

Daub: Senate needs new blood

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

In his attempt to unseat incumbent Sen. James Exon, Hal Daub is running what he calls a main street, shop-talk campaign. Daub visited Wayne during a campaign visit Thursday evening and Friday morning.

Daub said his campaign differs from his opponents because he takes the concerns of his constituents to heart. He said in order to keep in touch with voters, once elected he plans to hold quarterly town hall meetings in each of the legislative districts, as well as have members of his staff stop in each of Nebraska's 93 counties once a month.

"To be effective in Congress, you have to meet the public," he said. "We plan to do main street activities like this one when I get elected."

exists now and that needs to be changed.

"To me, spending more than we take in shows an unfriendly government," he said. "We handle presidents by limiting the time they can serve two terms so why shouldn't we handle congressmen? Did you know that your chances of dying in Congress are better than losing an election? ...They're at a point where they don't have to listen to their constituents. You've got to change the faces in government or you won't change the system."

To back up what he said,

Daub vowed that he will not serve more than 12 years as a U.S. senator. He said two terms is enough for any person because after that, they burn out.

He said to make sure reforms are made which will save the taxpayer's money, more needs to be done to control terms because then a candidate only has X-number of years to accomplish his goals.

DAUB'S MAIN criticism of the tenure of congressional members, is that they take too much

Officials suggest ways to protect landlord, tenant

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

More often than not, landlords and tenants need to make sure they're protected against damages. Despite clear Nebraska laws on the subject, confusion remains.

According to one official, confusion arises either because there is no written contract between the parties or because people don't have a clear understanding of the laws.

Although the Nebraska Real Estate Commission doesn't administer the laws of the Landlord-Tenant Act, passed in 1974, it will respond to some complaints, according to Paul Quinlan, director of the Nebraska Real Estate Commission in Lincoln.

"One of the major complaints we hear is the repayment of security deposits," he said. "It's the basis of more disputes between the landlord and the tenant than any other."

ACCORDING TO the Landlord-Tenant Act, landlords or property managers must return the security deposit within 14 days of the date the property is vacated. To insure that money is returned, the renter should send the lease a certified letter to request the deposit be returned. If the deposit is not returned in its entirety, the leasee must give proof why it was not returned.

One way to insure repayment of the deposit is for the landlord and tenant to tour the house and make a list of its problems prior to the signing of a lease, as well as at the time the tenant vacates the property, he said. If this isn't done, one party may suffer — and usually that's the renter.

QUINLAN SAID one way for renters to protect themselves is to take pictures of the property prior to occupying it, as well as when they move out. He said a detailed list of the conditions of the property written down at the time it's occupied will help alleviate problems.

He added that both the owner (or manager) and the renter should keep copies of the list.

According to Wayne attorney Ken Olds, most local landlords do not require a signed lease with their tenants. He said by not having a lease, both parties can suffer the consequences.

"A written and signed contract gives both parties something in writing so they know what their benefits and rights are," he said.

ACCORDING TO the Nebraska Landlord-Tenant Act, leases under one year are considered verbal contracts unless there is something in writing. If no written and signed contract exists between both parties, the conditions of the Landlord-Tenant Act are in effect, according to Wayne attorney Duane Schroeder.

Nevertheless, most agree that it is unwise not to have a signed, written contract.

One of the problems with not having a written and signed contract is that the landlord can increase the rent on the tenant on a monthly basis, according to local realtors Dale Stoltenberg and Darrell Fuelberth.

While Fuelberth, who manages about 20 properties, said he does not require his landlords to have a signed lease, Stoltenberg, Wayne's largest manager of property, said he requires it.

Fuelberth said the conditions of a lease often are found too restraining by landlords because most leases favor the renter. He said he thinks it's in the landlord's better interest not to have a lease agreement.

Stoltenberg said the lease his clients have signed usually are for six months if they're short-term. He said if the lease continues past six months, it goes on a month-to-month basis, which allows for the landlord to increase the rent on a monthly basis if necessary.

AS A CONDITION of the Landlord-Tenant Act, landlords must give renters one full months advance notice if they want the property vacated unless certain conditions exist. Schroeder said if the renter wants to vacate the property, the individual must give proper notification.

"Say, for instance, you want to move out May 15," he said. "If that's the case, you must notify the landlord April 1 if you pay rent on the first of the month."

Schroeder noted, however, that

Officials offer several tips to rental shopping

AREA - When looking into renting property, the following are a few suggestions by local officials of how to handle the process.

- When looking for rental property, attain a copy of the lease agreement and have it looked over by an attorney before signing it.

- State all your terms and conditions that you would like to see in the contract.

- Make a list with your landlord or property manager which details the condition of the rental property.

- Make certain with the attorney that you understand all the terms of the contract before signing it.

- If possible, check the landlord's reputation by asking local officials about his or her business practices. Places to check include the county court offices, the banks or friends whom you trust. Also, a renter can ask a landlord or property manager for references.

- Check for leaks or evidence that leaks have existed in the walls, under sinks and around showers.

- Find out if the property has recently been exterminated for bugs. If it has, make sure you have something in writing.

- Check to see if all the electrical outlets work and that all gas lines are properly vented. Some officials suggest checking to see if appliances are in working order, such as stoves and refrigerators.

- Check the toilets to make sure they flush properly and check the sinks and drains to see that wastewater flows out well.

Interns, staff benefit by experience

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

As intern programs go, most might not think of a juvenile detention facility as somewhere you'd want to work. But Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen has given two college students reason to think otherwise.

Janssen said this summer's interns have seen about as much as they're likely to during any internship. So far, the juvenile detention center has had two attempted escapes — one which was successful — and what appeared to be an attempted suicide.

The facility offers both paid and unpaid internships, Janssen said. The intern program began about two years ago following a request by Wayne State College as well as other Nebraska colleges.

Interning this summer is Kathy Mohlfeld, Wayne, a Kearney State College student, and Jan Hohbach, a Wayne State student from Marcus, Iowa.

"The things they've seen this summer are things they'll be able to apply in the real world," Janssen said. "If they get into this type of work, the things they've seen are things they'll see in any prison."

HAVING THE practical experience is something Janssen said is important. He said there's things students can't prepare themselves for through just a textbook or in a classroom experience. He said the practical experience allows the interns to grow, and in some cases, to know if working in a jail is something they want to do the rest of their lives.

There is stress related to the work and that's something Janssen said he tries to help the interns through on a weekly basis. He holds meetings with the students weekly to evaluate what they have learned as well as listen to their problems.

"Mostly, we hear feelings from our interns," he said. "That's important for them to relate to their jobs. It's going to be important if they work anywhere else and it allows them to learn our policies. It works out the best for everyone."

Although intimidation in the jail is something personnel deal with, Janssen said the interns aren't usually frightened by inmates antics. He said the interns are usually well prepared for the intimidation tactics.

ASIDE FROM getting a practical education from the experience, Janssen said the interns are often positive role models for the inmates as well as emotional boosters for the regular staff.

Since policy is constantly reviewed with interns on a weekly

Civil Air Patrol honors senator

WAYNE - State Sen. Jerry Conway of Wayne was recently recognized by the North Central Region of the Civil Air Patrol.

The seven state regional conference, held at Offut Air Force Base, concluded with an awards banquet at the officers club where Conway was awarded an inscribed plaque and altimeter clock.

Colonel Richard Anderson, region commander, described the award as "a recognition for Sen. Conway's outstanding contributions and support for the Civil Air Patrol's activities both as a member and state senator." The Nebraska CAP Wing has been credited with initiating an innovative program cooperation with the Nebraska State Patrol providing aerial support for drug enforcement.

Conway, senior pilot and member of the Nebraska Wing of CAP, described the award as an unexpected surprise from an organization that he holds in high regard.

"I firmly believe that CAP is one of those using civic groups whose volunteers contribute a great deal of time and personal resources for the betterment of our society," Conway said. "I am proud to be affiliated with such a fine organization and truly honored to be recognized," he added.

The Civil Air Patrol is most widely known for their searches for missing aircraft and persons but is also active in cadet training, aerial surveillance and support, emergency assistance, medical transportation and the new cooperative effort with drug enforcement in Nebraska.

time to determine the federal budget.

He said through campaign visits he's heard that city and county government officials are upset that the federal government has not finished the budget because that puts them in a situation of not being able to draw up their budgets.

He said government inefficiency is also costing taxpayers considerably. He said a study by the Grace Commission two years ago said $394 billion would be saved if government agencies were more efficient and accountable for their actions. He said this indicates a need for better management.

THE SENATORIAL candidate also said he will work to see that officials involved in the HUD scandal, as well as the savings and loan scandal, are prosecuted. He said it's ridiculous that taxpayers have to pay for their mistakes. Daub said if they're prosecuted immediately, it will save taxpayers millions of dollars.

"Loans in default cannot be tolerated," he said. "What I propose is to start collecting them and prosecuting defaulters. This would take a lot of the money back in. We should give the government the same authority to attach to illegally attained funds just like we do drug runners and pushers."

Daub said additionally, that Congress should allow the president to declare an economic emergency because the combination of the two scandals and the federal deficit are almost at a point where it's too much for Congress to handle.

Nevertheless, Daub said he knows he still has to be elected.

"This campaign is about the future," he said. "It starts with trying to build credibility. We need to send people dedicated to reform. This campaign is all about change and it's time for change."

Protect

that doesn't mean contracts can be broken. He said if you're in the middle of a two year lease, you have to continue through the lease or agree upon mutually satisfying terms between both the landlord and the renter.

Such is the case if the landlord decides he wants to sell the property. If this happens, both parties must agree upon the terms, according to Fuelberth.

"The Landlord-Tenant Act is basically designed by using common sense," he said. "Most people want to do what's fair for both sides."

AS BUSINESSES in Wayne continue expanding, there is a greater demand on the housing market, according to Stoltenberg. He said as long as that demand remains high, rental costs will remain high.

"Right now, we have one property that came in last month that we're managing and they're only asking $200 for rent," he said. "We'll have to increase the rental price to $300 to put it on an equal level with other houses its size."

According to the Landlord-Tenant Act, however, landlords or property managers must keep the property in habitable shape. The law says property owners/managers must provide heat to all rooms of the property as well as hot water. According to the law, tenants may break their lease if the property is not in habitable order.

If a renter is living in a property which is questionable, they can contact the local health department to have them investigate the situation.

One problem expressed by some officials interviewed is that if a property manager representing the owner is not taking proper care of the property, the renter does not have to be told who owns the property. The way of working around this, is to contact the county clerk's office with the address to find out who the owner of the property is, according to Schroeder.

Colonel commmits murder in play

WAYNE - There was a murder recently in Ley Theatre — "Blue in the Face" — and the Colonel was the culprit — as the Wayne Community Theatre presented their Mystery Ball for patrons, prospective patrons and season ticket holders.

Banker L.G. Phlem (Lyle George) was thought to have drowned in the blue punch but it was later learned that the Colonel (Jason Preston) had poisoned him due to some shady banking transaction.

Other cast member suspects were The Mrs. (Virginia Preston), Penelope (Gwen Jensen), Brutus (Mike Scott), Phoebe (Sue Scott), Alfred (Galen Wiser), Sherlock (Dave Headley), Gilbert (Gil Haase) and Anastasia (Sharon Hord).

Several scenes were enacted by the suspects, intermingled with dancing, to provide the guests with clues and all had equal chances and motives to do away with the unscrupulous banker.

Ley Theatre was well decorated for a theatre ball with greenery, tiny white lights, posters of past productions, a theatre board of the coming season and each guest was announced by Ben Wilson upon their arrival.

Wayne High School students served as waiters and waitresses plus Damon Wiser on the elevator. A festive hors d' oeuvres table provided for the guests and Joy Hein and Bonnie Siefken each won tickets for two to the October dinner theatre at the Black Knight, "Move Over Mrs. Markham."

Wayne Community Theatre's first production of the 1990-91 season is Lerner and Lowe's "Brigadoon", Aug. 17-19 in Ramsey Theatre.

basis, Janssen said although they don't have to make major decisions, since the regular, full time staff does most of the decision making, it does allow the interns to be prepared to deal with situations beyond the classroom.

Janssen said the only unfortunate thing about the program is when an intern finishes college, or leaves for another job, the staff misses the individual.

"They're positive for us," he said. "Unfortunately, they come and go because they gather good experience and when they leave, we hate to lose them. They're extremely valuable to us."

Operations qualify for help

AREA - Farm operators in Stanton County who have suffered severe crop production and/or physical losses because of natural disasters may be eligible for credit assistance from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), LaVern Ostendorf said recently.

Ostendorf, county supervisor, asked that those farmers needing farm credit as a result of severe storms, flooding and tornadoes which occurred on June 10, 1990, and who think they may be eligible for FmHA assistance, can obtain applications for assistance at the FmHA Wayne County office, located at 709 Providence Rd. in Wayne.

Wayne County also became eligible under existing legislation which provides that farmers in counties bordering on those which have been designated for disaster assistance may also qualify for such assistance.

For production losses, the farmer must have had at least a 30 percent loss after receipt of payment from any ASCS Disaster Assistance program or crop insurance.

4th Jug, Spacely's Sprockets win softball tourney Two Wayne teams state bound 4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds and Spacely's Sprockets, (a Wayne based softball team), each won their respective division in last weekend's Wayne Chicken Days Tournament.

The top three teams in each of the D-Rec and E Divisions of the USSSA state qualifying tournament qualified for state which for D-Rec is August 11-12 and for E—August 18-19.

4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds qualified by winning the D-Rec Division while Spacely's Sprockets won the E Division but both squads went about winning in a different way.

4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds needed just four games to claim top honors as they went through the tournament undefeated while Spacely's Sprockets needed seven games to do the same thing.

Tooties Bar out of Hartington was the first team 4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds faced and it turned out to be the closest of the three games played as they won 6-5. Things looked good early as Jess Zeiss led off the game with a triple and scored as the very next batter—Mike Sherer sacrificed him in. That was the only run 4th Jug scored until the fifth inning as Aaron Schuett led off the inning with a single and later scored on a Darin Blackburn single.

4th Jug scored once more in the sixth inning as Mark Gansbom hit a one out single and with two outs Al Nissen knocked him in on a double. The Jug exploded for three runs in the seventh inning which ended the game.

Rod Cook hit a one out single and Wes Lueth was walked Darin Blackburn then singled and Dennis Carroll hit into a fielder's choice. Jess Zeiss then hit a 2-run double which scored Blackburn and Carroll. Leading hitters in the game included Jess Zeiss, Mark Gansbom, Al Nissen, Aaron Schuett and Darin Blackburn as they all notched two hits each. Mike Sherer got the pitching win.

4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds then drilled The "O" 12-4 as they scored in every inning except the seventh. Doug Carroll and Jess Zeiss led the hitting parade for the Jug as they each had three hits. Al-Nissen and Dennis Carroll each finished with two hits. Sherer was once again the winning pitcher.

The Jug had to play Telebeep of Norfolk in the following game and the locals came out on top of a 15-10 score. The bulk of the damage was done in the second inning as the Jug scored 10 runs.

4th Jug belted out 27 hits in the game and each of the 11 batters had more than one hit as Wes Lueth, Al Nissen, Doug Carroll, Rod Cook and Dave Welch each had three hits while Steve Sorensen, Jess Zeiss, Mark Gansbom, Aaron Schuett, Mike Sherer and Dennis Carroll all had two hits each. Dave Welch belted a home run during the second inning barrage. Mike Sherer was credited with the pitching victory.

Telebeep ended up beating The "O" in the finals of the losers bracket which paired the same two teams in the finals with the 4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds winning the final game by a 10-7 margin.

The Jug scored five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning and then held off Telebeep in the top of the seventh to ensure the championship. Zeiss led the way with three hits while Al Nissen, Aaron Schuett, Rod Cook and Dave Welch had two hits apiece. Welch incidentally, hit a home run in the fourth inning. Mike Sherer was once again the winning pitcher. The 4th Jug's record stands at 25-4.

Spacely's win in seven
As mentioned earlier both teams took a different route to gain the same result as evidenced by a four game tournament for 4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds and a seven game tournament by Spacely's Sprockets.

In the opening game of the tournament Spacely's played Shopko from Norfolk and the locals waltzed to a 13-2 victory. Dean Milander led the way with three hits while Doug Rose, Mike Nissen, and Dave Downie had two hits each. Jason Minnick belted a second inning home run to aid in the win. Kevin Peterson was the winning pitcher.

In the second round Spacely's Sprockets defeated Danny's Bar & Grill out of Omaha 8-5. The locals scored five runs in the first inning and added two more in the fifth and one in the seventh.

Doug Rose led the way with three hits for the winners while Barry Dahlkoetter added two. Kevin Peterson was given the pitching victory. Spacely's Sprockets then played L&L Trucking out of Pilger and this time the locals came out on top of a 10-5 score.

Spacely's scored four runs in the fourth inning and added two in the fifth, one in the sixth and three in the seventh. The two runs scored in the fifth inning broke a 4-4 tie. Doug Rose was once again the offensive catalyst with three hits including a home run in the fifth inning. Wayne Hinrichs and Barry Dahlkoetter each added two hits to boost Spacely's Sprockets in the finals of the winners bracket. Duane Smith was the victorious pitcher.

Spacely's was dominated in the finals of the winners bracket by Liquor Mart of Norfolk 11-1 in five innings. The locals managed just five hits as Ward Walker led the way with a double and a single. Doug Rose, Barry Dahlkoetter and Andy Karavas also hit safely. Duane Smith took the pitching loss.

The loss put Spacely's into the finals of the loser's bracket against L&L Trucking once again. This time Spacely's managed to win 7-1 as L&L Trucking scored its only run in the seventh and final inning.

Ward Walker, Andy Karavas and Kevin Peterson each led the way with two hits while Dean Milander provided some power with a triple. Doug Rose added a double and Barry Dahlkoetter and Mike Nissen each singled. Kevin Peterson was credited with the pitching victory.

The win set up a rematch with Liquor Mart of Norfolk in the finals.

If Spacely's got past Liquor Mart it would force another game for the finals since Liquor Mart was still undefeated in tournament play.

Spacely's Sprockets won the first game 11-4. A four run second and a three run fifth inning led to victory. Barry Dahlkoetter, Kevin Peterson and Andy Karavas led the way with three hits each while Duane Smith and Ward Walker hit safely twice. Kevin Peterson was given the pitching victory.

The win set up one last game between the two teams and Spacely's captured the final game as well, 7-4. Barry Dahlkoetter was the offensive catalyst with three hits while Mike Nissen, Dean Milander and Jason Minnick each had two. Kevin Peterson was credited with the pitching win.

The team roster for the week-end included Doug Rose, Wayne Hinrichs, Barry Dahlkoetter, Mike Nissen, Dean Milander, Ward Walker, Jason Minnick, Kevin Peterson, Bill Lumbard, Jeff Hoffart, Andy Karavas, Duane Smith, Dave Downie and Bob Wolverton.

Unofficially, this was the first Chicken Days Tournament in which two Wayne teams were crowned champions. In the women's division of the tournament Sweet Williams Lounge out of Norfolk won the round robin bracket.

Ken, a native of Columbus, served as manager of several Godfather's Pizza establishments for a total of 15 years, including the last 10 years in Wayne. He and his wife, Karen, are the parents of twins Kelli and Kyle, ages 2 1/2.

Nic was born and raised in Wayne and was employed at the Black Knight for four years before purchasing the business with Ken from John and Marie Mohr. Nic's varied professional background includes owning and operating his own vending business.

THE BLACK KNIGHT, located at 304 Main St. in Wayne, is open seven days a week, serving noon meals every day. For late lunch goers, Ken and Nic have expanded the Monday through Friday lunch hour from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. On Saturday and Sunday, the lunch hour runs from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., featuring a buffet meal on Sunday.

The Black Knight is open every evening, except Sunday, beginning at 5 p.m.

Both Ken and Nic stress that the Black Knight is a full-service restaurant, serving steaks, seafood, noon lunches, fresh pies and cakes. Pies also are available for persons to purchase and take out.

With a total seating capacity of 210, the Black Knight is open Sunday evenings for private parties when the entire restaurant can be reserved for large groups.

There also is a private back room available any day or evening (with a seating capacity of 135) for catering wedding receptions, graduations, class reunions, club meetings and other special occasions.

Several organizations, including the Wayne Kiwanis Club and Wayne State Cat Backers, meet regularly at the Black Knight.

THE BLACK KNIGHT will celebrate its grand opening under the new ownership of Ken and Nic on Monday through Saturday, July 23-28.

The public is invited to stop by for daily food specials and to register for free drawings, including Black Knight gift certificates, to be held on Saturday, July 28 at 9 p.m.

"We want everyone to know that we're here and available for all their dining needs and enjoyment," said Ken and Nic, adding that reservations for small or large groups can be made by calling the Black Knight at 375-5305.

CARDS OF THANKS

OUR HEARTFELT thanks to everyone who helped make our 50th anniversary such a happy time. To those who attended our open house, sent cards, flowers, gifts, phone calls and best wishes. A special thanks to our children and grandchildren who hosted the open house, took pictures, arranged pictures, and made the memory book. We would appreciate additional memory notes from our friends and relatives to include in this album. Thanks to all who worked in the kitchen and those who served. You all made it a joyous day we will always remember. Sam and Ila Noyes. Jy23

I WOULD like to thank my family, friends and neighbors for visits, cards, flowers, telephone calls and gifts while I was in the Lutheran Hospital at Norfolk, following surgery and during my stay at the Tilden Hospital and since returning home. God bless you all. Ann Nathan. Jy23
