, some have had kids come back home, most are still paying college tuition bills.

In the evening, we gathered in the cafeteria of the hospital and saw slides of what is happening now and what happened 30 years ago.

One former director reminisced about first teaching students to take blood pressures and after penicillin was discovered, to give injections. These had been done only by physicians prior to 1940.

THE BIG Farmer played chess all day at the Cornhusker Hotel and walked out with a second-place medal in the unrated category.

I did my thing on the track at UNL on Sunday. One pretty little black gal informed me that she was in the stands last year and decided when she saw me trying to run to get off her duff.

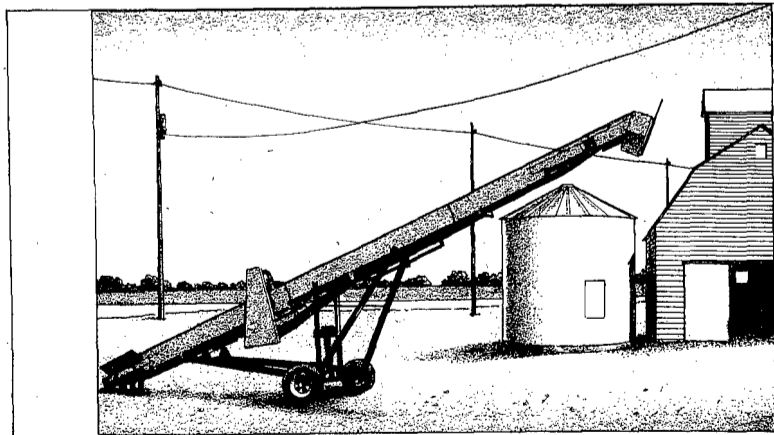

Another 50 year old told me the same thing and beat me handily in the 100.

And a second middle-ager, from Norfolk, had seen my slow time in the paper and knew she could whip that — and did! But I took 30 seconds off my time last year.

As I practiced on the WSC track the other evening, some walkers were strolling there. Carlos Frey asked why I wanted to work that hard.

I can't answer that. But it sure does feel good when you're done. I think my glory days are finished. No more gold medals, just the fun of participating.

It really was a good week, folks, and this one is bound to be tame in comparison. We need some of those, too.

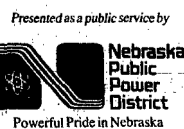

STAY ALERT!

Working in the field or around the farm, it's easy to forget about power lines. But tall farm machinery, irrigation pipes, or ladders can come in contact with overhead power lines. Remember to check above before moving any farm equipment.

If you must move implements and power lines are in the way, contact your local power supplier for assistance.

This year when working the soil, remember to keep an eye toward the sky. Let's make this a bountiful and safe farming season.

LET'S ALL SUPPORT AN INDUSTRY THAT HARVESTS $8 BILLION ANNUALLY.

Enthusiasm for agriculture is growing again in Nebraska. After all, the success of our state's economy is strongly tied to the strength of our ag industry. Almost one-third of our economic activity is related to the production of ag commodities or ag services.

Nebraska has always been a leading crop production state and now ranks among the top five in cash receipts for ag commodities nationally — third in corn production, third in sorghum, ninth in wheat, eighth in soybeans, and fifth in rye and beans.

Recently, Nebraska produced a record 954 million bushels of corn (11 percent of the U.S. total) with total cash crop marketing of $3.3 billion and $4.6 billion in livestock marketing. In fact, cattle and calf production in Nebraska amounts to 12 percent of the U.S. total, placing Nebraska second only to Texas.

So, if you think Nebraska ranks nationally only in football, maybe it's time to remember why we're called the Cornhuskers.

LET'S GET INTO A POSITIVE STATE.

LADIES AID
St. Paul's Ladies Aid, rural Wakefield, met Thursday afternoon with 13 members present. Leoma Baker was hostess and Edna Hansen was a guest.

The meeting opened with the hymn entitled "O That the Lord Would Guide My Ways." Pastor Ricky Bertels conducted the Bible study on the Ninth and Tenth Commandments.

Barb Greve, president, presided at the business meeting. Dorothy Meyer read the report of the last meeting and Marilyn Hansen gave the treasurer's report.

The Aid will serve the noon luncheon for the Laborers for Christ at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne on July 19 and 26. The LWML executive board was to meet at St. Paul's on July 19 at 1:30 p.m. An invitation was received to attend the ELCA guest day meeting of the Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield on Sept. 28. The mitre box offering was taken.

The July birthday honored was Marie VanderVeen. The August birthday is Lillian Sanders and August anniversaries are Pastor and Janice Bertels and Elaine Hansen.

There won't be a meeting held in August.

Guests in the Emil Muller home Friday night to observe the birthday of the hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Baker, Erwin Baker and Edna Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Giese of Beemer and Raymond Brudigam were Tuesday callers in the Bill Korth home. Edna Hansen visited Sunday afternoon.

Gertrude Ohlquist, Irene Walter, Dorothy Driskell and Mary Lou Krusemark were coffee guests of Lila Barner in honor of her birthday on Thursday morning.

Erwin Bottger returned home Friday after a week stay in an Omaha hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Kai spent the weekend at Windmill Park in Gibbon. On Sunday they joined others for the annual reunion of the 1973 Washington, D.C. Farm Bureau trippers.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Kai, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kai and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kai were among relatives attending the funeral service of Mandville Kai in Omaha on Wednesday.

The GOLDEN YEARS
By Allan Rohr

Because older Americans are growing in numbers and purchasing power, companies that market products or services are giving increasing attention to them. Americans over 50 have a combined annual income of about $800 billion and account for 51 percent of the nation's discretionary income, according to the Mature Market Institute. The marketing community is beginning to realize that "this is an untapped market," says Allan Rohr, a market research executive. As a result, older people can expect a step-up in campaigns aimed at selling products and services that fit their needs and/or lifestyles.

Each year more than 2,500 Americans age 65 and over are treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries resulting from tripping or slipping on rugs or runners, the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission reports. The CPSC advises the use of rubber matting or double-faced tape on the back so they won't slide. Check periodically to see if worn tape or backing needs replacing.

Remember When? October 27, 1951 -- Winston Churchill became prime minister of Britain for the second time. National elections ended six years of Labor Party rule.
