Kloster announces resignation

By Chuck Hackenmiller Managing editor

Phil Kloster will resign from the post of Wayne City Administrator to become the city manager in Newton, Kansas.

Kloster, who was hired as Wayne's city administrator in March of 1981, has set March 3 as the of 1981, has set March 3 as the effective date of his resignation. He held a press conference Thursday morning at the city council meeting chambers to make the resignation announcement. Business people, council members, administrators, city staff members and friends were in attendance at the conference.

Also present at the press conference was Kloster's wife, Eileen, who presently is employed as secretary in the Vice President of Administration and Finance Office at Wayne State College. She and Newton is located on Interstate 35 about 23 miles north of Wichita, Kansas. Newton itself has an estimated population of 18,500 people and nearby North Newton's population is figured at nearly 2,000 people.

"It has been a most difficult decision for Eileen and I to make When you have a supportive council such as the Wayne City Council, a competent staff that performs their jobs so well and sister agencies that work so well together to make. "Newton offers some real challenges for the Nineties. They have major with a and control of the control of the they have the same potential solid waste problems in the future that most communities will face," Kloster said.

"Newton is suffering from the same revenue shortages common in most rural American communitiles' today. While there are numerous industrial activities going on, the most exciting is the prospect of a major aircraft com-pany considering Newton as the location for a new facility," he said.

IN SPEAKING about Wayne, Kloster looks back with satisfaction on the number of jobs created through industry recruitment during the past five years. To be involved with those successes was exciting."

"Secondly, we leave this com-munity fiscally sound, and with a solid infrastructure—that—has—been improved during the past nine years and not ignored — an overall system that will serve its residents well into the 21st century," he said. He said the present city staff has served the community well and will continue giving top return for when some of those decisions have been controversial."

Most disappointing during his nine years here, he said, was the failure to pass a sales tax to reduce the property tax burden for residential and business property owners."

Kloster praised the administra-tion of Wayne State College and the Wayne-Carroll School system, citing the efforts of Dr. Donald Mash (WSC president) and Dr. Francis Haun (Wayne-Carroll su-perintendent) perintendent).

"Our kids will surely miss the our kids will surely miss the personal touch Wayne schools of-fer when they enter a school sys-tem with six elementary schools, two middle schools and a high school with 400 students per class.

Kloster said the city of Wayne will advertise immediately for a city administrator. He said it would be most feasible to have the city ad-ministrator on board in March before budget preparations begin.

Vahlkamp takes opportunity to teach at New Guinea

By Chuck Hackenmiller

It was May of 1988 when Gertrude Vahlkamp, special education teacher, decided to retire after 25 years with the Wayne Public School system.

She was presented the Distinguished Service Pin from the school's board of education and also received an award from the Wayne Kiwanis Club in recognition of her dedicated service to the school district.

school district. However Gertrude, at the age of 64, is not about to abandon a 35-year career. Retirement can wait for now.

In January she will be leaving her home six miles south and 4 3/4 miles west of Wayne to teach lower—elementary grades at the Highlands Lutheran School in Papua, New Guinea. The area is in the Enga Province near the city of Wabag.
She has a one-year teaching contract for the New Guinea mis sionary school, offered by the Board of Missions of the Lutheran Church in St. Louis. She has the option of renewing her teaching contract after the first year.

What prompted her to enter her first year of teaching in a for-eign country?

It all goes back to her college days, she said, and a friendship with one of her college room-mates. One of her roommates had a daughter who married a mission

THIS PAST year, in April, Certrude met the missionary and his wife (daughter of her former roommate) and they in turn filled Certrude in on the lack of teachers at the mission school in New at the mission school in New Guinea. That was enough to capture her interest in-going there to teach the lower elementary grades.

There was influence from another person that helped Gertrude reach a decision about traveling and teaching in New Guinea. That person, her husband Edwin, is no longer alive. He died in September.

Edwin, she said, had always wanted to go to foreign countries to teach underdeveloped nations how to use farm equipment. "We had thought about looking in to the Peace Corps. But we felt we were at the wrong age," Gertrude After Edwin was diagnosed with cancer and he had died a short time later. Gertrude believed it was God's will that she continue on with her teaching career and accept the New Guinea position — and put retirement life on hold.

"Oh, I had been involved in a lot of volunteer work since I quit teaching at Wayne, doing some very worthwhile projects," she said. "But right now I'm well and healthy to handle this teaching opportunity in New Guinea. When I come back, I'll do more of these volunteer projects," she added.

SHE IS A graduate of Concordia Teachers College and has a Mas-ter's Degree in Special Education. Before working at Wayne she

As for lacking modern conve As for lacking modern conveniences she has in the United States, she said: "I also grew up on a farm where at one time there was no electricity or no indoor plumbing. Besides, there may be many of the modern conveniences there [in New Guinea] that we have here."

'As for political differences, I've been told to stay out of that. There is no danger right now and we are accepted there," she said. The school where Gertrude will

Understanding care labels

To prolong the life of a garment, consumers should follow the instructions that appear on its care label. The Federal Trade Commission's Care Labeling Rule requires that care labels be placed in all textile clothing, and that the label information be complete and consistent.

and that the label information be complete and consistent. If washing is recommended, the label must state whether it should be done by hand or machine, and must include the safe water temperature. If it isn't safe to use chlorine bleach, the label must include a warning. The care label must also include the method and safe temperature for drying and the temperature for ironing, if ironing is necessary.

If no temperatures are included for washing or drying, all temperatures are safe. Bleach is safe to use unless the label warns against it. If the care label says "wash or dry-clean, any normal method," the garment can be machine-washed in any temperature water, bleached with any type of bleach, tumble-dried at any temperature setting, dry-cleaned in all common dry-cleaning solvents, and ironed at a hot setting.

THE MANUFACTURER is required to list only one method of safe care d is not required to warn about other care procedures that may not be

Because the care label provides information that is important throughout the life of the garment, it must be permanently attached to the clothing. Fiber content, which is also required by law, can be included separately on either a permanent or a temporary label.

These regulations do not apply to non-textile apparel such as leather, suede and fur, or to footwear, gloves and hats. Accessories such as ties and belts not used to "cover or protect a part of the body" are also exempt.

IF A GARMENT is cleaned according to the care label and it shrinks, the color runs, or some other damage occurs, it is recommended the consumer return the garment directly to the store.

If the store does not take satisfactory action, the next step is to write to the manufacturer, Although the FTC cannot help resolve the problem directly, sending them a copy of all correspondence may help reveal a practice requiring action by the commission. Take for granted
All too often we take for granted the contribution individuals make to an organization or institution. I believe this to be the case with the Wayne High School cheerleaders. The group recently returned from the Dynamic Cheerleaders Association National Cheerleading Championships in Kansas City. In hand, was an award for outstanding spirit. This award along with numerous others received by these people this school year are indicative of their dedication and hard work.

We are proud of them. If you choose to attend future WHS athletic events why not applaud them for their efforts. Acknowledge their hard work. Participate in their cheers I know they would appreci-ate your cooperation. Donald V. Zelss, Principal power plant which could have substantially reduced the demand for heating oil and propane.

Fuel argument
Rising prices for propane and heating oil are causing a lot of discomfort for the public and an opportunity for much ballyho by politicians.—Any-investigation—into the causes for the price increases should include the names Dukakis and Coumo for two reasons — Seabrook and Shoreham. These two state governors have each blocked the operation of a nuclear power plant which could have sub-stantially reduced the demand for heating oil and propagate.

Normally utilities in the northeast burn a heavy grade of oil (bunker oil). The political climate has been such that new power plants using this fuel have not been built, gas turbine powered generators have been used instead. These plants require natural gas or heating oil for fuel, putting the utilities in direct competition with home owners for a limited supply of fuel. As a result, the price goes up. An executive of Consolidated Edison Co. of New York is quoted in a Dec. 22, 1989 Wall St. Journal article as saying "We're buying oil like crazy. We're in the market every day." The supply of natural gas is limited so the utilities must burn fuel oil during cold weather. Normally the utilities would use the gas turbine generators for a few weeks in January or February but the unusually cold weather has forced them to run earlier and longer than usual.

Seabrook and Shoreham enter

Seabrook and Shoreham enter this picture because these two nuclear power plants could supply the power that is having to be gener-ated by the gas turbine plants. Neither plant has been allowed to operate, even though both have been fueled and ready to operate. Seabrook, located in New Hampis having to pay. Unfortunately also, it is not just the people of New York and Massachusetts that are shire has been kept from operatshire, has been kept from operating by actions of Gov. Dukakis of Massachusetts because it is only a few miles from the Massachusetts line. Shoreham, located on Long Island, NY, was purchased by the state of New York and shut down even though it was complete and had operated at low power.

York and Massachusetts that are having to pay, people all over the country are paying.

Shoreham is capable of generating 820 megawatts of electrical power, equivalent to 23,335 gallons of fuel oil per hour or 31,115 gallons of propane per hour. Since the gas turbine plants normally operate at 50 percent efficiency or less, the figures for fuel consumption to generate the 820 megawatts of power should be doubled to 46,671 gallons of fuel oil per hour or 7,840,840 gallons or 245,026 barrels per week.

245,026 barrels per week.
Seabrook is capable of gener ating 1150 megawatts of electrical power, equivalent to 32,727-galons of fuel oil per hour or 43,636 gallons of propane per hour. Using the same efficiency figures as for Shoreham, operation would save 10,996,300 gallons or 343,634 barrels of fuel oil per week.

American Petroleum Institute figures for the week of Dec. 15 to Dec. 22, 1989 show fuel oil stocks went down by 3,976,000 barrels. Operation of both plants could have saved 588,660 barrels, a significant swing in a tight market and could have had a very significant effect on prices.

Governor Coumo assured the people of New York that alternate power sources were available so Shoreham wasn't needed. Hydroelectric power would be available from Canada. This winter Canada has not been able to supply power to the New England area, they have asked the United States to send power into Canada. They have had a dry summer and fall and hydro-electric power depends on rainfall. What Governor Coumo didn't tell the people was the price they would have to pay for the power from these alternate sources. Unfortunately, it is not just the electricity users that are having to pay, anyone using oil or propane

Laurel escapes defeat, 68-66

Mark Hrabik's Laurel Bears escaped Friday night's game in Laurel against NENAC foe Pierce by a whisker as John Schutte stepped to the free throw line with one second left in regulation and canned two free throws to give the fifth rated Bears a 68-66 victory and an 81 record.

Pierce led by as many as seven points in at least three different situations during the second and third quarters but the Bears never gave up. "The score was tied up at 66 with 1:30 left in regulation," Hrabik said. "We decided to stall it out and go for the last shot. We felt that we would either win the game on the last shot or we would go to over time."

With 17 seconds remaining the Bears called time out to set up a play. The play did not work according to Hrabik but some how Matt Jonas got the ball to John Schutte with less than five seconds remaining and Schutte was hammered and sent to the line where the game would be won or the extra period would be forced. With just one second on the clock, Pierce had nothing but a despera-tion attempt at the buzzer which

"Pierce came in with only one loss in the conference and they definitely came in here looking for a The score was tied at 15 after the first period but Pierce maintained a three point advantage at the break, 32-29. Laurel out scored the Blue Jays 19-18 in the third quarter and 20-16 in the final stanza.

John Schutte led the Bears with 20 points but his performance was over shadowed by Pierce's Todd Koehler who drained the nets for Koehler who drained the nets for 35 points. Schutte however, plays many roles in a basketball game and rebounding is one of his forte's. The 6-5 senior hauled down 17 rebounds and had two steals to go along with his 20 points.
Todd Erwin followed Schutte's performance with 16 points of his own and Troy Twohig finished with 12. Matt Felber added nine points on three 3-pointers, two of which came in the third quarter which put Laurel on top.

Shawn Arens added five points while Bruce Haisch, Chad Van-Cleave, and Matt Jonas all had two. Laurel out rebounded Pierce by a 32-26 margin. The Bears suffered 17 turnovers which is too many according to Hrabik while Pierce was only forced into 11 turnovers. Todd Erwin and Matt Jonas each recorded six assists in the game and Todd Erwin blocked a shot. "It wasn't one of our best games," Hrabik said. "But you can't take anything away from Pierce. Their defense stymied us in the first half."

Hrabik however, was proud of the way his squad kept fighting back until they won the game.

Winside downed

The Winside Wildcat boys bas-ketball team is still in search of their first win of the 1989-90 season after being handed a 68-40 loss in Beemer Friday night. Head coach Randy Ceier witnessed his team play a solid first half and trailed by only three at the intermission at 25-22 but that's when the bottom fell out for the Wildcats.

"Our leading scorer and re-bounder in Randy Prince fouled out mid way through the third quar-ter," Geier said. "Beemer really started pressuring us and we committed a lot of turnovers.

Winside turned the ball over 31 times in the game compared to 11 by Beemer. Randy Prince led all Wildcats in scoring with 14 points while Cory Jensen followed with

The Wildcats were out rebounded by a slim margin at 42-41 with Randy Prince hauling down eight caroms before fouling out. Cory Jensen hauled down seven rebounds. Winside connected on 14 of 27 free thirows.

The winless Wildcats will host Wakefield this Friday night in a girl-boy double header. Incidentally, the injured Mark Brugger may be able to return to the Wildcats schedule as early as February according to Geier. It depends on his rehabilitation of a scoped knee in which cartilage was removed. which cartilage was removed.

rebounding category with 26 each. Wakefield was led in rebounding by Julie Greve-with seven caroms to her credit. Lisa Bleck and Cathi Larson were each credited with five rebounds each.

"The turnovers really hurt us," Studer said. "We had 20 and that is too many against a team like Emerson-Hubbard." The Trojans did however, defend the Lady Pirates big gun in Leah Fuscher who was held to eight points. "The first time we played Emerson, Fuscher had 24 points and Marcy Schwarten had 20," Studer said. "This time Fuscher was held to eight and Schwarten had 14."

Allen girls lose to Walthill in first round

Lori Koester's Lady Eagles of Allen fell on hard times Thursday night in first round action of the Ponca post holiday tournament. Allen fell to Walthill by a convincing 64-39 margin. "We didn't get off to a really good start," Koester said. "Our center Stephanie Carlson suffered a sprained ankle and was unable to continue play. Then early in the third quarter we lost Denise Boyle and Robin Schroeder with their fifth fouls."

Allen trailed 21-12 after one quarter of play and 31-17 at the break. Cindy. Chase led all Allen scorers with 18 points while Alyssa McGrath added seven. Lisa Sullivan came off the bench to score six points and freshman Heather Sachau added four. Denise Boyle and Robin Schroeder each netted two points.

Again the Eagles suffered a lot of turnovers but Koester didn't feel that the press is what caused them. "I thought we handled the pressure well," Koester said. "We just had a lot of bad passes."

game with a perfect 10-0 record.
"SW Baptist is one of the three favorites to win the MIAC this year," Aggers said. "They are a good NCAA Division II team and they simply took it to us." SW Baptist handed the Wildcats a 90-55 set back which dropped WSC's record to 4-10 on the season.

"Cetting Marques back is a big plus for our program," Aggers said. "But losing those three players really hurts us and it forces us to start all over again, like it's October 15."

Aggers noted that SW Baptist's team speed and quickness was an advantage for the visitors as they jumped out to a 42-23 lead at the intermission. Wilson incidentally, scored 26 points in his return which led all Wildcats in scoring. Steve Dunbar was the only other Wayne State player in double figures with 10 points and Eric Priebe added

"Wilson's mobility was affected on defense," Aggers said. "But on offense his strength on going to the hoop was there and thus he was fouled a lot." Wayne State was out rebounded by a 41-29 margin and the Wildcats suffered 18 turnovers in the game compared to just 10 for SW Baptist.

With the three players lost to academic ineligibility, Aggers had to recall freshman Jason Bangs to the squad. Bangs, 6-4, is from Glenwood, lowa. "In all my 18 years as a coach, I've never seen anything like what's happened to our team this year," Aggers said. Injuries and academics have taken its toll on the 89-90 Wildcats to this point.

owners to evaluate and make some long term decisions con-cerning their operations. If opera-tors decide to continue marketing or producing livestock during the winter and spring months should be thinking seriously about a windbreak a winddreak.

Confinement lots, building or open pastures benefit greatly from a tree or shrub planting on their predominantly windward side. A feedlot or field windbreak traps winter snow, provides summer shade and reduces wind velocities that can cost producers extra feed and watering dollars during tem-perature extremes.

Those dollars saved mean higher profits to costs ratios at selling time. A well planned and maintained windbreak can save farmstead energy and protects the soil from erosional elements too. The low costs for purchasing, planting and weeding trees combined with USDA cost-sharing make windbreaks a very good inmake windbreaks a very good in vestment.

If there is one draw back to a windbreak, all parties agree upon — it is time. It takes time to get a tree and shrub planting started. — it is time. It takes time to get a tree and shrub planting started. With better varieties, good weed and grass control and some gen-eral care that time lag, between planting and reaping the wind stopping benefits, is becoming shorter and shorter. Still some trees need at least 10 years before trees need at least 10 years before they begin "paying back" the care given them.

The secondary benefits also add to a windbreaks value - selective pruning for firewood, wildlife habitat and summer fruits and berries are difficult to attach dollar figures on but are still greatly appreciated by the owners. Windbreak planting for rural or urban areas can be designed to fit individual, city or county wide needs. For more information on wind-

Fire safety tips

Electric blanket safety Inspect your electric blanket occasionally for damage to the wire elements. This is especially important at the beginning of the heating season.

Do not fold an electric blanket back on itself. It can overheat and cause a fire. Also for that reason, make sure your electric blanket is the top cover on the bed.

The very old and the very young may not be able to respond if an electric blanket starts to overheat them, so do not use these blankets on them.

Here are four fire safety tips for huary.

Flames and gas leaks

Don't look for gas leaks with a cigarette lighter, match, candle or other open flame light; you will be sure to find them.

Fuse uses Don't use make-shifts (like pennies) instead of proper fuses in your electrical circuits. You will turn the wiring of your entire home into a fuse and when it blows, so may your home. And don't save burned out fuses; they are worthless.

Ash trash

When cleaning out your fireplace or stove, do not dump hot ashes into wooden boxes or barrels. The box, barrel and wherever they are could turn into ashes.

Do you want to get more zest out of life in the New Year? These 10 commandments for zestful living were offered over 50 years ago, in the Valentine Civilian Conservation Corps's newspaper, "The Buffalo." The advice from Dr. Donald A. Laird

**Il has a contemporary ring:

*1. Keep rested. Tired people take zest from others as well as themselves. It is amazing what a difference going to bed two hours earlier will make.

"2. Don't be too ambitious. The world is crowded with people who have literal mental scars, the result of wanting to be bigger shots than they can be or the world needs.

"3. Don't fret about how little book learning you have. If you keep mentally active and learn a little something new each day you are an educated man.

"4. Don't be too conscientious If you suffer chronic inflammation of the conscience, careful always to do everything just right, the very inertia is likely to make you go wrong. *5. Don't fight against human nature. Don't expect other people or yourself to be perfect. comings here and there should be expected and not allowed to steal

"6. Have a few troubles and a nine pain. Those in human experience are like the olives in a meal. After the tart, sour things, everything tastes good.

7. Be your age. The things which bring zest change as we get older. Some people try at 50 still to get a kick from life by doing what they did at 10. All they get is pseudo-happiness.

*8. Don't let others or yourself bluff you into being timid. What we should do is emphasize our few strengths and forget our many weaknesses.

"9. Get into a job which you like doing. Even if it pays you $10 a week less, its dividends in zest probably will more than repay you.

*10. Look into the future rather than the past. There is always going to be an upturn and another crest in your zest."
