Council gives nod to project

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

Following a great deal of discussion during a 15-minute recess, followed by about a 10-minute discussion to approve Resolution 90-14, the Wayne City Council voted 6-2 to authorize a water main extension near the water main extension near the property of Virgil Kardell Tuesday

Council members discussed the Council members discussed une resolution during recess since none of the members apparently had time prior to the meeting to go-over letters received regarding the over-letters received regarding the project.

Mayor Wayne Marsh said the project will call for approximately 1,300 feet of 8-inch pipe, which will run along the north edge of Kardell's property. He said the total project will cost the city approximately $14,000 but in return for completion, which might be done sometime in late spring or summer, the city will receive $3,500 from Kardell, who would have used that amount to build a well.

"I agree with any deal that's a good deal for the city," Marsh said. "And we'll gain by putting in this 1,300 foot line."

CONCERN. HOWEVER, was raised by councilman Darrel Heier that the project might be a precedent if it is done. In address-ing Heier's concern, City Attorney Bob Ensz said it will not result in a precedent.

"Like anything, you have to base a situation on its own merits,"

Ensz said.
Heier and councilwoman Jane O'Leary cast the only dissenting votes when roll call was taken, which resulted in the measures passage.

THE COUNCIL unanimously approved a special use water rate. According to acting city manager Carol Brummond, the rate is

She said ordinance 90-8 will allow residential or non-résidential customers to avoid sewer chârges for the special line but, she added, the plumbing line has to be separated from other lines to the site.

BRUMMOND ALSO addressed the council about a discussion held recently with officials from the Ne-braska Department of Roads at a March 8 meeting. According to Brummond, the meeting dealt with adding left turn lanes on West Highway 35.

Brummond said state officials recommended adding left turn lanes for westbound traffic at Oak Drive along Hwy. 35 and a turn lane for westbound traffic at the Pac'N'Save parking lot. She said due to these proposed improve-ments, the council unanimously approved plans to request the construction date for the highway project be moved back from 1994 to 1992.

The council also made one mayoral appointment to the City Airport Authority. The council appointed Earl Tooker to the position vacated by former city administrator Phil Kloster. Once the term runs out, the position will be up for reelection. election

In final matters, the city council entered executive session about 8:25 p.m. Tuesday and later called a recess until Thursday at 7 p.m. for the discussion of personnel mat-

Nebraska that he plans to keep the Wayne area strong by giving greater emphasis to educating students at Wayne State College. He said he thinks Wayne's greatest resource is the college because of the potential for jobs it creates. He said in order to keep Wayne strong, it's important to keep the college strong as well. Boyle cited one of his successes as mayor of Omaha as an example as mayor of Omaha as an example when a program he implemented offered underprivileged people orrered underprivileged people the opportunity to advance their education. He said as governor, he would implement programs which could enhance the education of all individuals.

"This type of program fits well with the business world," he said.
"Together you can make program."

*Together you can make programs which will benefit the community and the college and through those programs, it strengthens the ties

Mike Boyle between the college and the town and that proves to be an asset.

BOYLE SAID HIS plans also in clude getting more people involved in local governments so the strengths of local boards don't lose their power by the state and federal governments.

"Getting people involved in boards and committees is the best way to have the best talent available doing the job," he said.

"Wayne's in a unique position be-cause of the college and all it of-fers."

Since Boyle was involved in the state's largest city government, he said he knows of the struggles ex-perienced as state and federal laws change and take away the powers of the local governing bodies. He said the way he plans to alleviate some of those problems is to leave local governments alone and quit having the state mandate changes which affect the power of local municipalities.

"Decisions on highways and things like that should not be made in Lincoln but here, where it'll have local affects," he said. "My philosophy is the closer the gov-ernment is to the people, the better off it will be because the decisions are being made by the

Students, parents focus on drug-free program

Parents and students alike got to hear some ideas for Wayne to hear some ideas for Wayne Middle School to develop a drug-free program Monday night in the Middle School's media center. Beth Hall, who spoke on behalf of the grants available for schools to develop drug-free programs, said the program-began two years ago with a summer retreat in Crete, Neb., when students learned how to granzize drug-free learned how to organize drug-free which would attend the retreat planned for this summer.

"The big emphasis is to make a youth group in each community," she said before about 25 parents and students. "The neat thing about this retreat is that youth get a chance to meet with other youth all around Nebraska who want the force programs in their drug-free programs in their schools."

HALL ALSO INTRODUCED Clayton Irwin, the sponsor for the SODA (Student Organization for Drug Awareness) group in West Point, which got its start as a result of the retreat. Irwin said SODA found its roots as a result of an advertisement some students had read in the Omaha World Herald to attend a retreat in where they would be taught to work with elementary youth in a role model position.

Irwin said teachers were hoping to have five to 10 youth who would be interested in the program and after announcing it prior to school's end about two years ago, the next morning they had 70-80 youth show up who were interested.

"Most of the drive for this pro-gram begins with the students," he said. "As parents and teachers, you want things but nothing will be achieved unless the students want

ESU 1 board gives OK for new position

By LaVon Anderson Assistant Editor

The board of directors of Edu-cational Service Unit One has given its unanimous approval for the ESU 1 administration to begin placing advertisements seeking a person to fill a newly created position on the ESU 1 staff — that of an inser-vice/staff development coordina-vice/staff development coordinator.

The go-ahead to begin advertising for the position came Tuesday night during the board's regular monthly meeting in Wakefield.

"If 1 can say one thing of the future of ESU 1, it is that the most important and largest service we will probably be offering in the year 2,001 will be that of staff development," ESU 1 Administrator Rodney Garwood told board members Tuesday night.

"I think it is terribly important that the board consider a full-time that the board consider a full-time staff development director and get the very, very best person we can, added Garwood.

"This is definitely an area that we need to be involved in and we need to be involved in now," said ESU 1 board member John Post of Bloomfield in voicing his agree-ent with Garwood.

Post pointed out that while ESU 7 has approximately 900 teachers and the equivalency of two full-time staff development coordinators, ESU 1 has over 1,000 teachers in the six-county area it serves and is only now getting into the area of staff development.

ADDRESSING THE board Tues day night was Norm Ronnell, staff development/inservice director for ESU 7. headquartered in Columbus.

Ronnell told about ESU 7's staff development program for school improvement and answered ques-tions from ESU 1 board members.

Also speaking to the board was Rhonda Carstens, Emerson-Hubbard School superintendent.' Carstens, who also serves as president of the ESU 1 Advisory Council, spoke on behalf of the advisory council and expressed the council's approval and enthusiasm regarding the hiring of a staff development coordinator.

ACCORDING TO the job description approved by the ESU 1 board, the staff development/inservice director must have a minimum of a master's degree in education, possess a valid Nebraska teaching certificate, have a minimum of five years experience in the teaching/administrative field, and have a working knowledge of audio-visual equipment and current knowledge of educational trends and curriculum.

and curriculum.

His or her general responsibilities will include visiting area schools and assisting them in establishing and prioritizing needs to help them plan local staff development activities; developing and main-taining good working relationships with personnel in area schools, along with college personnel and along with college personner and other agency personnel involved in-staff development; and attending meetings and participating in pro-fessional organizations to keep in-formed about staff development, educational trends and issues.

In addition, the inservice/staff development coordinator will be responsible for developing a reper-toire of staff inservice activities that would be delivered at area schools; assisting, in the development of the unit budget assigned to staff development/inservice activities; collecting and delivering material requested by local schools and unit personnel; facilitating special college courses requested by area schools; developing and cultivating a data base of potential speakers and resource people; assisting in writing grants; and developing follow-up methods to determine

Puttin' up with Pete By Kevin Peterson

The Wakefield Trojans have now completed their-successful basketball-season, culminating in a state tournament berth and a 26-2 record on the season. Paul faton's Trojans have nothing to hang their heads about despite losing to the eventual state champion in Bridgeport in the semi-finals of the state tournament—an annual event in Nebraska in which Wakefield had not been a part of for three decades.

Being the first time ever for these kids to be in the state tournament, I felt that the Trojans handled themselves with complete professionalism which is a tribute to both the parents and coaches.

I found it some what amusing as I sat and waited for the opening game to start at Pershing Auditorium last Thursday morning as Wakefield got set to play Wood River, the third rated team in C-1 coming into the tournament. The Wakefield-Trojans-have now completed their successful basketball to play Wood River, the third rated team in C-1 coming into the tournament.

Lwas listening to some of the folks from Wood River talking about who they would have to play after they had already beaten Wakefield. Heck, one guy even said that this would be the year that Wood River wins it all with 6-7 Derek Apfel running the show.

Wakefield however, came in with the feeling that they were there to take care of business and despite the 30 plus minute delay at half time to fix a broken rim, which by the way was the rim Wakefield shot at during the second half, the Trojans did just that.

Apfel is a nice player for Wood River. He has excellent touch from the outside. However, I heard talk that he might play guard in college, but in this writer's opinion, small forward is where the 6-7 senior will end up.

Several things impressed me about the Wakefield players on the court, especially the way Chris Loofe runs the club from his point guard position. Loofe at times looked like a surgeon with his touch passes to Tony Krusemark and Mark Johnson underneath the basket.

Mark Johnson worked extremely hard on the defensive end and proved to be an offensive catalyst as well, and speaking of offense, Tony Krusemark is with out a doubt one of the best small forwards in all of Class

Krusemark is with out a doubt one of the best small forwards in all of Class C-1. NO OUESTION?

One of the things I thought Wakefield did extremely well during both state tournament games was shoot free throws. In the semi-final game against Bridgeport, Eaton's troops connected on 14 of 16 free throw at-

Matt Tappe, Keith Wenstrand and Anthony Brown also did fine jobs for the Trojans in Lincoln. Congratulations for the fine season and effort the Wakefield Trojans gave at the state tournament!

Wrestling

Wrestling
March 31, is the day of the Wayne Junior Wrestling Tournament, to be held at Wayne State College. Now, what makes this particular wrestling tournament a little more special than the rest of the junior tournaments throughout the year is that proceeds from this tournament which could end up being 1000 pius kids, will go to a private fund which is trying to bring back the sport of wrestling to Wayne State College.

Basically there are three ways to generate funds for this sole purpose: personal donations, club donations and supporting the Wayne Wrestling Meet with kids and help.

There are no Huskerland Wrestling meets scheduled on the day Wayne.

Meet with kids and help.

There are no Huskerland Wrestling meets scheduled on the day Wayne hosts its meet so the expected number of entrants could reach as high as 1000 wrestlers as already mentioned.

"I would love to have wrestling back and Wayne State College," Wayne State athletic director Pete Chapman said. "It would be good for Northeast Nebraska because basically the northeastern part of the state seems to be wrestling oriented."

cast Nebraska because basically the northeastern part of the state seems to be wrestling oriented."

Chapman however, noted that budgets are tight for the local state college. "We are trying to take care of the programs we have right now," Chapman said. "We want people to realize that we can't build a program at the expense of another program but I am totally in favor of private funding. It's nice to see it and we are not opposed to it at all."

Wrestling is a fine sport and I as a sports writer would like nothing better-than to see the sport of wrestling implemented at Wayne State College if it is feasible. "People are really doing a good job of getting the public informed as to what it takes to start a program such as wrestling at a state college like Wayne State," Chapman said. "Again, I emphasize that we are supportive of the efforts going on to get wrestling back."

Only time will tell if the college will get wrestling back and there are several questions that have to be answered before we see the Wildcats in singlets but with both sides willing to work toward the same goal, who knows what will happen?

Kearney hosts conference for Evangelical Free Church

District Superintendent William perintendent Charles Worley wel-comed '288 delegates to Kearney on Feb. 26-28 for the 94th annual conference of the Midwest District of the Evangelical Free Church of America.

The Midwest District is an association of 71 Evangelical Free Churches in Kansas, Nebraska and the Kansas City Metro Area with a combined membership of 5,500.

Pastor Hamel noted that the district experienced nearly 10 percent growth in membership in percent growth in membership in 1989.

Dr. Warren Benson, professor of Christian education at Trinity. Evangelical Divinity School, spoke to the participants throughout the conference, challenging them to be committed to producing disciples of Jesus Christ.

The GOLDEN YEARS . Lot same

Alzheimer's Disease is getting Alzheimer's Diedase is getting increasing attention, but it is not a new disorder. It got its name in 1906 from Dr. Alois Alzheimer, the German physician who discovered certain brainwho discovered certain brain-cell changes which are asso-ciated with the disease. Al-zheimer's Disease is irreversi-ble, progressively weakening memory and other intellectual functioning. According to the National Institutes of Health, the disorder affects 2 to 3 per-cent of the United States popu-tation. It is not containts and lation. It is not contagious and is not caused by hardening of arteries. Much research is unway to deti rmine the cause and methods of prevention.

Malcolm Cowley, a literary critic and historian since 1919, drew a lot of fan mail from contemporaries when he published the book, "The View from 80." Then, at 86, he wrote an article with some updated observations and advice. One strong recommendation: On getting out of bed and standing up, take one sideward sfep to keep your balance. "That sideward step is useful in many situations; práctice it."

Lately we've been hearing a number of concerns about the right to bear arms and whether that right should include an outright ban on as-sault weapons as well as control measures for handguns.

The Wayne Herald, Thursday, March 15, 1990

Mark'n'

by Mark Crist

the Spot

While I don't own a gun, I have had the opportunity to shoot a number of different pieces. I never have, however, shot an AK-47 or an Uzi and I doubt if I would ever want to. I have shot a semi-automatic .22 on a couple occasions but a semi-automatic .22 has nowhere near the destructive capabilities of, say the AK-47.

THE QUESTION we should ponder is whether or not we want to maintain our Complete freedoms where arms control is concerned. Should we be allowed to own an AK-47 when its only purpose is for war? Should we have more restrictive laws where gun control is concerned? And should there be laws governing the attainability of weapons?

I'd have to say yes, even at the cost of going on the bad side of those who support the total right to bear arms. But (there's, always a 'but', isn't 'there') there should be stipulations.

there) there should be stipulations.

Last week, the Nebraska legislature shot down a bill which would place a 7-day cooling off period for people wishing to purchase a firearm. The bill lawnakers vetoed was narrowly defeated by a 21–21 margin after State Sen. Ernie Chambers (D-Omaha) switched his ballot to swing the

THE THING I WOULD be in favor of legislation which would see laws designed to restrict the purchase of a firearm in some cases.

The restrictions would prohibit any individual convicted of a violent felony or misdemeanor of being able to ever purchase a firearm again, as long as they live. The term violent' would mean anyone who has killed or acted with intentions to kill another individual. This law would also cover anyone convicted of a drug crime, since drugs maim and kill.

This law would also require anyone who wants to purchase a firearm to take a firearm safety class prior to purchase of any weapon. This would help control the dangers experienced with the handling of a weapon.

Also, for anyone not convicted of a violent felony or misdemeanor, a law should be established for a 7-day cooling off period with a provision included whereby an individual can purchase a firearm with the OK of local law enforcement authorities. This provision would help protect businesses which sell firearms.

IN ADDITION, there should be laws established which prohibit the sale IN ADDITION, there should be laws established which prohibit the sale and purchase of any semi-automatic weapon in the United States, which would be used in a war. This law would prohibit the ownership and purchase of weapons such as the AK-47 or the Uzi.

Firearm supporters probably would disagree with the idea that laws should be passed to ban the assault-style weapons. My response to that would be to tell that to the families of those killed by these weapons. If that isn't enough, supporters might want to go work in Omaha, Kansas City or Deriver with law enforcement officers during the most active part of the year for gang activity and see what it's like to be exposed to those weapons.

Drive-by shootings and gang use of the AK-47 or the Uzi is slightly difto those weapons.

Drive-by shootings and gang use of the AK-47 or the Uzi is slightly different to being in a war zone because the people using them are often high on drugs and apt to do crazier things. I know there were times when I lived in Denver, that I was afraid for my life since I occasionally had to drive through areas of town exposed to those kinds of acts of violence.

Is it right for Joe Doe Citizen to fear for his life because some crazy fool might be flirting with the power of an AK-47?

THE LAWS OF THE LAND need to be changed to reflect the needs of the people who aren't criminals. If they aren't, it may throw the nation into another civil war.

In closing, let's consider a few things: Did our forefathers have the insight to see what the nation would be like at the turn of the 20th Century? Were they aware what power weapons would have when they wrote the Constitution? And did they visualize a nation 'By the People and For the People' to be controlled by criminals, and wealthy wimp politicians who were afraid to create laws which wouldn't be interrupted by amendment after amendment?

Maybe we need to ask ourselves those questions now.

Farmhouse destroyed

RURAL FIREFIGHTERS BATTLED a fire which destroyed a farmhouse north of Dixon Monday around 8:45 a.m. Fire-fighters from Allen, Dixon and Concord fought the blaze which totalled a farmhouse belonging to Ernest and Eve-lyn Plendi. Fire officials said they believed the fire was caused by an electrical short as a result of last week's ice storm which hit the area.

Workshop planned in Norfolk

I know, I said last week this wasn't a sports column. But this has been an amazing week for basket-ball. I haven't actually seen one game. But I've worried about several.

Of course, the Big Farmer was in hog heaven yesterday afternoon. There was a basketball game on each of the four T.V. channels we get! He chose the high school boys' tournament, and we rooted for Wisner-Piger, who lost in the last few seconds.

They had not been there be-fore, and they knocked off last year's champion in the semi-finals, so we hoped they would go all the way. Bridgeport had beaten Wakefield on Friday, after the Trojans surprised Wood River.

Colorado, beaten twice by Ne braska in regular season, upset Missouri in the Big Eight on Friday, and then carried enough adrenaline to beat Oklahoma State on Saturday. No top-seeded team had been beaten in the first round before, and Colorado's coach had been fired ten days ago.

And, all along, I had been watching the District 11 NAIA playoffs. Good old Wesleyan goes to the NCAA III, so they aren't contenders. Kearney had dominated this scene in the past. Midnand got to the finals last year and land got to the finals last year, and lost to Hastings.

I keep an eye on Midland be-cause the coach is married to a nurse friend. She used to work with me when her husband coached at Norfolk. Another friend whose name goes on my Christmas card list when her husband takes an-list when her husband takes another job.

This year, I noticed Midland had beaten Wesleyan, and Doane, and Hastings, at least once in regular season. And I thought, "Good for you, McGill. It's been a long time coming, but you have built a good program." You see, I'm always on the side of the nice guy, and Rich McGill is a nice guy. Even the World Herald said that on Saturday, against Bellevue at Bellevue. I would love to have been there. But I sent a card to say, "good luck".

On Tuesday eve, I put the news on an Omaha channel. Mike turned it back to Sioux City "to catch the weather." At 10:15, I turned it back to Omaha and went into the kitchen to fold clothes.

Groundwater issues to be discussed

WAYNE - Growing concern over groundwater quality have brought the need for improved nitrogen management into public view says. Charles Shapiro, Soils Specialist with the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension.

Identification of applied nitro-Identification of applied intro-gen fertilizer as the major source of nitrates entering the groundwater has a lot of people's attention according to Shapiro. However, Shapiro thinks that with proper management, leaching of nitrates into the groundwater can be minimized while allowing the farmer to harvest near maximum yields.

Nitrogen applied with irrigation water, as manure, as purchased fertilizers and the nitrogen contained in the soil are accounted for in a procedure Shapiro encourages farmers to employ. Only the fertilizer required to meet the farmer's yield goal is applied each year. yield goal is applied each year. We've shown that this procedure is environmentally more safe, and economically sound, Shapiro

Following a dry season like 1989, And below normal winter precipitation, Shapiro thinks that there is likely to be above normal amounts of nitrogen in the soil for this year's crop to use. Thus, deep soil sampling for nitrogen will be even more critical than normal.

A Proud Booster of Wayne-Carroll High School

Publishers' Perspective By Gary and Peggy Wright

Monday's Wayne Herald published the first installment of a new spe-cial feature entitled Honored Graduate. Thanks to a group of enthusiastic school patrons and community-minded business sponsors, discussion of tic school patrons and community-minded business sponsors, discussion of the project became quick reality.

Another installment of what already has become a popular addition to the newspaper appears elsewhere on this page!

To make this project truly successful, however, input is needed from a wide range of people involved in the Wayne Carroll High School educational process.

As noted in Monday's accompanying comments about March 12's first installment, this program honoring past WHS students has unlimited possibilities. The names of successful former students grows each year.

But to keep the program going, it needs ideas and nominations from readers on who could be worthy of featuring in the newspaper. A selection committee is in place but members, of that group won't be able to choose a former student to honor unless they know something about the person. So the first step in the process depends on people nominating a student who, in their opinion, deserves the honor.

To nominate a person simply contact Wayne Herald Assistant Editor LaVon Anderson and describe your nominee's accomplishments AFTER his or her high school years. It also will be necessary to know the nominee's address so a biographical questionnaire can be sent to him or her after the nomination has been accepted. Names of people who nominate particular person will remain anonymous.

the nomination has been accepted. Names of people who nominate particular person will remain anonymous.

Again, criteria for selection are the nominee's accomplishments AFTER high school. Also, the selection committee would like to first consider former students who have achieved notoriety in the "real world" outside of the classroom and after their college years. For the most part, this applies to WHS graduates from the years 1983 and BEFORE.

It would be nice to feature former students-from as many different decades as possible: 1920s, 1930s, 1940s, 1950s, 1950s, 1970s, 1980s.

As mentioned in Monday's Wayne Herald "success" means different things to different people. To some, "success" is measured by financial considerations while to others "success" means the relative importance of one's job. Yet other "definitions" deal with prestige, or honors, or popularity, or longevity, or the amount of volunteer community service performed.

Your reason for nominating someone could be for all of the above rea-

Your reason for nominating someone could be for all of the above reasons or just one or two of the criteria. Don't assume members of the selection committee know about your prospective nominee. Let LaVon know at the Herald and she will pass on your information.

Just be sure you can provide sufficient data about your nominee and know his or her address or the address and phone number of the nominee's parents. In some cases, the assistance of parents will be needed to gain complete, accurate information about a

DANIEL IN THE LION'S DEN: Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan is bracing for a continuing barrage from the White House courtesy of two of his recently stated positions: The first, that we can cut back the increased payroll tax on Social Security without endangering the Social Security Trust Fund — and the second, that the government has been taking money from the Trust Fund and using it as general revenue to help reduce the deflicit. Moynihan refers to the latter action as thievery, pointing out that Social Security taxes, under the law, are to be used only for the Social Security program.

The White House's counter attack claims the tax rollback will wipe out the Trust Fund, leaving America's older folks unprotected. However, the truth is, rescinding the tax hike will not affect current retirees, nor those coming into the system in the near future. Their funding is assured. Later beneficiaries, Moynihan quite rightly suggests, should finance their Social Security protection on a pay-as-you-go basis. DANIEL IN THE LION'S DEN: Senator Daniel AREA - More than 200 Nebraska cities and towns are receiving $3,596,672 as a result of agreements leasing their electric distribution systems to the Nebraska Public Power District, according to Wayne E Boyd of South Sloux City, treasurer of the NPPD board of districtor.

Wayne E. Boyd of South Sloux City, treasurer of the NPPD board of directors.

Communities in the northeast Nebtaska area which are affected by this refund include Hoskins, $7.059.14; Allen, $8,712.43; Concord, $3,375.11; Dixon, $2,538.80.

The money represents one half of the annual payments made by NPPD under terms of the lease agreements. The payments are for the second half of 1989. The money may be used by the community any way it desires, Boyd said.

NPPD operates the electric system and makes all additions and improvements to the property to maintain efficient service. NPPD pays the community 12 percent of the adjusted gross revenues realized within the corporate limits.

The money turned over to the cities and towns by NPPD at this time does not include the annual five percent in-lieu-of-tax payments

Simethicone for Intestinal Gas

Passing gas or "flatus," as it is sometimes called, is a common problem most of us experience. Increases in flatus is often due to the foods we eat, especially beans and cabbage. The development of gas in the stomach and the intestines is a natural process and is not abnormal. There is no medicine or material that we know of that will make gas go away. However, there is an agent that can be purchased without prescription to help small gas bubbles come together so that they can be easily belched (from the stomach) or passed as flatus (from the intestines). This agent, simethicone, has been judged by the Food and Drug Administration to be safe and effective. Simethicone may be more effective when taken alone rather than with aluminum-containing antacids.
