Requests tax asking increase School board approves 1989-90 fiscal budget

By Chuck Hackenmiller Managing editor

The Wayne-Carroll Public School District will have an antici-pated 6.9 percent increase in genpated 6.9 percent increase in gen-eral fund property tax askings for fiscal-1989-90 following board of education approval of the annual budget Monday evening. Property taxes will rise from the 1988-89 fiscal budget figure of $1,617,630 to $1,729,470 in the 1989-90 fiscal vear

"Elementary enrollment contin-ues to increase resulting in an additional section of sixth grade," said Haun.

"And_also there has been a continued effort on the part of the board of education and the Wayne Education Association to keep teacher salaries comparable to those paid by an array of schools established by the Court of Indus-trial Relations in 1988," he said.

Starting salaries for teachers for 1989-90 will increase from $15,600 in 1988 to $16,325 in 1989-90 1989.

The board has also used the array to establish salary compara-bility for administrators and other certified staff members. The board had approved increasing the salaries for the superintendent and salaries for the superintendent and three principals by six percent for the 1989-90 school year. The amount of budgeted ex-penditures in 1989-90 will reach approximately $3.35 million compared to last year's total budget of expenditures of $3 million.

Count estimated on WSC visitors

A recent tabulation has determined that approximately 30,000 elementary and high school students visited Wayne State College for various activities during the 1988-89 academic year. "The general public is often unaware of the important role the college plays in the life of its service region," says Dr. Donald Mash, president of Wayne State College. "Higher education is our principle product, but our public service role goes well beyond offering courses. We use our facilities and resources to offer dozens of year-round activities which enrich northeast Nebraska. Enhancing the quality of life in our communities and in the schools is a vital part of our public service mission."

The report determined that groups visiting campus ranged from 35 students who participated in a spelling bee on March 10 to more than 5,000 students who watched the Children's Thea-tre production "Wizard of Oz" in April.

Other activities Include: Planetarlum (4,000); Business Competition Day (650); Junior Academy of Science (500); choral testivaj (500); high school holiday basketball tournament (500); math contest (400); Music Camp (350); and Industrial Arts Competition Day (260).

ACTIVITIES DREW students from more than 100 communities in Nebraska and western lowa, with the heaviest participation from the Northeast region of Nebraska. March and April were the busiest months on campus for out-

Post season softball tournament held Sunday:

Champions: Godfather's in "A" League and KTCH in "B"

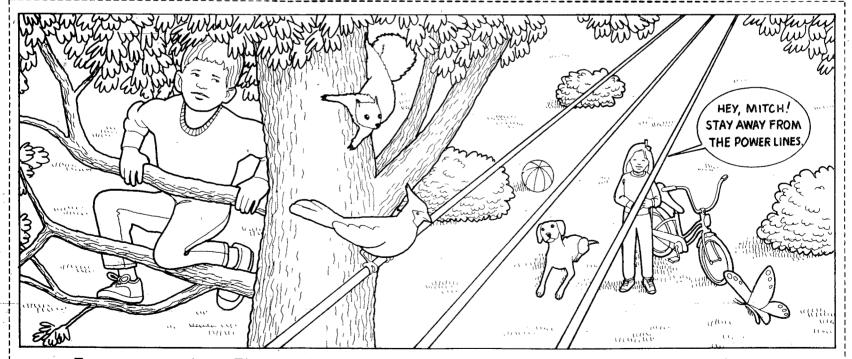

DUANE SMITH puts just enough spin and arch on the ball to propel KTCH to the championship of the B League post season tournament Sunday in Wayne.

KTCH PROVED to be to much to handle this weekend as they captured the post season B League softball tournament championship. KTCH like Godfather's also won the regular season championship with a 16-4 record. Members of the championship team include from back row left to right; Doug Feagan, Verdel Lutt, Dave Longe, Barry Dahlkoetter, Duane Smith, and Mike Grosz. Front row; Mark Zach, Jeff Berger, Joe Ortmeler, Andy Karavas, Jeff Sperry, Dean Milander, and Todd Volwiler. KTCH downed Lindner's Construction in the first contest 18-S and then they defeated Ellingson Motors by a 13-3 count. That victory put them in the championship round with an undefeated mark in the double elimination tournament. Ellingson Motors defeated them in the first game of the championship 11-3 but KTCH re-bounded to win the finale 14-11.

overall budget. Total actual requirements budgeted for in 1989-90 are $3,702,162, an increase over the previous fiscal year's total budget requirements of $3,597,897.

General fund requirements alone were up from $1,013,788 budgeted the previous fiscal year to a proposed $1,063,907. Wayne County Clerk Orgretta Morris said there was a "good carryover in the general fund from the previous fiscal year."

"If we didn't need it, we didn't spend it," she said. This carryover, she said, will help to reduce the property tax askings despite the budget requirement increase.

County road/bridges is proposed to increase in requirements from $1,154,987 in 1988-89 to $1,181,677 in 1989-90. Tax askings in this area will also increase from $592,169.50 to $617,171.

There is no tax asking or There is no tax asking or budget requirement in the area of rural road improvement districts, according to the 1989-90 budget proposal. In the previous year approximately $176,375 was budgeted for rural road improvement, but there was no tax asking. The rural road improvement was a fund

Swimmers raise funds in benefit at Wayne

Nine swimmers in the Wayne area raised $365 for cardiovascular research by participating in the American Heart Association's Swim for Heart event on July 22 at the Wayne municipal pool.

The local effort is part of a na-tionwide endeavor to raise funds for the American Heart Associa-tion's research, professional education and community service programs.

Swimmers raised money by collecting pledges based on the number of laps they swam in one hour.

TOP PLEDGE earner in the event was Tasha Luther of Wayne, who collected $151.80. Other participants were Tony Borer, Wayne, $150; Keily Turney, Wakefield, $26; Rachel Haase, Wayne, $17.20; Holly Paige, Wayne, $15; Shaun Nieman, Car-

He explained that farmers who received both advance deficiency payments and disaster payments for production losses must refund advance payments on the portion of their intended production for which they also received a disaster payment. The amounts per bushel are 61.2 cents for wheat, 44 cents for corn, 43.2 cents for sorghum, 30.4 cents for barley and 12 cents per bushel for oats. "All refunds will be due after Dec. 31."

The ASCS official said final 1988 payment rates have not been de-termined for corn and grain sorghum. He said that the final payment for corn is expected to be less than the advance amount and a refund will be required. Refunds are not expected to be required

Keep the slide

This letter is in response to the letter 'Unhappy with the slide.' I agree that the rocks are a problem around the slide but there is nothing wrong with the slide. All things propose some danger. A suggestion in the letter was to "put the rocks around a fountain so the beauty would be enjoyed as the flowers and bushes," but if there are flowers, there are bees, if there are flowers, there are bees, if there are slides there are bound to be accidents. I watch many children enjoy the park every day, including the slide. Maybe the rocks should be removed but not the slide Slaned,

For the second year I have worked with the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation to bring to Nebraska legislative assistants who work. for. Members of Congress from other areas of the country. The purpose of the program is to provide these Congressional staff people with a firsthand look at Nebraska crop and livestock production. These legislative assistants will be responsible for providing the Members of Congress for whom they work with information about bills that affect agriculture. This visit gives them some valuable background.

some valuable background. My office assisted in the pro-gram by contacting Congressional offices on behalf of the Nebraska Farm Bureau and helping to co-ordinate arrangements. We also had a District staff person with the group during their first day in Nebraska when they met with their host farm families and Nebraska Farm Bureau Board members, and then toured the University's Food Industry Complex.

The Congressional staff members spent the next two days with bers spent the next two days with their host families, participating in routine farm chores, visiting neighboring farm operations, and learning about Nebraska. Price cycle in place for expanding herd

Producers are building their cow herds by culling fewer cows and holding back more replacement heifers, two practices which are fueling a new cattle cycle, said a University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural economist.

"Increasing calf prices, such as we have seen during the last two-Plus years, typically motivate cattle producers to build their cow herds. said Allen Wellman, UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources livestock marketing specialist.

Cattle.producers have been reducing the nation cattle herd since 1982, but the run-up in feeder calf prices in 1987 and again in 1988 motivated many cow-calf iproduc-ers to begin increasing their herds, Wellman said.

The drought may have delayed the expansion one year, but indi-cations are that cattle producers are starting to build the nation's cow herd in 1989 and will continue to build in 1990, Wellman said. Beef cow herds are projected to build for the next four to five years with cattle numbers peaking around 110 million head in the mid-1990s.

The increased cattle numbers are projected to show up in the January 1990 USDA all-cattle in-ventory. Projections state that the nation's beef cow numbers will start increasing in 1989 and will continue to increase at least thereuch 1993 to increase at least through 1993, Wellman said.

THE 1988 drought, however, altered expansion plans for cattle producers in the Northern Plains and southern Texas. Total U.S. cat-tle inventory on Jan. 1, 1989, was the same as total inventory on Jan. 1, 1988: 99.484 million head. The significance of the two Jan

1 inventories is that they signal the The Farmer's end of the current cattle cycle and the beginning of the next cattle cycle, Wellman said. The 17 west-ern states increased cattle numbers by .3 percent.

The problem with producers deciding to expand the cow herd in response to increasing calf prices is that it takes two to three years after: the expansion decision is made before cattle numbers actu-ally expand," Wellman said. By that time, he said, calf prices generally have turned downward, resulting in low or negative profits for beef cow owners. Their re-sponse to low prices is to reduce the nation's cow herd.

Beef cow numbers at the national level have followed a more sporadic trend, Wellman said. From 1982 through 1986 beef cow numbers moved downward. Numbers increased slightly in 1987 only to again decrease in 1988. Beef cow numbers increased 1.7 per-cent in 1989 to 33.6 million cows.

The 17 western states had 19.3 million million cows — 2.1 percent more than in 1988. In past cycles, the 17 western states decreased their cow herds earlier than the nation as a whole, Wellman said, and they also expanded their cow herd earlier. Wellman said it appears the west-ern states are again following this trend trend.

HEIFER RETENTION for breed-HEIFER RETENTION for breed-ing among the 17 western states also has increased 7.2 percent over 1988's level, Wellman said. U.S. beef replacement heifers increased 5.3 percent on Jan. 1, 1989 over 1988. In both cases, beef replacement heifers have been baccering time 1987. Music book and went off the Ramsey Theater. Thank goodness Bonnie Siefken was the accompanist. I didn't see another soul I knew. The director asked me to 'move' on stage. How did I do that? Singing for weddings and funerals doesn't require much in the way of dramatic gestures. I looked pretty wooden. Eventually, I got a printed list of numbers and performers. Talk about typecasting! I'm singing 'Bali Hai' dressed as Bloody Mary. For this, I'm backed by some lovely young things doing hand movements to the words. carryover of the 1988 drought to 1989 into the Southern Plains and ver of the 1988 drought to Western Corn Belt caused some cow-calf producers to abandon ex-pansion plans. Cull cow slaughter increased in late March to a rate above that of a year ago, Wellman

First quarter 1989 beef cow slaughter was 613,000 head com-pared to 754,000 head in 1988 and 833,000 head in 1987, Well-man said. This represents a 19 per-cent reduction from a year ago.

Since some rains have returned to the Southern Plains this summer, To the Southern Plains this summer, projections are for a return to more normal cow slaughter levels the rest of this year, Wellman said. He said cow slaughter is projected to be reduced by 11 percent in the second quarter, 12 percent in the fourth quarter and 14 percent in the fourth quarter.

"If these projections materialize, we should see a 14 percent reduc-tion in cow slaughter in 1989," Wellman said.

And if the nation's cow herd is slowly rebuilt as predicted, bred cow prices should remain strong over the next couple of years, Wellman said. The implications of this are higher cow prices for cattle producers who plan to buy back drought-liquidated cows within two years to reduce income tax conse-quences of selling cows in 1988, he said.

Wellman said owners of existing debt-free cow herds should expect to earn high profits from their beef cow herds over the next few years.

"Herein lies the dichotomy: exnerein lies the alchotomy; ea-sisting high-equity cow herds will be very profitable while low-equity newly purchased cow herds will barely earn enough cash to meet cash flow needs," Wellman said.

I finally met Alan Cramer, who is re-enacting his "Tevye" for the occasion, and told him what a brave man I thought he was for allowing Randy Hascall to run a column called "The Farmer's Wife."
