That would have been Earl Preston's wish

Keeping the young healthy

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing editor

Earl Preston had a special place in his heart for children.

Kids would walk out of their way just to talk to him. Earl never held back in giving out some advice on life to those children he dearly loved. He had a special way with kids.

Earl died in January of this year at the age of 80. Still, even after his death, children will be gaining life-saving advice through memorial money given by family, friends and relatives on Earl's behalf.

Children will learn about the hazards of smoking, drinking or drug abuse through visual displays that create an awareness of what these hazards are doing to their heart, lungs, livers and kidneys. These displays of impact were presented Thursday to school nurses of the Educational Service Unit One in Wakefield.

THE DISPLAYS will be used throughout the ESU One service district which encompasses 24 K-12 schools in northeast Nebraska. The displays will also be present at health fairs and other health-related activities.

Depicted on these displays are cross-sections of body organs that have undergone the deterioration caused by abuse of drugs, alcohol and of smoking or chewing tobacco.

For instance, the consequences of drug abuse can be the following: hepatitis, cirrhosis, meningitis, thrombophlebitis. It even displays bullet wounds — because more than half of all murders and suicides are committed by persons impaired by substance abuse.

It also mentions birth defects as a drug abuse consequence. A wide variety of drugs may cause congenital abnormalities in unborn babies. The display pictures a cross-section of a baby's brain with "water on the brain."

Consequences of smoking shows cross-sections of body organs which suffer from bronchitis, emphysema, cancer of the lung, heart attack, cancer of the urinary bladder, strokes, peptic ulcer and burns that are caused by careless smokers.

AND THE consequences of alcohol abuse are illustrated through cross-sections of body organs that illustrate cancer of the esophagus, peptic ulcer, varicose veins of the esophagus, pancreatitis, gastritis, cerebral atrophy (loss of memory and early senility) and cirrhosis of the liver.

There is a display that shows the consequences of a mother who smokes while pregnant — how the baby reacts to the smoke breathed in by the mother. Real tissues of normal lungs and livers are displayed, placed next to real tissues of lungs from smokers and alcohol abusers.

A display of jaws and teeth shows the affects of chewing tobacco and the damage it can do.

The idea for the health displays was carried out by Doug Nelson of Randolph, his sister Verlyne Phillips of Corvallis, Oregon and Lois Preston of Laurel, Earl's wife.

Doug said he had visited first with Home Health Care in Wayne to see where the memorial money could be best utilized. The Home Health Care staff had often visited Earl's home in Laurel and provided him with the necessary medical attention.

"Home Health Care did so much for dad," said Doug. "We thought about making a contribution to them to help them in their work."

INSTEAD, Home Health Care staff members presented an alternative — to use the donation to help the younger people that Earl liked so much.

The memorial money was then given to help finance the purchase of the health displays which the ESU school nurses will introduce in K-12 school curriculums throughout the service district. Randolph, Laurel and Wayne-Carroll schools will be

Woman's baby crib serves as fence

By Dianne Jaeger
Winside correspondent

Charlotte Wylie of Winside has no plans of sitting in her rocker after celebrating her 80th birthday Sunday, Aug. 27.

She's up every morning at 5 a.m. and by 6 a.m. on most mornings she is strolling around town.

Her home is a horticulturist wonderland. She has about every flower imaginable including Easter lilies, Naked Women, Roses and even a poinsettia. Inside plants are hanging from the ceiling and everywhere.

Besides these, she grows a large vegetable garden — including melons which she mostly gives away. Although she doesn't can anymore, she still bakes.

But the one unique item outside in Charlotte's yard is the antique baby crib fence enclosing her yard.

"My old crib was just sitting around doing nothing, so I decided to use it since I didn't want to look at the alley anymore," she said.

The crib has been a real conversation piece. It's been around for a long time, said Charlotte.

"I know it was my baby bed and probably most of all my brothers and sisters used it. After Bill and I married, we used it for our six kids. Our daughter Helen used it for her six kids," she said.

Charlotte installed the fence herself about 10 years ago. A little paint is about the only necessary repairs.

Repairs come easily for Charlotte. When she moved into her present home 20 years ago, she and her son Bill did most of the remodeling work. She cut sheet rock and built the entire entry way herself. She also remodeled an old shed/garage in her back yard.

In the winter she does plenty of quilting, a hobby she started up nearly 10 years ago.

"When my mother died, she had some quilt blocks started and had all the material purchased. I put it away for a long time. Then I got it out and finished that one and started making others."

Research scientist views agriculture

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing editor

For two days, the Claybaughs of Carroll have "adopted a scientist."

Tom Ferguson is a research scientist working in the animal health formulation department for the Eli Lilly Company, working primarily at the Lilly Research Lab in Greenfield, Indiana. He has been with the company for eight years.

He is a participant in the American Farm Bureau "Adopt a Scientist-Program", arriving at the Claybaugh family home Thursday afternoon (Aug. 24) and he will stay with the Joe Claybaugh family until he returns to Indiana on Saturday, Aug. 26.

Greenfield is approximately 20 miles east of Indianapolis, which is the site of the international corporate headquarters of Eli Lilly. The ag division and toxicology division of the company is based on 1,300-acre near Greenfield, where about 900 people are employed. A good number of the employees are farmers working with the company in different capacities.

Ferguson's work is done in both the urban and rural settings. His work deals with research of implants and injections within the areas of growth promotants for all species.

The Claybaughs, with TWJ Farms, have 240,000 laying hens. They also own TWJ Feeds in Carroll and raise 90 registered Polled Hereford cattle in addition to farming about 1,500 acres.

Bill Claybaugh said they have given Ferguson a tour of their laying hen facility and the mill operation. Their next steps will be to visit neighboring dairy and beef farms and allow Ferguson to discuss the issues with ag producers during a get-together at the Claybaugh home.

"I've seen how farmers in this region generally go about their business in their day to day operations. And I get to see the economics of farming and how important it is," said Ferguson.

"I've had the chance to discuss different farm issues and philosophies and the needs of the farming industry," he said. "I'm learning how the scientific community can help the farmers — and vice versa."

Claybaugh said they were contacted by the state and national Farm Bureau office to see if they would like to sponsor a scientist. This is the first time the program was started on the national level and definitely a first for the state of Nebraska.

"We questioned it, because we are really not typical farmers. But they felt we would be beneficial for this particular scientist exchange program," he said.

"We feel that it is a good program," Claybaugh added. "We have an opportunity to see Tom at his farm in Indiana later on."

He labeled the "Adopt a Scientist Program" as a "two-way sharing of information."

"We can show the scientist what we're doing here, and in turn he can show us how we can utilize the research that he's done and the products that his company makes," Claybaugh said.

Claybaugh said they use Elanco Products, a subsidiary product of Eli Lilly, at their mill.

Ferguson said his company is very active in the poultry species, particularly in the broiler area. They are researching cross fertilization for the broiler and turkey industry as well as the egg-laying industry.

"When they [the Claybaughs] return to visit us in Indiana, we hope to show them what type of restraints we have as an industry. Dealing with the FDA, EPA and other regulatory bodies can be cumbersome," Ferguson said.

It is this type of informational exchange through the "Adopt A Scientist Program" that ag leaders hope to continue in promoting the understanding of agriculture.

For Your Information

Question: A. How come they lowered the value of my farm, but raised the taxes $150 more than last year?

Answer:

A. In response to your question on the increase in your taxes:

I find it hard to believe that there was an increase in the tax asking dollars if, in fact, your valuation had been lowered.

Your dollar figure in property tax is arrived at by multiplying the valuation of your property by the current tax rate. Several entities' requirements are combined to obtain a total tax rate — including your school district, fire district, Educational Service Unit, Northeast Community College, Ag Society and the Natural Resources District. In your case, since you are inquiring about rural property, you will not pay a city tax, but, do pay a non-resident tuition tax.

I have inquired as to your taxing district and find that in 1988, your school tax was increased some, but, the non-resident tax was reduced considerably. The county tax rate was also lowered. All of these factors combined to make your 1988 tax rate .0544 (cents) per $100 lower than the previous 1987 year.

I feel that perhaps you should take a second look at your tax statement and I believe you will find that your total 1988 tax assessment was, in reality, lower than the 1987 request.

Any other questions of tax requests will be happily answered by this office. We like the public to be informed.

given priority on the displays, but it is hoped that the displays will be introduced in all schools in the district.

"If I were a kid, these displays would surely make an impression on me," said Doug. "There is a good selection of health displays."

Doug is certain that this is what his father, Earl, would have wanted — a way to get the message across to young children about minding their health and helping them live longer.

Said Rod Garwood, administrator of ESU One, to Doug: "At least 12,000 students within the next few years will benefit from the contribution. We could not have afforded these displays otherwise."

"He liked the young people an awful lot," mentioned Doug.

"BANK"
IT'S A TITLE
THAT MUST BE WON...
NOT BORROWED.

We consider "bank" more than a word. We value it as a title that has to be earned...just like we earned the right to call ourselves "banks" in the first place. It's earned by becoming an important part of the communities we serve.

That means insuring your money to $100,000 through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. It means providing every financial service you, your family, and your business need (and providing it with greater experience than anyone else).

It also means offering a large share of our resources to help the area we serve through loans of all kinds...to hometown businesses, to farmers and ranchers, and to families.

We could go on, but we think you see why we consider the name "bank" so special.

Savings and loans, "financial service centers," industrial loan and investment companies, and credit unions are not commercial banks. But you can't blame them for wanting to borrow the title.

Godfather's places ninth at state

Several area softball teams recently competed in state USSSA tournaments and different locations. As always the Wayne Herald will print up the results of the teams and how they did if score books are turned in.

Godfather's Pizza of Wayne recently took part in the USSSA Class D-Rec State Tournament in Columbus with a total of 63 teams competing.

Godfather's ended up placing ninth in the state while going 3-2 during the tournament. They started off play against Wise Buys Carpet out of Columbus and Godfather's came away with a 6-2 victory. They then defeated Dickerson Trucking out of Columbus, 7-2. Schmitt's Pine Bar was the next victim for Godfather's as they defeated the Elgin based team in a close contest, 14-13 in eight innings of play.

The following day Godfather's was ousted from the tournament after losing two straight. The first loss was against Bud Light out of Columbus by a 12-11 count in eight innings. The second loss was against Larkin's Body Shop out of Beatrice by a 6-3 count.

Godfather's finished the season with a 40-9 record. Team members attending state included: Aaron Schuett, Doug Carroll, Al Nissen, Jess Zeiss, Jeff Zeiss, Dean Carroll, Wes Lueth, Darin Blackburn, Mike Sherer, Dennis Carroll, Steve Sorensen, Ron Fink and Mike Portwood.

KTCH travels to Omaha
KTCH of Wayne traveled to Omaha recently and took part in the USSSA Class E State Tournament and the locals came away with a 2-2 record and did not place. KTCH won its opening two games but dropped the next two.

Due to rain in Omaha all first round games on Saturday were Texas-League games where every batter faces a 3-2 count when he comes to the plate. KTCH downed Glur's Gladiators out of Columbus by a 17-2 count in the opening game.

Joe Ortmier and Barry Dahlkoetter each enjoyed 3-3 performances while Randy Holdorf, Mike Grosz, and Duane Smith were all 2-2. Mark Tegels, Pat Pavelka, Andy Karavas, Mike Nissen, and Tracy Anderson all notched one hit.

In the second game KTCH defeated Ron & Jerry's Plumbing of York, 8-7. KTCH trailed by a 6-1 count heading into the bottom of the sixth inning when they notched two runs to close the gap to 6-3. The York based team then added another run in the top half of the seventh inning before KTCH rallied for five runs in the bottom half of the final inning to win the contest.

Andy Karavas hit a 2-run single with one out in the inning which pushed the winning run across the plate. Barry Dahlkoetter and Andy Karavas each recorded three hits in the contest while Randy Holdorf, Mike Nissen and Pat Pavelka nailed two hits each.

The following day KTCH found themselves committing more errors than they would have liked to see as they lost to Shelby Merchants, 16-5 and the Bat Boys out of Grand Island, 5-4.

Against Shelby Merchants, KTCH committed five errors and gave up eight runs in the first two innings of play. Mike Nissen and Tracy Anderson managed three hits apiece for KTCH while Joe Ortmier laced two.

Against Bat Boys of Grand Island KTCH committed four errors and allowed the opponent to score five runs in the first two innings and then rally only to lose 5-4.

Team members included: Mike Grosz-coach, Duane Smith, Mike Nissen, Barry Dahlkoetter, Rob Gamble, Joe Ortmier, Randy Holdorf, Tracy Anderson, Mark Tegels, Andy Karavas and Pat Pavelka.

Joint NRD Groundwater Study Receives State Grant

The Brazile Triangle Water Quality Study area proposed for consideration by four Natural Resources Districts will receive a grant of $9,000 to study the status of groundwater quality in a three county area of Northeast Nebraska. This study is unique in that it involves the joint cooperation of the Upper Elkhorn, Lower Elkhorn, Lower Niobrara and Lewis and Clark NRD's and includes land in Pierce, Antelope and Knox counties. The study area was given the name "Bazile Triangle" because it shows up as a triangle on the state map with the Bazile Creek drainage in the center including the rural area surrounding Osmond, Creighton and Orchard, Nebraska. Nitrate concentrations exceeding the 10 ppm standard concentration have been noted in some of the communities involved, as well as in domestic farm wells. Tom Moser, Manager at Lewis and Clark NRD, states that, "all four Districts presently have a monitoring program on water quality but none are as extensive as we'd like, to get a full picture on the concerns regarding nitrate and other possible contaminants."

Dave Gosselin, a research hydrogeologist with the UNL Conservation and Survey Division, is the project coordinator and will use the Creighton SCS building as a base. He commented that the Bazile Triangle study area is relatively complex including parts of three underground water areas and a variety of soil types including sandy soil associations. "The areas with sandy soil associations along with a fairly high concentration of irrigation well development may be expected to have a higher probability of groundwater quality problems relative to areas without these factors," he stated.

This study will involve the sampling of 125 well sites (mostly irrigation) during July and August to assess the location and extent of nitrate contamination. The information obtained will provide base line data on water quality so that the districts and the public can be better informed as to the nature and extent of groundwater contamination. A committee of NRD directors will guide the project, NRD staff will take the samples and both will work with the coordinator in assembling a report.

For more information or questions on this project please contact your local NRD office.

LENRD Board Discusses 1990 Budget at Monthly Meeting

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District monthly board of directors meeting was called to order on July 27 by board chairman Wendell Newcomb at the LENRD office in Norfolk.

The staff updated the board members on current projects. Manager Stan Staab told the board that there would be a meeting of the Clean Lakes Program Study Advisory Board and the Lower Elkhorn NRD board of directors in late August to discuss the proposals received from research professionals interested in conducting the study at Willow Creek Reservoir and Maskenthine Lake.

Assistant Manager, Ken Berney reminded the board members that the last Conservation Reserve Program sign-up deadline is August 4, 1989 and informed them that a moratorium may be placed on future CRP contracts.

Dick Seymour, Assistant Manager, said that four test holes had been drilled for the Logan East Rural Water System Improvement Project north of Oakland.

Bill Bish, Mark Walkenhorst and Tim Gragert from the West Point Soil Conservation Service Office gave a presentation on no-till field demonstrations that they sponsored this year.

The board adopted an amount of $10,000 in the proposed fiscal year 1990 budget for auditing land-owners and contractors for potential fraud in the Conservation Cost-Share Program.

The board approved a recommendation to advertise the public hearing for the fiscal year 1990 budget which will be held on August 17, 1989 at 7:30 pm at the LENRD office in Norfolk. Property taxes of $925,211.00 are proposed for the 1990 budget. The 1989 property tax budget was $1,035,390.00. The largest item in the proposed budget is $550,000.00 for land treatment. The 1989 budget amount was $490,000.00.

The resignation of Director-at-Large, Terry Jessen, was accepted by the board. The position will be advertised. Potential candidates are to apply by August 10, 1989.

The next LENRD meeting will be held on August 17, 1989 at 8pm at the District office in Norfolk.

The public hearing for the fiscal year 1990 LENRD budget will be on August 17, 1989 at 7:30 pm at the LENRD office at 700 West Benjamin in Norfolk.
