Foreign exchange students consider school pace as busy

By Chuck Hackenmiller

The hectic fast-paced lifestyles of Americans carries into the public school systems as well, according to two Wayne-Carroll Public School foreign exchange students.

Attending Wayne-Carroll during the 1989-90 school year are 17-year-old José Luis Castro Lopez of Spain and 18-year-old Anna Pellé of France.

of France.
José's father is an engineer and his mother works with computers while also being a housewife in Madrid, Spain. His American family is George and Jennifer Phelps of Wayne. Anna's mother works at a school of engineering in Rennes, France and her host American family is Bob and Penny Bell of Wayne.

Wayne:
It's been nearly 2 1/2 months since the foreign exchange students have been enrolled in the Wayne school. Both have found the school system's pace as busy.

JOSE SAID that at his school in Madrid, a city of millions, there are breaks between studies and classes lasting from 50 minutes to a two hour limit at lunch time. These hour limit at lunch time. These breaks can be spent outside of the school. Anna, who has already graduated from her high school in France, also said that her country's classes, if starting at 8 a.m. would finish at noon and then there would be a two hour break. After that break, classes would resume till four or five p.m.

Both commented that leaving

Both commented that leaving one class at Wayne-Carroll, going to their lockers and being at the next class in five minutes time or less is something that required an adjustment when they arrived for their first day of American classes.

José said his favorite subject at ayne-Carroll is Calculus. Among s favorite school subjects he listed in his own country were Math, Physics, Chemistry, English and Literature. Anna said she en-joys drawing and painting at the high school. Her favorite subjects in France were Languages, French and History.

Anna has not set any career plans at this time. José said he would be interested in pursuing a career in engineering or eco-

AS A PERSON who enjoys competition, José was a second-string kicker for the Wayne-Carroll Blue Devils and did see some var-sity action. He enjoys playing soc-cer, tennis and pool or foosball. He said he enjoyed the football competition. Soccer, however, can be even more competitive in his country of Spain. He also plans to play high school basketball.

Anna said she too, enjoys playing pool and enjoys jazz dancing. She hopes to participate and become involved in some of the Wayne State College cultural ac-

Coming from a heavily populated city like Madrid, José finds the much smaller Wayne community very "activity oriented."

"If you are involved in sports or other activities, it is better to adjust here," he said. Both find there are more things for teens to do in their home cities.

They also have noticed how students in America are restricted the students are often told in a variety of ways about the hazards of drug use.

Clothing in Madrid is compara-Clothing in Madrid is comparable in price to what one would pay for clothes in New York or other major cities. He said paying for Levi jeans in Madrid would cost around $90 to $100. Music is cheaper in the United States than in the foreign countries, said Anna, referring the records, lange, or equipment. to records, tapes or equipment that plays the music.

In some instances, José said Americans eat too much ham-burgers and hot dogs and not enough of the wholesome foods or meats. And fruits and breads should be more in the American's diet according to Anna.

THE UNITED State's vastness, and distances that must be covered in reaching destinations, is something that both josé and Anna find hard to comprehend. "In France or Spain, going in a car five to six hours to some place is a very long time," said Anna.

Borders of European countries can be reached within two to three hours or less, they said. "Flying is the way to go if you want to travel in the United States," said

If they were to come back and begin careers in the United States, José said he would prefer living in the big cities in the eastern states or in California. Anna said she would like to come back and stay in New York or Chicago. 'There, just when you walk from one street to another, you can see two dif-ferent worlds," she said.

Keys to learning styles of children

Report cards and parent-teacher conferences will soon be a concern of many families. If your child could benefit from improved study skills, what should you do?

Should you insist that children study at their desk with a bright light on the work and the radio off?

No, insists Rita Dunn, PhD, professor in the division of administrative and instructional leadership and director of the Center for Study of Learning and Teaching Styles at St. John's University in New York City.

Not only are there different intelligences, but there are different "styles" of processing knowledge, according to Dunn. Some people, she says, learn "analytically" — one fact built upon another — while others learn "globally." They need to see the whole concept before they can deal with the details.

THESE TWO TYPES need to be taught in opposite ways, and to study differently. Analytics tend to relate best to words and numbers. When they study, they tend to prefer bright light, quiet and formal settings: a desk, a chair, a lamp. Once they begin a project they want to stay with it until they're finished, or at least until it makes sense for them to stop. They don't like distractions:

Globals, on the other hand, said Dunn, "learn best with what most of us would call "distractors." These children liked to have some music on; they don't mind the sound of other people talking. They think better with solt rather than with bright lights. They work better in an informal setting perhaps sprawled on a bed or the floor — they often eat or drink while they study. They need a lot of breaks --- and they like to work on a num-or of things simultaneously.

Globals, she says, relate best to graphics and illustrations

"MANY GLOBAL-TYPES are the most gifted of all," said Dunn, "but some become underachievers because their learning styles are not ac-

Don't rely on words. Unfortunately, we talk to children too much, said Dunn. "Most children are not auditory," she explains. "Only 30 percent of third to 12th graders can remember 75 percent of what they hear."

The tactual and kinesthetic strengths develop first, Dunn explains. "Then the visual and then the auditory." Shift your approach. You can reach any child if you understand her learning style. If she isn't auditory, leave a note, draw a picture, or, if she's kinesthetic, show her by doing the task with her the first time," advised Dunn.

Work with your child's teacher to determine the best study environment for that child. Then encourage your students to do their best work by showing interest in assignments.

A kind word of encouragement can motivate many students to develop study skills.

Bears ousted from play-offs

Andolph Wednesday night for first round state football play-off action. For the Cardinals it was nothing new to advance to the state play-offs but for the Bears it was the first time in school history they had made it to nost season they had made it to post season play.

The game opened up with Laurel kicking off and Randolph began driving until they were stopped on downs. Laurel however, could not move the ball and was forced to punt and Randolph started out with excellent field position. They drove the ball inside the 10 yard line of the Bears only to be stopped on downs again as Tom Luxford's defense was proven stingy.

After the first quarter the score was knotted at zero's but the ball control was in Randolph's favor. Late in the second quarter Randolph plunged over from eight yards out as quarterback. Brad Berner scored the first of his three touchdowns on the night.

The first time Laurel touched the ball in the second half was on the kick off following the second Randolph touchdown and the Bears suffered a fumble which allowed the Cardinals to set up shop in excellent field position. They scored within 1/2 dozen plays on a two yard run by Brent Berner. Brad Berner connected on the extra point and Randolph maintained a Berner connected on the extra point and Randolph maintained a 21-0 lead with still over a minute remaining in the third quarter.

Laurel failed to generate any kind of offense on the night as Randolph's defense proved to be impenetrable until late in the game when Chad VanCleave dove over from one yard out on a fourth down call to out the Bears on the down call to put the Bears on the score board.

Randolph scored its final touch-down in the contest on a four yard run by Clint Alderson following a Todd Erwin interception.

—The—Cardinals—racked up 225 rushing yards on the night led by full back Brent Berner with 70 yards on 15 carries. Troy Twohig was Laurel's top carrier with just 31 yards: Brian Penne was on the receiving end of three Erwin passes for 42 yards. for 42 yards.

Defensively John Schutte roared the loudest of all Bears as he continually put heat on the Randolph quarterback. "I knew coming into the game that Randolph had a good defense but they have improved since we played them earlier in the season," Laurel coach Tom Luxford said.

The first meeting between the

The first meeting between the two teams was back on opening night in Laurel when the Cardinals handed Luxford's Bears a 27-13 handed Luxford's Bears a 27-13 set back. The key to the Randolph-Laurel clash in the state play-offs was the 6 1/2 minute span between the end of the third quarter and the first few minutes of the fourth quarter when Randolph scored 28 points.

"We needed something good to happen if we were going to

"We needed something good to happen if we were going to have a chance at defeating them," Luxford said, "and it didn't. Our specialty teams made a couple of mistakes and we were basically forced out of our game plan."

Luxford however, took nothing away from Randolph. "They have a nice team," Luxford said. "I am proud of our kids though. They played hard and we have nothing to be ashamed of with the game and the season." The Bears finish the year with a 6-4 mark.

Conferences
Parent-Teacher Conferences are about to take place in the Wayne Schools. Conferences are just one of the steps we are taking to work with parents to build their child's educational program. They serve as an opportunity to get to know teachers, learn about the school and curriculum, and to discuss strengths and weaknesses in various

Parents can prepare for the conferences by making a list of things that will help the teachers understand your child better. For example: any special health needs example: any special nealth needs or problems, outside interests and hobbies, feelings about school relationships with brothers and sisters, etc. In addition make a list of things to find out from the teacher. For example: discipline policies, grading policy, daily schedule, grading policy, daily schedule, homework policy, health and safety programs, etc. Within the conference teachers will tell parents test results and what they mean, what subjects are being taken and how he/she is doing, strengths and weaknesses in school and any observations that can be helpful. The teachers may also have some suggestions or ideas to be used at home to help at school.

When the conference is over parents will have a better understanding of all aspects of the child's school experience. They will know more about strengths and weaknesses, special abilities, current performance and should have a plan to help children do the best from then on. This could mean new rules on watching television, special time to do homework contact with time to do homework, contact with other agencies if necessary or any other changes agreed upon by teachers and parents. Maybe even a special reward for a job well

Everyone benefits from a Parents-ent-Teacher Conference! Parents

learn new things about their children and get some ideas on how they can help their children do better in school, teachers understand each child better and do a better job of meeting each one's educational needs, and most importantly the child receives a better and more personalized educa-

CONCORD-Fifteen Nebraskans will attend the 1989 North Central Regional 4-H Leaders Forum, 'Yes, We Can!' at Des Moines, lowa Nov. 9-12. Among those from the area attending the forum will be Vickie Genoff, extension 4-H specialist from Concord. University of Nebraska-Lincoln 4-H Department officials said regional forums held annually in the United States are designed around the train-the-trainer concept. Delegates learn skills and knowledge which they share with other 4-H leaders at home.

Forum delegates will participate in training sessions to enhance their effectiveness as leaders. Training sessions include building a positive self-concept, dealing with change and learning by doing.

Chimney fires, along with blazes started by wood stoves, fireplaces, started by wood stoves, lireplaces, furnaces and portable heaters last year damaged more than 250 homes in Nebraska.

Barnett says chimney fires most often start when a build-up of creosote ignites from the heat of a fire. The flames can then spread to the house by pushing their way through cracks in the chimney mortar or causing a metal chimney

The best way to prevent such a fire is an annual cleaning to clear out residue and an inspection to reaffirm the chimney is in good

Barnett notes the cost of cleaning a chimney and checking for problems is small when com-pared to what it could cost to re-place a home and belongings, not to mention the danger involved to your family.

PEGGY WRIGHT COMPTROLLER

Keeping the Wayne Herald and Marketer financially in line is Peggy Wright, comptroller of the newspaper. Her basic responsibilities include correspondence, working with accounts payable and past due collections, ordering of the newsprint, list management, working with the accountant, handling insurances and being active in all aspects of financial management. Peggy has worked at other companies in the same position, as well as payroll at Killdeer Herald for 7 1/2 years and the Hillsboro Banner (bookkeeper) for 3 years. She and her husband Gary came to Wayne Herald and Marketer in July, 1987. Gary is the publisher of The Wayne Herald Marketer and president of Nebraska Printers and Publishers Company. She said the family came to the area because of growth potential in the business; friendly people; a wonderful community to raise a family; and the community had a friendly attitude. "My job is interesting because of variety. There is never a dull moment. I find it interesting working with the public as well as dealing with other businesses, I en-joy doing a job to the best of my ability," Peggy said.
