Patrol honor

WAKEFIELD-Nebraska State Patrol Trooper Tom Schwarten is the Employee of the Year for the Patrol, announced Colonel Harold LeGrande, patrol superintendent.

Governor Kay Orr presented the Employee of the Year award to Schwarten just before Christmas.

Now stationed in Syracuse, Schwarten distinguished himself Aug. 31, 1988 when he arrested four subjects and seized more than $227,000 in cash in suspected drug-dealing profits.

Colonel LeGrande said Schwarten's alert handling of what started out as a routine traffic stop resulted in the seizure of the cash. Through a new law, the State Patrol received $210,000 of the forfeited money to use in its drug enforcement efforts.

Trooper Schwarten worked at the Patrol as an intern before graduating from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and entering the Patrol's Training Academy. He was assigned to Syracuse on Dec. 11, 1987.

Commissioners appoint Mills to position of Wayne County superintendent

Harry Mills of Wakefield was interviewed and appointed by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to serve as Wayne County Superintendent of Schools.

Mills succeeds Glenn Wiseman as county superintendent. Wiseman, who was elected county superintendent in 1986 and took office Jan. 1, 1987, died on Dec. 22. Mills was appointed to fill out the remainder of Wiseman's four-year term which expires in January, 1991.

Mills, age 65, served as ESU 1 administrator from June, 1967 to June 30, 1987. Prior to that, in May of 1966, he was hired as part-time administrator for unit one — serving the counties of Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Thurston and Wayne.

He was born and raised on a farm in Custer County and graduated from Westerville High School. He worked in the shipyards of California for six months before joining the Merchant Marines. While in the Merchant Marines, Mills developed an interest in history and geography — his two major fields in college.

He received his BA degree from Kearney State College in 1950, spending two years at Newcastle Public School where he coached, taught and served as principal. After that he went to Bradshaw, coaching and teaching for another three years.

After receiving his certification as administrator from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Mills served as superintendent at Hampton and also completed his master's work.

He also served as superintendent of Callaway and Wakefield before beginning his association with ESU.

Mills will fill the position of Wayne County Superintendent on a part-time basis to perform the necessary duties of the office. Among those obligations will be to oversee the operations of the nine Wayne County Class I schools.

He will also conduct teacher evaluations and school visitations and will serve as secretary to the Wayne County School Reorganization Board.

Past year was second driest of century

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing editor

The year 1989 has been labeled as the second driest year of this century for Wayne and the surrounding area.

Weather observer Pat Gross of Wayne mentioned Tuesday that only 13.05 inches of moisture fell in the area in 1989 — almost half of what the 10-year average for moisture amounts indicates (25.9 inches).

The driest year for the area, according to Gross, was in 1936 when just 12.99 inches of moisture was recorded. During that year the 10-year average rainfall figure was

Christmas break is over

STUDENTS WHO HAD a "longer than scheduled" Christmas break (because of the extreme cold temperatures the week before Christmas) returned to the classrooms on Wednesday. Above, a bus transporting students makes its way through Sherman Street, delivering students to the Wayne Elementary and Middle School. And the weather was lots milder than when the students got out of school — by about 55 degrees.

As legislators gather in Lincoln

Conway anticipates 'busy' session

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing editor

A shorter session will mean a "busy session" for Nebraska legislators as they convene this week in Lincoln with primary opening legislative activities beginning Wednesday, Jan. 3.

This year's legislative session is slated for 60 days and State Senator Gerald Conway of Wayne, representing the 17th District, took off for Lincoln on Tuesday to prepare for what lies ahead in the legislature for the upcoming months.

Conway currently serves as vice chairman of the banking committee; vice chairman of the intergovernmental cooperation committee; and this summer was elected as vice chairman of the Council of State Government, a council that encompasses 12 states in the mid-west section of the nation.

He mentioned several key issues that will likely be addressed in the forthcoming legislative session. The first he mentioned was the property tax issue.

Conway said the legislature's Education Finance Review Committee will be coming in with a bill that will dramatically affect the financing of education in Nebraska.

THIS WILL also involve changes in the state education formula. More of the education money will be raised through increases in income taxes and sales tax which could bring as much as a 20 percent reduction in the property tax burden. The plan is gaining some momentum in Nebraska.

One concern, Conway said, is that although the property tax burden will be lessened, consumers will still be facing increases in taxes (through sales tax and income tax).

Governor Orr may not want to increase taxes because 1990 is an election year, according to Conway.

"This session we'll also be dealing with the abortion issues. We have freedom to do more on this issue than in past years," he said.

National polls have indicated that this nation's number one problem is drugs. And that issue will likely be addressed in the 1990 Nebraska legislative session. Conway has a bill he introduced last session which he will carry over into the 1990 session concerning his proposal of taxing illegal drugs. The state will receive money from the taxes on the drugs and the proposal will deter those that currently sell illegal drugs.

"There will probably be a lot of carryover legislation [from the 1989 legislature] that was introduced but we ran out of time on the issues," Conway said. "I don't expect as many new bill introductions as in the past."

SOME BILLS which Conway hopes to introduce in this 1990 session involve those issues brought to his attention by his constituents. One such issue falls in the area of leasing as a means of gaining a tax advantage (or loophole).

Conway said there are some larger corporations who contract with leasing arrangements in order to gain a tax advantage, leaving small businesses with a greater share of the tax burden. "It'll be introducing legislation to address that issue," he said.

Another area he would like to pursue involves a property tax issue. Should an individual in the legislative district, who in January loses a home because of fire, be required to pay a full year's taxes on that property even if the fire-damaged property was considered non-usable the remaining 11 months?

Conway will bring that question to the legislative body. He will also address the issues of Tort Reform, as in past legislative sessions, he said.

"There will probably be a litany of little things introduced in the legislature this year, ranging from adjustments to past legislation to a variety of problem areas," he said.

Council prepares to confront issues of the Nineties

By Chuck Hackenmiller
Managing editor

As the city of Wayne enters the next decade, city administration and city council officials will be contemplating solutions to immediate problems.

Some of the key issues or projects facing Wayne in the 1990's and beyond concerns the city's municipal swimming pool; what to do with the city's transfer station and solid waste and more work on the city's water distribution system, according to city administrator Phil Kloster.

One of the first priorities is the rehabilitation of the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool — a budgeted $300,000 project that will extend the life of the 35-year-old swimming pool and the facilities connected to the pool for at least another 20 to 30 years.

Second priority, Kloster said, is the modification of this coming year of the city's solid waste transfer station. Funds have been budgeted during the past three years for this project, according to Kloster.

"We've been looking at the modification of the transfer station for a couple of years," Kloster said.

Just how much the city could spend on the project will depend on the direction which the city council would like to take.

THE CITY council will be considering possibilities of major structural work on the facility to accommodate expansion in recycling, or they will be looking to remodel and continue to operate the facility like the present.

"Right now we are wrestling with what is going to be the state's position on solid waste management down the road. What will the regulations be? Will there be market development for recycled goods? We don't know those answers right now," Kloster said.

"The council is extra cautious because they want to do it [modify the transfer station] right," he added.

Another project slated and budgeted for 1990 will be the establishment of a second well in the new well field located northwest of Wayne. The first well was activated earlier in 1989.

More water than ever before was pumped into the city of Wayne last year, according to Kloster. One reason is because of the dry spell experienced in 1989. The old well field would not have handled the consumption demand of the previous year, Kloster said.

"No doubt it was the dry conditions that caused the increase in consumption. With the drought, more were putting the water on their lawns and gardens," he said.

"If consumption of water continues to grow, it is important that we stay on schedule with the construction of additional wells [at the

Crookshank files lawsuit against city officials of Loveland

Karen Crookshank, widow of former Laurel resident Fenton Crookshank, has filed a multimillion dollar lawsuit in federal district court (in Denver) against the city of Loveland, Colorado officials based on the Jan. 3, 1989 shooting of Fenton at a Loveland restaurant.

Crookshank, in the lawsuit, said her husband was killed through "gross, malicious and outrageous conduct" by Sgt. Robert Klingler of the Loveland police force.

Klingler shot Crookshank as he was escaping from a gunman holding people hostage at the Loveland restaurant. Crookshank had escaped through a bathroom, window and started to run when he was shot.

Larimer County (Colorado) District Attorney Stu VanMeveren cleared Klingler of any wrongdoing in the months following the incident.

The lawsuit seeks compensatory damages of no less than $15 million plus punitive damages. Named in the lawsuit as defendants were the city of Loveland, Mayor Herm Smith, former Loveland Police Chiefs David Davison and William Schmolli, and Klingler.

The complaint in the lawsuit says Crookshank was "unarmed and helpless" and "posed no threat to Klingler or to anyone else."

THE LAWSUIT alleges that when the 45-year-old man escaped the restaurant, Klingler aimed his service revolver and, without warning or legal justification, willfully, maliciously and intentionally fired four shots at Fenton in rapid succession.

It also alleges in the lawsuit that

Fenton had shouted to Klingler that he wasn't the hostage taker, but Klingler fired at Crookshank nevertheless.

The lawsuit also claims that the Loveland Police Department was not properly trained for the hostage situation.

A relative of another hostage who was killed by the hostage taker has also sued Loveland city officials over the incident. This lawsuit asks for no less than $50,000.

Early quiltmakers motivated by self-expression, beauty

By Vicki Miller

UNL Ag Communications

Homesteading in Sioux County, living in a tiny dugout along a creek near Hallam; herding cattle or waiting in a grain truck at a local elevator — even in the toughest of times, Nebraska women found time to quilt.

Early Nebraska quiltmakers were motivated more by a desire for self-expression and the pleasure of creating beauty than by necessity, University of Nebraska-Lincoln research shows.

"For women who had few other avenues open to them, quilting was an artistic medium for which they had the skills and societal approval. While it was not conscious, I think clearly they seized the opportunity to express themselves in this way," said Patricia Crews, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources textiles scientist.

Crews and graduate student Elizabeth Weyhrauch Shea analyzed information gathered by volunteers at 28 Nebraska Quilt History Days statewide in the past three years to learn more about Nebraska quiltmakers from pioneer days through 1940. Their research is part of the Nebraska Quilt History Project, a comprehensive effort to explore the history of quilting in Nebraska.

VOLUNTEERS FROM the Lincoln Quilters Guild collected details on about 2,000 quiltmakers and registered nearly 5,000 quilts brought to Quilt History Day sites across the state. The UNL research is based on computer analysis of interviews with about 1,000 owners and makers of Nebraska quilts up to 1940.

The research dispels some myths about why pioneer women quilted, Crews said, and provides glimpses of women's lives in early Nebraska.

Despite the popular notion that economic hardship drove the quilters' needles, most Nebraska quiltmakers interviewed did not mention necessity as a reason for quilting, she said.

"Instead, the pleasure and satisfaction derived from making a useful and beautiful item for their family was the most often mentioned reason for making quilts," Crews and Shea reported.

Frontier women meticulously pieced quilts from delicate fabrics in elaborate patterns with ornate stitchery, instead of making the easier hand-tied, heavy comforters that would have provided more warmth, Crews said.

"It would have cost much more to buy all the fabric, the thread and the time than it would have to buy a warm blanket for the family, and the blanket was available," Crews said, adding that railroads and mail order houses provided goods to Nebraska settlers.

CREWS CONCEDES that the quilts registered at Quilt History Days may represent a quiltmaker's fanciest work. However, she said, stories gathered about quilts made during the period convinced her that necessity wasn't usually the compelling factor.

For example, Clarissa Palmer Griswold made an ornate silk crazy quilt while sitting her homestead claim on the rangeland of Sioux County in 1886. The quilt features elaborate embroidery and stitchery techniques. Wildflowers, grasslands and the blanket was available," Crews said, adding that railroads and mail order houses provided goods to Nebraska settlers.

PREVAILING PURITAN values of thriftiness and industrious encouraged quilting, Crews said.

"Idle hands are the devil's workshop — they took that to heart," she said. "Any woman who didn't sew and didn't have a number of these products to show for her labor probably was considered lazy, slothful and had little respect within her community."

Nebraska's quiltmakers took

Research reveals profile of typical Nebraska quiltmaker

A profile of early Nebraska quiltmakers emerges from University of Nebraska-Lincoln research for the Nebraska Quilt History Project.

Here are a few facts about Nebraska quiltmakers from settlement to 1940 based on computer analysis of interviews with quiltmakers and their descendants. The early quiltmaker typically:

- Lived on a farm or in a small town with her husband and two to four children.
- Had a grade school education, and probably was a teacher or dressmaker if she was employed outside the home.
- Was a church-goer, likely a Lutheran or Methodist.
- Most likely was German, or perhaps English, Czech, Irish, Scotch, Danish, Swedish or Norwegian.
- Learned to quilt as a child from her mother or other female family member and quilted throughout her life.
- Made about 10 quilts during her lifetime, and took an average of two years to complete one quilt.
- Did most of her quilting at home alone in the winter.
- Was often prompted to make a quilt by a birth, wedding or other special family event.
- Prided herself in fine quiltmaking skills but did not consider herself an artist.
- Quilted to create something beautiful that would be an heirloom for which she would be remembered.

and garden flowers are featured on 12 painted pictures at the lattice crossings.

Clarissa's quilt, now owned by the Nebraska State Historical Society, exemplifies the artistry of early quiltmakers working in harsh conditions, who took great pride and pleasure in their ability to create beauty stitch by stitch.

Most Nebraska settlers were not poor, Crews said, although they certainly were frugal.

"It wasn't the poverty-stricken people that moved out here. That's a misconception, too," she said. "You had to be at least middle class to afford to move."

Most Nebraska quilters purchased some or all of the fabric for their quilts, Crews said, although they certainly used scraps from other sewing projects as well.

"We saw so many quilts that obviously had purchased fabric in pride in their fine quiltmaking, Crews said, but didn't view themselves as artists.

"They probably only felt comfortable thinking that they were creating a useful item, but they were beautiful," she said. "They are being recognized now for their dramatic visual impact."

The UNL research will be included in a book to be published in conjunction with a Nebraska quilt exhibit at the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery in 1991.

Funding for the Nebraska Quilt History Project came from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Nebraska Committee on the Humanities, the American International Quilt Association and other sources. The UNL research was conducted in cooperation with IANR's Agricultural Research Division.

Effective Sleep-Aid Medicines

Earlier this year, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), through a panel studying nonprescription sleep-aids, determined that three sleep-aid product ingredients are safe and effective for general use. These ingredients are doxylamine succinate, diphenhydramine hydrochloride and diphenhydramine citrate.

The panel concluded that products containing pyralamine maleate, potassium bromide, and scopolamine hydrobromide are not effective as sleep-aids. The FDA also approved labeling requirements for these products including:

- Do not give to children under 12.
- Avoid alcoholic beverages while taking this product.

- Do not take this product if you have asthma, glaucoma, chronic pulmonary disease, shortness of breath, difficulty in breathing, or difficulty in urination due to enlargement of the prostate gland, unless directed by a doctor.

- If sleeplessness persists continuously for more than two weeks, consult your doctor. Insomnia may be a symptom of serious underlying medical illness.

new well field site), Kloster said.

KLOSTER SAID a major goal in 1990 is to reduce the city's present water rates. "The water rates could be lowered at the start of 1990 to go into effect in the early summer. Consumption revenues are up higher than was originally reflected. Rates will be reduced to reflect that we are getting more revenue than what we need," Kloster said.

Lawsuit—

Crookshank was principal at Laurel-Concord High School from 1969 to 1973. He also had managed a lumber company in Laurel and was a former school official at Wisner. In Loveland he was manager of the Dumas Lumber Company.

He was attending a Lions Club meeting in the basement of the Loveland restaurant on the day of the shooting.

Another area to look ahead to in 1990 will be the study now underway of the city of Wayne's current parks and recreation programs. A committee has been organized to study the park and recreation program — addressing all aspects of the recreation environment of the community.

He said the city will continue its effort to remain as energy-conscious as possible. Some windows at city hall will be replaced and energy-saving ideas have also been proposed for the Wayne City Auditorium.

Kloster said that in 1990 the city must also lay the groundwork for several other projects he feels are necessary to the future of the community.

"We have to do something with the water distribution system in the downtown area and the sidestreets that surround the area," Kloster said.

He said the Wayne Senior Center has "outgrown" its present facility. "Something has to be decided about that," he mentioned.

And groundwork should also be started on developing some type of full-service campground facility (with water and sewer hook-ups). "That is something needed by the community and that issue needs to be addressed," Kloster mentioned.

Dry

established at 21.08 inches.

Gross said that coming into 1936, the 1935 total rainfall amount was at 27.9 inches.

He said that in the year preceding the dry 1989, weather observers noted that only 20.13 inches of moisture was recorded.

"That means conditions are probably drier now than they were in the Depression," Gross said. The Great Depression roughly began with the stockmarket crash in October, 1929 and lasted through the 1930's.

GROSS THOUGHT that a key to this past year's dry spell was that the weather was a lot cooler. There was just one day in 1989 that reached over 100 degrees and that was on July 9, according to Gross.

Average highs during the normally heavier rainfall months (June through October) in 1989 were as follows: June, 79.2 degrees; July, 87.7 degrees; August, 84.4 degrees; September, 74 degrees; October, 65.6 degrees. During these months in 1989, rainfall was 4.71 inches less than the 10-year average rainfall amount.

Recorded as the coldest days in 1989 were Dec. 21 and 22 when the mercury dipped down each day to lows of 26 degrees below zero. Throughout the month of December, 1989 the average low temperature came in at around 4 degrees above zero.

There were 14 days in December when temperatures fell below subzero. Gross said there were no minus degree temperatures in January, but there were 10 subzero days in February and three below zero days in March.

Wayne girls claim third place honors

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The second annual "Great Northeast Nebraska Shoot Out" climaxed last Friday as the South Sioux Cardinals came up winners in both the girls and boys divisions. The Lady Cardinals defeated last year's champions Stanton, by a 59-49 count while in boys play it was South Sioux maintaining its strong hold on the coveted first place trophy for the third consecutive year with an 87-73 win over Stanton in a rematch of last year's final.

South Sioux incidentally, took first place in the Wayne State Holiday Tournament in 1987, the last year it was called the Wayne State Holiday Tournament so this year's win marked the third consecutive year they have waltzed away with the title.

Marlene Uhing's Lady Blue Devils of Wayne copped the third place prize while Paul Eaton's boys won third place over Wayne in the boys division. Wayne's girls downed Wakefield by a 48-19 margin while the Trojans defeated the Blue Devil boys in over time, 59-48.

Fifth place honors went to the Pierce girls as they downed Winnebago, 74-41. In boys place fifth place went to Wisner-Pilger as they defeated Winnebago on a last second three point field goal by Chad Holtz, 67-66. Wisner-Pilger's Lady Gators took seventh place with a convincing, 102-8 win over Macy while in boys play it was Pierce defeating Macy, 66-49.

The Wayne girls opened up play against Wisner-Pilger and for Wayne it was a chance to avenge an earlier defeat to the Gators. That's exactly what Uhing's troops did to the tune of 38-26.

Wayne trailed 17-15 at the intermission but took the lead after three quarters and stretched it in the fourth period. Teresa Ellis who had nine of Wayne's 15 half time points, finished as the games high scorer with 19. Jennifer Hammer poured in 12 while Susie Ensz and Stephanie Kloster had three each and Erin Pick, two.

Wayne nearly pulled off the upset against South Sioux during second round action but was nipped by one, 47-46. Teresa Ellis and Heidi Reeg led a balanced attack scoring 13 each while Jennifer Hammer was also in double figures with 10. Erin Pick poured in six while Stephanie Kloster and Susie Ensz scored two each. Wayne trailed by nine points after three quarters but managed to one with just over a minute to play.

In the consolation finals Wayne blew out Wakefield by a 48-19 count. Heidi Reeg led all Wayne scorers with 14 points while Teresa Ellis added 13. Liz Reeg scored seven while Jennifer Hammer added five. Erin Pick, Stephanie Kloster, Amy Tiedtke and Danielle Nelson all had two and Susie Ensz notched one point.

"I was pleased with the way our team played in the tournament," Uhing said. "We came ready to play and we out rebounded all three of our opponents." Uhing noted that rebounding and defense is what won the game with Wisner-Pilger.

"Against South Sioux we didn't do that good of a job locating Stacy McCarthur and she hurt us from the outside," Uhing said. "But we did slow them down. They really like to push the ball up the floor and we slowed it down to a half court game."

Uhing was also pleased with the play of Jennifer Hammer. "Jennifer had a good tournament," Uhing said. "She scored for us when we really needed a basket." Teresa Ellis showed her talents all through the tournament and was justly rewarded captain of the all tournament team.

Bob Uhing was not so pleased with the play of his Blue Devils after their two losses to South Sioux and Wakefield in second round and consolation round games.

The Wayne boys opened up play against Wisner-Pilger and for the second time in as many outings, Wayne won, 60-52. The Blue Devils led the whole way with a balanced scoring attack led by Willy Gross with 15 points. Neil Carnes added 13 and Craig Dyer, 11. Brian Lentz and Craig Sharpe had seven each and Casey Dyer netted four. Jeff Griesch connected for three points.

Wayne was then handed a big loss against South Sioux, 92-47.

The Blue Devils trailed 44-12 at the intermission. Willy Gross led the team with 11 while Chad Metzler and Craig Dyer had eight each. Casey Dyer netted six and Jim Murphy scored five. Craig Sharpe finished with four and Brian Lentz scored three. Neil Carnes was held to two points.

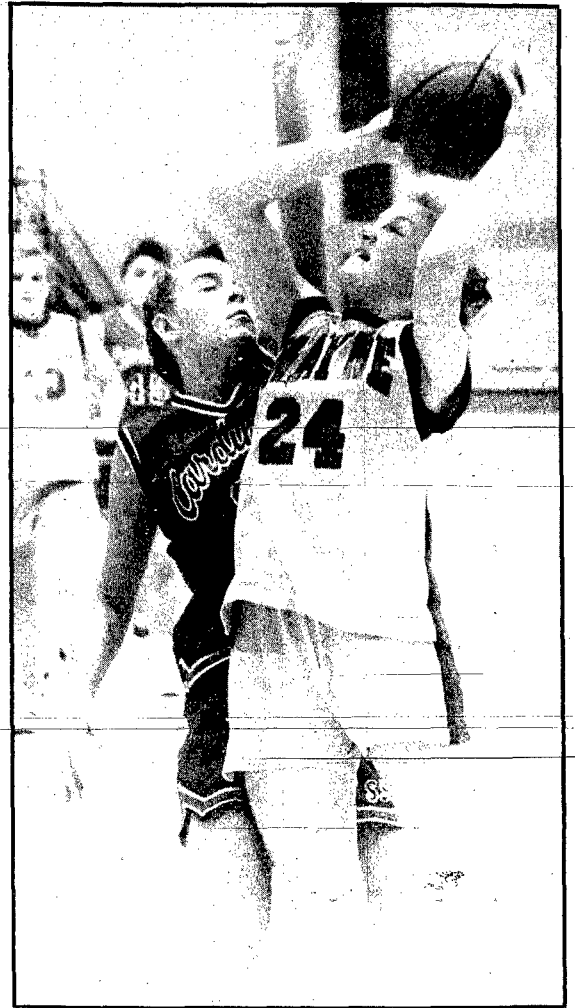

In the consolation final Wayne was surprised by Wakefield as they witnessed the Trojans over come a 10 point second half deficit to win in over time, 59-48. Craig Dyer led the way with 14 while Willy Gross and Craig Sharpe followed in double figures with 12 and 10 points each. Neil Carnes netted eight while Jeff Griesch scored three. Chad Metzler netted one point.

"We just didn't give any effort during the tournament," Uhing said. "We weren't mentally ready to play and it definitely showed. We need to find kids who are mentally ready to play."

Wayne, 5-3 will host South Sioux this Saturday.

Basketball practice schedule

WAYNE-Boys and girls in grades 3-6 will begin basketball practice at the high school this Saturday, Jan. 6. From 9:30-10:45 a.m. girls in grades 4-6 that are interested in playing basketball should plan on registering and practicing. ## Lady Trojans take part in Shoot Out

Despite suffering two losses in their first ever appearance in the "Great Northeast Nebraska Shoot Out", the Wakefield Lady Trojans finished fourth. Wakefield downed Macy by a whopping 76-22 margin in first round action to propel them into the second round of the winners bracket where they fell to Stanton, 55-39.

That loss dropped Ellie Studer's Trojans into the consolation finals with Wayne where again the Trojans fell, this time by a 48-19 margin. In the Macy contest nine Trojans scored led by Lisa Anderson with 17 points. Cathi Larson followed with 16 while Lisa Blecke poured in 14. Kristen Miller was the fourth member of the Trojan squad in double figures with 11. Sarah Salmon and Julie Greve each netted six points while Wendy Kratke, Christy Otte and Heidi Muller had two each.

Wakefield led 20-6 after the first quarter and then held Macy to two total points in the second and third quarters combined. The Trojans led 59-8 after three quarters of play.

In the Trojans second round game against Stanton, Lisa Blecke led the way for Wakefield with 13 points while the only other Trojan in double figures was Lisa Anderson with 10. Kristen Miller and Cathi Larson each netted five points while Sarah Salmon had four and Heidi Muller, two.

Wakefield trailed 22-6 after one quarter and from then on they played even basketball with the defending state runner-up squad from Stanton.

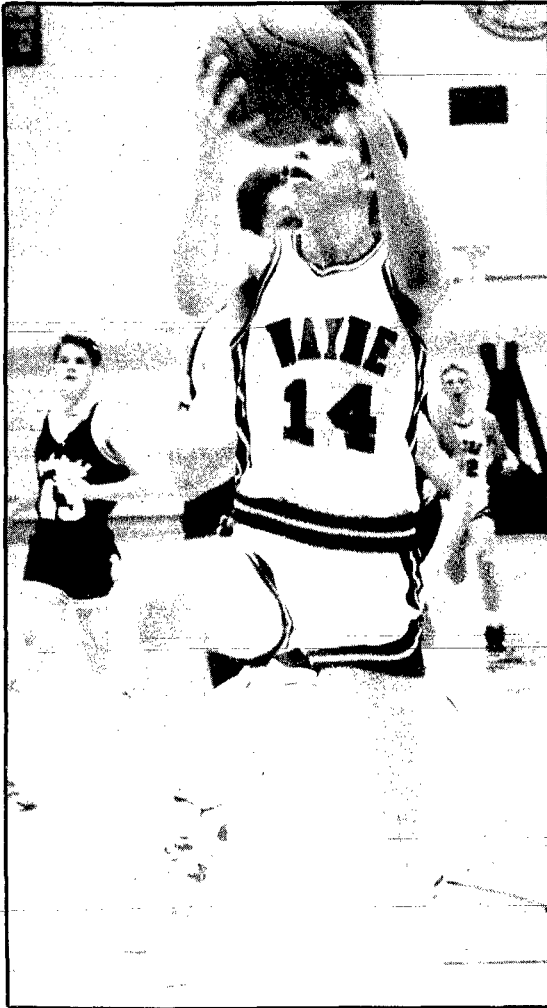

In the consolation final against the Blue Devils of Wayne, Wakefield never got untracked as a sticky Wayne defense allowed the Trojans just 19 total points. Wayne jumped out to a 15-3 lead on Wakefield and by intermission the lead was stretched to 17, at 26-9.

Wayne out scored Wakefield in every quarter enroute to the 48-19 win. Lisa Blecke had eight points for Wakefield to lead the team while Sarah Salmon had four. Kristen Miller was held to just three points and Lisa Anderson was held to just two. Julie Greve also had two points in a losing cause.

KRISTEN MILLER looks to score two points.

Laurel loses to Cedar in finals

For the second consecutive year, Mark Hrabik's Laurel Bears faced Hartington Cedar Catholic in the finals of a four team holiday tournament. This year in Randolph, the Bears which catapulted into the finals with a 59-52 victory over the host team Randolph, suffered their first loss of the season as Cedar downed them by a 74-60 count.

Cedar came into the game rated number two in the Omaha World Herald while the Bears held down the number five ranking. "We didn't have a very good first half against them," Hrabik said. "We were down by 15 at the intermission and were forced to play catch up the rest of the way."

Laurel did manage to close the gap to 10 in the second half before losing by 14. "We missed 29 shots from inside the paint," Hrabik said. "We were getting the opportunities we needed but we just weren't connecting." The Bears were hurt by Cedar's Darrin Becker who tossed in 18 points, 16 of which came in the first half. Becker is a non starter on Cedar's roster. John Schutte led all scorers with 28 points while Todd Erwin netted 12. Troy Twohig had seven points while Matt Felber and Shawn Arens had four each. Chad VanCleave netted three points and Matt Jonas had two.

Laurel was out rebounded by a 49-41 margin despite Schutte's 11 caroms and Arens' nine. The Bears suffered just 11 turnovers but Cedar had only five.

In Laurel's first game of the tournament against Randolph, Hrabik's troops played a little flat despite the seven point win. "I thought our players forgot how they beat Randolph in an earlier contest," Hrabik said. "I think eventually our talent began taking over and the thought of getting into the finals motivated our team."

John Schutte led the Bears with 26 points while Todd Erwin and Matt Jonas had 11 points each. Shawn Arens and Matt Felber rounded out the scoring with six and five points respectively.

Schutte had 13 rebounds to lead Laurel to a 34-23 advantage on the boards.

Laurel girls finish third at Randolph

The Laurel Lady Bears managed to finish third in a traveling holiday tournament which was in Randolph this year. Laurel lost its opening game to Hartington Cedar Catholic, 70-35. The Bears bounced back in the consolation finals though, with a 48-45 win over Plainview. The win evened Laurel's record at 4-4.

Cedar jumped out to a 23-10 lead after one quarter of play on Randy Zimmerman's Bears and by intermission the lead had stretched to 40-15. "We played even with them in the second half," Zimmerman said. "The story line however, was Cedar's rebounding and turnovers."

Zimmerman said Cedar is a very talented team with very good size. 6-1 senior Stephanie Samuelson led Cedar with 23 points. Laurel was led in scoring by Amy Adkins with 14 points. Heather Thomas poured in eight while Sherri Hangman netted four. Sherri McCorkindale had three while Bree Bebee, Amy Newton and Stacy Nixon had two each.

Laurel was out rebounded by a 33-12 margin.

In the consolation game Laurel found themselves trailing 14-6 after the first quarter and 23-18 at halftime. The Lady Bears turned things around in the fourth quarter with that five point deficit still staring them in the face after the third quarter.

"We out scored them 18-10 in that last quarter," Zimmerman said. "Heather Thomas did a great job of going to the hoop on their defense." Thomas led all scorers with 25 points. Amy Adkins added nine while Bree Bebee and Amy Newton had four each.

Sherri McCorkindale, Tina Granquist and Sherri Hangman all netted two each. Laurel out rebounded their opponent with the aid of Amy Adkins who hauled down 11 caroms. Laurel also took good care of the basketball with only nine turnovers.

"Heather has done a nice job all year of competing against girls that are her size or a little taller," Zimmerman said. The Bears will host Wayne in a Thursday night contest.

Wakefield knocks off Wayne for third place

Paul Eaton's Wakefield Trojans came within one second of advancing to the finals of last week's "Great Northeast Nebraska Shoot Out" but after losing to Stanton in the second round, they went on to upset Wayne in the consolation finals for a third place finish.

In the first round contest with Macy, Wakefield had to fight for their lives to advance to the second round with a 54-51 victory. The Trojans led 14-12 after one quarter of play and they held that slim two point margin at intermission, 27-25. In the third quarter Wakefield out scored Macy by just one point, 13-12 to hold a three point advantage with eight minutes remaining.

Macy did manage to take a lead with less than three minutes left but Tony Krusemark hit two free throws with 49 seconds left give Wakefield a 52-49 advantage.

Krusemark led all Wakefield scorers with 19 points while Andy McQuistan and Mark Johnson netted 16 each. Matt Tappe had two points and Chris Loofe rounded out the Trojan attack with one point.

One of the most exciting games in the whole tournament was Wakefield's second round contest with Stanton. The Trojans maintained a six point cushion at the intermission at 27-21 but Stanton came on to out score Wakefield 13-6 in the third quarter to give the Mustangs a one point lead with eight minutes to go in regulation.

Both teams battled back and forth with the lead changing hands several times. The game came down to the final seven seconds with the Trojans leading by one point and on the free throw line for a one and one opportunity. Wakefield missed the free throw and Stanton quickly moved the ball up court where Rocky Bullock nailed a three pointer off the glass at the buzzer for the two point win for Stanton.

Three Wakefield players were in double figures led by Tony Krusemark's 14 points. Matt Tappe poured in 13 for the Trojans while Andy McQuistan netted 12. Mark Johnson scored three points in the contest while Anthony Brown and Chris Loofe netted two each.

In the consolation finals the Trojans came up with another big victory with a 59-48 win over Wayne in over time. The score was knotted at 46 at the end of regulation but the Trojans out scored Wayne 13-2 in the extra three minute period.

Wayne held a six point lead at the intermission, 27-21 but Wakefield fought back to get within four points at the end of three quarters of play. With 6:46 remaining in the third quarter the Trojans trailed by a 31-21 count and with 6:02 left in the fourth quarter the score was tied at 35.

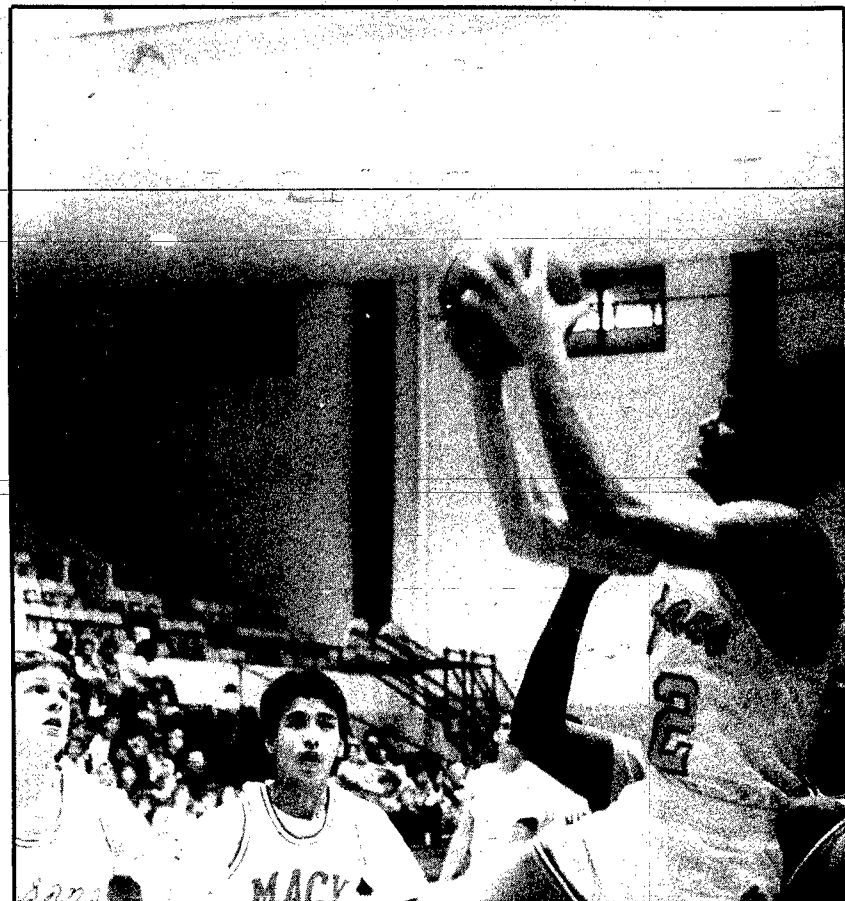

Free throw shooting was definitely not a problem for Wakefield in this contest as the Trojans connected on 22 of 28 for the game and 11 of 12 in the over time period alone. Wayne was a dismal 3-10 from the line and 0-1 in the over time period.

Andy McQuistan led all scorers with 19 points while Mark Johnson managed 11 including a 4-4 performance from the free throw line in the over time period. Tony Krusemark was the third Trojan in double figures with 10. Chris Loofe managed seven points while Anthony Brown and Matt Tappe had six points each.

The GOLDEN YEARS

By Lee Anne

According to a survey of retirees taken by an insurance company, the major reason retired persons returned to work — or wanted to return to work — was the need to earn money, for living costs or for major special outlays. Many cited social and emotional benefits. One-third said their post-retirement work didn't make the most of their skills, but that was OK. Many in the survey had retired early and thus were receiving reduced pensions and Social Security checks.

In 1985, Stanford University researchers reported that limited drinking may reduce the risk of heart disease. Now, a government report warns that alcohol abuse can worsen ailments of the aging, particularly heart disease. A Surgeon General's Workshop on Health and Aging notes that hypertension, a major contributor to cardiovascular disease and strokes, increases in the elderly as alcohol use increases. As for a possible beneficial link between moderate drinking and coronary heart disease, the report says "this relationship is controversial" and more research is needed.

Remember When? July 26, 1945 — British voters gave a majority of seats in Parliament to the Labor Party, thus deposing Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who had led the country through the darkest days of World War II.

In ridge till use Nebraska ranked at the top

Nebraska farmers lead the nation in use of ridge till methods, with nearly double the acreage of the No. 2 state, Minnesota, according to the 1989 National Survey of Conservation Tillage Practices.

In 1989, Nebraskans planted 878,449 acres using ridge-till, compared with last year's 553,758 acres. No-till acres also increased, bringing the total to 5,432,268 acres using conservation tillage methods.

Mulch-till decreased slightly in the state, although nationally it is the most widespread conservation practice, said Dan McCain, field specialist of the USDA Soil Conservation Service. McCain has charge of the survey in his liaison position with the Conservation Technology Information Center in West Lafayette, Ind.

Ridge-till, which is second to no-till in saving soil, has a faithful following, McCain said. Most farmers who opt for ridge-till do so with a strong conviction to make the system work. As a result, they reap the benefits, he said. Ridge-till is the one conservation tillage practice that has grown steadily in acreage and in percentage of total crops planted since the CTCIC survey was first taken in 1982.

ELBERT DICKEY, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension agricultural engineer, said there has been a "significant growth in no-till and ridge-till in the last decade. There is a greater awareness of the need for soil erosion control and enhancement of surface water quality."

In addition, the conservation requirements of the 1985 Food Security Act will have an impact on the use of conservation tillage, he said. "More than three-fourths of the farmers who have an approved plan say they will adopt conservation tillage as a major portion of erosion control." These plans are to be fully implemented by 1995.

Attendance at educational meetings for conservation tillage topped 1,000 in 1989, Dickey said, compared with about 200 in 1982, the first year of the meetings.

"Surprisingly, almost 50 percent are a new audience. Three-fourths say they will change their tillage practices as a result of the meeting." Reducing tillage operations and adopting either no till or ridge till were common changes cited.

Reasons for switching are farmers' concerns about energy costs, the availability and cost of labor and erosion control.

"A lot of kids left for school, and only a few will return to the farm," Dickey said. "Tillage has been one place to cut labor." Once farmers adopt the methods, they often become part of the educational force, spreading the word about benefits of conservation tillage, he said.

Conservation tillage was used on 37 percent of Nebraska's 14.9 million crop acres in 1989.

A peek out the window

The Farmer's Wife

By Pat Meierhenry

The thaw came just in time for safe travel, and we loaded the car with gaily wrapped packages after church on Sunday to head for Pappillon.

The Big Farmer noticed the cattle all standing around the tank just as we were about to take off. This could mean only one thing. Sure enough, the pipes were frozen and the tank was empty. "Story of my life," I muttered, as I went downstairs after the garden hose.

But we got there eventually, and went to church at 9 p.m. instead of 5. This gave us time to devour big bowls of clam chowder and then go sledding.

There was just enough snow, and just enough thaw; there was no wind, and it was not cold. We found a short hill that wasn't hard to walk up.

We also toured Regency to see all the decorated homes before going to church. Ann kept saying, "not as great as the Days." And she's right. The John Day home in Norfolk is a Christmas sight.

WE OPENED presents when Don got home from work. Our kids were very surprised to receive their old red and white high school band uniforms. They'll go in the cedar chest with swing choir dresses and track sweats. They, and the new spouses, are also sporting Winside Centennial sweatshirts.

I got my Erma Bombeck book and Mannheim Steamroller tapes. We listened to the Messiah on the radio, and I sang along. I can't help it.

If you've never sung in a choir, you probably won't appreciate what I'm talking about. But there is such a sense of achievement when a group of people really learns a song, and can put all the parts together.

We have an ambitious young choir director at church named Doug Johnson. He's a WSC student who comes over to Winside on Wednesday nights and tries to get music out of a dozen of us who are tired, frazzled, and not especially talented.

DOUG'S VERY patient, and a born optimist. He had us learn a little piece called "This Little Babe" that just about did us in. It's in three parts, and very fast. We all start out in unison. Then, in the second verse, the men are two eighth-notes behind the women; and in the third verse, all parts begin at a different place.

We worked and worked on that song. We worked on enunciation. We came to hate the composer, some fellow from the 16th century. And some nights, we hated Doug Johnson for subjecting us to it.

We are finally scheduled to sing it the morning of Dec. 24. Our final rehearsal, the previous Wednesday, was cancelled due to low wind chill.

Letters

Charming city

I had the opportunity to visit several cities and towns in both Colorado and Nebraska during this Christmas Holiday and was greatly impressed with the charm and holiday spirit presented by the citizens and businesses of Wayne.

The warmth and beauty of the image presented downtown made Christmas just that more pleasant. Most of the cities I had visited have at least five times the population as Wayne and several more downtown businesses.

Without fail, these cities could not compete with Christmas in Wayne. The city's choice of decorations and the involvement of the business-people should be a source of pride for all of Wayne's residents.

In this time of economic hardship, it is truly a pleasure to see city and business unite and forget the 'profit margin' for awhile. Joining forces to present a positive and festive downtown for the children and residents of Wayne and the neighboring communities.

My congratulations to the people and spirit of Wayne. The time and effort was definitely worth it.

Fred Netherda

December 'blitz'

The Adult Basic Education Volunteer Program of Wayne would like to thank all those who assisted in our December "Blitz."

Special thanks to the Senior Center for preparing the materials for distribution, to the Theta Phi Alpha Sorority for distributing the materials and to the many places of business for using them.

Our appreciation to KTCH radio for daily advertising and for special programs; to the Wayne Herald for coverage of our program; to those who volunteer to teach and do other tasks to make the program a success.

Martha Svoboda
Coordinator for ABE

The Big Farmer thought we should probably forget about singing it, and I said that seemed a shame after all that work. We all remembered a scrambled anthem a few years ago. Miracle of miracles, we sang it straight through! We came in in the right places, we held on to the dotted half notes towards the end, and we ended with a flourish! Doug had a very satisfied grin on his face, and we all filed back to our pews with a great sign of relief.

Nothing feels so good. The Advent candles were glowing brightly, the poinsettias were bright spots of color on the altar, and the grand piano banged the last notes. "Joy to the world, Christmas has come again!"
