Kinship program a year old

Adults befriend local youth

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

Amy Dewey and Amanda Young have formed a special relationship since being introduced to each other last February.

"We like to go to the park, read books, play games and make puppets," says five-year-old Amanda. "And on Valentine's Day we made my mom a card and chocolate chip cookies."

Amy, a Wayne State student from Battle Creek, came to know Amanda through the Wayne Kinship program — a program that matches adult volunteers with boys and girls ages five and older.

The goal of the program is for an adult to befriend a child who, for a variety of reasons, needs a special relationship with an adult who cares.

THE WAYNE Kinship program celebrates its first anniversary this month, and members of the Kinship board are extremely pleased with the response the program has received from the Wayne community.

To date, seven matches have been made between youngsters of the Wayne community and adult volunteers, according to Lora Young, executive director of Kinship since last November and the mother of Amanda.

In Wayne, the Kinship program is sponsored by the Ecumenical Campus Ministry at Wayne State College and the National Kinship Organization.

"The response has been excellent for a program so new," said Pastor Beverley Nitschke, campus minister at Wayne State. "It confirms my suspicion that there was a real need for this program in this community."

Nitschke pointed out that Wayne is the second community in the state of Nebraska with a Kinship program. The other community, Cozad, made just one of two matches during the program's first two years.

"Wayne could easily become a role model for future Kinship programs in Nebraska," said Nitschke.

TO CELEBRATE the program's success, a pizza-movie party for Kinship volunteers, children and parents will be held Tuesday, April 17 at 6:30 p.m. at the Wayne Ecumenical Campus Ministry house.

Helping sponsor the party are the Pizza-Hut, Pac 'N' Save and Hollywood Video.

ALTHOUGH THE Kinship board is pleased with the number of matches that have been made during the first year, members are quick to point out that more volunteers are needed if the program is to continue to be a success.

Currently, there are 15 volunteers on file, all of them students at Wayne State College.

"We're very excited by the response Wayne State students have shown in volunteering to take part in the Kinship program," said Pastor Nitschke, "but we are still looking for more community based people, such as couples or grandparents, and we have an urgent need for male volunteers."

Nitschke added that there are presently two youngsters on the waiting list until male Kinship volunteers can be found.

"Some of these youngsters need male role models," said Nitschke, repeating her plea for more men to volunteer, to take part in the program.

THE SEVEN matches that have been made to date involve youngsters between the ages of five and 14, however Young, executive director, pointed out that children up to age 17 will be accepted in the program.

The adult volunteers can range in age from high school students, to college students, to grandparents.

Kinship volunteers are asked to commit to the program for at least one year and meet with the child on a regular weekly basis.

AMY SAYS she spends anywhere from two to five hours each week with Amanda. An elementary education major at Wayne State, she said she became involved in the Kinship program after seeing some fliers on the college campus. "A bunch of friends and I decided it would be a fun thing to do."

"I have a lot of fun with Amanda," adds Amy. "During the middle of the week I start to miss her. It's kind of like having a little sister."

Amy says she would definitely encourage others to serve as Kinship volunteers. "I feel like I'm helping in some way. The first time I met Amanda I was overjoyed. I had a really warm feeling inside and I knew I was doing something good."

"Amy and I made jigglers one day," says Amanda, always giggling, "and sometimes I dance for her."

"We just have fun."

ESU to purchase Masonic building

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

The board of directors of Educational Service Unit One, meeting Tuesday night, unanimously approved an agreement to purchase the Masonic building, located on the second floor of ESU headquarters in Wakefield, at a cost of $3,900.

Members of the Wakefield Masonic Lodge and Eastern Star Chapter are remodeling a building at 226 Main in Wakefield for a new hall where the organizations can meet.

ESU 1 BOARD members Tuesday night accepted with regret the resignation of Pauline Kirsch at the end of the 1989-90 school year. Kirsch, a school nurse at South Sioux City, has been an employee of ESU 1 for the past 11 years.

Duane Tappe, ESU 1 special education director, reported on a recent meeting he attended of the American Council on Rural Special Education.

Tappe told board members that one of the main agenda items discussed at the conference regarded the recruitment and retention of special ed personnel.

"This is a national problem," said Tappe, adding that in Maine a support network has been established for rural special ed teachers who meet three or four times a year to pool their resources.

"I'm going to explore this further," said Tappe, adding that he hopes a similar support network can be established in Nebraska. "These are good people in a challenging field, and we want them to know that we appreciate them."

BOARD MEMBER John Post of Bloomfield reported on problems which have arisen regarding the coop purchasing program which is administered statewide by Educational Service Unit 17, headquartered in Ainsworth.

Post told board members that nearly $400 million is spent each year on coop purchases by service units and school districts throughout the state, with nearly two percent of that money (an estimated $80,000) going to ESU 17 to administer the program.

"The issue is of accountability," said Post, adding that a lot of accusations have been flying around regarding how the coop program is administered.

Post told the board that a meeting to discuss the problem is scheduled April 26 at the Educational Service Unit 10 office in

Pool bid much lower than engineer's estimate

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

With $375,000 expected to be the minimum estimate for bids on the City of Wayne's pool renovation, Christensen Construction of Pender submitted the lowest of four bids at Tuesday's council meeting.

Christensen Construction submitted a base bid of $234,897 which outdistanced its competition by over $100,000.

The bids were read aloud by Bruce Gilmore of Bruce Gilmore and Associates of Columbus, which is engineering the city pool's renovation.

OTHER BIDS submitted were from D.A. Davis of South Sioux City, Associated Pool Builders of Bismarck, N.D. and Omni Construction Company of Grand Island. The next lowest bid to Christensen Construction was Associated Pool Builders with a base figure of $336,300.

According to city clerk Carol Brummond, who is acting city manager, the lowest bid doesn't necessarily mean it will be accepted when the City Council votes on bids Tuesday, April 24.

Brummond said Bruce Gilmore and Associates will evaluate all four bids received after Tuesday's meeting and check the background of each bidder before offering its recommendation.

The other two base bids were for $365,291.45 from D.A. Davis and $359,500 from Omni Construction.

Gilmore said he was familiar with all four bidders construction but D.A. Davis in pool construction. "I will still make a point of compiling all of this but I have no problem with these people building a pool," Gilmore said.

IN A SEPARATE matter, the council approved the Nebraska Department of Road's recommendation to change speed zones on West Highway 35.

The change will result in a 45 mph speed limit from the last county road before entering Wayne to the west through the Pac'N'Save driveway, where it will be reduced to 35 mph until the 30 mph zone at Oak Drive.

The change comes as a result of the normal flow of traffic in the area, according to Brummond, since it is difficult for Wayne Police to monitor it anyway.

Photography: Mark Crist
BRUCE GILMORE reads the bids to the council.

"The recommendations looked respectable to me after I drove it," said city councilman Darrel Heier, in voicing his favor of the change.

No date was established by the council for when the change will occur.

The study, conducted by the part of the street between my business and the City Auditorium and Kiwanis and any other service group can sell pop to the kids and adults who don't want to drink. This way the kids can listen and dance to the music the people in the parking lot will hear as well."

In addition, the permit allows the Windmill to save the expenditure on six permits by having one with the city's and state's approval. The catering permit is $75 to the petitioner and it allows for unlimited catering. With the city's approval, it's one hurdle Vander-snick is over.

According to City Clerk Carol Brummond, if the State Liquor Commission approves the Windmill's request, it will be allowed to cater an unlimited number of events.

Boeckenhauer selected ESU 1 Employee of Year

Dee Boeckenhauer of rural Wakefield, an employee of Educational Service Unit One for the past six years, is the recipient of the Georgia McQuistan Memorial Award for 1989-90.

The award was established in 1987 following the death of Georgia McQuistan, a former ESU 1 employee.

It is designed to recognize ESU 1 employees who have done outstanding work in their field and have been willing to become involved beyond the requirements of their job.

Educational Service Unit 1 provides specialized services to school districts in Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Knox, Thurston and Wayne counties.

Boeckenhauer was chosen to receive the award from approximately 75 employees of the service unit, who themselves vote on the award recipient.

Dee Boeckenhauer

BOECKENHAUER began her employment at ESU 1 in August 1984. She is a special education teacher at the Wayne Program for Children with severe mental retardation, where her job duties include teaching the youngsters daily living skills, as well as educational programming and self-help skills.

"A native of Wisner, Boeckenhauer graduated from Wisner-Pilger High School and from Wayne State College with a double major in elementary education and special education. She taught in several area schools before joining the ESU 1 staff.

She and her husband Maurice farm near Wakefield and attend the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

"This award is about the highest honor I could receive," said Dee. "It's an honor to be recognized by your peers for the work you do."

In addition to her job, Dee enjoys collecting coins and doing sewing and other needlework as time permits.

Windmill gets nod from city council for liquor permit

WAYNE — When Cec Vander-snack approached the Wayne City Council with her request to grant an approval for a liquor catering license, there didn't seem to be any hesitation.

The council approved her request unanimously after hearing her reasons.

Vandersnick, manager of the Windmill Lounge, was looking for their approval of a catering liquor license so her business could better serve the public, especially during Wayne's annual Chicken Days. Her proposal included something extra for the area's youth.

"People have said there's nothing for the kids to do so I'd like to have a dance in the area in front of the City Auditorium at the same time the Windmill is putting its dance on for adults," she said. "What I'd like to do is rope off the

Baseball sluggers improve

The Wayne State baseball team split a pair of games against Grand View College Friday and Saturday in Des Moines, Iowa before returning to Fremont, Neb. for a Sunday double header in which the Wildcats took vengeance on a Midland team which had upset them in an earlier game held in Wayne. WSC swept the twin bill in Fremont which upped the season record to 13-12.

In Friday's game with Grand View, Wayne State fell 9-6. The Wildcats could muster just six hits while Kevin Boham took the loss from the pitcher's mound to even his season record at 2-2. Tim Wobken notched two hits including a single and a double and John Staab also hit a double.

WSC bounced back in Saturday's game against Grand View and defeated the host team, 9-5 behind nine hits and the pitching of Steve Kelliher and Corey Weinmaster.

Kelliher struck out seven and had a no hitter through four innings of play before Grand View ousted him with five straight hits. Weinmaster then came in and recorded the save.

Dave Roby ripped a bases loaded triple in the first inning to set the pace for the Wildcats and Don Graham later added a double en route to the victory.

In Sunday's first game with Midland, WSC ripped three home runs and virtually ran away from Midland, 13-0. Wayne State pounded out 11 hits in the contest and was led in pitching by Joe Fulcher who flirted with a no hitter until the final out of the game when a Midland batter laced a single on a 3-2 count. The next batter was forced out to end the game with Fulcher getting credit for a 1-hitter and evened his record at 2-2.

Tim Wobken and Therron Brockish hit their first home runs of the season in the first game while Scott Schultz belted his fourth of the season.

In the nightcap Jeff Gohr evened his season record at 2-2 as WSC came out on top of a 4-2 decision. Rob Zulkoski cranked his third home run of the year and Don Graham hit his second of the year as the Wildcats combined for five home runs in the twin bill.

DANIELLE FALLESON sprints down the track during the preliminaries of the girls 100 meter dash. The Wayne girls racked up 123 points in winning the team trophy. Cedar was runner-up with 83.

Puttin' up with Pete

By Kevin Peterson

On Sunday at the Wayne High School gymnasium, a group of Wayne Area Celebrities challenged some of the Nebraska football seniors in a game of basketball to benefit the BAD Foundation—a foundation founded by former-Husker Broderick Thomas to help youngsters cope with the dangers of drug abuse.

There was a nice crowd on hand to witness the event but little did they know when the game started, that inside the clicking minds of head coaches Pat Garvin and Marty Summerfield the Wayne Celebrities had a secret weapon which if the game went as they planned, they would unleash in the final moments.

Incidentally, the Huskers had just six players but being in as good of shape that they must be, well it seemed like it was a fair deal, six of them and at least 12 Wayne Celebrities.

Gerry Gdowski, Ken Clark, Richard Bell, Monte Kratzenstein, Kenny Sanders, and Bryan Carpenter were the six Nebraska players and the starting line up for the Celebrities included Brad Erwin, Jeff Dion, Corey Dahl, Tim Koll and Steve Anderson.

The Huskers came out gunning as NU quarterback Gdowski drilled a 3-pointer from NBA range to put the Big Red up 3-0. The Celebrities bounced back as Jeff Dion drilled a shot from deep in the corner to knot the game early. Gdowski however, sank three straight 3-pointers in the first two minutes to give NU an 11-5 lead.

The game was exciting throughout with the Huskers maintaining a slim 41-40 lead at the intermission. During the break door prizes were given and a 10-minute scrimmage was held with the seventh and eighth grade boys basketball players.

The second half turned into a track meet for a while as the Celebrities built a 15 point lead with less than eight minutes remaining. NU however, would not fold as they turned it into over drive and came back to take an 81-80 lead with under three minutes.

Bart Gotch and Tim Koll hit some big shots for the Celebrities during that second half to keep the home team ahead. Gotch incidentally, sank three straight 3-pointers and Koll was doing his damage from the inside.

Corey Dahl, fresh from his season ending championship in A League basketball played very well during the game and even though he was a late addition to the squad, he did a super job. One of his highlights was being called for a charging foul on Monte Kratzenstein—who out weighs Dahl by probably 80 pounds.

With 40 seconds remaining in the game NU took an 85-84 lead and that's when the Celebrities called a time out to set up the ultimate game ending play. That called for the only guy on the Celebrities bench who had not seen action yet. For a moment I began thinking of Rodney Dangerfield in those Miller Lite commercials where people are yelling and saying, "all we need is one pin Rodney."

If I would have known was about to happen before it did, I would have tried to get the Wayne High School loud speaker and find the music to Rocky and had them play that as KEN DAHL stepped onto the floor.

The Silver Fox seemed to be still stretching as the ball came into play as he towered about an inch and a half off the floor to touch the net. Byron Young was the point guard for the final seconds of the game and of course Byron is used to pressure situations as finished up his career earlier this year with Steve Aggers and the Wayne State mens basketball team.

It was a good thing Byron was in the line up because of his maturity at the right time. He did not fold with the pressure the Huskers were putting on him and with about 11 seconds left he found DAHL open in the corner. The Huskers were on him in a hurry though and DAHL found Brad Erwin down low. NU collapsed on him like stick em and Erwin dished it back to DAHL with seven seconds left.

DAHL unleashed a 16-footer from the corner with a man in his face and he drew nothing but net and with five seconds left the Celebrities had pulled out in front by an 86-85 count.

DAHL received a standing ovation from the crowd as he stepped to the bench. He had done his job—the consummate team player. NU's Ken Clark took the final shot and it hit the back board but did not fall and the Celebrities had pulled out the win, 86-85.

Gdowski undoubtedly led the Huskers in scoring although no individual stats were kept. The Celebrities had some real balance as Tim Koll, Bart Gotch, Corey Dahl, Jeff Dion and Brad Erwin seemed to be the scoring leaders.

Byron Young did a marvelous job of leading the Celebrity break and had to be the leader in assists. Young was also amongst the scoring leaders, hitting a 3-pointer and several lay ups.

Talking with co-coach Marty Summerfield after the game, it seems that several hundred dollars was raised for the BAD Foundation which was the ultimate reward for the game. The final score may have stood in the Celebrities favor, but the winner of the game was BAD—(Battle Against Drugs Foundation).

Johnson strikes into record book

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

Senior softball pitcher Roni Johnson struck out seven Westmar batters in the first game of Wayne State's double header at the College Field Tuesday afternoon and in doing so etched her name in the Wayne State record book for the most strike outs in a single season.

With still about one third of the season remaining Johnson has struck out 103 batters this season through Tuesday's game. The old mark-for-strike-outs in a season was 102 by Laurie Owens.

WSC won the opener, 5-0 behind Johnson's three hit shut out. The Wildcats pounded out 11 hits in the game with Megan Dolesh notching two rbi's while hitting a fifth inning home run to go along with an earlier hit for a 2-4 performance.

Dee Henningson also went 2-4 from the field and Denise Kommes had two hits in three at bats.

In the second contest Laura Stuerman picked up the win from the pitchers mound as the Wildcats notched a 12-8 win. Stuerman struck out seven, walked three and scattered six hits.

Offensively Wayne State had 10 hits led by a trio of women with two hits apiece. Carla Gilbertson was 2-2 from the plate with a single and a double while Jodie Giffilan and Dee Henningson each laced a pair of singles.

Laura Stuerman aided her own pitching cause with a first inning grand slam home run while Marti Hunt, Denise Kommes and Eva Coons all singled. Wayne State's record improved to 17-9 with the wins.

Wayne State softball coach Dan Pollard congratulates pitcher Roni Johnson after breaking the strike out record for Wayne State in a single season.

DeNaeyer honored

WAYNE-Greg DeNaeyer, son of Dick and Mary Ann DeNaeyer, was recently selected to the honorable mention team of the Nebraska State Wrestling Coaches Association Academic All State Team.

WSC softball team sweeps Westmar

Dan Pollard's Wayne State women's softball team played four games at the Augustana Tournament over the weekend and the Wildcats managed to split at 2-2 which upped the season record to 16-9, but also in the process of the tournament, saw a 12 game winning streak end.

WSC defeated South Dakota State University, 5-2 behind a nine strike out performance by Roni Johnson. Johnson scattered four hits and walked just one en route to the victory.

Offensively the Cats pounded out 11 hits in the contest with Marti Hunt proving to be the catalyst behind a 3-4 performance from the plate which consisted of three singles. Beth Clark and Eva Coons each laced a pair of singles while Jodie Giffilan, Roni Johnson, Carla Gilbertson and Megan Dolesh all had one single each.

The Wildcats scored once in the first inning and added two more in the second which was all they needed. They added two insurance runs in the seventh inning.

WSC came out on the short end of a 4-1 decision to St. Cloud State as Tina Blackburn was credited with the pitching loss. The Cats managed six hits but the lone run came in the sixth inning which ended up tying the game until St. Cloud erupted for three runs in the top of the seventh inning to win the game. Carla Gilbertson laced two singles to be the game's only two hit performer for the Wildcats while Kristi Wishart, Megan Dolesh, Eva Coons and Denise Kommes all had singles as well.

Split with NDSU Wayne State ended up play North Dakota State University twice in the tournament—once in the round robin pool play and the other in the first round of the tournament which consisted of pool winners.

In the first contest between the two—in pool play, WSC exploded for 16 hits but had to come from behind to win 15-11. The Cats led 10-2 heading to the bottom of the fourth inning when NDSU exploded for nine runs to take an 11-10 lead.

WSC bounced back with four runs in the fifth inning and were never threatened again. Tina Blackburn started the game on the mound by Roni Johnson came in for the final 3 2/3 innings and earned the victory. Seven of the eleven outs while Johnson was in the game came via the strike out as Johnson continues to track down the record. Following the NDSU game Johnson had 96 strike outs on the season—seven shy of the record for one season.

Marti Hunt led the parade of hitters with three singles while Beth Clark singled and tripled. Jodie Giffilan singled and doubled and Carla Gilbertson, Megan Dolesh, Eva Coons and Dee Henningson all had two singles apiece.

In the first round of the tournament with all pool play winners, WSC lost to NDSU 3-2 as Blackburn was credited with the loss. The Cats rapped seven hits in the game but with only three hitters as Denise Kommes was 3-3 with a double and a pair of singles and Dee Henningson was 2-4 with two singles and Laura Stuerman was 2-4 with a single and a double.

Wayne State led 2-1 heading into the top of the sixth inning when NDSU scored two runs to take the 3-2 lead. The Wildcats had the bases loaded when the game ended in the seventh inning.

An Easter message

Christ has risen! He is alive!

Last Christmas, a major American computer corporation put out a card which had the faces of Alexander the Great, Hitler, Napoleon, and others on the cover.

It read, "In history many men have tried to become gods." On the inside it said, "During this season, we remember the God who became man."

Easter, too, is a time to remember the same God who became man. We remember that he gave himself into the hands of sinners, to suffer, to die, and then to rise again.

How better could this God-man redeem humankind than to enter fully into the human condition, and then, having suffered even death itself, to rise again from the tomb.

Suffering and death no longer are the final curse of human existence, for Christ has destroyed the power of death forever.

CHRIST HAS risen! He is alive! The tomb could not hold him. Death has no power over him. This is what Easter celebrates.

No wonder that Christian people gather together like at no other time of the year, for this is the high point of the year. No wonder that the many symbols of Easter all speak of LIFE.

And yet, despite our gathering and despite the wealth of symbols, there is a danger that what has happened to Christmas might also happen to Easter, namely, its true meaning might get nearly lost in the symbols whose very meanings have been twisted.

The "Easter Bunny" may become, like Santa Claus, the center of our celebrating, and the same God-man may be forgotten rather than remembered.

WE NEED to recall the meaning behind the Easter symbols so that they might lead us to God and not away from Him.

The Easter egg is probably the most common symbol of Easter. It symbolizes the tomb from which the Risen Lord burst forth, just as a chick breaks forth from its dark prison when it is hatched. Hence, the chick and the bunny also symbolize new life.

The Easter Lily symbolizes Christ. Its five stamens remind us of the five wounds of Christ. Its sweet fragrance contrasts with the pungent odor of death. Its nearly translucent white petals speak of the glory of the Risen Lord.

Even the Easter egg hunt reminds us of Easter, of the women who went to the tomb early that first day of the week looking to see where they had laid the body of the Lord, only to discover that He was no longer there, but that He had risen.

In many Christian churches the Easter candle speaks of the presence of the Risen Lord, and the font of the mystery of baptism in which we die and rise with Christ to new life.

IF EASTER loses its meaning for us, it is not the fault of the symbols that surround us, but of us who fail to teach their meaning to our children.

May we be surrounded by the rich symbols of Easter, and may they lead us to Jesus, who has truly Risen as He said.

St. Mary's Church of Wayne

Replacing fuel tanks

EMPLOYEES OF Northeast Nebraska Builders get ready to lift a fuel storage tank into a pit on the lot of Casey's General Store. Tank replacements are becoming more and more commonplace this year with new standards being imposed by the Environmental Protection Agency. Casey's should be back to serving its customers gasoline soon.

Board shares concerns

Costs concern school board

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

The Wayne Board of Education seemed concerned that bids may be too high for the planned addition to the Wayne Elementary School but nevertheless the opening of bids is scheduled for Thursday, April 26 at 2 p.m.

"Nothing will be allowed to be accepted on that day because of bond issues," Dr. Francis Haun informed the board. "We could take action that day if bids are reasonable but we're getting conflicting information whether the bids can be accepted or not."

Haun said the state is saying funds can be transferred from the general fund for the proposed addition but the bond company is saying the schools can't.

A concern developed, however, because if a bond is needed for the school's addition, the system may have to request for another bond in two years because of recent legislative action by the state.

HAUN INFORMED the board that the affiliation bill, which was OK'd by state lawmakers, will require Class I schools to affiliate with high school systems and that affiliation may force some rural schools closures, thus bringing additional students to the Wayne system. He said in two years, all K-8 schools will be required to affiliate also unless legislative changes occur in upcoming years.

"Right now the general plan is to go with a bond for building" the addition, Haun said.

In another matter dealing with Choice students wishing to change enrollment, Haun said the cost per pupil covers transportation so buses will be picking up those youth who transfer into the Wayne Community School system. Haun noted, however, that the bus routes will not be altered for the purpose of picking up Choice students.

"If students live along the buses route, they can join the route. If they don't, they may have to find another form of transportation or come a ways to join the bus route's path," he said.

IN A SEPARATE matter, the Wayne School Board approved a contract for special education services with ESU 1 for the 1990-91 school year.

There was a general concern expressed by board members, however, because the contract calls for about $10,000 additional funding for services, which brings the amount to $98,802.

Haun pleased by bills

Generally speaking, Dr. Francis Haun seemed pleased with the results of state legislation regarding the affiliation bill, changes to the Choice bill and LB 1059.

The affiliation bill requires all Class I schools to affiliate with a high school system by next year. Haun said K-8 country schools will be expected to follow suit in two years.

Haun seemed concerned, however, that he could find no information regarding the choice bill. With that, the board tabled it until the next meeting when more information would be available.

He also expressed concern for LB 1059 because of the special

"The thing that comes out to me is we don't have a watchdog, so if we approve this, that's it," said Sid Hillier, president of the board. "Here's a $100,000 contract but what else can we do?"

In addition to the contract, ESU 1 will add nurse services so long as it doesn't surpass the school's four percent cost lid.

ESU

Kearney. Attending the meeting will be representatives of the Nebraska Educational Service Unit Boards Administration (NESUBA) and Educational Service Unit Administrators Association, along with ESU 1 board members from throughout the state.

"This is an extremely important program," said Post, adding that schools can save as much as 50 percent by taking advantage of the coop purchase program.

IN OTHER business Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members:

—Learned from Administrator Rodney Garwood that a computer in the central office has been sold for $1,700. Board members gave unanimous approval for Garwood to purchase a replacement computer at an estimated cost of $3,593;

—Voted to pursue the idea of a limited smoking policy at ESU 1 facilities. A policy will be prepared by the next board meeting. Special Education Director Tappe said the policy is the result of a general staff meeting during which a petition was distributed asking that the ESU 1 office be made a smoke free environment;

—Unanimously approved a list of certified employee contracts to be issued, and authorized the administration to notify two employees, Lynette Joslin and Pat Baker, school nurses, that their contracts may need to be amended for the coming year.

—Adjourned to executive session to discuss upcoming negotiations. No action was taken.

Kinship

Young's job involves coordinating the Kinship program and assisting in screening volunteers. She also interviews parents and children interested in taking part in the program, and serves on the interviewing team for volunteers.

Once an initial match has been made by Young, the parents and child are interviewed by herself and Kinship coordinators, including Sandy Dorsey and Karen Marra.

Kinship volunteers undergo an interview process with a committee comprised of Kinship board members, including Dave Purcell, outgoing president; Millie Veto, incoming president; Mary Temnye, secretary-treasurer; Sara Campbell, Teri Higbee, Pastor Nitschke, and the Rev. John Mitchell, clergy representative.

After the match is made, Young said the coordinators are responsible for keeping in touch and conducting regular follow-ups with the parent, child and volunteer.

NITSCHKE SAID that as executive director of the Kinship program, Young has been crucial in making the program work.

"Lora made the initial effort," said Nitschke, "but we still need more community members involved in all aspects of the program, whether it be as a volunteer, coordinator or board member."

"If the program is going to survive it needs to be community based," echoed Young, adding that the business community has been very supportive.

Young pointed out that the Kinship program is totally supported by donations from businesses, clubs, organizations and individuals.

"WE'RE REALLY pleased with what's happened so far," said Nitschke, adding that the Kinship program has the potential to be a viable part of the community and college. "It's an ideal way to promote better relations between the college and community."

Persons interested in assisting with the Kinship program are asked to contact Lora Young, Millie Veto or Pastor Nitschke at the Wayne Ecumenical Campus Ministry, 375-1234.

Young said Kinship board members also are available to speak to groups and organizations.

"It's clear there's a need for this program," said Nitschke, "and it's here to stay."

Mark'n' the Spot

by Mark Crist

There are times in life when you learn more about yourself than what you bargained or what you expected.

Recently has been one of those times. Much of it relates back to the late days of high school, some to the final days of college but it all focuses around recent events.

I think it was probably best typified when Cal Olsen, a Pulitzer prize photojournalist from Sioux City, who spoke at the Nebraska Press Association convention last week, said "since newspaper people always have to be right, they have a tendency to believe they always are."

That, humbly and unfortunately, applies to me. Like all others, I have my faults but it's good to be able to have the type of learning experience I encountered at the convention. As well as learning ways to improve the paper, I learned how to improve myself.

THE CONVENTION provided information about some of the things we're doing. I got to find out that we at The Wayne Herald are doing some things well and doing some things not so well. Hopefully, we'll maintain the things we're doing well and improve upon the things we've missed.

If anyone reading this column ever has a request for a story they'd like to see in the paper, let us know. Also, if there's something The Wayne Herald which had appeared in the past you'd like to see return — such as agriculture news or opinion — we'd like to know. After all, what we put in the paper, you put on your refrigerator door at home.

LATELY, YOU'VE PROBABLY been hearing quite a bit about the Scenic River Designation Sens. Exon and Kerrey have sponsored. If not, it deals with designating a 76-mile stretch of the Niobrara River as a scenic river, which would, in part, keep condominium or industrial construction within a certain distance of the river.

On its face, however, the bill is a joke. The senators should take a second look at their bumbled attempt at legislation. It is prohibitive and, quite frankly, a slap in the face to the people who live in that area of the state.

I'm not certain if Exon and Kerrey were trying to gain political interest from that area or not but passing laws which take away local control and place the controls in the hands of the federal government is a true slap in the face to the citizens and local officials.

You're probably asking why we should be concerned about it. According to interest groups, if the bill passes, it could be the first of many which will designate waterways in Nebraska as "scenic" — some of which could be around here.

It is the start in Nebraska of the good of the one outweighing the good of the many and that's something we should be opposed to. Politicians are not more important than their voters and we should stop treating them as such. If areas develop a local problem (if the river designation passes) the federal government will not immediately respond to it.

We need to make sure our governments remain as localized as possible because if we don't we'll end up with one central government and several bodies around the nation which are powerless, locally elected officials. It's a bargain we need to beware of.

As George Orwell once wrote, "Big Brother is watching you." Let's keep Big Brother out of our back yard.

TIPS ON HANDLING A BAD REPORT CARD

Research shows that the stress parents feel as a result of a bad report card frequently turns into child abuse. Of course there are better ways for parents to lower the stress from bad grades:

Here is a list of six tips that can really help:

- Sit down with your child and look over the report card.
- Praise your child. Find at least one good thing: attendance, no tardies, improvement in a subject.
- Be calm! Let your child tell you about their poor grades.
- Ask how you can help your child do better.
- Ask what your child can do to make better grades.
- Make a plan with your child's teacher and your child about how to improve low grades.

A recent article in a parenting magazine made a point that all parents should remember if their child brings home a bad report card: the child is probably much more sorry and upset than you are.

So don't make it any harder than necessary. Count to 20 before you say anything and then follow the steps mentioned above.

Those steps are adapted from suggestions of the Virginia Chapter of the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse.

Sue informed me in January that she would be going to Minneapolis for a workshop in April and she'd welcome some company. I'd never been to the Twin Cities, so I circled the dates.

I knew that many interesting and innovative things in health care take place in Minn. I'd been to Rochester once, with my Dad, and had been amazed at the city dedicated to the diagnosis and treatment of disease. Its system on tunnels, wide, well-lit, and laced with cafes and shops, has to be one of the engineering wonders of the Midwest.

The last two days, I've been exploring the skywalks of Minneapolis-St. Paul. I'd been impressed with those in Sioux City until I saw these. These folks have really revitalized their downtown areas. There are blocks and blocks of huge, impressive office buildings, linked by a system of skyways that are glass, warm, and convenient.

Everywhere, there are shops and eating establishments: cards, gifts, flowers, pizza, yogurt, Orange Julius, and books! There are B. Dalton shops everywhere.

Women working in offices put on running shoes over their lunch hour and walk the skyways. It's strange to see them in "power suits" and Reeboks.

The most impressive is the Goltier Plaza, an all glass creation, that houses its own YMCA and contains apartments on the top floors. Young yuppies don't even have to get outdoors to go to work.

This area appears to be the home office for banks, insurance companies, Pillsbury, General Mills, 3 M, and I don't know who else. The paper reports there is a man

Driver education courses pay off for older drivers, according to the California Department of Motor Vehicles. The agency reviewed records of 110,000 older drivers and found that those who had taken driver education courses had 16 percent fewer accidents resulting in injury or death than other drivers. California is among 29 states that require insurers to give discounts to drivers who complete such courses.
