Wayne graduates 65

Motto stands true for Class of 1990

By Kevin Peterson

"To get through the hardest journey we need take only one step at a time, but we must keep on stepping."

That motto not only was selected by the Wayne-Carroll class of 1990 for its Class Motto but it truly signifies the class as a whole as you look back following the graduation of the class of 1990 held Sunday in Rice Auditorium on the campus of Wayne State College. are awarded.

Incidentally, in the four years that the Robert Byrd Scholarship has been awarded in the state, Wayne has had a recipient each year which is something no other school in the state of Nebraska can

"I would like to give credit to everyone who helped make this year's graduating class successful," Dyer said. "A large amount of the credit goes to the parents. Without their help and guidance we wouldn't be here today. They give us so many things that are difficult to find such as encouragement and understanding."

DYER ALSO THANKED the teachers at Wayne from the earlier grades and high school. "The teachers have made this class suc-cessful and have the greatest re-spect from us all," Dyer said. team, which won the State Class B track title in the event, by having barber Dar reli Barner give him a flat top hair cut.

By Mark Crist Managing Editor Discussions from new state child care regulations to pay rates and first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation courses dominated Tuesday's meeting of 18 area licensed home child day care providers.

But that's not the norm, according to Bonna Barner, who acted as chairperson of the Tuesday evening meeting. Usually, meetings provide licensed providers an opportunity to compare notes and discuss problems they face with the children for whom they care, she said.

In addition, the group listened to Carolee Stuberg about some of the initial plans of the Wayne START committee in its address of Wayne's need for additional child care. While most of the providers agree there is an increased need, the response to further day care facilities gets a favorable, but mixed response.

The meetings, though, leave those who attend the meetings feeling "up" Barner said.

"They make me feel like I'm not the only one with these problems," she said. "Sometimes I'll sit here and think I'm the only one going through these problems but these problems but these through these problems but these meetings leave me knowing that others are facing the same things I am. It leaves me refreshed."

The Ley family stored the old refrigerator in the basement until the 1950's when Mrs. Ley con-tacted my dad to see if he wanted it back," says Bill, adding that the refrigerator traveled from ware-house to warehouse where it col-lected cobwebs, dust, and rust on the chrome moldings. In 1973, after being in business for 48 years in Wayne as Kugler Electric Co., Henry Kugler sold his business to Russ Tiedtke. Along with the business, Tiedtke acquired the 1926 Frigidaire.

Peterson was also a member of the 4x100 meter relay team with Chris Fredrickson, Jim Murphy and John Murphy. That foursome was clocked at 44.76 but failed to place.

Fredrickson qualified in the triple jump along with his front running leg of the sprint relay, but

Wewel earns All-District

WAYNE-Junior catcher Mark Wewel of Creighton was named to the first team in District 11, according to head coach Lenny Klaver. Wewel was the lone Wildcat named to the first team. He hit .347 this season and was one of 15 players named by the district coaches for the named.

Fourteen other Wayne State players earned honorable mention in the voting: Scott Schultz, Therron Brockish, Dave Roby, Shane Kober, Tim Wobken, Rob Zulkoski, John Staab, Chris Jones, Pat Wordekemper, Steve Relliher, Kevin Boham, Jeff Gohr, Corey Weinmaster and Joe Fulcher.

District champion Bellevue placed seven players on the first team. Mike Schwieger of Kearney State was named player of the year in the district. WSC ended its season at 26-25, the fourth winning season in Klaver's six-year tenure at WSC.

Both of these fine runners will return next season again for head coach Rocky Ruhl. Dinsmore was clocked at 4:48.0 and 10:52.0 respectively while Fuelberth was timed at 10:48.0 in

Wayne girls score nine
The Wayne girls team managed nine points at the state meet with Tammy Ceiger highlighting the performance with a runner-up finish to Auburn and former Wakefield standout Theresa Stelling in the 1600 meter run. Geiger wasclocked at 5:21.14 for her silver medal.

She was also a part of the 4x800 meter relay which placed sixth. Other members of that squad include Rachel Haase, Susie Ensz and Teresa Ellis. Ellis incidentally, is the only one of the four-some who will be lost through graduation. The four were clocked at 10:01.27.

Geiger placed seventh in the 800 meter run with a 2:22.73 ef-fort and despite qualifying for the finals of the 400 meter dash in a time of 1:00.85, Geiger false started.

Ellis managed to place seventh Ellis managed to place seventh in the 3200 meter run with her 12:31.59 effort and she also took part in the 1600 but failed to place despite a time of 5:38.0. Senior Heidi Reeg bowed out of her high school career by putting the shot 33-11 1/2 at the state meet. Reeg however, failed to make the finals. Danielle Fallesen also participated in the state meet in the high jump but she failed to make 4-11 after clearing 4-9.

York won the team championship in both the boys and girls standings for Class B. The York boys scored 43 points to edge Minden who managed 34 1/2. Omaha Flanagan, Elkhorn, McCook, Cozad, Boys Town, O'Neill, Broken Bow, Beatrice, Crete, North Platte St. Patrick, and Seward all finished ahead of the Blue Devils.

Seven softballers earn honors

WAYNE-Seven members of the Wayne State softball team earned post-season honors in NAIA District 11, according to head coach Dan Pollard. Roni Johnson, a senior pitcher from Wayne, was the only Wildcat named to the first team. Johnson finished the year at 20-13, setting 14 school records. She was a four-year letter-winner and four-year starter and served as co-captain this season.

Tanya Gappa, a senior outfielder from Arcadia, earned second team honors. Gappa hit .201 and was second on the team in doubles and triples. She was a two-year letterwinner.

Beth Clark, a sophomore catcher from Cherokee, lowa, also earned second team all-district honors. Clark hit .281 with 16 rbi's, a team high. Marti Hunt, a freshman outfielder from Omaha, was the third Wildcat named to the second team. Hunt hit .253 for WSC and led the team in doubles.

relatives and teachers is to continue our success in the future."

Following the salutatorian ad-ress Missy Eckhoff and Heather Thompson sang a duet with Kathryn Ley as the conductor. The two sang "Did You Ever Know You're My Hero."

Dr. Francis Haun then introduced the speaker which was Wayne State College President Dr. Donald Mash. "Graduation from High School is a significant mark of experience in everyone's life," Mash said. "It is an ending and it is a beginning. There is life after high school—most of it in fact. While in high school it is very easy to lose sight of that fact."

sight of that fact."

The high school experience is so strong that there is tendency to think that its sets the pattern for our place in our world forever," Mash said. "But I want to tell you that, that is not true. Many of you have developed impressions and beliefs from you current experiences that might give you false impressions

While it's easy to see how these impressions can be embedded so deeply after years and years of school with these relationships being played out, none of these patterns are written any where. The patterns do not perpetuate themselves. You, the graduates set and maintain the patterns, just as your actions cause you to as your actions cause you to detract from these patterns.

It's up to each and every one of you to make life after high school one that is to your liking. You must not become complacent after considering yourself successful.'

Mash quoted a saying from William Jennings Bryan which states "Destiny is not a matter."

Mash quoted a saying from William Jennings Bryan which states, "Destiny is not a matter of chance, it is a matter of choice. It's not a thing to be awaited for, it is a thing to be achieved." There is no question that moving on with life after high school is a major change," Mash said, but you will have other major transitions as you grow and develop and live out your Graduation from college for example, starting a new job, marrying, changing to a new job, relo cating, changing your career, raising your children, dealing with a personal illness, or the death of a loved one, becoming a grand parent and retiring are commonly called the marker events in one's life, but there will be less significant events."

You have been exposed to many good people who know you, who have cared about you, and who have supported you along tway," Mash said. "When you know that people care about you, you begin to believe you are some-body and your self esteem rises. Your self image takes on a dy-namic glow, Mash said. 'I believe that is a critical ingredient, perhaps the most important factor in the way that you prepare for the rest of your lives."

of your lives."

"Each and everyone of you must assume the responsibility for you future," Mash added. "You can and for must make things happen for yourself."

DR. DONALD ZEISS then pre-sented the Class of 1990 with Dr. Sid Hillier, and Carter Peterson presenting diplomas. Following the diploma ceremony Eric Rasmussen gave the valedictorian address.

"I'd like to say that it's an honor to have the title of valedictorian bestowed upon me," Rasmussen said. "Especially in a class so rich in talent. A friend recently told me that in this community, people's perception of you is based largely upon the image created during the school years."

"It is important to remember that this image may be very one sided and not truly represent the individual," Rasmussen said. "After graduating from high school most people will change in some regards, since most of us still have some growing up to do."

some growing up to do."

Rasmussen said in the next few years he and his classmates will all leave and go their separate ways. "In this time we will meet new people, be exposed to different viewpoints, and expand our per-ception of the world," Rassmussen said. "Undoubtedly, these factors will shape the people we become. All of us will change, some more than others."

In closing Rasmussen said that he appreciated all the faculty. he appreciated all the faculty. "Wayne's school system certainly is not perfect, and many improvements could be made," Rassmussen said. "But on the whole it really is pretty good. Any student entering has the opportunity to gain a great deal from what Wayne schools have to offer. I know I, and my fellow graduates, have."

Terry Munson then presented several of the Wayne graduates honors they had earned during the year. Those honors include: Top 10 percent of the class: Casey Dyer, Craig Dyer, Diane French, Sarah Glinsmann, Kevin Heier, Eric Rasmussen and Heather Thompson.

The Norfolk public radio broadcasting station, which will operate at 44,700 watts, is located at Car³ roll, 13 miles west of Wayne on Highway 98. Nebraska Public Radio Network Manager Steve Robinson indicated that, depending on local terrain, the signal will be available to residents up to 45 miles away. In higher elevations or on unobstructed flat areas, coverage will extend as much as 60 miles from the transmitter.

Several additional technical preparations must be made to WAYNE - It was announced by Robert E. Bernier that the Nebraska Business Development Cen-ter (NBDC) at Wayne State College has been selected to take part in a national pilot program designed to uncover and evaluate technological innovations being developed by individuals or small businesses.

Under the pilot program, the Nebraska SBDC will forward promising ideas for inventions to the National Institute of Standards the National Institute or Standards and Technology (NIST, formerly the National Bureau of Standards) to be evaluated under the Energy-Related Inventions Program, which Related Inventions Program, which has been conducted since 1975 by NIST and the Department of Energy (DOE). Inventions believed to have energy-saving potential will be recommended to DOE for possible support. DOE can provide financial support or help in marketing the inventor's idea. Grants typically have ranged between $50,000 and $200,000, with an average of $70,000 per invention. If NIST finds the invention lacks the required energy-saving potential, but nonetheless has commercial promise, it will be referred back to NIST and the Department of Enpromise, it will be referred back to the originating small business de-velopment center with suggestions for further development.

The Wayne Nebraska Business Development Center office is par-ticipating as part of the statewide NBDC program and the Associa-tion of Small Business Development Centers (ASBDC). The ASBDC is a coalition of 54 state and regional SBDC's with a nationwide network of nearly 700 local offices. The centers provide training and guidance to small businesses and entrepreneurs __since-the-Energy-Related-Inventions Program started 13 years ago, NIST has recommended over 400 inventions to DOE for support out of 24,000 requests for evaluation. DOE has awarded grants totaling over $20 million.

Statistics show that only 15 or 20 inventions are recommended to DOE for every 1,000 inventions submitted to NIST for evaluation.

DESPITE VARYING opinions about the need for additional day care in Wayne, the group consensus agrees that help is needed. According to Barner, the problem is getting worse.

"I've had women call me and cry on the phone because they can't find a baby sitter," she said. "One woman had called 20 people and couldn't find anyone. I don't know if we need a day care center but I don't know what these but I don't know what these women will do if they don't have child care. We all get these calls from women looking for help and often times we can't provide it."

According to information from START, there are about 70 children in Wayne who need a day care facility. Barner said the only answer is to either find a location and build a facility or for more people who are interested in operating a licensed day care to come forward.

"The advantage to running a licensed home day care facility is that I'm my own boss," she said. "I like being home and I definitely like what I'm doing. If you go into home day care, your home isn't just your home but your own busi-

Allen High School pays tribute to 26 at annual commencement

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

As proud as they could be, 26 Allen High School graduates bid farewell to the happy days of high school in classic fashion by walking across the stage to receive their diplomas Sunday, May 20. In addition, Allen Public Schools Superintendent John Werner paid tribute to Francis Schubert a resistance.

tribute to Francis Schubert, a resident of Allen, who had recently received her General Education Diploma at ceremonies held at Northeast Community College on Manday May 14 Monday, May 14.

Followed by the invocation de-livered by Rev. Roger Green and special awards presented by Glenn Kumm, assistant administrator at Allen Schools, Class of 1990 salutitorian, who earned a 96.2 average, Stephanie Carlson delivered her speech, one which symmed up the occasion well saying:

"Part of the reason for each person's success is due to the person's success is due to the friendships and memories we will always cherish. Each member of this class should remember that these friendships made during these happenings can always be relied upon and should be counted as one of our successes." Carlson's speech tied ir. to the Allen Class of 1990's motto: "We met as strangers."

met as strangers ... grew as one ... part as friends."

FOLLOWING CARLSON'S salutitorian speech, valedictorian Kelly Boswell, who earned a 97.5 average, utilized several quotes from noted doctors before reading from a book by Dr. Suess, entitled Oh, the places you'll go."

"Congratulations!" he read."
"Today is your day. You're off to Great Places! You're off and away! 'Today is your day. You're off to Great Places! You're off and away! You have feet in your shoes. You can steer yourself and direction you choose. ... Just never forget to be dexterous and deft. And NEVER mix up your right foot with your left. And will you succeed? Yes! You will, indeed! (98 and 3/4 percent guaranteed) KID, YOU'LL MOVE MOUNTAINS! So... be your Buxbaum of Bixby or Bray or Mordecal Ali Van Allen O'Shea, you're off to Great Places! Today is your day! Your mountain is waiting. So...get on your way!

"I thought that this was a joke at first, but then I took a little bit of time and started to explore the meaning of Dr. Suess' words. The title to the book itself, Oh, the places you'll go describes our class fairly well," Boswell said following his reading. "....I've heard our coaches say his reading. that other coaches from different schools wanted to trade kids and programs with us and this was after they had beaten us. This is proba-bly the highest compliment that they could ever give to our coaching staff and players.

"I'd also like to add a personal thanks to Coach Uldrich who taught us a lesson in a smelly locker room in Coleridge, Nebraska in Coleridge, Nebraska

The "Silent Disease"

High blood pressure, also known as hypertension, is a symptomless disease. It has been called the "silent disease" by many because it may be present for many vears before it is noticed The only way to determine if the blood pressure is elevated is to have it checked. Typically, a blood pressure cuff is placed around the up per arm and inflated. Blood pressure is measured via a dial or digital readout. The test is painless and can be performed at home in only a few minutes. Elevated blood pressure can cause damage to the small vessels of the body, especially in the eyes, heart, brain, and kidneys. Loss of vision, heart attack, stroke, and kidney disease may occur These problems often can be prevented by eating a low salt diet and taking rela tively safe medicines, such as diuretics.

Co-valedictorian tells Class of 1990 to rise to the challenge of the world

by Krls Loberg
Laurel Advocate Editor
At the dawning of a changing decade, the Laurel-Concord Class of 1990 was challenged to meet those changes and make their own in a graduation ceremony Sunday.
Thirty-six students received diplomas in the afternoon ceremony before a gwnfull of family mony before a gym-full of family and friends.

Co-valedictorian Kevin Macklin called upon his fellow classmates to rise to the changing world which lies before them. "The Berlin Wall is now just a memory. The countries of Eastern Europe are demanding freedom and democracy and getting those demands met. The strangle-hold of Apartheid in South Africa is loosening. Nuclear war is not the eminent threat that it once was, as our leaders on both sides are agreeing to give them up piece by piece," he said. "The changes that have been accomplished should fill us with a feeling of hope as we are going out into a world where the stage is set for us to make our own changes."

The Class of 1990 must be aware of the world around them, Macklin said, for that awareness will inspire them to make the changes they see processes. they see necessary. .-

"This inspiration allows us to set the right goals for ourselves," he said. "As we leave the guidance of high school, it is even more essen-tial that we keep defining and to tial that we keep defining and re-defining our goals in life. Without these goals, we waste so much of our valuable time on earth — the time that we have been given to make life better for all of us, be it by helping one person or thou-

The other co-valedictorian, Amy

The other co-valedictorian, Amy Adkins, recapped the school years of the Class of 1990.

For the past 18 years each member of the graduating class has continued to grow and develop into 35 very different people, she said. Although our interests and talents vary now, we all stepped into the kindergarten room in 1977 with similar ideals ranging from being the line leader to napping on being the line leader to napping on our rugs."

Adkins recounted the various highlights of the past years, including athletic and academic

"We are limited only by our own creativity. Imaginative thinking is the key to achievement. In a world that often seems high-tech and chaotic, we must never lose sight of our greatest resource — peo-ple," she said. "Without utilizing communication skill and working with people, many ideas will be lost, individual potentials may be stifled and our dreams may never

"If people pull together and combine their tremendous talents, then the impossible can be achieved, benefiting more than just one mind," she said.

Adkins is the daughter of Rick and Joan Adkins.

CONCORD - In the battle against leafy spurge, flexible ropewick herbicide applicators could be an effective weapon, ac cording to a University of Nebraska crop and weed scientist. Russell Moomaw, agronomist at NU's Northeast Research and Ex-tension Center near here, said his research has shown that no chemical or treatment method wipes out leafy spurge. However, application of Tordon through a flexible ropewick applicator does a good job of control, and is economical

For best results, leafy spurge should be treated in the flowering stage, Moomaw said, which is usu-stage, Moomaw said, which is usually in late May or early June.

"Leafy spurge is almost impossible to completely eliminate," Moomaw said. "The best a producer can do is to get on top of it with annual herbicide treatments. A flexible ropewick applicator may be a good application method in some instances."

Leafy spurge, a deep-rooted, tenacious perennial weed, is particularly troublesome in rangeland.

If not controlled, Moomaw said, it grows in patches which limit grass production. With time, a pasture can become infested with leafy spurge.

In Moomaw's research, a rigid ropewick applicator was compared to a flexible ropewick applicator.

However, Moomaw said, rigid pipewick applicators could also be used to apply Tordon 22K solution. The flexible applicators usually have four separate flexible sections, he said. Each section is mounted on gauge wheels. This flexibility gives a distinct advantage in hilly pastures. It provides even application on both ends, he said.

ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY MAY END OBESITY

WASHINGTON - Obesity may be controlled naturally with a new type of pill, discovered by accident, a research scientist confirmed recently.

In studies with potential cholesterol-lowering agents, scientists noted an un-usual side effect. Patients receiving an ingredient in what is now being called FS-1 all lost weight, in spite of being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, while body weight in control groups ed constant.

Scientists say the mechanism behind Scientists say the mechanism beaming the weight reduction is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calorie-rich dietary fats. Although scientists for some time have known of substances with the time nave known to substances with the capability of producing this effect, the dramatic impact on weight reduction was not known until recently. Substances with a greater potential to block absorption will produce greater weight loss results. The director of research and develop-director of research and development at National Dietary Research, an or ganization committed to the investigaon and research of nutritional solutions town and research of nutrinolar solutions to world-wide health problems, stated "The mechanism by which FS-1 works to decrease body weight is actually more complex and sophisticated process called nutri-bonding. When chewed and more complex and sophisticate process called nutri-bonding. When chewed and swallowed immediately before meals, FS-releases nutrients with low caloric content into the body, while high caloric fats are eliminated, thus providing optimum nutrition and a minimum number of calorica?

to be the most effective treatment for obesity and the most acceptable to patients.

The discovery comes as welcome news for thousands of obesity sufferers waiting years for this type of breakthrough. According to a spokesperson at NDR, "FS-1 can be made available to the public immediately, because it is not a drug and contains only natural ingredients recognized as safe. A drug with essentially the same weight loss capabilities might take as long as eight years to be available, due to lengthy delays encountered in the approval process." FS-1 is currently available on a limited basis through physicians and pharmacies, but may also be obtained by sending $24.98 plus $3 postage & handling to FS-1. The Farmer's Wife By Pat Meierhenry

Our state, as all of the United States, is divided into counties. Counties are sub-divided into precincts. Villages have village boards, counties have county commissioners, cities have city councils. These are all elected officials in addition to senators. cials, in addition to senators, congressmen, governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, and state senators.

They have different lengths of terms of office, and we are subjected to an election every two years. Not just a general election in November, but a primary in May. In case you didn't notice, we just had a primary election. And the Democrats, out of seven interested parties for giving Kay Orr a battle, have reduced that number to two. If you don't believe in the value of a few votes, or in absentee ballots, watch what happens in this race.

Ann says she could not find any one at her place of employment last week who was going to vote on Tuesday; some said they didn't even realize there was an election. The concern regarding apathy in politics is valid. I think John Q. Public has come to wonder what it all proves. The issues seem to remain the same.

There are a loyal few who choose to place their names on the ballot, for whatever motivation. Sometimes it is only a seat on the NRD board they are vying for, as in the case of the Big Farmer. Just how much campaigning should one do for a non-salaried job? And who cares about natural resources anyway?

primary. It's non-political, so each person who entered the polls could vote. And each person in the Lower Elkhorn district can vote for one man in each area, regardless of where he or she lives. (I should say one man or woman. Women can be on the NRD board.)

Someone told us that in the case of unfamiliar names, voters will choose Scandinavian names. We wondered how Meierhenry would fare against Hanson or Anderson. It fare against Hanson or Anderson. It certainly hasn't been linked with any well-known faces in Nebraska. I decided that if he didn't make it past the primary, it was a sign he was supposed to move off the farm. There certainly are non-farmers on the NRD board, but we would probably move to another NRD district.

Last Tuesday was so busy, I for-t to stop in Hoskins and vote. So got to stop in Hoskins and vote. So I had to go back in after supper, before I went to Laurel to a meet-before I went to Lauret of a free-ing of Hospice volunteers. When I drove home, the results were already being announced on KTCH, as they came in. Not one word about NRD board.

The next morning, no mention. We began to get an inkling of just how important this contest was, at least to the media.

By noon, we knew that the German in our house had beaten two Scandinavians. But as he puts it, "Seven thousand voted against Republicans, Independents and Democrats consistently support Jim Exon because as our Governor and U.S. Senator he has faithfully performed his duties to help all Nebraskans. His integrity, dedication, proven leadership and seniority are a plus for Nebraska. Senator Exon never makes a distinction because of political party. He works for all Nebraskans. He is the only Nebraskan who chairs a Congressional Subcommittee. And Jim Exon holds two chairmanships which are vital to Nebraska's well being. He heads the Surface Transportation Subcommittee and the Strategic Forces & Nuclear Deterrence Subcommittee. He's a member of the Senate Budget Committee. And you know what? His work pays off for Nebraska. He gets results for all of us. Whether he is protecting nercial air routes so we can sustain economic development or ensuring that agriculture and the state are treated fairly, Jim Exon represents all of us. He puts Nebraska first.
