Candidate speaks

Heavican says track record proves he's worthy of job

WAYNE - With brochure in hand and a campaign trail to beat, attorney general candidate Mike Heavican made an appearance in Wayne Thursday afternoon.

Heavican, who has experience from work as the Lancaster County Attorney from 1981 to present, to the director for the Nebraska Coalition for Victims of Crime since 1986. to the Lancaster County 1986. 1986, to the Lancaster County 1986, to the Lancaster County Chairman during President George Bush's run for office in 1988, said his background of hard work and local government makes him a prime choice for the attorney general's position.

"There are some specific things I can do in the state government which will aid local governments," he said. "A few years ago, the attorney general quit giving opinions to local attorneys. That's something I plan to start back up again. I plan to strengthen drug enforcement through the office by helping law enforcement officials have a better grasp of the law." have a better grasp of the law."

Heavican vows to not only help put drug dealers behind bars, but to hit them where it hurts — in the wallet. He said he will work with the governor and the unicameral to enact expanded laws to confiscate the ill-gotten property of convicted drug dealers and use the cate the ill-gotten property of convicted drug dealers and use the proceeds to plow back into local police and sheriff's departments.

HEAVICAN ADDED that he ha a strong knowledge of the rural needs of Nebraskans.

"I was raised on a farm and I at-"I was raised on a farm and I at-tended school in a one-room school near Schuyler," he said. "I still have strong roots in rural Ne-braska and I have experience in urban Nebraska, which make me a prime-candidate. It's a 100 percent Nebraska background." In addition to assisting in the lattle against during Newigne

At a two-hour meeting held Thursday night at the Commerce Federal Savings Bank, Operation Fight Back's objection to LB 1059 was addressed by-Rick-Baum of Cheney, Neb., who said the bill does not do anything for property tax relief.

Baum said across the board LB 1059 will result in across the board increases in state income, sales and increases in state income, sales and property taxes despite what law-makers say.

In addition, Operation Fight Back is opposed to the mandatory consolidation of rural schools, which he said, is written into LB 259.

THE FOCUS OF the 2-hour program, though, focused on LB 1059.

He said both bills also take away local controls by boards over spending and leave that up to the spending and leave that up to the state.

"School funding has increased from 6 percent in 1984-'85 to 9 percent in 1988-'89. You, as taxpayers, can only afford 4 percent increases per year," he said. "If lawmakers take the lid out of LB 1059, property taxes will soar again because the state's teacher's unions are opnosed to the spendunions are opposed to the spending lids."

Baum said LB 1059 and LB 259 Baum said LB 1059 and LB 259 are laced with half-truths, supported by lawmakers. He said if people look closely enough at the bill, it always carried just enough legislature votes to get by.

"Every time, it had at least 30 votes to squeak by," he said. "Even after the governor's veto, it had 32 votes and that was partially due to political reasons."

Voters shouldn't be fooled into See HEAVICAN, page 6 believing that LB 1059 will result in property tax decreases because each time the legislature has im-posed a spending lid in its bills in the past, those measures have repealed shortly thereafter,

FIGHT BACK'S Rick Baum speaks to a gathering of about 20 people Thursday night at the Commercial Federal Savings Bank in Wayne. Baum, who said he is opposed to LB 1059 and LB 259, is travelling around the state asking people to circulate petitions to place four education bills on the ballot in November. Fight Back needs to gather 40,000 signatures by June 30.

measure, it could repeal bills 1059, 239 and 940 as well as sections 1, 2, 4 and 5 of LB 611.

LB 1059, which has been referred to by lawmakers as Nebraska's school refinance measure, is intended to equal out the way the state's schools are financed while lowering property taxes and increasing state sales and income taxes. LB 259 requires all Class I schools to affiliate with a K-12 system under certain provisions by

Feb. 1, 1993. LB 940 requires schools to formulate a plan of re-organization through county committees, accreditation and eligibility for certain types of aid. LB 611 primarily deals with school financ-

Baum said there are many common fallacies about the bills, especially LB 1059.

"Proponents of LB 1059 are saying renters aren't paying property taxes but taxes are figured into their rent," he said. "Renters pay income tax and sales tax and pay income tax and sales tax and so while you're increasing the bur-den of property tax for renters and for owners like myself, it blows the theory out the window that renters aren't paying property taxes.

LB 1059 has little affect on Wayne school budget

WAYNE - According to Dr. Francis Haun, superintendent for Wayne Community Schools, LB 1059 will not generate any additional money to the schools budget, but rather change the way money is appropriated for the budget.

ated for the budget.
"Currently about 18 percent of our budget comes from the state," he said. "But with LB 1059, 45 percent will eventually come from state funds."

Haun added that neither LB 1059 nor LB 259 will take away local control by the schools since the only local controls schools presently have is determining the budget, and even that is strictly controlled by the state. He said he isn't necessarily opposed to the circulation of a petition to place LB 1059, 259, 940 and parts of LB 611 on the balot, but he approaches the lawmakers' decision from a positive per-

"The American form of government is designed to have lawmakers make and pass laws," he said. "This is not a constitutional issue. These are laws the lawmakers have made."

ACCORDING TO a report by the Nebraska Council of Administrators, repealing the bills would return state funding to the 1982-83 level of $133.7 million. If enough petitions are gathered and voters repeal the bills, there is no way to determine what will happen to non-resident tuition, the report says.

"Money-wise, repealing LB 1059 wouldn't make any difference because we have a definite budget," Haun said. "The point the opposition doesn't tell people is that Nebraska is in the top two or three states in the nation reliable on-property-taxes. That was fine at the turn of the century since the sole measurement of wealth was property but today, that's changed."

WSC looks at expansion through master plan

As Wayne State College vicepresident for administration of fipresignt for administration of in-nances Andrew Soll sat back be-hind a table in his office, he pointed to the master plan of what the college might look like in the future, while he addressed the school's immediate needs.

said the foremost need was build upon the growing business

At last week's board of trustees meeting, the tentative map for the master plan was unveiled along with the program statement for the division of business. Both plans master plan will be presented to the state college's board of trustees at its June 14-15 meeting in Lincoln.

THE FIRST PROJECT in the master plan calls for development of a new department of business building to be located east of Benthack where a parking lot presently exists. According to architect's estimates, the 49,000 square foot building will cost $5.7 million to construct, design and equip. "With the Foundation's help,

If the board of trustees and the state's lawmakers approve of the project, and funding is provided, it will be the first time since 1972 a new building has been built at WSC. The last entirely new building was the Benthack building, built in

The last time the college saw extensive renovation was in 1987 when the Rice Carlson recreation addition was built. Prior to that, renovation of the humanities and education buildings was finished in

The unique thing about the entire undertaking by the Wayne State Foundation, is that this is the first time in the college's history it has had a master plan. Soll said the underlying reason for the duo project was to provide a blue print for future development.

No timeline has been included in the master plan since it could take quite a while to complete. "Because these things are dependent on resources, we haven't attached a timeline to it," said Dr.

Donald Mash, WSC president.
"What we have done instead is to determine priorities for what we'll do first, second and third."

Mash added that the board of trustees will probably be apprecia-tive of the project because it will allow the board to evaluate the need for future capital construction projects. He said it couldn't have projects. He said it couldn't have been done without the assistance of the Foundation.

Before the final presentations are made to the board of trustees at its june meeting, Soll said com-ments about the plan are being accepted and clarifications are to occur before the board will see and Soll said hopefully approve to and, Soll said, hopefully approve it.

SPEAKING OF PEOPLE

Ruth Noakes observing 100th Wayne resident reaches century mark

She was born in Glenwood, Iowa on May 7, 1890.

Today, 100 years later, Wayne resident Ruth Noakes thinks everyone is making too much fuss over her and the fact that she has lived to see 100 years come and go.

"I just don't like notoriety," smiles Ruth, sitting on the coach in the apartment she and her late husband, George, moved into in 1945 at 109 E. 5th St.

DESPITE THE fact that Ruth original and the fact that Ruth enjoys—keeping –a "low profile," granddaughters Mary Ann Fisher of Albuquerque, N. M. and Sue Schumann of Naperville, Ill. are planning an open house reception today (Monday) in honor of their grandmother's 100th birthday.

Friends and relatives are invited to visit Ruth in her home at 109 E. 5th St. between the hours of 1 and Mary Ann and Sue also have sent a picture of Ruth to Willard Scott and the NBC Today program for possible airing on Monday morning (today). "I don't know whether or not grandmother will morning (today). "I don't know whether or not grandmother will make television," smiles Sue, "but I sent them her picture."

For those unable to attend to-day's open house honoring Ruth, Mary Ann and Sue said their grandmother loves to receive cards.

Among the cards Ruth has already received congratulating her on her 100th birthday is one from President and Barbara Bush. "It's really much nicer than the one I

RUTH, HOWEVER, is the proud grandmother of five and great grandmother of nine.

Granddaughters Mary Ann Fisher and Sue Schumann arrived in Wayne Thursday night and will spend the day with their grandmother on her 100th birthday.

Unable to attend the celebration are grandsons Bill Johnson of Sedona, Ariz., and Jack Kemp and Jim Kemp, both of California.

GRANDDAUGHTERS Mary Ann and Sue credit their grandmother's stubbornness and determination for seeing her through 100 years of

"Grandmother has survived a lot," says Mary Ann, "including Phlebitis several times, cancer, a stroke, which left her with vision in just one eye, bleeding ulcers, and a ruptured appendix at age 20.

In addition, Ruth was the victim of scarlet fever and has been deaf to a great extent since age 20. She has worn a hearing aid for the past

48 years.
"Sometimes my hearing aids start squawking at each other," laughs Ruth. "You know, I think the very first hearing-aid-I-owned-was still the best."

ALTHOUGH RUTH does receive help, good friend Leona Kluge said she insists on staying in the apartment she and her husband moved into in 1945.

"Despite her aches and pains," says Leona, "Ruth mostly manages to care for herself, with a little help in the mornings and evenings."

"I usually put myself to bed," smiles Ruth. "I don't go to bed until that late."

During the day, Ruth spends her time reading and watching television. She still receives two daily newspapers, along with the local newspaper and several magazines. She is an avid sports fan and enjoys watching baseball and football, especially Nebraska football, on television, along with the ever popular "Wheel of Fortune."

"About the only sport I don't like to watch is basketball," says Ruth. "I just never learned to enjoy basketball."

Before her eyesight began to J, Ruth also was an accomplished seamstress.

THE 100-YEAR-OLD Wayne resident also enjoys keeping in touch with her friends, including former Wayne resident Minnie Heikes, who now resides in Blair.

In addition, she looks forward to weekly visits from Pastor Mitchell of the Wayne Presbyterian Church and Dr. Gary West.

"Pastor Mitchell and I have some good conversations," smiles Ruth.
"We're both Democrats you know."

RUTH SAYS she will stay in her own home just as long as she's able.

Ruth was one of the first residents of Wayne to take advantage dents of wayne to take advantage of Life Line, a device that, with the push of a button on a small mech-anism she wears around her neck, puts her in touch instantly with Providence Medical Center.

WSC track teams preparing

WAYNE-The Wayne State men's and women's track teams will compete in the District 11 meet on Saturday, May 11 at Doane College in Crete, Neb. The meet will be the last chance for athletes to qualify for the NAIA National Outdoor Championships on May 24-28.

Stacy Dieckman of Norfolk was the only Wildcat to win a conference title at the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference meet in Kearney last weekend with a 43-10 1/2 throw of the shot put. Dieckman also placed fourth in the discus and fourth in the javelin. The WSC women finished fourth in the team race with the WSC men placing last. Western State won the women's title with Adams State taking the men's title.

WSC golfers end season

WAYNE-The Wayne State golf team put forth a season best effort in the District 11 golf meet in Kearney on Monday and Tuesday and after day one they were sitting in second place with a 313. Nebraska Wesleyan had the lead.

oraska Wesleyan had the lead.

WSC golfer John Anthens had the lead after the first day, carding a 73 on the 18-hole Kearney Country Club. On day two however, WSC could not rally to over take Wesleyan and Kearney State came on to edge the Wildcats for the runner-up spot.

Wesleyan finished the two day event with a 590 while Kearney State fired a 625—nine strokes ahead of WSC's 634. Hastings, Midland, Concordia and Doane rounded out the field in order of finish. Anthens ended up tying for third place in the individual standings as two of Wesleyan's golfers finished first and second. Anthens tied with Wesleyan's third golfer with a 151. He fired rounds of 73 and 78. Mike Zadalis tied for 10th place with his 156.

Other WSC golfers included Pat Mehrens, who finished with a 159. Paul Parker who carded a 36-hole total of 170, and Clark Cull who notched a 172.

AT LEFT, Wayne junior high runner Tami Schluns runs ahead of the pack in the 1600 meter run. Schluns bettered her previous best with a sub six minute mile to win the event. Meanwhile, Melonie Lage, center, leaps with all her might for extra distance in the long jump.

THE WAYNE golf team captured top honors in two golf meets this week including the Annual Harold Maciejewski Invitational at the Country Club in Wayne on Wednesday and the NAC Conference Meet which was held on Friday in Wayne. The conference has been in existence for just four years and for the fourth consecutive year Wayne has come out on top. The meet changes sites each year to alternating schools and this year the meet was held at the Wayne Country Club. The meet closed out Wayne's regular season with the Blue Devils winning all but one duel and all but one invite. The district meet will be held on Wednesday in Columbus. Incidentally, in the conference meet, Kyle Dahl participated on the varsity and not Jason Johs.

Another reason people should be opposed to these bills is because come July 10, when the in-come tax rates change 17.5 per-cent, taxpayers will be making up money the government didn't have figured into its budget for the first half of 1990, Baum said.

"The major selling point on LB 1059 was property tax relief," he said. "You've heard it before and you'll probably hear it again. All we're asking is for here is for peo-ple to have the chance to decide in November the fate of these bills. We want to get them on the ballot and let the voters decide." scores
