Area students head to capital

By Mark Crist

High School students from around the area will be leaving their communities this weekend for Washington, D.C. as part of the Close Up Program.

Students from Wakefield, Allen, Laurel-Concord and Wayne will be attending a week-long conference in the nation's capital as part of Close Up — a program which provides high school students an opportunity to learn more about their nation's government and its functions.

According to Gregg Cruickshank, a teacher at Wakefield High School, who will be attending the annual conference along with seven Wakefield juniors and seniors and five Allen upperclassmen, the program provides students a chance to learn more in one week than they'd probably learn in one year of an American government course.

"I think more than anything, it provides them a first-hand, close-up look at the operations of our nation's government in Washington, D.C.," Cruickshank said. "It's something that can't be captured in any classroom setting."

WHILE AGREEING WITH Cruickshank, Wayne High School history and government instructor Bill Sharpe offers a different approach to what the students will learn. He said in the five years he's gone, the students he's taken have all agreed that the experience in Washington, D.C. is one of the highlights of their high school careers.

"Most of them consider it that way," he said. "From the comments we've had from kids who have gone in the past, it's really sold the ones who didn't experience the program on going. The kids meet so many people that it provides them with a good all-around experience. Some of the kids who attended several years ago still write letters with those they met."

According to Sharpe, who will be attending the program for his fifth time, this year, Nebraska students will be paired up with students from North Carolina and Indiana. He said other parts of the state participate at different times

Journalist speaks on Soviet reforms

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

"Nineteen-eighty nine was one of the great tectonic years for the earth's living," according to Time magazine foreign correspondent David Aikman, who spoke Tuesday night at Wayne State College.

Aikman said 1989 was the year that saw the falling apart of Communism worldwide. He said the year held the same ramifications as the uprising of Communism in 1948, the world's launch into World War I in 1914 and the fall of Napoleon in 1815.

Aikman added that 1989 was the year the world saw the Communist Manifesto turn inside-out. He said the Communist Manifesto opens with "A specter is haunting Europe — it's communism." He said 1989 saw "a specter haunting communism — it's Europe."

DURING HIS HOUR-LONG presentation, Aikman said there are three primary reasons why Communism is failing. He said it's economic system is faulty, the Soviet power in an imperial sense has collapsed and Communism is laced with moral failures.

He said a chain reaction started which saw the demise of Communism. He said it started Jan. 11, 1989 when Hungarian parliament legalized the right to assemble followed the right to establish free political parties a week later. Aikman added that Communism suffered its greatest symbolic setback when Hungarian officials went to the Austrian border and cut the barbed wire along the border.

"That cutting of the barbed wire was literally the signal of the cutting of the Iron curtain," he said.

Aikman added that the events that followed — such as the toppling of East Germans to the west, the holes broken in the Berlin Wall and the overthrow of the Czechoslovakia and Romanian governments — symbolized the decline of Communism.

HOWEVER, AIKMAN warned that the Soviet Union and China need careful monitoring. He said Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and China Premier Deng Xiaoping can change their governments at any time if they feel their power is being threatened. He said on the outside, Gorbachev may seem like he wants reform, but he is still a "pure Communist at heart," as he pointed to the midsection of his chest.

"Gorbachev is not a Jeffersonian," Aikman said. "His only use for democracy is to use it to make his reforms. If it does him no good, he'll throw it out without batting an eyelash. Gorbachev is open to ideas, but he's not open in his soul — that's one of the most accurate and intelligent things I've heard about him."

Aikman said there is a lesson to be learned about the failures of the Soviet and Chinese governments. He said their reforms have not gone far enough because you can't have economic reform without political, or vice-versa.

His greatest warning, however, is that if the reforms don't work and Asia falls into a warlike-revolutionary stage, it could make people wish for the boring days of Breshnev.

"The hopes for the future must be tinged with caution," he said. "We must keep a close eye on where we are going in the future."

You probably won't find a more happy-go-lucky person than the Wayne Care Centre's Larry Osnowner and if you do, Osnowner, who jokes with a feverish pride that his claim to fame is being the Care Centre's only New York Jew, might know him or her.

If you aren't familiar with who Osnowner is, you can often find him sitting outside the northeast end of the Care Centre on a warm day, enjoying the nice weather.

Osnowner, 80, also has a story to tell for every event in his life. His personality seems reflected through his poetry and jokes, as

Fire teaches family value of life

By Mark Crist

Despite losing every material item they owned except the shirts on their backs, Dirk and Tammy Jaeger are finding out what Tammy calls the generosity and care of northeast Nebraska people.

The Jaegers lost almost everything Saturday at their home 3 1/2 miles west and 1/2 mile south of Winside when a fire leveled their home and an adjacent cob shed and all its contents.

Tammy says they are fortunate, however, because Winside citizens have already replaced all their and their children's clothes through donations and a few area businesses have provided some support.

"It makes you feel good that so many people have helped out right away," Mrs. Jaeger said while her 17 month old son Zachary played at her feet at Dirk's parent's home about two miles west of Winside. "It takes away some of that lost feeling because so many people have helped us out."

THE FIRE APPARENTLY started as a result of heat from their newly-installed fire stove. Jaeger said she had filled it up Saturday before going to work at the Wayne Care Centre and her husband returned with his brother to check on their livestock and found smoke filtering out of the windows.

She said Dirk tried to open the house up to clear the smoke and put out the fire upon his arrival, but opening the doors apparently fanned the fire and the house went up in flames. According to fire officials at the scene, not enough water could be brought in to save the structure by the time they arrived.

The Jaegers, who have been married four years, also have one other child — Jennifer, age 8 — who was upset over the loss of her hamster, cabbage patch dolls, Nintendo and boom box, Jaeger said.

Currently, plans are to rebuild at the site but nothing yet has been established. Jaeger said the hardest part is having to start from scratch since she isn't sure what their needs are.

Superintendent not surprised by Orr's decision

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Wayne Community School Superintendent Dr. Francis Haun wasn't really surprised at the position taken by Gov. Kay Orr last week in her response to LB 1059. But he admits if the bill passes, it will benefit the Wayne Schools.

"I think this is a political problem for her," he said. "If she doesn't go along with it, she's against education and if she goes with it, she's for higher taxes. She's really stuck between a rock and a hard place with this bill because it's an election year."

LB 1059 would, however, dramatically reshape the financing structure public schools are under, Haun said. If the bill somehow goes through, the Wayne Community School's budget would change from 70.13 percent dependent on property tax levies to 50 percent dependency, Haun said.

"The fix we're looking for is a breakaway from almost total reliance on property taxes," Haun said. "What we're hoping for is a combination restructuring in property taxes which would be a reduction of 48 cents per $100, which would result in greater financial support from the state."

In a 1987-88 and 1988-89 report from the Bureau of Education research from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Wayne schools are listed as paying 1.4522 cents per $100. Haun said LB 1059 would proportionately even that amount for all public school districts and make the amount sent by the state government more equal for all schools. He said LB 1059 would not result in more money for each school district but it would even out distribution amounts.

ALONG THE WAY, however, various groups which originally supported LB 1059 have since changed their position. Haun said he thinks that's because the bill may be the precursor to property reassessment. He said the main reason Gov. Orr came out against the bill seemed to be her concern for additional increases in sales tax and income tax.

Haun also provided some figures dealing with income tax and the only people who appear as though they'll be hurt will be single people with no children. He also said large cities will be hurt by the measure because it will result in a shift in the way taxes are paid.

"Places like Omaha and Lincoln which have a lot of industry and a very low tax base are likely to suffer," he said. "Some very small schools may suffer a little, too but it's more likely 1059 will affect the smaller communities."

Haun said, however, the position of the Wayne Community School board and the administration have come out in support of the measure because of what it would do for the schools.

"We would see a diversification in property tax and state aid but it would not result in any addition to the overall budget," he said. "We don't see any direct affect on whether it will put more money into the classrooms but we will see a more equitable distribution for most people — not all."

Puttin' up with Pete

By Kevin Peterson

There is a sport in Wayne which lasts about as long as the NBA basketball season: every year, is actively enjoyed by people of all ages and with the exception of a weekly standings update, is not given much attention. Val and Ad Kienast are into their 20th year as owners of Melodee Lanes and before this column goes any further, I would like to commend both Val and Adeline for the fine job they do running the bowling alley. Bowling is a sport in which you don't have to be extremely athletic to enjoy. It is a sport which can be actively participated in for a lifetime as noted by the junior league which is enjoyed by kids as young as eight years old and by the senior citizen league which meets twice a week during the winter months and sports bowlers well into the seventies. Since league bowling is based on handicap, every team is nearly equal on the nights they bowl each other which tightens the height of competitiveness. Wayne just happens to sport some very fine bowlers and this writer feels that they should be recognized for the efforts they put forth for over 30 weeks a season. I thoroughly enjoy the sport of bowling and I have bowled in leagues in my home town of Fairbury, Kearney, (where I attended college) and now Wayne and I honestly feel that some of the bowlers in Wayne are among the best I've seen in person. There are 15 men that bowl in one league or another in Wayne that have averages of at least 180. I think these guys deserve some special recognition and the following is a list of the top bowlers in Wayne and their respective averages.

Ric Barner and Doug Rose top the list as each maintains an unprecedented 209 average in league. Darrell Metzler has the third highest average in Wayne with a 193 while Val Kienast sports a healthy 191. Kim Baker rounds out the top five with a 190 while Brad Jones and John Rebensdorf sport 186 averages. Randy Bargholz, Ken Spilttgerber and Dan Rose, (Doug's brother—inside joke), maintain 185's to round out the top 10. Lee Tietgen and Larry Echtenkamp each have 184 averages and Mike Grosz fields a 181. Elmer Peter and Jim Maly round out the top 15 with averages of 180. There are 16 women who bowl in Wayne leagues at Melodee Lanes with averages of at least 161. ReNee Saunders heads the group with a 177 while right behind her is Cleo Ellis with a 175. Judy Mendel sports a 173 and Sandy Grone's maintains a 168. Rounding out the top five is Sandra Gathje with a 167, Susan Thies averages a 166 and a host of women sport 164 averages. They include Judy Sorensen, Essie Kathol, Cheryl Henschke, Connie Endicott and Kathy Hochstein. Sharon Junck follows with a 163 average while Joni Holdorf maintains a 162. The three some of Arlene Bennett, Linda Gamble and Vicky Skokan all average 161. Melodee Lanes has had seven perfect games rolled in Kienast's tenure. The first 300 game bowled at the alleys was by Kevin Peters. Val Kienast has recorded a perfect game as has Larry Echtenkamp. Lee Weander also owns a perfect game as does Sioux Cityan Bruce Widner, who accomplished his feat during a tournament.

Now we get to the only bowler in Wayne ever to have two perfect games in league—Doug Rose. Rose accomplished his feat in the early months of 1988 and in a college league he bowled in. Lee Weander as already mentioned as notched a perfect game but Weander also owns the only 800 plus series ever bowled at Melodee Lanes. One of the finest bowlers in Wayne just happens not to be even bowling this year but deserves mention. Barry Dahlkoetter finished last season with a 200 plus average but took this year off from the sport. Brad Jones has the highest mens game in regular league so far this season with a 278 while Doug Rose has managed a 277. Kim Baker owns a 268 and Don Leighten has rolled a 267. Ric Barner and Ken Spilttgerber have each managed a 266. The high series of the season has been Ric Barner's 722. Doug Rose has a 711 to his credit and Val Kienast has had a 707. The top women's game of the year belongs to Leanne Monson who bowled a 245 just Monday. Hilda Bargstadt and Frances Nichols are each 74 years of age and both of them are in the same Monday after noon league in Wayne. Recently, on the same day, both ladies rolled a 244—remarkable!

Teri Bowers has also rolled a 244 this year while ReNee Saunders owns a 243. Connie Endicott has rolled a fine game of 241. Bev Sturm has the high series on the season with a 653 while ReNee Saunders sports a 615 and Kathy Hochstein a 605. Sandy Grone has had a 604. Lee Tietgen rolled a 288 in the senior citizen league a while back and his series is also tops in that league with a 681. Tietgen has managed 12, 200 plus games in his 42 games bowled in that league. Shane Gull owns a 234 and 582 series to top the junior leagues so far this season while Jason Kaup has notched a 200. Alicia Dorcey has the top girls score with a 177 while Jennifer Hank holds down the top series with a 421. One of the reasons why Melodee Lanes is so well managed is because of the experienced help of Ric Barner. Barner walked into Melodee Lanes one afternoon at age 15 to begin a job which consisted of refinishing bowling pins and now—20 years later, he is still with the Kienast clan. Barner is also the owner of Quality Refinishing which refinishes bowling lanes in the summer. "We refinish about five to six hundred lanes a year," Barner said. "I have a five state region which includes Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin. Barner notes that scores across the nation have really jumped in the last half decade following ABC's short oil concept law which says you can only oil the alleys up to 24 feet. Incidentally, it is 60 feet from the foul line to the head pin for those who didn't know. Melodee Lanes sport AMF lanes and the first eight alleys were built in 1955 and the other four were added on early in the 1960's. There are nine leagues in Wayne.

Wildcat softball team, 4-5

The Wayne State women's softball team will ride a 4-5 record into Omaha Thursday when the Wildcats play UNO in a twin bill. Following those two games Wayne State will return home to play in a tournament at the college field this Saturday.

The Wildcats will play Northwestern College at 9 a.m. Saturday and then play Southwest State of Minnesota at 3:30 p.m. The Southwest State contest will give the fans a chance to see the return of former Wildcat coach Marilyn Strate who is in her second season at the helm of the Minnesota school.

Wayne State finished its swing in Oklahoma with a 3-4 record as they defeated Cameron in a double header by scores of 6-0, and 7-1. Wayne State also defeated Texas Lutheran in a pitchers dual, 1-0 as Roni Johnson got the win.

The Cats were defeated by Oklahoma City, 3-1, and Midland College of Nebraska, 6-5. Wayne State also lost to Kansas Wesleyan, 4-3 and to Central State of Oklahoma, 9-0.

First year coach Dan Pollard felt the trip to Oklahoma was a learning experience for his squad. "We are real young right now and the thing we need to work on the most is developing mental intensity," Pollard said. "I don't believe in using youth as an excuse because all of these kids have played lots of softball before coming to Wayne State."

Three of Wayne State's five losses on the season have been by one run and one other game was a two run decision so it's obvious that the Wildcats have been in every game they've played.

"I thought we played well against the good teams down in Oklahoma and marginal against the marginal teams," Pollard said. "We seemed to play at the level of our competition."

Pollard noted that Jodie Gilfillan, Roni Johnson and Tanya Gappa are all swinging the bat real well right now for the Wildcats. Wayne State is aiming for its ninth straight winning season.

Pollard will rely on three returning seniors and a talented freshman class to keep the Wildcats on the winning track. Two of those seniors will carry the pitching load through out the season—Roni Johnson and Laura Stuerman. Johnson has been a three-year starter on the mound while Stuerman was 8-2 last year.

The third senior, Tanya Gappa, has been moved to outfield after playing shortstop a year ago. Top newcomers include Dee Henningson, an all-stater out of Albert City, Iowa, Jill Gengler from Remsen, Iowa, Marti Hunt from Omaha and Megan Dolech from Pierce.

NU football seniors to be in Wayne

Some of the Nebraska Cornhusker senior football players will be in Wayne on Sunday, April 8 for a 2 p.m. basketball game against the Wayne area Celebrities in order to raise money for BAD, (Battle against Drugs Foundation). The game will be played in the Wayne High School gym.

The special event is being sponsored for the benefit of BAD which is a non-profit foundation based on the premise of helping children who are influenced or impacted by America's drug problem.

Former husker standout Broderick Thomas is the founder and originator of the foundation. There are several other former and current Huskers involved with the foundation including Neil Smith and Paul Miles.

This event will be the tip-off in the battle against drugs. The mission of this foundation is to positively influence youth against any abuse by providing them opportunities to experience a better life environment.

Cost of the event is $3 for adults and $2 for students. Children under three get in free. There will be door prizes given away but you have to be present to win. The grand prize to be given away is an autographed football by the Nebraska football team.

Following the basketball game there will be an autograph session. Some of the Huskers who will be in Wayne include Gerry Gdowski, Ken Clark, Rich Bell and Morgan Gregory.

Those in search of tickets are urged to buy them before the day of the event at several local businesses. The cost per ticket goes up 50 cents per ticket if they are bought at the door.

Social security tips offered

AREA - It is important for the people in the northeast Nebraska area to know when they should get in touch with Social Security, Glenn Lane, Social Security manager in Norfolk, said recently.

Not knowing when to contact Social Security could mean lost benefits which could never be recovered, Lane said. A person should contact Social Security:

- Before getting his or her first job because a Social Security number is required. A person should apply for a number at least 2 weeks before the number will be needed.

- After a death in the family to see if survivor benefits can be paid.

- When someone in the family is disabled to find out if disability benefits can be paid.

- At retirement—at 65 for full rate benefits, or as early as 62 for reduced benefits. A person should sign up for Medicare 2 or 3 months before 65 even if there are no retirement plans.

- Anytime a person has a question about Social Security.

When a person calls Social Security, the people there can tell:

- How much work credit is needed to be insured for benefits.
- Who can get benefits.
- How to replace a lost Social Security or Medicare card.

- How to get a free statement of earnings reported to the person's Social Security record.
- What documents a person needs when applying for benefits.

A person can also start applying for benefits by telephone. Most Social Security business can be handled by telephone. Just call the Social Security office at 1-800-234-5772 or 402-371-1595. The office is located at 1310 Norfolk Avenue.

Osnower

well as the stories of his life in New York and Kansas City, Mo. and the love he expresses for his now-deceased wife Sadie.

HE SAID HE and Sadie moved to Wayne in 1977 to be near their daughter Marsha Langston, who works at Popo's in Wayne.

"My wife had a habit — whenever my daughter would move, my wife would follow," he jokes. "The last time we moved here, we decided to stay and about a year later, Sadie died."

Sadie contracted cancer of the white lobes in January 1977 and died Jan. 17, 1978, two days short of the Osnower's 48th wedding anniversary.

"IT WAS A SAD event," Osnower recalls. "We were married almost 48 years to the day when she died. I remember, she was sitting in the recliner across from me and I was on the couch. Suddenly, I heard this funny gasp from her, so I got up to check on her and she tilted her head a little and her eyes opened a little and she looked up at me and that was it. I called the hospital and my daughter and told them that she was dead. People from the hospital tried to revive her, but it was too late."

After Sadie's death, Osnower became active in the Senior Center in Wayne. He said when Senior Center director Georgia Janssen was gone or was out of the office, taking center members places, he would be in charge.

"I spent some very happy years at the Senior Center. The city should be proud to have a Senior Center like we have here. It's a get-together place for people who don't have anywhere else to go. I still enjoy myself when I go there."

OSNOWER'S STORIES go as far back as his days as a taxi driver in Kansas City to the times he would sell neckties, among other amenities, out of a suitcase in Kansas City hotels to make money during the Great Depression of the 1930s. He said, however, that he's proud that he was never out of work for long and he always made an honest dollar.

"In those days jobs were hard to get, so aside from making ladies hats with my father, I drove a taxi and delivered telegrams as well as selling stuff out of a suitcase in Kansas City hotels," he said. "... I've done everything in my life to make an honest dollar. I never cheated anyone and no one has ever cheated me."

Despite being Jewish, Osnower said he has accepted Christ in his life. He said he relates his decision to that of the Pilgrims because they came to America to practice their own religious beliefs, so that's what he decided to do.

Osnower added, that although his wife is dead, he visits her grave about every 30 days, weather permitting. He said there are times, too, when he will sit by the window of his room and cry remembering the memories they made together.

Osnower said that he thinks

more people should visit the Care Centre. He said it would help them to understand the residents a little better.

"I'M 80 BUT I don't feel 80," he said. "But I don't let that stand in my way. You can't find a better deal than we have here. People treat me like Mr. Big when I'm not Mr. Big. The city of Wayne has much to be proud of with the quality care center they have."

and that states are paired up with states on a rotating basis.

IN ADDITION to the program, students will be separated from their teacher-sponsors, according to Cruickshank. Teachers attend one conference, while Close Up teacher-coordinators show students to their part of the program.

"The local teachers aren't really involved in the program because Close Up takes over," he said. "Teachers are separated from students but they're kept pretty busy with 12-14 hour long days."

Students attending the Close Up from Wakefield include Chris Loofe, Mike Mogus, Jennifer Neal, Laurie Plendl, Wendy Kratke, Kyle Torczon and Jana Ekberg. Students who will attend from Allen as part of the Wakefield group include Ben Jackson, Jason Oleson, Kelly Boswell, Jennifer Liebig and Stephanie Carlson.

Wayne students who will be attending include Ellen Davis, Jennifer Conway, Jeff Griesch, Jennifer Hammer, Jim Hoffman, Brian Lentz, Jennifer Lutt, Emily McClelland, Deanna Nichols, Craig Sharpe and Aaron Wilson. A list of students attending from Laurel-Concord could not be attained.

According to Sharpe, the program will fill approximately three luxury Washington, D.C. hotels. He said in all, 500-600 students will be in attendance.

THE COST FOR STUDENTS to attend Close Up didn't come cheaply. According to Cruickshank, students at Wakefield and Allen took part in several fundraising activities to earn some of the money to cover the $920 cost per student. Sharpe said students at Wayne did much of the same, but parental financial assistance was a large part.

"Support from the parents and communities has been appreciated," Cruickshank said. "That's what makes it go. Now that the community's sold on it, we just hope it gets bigger and bigger."

Mark'n' the Spot

by Mark Crist

If you don't appreciate what our agricultural community does for us, have dinner with a farmer sometime.

My wife and I had that opportunity Saturday night when the Wayne County Farm Bureau had its banquet in the basement of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

IT'S NOT TO SAY we don't appreciate what farmers and ranchers do for us, but I couldn't help but to think about it the entire time we were having dinner.

The food was excellent. It covered just about every agricultural industry you could imagine. When you sit down to dinner like that, it makes you appreciate what you're being fed. Sometimes when you sit down and eat dinner at your home, you don't stop to think what a luxury it is to be eating the best America has to offer.

The meal — which included ham, chopped steak, potatoes, tea and coffee, pineapple in jello, ice cream and chocolate cake — covered each industry.

The lady who sat next to me pointed out that each item dealt with something in each of the areas of food production (which was something I was thinking of the entire time, anyway) and we delved into a discussion about hazardous weeds and the affects they have on production.

It was interesting to hear because it was presented from a farmers point of view. You never really realize how much work goes into agriculture and I thank the Wayne County Farm Bureau for pointing that out, as well as serving me and Rhonda a delectable meal.

ANOTHER NOTE I THOUGHT I might pass on deals with a recent program Sharon Olsen and Pat Jenkins' classes took part in. A couple of weeks ago was Newspapers in Education Week and the third and fourth grade classes in Carroll came to The Wayne Herald last week for a tour. It was interesting to see how much these youngsters know about newspapers but it was equally as inspiring to see how much they learned following their tour.

On Monday, I received several letters from the group of youngsters who expressed their thanks for the tour. Included in the letter was some of the things they learned while they were here — things like each roll of paper we put on the press weighs 1,000 lbs. and each roll will produce approximately 19,000 four-page sheets. The youth also seemed to enjoy the darkroom and all it had to offer and several made note of that.

"I wouldn't say we need anymore clothes," she said. "I don't know what to ask for because Great Dane has decided to raise some money and after they raised about $300, they decided to take it a step further and go for some small appliances."

"But I really don't know what to ask for because so many people have responded to what we've needed so far, so I just don't know what to expect."

JAEGER SAID A FUND has been established at Winside State Bank for donations. She said if the total reaches $1,000, AAL, a Lutheran church insurance organization, will match that amount.

She said their insurance policy will cover about $15,000 of their lost items since they didn't own the house. She added, however, that that amount will not even begin to touch the cost of the items they lost.

Jaeger added that she and her husband are grateful for their good fortune.

"We're grateful to the people who have responded and the people who have aired their concerns," she said. "That really means a lot to us."

If you're interested in making a donation, contact Winside State Bank at 286-4545.

The Library Card

This column is written twice a month to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

Potpourri: A confused or heterogeneous mixture: a hotch-potch.

That is what we have for you from the library — a confused mixture, a hotchpotch of new books on our shelves.

From the Smithsonian Guide to Historic America series, we have five new books — "Northern New England," "Pacific States," "Desert States," "Great Lakes States" and "Rocky Mountain States."

All are beautifully illustrated with color photographs and interesting descriptions of the places of historic interest in the areas.

Of interest to antique lovers and coin collectors, we recommend three new books — "1990 Guide to U.S. Coins: Prices and Value Trends" by the editors of Coin World; "Yesterday's Toys with Today's Prices" by Fred and Marilyn Fintel (This book contains collectible toys. A truly nostalgic trip through your childhood!); "Warman's Antiques and Their Prices," 23rd edition, edited by Harry L. Rinker (All those things your mother saved have a price now!).

For those with personal computers, "Desktop Communications: IBM PC, PS/2 & Compatibles" discusses a wide range of computer use and packages.

A new book on the cookbook shelf is Betty Crocker's "Southwest Cooking." Appetizing recipes with southwest flavor are attractively pictured and described. If Mexican flavors inspire you, try this one!

Another new book on the cookbook shelf, "Dressing and Cooking Wild Game" by Teresa Marrone, not only gives recipes, but gives detailed field dressing instructions for big and small game, birds and waterfowl.

Finally, we have two new books for woodcarvers and whittlers — "Woodcarver's Library" by E. J. Tangerman and Eric Zimmerman discusses tools, techniques and offers patterns and illustrations: "1001 Designs for Whittling and Woodcarving" by E. J. Tangerman describes many interesting projects, giving detailed illustrations of techniques used.

Potpourri: A literary production composed of parts brought together without a bond of connection. Not a bad definition for The Library Card today!

Asbestos removal

Hefner discusses LB 923

The Legislature has given second-round approval to LB 923 which will permit exemptions in a law requiring licenses for asbestos removal and change the definition of "friable asbestos."

The bill will permit a non-licensed homeowner to remove asbestos in residential properties of four or fewer units. Businesses performing asbestos projects of less than 260 linear feet or 160 square feet and linear feet in any combination would also be exempt from licensing requirements.

Current law states that "friable asbestos" includes that which is cut, crushed or broken during the removal process. The definition of "friable asbestos" has been changed to include only that which can be crumbled, pulverized or reduced to powder by hand pressure.

With the passage of this bill, contractors removing roofing or flooring material would not have to be licensed, because flooring and roofing would no longer be friable. An amendment was added to the bill to impose a $500 fine on a company who uses untrained workers to remove asbestos. This is a reduction of the fine that we now have in current law.

The school finance reform bill, LB 1059, was given first-round approval. At this time, the bill will do the following: (1) reduce property taxes by varying amounts totaling 17 percent statewide; (2) raise income taxes by 17.5 percent; (3) raise sales taxes by 25 percent; (4) increase the state's share of school support from 25 percent to 45 percent; and (5) impose a three-year lid on local school budget increases.

The bill originally had a four to six and one-half percent lid on a school district's budget growth for one year. I proposed an amendment for at least a three-year budget spending restriction which passed.

The exact impact of this bill on individual taxpayers and specific school districts will vary widely over the state. There will be winners and losers but the ultimate winners should be our children who will be provided with equal opportunities for a good education.

The GOLDEN YEARS

by Lee Hefner

What can retired people do if their grandchildren live far away and visits are infrequent? Some serve as unofficial grandparents in schools, working with young children individually or in groups. In Hastings, New York, a group of women visit a school once a week to teach each class a sewing project, like a heart-shaped surprise to take home for Valentine's Day. At a residence-school for boys with problem backgrounds, 10 men and women visit once a month. All but one are in their 80s. They bring homemade birthday cakes, play Scrabble with the boys, and take them bowling or picnicking. Some boys are distrustful at first, says one volunteer, but they become very loving when they learn "you are giving of yourself," that you are not being paid but "are there because you want to be."

For people 65 to 69 who work, 1990 is a good year. The long-time Social Security rule of deducting one dollar from benefits for every two dollars earned above annual limits has been changed to one for every three. The one-for-three change also applies to the months before one turns 70, when benefits no longer are affected by the earnings limit.

Remember When? 1935 — The classic "Mutiny on the Bounty," starring Clark Gable and Charles Laughton, won the Oscar as best movie of the year.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

NOTHING CERTAIN EXCEPT DEBT AND TAXES?

Let's clear up a few things about the attempt by the administration to downplay Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan's statements on the increase in payroll contributions for Social Security and the misuse (he calls it thievery) of the Social Security Trust Fund.

Moynihan says the recently enacted tax increase to keep this fund going is unnecessary. All the government has to do is stop using the Fund as general revenue; that is, stop using it to pay for the FBI, the CIA, and all other functions for which it was NOT intended. It's true, as the administration says, that this would be reflected in the deficit. However, the Social Security system did not cause the deficit (it's always been self-supporting), therefore, it should not be used to reduce it.

Also, contrary to what the White House says, rolling back the increase in the payroll tax will not affect the benefits for seniors. However, dipping into the Trust Fund could affect the current working generation when they are eligible for benefits.

Another unkind cut for seniors appeared in the White House's budget proposal for 1990-91 with the slashing of Medicare funding. Look for big battles in Congress to restore all funds for Medicare and other vital domestic programs in upcoming weeks.

A sad sidebar to all this is provided by the American Association of Retired Persons which notes that more than three million older Americans who don't qualify for Medicaid, can't afford to buy private health insurance to supplement Medicare coverage.

resist going out in the cold weather, or may be wary of slipping on icy streets, you still need to keep active if you want to keep those joints supple and those muscles healthy. If you can't get out to walk, then walk back and forth around your home or apartment twice a day, 10 minutes each time. This can increase the heart rate, exercise the muscles, and help prevent blood clots in the legs caused by too much sitting. You can also exercise your arms and legs while seated by lifting and lowering the legs and raising your arms above your heads and lowering them. Do these five or 10 minutes twice a day.

Two car accident puts eight people in the hospital

AREA - A two-car accident at the junction of Highways 15, 57 and 20 occurred Saturday around 9:40 p.m., according to officials of the Nebraska State Patrol.

The accident involved a 1978 Buick driven by Troy Hingst, 19, Wakefield and a 1986 Oldsmobile driven by Clayton Schroeder, 64, Laurel. Officials from the State Patrol said the Hingst vehicle was northbound on Highway 20 and apparently ran a stop sign, when it was broadsided by the eastbound Schroeder vehicle.

The State Patrol said the Hingst vehicle was carrying five passengers, all of Wakefield — Shad Meyer, 18; John Schopke, 17; Ernest Ping, 17; Jessi Jacobsen, 18; and Mark Dempke, 17. One passenger — Darlene Schroeder, 64, Laurel — was in the Schroeder vehicle.

All eight individuals were taken to Providence Medical Center in Wayne. Officials at Providence Medical Center said two individuals were treated and released Saturday night, two were held overnight for observation and were released Sunday, three were then released at a later date and one was transferred to Sioux City. No details of their conditions or who was released was provided by Providence Medical Center.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

The Wakefield Board of Education met March 12. Tim Garvin of Wayne and Bob Miner discussed with the board the communications problems the school is having with the CB radios. The board discussed alternatives available and turned the matter over to the transportation committee for further study and a recommendation. Members of the committee are Sanford Otte, Larry Clay and James Stout.

Mr. Joe Coble reported on what's being done in regard to vandalism of band instruments. The high school girls have indicated an interest in having another basketball camp this summer. The girls plan on promoting a moneymaking activity to fund this program. The board gave their approval. The board also approved Kelly Bartling as an unpaid aide to help with the spring track program.

The Athletic Banquet will be reinstated this year and will be held on Tuesday, May 8 with Bob Erickson as the guest speaker.

Mr. Hartman reported that 25 of the 100 wrestling questionnaires sent home with the boys in grades 4-10 had been returned. Of the 25 returned, 18 would like to see wrestling reinstated. The board took no action at this time.

Mr. Cruickshank visited the board about athletic equipment needs for the 1990-91 school year. The major equipment purchase for the 90-91 school year will be varsity football helmets as the manufacturers now will not stand behind helmets 10 or more years old. The board approved the purchase of 30 football helmets which will relieve the school's liability on using helmets which are not supported by the manufacturer.

The board approved the successful teaching of John Torczon and Gregg Cruickshank as they make their applications for new teaching certificates.

Mr. Hartman and Mr. Coble conducted teacher evaluations of the current teaching staff and the board tailed action on the offering of contracts until the April meeting.

As the last item of business the board extended a contract to Mrs.

Remer, guidance counselor, for the 90-91 school year.

Custer joins census staff

AREA — James Guster of Wayne has joined the local staff of the U.S. Bureau of the Census. He will serve as a Field Operations Supervisor for the 1990 Decennial Census, according to Dale Gartner, district office manager.

Custer, who underwent a week of supervisory census training, is ready to manage crews in Dodge, Cuming, Cedar, Dixon and Wayne counties.

"Jim knows this area well," Gartner said. "This makes him a valuable resource to our census operation."

According to Gartner, most residents will receive a census questionnaire through the mail soon after March 23. Those in cities will include a postage paid envelope while residents of rural areas will not get the return envelope. Rural residents should complete the questionnaire and hold it for pick up by a census enumerator who will verify the correct address for that household.

Budget takes focus

Lawmakers have 12 days

AREA - With only 12 days left in this Legislative Session, work has intensified on the budget. You may recall the State changed to a biennial budgetary process last year. In a perfect world, that would mean that the Legislature would only have to consider the budget once in any two year period. Unfortunately, it is not a perfect world, and some appropriation measures are considered every year. Based upon testimony and submissions of the various state agencies regarding fiscal changes or deficits, the Appropriations Committee referred a "deficit appropriations" measure to the floor for consideration last week. The primary bill, LB 1031, was debated at length, amended several times and advanced to Select File. It is certain that more attempts at amending the bill will occur the next time it is debated. In addition to the main budget bill, several "A" bills have yet to be considered. The "A" bills are those which appropriate general fund monies for specific new legislation. The "A" bills are generally advanced to Select, or even Final Reading and then held, so that an over-all financial perspective is available to the Senators prior to a vote. Several rather expensive measures are currently awaiting consideration. Last week also witnessed the official statement of Governor Orr on LB 1059, the proposal to change the method of financing our public schools. She explained that she was against the measure because it would not provide property tax relief for everyone. Its supporters have not touted it to be a property tax relief measure for everyone, although the majority of property owners will experience relief. LB 1059 acknowledges that property taxes paid in different school districts are not uniform. Depending on the location, an individual in one district, can pay as much as eight times the support of his district as a neighbor across the road. LB 1059 is the product of nearly two years of effort by the Legislature and the special committee, appointed by the Governor. Her opposition, without any alternative proposal, seems a bit late and is viewed as a bit political. The intent of the bill is a movement toward fairer taxation. I still believe it is the best opportunity we've had in years to shift from our extraordinary burden on property taxes. As a co-introducer, I will continue my support for the measure.

By Sen. Gerald Conway
