Attorneys write letter

Solid waste disposal creating problems for city

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Although nothing is finalized with the City of Wayne concerning a contract for the city's solid waste disposal with Community Refuse Disposal, Inc. (CRD) of Norfolk, or L.P. Gill, Inc. of Jackson, Neb., attorneys for CRD have written a letter to Wayne Mayor Wayne Marsh to have CRD present its concerns at the next meeting of the Wayne City Council.

According to Marsh, CRD's representatives will be on the agenda for the next city council meeting.

The situation arose following the city council meeting of Tuesday, Feb. 27 when former City Administrator Phil Kloster asked the City Council to review a possible contract which would change transporting and disposal companies which carry solid waste materials to a solid waste landfill.

ACCORDING TO INFORMATION presented at the Tuesday, Feb. 27 meeting, the possible change will result in the city's waste disposal being taken to Jackson, Neb., which would end a 12-year relationship with CRD in Norfolk. The decision to look at another solid waste disposal company and landfill comes as a result of potential changes in Environmental Protection Agency laws, officials said.

"We have a moral and ethical responsibility to deposit solid waste where it is environmentally feasible," Kloster said at the Tuesday, Feb. 27 meeting. "I think this new agreement will allow us to do that."

According to a letter dated March 9, which was sent to Marsh, the city council and the editor of the Wayne Herald, Kloster allegedly told CRD its services would be terminated effective March 31, 1990.

According to CRD attorney Patrick Heng, Kloster had sent a letter terminating services March 31 with services to be continued on a day-to-day basis. Heng said he hasn't approached continuing services on a day-to-day basis after March 31 since CRD is awaiting further action by the Wayne City Council.

Kloster could not be reached for comment. According to Marsh, nothing on the matter can be said at this point since the City Council is still looking over its contract options.

"We can't respond to the letter at the present time because we'd be ahead of the council meeting," Marsh said. "This is an ongoing process which has taken about a year to develop."

ACCORDING TO THE LETTER from Raynor, Rensch, Heng and Wills, Attorneys at Law who represent CRD, the City of Wayne has been operating with CRD since 1988 to what they referred to as "an oral agreement between CRD and Philip A. Kloster, former city administrator."

Marsh said he thinks it is necessary that the city continue its service with CRD until a decision is made. He said, "I think we have to do what we have to do, but what that means, we don't know."

THE MATTER DEALING with solid waste apparently found its roots when the city discovered in a meeting with CRD representatives that CRD does not plan to comply with new environmental standards until such time as those standards are mandated, according to information provided by Marsh and city public works director Vern Schulz, who is close to the situation.

Both Marsh and Schulz said they could elaborate no further on the matter but said officials at the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control could answer some questions.

ACCORDING TO MARK FISHER, who is a geological chemist for the department in Lincoln, the criteria the state will have to operate under is subtitle D.

Fisher said subtitle D is federal regulation from the EPA which will put restrictions on where landfill sites can be located. He said once subtitle D is put into effect, which is projected for late fall 1990, landfill companies will have to meet the landfill design criteria, meaning landfills will have to have minimal adverse environmental impacts.

Fisher said at the present time, L.P. Gill's expansion will meet the subtitle D criteria while no word has been received from Norfolk.

"The location near South Sioux City (L.P. Gill in Jackson) has a history of excellent operation and has plans for another 50 years," he said. "This seems to be an excellent opportunity for Wayne. That's not to say Norfolk couldn't do the same thing, it's just they've given no indication."

APPARENTLY, THE "moral and ethical" obligations Kloster spoke of not only dealt with the concern for groundwater contamination if Wayne is to remain with CRD, but it covers the responsibility of avoiding a potential lawsuit in the event groundwater contamination occurs at the Norfolk site, according to Fisher.

However, according to Lisa Buechler, an attorney for the Department of Environmental Control, Wayne would probably not be

Record $164,000 raised

WAYNE - The Wayne State Foundation raised over $164,000 during its annual nationwide phone campaign this winter.

The campaign exceeded its $150,000 goal — the highest single fund-raising goal ever set at Wayne State College, according to Shane Giese, director of institutional advancement.

The campaign raised $114,000 last year.

"These donations will be used to fund scholarships and other important college support programs," says Rebecca Keidel, president of the Foundation Board of Trustees.

She credited college faculty and Wayne State College President Dr. Donald J. Mash for the record-setting campaign.

"I think Wayne State College faculty and staff have done a fine job over the years," she says. "But with Dr. Mash (Wayne State president), the public has been reminded of the great job they do at Wayne State College."

"He has been willing to go out and tell the Wayne State story to alumni and the general public. These efforts have strengthened the institution and made it more visible."

Plan works to get cops in shape

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

A comprehensive evaluation being conducted by the Human Performance Lab at Wayne State College may be shaping up the Wayne Police Department, thanks in part to an evaluation being conducted by the college in conjunction with the city.

According to Wayne Chief of Police Vern Fairchild, the examination is a way to find out the physical condition of the city's police force while providing some ideas to improve conditioning and nutrition while providing suggestions for stress relief.

The cost of the program is about $75 per officer, Fairchild said, but the benefits far outweigh the costs.

"I think what will happen is officers and dispatchers will be better off," Fairchild, who has gone through the program, said. "They'll be better physically and emotionally fit because they won't tire as easily. It will be a good return to the taxpayers."

ACCORDING TO FAIRCHILD'S results, the program takes into account age, gender, weight and height, whether the individual is a smoker or a drinker, orthopedic debilitations, present medications and family history of heart disease, stroke, cancer and diabetes.

After conducting treadmill tests and bicycle tests and taking into consideration the heart rate in proportion to age, the tests will suggest what forms of exercise are appropriate. It also assesses health risk from exercise, nutrition profile and stress.

"I'm impressed with it," Fairchild said. "I think they gave me some good suggestions. I think I found out I'm in as good a shape as I thought I was if not a little better. They provided me with some ideas of how to improve on some things, as well."

FAIRCHILD NOTED that employee response to the program has been good. He said he's interested to see what the results of all his employees will be, once testing is completed for the department.

"One of the things I like is being able to send all our people through it," he said. "It's giving us a good idea of what our force's condition is and it will hopefully allow them to improve themselves."

He added that it's important for the police department to know its overall physical condition because the department doesn't have any set standards of what shape it needs to maintain.

"What they're offering is to meet with us and discuss various programs they have," he said. "The feedback from the officers has been good because it lets them know something more about themselves."

each individual in the action of the story being presented.

"There are no passive listeners at a presentation of 'Real Town,'" said Nitschke.

By focusing on solutions and delivering a refreshing point of view, Nitschke said "Real Town" encourages each member of the audience to address his or her own concerns and instills the certainty that one does make a difference in the world.

Nitschke added that during her visit to Wayne, Perez also will address Dr. Jo Taylor's honors composition class at the college on Thursday afternoon.

Perez, A resident of Mill Valley, Calif., was born in 1935 in Cincinnati, Ohio and wrote for The Cincinnati Post while earning her bachelor's degree in history from the University of Cincinnati.

FUNDING FOR the performance in Wayne is being provided in part by a gift from Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8212 and by a grant from the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities.

A WRITER and performer, Perez composed "Real Town" in an effort to promote world peace through world justice.

In her spellbinding fantasy about reality, Perez communicates the awesome responsibility and joyous enthusiasm of being committed to the world's most urgent cause — the prevention of nuclear war.

Because "Real Town's" heroes and heroines are singularly aware of both the threat and the potential of the Nuclear Age, they know the world's survival is up to them.

The play is comprised of three acts entitled "Real Town," "Real World" and "Real Heaven," with a brief intermission between each act.

During the play, Perez expresses her concern that nuclear weapons could destroy the world even if there is not a nuclear war because funds totaling $1,700,000 per minute are diverted from saving people from starvation to the military.

Winside resident Shirley Fleer began her collection of bells over 10 years ago and today is the proud owner of 236 bells all numbered and cataloged — listing when and from whom she received them.
Shirley's collection began exactly 11 years ago on her birthday, March 7, 1979, when she received her first two bells from her daughters, Dorinda Janke of Winside and Janelle Bahr of Norfolk.
Dorinda's gift was a light yellow porcelain bell approximately five inches high, while Janelle's bell was made of blue cut glass from France.

"The kids wanted me to start collecting something so they knew what to buy me for gifts," says Shirley, who today displays most of her collection in a glass hutch and a glass kitchen cupboard, with several larger bells decorating the kitchen cupboard top.

A RETIRED school teacher of 25 years, Shirley says the majority of bells were received as gifts from family, friends and students, while others she purchased at craft shows, house auctions and antique shops, or while vacationing with her husband Kenny.

Her most recently acquired bell was a gift from the teachers and staff of Winside Public School and was presented to Shirley during a small party in her home following her retirement on Feb. 20 due to declining health. Shirley has been battling cancer since April 1989.

The bell is brass with a wooden handle and is engraved with the words "Winside Public School, 1965-1990."
Shirley also received an engraved pen set during the party.

SHIRLEY'S collection consists of porcelain, ceramic, glass, crystal, pottery, tin, brass and wooden bells in all shapes, colors and sizes — ranging from one inch to approximately 11 inches.

Her collection includes bells from almost every state in the nation and six foreign countries.

"The most I ever received at one time was for Christmas 1985 when I received 13 different bells."

SHIRLEY SAYS her oldest bells are a mushroom-like teacher's bell and an old square bull bell. "The bull's bell has been handed down in the family for a number of generations," points out Shirley. "I really don't know just how old they are — but they're pretty old."

Shirley feels her most valuable bells are a complete 1979 collection of 12 Norman Rockwells, as well as several other Rockwells.

"I only have one duplicate," says Shirley. "It's a brass apple school bell."

SHIRLEY, WHO has been involved in ceramics for more than 10 years, has made a ceramic bell for each of her seven grandchildren with their birth information on it as well as their baptismal dates.

"I still have these bells, but after

SHIRLEY FLEER OF WINSIDE stands beside a glass hutch containing some of the 236 bells she has collected during the past 11 years. In her hands, Shirley holds her most recently acquired bell, an engraved brass bell she received from the staff of Winside Public School following her retirement last month after serving as a school teacher for 25 years.

I pass on they will go to the kids. All my others are in a laundry list in my will for the kids."
Shirley's children are Mrs. Randy

(Dorinda) Janke of Winside, Mrs. Richard (Janelle) Bahr of Norfolk and Lee Trautwein of South Sioux City.

WHICH BELLS are Shirley's favorites? "I have too many favorites to pick just one," she smiles diplomatically.

Wedding of the Year

Aerobic instructor controls griders

By Kyle Svec
Wayne State Sports Information
 One woman taking charge of an entire college football team is rare. But Sherry Kramper of South Sioux City does just that. Twice a week she leads the Wayne State football team through an aerobic workout.

Kramper, a Wayne State senior, also teaches aerobics classes to the general public in Wayne. However, teaching 65 football players is a little different.

"The hardest part was gaining the players' respect," Kramper said. "But as the workouts progressed, I gained their respect."

Kramper said if the coaches wouldn't have been there the first few days there might have been a problem with discipline. "Right now even if the coaches weren't there, the players would have respect for me and stay under control," Kramper said.

"She took control right away," junior wide receiver Bill Blondin said. "We knew she wouldn't tolerate any problems...She really works hard and so do we, (the football team), but she keeps pushing us."

Wayne State griddier Mark Linder feels that motivation is the key to Kramper's workouts. "She makes the workouts lively," Linder said. "It fires the team up to see her up there working so hard."

The workouts began the last week in January and Kramper said the hardest part of the program was the first day. "Players came in the first day thinking that aerobics was for girls and is not a workout," Kramper said. "But the players who had aerobics last year had real good attitudes. The new players seemed to adopt those good attitudes."

Wayne State football coach Dennis Wagner feels that aerobics is an important part of the off-season workouts but he admits that twice-a-week workouts are not enough to condition his team.

"It's hard to get physical gains in only two sessions a week," Wagner said. "But we see other benefits which include stretching, cardiovascular workout and the biggest plus—team unity."

"Working together is great," Linder said. "It forms a cohesiveness among the players. The team is already getting pumped for next season." Wagner feels that aerobics fits nicely into the program during this time of the year.

"During the off-season, we try to concentrate primarily on lifting weights," Wagner said. "As a result, players don't spend as much time as they should on stretching and conditioning. 'Aerobics carries us through to spring football.'"

"Many football players lift weights, but don't stretch their bodies out," Kramper said. "Aerobics give them a chance to stretch." Kramper also said that many players run sprints but they don't get any endurance work. Aerobics offers them a chance to build endurance.

"It's a great way for the team to work out and have fun," Kramper said. "It's fun and because of the musical aspect and the dance steps involved, the players don't realize they are working as hard as they are," Wagner said.

The one hour workout consists of 35 minutes of exercise to burn calories and fat while increasing the heart rate. Then, a cool down that includes exercise and stretching.

"Aerobics offers the players a little variety and a chance to have fun at the same time," Wagner said. "Anytime you do something different it is good."

"Everybody needs a little variety," Linder said. "Nobody wants to just run. Plus you feel real good about yourself when the workout is over."

SHERRY KRAMPER of South Sioux City has the Wayne State football team in her hands every week for two hours of aerobic conditioning.

Holiday journey expanded

WAYNE-Five Class A high schools will participate in the Great Northeast Nebraska Shoot Out as part of an expanded format for 1990, according to Wayne State athletic director Pete Chapman.
 The Class A high schools will participate in their own tournament following the eight-team tournament comprised of Class B and C high schools. Tournament games will include both boys' and girls' competition.
 The schools participating include Duchesne Academy of Omaha, (girls), Ralston, (boys), Hull Western Christian and Norfolk. South Sioux City will move up to Class A from the regular tournament.
 Two new schools will join the eight-team field—Norfolk Catholic and Battle Creek. Other schools already in the tournament are Winnebago, Pierce, Wisner-Pilger, Wakefield, Stanton and Wayne.
 The Great Northeast Nebraska Shoot Out is scheduled for December 27-29 while the Class A portion of the tournament is scheduled for January 4-5. "We've been looking to expand the tournament for some time and add some different competition for the bigger schools," Chapman said. "The Class A tournament gives those schools a chance to play teams they normally do not meet in the regular season. Moving South Sioux City to the Class A competition allowed us to invite Battle Creek and Norfolk Catholic. Those schools should strengthen an already talented eight-team field."
 "Overall, next year's tournament will offer the fans in our area a look at some of the best competition in the state," Chapman said. "We're extremely excited to have the quality of teams in the tournament we now have."
 Six of the schools competing in the tournament qualified teams for the state championships this season—Battle Creek, Norfolk, Wisner-Pilger, Wakefield, Stanton and Winnebago.

Let's keep more of these among us.....

.....by making sure there are opportunities for them here at home
 Our young people understandably go or stay where jobs and opportunities await them...where the action is. If it's at home, they can (and many more of them will) pursue their careers and bring up their own children among us. Nice thought. and a gratifying reward for trading at home.

Drains Run Slow?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again! The secret? Clean drains don't run slow.

Slow drains, or periodic clogs, are SIGNALS that a thick layer of GOOK is choking your pipes. Grease, hair, and other waste stick to your pipes, with every use. This gook deposits along the entire length of the pipe. It chokes your pipes gradually, as it gets thicker and thicker.

Conventional drain openers can't fix slow drains. They react chemically on the surface of the gook. To be effective,

In the past, the only way to remove this build-up was to rooster your pipes. An expensive, temporary measure.

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean. Its totally unique formula clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. That is what allows it to liquefy even years of build-up. Plumb Clean will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, we stand behind Plumb Clean with a money-back guarantee!

Saves Money. A 1 lb. container of Plumb Clean holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, it would take over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments. Plumb Clean costs about 35¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.

Safe Too. Conventional drain openers are dangerous chemicals. They can injure eyes on contact. They can release deadly vapors, in some situations. Some may damage your fixtures. Plumb Clean will not burn skin, or eyes. It will not release harmful fumes. When used as directed, it is 100% safe for people, and of course, all plumbing.

So, if your drains are giving you a SIGNAL, act now. Get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today! Available at:

Publishers' Perspective

By Gary and Peggy Wright

Reader's response has been very positive to the new Honored Graduate feature which is now in its third installment elsewhere on this page. In order to gain a list of the wide ranging group of successful Wayne Carroll High School graduates, we will continue to need plenty of nominations from readers familiar with what past graduates (classes of 1983 and older) currently are doing.

As mentioned in Thursday's newspaper, parents and anyone else can nominate a former WHS student for this honor simply by contacting Herald Assistant Editor LaVon Anderson by phone or mail.

After the former WHS student is nominated — and chosen to be featured in the newspaper by the selection committee — a questionnaire will be mailed to him or her requesting a graduation year photo along with a current photo and biographical information including: 1) year of WHS graduation; 2) current address, status and honors; 3) summary of how nominee's high school experience helped him or her prepare for life after high schools; 4) honors achieved in high school and; 5) parent(s) name and current address. Names of people who nominate a particular person will remain anonymous.

As soon as this data is returned to the Herald, LaVon will organize the information into the form readers will see it in the newspaper. No pre-arranged schedule is possible promising when a participant will be featured in the Herald. These various "success stories" of WHS graduates will be published at the earliest possible date according to when the information is received.

As it states in a cover letter sent with the questionnaire to all Honored Graduates chosen, "there is absolutely no cost or obligation for you to participate in this program as all costs are being underwritten by The Wayne Herald and other community-minded sponsors."

So please continue contacting LaVon with your nominations for this Honored Graduate feature. Publicizing accomplishments of past WHS students is a pleasant task in which residents of the entire school district can do with a great deal of pride.

"It's as safe as money in the bank."

James F. Nissen
President
Nebraska Bankers Association

People have depended on their local banks to keep their money safe and secure for so long that phrases like "It's as safe as money in the bank," have become a part of our vocabulary. There's no safer place to keep your money than your full-service Nebraska bank. Unlike some investments that don't guarantee a return or protection for your money, including the principal, individual deposits in a full-service Nebraska bank are insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC.

Deposits in your hometown bank...they're as safe as money in the bank...because that's where they are.
