Council deals with myriad of topics

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

Between approving the Ne-braska Public Power agreement, which would result in a two percent discount in the contract, and de-ciding on a new solid waste loca-tion and company, the Wayne City Council had its hands full at Tues-day's meeting.

Council had its hands full at Tuesday's meeting.
The City Council also approved a request for $5,000 for a jogging/walking track by citizens who have raised $14,200 for the project. Once completed, the track will be located from Providence Medical Center onto the Wayne State College campus.
According to Dr. Jim Lindau, who spoke on behalf of the project, the $5,000 donation by the city is needed to move the group ject, the $5,000 donation by the city is needed to move the group within $800 of its $20,000 goal. He said once that goal is met, there is a matching fund grant which will pay for the rest of the $40,000 project. After some discussion among Councilmembers about the lack of a sidewalk in that area, the donation was unaniarea, the donation was unanimously approved.

IT WAS THE NEW solid waste option which seemed to provide option which seemed to provide the most discussion for people attending the meeting. The city will apparently switch its solid waste site to Jackson, Neb. from its current 12-year location in Norfolk.

According to City Administrator Phil Kloster, who attended his last meeting before leaving for his new position in Newton, Kan. next week, the agreement will have the city served by L.P. Gill, Inc. The contract will have a two year transportation guarantee, which will be renegotiable at that time. He said at the present time, Wayne is paying $7.67 per ton to have its solid waste removed to Norfolk with Community Refuse Disposal, Inc. out of Fremont and the new company will be at a cost of $8 per ton for transportation. Kloster said the disposal cost with Jackson will the disposal cost with Jackson will be $10.40 per ton, noting that that is a fixed amount.

"We have a moral and ethical responsibility to deposit solid waste where it is environmentally feasible," Kloster said before the council. "I think this new agreement will allow us to do that."

IN DEALING WITH the matter IN DEALING WITH the matter with Nebraska Public. Power District, Kloster said the two percent discount will allow Wayne to hold capacity and will allow NPPD to make the purchase of the facility in 1997. He said the agreement will allow Wayne to construct a peaking facility with the town's option to sell it at capacity.

In another matter dealing with natural resources, the City Council approved a water rates revision approved a water rates revision which will reduce rates effective May 1990. Kloster said, "we have rejected a 25 percent reduction in rates above the minimum. This 25 percent reduction will have $100,000 in reduced water amounts, providing usage is the same in 1990 as it was in 1989." He added that the transfer interest income will be used to make payments for waste water im-provements and treatment.

ACCORDING TO CITY Attorney Bob Ensz, the change which was requested in the contract with Great Dane trailers will not alter a thing as far as the city is concerned.

In a proposal by Rick Lang, who is a representing attorney for Great Dane, the company is seeking to change its name to Great Dane of Nebraska, but the parent company will continue to guarantee the contract. The matter was OK'd by unanimous vote by the council. In a matter dealing with bid opening for agricultural land rental opening for agricultural ratio rental of property which the city owns, only one bid was received by mail dealing with the matter. The bid, proposed by Rick Lutt, dated Feb. 6, 1990, will result in payments to the city of $50.03 per acre for all three lots. The council approved the matter.

Iohnson announces plans to run

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

The decision to run for Wayne mayor has been a four-year process for City Council President Larry taken lightly. Johnson announced his intentions last week to seek the mayoral seat which appears to be open since present Mayor Wayne Marsh apparently will not seek re-

"I was approached four years ago in the event Wayne didn't seek the position," Johnson said. "This time around I was approached by several people who I have a great deal of respect for, so I decided to run. With the resignation of (city administrator) Phil Kloster, I'm in a better position to help Wayne make, that change."

BUT JOHNSON'S PLANS go far beyond finding and breaking in the new city administrator. He said he would not only like to keep the retail businesses strong but he would also like to see further industrial growth. He said he knows the city has some things which will need to be addressed in the future and he thinks his insight would make him the right person for the mayoral

"We need to attract more retail businesses to Wayne as well as keeping the industrial businesses strong," he said. "We'd like to see the industrial growth continue, but we want to make sure it's a controlled growth."

In addition to retail and industrial growth, Johnson said he thinks the upgrading of Highway 35, which runs through Wayne, will be an important factor in Wayne's growth. He thinks the city is in a position where it's ready for the additional traffic the highway will see, but there is a need to work within to draw new businesses. "Statistics show that 80 percent

"Statistics show that 80 percent of growth in a community is from within," he said. "We need to help local people establish new businesses as well as further efforts to attract more. We've got to be stewards to our community."

Johnson said he thinks the city of Wayne is in good shape from a governmental perspective. He said the city has good employees which make for a good city.

IN ADDITION TO some of the issues Johnson thinks will need addressing include providing for a better senior center as well as improving upon Wayne's recreation possibilities.

"One of the biggest concerns the town is a facility for senior of the power of the concerns the concern right now is a facility for senior citi-zens," he said. "There's not a read-ity available access for seniors and ity available access for seniors and they're very cramped where they are. We need to build or relocate them so they have poom. Right now, they need something. "To add to that, it may be time for a change where our recre-ational facilities are concerned.

There's room for improvement to allow children and adults alike to recreate in addition to some of the ways we have now."

Carhart hopes to provide city new leadership

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

With no formal announcement regarding the intentions of present Wayne Mayor Wayne Marsh to seek re-election, the City of Wayne may see its first new mayor in a number of years.

Robert Carhart, who filed for the position in the Wayne County Clerk's office the week of Feb. 12-16, is hoping to provide the new leadership in the city's govern-

CARHART, 55, said his decision to run for public office was a deci-sion he didn't make alone. He said he has talked to a variety of peo ole about the city government and offer those discussions, he decided to step forward and have his name placed on the ballot.

"I didn't come to any conclusions on my own," Carhart said. "I have talked to a number of people and they all wanted me to rundon't, however, want to sound critical of the current administration because they've done a good job in the past, but I'd like people to know more about their govern-ment. That's one of the reasons why I'm seeking this position."

Carhart said he'd like to bring public more discussion about why some things go on within the city's government. While feeling the fu-ture of Wayne is strong, he said he'd like to see it become stronger.

"I'd like to direct the council to have an administrator we can utilize," Carhart said. "The purpose of an administrator is to know the hurdles which need to be covered. He must be a good leader in his own right, but councilmen have a right to direct the city.'

He said some of the positives which he thinks indicates the city moving in the right direction in-clude the establishment of the START planning commission.

"I think it's time for a renovation

"I think it's time for a renovation and update of our comprehensive plan," he said. "And the way it's being conducted through the START committee is good because they're getting an idea of what needs to be done by going to the people."

Carhart emphasized, however, that his intentions to run for the mayoral seat have nothing to do with his four-year project to bring in the Westwood Subdivision to the city limits. He said he hopes to have that done long before he takes office, if and when he's elected.

"That really shouldn't be an issue." Carhart said.

He noted, though, that he knows he's going in as somewhat

Women invited to

World Day of Prayer
St. Mary's Catholic Church will host World Day of Prayer services in Wayne on Friday, March 2, sponsored by Wayne Church Women United. All area women are invit-wayne Church Women United. All area women are invited to attend the 2 p.m. program.

Wayne church bells will ring at noon at which time residents are asked to take time out for a silent prayer.

World Day of Prayer is an annual ecumenical worship event which brings Protestant, Roman Catholic and Orthodox women together into one Christian community of prayer, advocacy and service.

This year's service, entitled "A Better Tomorrow — Justice For All," was written by 14 women from eight different church denominations living and witnesses in Czechoślovakia. Their theme is "Blessed are those who hunger osiovaka, the interior is also are tross who hunger and thirst for what is right; they shall be satisfied."

Women participating in the service will be asked to look at the suffering of most of the world, to repent of their blindness, and with music and narrative to celebrate.

Cod's unrelenting mercy.

World Day of Prayer offerings make possible, in part, the mission of Church Women United, including the Intercontinental Grants for Mission program that funds national and international self-development and teaching projects for women, as well as community services and disaster relief at home and abroad.

The time has come for the United States to act against the drug problem other than some bogus campaign like the "Just Say No" or "Declaring a War on Drugs" efforts.

The situation is simple: The lawmakers of our nation have designed so many laws which interlace each other that the network no longer effective. Justice has become a synonym for some tactic used by lawyers and judges and jurys to find a way to let the average drug pusher off the hook. We have no serious penalty (like death) for drug kings, pushers or the like and we offer no serious alternative to convicted drug felons once the like and we offer no serious alternative to convicted drug felons once they have been released from prison. The problem is, once a person is convicted of drug-related crimes, they're sentenced to X-number of years and then let off the hook only to return to the scene of the crime, recommitting it time and again.

It's a wicked scenario which often repeats itself.

In a story in a recent edition of the Los Angeles Times, a story said the federal government has learned through the Central Intelligence Agency that Mexico is probably the largest producer of marijuana worldwide. If stories like the Kiki Camarena story is true, and the article in the Los Angeles Times is accurate, then why don't we solve the drug threat in Mexico by taking the same course of action taken in Panama?

Probably because it wouldn't look good from an international perspec-

Probably because it wouldn't look good from an international perspective, so our government would say.

Since the drug problem is an imminent threat to the safety and security of our nation, isn't it about time to forget what the international perspective is?

Almost daily you read or hear about a death in the newspapers or on TV which has some connection to drugs, yet each day next to nothing is done about it. Americans are dropping dead every day from drugs. If this scenario keeps up, we will have imminently lost the war on drugs. When one side of a war mounts numerous casualties and the other side doesn't have a permanent loss, then who's winning the so-called war? Probably the side with fewer casualties.

If you think the drug issue is only an urban problem, perhaps you'd

If you think the drug issue is only an urban problem, perhaps you'd better look again. To back this up, what will happen when the drug dealers move from the urban areas in search of a new market? That's right folks, they'll be knocking on our doorsteps.

To prove my point, let's consider this: The drug problem began in areas such as Miami, New York, Los Angeles and Chicago. The next place it showed up was in smaller cities like Omaha, Denver, Atlanta, Kansas City and the like. Then, it moved into the towns the size of Sioux City, Lincoln, Cheyenne, Wyo. and Wichita, Kan. Last summer, you may have read where drug raids occurred in smaller towns. There is a progression here, from large to small, We can't allow Wayne. America to become overcome from large to small. We can't allow Wayne, America to become overcome with this plague.

Drug dealers are smart. They know if they move to the less populous towns like Wayne, they will be able to hide easier from the police because law enforcement authorities in rural America don't have the strength to conduct huge investigations like the cities can and they don't have the manpower to wage even the smallest of wars.

Sure, you can subscribe to the idea that "Just Say No" or "America's—War on Drugs" will be successful, but believing that is almost like burying your head in the sand. The time is gone for just shaking our heads and saying that's a bad thing to do. The time is now to react.

Wakefield qualifies for State with win

Bv Kevin Peterson

Sports Editor
An absence spanning three decades has come to an end! The Wakefield Trojans qualified for the 1990 Nebraska State Basketball Tournament which begins Thursday, March 8, at Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln. The last time Wakefield qualified for the state tournament was in the spring of 1960.

The Trojans defeated Hartington Cedar Catholic in front of 1800-plus fans at Wayne High-School Tuesday night, 49-45. The largest lead enjoyed by either team throughout the 32 minute contest was six points and that was by Cedar Catholic just into the

This column is going to be about several things but first I have to say that Wayne State women's basketball coach Mike Barry deserves some ink for his recruiting efforts as of late.

I attend several games in the area as that is my job. Well, in a two week span preparty.

week span recently, every girls game I attended I was greeted by Mike Barry who was watching intently to pick out any potential college prospects.

Although the Lady Wildcats didn't enjoy a large amount of success this season, Mike Barry deserves a little credit for beating the streets in Northeast Nebraska looking for an improved campaign next season.

By the way, Mike's diet as of late has probably been much the same as mine attending all the games and attending the recent state wrestling tournament. Boy I swear, if I would have eaten one more hot dog or had one more order of Nachos, I would not have been able to be held responsible for my actions.

Any way, good luck in recruiting Mike!

Now turning attention to the Wayne State men and their head coach Steve Aggers. I often wonder if the basketball god often looks down on a certain coach and throws him a bunch of curve balls to test his patience as a head coach.

If so, then this year it was Steve Aggers turn for the rugged treatment. Aggers has been in the coaching business for nearly two decades and he admits that he has never had to deal with what transpired through the course of this basketball season. Injuries, academics and of course the latest, the incident with Marques Wilson, totally left the Wildcats decimated. Still, to the credit of Aggers, the Cats didn't give up. They still attended all games and put up a good fight in nearly all of them including Saturday's game with Briar Cliff.

While writing this column, I couldn't decide if Aggers deserved a purple heart for enduring all the pain he suffered through the year or just a than life.

The good news for the Wildcats is that Steve Dunbar, Eric Priebe and Doug Kuszak will return to lead the Cats again next season. And by the way Steve Aggers if you happen to read this which I of course hope you do, this writer feels that you are doing a super job with the Wildcat program.

Now turning attention to the Wayne boys basketball team. It was tough to see the Devils lose to Scotus in the semifinals of the B-4 district tournament in Norfolk Monday night.

The fact that Wayne lost to Scotus by three wasn't as bad as the fact that how it happened. Bob Uhing's game plan in my opinion was working to perfection toward the end of the game. With the Devils leading by one he had his squad get the ball to Willy Gross who was tackled but there was no call.

Then Gross was whistled for two consecutive fouls in which this writer was in total disbelief of. And not only was I in disbelief but so was coach Uhing. It's hard to lose a game of that magnitude in the way Wayne was

Take nothing away from Scotus however. The Shamrocks played a nice ball game and I'll tell you something else. I really felt that the Scotus fans were the classiest that Wayne has seen this year. Following the game, fans from the Scotus section came out onto the floor to congratulate Wayne players on a nice game. That my friends is high school basketball at its finest

High school basketball is such a fan oriented sport that many times people forget that the kids playing the game range from age 14 to 18 and to see people appreciate good basketball play from both squads is remarkable.

Incidentally, there was a match up in this contest which was kind of ironic. Neil Carnes was pitted against Travis Brock of Schuyler, an all state football player. Next season, Carnes and Brock will be teammates at UNO as both have already signed letters of intent to play for head coach Sandy Buds and the Mayarieth.

A while back someone on the street asked me if I ever get emotionally involved in a game that I cover. At first, I thought, are you crazy? Of course I do. Then I started thinking about how I could explain it in writing and after watching the Ponca-Wakefield clash in the C-9 subdistrict final it came to me

It was in the middle of the third quarter and the action was fast and furious and here I was trying to get pictures for an edition of the Wayne Herald which was to come out the next day.

During a time out I looked down at my camera to see how many shots I had taken and to my surprise I had only taken four pictures during the first three quarters and it wasn't because there wasn't anything to take pictures of, it was because I was so caught up in the game that I just forgot. The Wayne Blue Devil boys The wayne Blue Devil boys basketball season ended on a sour-note Monday night in Norfolk as third seeded Columbus Scotus handed Wayne a 66-63 loss in semi-final action of the B-4 District.

"We had a three or four minute stretch in the fourth quarter where we really did a nice job of execut-

No calls hurt

In the Columbus Scotus game Wayne jumped out to a 17-8 lead after the first quarter before struggling in the second quarter. Scotus out scored the Devils 24-12 in that second quarter to take a three point lead into the locker room at half time, 32-29. Schuyler's big man Travis Brock stopped and popped a long three pointer at the buzzer ending the first half to give Scotus its lead and some momentum. Wayne how-ever, refused to quit as they came out and took a five point lead mid-way through the third quarter.

Scotus however, fought back and regained the lead at 49-48 heading into the final quarter. Both teams traded the lead several times in the fourth quarter. Jeff Griesch canned two 3-pointers in the fourth quarter which brought Wayne back from a six point deficit.

With less than one minute to play Wayne maintained a 63-62 lead and Scotus had just missed a free throw and Willy Gross was bringing the ball up the court. Gross was nearly tackled and the ball stripped from him. There was no call on the play and Scotus scored a few seconds later to take a one point lead. a one point lead.

On the ensuing possession Gross had the ball and was dribbling up the court when the same refere who had not blown a whistle when Gross was knocked to the floor, called Gross for an offensive foul which included some great acting on the part of Scotus.

On the next possession Wayne had, they missed a shot and everyone scrambled for the loose ball and the same referee whistled Gross for his fifth foul in another very questionable situation where everyone was going after the ball.

"It was a case late in the game where Scotus was wanting to foulwhere Scotus was wanting to foul-us but there were no calls," Uhing said. "I thought our kids played well. We had all five starters in double figures."

Willy Cross led the way in his final game as a Blue Devil with 16 points. Craig Sharpe finished with 12 while Craig Dyer and Neil Carnes closed out their high school careers with 11 points apiece. Jeff Criesch notched 10 points. Kyle Dahl had three points.

boards with a 38-19 advantage led by Neil Carnes with 11 rebounds and Craig Sharpe with nine. Willy Gross hauled down six boards and Jeff Griesch and Craig Dyer finished with five caroms apiece. Dyer and Griesch each dished out five assists as well with Carnes recording three assists and one blocked shot Wayne suffered 19 turnovers in the contest while Scotus commit-ted only nine. The Blue Devils were 14 of 17 from the free throw line while Scotus connected on 10 of 17 attempts.

"I was really pleased with the kids effort this season," Uhing said.
"We had just two letterman on the team but we had five starters who spent a lot of time in the gym over the summer and that showed dedication."

Uhing said to go 14-8 with only two returning lettermen is a feat to be proud of. "I really think it shows the work ethic of our kids," Uhing said. "They really worked hard all season."

Local pastor accepts call to begin new ELCA congregation

WAYNE - Pastor Leroy Iseminger has resigned as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne to accept a call issued by the Division of Outreach of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in American headquartered in Chicago. His call is to begin an ELCA congregation within the South Dakota State Prison at Sioux Falls, S.D.

The idea of a congregation be hind bars began several years ago when the Rev. Ed Nesselhub re-turned to South Dakota to serve as turned to South Dakota to serve as campus pastor at the University of South Dakota. Pastor Nesselhuf had returned to South Dakota from Jessup, Md., where he had helped organize the first congregation developed behind prison bars.

It was through Nesselhuf's inspiration that place.

inspiration that plans were made to start the nation's second Lutheran congregation behind bars, according to Iseminger. Since then, many people have been involved in this history-making ministry: the board for World and American missions of the South Dakota Synod, Pastor Dale Skatrud, mission of director of the ELCA's division for outreach in region 3 of the ELCA, and many others.

"Since the n "Since the members of the ELCA are people of the Bible, they take very seriously the Great Commission found in Matthew 28: Commission found in Matthew 28: 19-20. 'Go to all the peoples everywhere and make them disciples.' Matthew also wrote of reaching out to those in need in its 25th chapter and among those in need he mentions those who are in prison,' Iseminger said.

"A congregation within the prison is an interesting concept," he added. 'It brings the church much closer to those who may not have ties with the church. Furthermore, it is hoped that if those within the prison walls have their within the prison walls have their own congregation, they will iden-tify with a congregation when they leave prison. With support from their prison congregation, it is hoped that released prisoners will seek help from outside congrega-

Iseminger said another issue which is important is the fact that, when this prison congregation has become organized, members of Lutheran congregations in South Dakota and in the surrounding area will have the opportunity to relate will have the opportunity to relate to prisoners in ways that have not been available before.

Iseminger begins his new ministry with some abilities he thinks will be especially helpful. He said he has special training, as well as a number of years of experience in that field. His training and years of experience in the area of pastoral counseling will also be utilized. From being a college teacher, his experiences in the classroom will help him in the many education help him in the many education classes he will be conducting within the new congregation. "It is the new congregation. "It is hoped, that with a few exceptions, this congregation can function like a congregation on the 'outside' and will offer its members whatever is available to members of any congregation," he said.

Deciding to accept this position was an extremely difficult one to make for Iseminger and his wife. The Isemingers have been mem-bers of the Wayne community for only a short time, but despite that, they have grown to love the Wayne community and northeast Nebraska, he said.

LB 769, the carryover bill from last year that requires parental no-tification before an underage girl can have an abortion, is still on the agenda for further floor debute.

The General Affairs Committee heard testimony on two bills to es-tablish state lotteries. LR 241 would amend the State Constitution requiring the legislature to es-tablish a state lottery if the mea-sure were approved by a statewide vote in the General Election this

Free water testing available for area private well owners

During March, local Farm Bu-reau Offices and Extension Offices in Concord, Hartington, Walthill and Wayne will be sponsoring free water testing for private well own-

Testing will be March 5-9 in Concord; March 12-16 in Wayne; March 19-23 in Hartington; and March 26-30 in Walthill.

Samples will be tested for nitrate levels only.

private water supplies is an individual-decision and responsibility.

"The only way to know if your water supply is safe is to have it tested," said Carol Schwarz, extension agent for the Northeast Five Programming Unit.

Schwarz added that water can be tested for many substances, but the cost is prohibitive to analyze private water supplies for all possible contaminants.

As a general recommendation, Schwarz said private water supplies should be checked once per year for nitrate and bacterial contamination. Testing also should be considered when any change in taste,

"Testing should be performed when any specific contamination is suspected," said Schwarz, adding that water should be retested for bacterial contamination when re-pairs or alterations are made to the water system.

PRIVATE WELL owners are asked to contact their local extension office for additional details concerning the free water

Financial management workshops designed to assist area farmers

The University of Nebraska Northeast 5 Extension Program-ming Unit is planning to offer workshops in financial management for farmers.

The goal of the program is to rovide the tools for financial anagement through a series of four workshops.

The program is designed to help farmers better utilize existing resources, expand in high profit areas, adjust to changing govern-ment environments, balance work and family, understand where the money is going, develop realistic expectations of income, compare future investments, analyze debt serving ability, establish and understand what records are needed, and how to use actual cost records to improve future profitability.

ROD PATENT, extension agent-ROD PATENT, extension agentag, said three areas are being targeted for the workshops, including Cedar County, Dixon/Dakota Counties and Wayne/Thurston Patent added that 10 participants are required to justify the program and persons wishing additional information are asked to contact Patent at the Wayne County Extension Office, 375-3310, by March 5. Workshops will begin the week of March 5.

Patent said farmers who may be interested in participating are those who want to improve their income, expand into a more profitable area, work less but not sacrifice income, make a major long-term purchase, not sacrifice in-come to comply with conservation compliances, develop workable ar-rangements with other partners or family members, and sell the farm to a son or daughter.

THE WORKSHOPS will be held one day each week for four weeks, with each session lasting from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be at least one follow-up visit to the participant's farm. ticipant's farm.

Three instructors/analysts will be involved in the programs, including Wade Nutzman of Nehawka; Dave Goeller of Pilger, and Patent. All of the instructors/analysts have active farming experience and have farming experience and have worked with more than 200 farmers, doing financial planning.

Panel discussion on women's history set at WSC March 5-9

WAYNE - A panel discussion of five Northeast Nebraska women, lecture/presentations, and various films will highlight a week of activities as Wayne State College observes National Women's History Month March 5-9.

Patrol to slow speeders AREA - The Nebraska State Patrol has announced plans to concentrate special efforts on speeders. A recent Department of Roads report shows 52.4 percent of all drivers on state highways and ur-ban interstates are exceeding the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit. "Those actions endanger the public safety on the highways," says Patrol Superintendent Colonel Harold LeGrande. "We hope to remind drivers that they should obey the limit not only for their safety, but also to protect federal highway funds."

Nebraska could lose between $3.7 million and $3.8 million in federal funding if the percentage of speeders is not brought below the 50 percent level.

Col./LeGrande says the Patrol will work with local law enforce ent agencies to conduct elective" enforcements throughout the state. Such cooperative arrangements have worked well in other areas of law enforcement. Patrol Major Larry Butler, in charge of Field Services, says the Patrol plans to use all its resources against speeders.

Patrol planes will be in the air and special SPEED teams will coor-dinate on the ground with officers ainate on the ground with officers from other agencies. In addition, the Patrol has new VASCAR units installed in many of its patrol cars. The new VASCARs came through a three year grant by the State Office of Highway Safety.

Major Butler says, "the Department of Roads has documented where the highest percentage of speeding occurs. Their efforts have helped tell us where to concen-

The Farmer's Wife By Pat Melerhenry

The first time I met Lydia Melerhenry was about 32 years ago when I came home for a weekend with the Big Farmer.

vice, that folks around Hoskins were relieved to see that the Meierhenry boy had finally brought a girl to church. Mike's father was shy and quiet, but his mother welcomed me in a warm way and made me feel at home.

Their house was humble, the food was tasty and she had a real gift of hospitality.

WHEN WE WERE married, two WHEN WE WERE married, two years later, they didn't feel ready to move to town, so they moved to a nearby farm, equally humble, but comfortable. And handy — for emergency babysitting and patching!

Grandma loved to patch. And when the jeans and coveralls got too bad, we could take them there for emergency care.

As grandpa's arthritis became more severe, her care of him be-came more time consuming. In fact, she spoiled him — even letting him go to bed right after supper and then rising at the crack of dawn to cook breakfast.

After he died, we noticed memory problems. But we all have those, don't we? When I stopped on Mother's Day to pick her up for dinner and she had forgotten and gone to the minister's home, I started marking things on the calendar.

Soon, I could see she wasn't re-

We weren't sure she was remembering to eat, so ordered meals on wheels. Luckily, she didn't have medicines to remember.

THEN I FOUND Jessie. Jessie had taken care of an elderly lady in

She did just that.

I DON'T EVER remember her making one comment about what we were doing to the house, or how we were raising her grand-children, or where we were spending our money. I read those letters to Ann Lan-

How do you feel about flying on an airliner commanded by an older pilot? The Federal Aviation Administration insists that airline pilots must retire at age 60. Pilots seeking to continue to fly cite the performances of older pilots, such as Captain David Cronin. It was Cronin who safely flew his Boeing 747 air-liner back to Hawaii with two en-gines lost at 20,000 feet and the fuselage ripped wide open. He did that one month before birthday.

ATTENDED CONFERENCE

Harold George, Dixon and Courtland Roberts, Allen, members of Dixon County Farm Bureau, attended Nebraska Farm Bureau's 1990 Legislative and Commodity Conference in Lincoln of Feb. 20 and 21

Speakers at the conference emphasized current and continuing issues for farmers and ranchers. Jay Slattery, executive director of the Massachusetts Farm Bureau, dis-cussed how the 5,000 farmers in his state convinced a million urban voters to defeat a livestock-pro-ducing state could be the next target of the animal rightists and emphasized that "Farmers need to take the initiative and tell the pub-lic how well we treat animals," instead of waiting to react to charges made by animal rightists.

Brad Eckart, director of political education for the American Farm Bureau, discussed the impact of the 1990 census and what legislative and Congressional redistricting means for farmers and ranchers. There will be many more "players" in the redistricting also hased on in the redistricting plans based on the 1990 census because technology and current law will make very detailed information from the census available to all interested parties, he said. Eckart predicted that every state will have its redistricting plan challenged, either at the state or federal level.

Mary Kay Thatcher, assistant director of national affairs for the American Farm Bureau, said she doesn't expect Congress to pass a 1990 farm bill until late in November, despite widespread impressions that the legislation is on a fast track. Discussions about proposed conservation provisions, elimination of crop insurance and planting flexibility will slow the bill's progress, she predicted.

chairmen are Barb Stout and the Rev. Charles Wahlstrom.

Other steering committee members include Becky Keidel, Norman Minola, Alice Hartman, Myron Olson and Linda Rischmuelker.

The group is in the process of organizing committees for the various Pumpkin Day activities. Persons wishing to serve on a particular committee are asked to contact one of the chairmen listed above.

Plans discussed for Dixon centennial

Several residents of the Dixon community attended a centennial meeting Feb. 19 to discuss plans for the celebration scheduled to take place on Aug. 12, 1990. It was announced that post cards have been mailed to all residents, with Dixon addresses. Additional centennial items also have Jack Hintz will serve as chairman for the children's afternoon activi-ties. Also discussed were the afternoon program, highway signs, the quilt display, times for various activities to begin, and bathroom facilities.

The grand parade will take place at 1:30 p.m., and approval was given to a request by Angle Stanley to hold a square dance at 8 p.m. in the Dixon auditorium.

JEANNIE Kavanaugh, style show chairman, announced that registration forms will be available for anyone having centennial clothes to be modeled or displayed. Kavanaugh added that years represented during the style show

LUTHERAN CHURCH WOMEN

A regular meeting of the Salem Lutheran Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of American (ELCA) was held Thursday in the church basement. Devotions led by Emily Gustafson helped them understand that all who do the will of God are our brothers and sisters to God are our brothers and sisters to be helped in any way we can. The program committee showed a video of the Oaks Indian Center located at Oaks, Oklahoma. This is a home for Indian children who are orphaned, abandoned or those orphaned, abandoned or those whose parents can not care for them. It includes child care, health care and community services ministry and is a part of the ministry of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America.

The business meeting led by president, Clarice Schroeder included the reading of letters from Bishop Anderson and others urging prayer for the people of El Salvador who have suffered much from the civil war within their country.

Members were encouraged to Members were encouraged to write their congressmen to urge them to use their influence to insure the safety of religious personnel, to press for a negotiated settlement and to halt miliated settlement and to halt mill-tary aid.

It was announced that the Women of ELCA will sponsor the Lenten service March 7 and volun-teers will be needed for the reading of scripture, ushers and music. An invitation has been received from Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne to a guest day on April 4.

Helen Muller announced quilt days for March 13 and 14 if the basement is available. Those that can help can come either or both days and for a few hours or all day. Emma Harding announced that parts for the coffee makers have been located and that they will be repaired. The card committee has Easter cards and napkins available and urge all to come take a look at

The meeting closed with silent prayer for El-Salvador, the benediction and table prayer.

CORNER

FLYING PAST 60: The Federal Aviation Administra-tion will reassess its requirement that pilots age 60 or over can no longer fly commercial airliners. And about time, too. Recent actions by experienced captains prevented what could have been serious air crashes, or, in some cases, minimized the loss of life that might otherwise have occurred in an unavoidable crash. In each case, the pilot occurred in an unavoidable crash. In each case, the phot was well past 50, and in one case, just past 58. A suggestion: have older pilots undergo regular physical tests to assess health and reflex status.

Don't, you agree it makes sense to keep these experienced people in the cockpit both as pilots and
