Teaching at home

Option provides one family valuable time

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

When people take their children out of public or private schools, there's usually a reason.

One of the reasons is Rule 13, adopted by the Nebraska State Legislature in 1984, which allows for home teaching.

Larry and Kathleen Grone had a reason a year ago and today, they're glad. The Grones, like four other couples in the Wayne area, teach their children at home.

"When we first took our children out of the public schools, our faith didn't have a thing to do with it," Kathleen Grone said. "We had one child enrolled in school and after a few years, she stopped enjoying it. When that happened, we talked to some people who were doing home schooling and decided that would be best for our children."

This first year, Mrs. Grone taught her daughter Timoni, 9, at the fourth grade level. In addition, this next year she will add daughter Tara, 5, to her classroom as a kindergartner and son Luke, 3, as a pre-kindergartner.

DESPITE QUESTIONS of children being able to adapt to society, the Grones believe taking Timoni out of school has been a blessing in disguise. They said despite not being taught in a traditional classroom atmosphere, Timoni has the same social skills as any youth her age and she's learning at an accelerated rate.

Mrs. Grone, who is the primary educator in their home, said Timoni develops her socialization skills through church school, gymnastics and swimming lessons.

"She's not totally isolated," they agreed. "She's very outspoken when it comes to something she cares about."

The problems the Grones ran into with Timoni began when she became apathetic. Timoni said she was a faster reader than most of the kids in her classroom and since she had to wait for the rest of her classmates to catch up, she got bored and uninterested.

In addition, Mrs. Grone said Timoni would often come home crying after getting back test results because she had missed some test problems. She said the conflict they saw within Timoni was a result of the competitive atmosphere she found in the classroom.

AFTER STARTING their home schooling, Mrs. Grone discovered that neither she nor Timoni really knew each other. She said although that surprised her, they took the first couple months getting to know each other better and since then, they share similar thoughts.

Timoni said since being taught at school, she knows better what she wants to do when she goes to college. She said she'd like to get involved in areas involving science because that interests her.

Mrs. Grone said their discussions of science deal with theories. Through those scientific theories, religion is integrated into the curriculum.

In this part of the curriculum, Larry Grone gets involved.

"When we get into science and into social studies, there is material which we integrate with the Bible," Mrs. Grone, a member of the non-denominational Word of Life church, said. "When we come to the discussion of science, we teach the Bible's version as fact and the scientific version as theory — which it is."

THE GRONE'S decision to teach the Bible as fact is the only thing which stems from their own religious beliefs. According to Mr. Grone, students in public schools are being taught a humanistic approach to values rather than a Biblical approach and this, he believes, is hurting the public schools.

"Students in schools can be exposed to religion, but what does it do for them?" he asked. "Through home schools, we can teach our

Officials: Choice not ours

WAYNE - Local school officials have no control over the type of education being taught in homes, according to Dr. Francis Haun, Wayne Community school superintendent and Harry Mills, county superintendent of schools.

Laws provide "for the exemption of schools from state approval and accreditation requirements when such schools elect, pursuant to section 79-1701, not to meet those requirements because they would violate the sincerely held religious beliefs of the parents of legal guardians," according to the scope of Rule 13, a law which allows for home schooling.

According to Dr. Haun, once parents take students out of school, the schools have no idea what happens to the youth. In addition, the Wayne public schools have no jurisdiction over those students.

"I'm hard-put to understand what social aspects non-public or private students have," he said. "We place a lot of

WAYNE STATE COLLEGE photographer Barry Dahlkoetter poses with an album cover version of a photograph he took of musician Barry Manilow.

Dahlkoetter earns spot among credits on album

Normally, information about the "Tonight Show with Johnny Carson" wouldn't make headlines in The Wayne Herald but Wayne State College's Barry Dahlkoetter, who works in the college relations office, has provided a good reason for doing so.

Dahlkoetter, who provides much of the photography for WSC events, will have a picture he took on the "Tonight Show with Johnny Carson" featured. Although he won't appear personally on the show, an internationally known figure will be there on his behalf.

Barry Manilow, a well-known artist who jettisoned into the pop music scene during the 1970s and late '80s, is using a photo taken by Dahlkoetter for his most recent album cover entitled "Barry Manilow — Live on Broadway."

"When I got a complimentary copy of the album cover, it made me think about what I did to become a photographer," Dahlkoetter said. "It took me back to when I was on the Wayne Stater as a student and whether those late nights would pay off. I was pleased to know it had paid off."

DAHLKOETTER TOOK the photograph of Manilow during a concert in Sioux City about two years ago. He said although he didn't know what to do with the pictures once they were developed, he decided to take a chance with them.

"Basically, it happened by accident," he said. "I thought I'd just use them for my resume or for a portfolio. About six months after the concert, I sent them to the address on the cover. I was a little afraid about being rejected but all I had to spend was the cost of a postage stamp."

In return for their using the photograph, Dahlkoetter has his name listed among the credits of Manilow's new album cover. In addition, the photos are being used for a video taped version of performances and other publicity material.

Chemical conference

Professor works to make others aware

WAYNE - Dr. Pearl Hansen is aware of the hazards associated with working with chemicals because she has suffered from toxic poisoning in her artwork and now limits herself to the hours a week she works.

That's one reason why she has organized the second Safety and Chemical Awareness Conference for June 13-15 at Wayne State College.

"After I went through some of the problems associated with poisoning, I would have understood what was happening," she said. "If I would've controlled my environment a little bit more, it may have been different."

Hansen's love for her work occasionally kept her in the studio days on end, with little rest and almost no contact with fresh air. She said the conference is to educate parents and business people about the hazards associated with chemical poisoning so others won't experience the pain she did.

"My thoughts after I got better went to the kids," she explains. "What kind of risks are we placing a kid in who has heart of kidney problems, especially when they're working around toxic fumes?"

SPECIFIC AREAS which will be addressed in the Chemical Awareness Conference deal with education, chemicals in the home and at work, how chemicals affect children and the elderly as well as the advances in industrial technology, agriculture and the medical profession. The conference will also address science, the arts and custodial maintenance.

It will also be followed up by a right-to-know training course June 18-22 at WSC. Hansen said many people, especially those in businesses, do not know of the hazards chemicals create in the work place. She said she hopes this workshop will make people more aware.

"If people know a little bit more and can change one part of what they're doing, it can have a positive result," she said. "Since we're leaving a lot of these problems to our children, maybe we can educate them about the troubles and protect them."

One of the problems Hansen said she's run into is when people find out what will be discussed at the conference, they pull out of it. She said some people are afraid to learn what toxic chemicals are doing to themselves, their children and the environment, so they aren't registering.

"Sometimes it's easier to be unaware because once you become aware, you face the decision of continuing a situation which may be hazardous or you have to make changes so it's not," she said.

"For myself, I don't want to see other people suffer from the problems I did. I want them to know through education — there's ways to work with this but in a safer manner. My concern is for the children."

Restful Knights inks Pamida

WAYNE - Virgil Kardell appeared comfortable as he sat in the conference room of the Restful Knights office.

He should be. As co-owner of Restful Knights, Kardell completed a project which has been three years in the making.

Restful Knights, a Wayne manufacturer of mattress pads, comforters and pillows, got Pamida stores to sign along the dotted line to sell its line of mattress pads.

"As a credit to Pamida, they've decided it's good to do business with a Nebraska vendor because they're supporting the state and increasing jobs," he said. "That's a real credit to them."

According to Robbi Bishop, manager of the Pamida store in Wayne, she thinks the new agreement will result in increased sales at the Wayne store.

She said although she wasn't aware of the work being done by Restful Knights, she had filled out a survey about local businesses that could be manufacturers for Pamida. She said Restful Knights was listed as one of those businesses.

"Carrying something from a local manufacturer will help keep people shopping in Wayne," Bishop said. "In addition, it's going

WSC's John Anthens captures June Open

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

Two hundred and one golfers turned out to brave the extreme windy conditions and cool weather for the Annual Wayne Country Club June Open, Sunday, and when the dust had cleared, Wayne State College golfer John Anthens stood the tallest.

Anthens fired rounds of 35-39 in the first 18-holes and had a two stroke lead on Baker University's Mark Lindberg before the calcutta round which was played by the ones who made the cut in the championship round only.

Omaha Westside graduate Scott Hoffman carded an 80 on the first 18 and was six strokes back of front runner Anthens, but following a 33 in the calcutta round, Hoffman clawed his way to a tie with Anthens at 113. Anthens incidentally, carded a 39 in the calcutta.

The tension really mounted on green number 18, the ninth and final hole of the calcutta round with Anthens looking at a putt between 12 and 15 foot on one of the trickiest greens on the whole golf course.

"I thought if I could drain that putt that I would win the tournament," Anthens said. "I had no idea that I had to have it to force a tie between Scott and myself."

After studying the green for a moment Anthens stepped up and calmly sank the long putt. "As I was getting ready to hit the ball it was so quiet I could have heard a pin drop on the green," Anthens said. "I was so happy when it went in."

The play-off between Hoffman and Anthens took place on the back nine as well with a sudden death format. Both golfers tied on hole number ten but the match came to an end on hole number eleven.

Hoffman drove his ball out of bounds to the left. "After he hit his ball out of bounds I decided to put my driver away and play a cautious game by hitting an iron," Anthens said. "In that situation I was playing the theory of better safe than sorry."

Anthens hit his 5-iron just past the ditch and then used his 3-iron to the green. The win was the biggest of the North Platte natives brief career. "I played football and wrestled in high school," Anthens said. "There was no time for golf so I never even played until the summer of 1987."

Anthens will be a senior on the Wayne State golf team this fall. Omaha native Mark Morrissey finished third in the tournament with a 114 while Albion's David Hellbusch finished with a 115. Kirk Eymann carded a 117 for fifth place and Oakland-Craig's Jason Peterson, a sophomore to be at the University of Nebraska's golf program, finished sixth with a 118 along with Baker University's Mark Lindberg. Matt Bauer, also from Baker finished eighth with a 119 and Kevin Atkinson of Omaha did likewise. Bruce Brechelsen rounded out the top ten finishers of the championship flight with a 120. Brechelsen is a Baldwin City, Kan. resident.

Counting the championship flight there were 14 flights of golfers in the tournament with Matt Samuelson winning the first flight with an 82. Louie Kamp-schneider fired an 83 for second place and Terry Peterson shot an 84 for third place in the first flight. Ron Kranz placed fourth with an 86.

Second flight champion was Bob Hahn with an 82 while Rich Everett fired an 86 for runner-up honors. Duane Blomenkamp was third with an 87 and Jon Schutte was fourth with an 88.

Third flight champ was Mike Logan with an 87. Logan edged Wayne residents Grant Ellingson and Phil Griess by way of tie breaker because all had 87's. Ellingson and Griess finished second and third respectively. Steve Freese finished fourth with an 88.

Shawn Riedmiller ran away with the fourth flight with an 81 while Kevin Bruening fired an 84 for runner-up honors. Mike Hellbusch and Larry Winget finished in the third and fourth slots.

Brad Penlerick was crowned champion of the fifth flight with an 88 while John Dorcay from Wayne was runner-up with an 89. Bob Wiechelman fired a 93 for third place and Val Kienast finished fourth with a 94.

Dick Malone won the sixth flight with an 87 while Bob Massey shot a runner-up score of 91. Wayne's Max Kathol was third with a 95 and John Higgins was fourth with a 96.

The seventh flight was won by Randy Swanson with an 87 with Bill McQuistan finishing second with a 93. J. Kreighbaum was third with a 94 and Don Pearson did likewise for fourth place honors.

Sid Preston won the eighth flight with a 92 and Wayne's Terry Luhr was runner-up with a 93. Larry Christoffersen was third with a 94 and Craig Swerczek rounded out the top four with a 97.

Ninth flight champ was Gary Bowers with an 87 while Dan Weiser was second with an 89. Denn Nelson finished third with an 89 and Don Preston from Wayne was fourth with a 97.

C.T. Paul won the tenth flight with a 96 while Gary Lubberstedt fired the same score but finished second. Vern Hjorth was third with a 97 and Wayne Trevett fired a fourth place score of 98.

Eleventh flight champion was Roger Arnold with a 94 with Dwight Lienemann placing runner-up with a matching 94. Wayne's Mike Meyer and Roger Kugler placed third and fourth with a 101 and 102 respectively.

Kurt Pearson won the twelfth flight with a 94 and Bob Jensen finished in the runner-up slot with a 99. Dee Lutt also carded a 99 but Jensen beat him in a tie breaker. Don Hastings rounded out the top four with a 104.

Kevin Peterson was the thirteenth flight champion with a 102 while J. Brechelsen finished two strokes back for second place honors with a 104. John Fuller finished third with a 108 and Wayne's Marion Arneson finished fourth with a 110.

Editors note: There are many names in here that are referred to as Wayne residents. Those are the ones that were familiar to the Wayne Herald sports staff. Any person that finished in the top four in any flight that is from Wayne but was not referred to as from Wayne, it was not omitted on purpose.

WAYNE STATE senior to be John Anthens won the June Open Sunday at the Wayne Country Club. Anthens won a play-off with Omaha native Scott Hoffman for the prize.

Wayne Legion goes 1-2 in tourney

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

Elkhorn's Legion baseball team captured top honors in the Eighth Annual Wayne Junior Legion Tournament over the weekend with a perfect 3-0 record by defeating Wayne, Wakefield and O'Neill. The other three squads all finished in a tie for second with identical records of 1-2 in the round robin tournament.

Wayne started off play on Saturday night against Elkhorn and the local legion team lost 10-4 with Matt Peterson recording the pitching loss. Wayne rapped five hits in the contest while Elkhorn notched six in scoring ten runs.

Rusty Hamer proved to be Wayne's lethal weapon with a double and a fifth inning solo home run. Matt Peterson, Jeff Lutt and Brian Lentz all singled. Wayne took a 2-0 lead into the second inning when Elkhorn exploded for four runs. They added three more in the third and one more in the fifth. The visitors also scored twice in the sixth inning.

On Sunday afternoon Wayne fell for the second time this season to O'Neill—this time by an 11-4 count. Chad Metzler took the pitching loss as Wayne fell to 1-4 on the season. O'Neill scored four times in the first inning and added one more in the second. For insurance purposes they added three additional runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings.

Wayne scored one run in each of the first two innings and added two in the fifth. Wayne had four hits in the contest compared to nine by O'Neill. Matt Bruggeman cracked a 2-run home run in the fifth inning while Matt Peterson, Brian Lentz and Brian Moore all singled.

Sunday night Wayne took its frustrations out on Wakefield in the final game of the tournament with a five inning 11-1 victory behind the brilliant pitching of Brian Lentz who tossed a 1-hitter.

Wayne pounded out nine hits in the contest with Matt Peterson leading the way with a 4-4 performance including four singles. Rusty Hamer had two singles and Jim Hoffman had one single. Matt Bruggeman and Brian Lentz each doubled.

Wayne scored four times in the opening inning and added three more in the second. They also scored three times in the fourth and added one more to end the game in the fifth. Wayne downs Laurel

Monday night in Laurel the Wayne midgets and legion teams played a league game and in both games the locals came out on top. For the midgets it was only the second game of the year. Wayne won the game 9-4 with John Murphy getting the pitching victory.

Wayne had just four hits with Tim Reinhardt recording half of them on two singles. John Murphy doubled and Brent Gamble singled to lead the local midget squad.

Wayne scored one run in each of the first two innings before exploding for five third inning runs. They added one more in the fourth and one more in the sixth and final inning.

The legion pounded out 19 hits and exploded for 15 fourth inning runs to blow a close game wide open in winning 16-2 in six innings. The score was knotted at one's before the onslaught.

"We had 10 hits with five doubles and a home run all in the fifth inning," Legion coach Hank Overin said. "It started to rain in the fourth inning as well and we sure wanted to get the game in so in the fifth inning we just told our guys to go up and strike out on purpose to get the game over as fast as we could because if the game was called due to rain we would have had to go back up to Laurel and start with a 0-0 game and we didn't want that."

Overin said that he has a lot of respect for Laurel pitcher Brian Penne despite his fourth inning troubles. "We know that Penne can beat us," Overin said. "That is one of the reasons why we wanted to get the game in because we have a lot of respect for him and their (Laurel's) program. We were in no way trying to degrade their team."

At any rate 10 Wayne batters notched hits in the game. Matt Peterson was 2-3 with a pair of singles and Cory Wieseler was 2-5 with a single and a double. Rusty Hamer went 3-5 with a double and two singles and Jeff Lutt went 2-3 with a single and a fourth inning three run home run.

Matt Bruggeman went 2-2 with two singles and Dave Hewitt hit a double in his only plate appearance. Brian Lentz hit a pair of singles and Jim Hoffman hit two doubles. Brian Moore laced a single and Chad Metzler hit a single and a double in the victory which moved Wayne's record to 3-4.

The water fountain was installed on Tuesday, May 29th with the aid of Kenny Dahl, Dave Nicholson and the City Electrical Department. Dahl's golf course crew also helped in the installation. The unit cost was $3900 and the cost was shared by 28 businesses and many private donations from the country club members. The fountain is turned on every day. "I would like to thank all those who donated to this project and also to the city light department for their help," Dahl said.

Write letters

Notchers: Write again to your congressmen to express your concern over the decade-long Notch inequity. Several key senators, including Jim Exon met recently with the national committee on social security and medicare to turn up the heat on the Notch situation. Sen. Harkin of Iowa says, "The time for talk (on the Notch issue) has passed. It's time for action. We need a vote this year." Notch victims lived through the depression, fought World War II and have contributed to making this country the greatest — then have been discriminated against because of their birth date. I wonder how our congressmen would react if told that because of the budget deficit, all those born after 1916 would have to accept a $20,000 annual cut? Notch leaders from Massachusetts, North Carolina, Iowa, Pennsylvania, California and Nebraska were in Washington April 30 through May 2 lobbying for us. Let's back them up with letters to our congressmen now.

Apology for story

To the people of Guam: On behalf of my wife Sue and myself, I would like to apologize for any comments we made that your found to be either offensive or inaccurate in the Dec. 4, 1989 article printed in The Wayne Herald. It certainly was not our intention to offend or misrepresent the island or people of Guam. Thank you for accepting our sincere apology.

Bob Schoenherr

Letters from Guam

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to the number of responses and length of letters to the editor from students in the Inarajan High School in Guam in reference to an article that appeared in The Wayne Herald in the Dec. 4, 1989 issue, this is the second of three installments of excerpts of those letters.

When you refer to us as "natives", you make it seem as though we're still in ancient times. But as you may have not considered, we have blended into modern life. For a fact, we are superstitious people, but not as you claim. ... Since we are Catholics, we have certain beliefs. And since we have beliefs, we have superstitions. Frances A. Diego
Nicole Cruz

"Some of the territory is off limits because there are still booby traps on the island from World War II." We have contacted the Department of Land Management and according to them they said there are no booby traps from World War II on the island.

Joy Kawamoto
Brian LeMaire
Patrick Taimanglo

Sirs, pictures can say a thousand words and words can stay in the hearts and minds. You have lessened the truth about Guam.

I am a native and I am personally offended by your article. I feel that what you have shared with the sixth graders of Wayne Middle School was unfair, especially if they were interested in learning about Guam.

Sandra Mendlola

... I have been thoroughly impressed by the island, but mostly by the people of Guam. I believe your article does them a disservice and that you should seriously consider coming here yourself and find out what it's really like.

Paul L. Meier

As a Guamanian who's been staying on this island for the past 16 years and have taken trips to different places (I've been to Europe and 16 different states) I would like to say that most of the statements written in this article are mostly based on misunderstandings. In plain simple English, this article was written as a discrimination to my island.

Mara Cruz

I'm trying to say that Guam is a beautiful island. We are Americans just like you. We are not just "natives."

John Materne

Our island is a wonderful island. If you think our way of living is a bad influence to the people in the states, let them come see it for themselves.

Tanya Naputi

The people of Guam rarely ever have problems with mold, with the exception of the people who do not take good care of their homes. The Schoenherrers tell of Guam through an opinion of how they see Guam. Guam has its problems but it isn't as bad as the Schoenherrers make it out to be.

Leticia M. Cruz

Guam is a beautiful, tropical island. Rain or shine, it is still paradise to us. We live on what we can and survive on what we have. There is no one who will know about the island and what it offers, except those who have lived here for quite some time.

Julie Howg Manglona

The only way to see the real Guam is to come here and meet the people; go places here on Guam. Yes, we know Guam is a small place but it is sure a lot of fun.

Jesse J.A. Santos

The students at Wayne Middle School were given information about Guam that was not well liked by the people of this island.

Jesse San Nicholas

As you can see we've already highlighted the important sections dealing with your statement about Guam's population. We hope that it would mean something to you, and that this letter would influence you not to write wrong statements about certain places that you are not sure of before ever finding out the facts of a certain topic.

ACCORDING TO KARDELL, the project has taken Restful Knights three years due to two ownership changes during that time. He said the Pamida account has been one Restful Knights has wanted for some time.

"One of the things which has made us (Restful Knights) successful is that we haven't put all of our eggs into one basket," Kardell said. "With Pamida, we're catering to their specific manufacturing needs. Pamida's 170 stores is a real boost to Restful Knights business."

The mattress pads which will be on the Pamida shelves are trademark names used by Restful Knights. The product lines include such names as Tradewind, Home-spun and Bedcapp.

Kardell said although the Pamida account is a nice addition to the stores which sell Restful Knights products, the manufacturer is still looking for other major retailers to sell its products.

"Restful Knights is continuing to pursue large accounts like Pamida's," Kardell said.

By selling the mattress pads through Pamida, Kardell said it will increase Restful Knights production somewhere between seven and 10 percent. He said currently, Restful Knights produces about 1 million different products on an annual basis. He said the company serves a customer base of approximately 1,000 people.

Mrs. Grone added that teaching the Bible as fact is an essential part to her children's education. She said it's not right that just scientific theories are taught as fact and the Bible is left out of public schools' curriculums.

In addition, being able to have a home school is something the Grones think is a privilege. Mrs. Grone said not only has she become closer to her children, but their education has improved.

"We have the ultimate responsibility for our children's education," she said. "We understand that some people can't do that but parents need to take a more active role in their children's education. Parents should have the final say about what's taught in the classroom."

It came as an ironic twist Tuesday that a group of people in South Sioux City came out in favor of LB 1059, the school refinance passed by the Nebraska Legislature earlier this year.

The irony of the situation is that the push from South Sioux comes because they have the most to lose. If LB 1059 is repealed, which is a threat if petitioners are able to place it on the November ballot, South Sioux will come up on the short end. Under the current tax structure for school financing, South Sioux City pays the most for the least amount of educational service.

There are pros and cons to repealing LB 1059. Despite what lawmakers say that those of us renting aren't paying property taxes, is ridiculous. Isn't property tax considered into rent. I'd think so since we're paying high rent and I know for a fact that taxes are considered into that.

Lawmakers have wrapped LB 1059 into the education bill of the '90s when it has a number of flaws, and many senators agree it does. The problem is, they have convinced each other of their own lies in order to sell it.

ONE OF THE CONS of LB 1059 is that it will make the system more balanced. Cities like South Sioux City will get its share of the wealth instead of seeing its money going to Lincoln and Omaha.

LB 1059 is suffering from one major problem: State senators who overrode Gov. Orr's veto have done a bad job of selling the bill. But if nothing else, it has provided us something to talk about.

Another con for the bill is that the courts are continuously finding that states must find more than one way to finance education. LB 1059 is an attempt by the Nebraska Legislature to find that solution before they have to.

The biggest problem everyone faces is if LB 1059 is repealed, it will throw the state's tax structure into a loop. Maybe that's something we need to think about when we're asked to sign a petition or before we throw our support toward LB 1059.

emphasis on the development of social skills and I can't see how children not in school are having those social requirements met."

Mills shares a similar view. "There are some cases where home educators don't even have a high school diploma," he said. "You can't tell me that they're spending six or more hours at home and teaching their kids. I have a master's degree and specialist degrees in education and I wouldn't even attempt this."

In Wayne County, of the four households teaching children at home, five people are conducting the education. Of those five, two people have no more than a high school diploma, two haven't completed college and one holds a college degree, according to information provided by the County Superintendent's office.

Names of those teaching at home are left out for privacy purposes.

In addition, Rule 13 calls for the State Department of Education to monitor the classroom environment and curriculum in home schools. According to Mills, state officials have never come to northeast Nebraska to investigate the home-taught child.

In addition to receiving a little money for his free-lance efforts, Dahlkoetter said he donated some of the money to the Starlight Foundation, a children's charity organization similar to Make-A-Wish, which provides funds for terminally ill children, so they can have one lasting memorable experience.

Manilow is a member of the board of directors for the Starlight Foundation.

"It was my way of saying thanks," Dahlkoetter said.

Summer jobs

Young must make sure Social Security is in order

AREA - If you are a young person planning to work this summer, you should note that special rules affect the reporting of earnings from many typical summer jobs for Social Security purposes. Becoming familiar with the rules assures that your earnings are reported for important Social Security protection.

With most jobs, Social Security taxes are automatically deducted from your paycheck, and the employer pays a matching amount.

Rev. David Belt

Belt honored WSC alum to take helm as Emerson-Catholic priest

Rev. Mr. David Belt, having completed studies at The Saint Paul Seminary School of Divinity of the College of St. Thomas, St. Paul, Minn., was ordained a priest for the Archdiocese of Omaha on June 2 at the Cathedral of St. Cecilia, Omaha. He was ordained by the Most Rev. Daniel E. Sheehan, Archbishop of Omaha.

As a seminarian, Belt gained parish experience in his teaching parish assignment at the Basilica of St. Mary, Minneapolis, and took a clinical pastoral internship at Immanuel Medical Center, Omaha.

He served on the seminary's worship staff, was head resident assistant and completed a summer internship at St. Bernard's Parish, Omaha.

Before beginning graduate theological studies, Belt was a music instructor with the Allen Consolidated Schools from 1983-85. He received a B.F.A. degree in education from Wayne State College.

Belt celebrated a Mass of Thanksgiving June 3 in his home parish, Sacred Heart of Emerson.

His parents are Hermie and Rachel Belt of Emerson.

reports the total to Social Security, and sends the taxes to the Internal Revenue Service.

Many of the jobs generally available to summer workers are service jobs (restaurant and hotel work, for example), farm work, or self-employment (commission sales work, for example). A person needs to know how to report tips, which make up a major part of earnings from service jobs, when farm work counts for Social Security and how to report self-employment income.

Most service jobs involve tips. You must report cash tips amount to $20 or more in a month to your employer. You give the employer a report of your tips earned during the month by the 10th of the following month, along with the tax due on the tips. Your employer reports the tips to Social Security along with other regular wage reports and sends the tax to the Internal Revenue Service.

ternal Revenue Service.

If you become involved in any of the above types of summer employment, you can call the Internal Revenue Service for more details on the rules involved in reporting your earnings. For information on Social Security, call us. The number is 1-800-234-5772 or the local number is 402-371-1595. Social Security treats each call confidentially. Farmers consider expansion

LINCOLN - Prices of bred cows and heifers have hit historical highs recently. For this reason, many Nebraska farmers and ranchers are considering buying additional cows or entering the cow-calf business.

But before investing, it is important for producers to compare the cost of the cows to their project income, said Al Wellman, University of Nebraska livestock marketing specialist.

To do this, Wellman said, producers must determine the current economic value of a beef cow, or the total net income that the cow will generate in the herd.

"If the cow is in the herd seven years' and then culled," he explained, "the economic value will be the sum of the seven years net income plus the value of the cull cow — all discounted back to the present" to take into account the time value of money.

Time value of money? Many producers forget that a dollar is worth more today than it will be in the future, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources staff member said.

"Which would you rather have, a dollar today or a dollar a year from now? Probably the dollar today, because at the very least it could be invested in a CD to return 8 percent interest and in a year it would be worth $1.08," Wellman pointed out.

Similarly, when investing today in cows that will generate income in the future, producers need to adjust the income in relation to the value of today's dollar, he noted.

To estimate the current economic value of a cow, producers should use the net present value, or NPV.

"If you can buy the cow for less than the NPV, it may be a profitable buy. If you pay more than the NPV, it probably isn't a good buy," he said.

Wellman identified the most challenging part of determining NPV is projecting future net incomes: estimating the planning prices for weaned calves for several years to come and deciding what discount rate to use.

During the beef calf price cycles of 1973-74 and 1978-79, prices peaked and then quickly dropped, the economist said. The current price cycle, he said, is likely to be different.

Calf prices that have been climbing since 1986 probably will peak in 1990, Wellman said. Depending on the rate of herd expansion and the effect of 1988 and 1989 droughts, he said, prices probably will decline slowly to near $70 by 1996, he predicted.

The GOLDEN YEARS

For the majority of Americans, retirement doesn't mean pulling up stakes and migrating to other climates. More than 60 percent of retirees stay put, according to Henry Wallfish, a retirement advisor. About eight percent move to another house in the same town. Less than 12 percent move to another town in the same state, and about 18 percent make the big change of moving to another state. One out of three retirees gets involved in new interests and 44 percent take advantage of their new free time by taking up old interests again. Volunteer work attracts 23 percent.

In Valley City, North Dakota, 19 elderly people are using personal computers to write to pen pals all over the country through a non-profit network. Says 90-year-old Susanne Barstad, "I figured you're never too old to learn, if you want to try. I've always had a curiosity about trying new things." The network for seniors was founded by Mary Furlong, an associate professor at the University of San Francisco, who says: "Older adults have a great deal of wisdom to share. If we give them access to these tools — as we as a society stand to learn a great deal."

Remember When? 1920 — Annual income for Americans averaged only $1,176, but you could buy a three-bedroom house for an average cost of $4,325.

The Library Card

This column is written twice a month to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at Wayne Public Library.

"Summer time--and the livin' is easy". The whole outdoors beckons. The children are suddenly out of school--no more pencils, no more books--suddenly with freedom and just as suddenly, bored, with nothing to do.

Why not let the library help you entertain that bored child with a few good books? or records? or jig-saw puzzles?

Does your child like to draw? We can help! "How to Draw Funny People" by Bob McKay--or "Drawing for Pleasure" by Stuart Walter--or "Draw 50 cats or 50 dinosaurs or 50 horses", all by Lee J. Ames. Not to mention "Draw 50 monsters, creeps, superheroes, demons, dragons, nerds, dirt..." by Lee J. Ames.

Do you have a questioner? Someone who wants to know the how and why of everything? "Charlie Brown's 5th super book of questions and answers about all kinds of things and how they work!" should satisfy. "How things work" published by the National Geographic Society is another idea. "Engines and how they work" by Geoffrey Boumphrey; "Machines" by Jerome S. Meyer; "Making things move" by Michael Pollard; "What makes it go" by Rose Wyler and Gerald Ames--all answer those many questions.

Would this summer be a good time to introduce your child to cooking? "My first cookbook" by Angela Wilkes; "Betty Crocker's cookbook for boys and girls"; "New Junior cook book" by Better Homes and Gardens; "Cookies for kids" by Better Homes and Gardens. All these books have simple recipes and explicit instructions to give your child confidence in a new skill.

Does your child like to collect things--rocks, insects, leaves, what-ever? "Starting a rock and mineral collection" by Miriam Gilbert; "Rockhound trails" by Jean Bartenbach; "Rocks and minerals" by Lou Williams Page; "The Doubleday first guide to rocks" by Dorothy Shuttlesworth are good books to start learning.

If you are looking for craft projects to keep those bored children busy on a rainy day, investigate the issues of 'Pack-O-Fun' magazine in the back room. This magazine is full of projects using inexpensive items found around the house.

We have expanded our Summer Reading Program to include activity and story times for all ages. Children 4 to 6 years old will meet at 2 on Monday afternoons during June for story time, puppets, finger plays, and coloring. The first through sixth graders will meet on Wednesday afternoons for activities geared to their interests.

And let's not forget the circus! As a special treat, the advance circus clown, Whizzer, will be at the library on Thursday, June 21 at 3 with a mini-magic show and balloon animals.

So, bring your child (or send him/her) to the library. We can help entertain (and educate) him!

LADIES AID AND LWML

Martha Prochaska and Alice Johnson were hostesses for the meeting of St. John's Lutheran Ladies Aid and LWML Friday. Twenty-three members answered roll call and Amber Johnson was a guest. Edna Hansen led devotions and gave readings entitled "Most Richly Blessed" and "An LWML Garden", followed by prayer. The group joined in singing a Pentecost hymn, "Holy Ghost, With Light Divine", accompanied by Imogene Samuelson. Pastor Bruce Schut showed a video entitled "Father's Day".

President Lois Schlines called the meeting to order, and opened with a reading, "This Father's Day Remember Our Heavenly Father". The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the treasurers report was read. Sick call and visiting committee sent get well cards to Ruby Beiswenger, Clarence Baker, LeRoy Barner and Irene Walter, and visited Edna Hansen and the members residing at the Care Center. The Lutheran World Relief sewing had nine ladies present in May and tied 13 quilts and hemmed eight. Harriet Stolle gave the schedule of the LWML Dist. convention to be held June 11 and 12, and reviewed articles from the Quarterly. The card committee reported receiving new cards to be for sale.

Imogene Samuelson and Angie Blattert gave a report of the Lutheran Family and Social Services spring meeting they attended in Taber Lutheran Church in Wausa in May. The layette and two baby quilts were completed and displayed which are to be taken to the convention for the Lutheran Family and Social Services.

A thank you was read from the family of Clara Victor. A thirty cup coffee maker and water pitchers were donated by Carmella Roddy, and Lois Hollman donated several golden anniversary items and kitchen supplies.

June birthday honored with the birthday song is Edna Hansen and anniversaries are Angie Blattert, Alice Johnson and Neva Kraemer. The meeting closed with the LWML pledge, the Lord's Prayer and table prayer.

The next meeting will be held July 6 with Carolyn Kraemer and Meta Bartling as hostesses.

Happy planters

ON SATURDAY SEVERAL RESIDENTS of the Wayne Care Centre planted new flowers in Central Park at the Care Centre. Residents were assisted by the Roving Gardeners club of Wayne with plants donated by the Lutheran Brotherhood, branch 8212 through the Friends in Deed project. Also, members of the 4-H Pleasant Valley club assisted in the Saturday morning task. Pictured (front, from left) Minnie Graef, Ella Reinhardt, Ellen Hansen and Terry Sievers; (row two, from left) Jimmy Thordsen, June Baler, Oscar Vedral, Doris Lutt, Bernice Damme, Ruth Baler, Pearl Youngmeyer, Janet Sievers and Mella Heftt; (back row, from left) Iver James, Elsie Echtenkamp, Fern Kramer and Joyce Magnuson. The group started their project about 8 a.m. Saturday and finished planting by 11 a.m. despite having to brave cool spring temperatures.

Prices down despite moisture

'Market bearish' due to rains

LINCOLN - As rainfall totals in the eastern Corn Belt states approach normal levels with a promise of a good to excellent crop, the market is responding with lower prices, despite a dwindling world supply of corn, a University of Nebraska agricultural economist said.

Lynn Lutgen told members of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources Ag Climate Situation Committee in Lincoln June 4 that less rainfall in prime corn-raising areas of Iowa, Illinois and Indiana in particular means farmers are able to get in the fields to plant corn.

"Last year, when dry conditions persisted, the market translated negative figures (lack of rainfall) into higher prices for corn," Lutgen said. "This year, the market is bearish. The price trendline, with a promise of a good crop season, is downward, with a possibility of $2 corn this fall," the grain marketing specialist said.

Lutgen said the market is not reacting to a news report published June 4 which, according to one consultant, placed the nation's wheat and corn reserves at the lowest level since 1974 and below the point necessary to offset the effects of a severe drought or other calamity besetting this year's crop.

The economist said there is a 60 percent chance, for example, that producers can "retrench" from the present "December Futures" corn price ($2.65 on June 4) to 60 percent of the $2.79 level of just a week ago, or there is a 60 percent chance for an 8-cent improvement from $2.65 if the market levels out at this point. But, he added, "the chances continue to be high that this fall's prices aren't going to be very good."

Bill Dobbs of the Nebraska Agricultural Statistics Service told the committee that about 90 percent of the corn's estimated 7.5 million acres of corn had been planted as of June 3, and barring rains, the job could be completed by week's end. The percent of sorghum and soybeans planted, while the lowest in years at this date, is tempered by the fact that there are only an estimated 2 million acres of sorghum and 2.5 million acres of soybeans to be planted.

Cool, wet weather has kept soil temperatures slightly below normal, IANR climatologists said, resulting in slower germination of some crops, particularly soybeans. The lack of sun also has resulted in fewer Growing Degree Days to date, but a few days of 80- to 85-degree weather should go a long way to solving both problems, they said.

While stopping short of acknowledging that the drought is over for the whole state, the committee noted that the overall precipitation summary for Nebraska for the period from Sept. 1, 1989 through June 3 shows moisture at 95 percent of normal, ranging from 78 percent of normal in the Beatrice-Fairbury-Falls City area to 17 percent above normal in the north-central Sandhills, a dramatic turnaround from earlier this spring.

Bob Wright, a UNL entomologist, said the recent rains have been somewhat beneficial in reducing chinch bug numbers, but have the potential to increase infestations of the bean leaf beetle in soybeans.

Rains in some areas have probably lowered chinch bug numbers by killing young bugs just emerging from eggs, he said, but because of overall large numbers of the pest, the net reduction will be relatively slight.

Early-emerging soybean fields are likely to become prey to bean leaf beetles which have emerged from hibernation in May and have been feeding on alfalfa and other legumes. Because wet, cool conditions have resulted in uneven germination and emergence of soybeans, Wright said, early emerging soybeans will attract the beetles from surrounding areas and take the brunt of the damage.

A wide variety of effective insecticides is available to control bean leaf beetles, the entomologist said. Cooperative Extension offices have information on specific rates and restrictions for labeled insecticides.

By Pat Meterhenry

I continue to mail unplanned items. A couple of weeks ago, I stuffed a handful of letters and cards into the box at Hoskins. The next day, the Big Farmer came in with the mail, asking "How did your grocery list get in the mailbox?" It takes an alert postmaster to catch that. The one in Hoskins is a female, you know, as is the mayor.

I deeply admire women like that, as I do Gov. Orr. I'm all for equal opportunities, but the lady mayor of Sacramento is getting carried away. She wants to change the name for manhole because "it is sexist." As Mike Royko asks, "should they call it a person-hole? It will probably become a 'thoroughfare underground utility access cover'! I have no patience with that kind of stuff, or with versions of the Bible that say "Father-God-Mother".

I also deeply admire women who are domestic engineers, or men who are the same. In an editorial in the Lincoln Star recently, the writer called herself "the executive director of a large family."

I've been concerned lately about the trend away from being a housewife. I'm finding that working full time is vastly different from part time. And I stop to realize how many women work five days a week all their lives.

That doesn't leave much time for: 4-H, scouts, extension clubs, VBS, Sunday School, choir, and garden club. Or even just for volunteering, or cleaning house, or baking. Certainly not for mending! There is a constant feeling of time pressure, and fatigue. All these worthy endeavors are short of manpower. Excuse me, woman power.

Most of the women my age at work tell me they never planned on a "career", and just wanted to help out with band instruments and orthodontia. All the farm wives I know who are not working off the farm, for pay, have all the "equal rights" they can handle, driving tractor, sorting hogs, and feeding cattle.

I've been reading with amusement about the flap by Wellesley College students over the choice of Barbara Bush as their commencement speaker. They argued that she was not a suitable role model for women in the 90's. She dropped out of college to marry George Bush and raise a family, typical for that time. There have been some stinging rebuttals, notably by Royko and Erma Bombeck, on the worth of those activities. Children do need to be "brought up", not just deposited at day care.

The grads got more than they bargained for on Friday. Raisa Gorbachev came, too. Mrs. G. is a philosophy Ph.D. and university lecturer. Both women spoke of "the values that bring us together", love of country and children. Mrs. B. drew applause by saying, "Somewhere out in this audience may even be someone who will one day follow my footsteps and preside over the white house as the president's spouse. I wish him well!"

She urged the graduates to pursue professional careers, if they chose, but warned, "At the end of your life, you will never regret not having passed one more test, winning one more verdict, or not closing one more deal. You will regret time not spent with a husband, a child, a friend or a parent."

There's a poster in the Cardiac Rehab office that speaks to all of us, "Freedom is not the right to live as we wish, it is the right to learn how we ought to live so that we can fulfill our potential."

And in the NBA, it's all over but the shoutin'. Michael Jordan couldn't do it alone. It's Detroit all the way. Seems mighty strange without the Lakers. (Sorry, Bev, I had to mention it.)

GIRL SCOUT BRIDGING

The annual Girl Scout Bridging and Awards Ceremony for Winside Brownies and Girl Scouts was held Sunday evening in the Legion hall with a 6 p.m. potluck supper. Approximately 50 family members, girls, and relatives attended. Eight Brownies bridged over to Junior Girl Scouts. They were Tiffany Ahrenholtz, Mikaila Bleich, Lindsay Fausone, Maureen Gubbel, Carol Long, Tracy Nelson, Amanda Paulsen and Emilie Schwedhelm.

Six sixth grade girls bridged from Juniors to Cadettes. They were Tina Sievers, Jessica Jaeger, Kristy Oberle, Monica Sievers, Denise Nelson, and Jessica Holmsted.

Peg (Eckert) Krueger, Junior Girl Scout leader, presented the following awards. All 15 Junior Girl Scouts received their membership stars and badges for First Aid, Healthy Living, Local Lore, Putting Things Together and Technology.

Jenny Wade and Monica Sievers each received a special Girl Scout cookie award for selling over 150 boxes, Maggie Gallop received an award for over 100 boxes, and all the other juniors received a patch for selling at least 20 boxes.

Cadette leader, Marilyn Morse, presented awards to her five girls: Wendy Morse, Shawna Holtgrew, Sarah Rademacher, Kathy Bock and Beth Bloomfield. Projects the Cadettes helped with during the year included: the annual German Dinner, Women's Club Halloween party, Wayne health fair, Centennial Ice Cream Social, delivered library surveys, made "Keep the Community Clean" posters and put them in stores and planned the entire bridging and awards night banquet.

After the candle lighting ceremony, everyone sang "America". The girls then presented Peg Krueger with a "This is Your Life" scrapbook they had made. Mrs. Krueger has resigned as Winside Girl Scout leader, she has served the past 11 year and recently moved to Wakefield.

Mrs. Linda Teach, Girl Scout Service Unit Manager from Wayne announced that she had a Special Appreciation Pin for Brownie leader, Kathy Holtgrew, who has almost single handedly lead the Winside Brownies for the past six years. All three Winside Girl Scout troops will be needing a leader next fall. Anyone who is interested in keeping these troops together should contact Mrs. Teach of Wayne, or Peg Krueger in Wakefield as soon as possible for the August Girl Scout Leader Training program.

Mrs. Krueger then presented a plaque to the Winside Fire Department and to the Winside Roy Reed American Legion for donating the use of their facilities free of charge to the girl scouts for the past 11 years. Accepting the plaques were Don Nelson of the Fire Dept. and Dan Jaeger from the Legion.

GLAUCOMA - THE SNEAK THIEF OF VISION: The recent news about President George Bush having glaucoma in one of his eyes should alert everyone, particularly seniors, to the importance of having their eyes tested for the condition at least once a year. While glaucoma is not necessarily confined to older folks (anyone 35 and over should be tested), it can be more serious in seniors because older people tend not to have their eyes examined as often as they should. Therefore, the glaucoma can go undetected for a long time, causing irreversible damage and even blindness.

Many senior centers have started regular glaucoma screening services for their members. However, the screenings only measure eye pressure, which is a variable factor, and can give differing results depending on the day, or even the time of day, the test is taken. Seniors still need a regular eye examination.

Glaucoma almost always is controllable with eye drops that are prescribed according to the patient's needs or, if necessary, laser treatment, oral medication, or surgery. But to be controlled, it must first be diagnosed, and that can only happen with regularly scheduled eye exams.

For a free pamphlet on glaucoma, send a self addressed, stamped business size envelope with your request to: The Communications Center, American Optometric Association, 243 N. Lindbergh Blvd., St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

HOME CARE HORROR STORY: Ellen from Boston says her elderly aunt had a day worker (provided by a city services agency - not in Boston - but otherwise not identified) who made the older woman's life miserable. "She stole from my aunt and she was also physically rough with her. (My aunt) didn't tell me at first, but her upstairs neighbor saw me one day and said she heard her cry a lot. I complained to the agency who took the woman out, but she's still with them... Do you have any advice on how I can get back my aunt's property, and get her compensated for her experience?"

Anyone want to comment on this? Write me c/o King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 46th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

TO PAUL: I know about the book that touts "cures" for arthritis with diet, and I know it sells well. But that doesn't make it a book I could recommend to anyone with arthritis. Remember, arthritis is manifested in many different ways - each of which must be treated differently. Also, arthritis goes through cycles, often appearing cured, only to flare up again later.

NOTE: MetLife suggests we all check drawers, safes, attics, garages, old suitcases, etc., for policies that may have been bought years ago and forgotten. To date, MetLife has paid out almost $1,000,000 to policyholders (or beneficiaries) who found these previously unknown or forgotten policies.

Farming precautions

Goggles, respirator recommended

LINCOLN - Wearing a respirator and goggles while applying pesticides may prevent severe damage to the eyes and respiratory system, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension pesticide coordinator said.

Larry Schulze said that because the respiratory system and eyes are much more absorbent than skin, protection needs to be worn. The respiratory system and eyes readily absorb pesticide dust and vapor from the air. Pesticides can easily be washed off skin--not true for pesticides in the lungs.

"Consequently, it's advisable to wear a respirator when exposed to concentrates of pesticide dusts, fumes, or vapors," Schulze said.

Rollie Schnieder, UNL extension safety specialist, said protective gear should be used, regardless of the pesticide label.

"It's a good precaution to take, even when labels may not call for this approach," Schnieder said. "If there is any chance of pesticides being splashed or sprayed in the eyes, wear goggles or a face shield."

Goggles or a face shield can be worn separately or in combination with a respirator.

When selecting a respirator, Schulze recommends considering the type and toxicity of the pesticide and application site.

A cartridge respirator is suitable when exposure to a pesticide is intermittent and oxygen levels are adequate. However, if exposure is continuous, a canister respirator should be worn.

If the oxygen supply is likely to be low, or heavy concentrations of highly toxic pesticides are present, a supplied-air respirator or self-contained breathing apparatus should be worn, Schulze said.

When applying pesticides, Schulze said to use only respirators approved by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health or the Mine Safety and Health Administration.

A respirator with organic cartridges protects against most pesticides, he said. Fumigants are examples of pesticides that should not be used with a respirator but instead with a self-contained breathing apparatus.

Disposable dust masks do not offer enough protection to be used for pesticides, Schulze said. Many of these particle masks provide a filtering action only to remove common nuisances such as dusts or pollen.

Using and protecting a cartridge respirator requires special care and attention, Schulze said.

Here are some tips on caring for a cartridge respirator:

- Change cartridge on a regular basis during the application season.
- Clean respirator on a regular basis with soap and water.
- Store the entire unit inside a sealed plastic bag when not in use.

Be aware that a cartridge respirator will not fit snugly against the face if an individual has a beard. The effectiveness of a respirator in this situation is reduced, Schulze said.

Drains Run Slow?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again! The secret? Clean drains don't run slow.

Slow drains, or periodic clogs, are SIGNALS that a thick layer of GOOK is choking your pipes. Grease, hair, and other waste stick to your pipes, with every use. This gook deposits along the entire length of the pipe. It chokes your pipes gradually, as it gets thicker and thicker.

Conventional drain openers can't fix slow drains. They react chemically on the surface of the gook. To be effective, they must remain in contact with the waste. Even a small tunnel through the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind.

In the past, the only way to remove this build-up was to roter your pipes. An expensive, temporary measure.

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean. Its totally unique formula clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. That is what allows it to liquefy even years of build-up. Plumb Clean will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, we stand behind Plumb Clean with a money-back guarantee!

Saves Money. A 1 lb. container of Plumb Clean holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, it would take over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments. Plumb Clean costs about 35¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.

Safe Too. Conventional drain openers are dangerous chemicals. They can injure eyes on contact. They can release deadly vapors, in some situations. Some may damage your fixtures. Plumb Clean will not burn skin, or eyes. It will not release harmful fumes. When used as directed, it is 100% safe for people, and of course, all plumbing.

So, if your drains are giving you a SIGNAL, act now. Get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today!

Pharmacy & Your Health

Corn and Callus Care

Corns and calluses result from the accumulation of layers of dead skin on the surfaces of the feet. The most frequent cause of either condition is the wearing of ill-fitting shoes. Treatment of corns and calluses may begin with soaking the feet in warm water and using a pumice stone. Cutting corns or calluses with a knife or razor blade is dangerous and can lead to infection. Applying a moisturizing lotion after using the pumice stone may be helpful. Nonprescription products containing salicylic acid may help in corn removal by loosening dead skin. Over a period of days, corns become soft and can be rubbed away. Although normally safe, such corn removal products should be avoided by persons having diabetes or circulatory problems because inflammation and infection may occur.
