Rain not too heavy

Moisture helps area farms

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Despite heavy rains flooding areas around Wayne County, extension agent Rod Patent said the rain has been just right for local farmers.

Patent said farmers are cautiously optimistic at the prospect for this year's crops. He said despite the amount of rain which has fallen, subsoil moisture is still a concern.

"For the most part, we are still just replenishing topsoil moisture," he said. "Some of it may be reaching the subsoil moisture but we'd have to have more rain than what we've had to do that."

Patent said topsoil moisture is just above normal this year than it has been for the past five. He cautioned that subsoil moisture is still about eight inches below normal.

"To help the subsoil, we'd need 10 or more inches," he said. "So far, we probably have about two inches which have gone that far. The good news is that the weather patterns are along the right line."

PATENT, WHO commonly travels all of Wayne County, said he has heard of no livestock losses due to rains or hail and he has heard of minimal to little damage to crops from hail.

In addition, he said he has heard of no flooding in Wayne County. He said the only place it is possible that too much rain has been received has been in areas near Pilger, but even then he hasn't heard much.

Recent rains have helped the small grain crops considerably. He said they suffered some wind damage but the rains have helped plants overcome that.

"At this point, the worst thing that could happen would be a hail storm," he said. "As it is, we need to continue having these good rains. We're still very short of subsoil moisture."

PATENT SAID Nebraska appears to be doing the best of neighboring states. In Colorado, northern South Dakota, North Dakota and Wyoming, there has been little rainfall and in parts of Kansas, all of Missouri, Oklahoma, Iowa and parts of South Dakota have too much rain.

"I think some of the stress on local farmers is starting to ease off," he said. "They're starting to feel much better than they did a month ago. The moisture conditions are such that they're optimistic that they can get better yields."

The best thing that can help agriculture is for these warm, humid days to continue, he said.

"Crops are growing well," he said. "The late planted crops are catching up and that's good. In order to get photosynthesis to take place, you need these 80 to 88 degree days. That's a good temperature for the crops."

Office Connection helps out

WSC division receives new computer

WAYNE - Thanks to Office Connection, Wayne State College can now boast something more about its applied science program, according to Dennis Linster, associate professor of the division.

About a year ago, the division found itself with a new program, used for engineering and architecture, that they couldn't use because its machines did not have the program storage capacity.

One of the computer systems which can handle the program is the Apple Macintosh but the computer is an expensive investment.

The division then applied for a grant to purchase the computer hardware and after bids were received, Office Connection came in with the lowest bid. The local business provided the system memory, monitor stand and keyboard.

The system memory, monitor and keyboard was a donation by Office Connection, estimated to cost between $2,800 and $3,000 at the time.

NOW, WAYNE State College is one of 150 sites nationwide which can train professionals to use the system.

"As a training center, we try to offer as many different computers as we can to teach with," Linster said. "We anticipate by the fall being able to train people from the local industries on the Macintosh platform with Autodesk products."

use without the Macintosh computer.

"It's important to be a training center because it provides us with a lot of input and contact with area professionals in architecture and engineering," Linster said.

By the time 1990 is over, Linster said he expects to have trained over 85 area professionals on the new technology.

LINSTER ADDED that Office Connection is the first company to make cash donations to the division.

Rocci Schulz, sales representative of Office Connection, said he

WAYNE STATE PRESIDENT Dr. Donald J. Mash addresses Wayne Kiwanians about the need for equity.

Mash: WSC needs to get equal funds

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Dr. Donald Mash's point was easy enough to assess: Wayne State College has 20 percent of the state's college enrollment and it receives seven percent of the legislature's funding.

To compound the financing situation, that has been the case over the past 20 years.

Mash, who spoke at a Kiwanis luncheon Monday, focused upon two points in his speech: changing Kearney State College to the university system and inequities in the funding system of Nebraska's state colleges.

Mash said Wayne State College is not threatened by Kearney's joining of the university system unless a worst case scenario occurs. He said unless something is done to equalize the funding system of Nebraska's state colleges — which next year will include Chadron, Peru and Wayne — WSC might find itself so financially crunched that it will hurt the education programs.

"The bottom line is that Wayne State College is not well funded and northeast Nebraska is being short changed," he said. "When people tell me that our funding might be hurt, it scares me."

ACCORDING TO a survey, Wayne State is 13th of 13 schools its size in its region of the nation for funding.

Mash said Eastern New Mexico University, which is about the same size as WSC, receives $2,000 more a year per student than Wayne State. In addition, Wayne State receives over $1,200 less support from the legislature than Chadron State College and $800 less than Peru State.

"Although we try to keep things on a positive note, I'm being candid with you when I say we need to make a case for equity," Mash said. "If we receive equity, you'll see many more positive things develop for the students of Wayne State College."

Examples which show the lack of funding for Wayne State College include a track which needs replacing and bleachers which need repair or replacement and not enough money allocated from the legislature to meet these needs.

"We can go down a list of what the college needs, and these are things other colleges already have," Mash said.

ONE POSSIBLE solution to Wayne State's woes is the establishment of an amendment to the state's constitution, resulting in a powerful coordinating commission overseeing the state college board of trustees and the state university's board of regents.

Mash said if Nebraska voters pass the amendment in November, the coordinating commission — rather than the legislature — will have the say of equality of state college budgets. The coordinating commission will be a board appointed by the governor.

In conclusion, Mash said an article which appeared in the Omaha World-Herald and the Lincoln Journal over the weekend was misleading. He said the media overheard an informal comment that a fourth state college might be added in North Platte. Mash said he does not think that will happen.

It has been said that since Kearney is joining the university system, that it will need to be replaced," he said in jest. "To tell you the truth, I didn't know it was going anywhere."

Club tours Germany

Ten from WHS take trip abroad; make lasting memories

WAYNE - Ten Wayne High School youth now have something to talk about for the rest of their lives.

The WHS youth recently returned from a trip to Germany as part of an intercultural experience through the German club. Students returned after visiting several sites in and near the European nation.

Making the trip was Steve Dinsmore, Lisa Ewing, Dwaine Funck, Jennifer Schmidt, Diane French, Jeanne Brown, Billie Lueders, Krista Remer, Jerry Williams and Amy Wriedt. The students traveled with their German instructor Edith Zahniser and her husband Robert.

Seeing sites from the Dachau concentration camp to the Berlin Wall; two students shared their thoughts on the trip along with Mrs. Zahniser.

"Everything was — wow!" Ewing, a first-year German student, said. "It's still hitting me. We visited all these places and saw so many different things. You just can't pick out one thing you remember over another."

Ewing, junior in 1990-91, found several amusing anecdotes during her trip. Dinsmore, also a first year German student and a senior in 1990-91, said his best memories were of his visit to the Berlin Wall.

"I really didn't think of being in a different country," he said. "It was hard to be in a situation where everyone was speaking a different language. I couldn't believe we were somewhere different than I'm used to."

"I went over there and tried to talk in German to some guys and they started laughing at me," Ewing said. "I tried to talk and they said it wasn't necessary to speak in German because they spoke English. I said 'you speak English?' and they said 'yeah, of course.' I said

OK, let's speak in English because my German's a little shaky. I guess they already knew that."

DURING THE TRIP, the German club didn't plan on running into anyone from Wayne, but to their surprise they did.

The German club ran into Wayne State College's Heartland

Tour in Salzburg, Austria. The side-trip to Austria was an added plus for the German club students.

According to Zahniser, the German club visited Frankfurt, Cologne, Heidelberg, Lake Titi, Schaffhausen, Lake Constance, Unteruhldingen, Neuschwanstein, Oberammergau, Munich, Berchtesgaden, Salzburg, Austria, and Berlin.

"It was a real surprise for Steve Dinsmore to see his mother in Salzburg," she said. "After a quick photo, Mrs. Dinsmore and the Wayne State bus were on their way again."

In their visit of the Berlin Wall, Ewing and Dinsmore said they enjoyed it because they got to bring home a piece of history.

"To know it went down in 1989, and to be there when we did is something I'll never forget," Dinsmore said.

GERMANY'S HISTORY was something the students had a chance to experience first-hand, to some degree. During the trip, they visited where Hitler's retreat was, which was near the salt mines they visited in Berchtesgaden. In addition, the students toured the salt mines.

The Dachau concentration camp also left a lasting impression with the students. Dinsmore said it was difficult for him to comprehend the number of people who were there and the number which died.

Dachau, which was the only concentration camp located in Germany, was primarily used to exterminate allied forces during World War II. Zahniser said most of the Jewish prison camps were located in Czechoslovakia and Poland, so the German people would not witness the slaughter of people who lived in their homeland.

"I think the whole place — the feeling it created — with all the pictures and documentaries really made you think," Ewing said.

Zahniser said the comparison which is used, is similar to the American slaughter of Indians at Little Big Horn and slavery in the United States.

ZAHNISER, WHO is from Germany, said it has been amazing for her to see the transformation in Berlin. She said she has visited Germany every year since 1980 and the current building boom in Berlin amazed her.

Wayne Legion defeats S. Sioux

The Wayne Legion continued its string of consecutive wins by downing South Sioux City 2-1 Monday night at Overin Field. Wayne has won six games in a row to post a 7-4 record. Jeff Lutt was on the mound Monday night and the game was definitely a pitcher's duel with Lutt scattering five hits, striking out five and walking just two.

South Sioux countered with a three hitter but Wayne score once in the first inning and once in the fourth which was enough for the win. Matt Peterson led off the first inning with a walk and he eventually stole second base. With two outs Jeff Lutt singled to score Peterson to give Wayne a quick lead.

Wayne's Chris Fredrickson reached base via the walk in the fourth inning with one out. Fredrickson proceeded to steal second and moved to third on Brian Moore's single. Fredrickson then scored on a sacrifice by Matt Peterson.

South Sioux scored its lone run of the game in the fifth inning where they recorded three of their team's five hits.

The Wayne Midgets did not fare as well as they were defeated by a 15-1 margin, dropping the season mark to 1-6. The Midgets had just one hit in the game as Jim Murphy ripped a triple in the fourth inning which scored his brother John Murphy who had reached base through a South Sioux error.

John Murphy was credited with the pitching loss but Wayne also threw Robert Long, Todd Fredrickson, Tim Reinhardt and Brian Gamble. The two Wayne squads will travel to play West Point on Thursday night before returning home Friday for a tough game with Wisner.

A JUNIOR HIGH volleyball camp was held at Wayne High School for Wayne girls entering grades 6-8 recently with the final day being Tuesday. Wayne girls head coach Marlene Uhing said the group work on fundamentals and some team offense. Those attending from back left to right include LeAnn Green, Cristy McDonald, Angie Hudson, Heather Nichols, Kristie Hall, Darci Lubberstedt, Wendy Belermann, Jenny Thompson, Molly Melena and Mandi Higbee. Front row: Tammy Teach, Melissa Weber, Beth Johnson, Beth Meyer, Tanya Wortman, Sarah Metzler, Katy Wilson, Katie Lutt, and Carrie Fink. Not Pictured is Ann Swerczek, and Jolene Jager. Former grads Shelly Lueders, Marnie Bruggeman and Tere-sa Ells assisted with the camp as did Roger Reikofski.

Little League downs Pender

WAYNE-The Wayne Little League defeated Pender 5-0 Tuesday afternoon in Wayne behind the brilliant pitching of Nick VanHorn. The young thrower struck out 10 Pender batters and allowed just two hits in gaining the win. Wayne had three hits in the contest as Travis Koester and Terry Hamer notched singles and Kelly Gundersen stroked a double.

The Pony League fell to 1-3 on the season after losing a 9-2 decision to Pender. Matt Blomenkamp was given the pitching loss and Wayne managed just three hits with Dusty Jensen and Blomenkamp hitting singles and Dane Jensen ripping a double. The Little League record is 2-2.

The GOLDEN YEARS

By Lee Anne

More than 3 million Americans are 85 or older, and the Census Bureau says the number is increasing faster than any other age group. Looking ahead, the Bureau estimates that it will increase to more than 15 million by the middle of the 21st Century. That is when babies born in 1965 will turn 85 — grandchildren of today's octogenarians. But several experts on aging and demographics say the Census Bureau's projections are too low. Some say the 85-plus population could reach 33 million or more by the year 2050 because of increased longevity resulting from advances in medical care and improved diet, exercise and other health habits.

How do older Americans feel about having a dog or cat as a pet? One survey indicates that 24 million Americans who are 50 or older have at least one dog or cat. The pet lovers account for 40 percent of people in their age group.

Remember When? December 15, 1944 — a light plane carrying big-band leader Glenn Miller, who was serving in the Air Force, disappeared on a flight from England to France.

New bishop installed

Lutherans gather in Lincoln

A new bishop and shorter synod assemblies every other year face Nebraska Lutherans.

At its June assembly in Lincoln on May 31 through June 2, voting members of the Nebraska Synod, Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA), attended the installation of their second Bishop and voted to gather as a legislative body every other year, beginning in 1992.

Attending the assembly as voting delegates from St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne were Mabel Sommerfeld, Bob Carhart and the Rev. Wallace J. Wolff. Voting delegates attending from Redeemer Lutheran Church, Wayne, were Roger Lentz, Steve Rasmussen, Barb Heier and the Rev. Franklin Rothfuss.

Other area delegates attending the assembly included Marilyn and Winton Wallin of Concordia Lutheran, Concord, and Ed Fahrenholz and Glenda Beck of First Lutheran, Allen. The Rev. Duane Marburger also attended as a delegate representing both the Concord and Allen churches.

THE ASSEMBLY, which serves as the synod's legislature, was addressed by Governor Kay Orr on Saturday.

During the business sessions, the nearly 1,000 member group considered resolutions expressing concerns about nuclear waste disposal in the state, about the lottery, asked the national church to add youth delegates to the national assembly, and elected representatives to various responsibilities within the Synod.

ELCA Bishop Herbert W. Chilstrom installed Bishop Richard N. Jessen, a former Iowa pastor, at Thursday ceremonies conducted at St. Paul United Methodist Church in Lincoln.

Bishop Chilstrom also addressed the 1,300 people gathered for the service.

MORE THAN $5,500 in offerings from the 1990 Assembly go to the Native American Ministry of Joe Brown Thunder in Scottsbluff. Brown Thunder serves as a lay minister for the Nebraska Synod in the panhandle.

In addition, the assembly passed a resolution that creates three at-large positions on the synod council which will help the church legislative body achieve a goal of 10 percent inclusiveness of people of various racial and ethnic backgrounds in the predominantly white church.

The 1991 assembly is slated for May 31 through June 1 at Kearney.

Bill's GW sponsors circus clown contest

Northeast Nebraska area children, 11 and under, will have a rare opportunity to participate as "guest clowns" in the all new performance of the great Carson & Barnes 5-Ring Wild Animal Circus when it appears in Wayne on Sunday, June 24.

Through arrangements with Bill's GW in Wayne a "Be A Clown" Contest has been arranged in which all participants will be winners. They will all receive free admission to the Carson & Barnes Circus and get to take part in the show. Each will receive a certificate as "Guest Clown" to frame and keep as a remembrance of the experience of participating in the world's largest tented circus.

Winner of the contest, to be held Saturday, June 23 at 1 p.m. in Bill's GW, will receive the special honor of presiding over the circus spectacle. The winner will also receive free circus tickets for his parents. To be eligible for the grand prize at Bill's GW, clown contestants must participate in the June 23 contest at 1 p.m. Also at that time, a photograph will be taken of all contestants dressed in their clown costumes. This photo will be published in the June 28 issue of The Wayne Herald.

Any youngsters dressed as clowns — but who do not wish to participate in the contest — still may come into Bill's GW on Saturday before or after the 1 p.m. contest to receive their Guest Clown certificate.

All children, 11 and under, must be accompanied by an adult in order to receive the certificate.

Further details about the contest may be obtained by inquiring at Bill's GW. Phone 375-1540.

SCHOOL BOARD

The Wakefield Board of Education accepted the resignation of Shirley Preston as book-keeper/board treasurer during their regular monthly meeting June 11. Connie Utecht, current school secretary, was named as her successor and Dawn Lubberstedt was hired as high school secretary and receptionist. These staff changes will take place later this month according to Superintendent Derwin Hartman.

Also during the course of the meeting the board approved the land transfers of five property owners in rural District 47 in Wayne County to Wakefield school District 60R. This action was necessitated by the fact that District 47 is dissolving.

Several summer maintenance projects were discussed. The board decided repair work should be done on the press box/announcers booth at the football field and some concrete repair work be done near the school buildings. The board approved a three-year contract with the City of Wakefield for rental on the football field at the park.

The board also approved the purchase of several instruments for the music department. The board ratified the teachers' negotiation package which has the base salary increasing by 4.3 percent from $15,000 to $15,600. The district will also pay the increase in the health insurance rates but starting in September professional staff members will be paying their own premiums on the income protection policy.

The board set classified staff salaries for the upcoming school year and discussed insurance values on the school buildings and contents. The board decided an appraiser should be contracted to get a realistic appraisal on the property. A contract with Mike Nesbit for psychological services was approved. Contract will begin June 1, 1990 through May 31, 1991.

Letters

Letters upsetting

It makes me rather sad that The Wayne Herald would print over 30 letters that make my parents look foolish. I hope you won't do this to anyone else.

Sign petitions

July will be a history making month for Nebraska taxpayers. This is when LB 1059, the largest tax increase bill in Nebraska history, goes into effect.

LB 1059 consists of a 25 percent sales tax increase and state income tax withholding increases ranging from 50 percent to 100 percent, depending on each individual's income and dependent status. The result is a total tax bill estimated at $250 million; money that leaves communities and will not be spent in stores on main street Nebraska by Nebraska citizens.

What can Nebraskans do other than pay this tax bill? An alternative exists. A petition drive to place LB 1059 on the ballot in the Nov. 6, 1990 general election has been started. Petitions may be signed at your county clerk's office prior to June 30, 1990.

Time is short. Each individual needs to do their part. Go to your county clerk's office and sign this petition. Consider carrying a petition as a circulator, obtaining the signatures of your friends and neighbors.

Let's demonstrate that democracy exists in Nebraska. Give the Nebraska voters the opportunity to determine the fate of this history making tax bill.

Mark'n' the Spot

by Mark Crist

Should we have a Constitutional amendment to forbid flag burning? This is a question U.S. Congresspersons are asking themselves in Washington. It's a question we should all pay close attention to here on the homefront.

While we neither enjoy seeing the flag desecrated nor believe those who are doing it are just in their actions or "true Americans", the concern we all should share is if we're going to make an exception to any Constitutional amendment, what's stopping us from making others.

Establishing a gun control amendment? Establishing an amendment that says if you going against the grain of the Fifth, you can be prosecuted?

In the words of Charles Dickens, "Bah Humbug!"

YOU'VE SEEN ME write more often than not about establishing gun control legislation. While I will not change my position on the issue, I will lend support to those who are wholly in favor of the total right to bear arms. After all, it is guaranteed in the Bill of Rights.

If we make exceptions to the Constitution for anything we don't like, we will live in a society no better off than the Soviet Union. Making amendments to amendments will only restrict our freedoms that much more.

A snowball effect is the last thing we need for the Constitution and a chilling effect is the last thing we need to restrict the freedoms of the First Amendment as well as any other.

IN THE PAST few weeks, I've had a few responses to the letters to the editor from students at Inarajan High School in Guam.

One of the responses to the letters which have been commonly asked is "why have you run all these letters?"

Since this happens to fall right in with what I was discussing above, I'll discuss it now.

It was impossible to run all of the letters at once since there were so many. If you noticed, we used excerpts from all the letters instead of the letters in their entirety. The reason we did this was simple: These students have a right to express their opinions the way they want to, just as anyone else does in the letters space provided, so long as the letters are signed and not libelous. Since these letters were both signed and not libelous, the Inarajan students had a right to have the letters published.

They were edited down to just the meaning, however, to save space. Like time is to television and radio, space is to a newspaper.

IN ADDITION, these students did their research. With some of the letters, they included statistics and other data which supported what they were saying. Only one of the numerous letters was not printed because it was not signed.

Here, again, these students have a First Amendment right to express their views. Since they contested what was written about the Schoenherr's experience in Guam, they had a right to have their voices heard. As embarrassing as it may have been to the Schoenherr's it apparently was equally as embarrassing to the students to hear negative things about their homeland. It was a difficult decision to decide what should be done with these letters.

By Pat Meierhenry

Our Father is celebrating his day with a nap. Only one child made it home, and she had to drive in wind and rain and dark skies part of the way. She's going back through Decatur and Blair because the highways are closed. We've had to worry about weather almost every night this week. The rain is welcome; the special effects are not.

It's been a week of goose bumps for me, even without the weather. Remember Terry Rhodes, the sailor from Laurel serving on the Indianapolis? He got married in January, and brought his "California girl" home to the Midwest this past week.

There was a reception for them in Dixon last Sunday, so I finally got to meet the young man who writes such sincere letters. There were hugs all around when I left; I only wish I could have visited longer.

On Monday, I drove to Logan View High School for an LWML convention. More hugs; there are always lot of them at these affairs. The school is a consolidated one; high on a windy hill, with a round gymnasium that is air-conditioned. Very nice.

One friend shared the sadness of a son with AIDS, and the healing they experienced before he died. Tears and goose bumps. More of these when the daughter of another friend sang a contemporary Christian song at the evening worship service. We agreed that all those voice lessons had paid off.

And finally, today, a former member of our congregation who decided to enter the ministry as a married man with a family preached his first sermon as a new seminary graduate.

It's been a long, hard struggle: financially, physically, and emotionally. We were amazed to see how he has matured, and heard a strong dynamic voice, and appreciated his words from the pulpit.

I could not help teasing our new pastor. He picked the right year to come to our church. We've been having guest preachers to help celebrate our centennial.

Nephew David has been here for two weeks, and decided today to stick around for seven more days. He has developed a sharp eye for thistles, is useful for getting cows in for breeding, and likes to observe potential bull buyers.

When you run out of your own kids to help, you have to import some. Of course, it's a mixed blessing. The cookies disappear, there is more dirt on the porch, and a ball keeps getting bounced in the living room. Today I found a wet swimsuit on his bedroom floor.

He's also partial to the cats, and encourages them to hang around the back door. He proves once again that farms and kids go together. He and Uncle Mike have "bonded" in the pickup, and he doesn't ask quite as many questions as he used to.

Medicine Storage and Safety Tips

Proper storage of medicines will help insure their availability and freshness when they are needed.

- Avoid bathroom storage because moisture may speed the deterioration of many medicines. The kitchen is less humid and a better place to store most medicines.
- Store household products such as cleaners and dishwashing detergents separate from medicines. Keep refrigerated medicines separated from foods. Where small children are present, medicines are best stored in locked cabinets that children cannot reach by climbing.
- Clean out medicine storage areas at least once each year, discarding (by flushing) those medicines that are no longer being used, outdated, or discolored.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

SOCIAL SECURITY — STILL A "TAXING" ISSUE:
As this is being written, the White House and Congress are engaged in a series of forward lurches and backward stumbles — all in an effort to raise enough revenue (another word for taxes, folks) to help reduce the deficit. While it's important that the deficit be cut if we're to be competitive with increasingly strong European and Asian economies, it's where our leaders want to cut that should raise some alarms for seniors. Once again, the White House is sending signals that Social Security services can either be curtailed (with Medicare being most ripe for pruning — or so it's claimed!), or the Social Security taxes raised. The former would have a direct negative effect on retirees; the latter would add to the already high burden most middle-class taxpayers have to ante up. All of this is going on while Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan's sensible suggestion (he'd cut payroll taxes while removing the Social Security Trust funds from the deficit-cutting budget) is ignored. Something doesn't wash well in Washington these days.

BEING AN "EX" DOESN'T EX OUT YOUR RIGHTS: Contrary to what I heard on a public channel TV show the other day, divorced spouses don't necessarily lose their rights to collect social security benefits on the record of their former mates. The law holds the ex can collect if the following conditions are met:

1. The ex must have worked the required number of years, and reached retirement age;
2. The couple must have been married for at least 10 years;
3. They must be divorced at least two years;

YOUR HOMETOWN BANK PAYS YOU MORE COSTS YOU LESS SERVES YOU BEST

MEMBER FDIC

4. The claimant cannot be eligible for a retirement or disability benefit that matches, or is higher by one half of, the former mate's full benefit.

P.S. While we're discussing matters matrimonial, the June/July issue of "Modern Maturity" advises a change in the law regarding how much property one can bequeath to a non-citizen spouse tax free. The exemption from federal estate tax for alien spouses no longer applies for amounts over $500,000 in property. Couples can continue to establish trusts to reduce or avoid estate taxes, but the trusts must conform to federal guidelines.

VITAMINS AND BONE FRACTURES: The April issue of "McKnight's Long Term Care News" reports a study showing that a deficiency of vitamin D can lead to hip fractures among older people. This can be a result of too little vitamin D in the diet, and insufficient exposure to the sun. (Exposure to the sun should always be in moderation; too much can cause other problems.) Check your doctor before taking any nutrient supplement.
