Former Wayne man questioned by '60 Minutes' news crew on Cutshall case

A former Wayne resident was one of several area individuals that appeared in a "60 Minutes" television segment Sunday night that detailed the 1987, disappearance of nine year old Jill-Cutshall of Norfolk.

David Phelps was identified by the '60 Minutes' news crew as one-of-the-two-alleged suspects in the case. The other individual identified by CBS was Kermit Baumgartner. Morley Safer, '60 Minutes' newsman, interviewed Phelps at a motel in California and asked him questions about the Cutshall case. It was mentioned in the '60 Minutes' transcript that both for a brief time Phelps and Baumgartner, when they resided in Baumgartner, when they resided in Norfolk, shared an apartment above the Cutshall family apartment.

Also interviewed by Safer was Baumgartner (also in California at the time).
Phelps attended Wayne Public Schools from 1970 until he dropped out during the 1979-80 school year, according to a Wayne school official.

NO CHARGES against either Phelps or Baumgartner have been filed by the Norfolk Police Department concerning the Cutshall case.

Among others appearing in the news segment were Roy Stephens of Omaha, a private investigator hired by Jill's mother; David's sister Gail Petersen of Norfolk; David Domina of Norfolk, Phelp's attorney; and Norfolk Police Chief attorney; and Norfolk Police Chief Bill Mizner.

Phelps, according to the 60 Minute program to the 80 Kephens in January, 1989 at the Stephens in January, 1989 at the site where Jill's clothing was found (at Wood Duck). Stephens told Safer that Phelps confessed he and another individual were involved in Jill's disappearance. Phelps annual Holiday Home Lighting Contest for the Wayne area. Contestants need to enter the lighting contest by contacting the Chamber office at 375-2240. The name and address is needed to enter the home in the contest and entry deadline is Monday, Dec. 11.

"There are many beautifully decorated homes in the Wayne area that need to enter the contest," said Linda Smith, executive vice president of

"Many people visiting Wayne-have commented that the homes and the community street lighting have made this the most beautiful holiday community they have seen," Smith said.

Smith said people come to the community to do their shopping and then tour the decorated homes. "With all of the work put into decorating, everyone should be able to share in the beauty of these homes," she mentioned.

Immediately after the Dec. 11 deadline, the names and addresses will be publicized in the media so that people can be made aware of the homes that are decorated in the Wayne area and have entered the holi-rizes will be distributed to the top three holiday lighted homes in the contest. The winners are decided by three different groups of people each year.

The prizes this year consist of Chamber Cift Certificates worth $50 for first place; $30 for second place; and $20 for third place.

In addition, Wayne Municipal Utilities — through a special promotional program offered by Nebraska Public Power District, will give a $5 credit to any customer of Wayne Municipal Utilities that enters the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce Holiday Home Lighting Contest.

This credit will be applied to their January electric bill. All names must be verified by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

LuAnn Larson bride of Robert Wilkins in Wakefield rites

The marriage of LuAnn Larson of Omaha and Robert (Chip) Wilkins of Spartanburg, S. C. was solemnized during a double ring ceremony on Nov. 18 in the home of the bride's mother, Iris Larson of Wakefield. Wakefield.

Officiating at the evening service was the Rev. Jim Hardy of Flo-rence Christian Church in Omaha. The house was decorated in the bride's chosen colors of burgundy and dusty rose and included deco rated candelabras accenting the bay window area. Lighting candles were Cathi Larson and Jessica

THE BRIDE descended down the open stairway and was then escorted by her brother, Ron Larson. She was given in marriage by her family.

On her wedding day, the bride wore a street-length dress made by her sister, Cyndee Larson of Tulsa, Okla.

The dress was designed with a white velvet bodice, long sleeves and deep V back neckline. The skirt featured two wide ruffles cut on the bias with a large accent bow at the side. She wore a brimmed hat designed with silk flowers, seed pearls and a fingertip veil attached to a large pouf.

Her Bridal bouquet featured burgundy roses, dusty rose stephanotis and white forget-menots with trailing ivy.

The bridegroom was attired in a black tuxedo style suit with a burgundy tie and cummerbund.

MUSIC FOR the ceremony was presented by Mrs. Jim Hardy, with LeRoy Ludwig at the piano.

Following communion, lighting of the unity candle and pro-nouncement of marriage, the bridegroom presented his motherin-law with a red rose.

THE 35 GUESTS attending the wedding and reception were from Tulsa, Okla., Yuma, Ariz., Council Bluffs, Iowa, Omaha and Wakefield.

The newlyweds took a trip to Cancun and will be at home at 203 Wellesley Dr., Spartanburg, S. C., 29302.

The Library Card

This column will be written two times monthly to inform the Wayne area as to what types of read-ing material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

How do you spend your long, winter evenings? Do you dream of last year's summer vacation? Start thinking about next summer's vacation? A truly great vacation needs careful planning. Decisions have to be made. Now is the time to do your planning.

The library has several excellent guides, compiled by the Smithsonian Institution. These guides are regional and include several states in each book.

The Smithsonian Guide to Historical America: Southern New England" has descriptions and histories of Massachusetts, Con-necticut and Rhode Island. Towns and cities are listed with battle-fields, harbors, famous homes and churches and interesting historical items about each listing. Attractive color photographs add to the written discription.

"The Smithsonian Guide to Historic America: The Mid-Atlantic States" contains information about New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. In the section on New York City, points of interest are arranged according to boroughs. Philadelphia is also well do-cumented. A lot of early American history took place between those two cities; probably more historical places of interest than one vacation could hold.

Other interesting guides include "The Smithosian Guide to Hisoric American guides include the Amirosian Guide to His-toric America: Virginia and the Capital Region' and The Smithso-nian Guide to Historical America: The Deep South."

If it's Disney World and Epcot Center you're dreaming of, try "Walt Disney World and Epcot Center" or "The Unofficial Guide to Walt Disney World and Epcot Center". The first is full of pictures with little information. The second book answers all sorts of questions and advises you on the peak tourist use of the park, the best days to attend, where to stay, where to eat and how to get there. What more could you ask?

Happy dreams and happy vacations start at your public library.

Some pretty scenery AREA HIGH SCHOOL artists had their work on display throughout the Fine Arts Building this past Saturday and Sunday. Individuals were able to get a glimpse at the competition entries and a reception to mark the close of the show took place on Sunday, Dec. 3 in the upper foyer of the fine arts facility.

Future taken away

Our children are our future. Thanks to the Hoskins School Board their future was taken away from them.

One of our rights is freedom of choice. Our children don't have that choice anymore. What are they going to take away next?

It not only affected our children but everyone that lives in Hoskins.

Because of three people our whole town is being dictated to on what we have to do, not what we would like to do. In their letter in the Daily News on Nov. 21, Mr. Wittler said that 80 percent of district residents who responded were in favor of the merger, but how many of these residents didn't get a letr? We never did. Mr. Strate said he was disappointed more people didn't get involved—in-the-matter. How can you get involved if you don't know what's going on? He said he didn't know what more they could have done to get more to the meet-ings? How about telling the truth about what they were trying to do

Mr. Puls said Norfolk is the "only reasonable choice" because many Hoskins parents work there. I work with a lot of people who drive 50 60 miles or more to work in Norfolk. Does this mean their children should go to Norfolk also? Like Mrs. Bussey stated "We would like plan to let the people have a

Could it be that dollar signs are clouding the decision instead of what is best for our children? Does being associated with a top class school like Norfolk mean our children have to give up their freedom of choice? Why weren't we as tax-payers in the Hostier District asked if we wanted to close our school?

If the Hoskins School Board members have so much dislike for Wayne County in not wanting to stay in Wayne County, why don't they move out of our County and Wayne County alone?

A concerned parent,
Pah Austin leave us that want to stay in Wayne County alone?

ONE OF the major home crowd favorites for the Blue Devils is Matt Bruggeman. The heavyweight needed just 1:25 to pin West Point's Shawn Holtz. Bruggeman also kept his undefeated record in tact with the victory.

WSC loses on final shot

There is an old adage that states: "If you live by the sword, you'll die by the sword." The Wayne State Wildcats were defeated by the University of South Dakota Tuesday night on a last second shot by Tim Hatchett.

Allen girls lose

First year head coach Lori Koester is finding things a little rough for her and her Allen Eagle girls basketball squad. But Koester can find easiness in the fact that her squad is very young, perhaps even the youngest of squads around Northeast Nebraska.

Still the Eagles must play the schedule and Tuesday night's game with Ponca in Allen was marred by 70 turnovers between two squads. Allen was defeated 45-31 in the contest.

WSC wins both weekend games

Things went well for the Wayne State Wildcat basketball team this weekend as they defeated a stubborn Missouri Western team, 88-86 on Friday night and they downed Benedictine College, 86-75 on Sunday—afternoon—Both games were in the friendly confines of Rice Auditorium and as a result, pushed the Wildcat record past the .500 mark at 4-3.

In Friday night's contest Wayne State head coach Steve Aggers found his squad tied with Missouri Western at 86's with 13 seconds left. It was then that he recalled last year's contest with the same Missouri Western squad. In that outing the score was also tied with very little 'time remaining and Ag-gers called for the play "Victory."

In that play Steve Dunbar took the shot but missed it, and luckily Marques Wilson got the offensive rebound and put the shot in for the win, 77-76. The situation was similar this year so Aggers again called for "Victory" and for Dunbar to take the last shot. In this situation it was Steve Dunbar who hit the shot and again it brought

"Victory."
"That was a big win for our pro-gram," Aggers said. "We're still in a learning process right now but we're getting better. We've im-proved à lot since those first few The game was close throughout with Wayne State maintaining a 42-39 lead at intermission. "The game was close all the way," Aggers sald. "They (Missouri Western) was undoubtedly the quickest team we've faced. They played hard and intense but we did to."

For the first time in several games, Steve Dunbar returned to the starting line up for Aggers.

the starting line up for Aggers. "Just having Steve in the game made a difference," Aggers said. "His leadership from his presence helped a great deal and he played great defense even though his shoulder was still bothering him." Aggers felt his team showed a great deal of character bouncing back to beat a good team like Missouri Western after getting drilled by 33 points by Northwest Missouri State just a few days before.

"We are just playing very incon-sistently right now," Aggers said. "That's typical though of a young, inexperienced team." Overall Wayne State responded to every thing Missouri Western tried. "We grew up a-lot in this game in the way of competitiveness," Aggers said. "It's just a big win against a good team."

Doug Kuszak once again led the Wildcats in scoring with 17 points. The sophomore connected on two point victory.

In a rare Sunday afternoon contest, the Wayne State Cagers hosted Benedictine College out of Kansas. The Wildcats came out on top of an 86-75 decision.

"We just plain upped our defensive intensity a notch," Aggers said.

"Benedictine shot well but our defensive pressure eventually forced some turnovers for us." Kuszak led the Wildcats with 21 points including two buckets from bonus range. Melvin Nunn and Mike Rombout were also in double figures with 1.5 and 12 points re-spectively. Steve Dunbar finished with nine points while Eric Priebe netted eight and Tony Hill, seven. Matt Kelly, John Schott and Byron Young rounded out the attack with six, five and three points respectively.

Melvin Nunn was Wayne State's biggest threat on the boards with 10 rebounds while Doug Kuszak and John Schott each hauled down eight. Eric Priebe finished with seven rebounds and guard Steve Dunbar had six. Wayne State held a decisive 48-34 edge in the rebounding stats.

The Wildcats had just 11 turnovers in the contest while Benedictine had just 12. Eric Priebe and Steve Dunbar each dished out three assists.

Winside grapplers finish 2nd

Paul Sok's Winside wrestling team took part in their first action Saturday at the Creighton Invita-tional and the Wildcats represented Winside real well, coming away from a predominantly Class C oriented invitational with a runner-up finish to Pender. Winside fell just 4 1/2 points shy of winning the meet with 139 points.

Creighton finished third with 109 points while Neligh-Oakdale finished fourth with 101. Clarks/Fullerton managed a fifth place finish with 86 points: The rest of the field in the order of finish was Norfolk JVs, Norfolk Catholic, Plainview, Cleanwater and Osponia Plainview, Clearwater and Osmond.

The Wildcats had four representatives in the finals and three came away with championships led by defending Class D state champion Max Kant at 135 lbs. Kant spent very little time on the mat, easily disposing of his competition and pinning Jesse Peterson of the Norfolk JV's in 76 terson of the Norfolk JV's in 76 seconds.

Doug Heinemann, wrestling at 125 lbs., waltzed away with a championship as he decisioned Eric Beckmann of Pender, 10-3:. In the heavyweight division Brian Thompson took charge, coming home with a championship with a 3-2 decision over Allan Schoenauer of Osmond.

Chad Carlson at 112 lbs., finished in the runner-up slot as he was decisioned 9-6 by Class B Neligh Oakdale's Matt Held. "The score in that final match was 7-6 until the final few seconds when Held got a take down," Sok said. "That was one of the most exciting matches I've seen as both guys really went at it for all six minutes."

For the most part Sok was pleased with his squad's season opening performance. "We had eight guys get medals and that's pretty good for our first competition of the year," Sok said. "We're a little rough on the bottom position right now but as far as conditioning I would say we are as far along if not further than any team at the invite Saturday." For the most part Sok was at the invite Saturday

Wayne State had 17 turnovers compared to 22 for UNO.

On Saturday night the Wildcats hosted North Dakota State University where women's basketball is a prime time sport. "In the last four years NDSU has been rated at the end of the season in the top five in the country in Division II," Barry said. "They just have a great program."

The Wildcats lost to NDSU by an The Wildcats lost to NDSU by an S5-69 count but Wayne State never gave up. The Wildcats trailed by just five at intermission, 37-32. With 11 minutes to go in the game the Wildcats still trailed by just five points but the visitors went on a run then and Wayne State could never regain its momentum, thus falling to 1-4 on the season.

Mary Holmes was the Wildcat who caught most of the attention as she netted 25 points. They (NDSU) couldn't stop her in the open court," Barry said. "Lisa Schwab and Lori Rath also were in double figures with 14 and 13 points each."

"We just seemed to run out of steam in the last 10 minutes," Barry said. "Playing back to back games this early in the season was taking its toll." Barry was also forced to use less girls because of the injuries; sustained to his squad.

Sara Dederman scored five points for Wayne State to go along with the three in double figures while Kae Burke netted four. The leading rebounder for Wayne State was Kae Burke with eight. Lori Rath and Mary Holmes each had six. Wayne State was out rebounded 47-38. The Wildcats suffered 25 turnovers while NDSU had 23.

Allen Eagles off to fast start, 2-0

The Allen boys basketball team The Allen boys basketball team is just two games into their 1989-90 schedule and already they have equalled the number of wins attained a year ago. Gary Tröth's Eagles became giant killers last Friday when they defeated Coleridge in Coleridge by a 68-62 margin to give Allen a 2-0 start on the season. The Fagles defeated Winside son. The Eagles defeated Winside by 36 on Thursday night.

Medicare act repealed

In the final hours of the first session of the 101st Congress, the Senate caved in to the wishes of the House and agreed to repeal the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act. Throughout the last days of the session, the House of Representatives with four separate votes overwhelmoly insisted on reneal overwhelmingly insisted on repeal of the measure, in spite of efforts by the Senate to retain significant portions of the legislation by raising premiums.

I have cosponsored repeal legislation since early this year. A great many senior citizens have made it clear that they do not want this program as it was enacted by the 100th Congress. This is the time to repeal it, go back to the drawing boards to see what senior citizens really want, and then determine how it can be financed.

THE AMENDMENT that was fixed. premiums.

determine how it can be financed.
THE AMENDMENT that was finally agreed to repeals the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act, which was to be fully implemented in January of 1990, and instead returns to Medicare benefits levels to those available prior to January 1, 1989. It repeals the financing for medicare catastrophic. The catasmedicare catastrophic. The catastrophic surtax is cancelled as of January 1, 1989, and any funds already collected from the surtax will be returned.

The four dollar increase in the Medicare Part B flat monthly premium is cancelled as of January 1, 1990. Those funds collected in 1989 will be used to offset the hospital trust fund for the catastrophic benefits paid in 1989.

The amendment does not repeal three Medicaid provisions: (1) the protection of the spouses of the protection of the spouses of elderly in nursing homes from spending down into poverty-spousal impoverishment protection; (2) expansions of Medicaid coverage for mothers and young children; and, (3) a required buy-in by Medicaid for the poor elderly's medicare cost sharing.

House Passes Agriculture Mea-

In Closing Hours Of Session
The House also gave final approval to several agriculture-related measures. The International Development and Finance Act in-cludes an agricultural economic impact amendment that I added during Banking Committee consideration of the bill. The provision requires the U.S. Treasury Department to take into account the economic impact of its Third World debt reduction policies on American farmers.

Third World, debt policies are critical to American agriculture. America's farmers have suffered enormous losses in export markets because Latin American nations have increased their agricultural export production in order to meet export production in order to meet debt needs. The expansion of capital intensive agricultural production of export products al-ready in global surplus is a highly questionable strategy. It has al-ready affected producers of the same crops in this nation.

THE HOUSE also approved, as part of a provision limiting the Right of First Refusal to buy foreclosed farm property, a measure I introduced that should prevent the use of the Right of First Refusal to gain immediate profit on the sale gain immediate profit on the sale of the property. Individuals who use a preference or Right of First Refusal to purchase property from FmHA or FCS are prohibited from selling the property for two years after its purchase, with certain exceptions.

Final approval was given to a bill that makes technical corrections in that makes technical corrections in agricultural programs. One provision in that bill gives the Secretary of Agriculture additional discretion to reduce acreage set-aside requirements for oats to zero. Another earmarks $27 million in Export Enhancement Program dollars to assure the purchase of fresh U.S. beef for Armed Service personnel in West Germany and the United Kingdom.

Living mulch issue analyzed

A living mulch system in a soy-bean-corn rotation could help re-duce soil erosion, control weeds and add small amounts of nitrogen to the soil, according to University of Nebraska Agronomist Russell Moomaw of Wayne.

A living mulch consists of suitable cover crops which remain alive for one or more years while row crops are grown, Moomaw said. Cover crops sometimes are planted to ease erosion in the rolling hills of eastern Nebraska and erosion-prone areas across the Midwest. MOOMAW IS exploring how to establish a cover crop in soybeans to provide winter soil cover and how to maintain that mulch through the no-till corn production in the second year. Moomaw is a crops and weed specialist at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources' Northeast Research and Resources' Northeast Research and Extension Center near Concord.

Two major obstacles must be overcome for a successful living mulch system, Moomaw reported

التحقيق تنفي أنه عبب

ence Society meeting in Lexington, Kentucky.

The first obstacle is determining the best time to plant cover crops in soybeans, he said. Planting cover crops when soybeans are planted or after layby cultivation at pre-bloom stage have been studied in Nebraska. when soybeans are planted Soybean yields are likely to drop 10 percent or more in a rain-fed system when the cover crop and soybeans are planted at the same time because they compete for soil moisture, Moomaw said.

WAITING UNTIL late lune to plant cover crops also is risky, he said. Rainfall is less likely and lack of sunlight under the soybean canopy hinders cover crop survival. The growth regulator Cerone has been used successfully to slightly alter soybean plant shape, allowing more light to penetrate the canopy. However, Cerone may reduce yields in some soybean varieties. rieties and is another input cost. Supplemental irrigation may be necessary to make cover crop es-tablishment less risky, Moomaw said.

If cover crops are successfully established in soybeans, the second major obstacle is regulating their growth to minimize yield reduction in second-year no-till corn yields, Moomaw said.

Corn yield reductions have ranged from none to 40 percent with a living mulch, depending on rainfall, he said. No-till corn yield in rainiai, he said. No-tiii con yield in 1989 was reduced 15 percent in a creeping red fescue mulch compared with no underseeded mulch. Corn yields weren't affected in a less dense chewing fescue plus red fescue mulch, he said. Nine inches of supplemental water was applied no-till corn.

Many other components to a living mulch system must be studied before farmers could consider such a system, Moomaw said.

Witnesses plan circuit assembly in Columbus

Approximately 60 local residents will attend a two-day circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses on Dec. 9-10 in Columbus.

Art Degryse, a spokesman for the Wayne congregation, said 1,400 delegates are expected from the 20 congregations that comprise Nebraska Circuit #2.

The assembly theme is "Keep Watching How You Walk." Degryse said the entire program will focus attention on the scriptural requirements for Christian conduct and living.

Featured parts include the opening chairman's address on the subject, "The Urgency to Walk as Wise Persons." Also a talk on dedication and baptism will afford new members the opportunity to symbolize their dedication to God by water immersion.

The concluding session of the semi-annual event will be high-lighted by a public Bible talk on the subject, "Light Bearers in a Dark World." The speaker, Dennis Bennett, is a district supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses in a six-state upper midwest area.

Heavenly decorations

Look beyond colorful Christmas lights and lift your head up high to gaze at the infinite number of stars sparkling brilliantly in the sky.

There is no earthly decoration that matches the twinkling star seen on a calm cloudless evening beyond the horizon — stretching far.

These heavenly decorations before you are what astrologers love so much. But in admiring the star-filled ceiling, you will find other things stars touch.

A peaceful feeling is ever-present within hearts captured by the sight of the vastness of the starry universe glowing down on the world at night.

So when at Christmas, you try to find the spirit of the holiday — seek the large string of stars above, decorated in God's special way.

Take the time to star gaze when the wintry night sky appears full. You'll have no regrets in doing so because it does wonders for the soul.

Redeemer dedicates new S. K. deFreese addition

Dedication of the new S. K. de-Freese building addition at Re-deemer Lutheran Church in Wayne took place during worship services on Sunday, Nov. 19.

The new 1,000 square foot addition was completed in October by Otte Construction Co. of Wayne and includes new offices for the pastor and church secretary, two classrooms and a new east entrance with a ramp for the handicapped.

In addition, the building project included remodeling 3,200 square feet of existing building housing the social room, three classrooms, men's and women's restrooms, a storage room and office for the Sunday school superintendent, along with an elevator shaft for an elevator to be installed in the future when monies are available.

A new heating and cooling system also was installed in the new and remodeled areas.

SERVING ON the building ex-pansion committee were John An-derson, Sue Olson, Dean Pierson, Phyllis Rahn, Kurt Otte, Aileen Sievers and Larry Test.

inspection committee included John Anderson, Dave Sievers and Merlin Sievers, and the decorating committee was comprised of Sue Anderson, Angle Ellis, Kim Dunklau, Shari Dunklau and Lu to the public for tours in the after-

To date, the actual costs of the building addition total approximately $149,000.

DEDICATION OF the new building addition and renovation culminated several years of plan-ning, beginning in 1984 when the property committee first discussed establishing a fund for future expansion.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held on Sunday, April 9 and construction began in May.
The new building addition was named in honor of the Rev. S. K. deFreese, who served Redeemer as pastor for 37 years, from 1942-1979.

Vitamin E: Protection Against Smoke?

Does taking nutritional supplements prevent damage to the body caused by cigarette smoke?

In the next few months you may see or hear a news report indicating that vitamin E may help persons exposed to cigarette smoke reduce their susceptibility to lung damage. At a recent conference on vitamin E sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences, one researcher reported that there were more "free radical reactions" in smokers who did not receive vitamin E supplements. Free radical reactions are theoretically involved in tissue damage. Smokers who hear this news may believe that they can continue to smoke cigarettes and will not suffer tobacco use consequences such as emphysema, cancer, and heart disease. Nothing could be further from the truth. There is no evidence that taking vitamin E will prevent these serious health problems in smokers or in nonsmokers who are exposed to smoke created by others. The recent change in the RDA for vitamin C in smokers (100 mg versus 60 mg in nonsmokers) may also mislead some persons into thinking that taking vitamin supplements will prevent known tobacco-related health million people.

However, most seniors when asked about their potential for a longer life span agreed that it's the quality of life that they feel is more important than the length. One of the negatives they see affecting that quality of life is the loss of family members — spouses, siblings—and frierids. Many speak of a fear of being left alone among strangers. ig strangers

While we all know that one day each of us will experience the loss of a loved one through death, it's interesting that this generation of older people expresses this feeling so much more openly than in the past. Perhapsit's because this generation is the first group of seniors who have relatively fewer family ties than their own parents and grandparents did. After all, this is the generation who pulled up roots after World War II and moved into new areas, established new communities, and related families to follow their example which they did moved into new areas, established new communities, and raised families to follow their example, which they did. The fact that there are so many more Mother's and Father's Day cards with sentiments about separation between parents and children indicates that families are more often scattered than they were in the past when families lived on the same block, or at least, in the same town. Perhaps one of the reasons the fear of being alone is so intense is that it carries with it, as well, the fear of being left helpless if illness strikes.

NOTES: There's new-concern that the supposedly-untouchable "reserves" that have accumulated in the Social Security system may be whittled down if the government faces a crisis point in the deficit any time in the next 10-15 years. Of course, Presidents Reagan and Bush don't help the nation to face reality when they extol the so-called "investments" foreign countries are making in the United States. The fact is, many of these investments actually increase the deficit since they tend to push up interest rates which, in turn, raises prices all around. Besides, if we can't re-establish our once strong industrial economy, we will be in deep doo-doo if those foreign investments are pulled. Things would be rough, to say the least, and those SS reserves would be a tempting patch to put on our bruised economy.

At NPPD, we do more than enerate electricity. We also illuminate business opportunities in our state for companies looking to expand or relocate.

Every year we publish industry opportunity studies showing Nebraska's bottom-line advantages for targeted industries. Our studies outline the benefits of Nebraska locations such as our highly productive labor force, low manufacturing costs, attractive tax incentives, and the fact that we have one of the lowest industrial electrical costs in the country.

We've prepared studies for the instruments, pumps and compressors automotive parts, meat and food processing, and plastics industries. New studies are being developed.

CHRISTMAS PROJECT

The Wakefield Lions Club annual The Wakefield Lions Glub annual Christmas project of providing toy, clothing and food for needy families is underway. Donations of used toys and clothing that will be sorted and distributed my be left to the City Clarks Office at next to the City Clerk's Office at 407 Main Street.

Cash donations will be used to buy each child one new toy. In or der to add a special touch to brighten each Christmas, the Lions have decided to add something new to each child's package.

The Lions are seeking primarily children's and young adult's clothing in good repair. Clothing, adults or children's, that is not distributed is passed on to other sources of need. Last year, 11 quilts made by the Salem Women of the ELC went to local families. That will be done again this year.

The names of needy families are received from various organizations and distributions are approved with the families. Names of those in the families. Names of those in need may be submitted to the Wakefield Lions Club.

The Wakefield Boy Scouts ear-lier in the fall conducted a food drive, which will be included in the Lions project.

In conjunction with the Christ-mas project, the Lions are collect-ing used eyeglasses and hearing aids. The glasses are either recy-cled according to metal content or fitted for people in underdevel-oped areas. The eyeglasses and hearing aids may be left with Berneal Gustafson, Lefty Olson, The City Clerk's Office or the Wakefield Republican. In conjunction-with-the-Christ-

Farmers interested in learning more about specific conservation practices can take a self-quided tour and talk to farmers who base implemented the changes in northern Cuming County.

The tour is part of the Logan-Creek Special Study, a five-year project to increase the adoption of conservation practices in an area of the Logan Creek watershed south and west of Pender. The tour is unique because it allows farmers to visit the sites at their convenience and discuss the practices "one-on-one" with the ferent conservation practice, have volunteered their fields for this program and have offered to answer questions about the practices they employ. They are Lloyd Schademann, Randy Moeller, John Hilker and Terry Roth.

Schademann installed farmable, parallel terraces as part of the Lo-gan Creek Special Study when 90 percent cost share was available. Moeller built his own narrowbase terraces using conventional farm equipment. Hilker took some of his highly erodible land out of produc-tion, entered the Conservation Reserve Program, and seeded no-till switchgrass to protect the land. Roth has been using no-till planting as an integral part of his farming operation since 1978s People wanting to take the tour can get specific information on the sites from a poster and brochure display at a number of area farm businesses in Pender, West Point, Beemer-Wisner and Bancroft. Beemer-Wisner and Bancroft.

The Farmer's Wife By Pat Melerhenry

There was a "little flurry" of snow that made driving hazardous on Monday. Other than that, it still doesn't seem like December to me. The Big Farmer and I have just come from an Advent soup and pie supper, so the season is upon us, ready or not.

Our church is observing its Cen-tennial next year, along with the village of Winside, Brunswick, Os-mond and Wausa. So there is a money-making event for one or the other almost every time we turn around. Which is okay, be-cause it just adds to the fun and Tonight, there were Christmas decorations on the tables, poinsettias on the stage and carols from all kinds of musicians. Harlan Brugger and Cyrii, Hansen did piano-organ duets. My favorite trio, the Jaeger brothers, sang several hymns. A whole bunch of kids played the piano. And six of us motherly types" tried some three-part close harmony. This allowed me to sing second soprano, which is my favorite. Turns out Mary lensen and I are fairly good at

Trouble is, there are so many things sitting in the spare room upstairs: books that have overflowed the bookcases, clothes the kids have discarded, clothes that need mending, magazines I was going to read and Easter baskets and posters the kids aren't guite going to read and easter baskets and posters the kids aren't quite ready to get rid of. The perennial walkers were there, getting in their laps. Folks were basically pretty cheerful. I think they come from miles around, judging by the license plates.

I gather from the conversation at work that the shoppers who live at work that the shoppers who live in Norfolk go to Omaha. People at the soup supper had been to Sioux—City_today_And_Mike_heard an adfor a $59 overnight flight from Lincoln_to_Kansas City_ especially for shoppers. I guess the grass really is always greener.

I've made out my list, and it's fairly simple. I want a Manuheim Steamroller Christmas album and Erma Bombeck's new book, "I want to grow up, I want to have hair, and I want to go to Boise."

Area 4-H'ers invited to register to attend citizenship shortcourse

Area 4-H'ers are invited to register to attend a Citizenship Short-course in mid-July, 1990 at the National 4-H Center in Washington, D. C.

The trip is offered on a first-come, first-serve basis. Registrations will be accepted from 4-H'ers who are 14 to 18 years of age as of Jan. 1, 1990.

During the week-long stay in Washington, D. C., 4-H'ers will have an opportunity to learn about national government, examine issues facing youth in the 1990's, and gain a better understanding of personal roles as citizens in the local and world community.

Participants also will explore the hows and whys of citizenship through workshops, government agency visits, keynote addresses and field trips.

In addition, there will be time for sightseeing — Lincoln Memorial, Kennedy Center, Arlington Cemetery, Washington Cathedral, United States Navy, Mt. Vernon, Smithsonian Institution and more.

The trip also includes visiting other points of interest on the east coast, making it a 10-12 day experience.

Four-H'ers interested in attend-ing are asked to contact their local extension office for registration forms and complete details about
