WITH THE FLAG HUNG AT HALF MAST for most of the week, Wayne State College is slowly recovering from last weekend's misfortune. According to WSC officials, it is important to get the students back into the activity of college life. Counselors will be making rounds this weekend to make sure students are safe.

Incident keeping officials busy

Safety, well-being top importance of staff

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Following a tough weekend, Wayne State College officials are doing everything they can to insure the safety and well-being of the students.

According to Curt Frye, dean of student life, WSC counselors have increased visibility since Saturday. He said counselors have been working with the residence staff to help them deal with troubles before they begin.

In addition to providing counseling, the WSC campus ministry has opened its doors to help students seek out spiritual answers to recent campus problems, according to Jeff Anderson, a campus pastor and pastor at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

The important thing, both agree, is not to glamorize the death of Greg Amundson, who committed suicide in the Willow Bowl last weekend.

"Many students are still going through the denial process," Anderson said. "Many were gone from the campus last weekend, so they were distanced from the situation."

IN ADDITION TO OPENING the doors to the students last weekend, this weekend counselors will be making rounds through the residence halls. According to Frye, the system of helping students to cope is going well.

"We're hoping the students can process through this as quickly as possible so they can get back to being students," he said. "We're doing everything we can to protect them."

That protection has allowed many students to cope with a rough situation, Anderson said. He said the processing of what has happened has already occurred for some.

"Greg had all these gifts but when people have that many gifts, they sometimes place too much pressure on themselves. Sometimes that person does things they will regret but in this case, that can't happen. I'm not blaming anyone for what happened because no one is at fault but sometimes when people place expectations on themselves that they can't meet, they're devastated when they don't meet them," Anderson said.

United Way support important to Haven House

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the first in a series about the benefits of the United Way to the Wayne community. In this article, names, identities, times and places have been changed for privacy purposes.

It's 1:35 a.m. and Sara Campbell is going to work.

She just received a call from the Wayne County Sheriff's office to meet them at the police department. Campbell learns that a woman and her children are in need of Haven House support.

It's not an uncommon scenario but it's one she deprecates. Many times when she gets a call, her clients have been beaten, they're scared and they've left their homes because the abuse has gotten to the point where it's too much to handle.

Although Haven House is funded by the State of Nebraska, it hasn't had an increase in funds for eight years, so the support it receives from charitable organizations like United Way goes a long way.

IT'S NOW 1:45 A.M. and she arrives at the police station.

Campbell explains that 80 percent of her clientele come from Wayne County. She says over the past couple years, the number of people Haven House helps has increased with public awareness.

"All the people we see were physically abused," she says. "They've been hit, punched and kicked in some cases. Occasionally we take in a victim who has experienced a sexual assault but many of those types of assaults go unreported."

While United Way support helps organizations like Haven House, potential changes in state laws could close the organization, Campbell says, but that's an entirely different matter.

AT 2 A.M. THE WOMAN arrives with her two children. She is pregnant and she has been beaten. Her youngest child, a 2-year-old, has a bloody lip from where his father apparently struck him.

During what she calls an "intake interview," Campbell learns that the woman's name is Denise and she's eight months pregnant. One of her eyes has swollen shut and she had a number of welts on her arms, neck and her upper chest.

Denise had been married for about three years. Although the relationship did not start out abusive, she had been beaten periodically for two years. Denise said the beating she took this night was by far the worst.

She told Campbell that after her husband fled, she got back up and walked two miles where she called the authorities.

IT'S 2:45 A.M. AND Denise has decided that she neither wants to

Funeral held for suicide victim

WAYNE - A funeral was held Tuesday in Norfolk for an 18-year-old Wayne State College freshman, who authorities said died of an apparent suicide.

Grégory L. Amundson, Norfolk, was found hanging Saturday about 7:45 a.m. in a tree near the Willow Bowl, according to Wayne Chief of Police Vern Fairchild. Amundson was reportedly found by two students passing by.

"This is a terrible tragedy," said Dr. Donald Mash, president of Wayne State College. "It has shocked and saddened our college community. Our heart-felt sympathies go out to Greg's family and friends."

Amundson was a member of the Wayne State College football team and a 1990 graduate of Norfolk High School, where he participated in a number of activities.

ACCORDING TO COUNTY Attorney Bob Ensz, there was nothing to indicate that the death was anything but self-caused. Fairchild had said a suicide note was left.

Amundson was born Dec. 15, 1971 at Black River Falls, Wis., the son of Gary and Kayleen (Larson) Amundson. He was baptized June 18, 1972 at Squaw Creek Lutheran Church in Black River Falls and confirmed April 27, 1986 at Mount Olive Lutheran Church in Norfolk.

He graduated in the top 10 of his high school class and he made all-academic teams in football, wrestling and track. On Aug. 4, 1990 he played in the Shine Bowl football game. He had been a member of Mount Olive Lutheran Church in Norfolk.

Survivors include his parents, brother Scott of Wayne; and a grandmother, Izola Larson of Tilden.

Hansen beats campaign path

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Despite not having a political background, Nancy Hansen has her sights set on being Nebraska's secretary of state. That message was delivered to WSC students Monday morning.

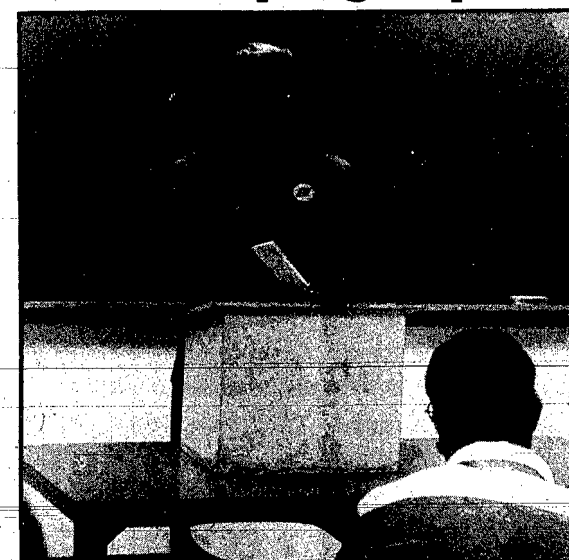

Hansen, who spoke to the "Political Parties and Interest Groups" class taught by Allen O'Donnell, criticized Secretary of State Allen Bierman and said she had something more to offer Nebraska than just "sitting inside four concrete walls."

"If you don't take a stand, you'll fall for everything," she said. "That's something I've seen Allen Bierman do. I can't get a debate with him and he won't take a position on anything."

Hansen, who has worked a variety of jobs on the federal level during the Reagan years, said the reason she stopped working for the federal government is because it's not serving the people's interests.

SHE SAID THAT Gov. Orr's administration has shown the same lack of interest in the people and that was one reason she changed her political affiliation a few years ago.

"Upon questioning some things — things like advertising policies — I was accused of rocking the boat," she said. "I thought to myself, 'we live in a democratic society, so why shouldn't I be able to speak out?' So I changed party affiliation. Now, I want to work in a position where the constitution means something."

A SINGLE PARENT, Hansen, 39, said one of the primary reasons she's critical of Bierman is because he doesn't take a stand on anything. She said he doesn't take any risks because he doesn't voice his opinion of either side of any issue.

"The only issue he has come up with at this point is that I'm young," she said. "But actually, that's a compliment unless he's trying to imply that I'm too young for the job."

She said if elected, she will push for changes to the current voting

Investigation continuing in apparent sexual assault

WAYNE - An investigation is continuing in an apparent sexual assault involving a 22-year-old woman at Rueters Trailer Court early Saturday morning.

Wayne Police Department reports said a male subject (name withheld) came to the police department Saturday at 12:05 a.m. and requested an officer saying that his sister had been raped.

Upon arrival, the officer entered the trailer and found the apparent victim curled up under a blanket on the bed with her mother seated next to her. Police reports said at first the victim would not talk. Reports said the officer advised the victim that she needed to talk and be taken to the hospital.

According to Police Chief Vern Fairchild, after some discussion, the victim was taken to the hospital.

Fairchild added that no arrest warrant has been issued but a suspect's name has been supplied to police. He added that alcohol was believed to be involved in the incident but no charges have been filed.

Two-vehicle accident results in five people taken to area hospitals

WAKEFIELD - An accident Friday, Sept. 14 east of here resulted in five people being taken to area hospitals, according to reports from the Nebraska State Patrol.

At 9:25 a.m. a vehicle driven by Todd Oborny, 18, Wayne, attempted to pass a semi-tractor driven by David Davenport, 34, Walthill.

According to Ken Bohlken, a dispatcher for the Nebraska State Patrol, Davenport had stopped to make a left-hand turn on Highway 35 1.5 miles east of Wakefield. Bohlken said Oborny then attempted to pass the truck, slamming into its rear.

STATE PATROL REPORTS said the Oborny vehicle had three passengers. According to Bohlken, Oborny, along with Chad Ebell, 18, of Iowa were treated and released at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. Jeff Glinea, 19, Iowa, was taken to Marian Health Center in Sioux City where he is listed in stable condition in the intensive care unit. Passenger Brenda Shelby, 19, Sioux City, was taken to St. Lukes hospital in Sioux City where she was treated for a broken wrist.

Davenport was taken to Providence Medical Center where he was treated for bumps and bruises and released.

According to Bohlken, no seat belts were used in the accident.

Mark'n' the Spot

by Mark Crist

Many, many years ago in a time not much different from ours and in a place quite similar to ours, one publicity-craven citizen spoke out against the government. No one was really sure of his goal but he was effective at confusing the public.

Such the story begins. His name was Mr. Ed. (Mind you that a TV character was later named after him and you understand the species of that stallion.) Mr. Ed was tired. In his tired state, he was confused. His confusion led to the confusion of others, who followed his lead, agreeing in principal with his idea but not realizing the exercising of the practice thereof would ruin the society.

THE GOVERNMENT (under three kings and one queen over a period of 16 years) had annually spent what it needed because the people were poor from years of financial hardship. But thanks to the wisdom of the kings, times had changed and now the people prospered. The result was an increase in taxes to help amend years past.

(But over the years, those of the kingdom had complained often about unfair taxes, not comprehending what the three kings, one queen and their dukes and duchesses had done for them.)

Mr. Ed was weary from hearing taxing complaints and in his tired, confused state, he proclaimed the distribution of circulars to force change as he would sooner have had the heads of the three kings and the queen than live in a prosperous kingdom.

Thus, the plot thickens. IN HIS CAMPAIGN, fought as feverishly as ones seen by Napoleon, Hitler and Stalin, Mr. Ed battled wits with townfolk, thus expounding his hyperbole in a fashion to persuade the commoner, who understood little of government.

After gathering enough support for his cause, Mr. Ed found his taxing issue placed on the ballot. Alas! The commoner would be allowed to vote, he thought to himself, expounding publicly.

(In placing his idea to a public vote, little did he realize that he had eliminated one of the primary purposes of parliament. Mr. Ed had forced parliament into a "yea" body, rather than the political entity it previously had been.)

Mr. Ed argued that the vote would insure the public its freedom of choice. He was convinced that only his idea was correct and none other could argue with the self-appointed prince of the people. His feet secure on the ground, he stared to the stars and cried a perfect song, bellowing as loudly as some before him to the heavens.

"No new taxes," he shrieked. "No new taxes."

DURING THIS PROCESS, Mr. Ed tried to insure that the kings and the queen and all their men would remain voiceless, despite the fact that his propaganda was riddled with half-truths, visions bright enough to blind all.

The plot, thick as sugared molasses on a sub-zero arctic day, began to unravel as literature made the people aware.

Mr. Ed's promise of "no new taxes" looked as good as a rainbow but it had no pot of gold at the end. The people soon realized Mr. Ed's plan would cripple the kingdom and all in it.

The moral of this story is that the promise of no new taxes can make us lose what we now have. The question we must answer is whether we want to forge our own path or end up like little Mr. Ed. That question the kingdom must answer.

PMAA offers answers to fuel hikes

The following information was provided by the Petroleum Marketers Association of America and it does not reflect or represent the views or opinions of The Wayne Herald.

Question: Why have prices of gasoline and heating oil increased as a result of the Iraq invasion of Kuwait?

Answer: There are several different reasons. First, the oil market is like any other commodity market. It reacts to immediate events that affect the supply or price of the commodity. When Iraq invaded Kuwait the price on the New York Mercantile Exchange (MERC) shot up dramatically. The spot market price for gasoline and other petroleum products followed the Merc up. This meant all incremental sources of supply (non-contract supply) immediately went up in price. This had an immediate impact on contract supply—that sold by the major oil companies to their wholesalers and retailers—because many major companies sell more gasoline than they make and thus have to buy the excess supply in the spot market. In addition, many wholesalers who operate in both the spot and contract markets, attempted to buy greater volumes in the contract market because the price was cheaper. This increased demand in the contract market forced major suppliers to not only raise prices but also to begin imposing some restrictions on the amount of available supply given to wholesalers.

Question: All of that sounds like it would take a long time for this to happen but it really doesn't. With the electronic technology that exists today, world wide price changes can be communicated instantaneously with almost any participant in the petroleum industry. For example, virtually, every marketer in the country knows electronically, at any given point in

Answer: It may sound like it would take a long time for this to happen but it really doesn't. With the electronic technology that exists today, world wide price changes can be communicated instantaneously with almost any participant in the petroleum industry. For example, virtually, every marketer in the country knows electronically, at any given point in time, the price of all his suppliers and how those prices relate to the spot market.

It is also important to note that the price of crude oil had started to edge upward before Iraq's invasions of Kuwait. The spot market price of crude oil rose from about $15.50 per barrel in mid-June to about $20 per barrel by the end of July, just prior to the Iraq invasion.

Additionally, the nation's refineries have been operating at near full capacity, and the ratio of supply to demand has been very thin, particularly in light of the increased demand brought on by the summer driving season. Moreover, for the past two years the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has required that much of the gasoline sold in the nation be refined with a lower Reid Vapor Pressure (RVP) level. That process requires more oil to make the same gallon of gasoline.

So, many of the forces behind the price rise at the pump were in force before the Iraqi invasion. The invasion, of course, served to exacerbate and greatly accelerate those forces, as well as to raise concern about the long-term supply outlook.

Question: Were there other reasons for the increase?

Answer: Yes, and these reasons related to the psychological reaction of virtually every participant in the entire system to the news of the invasion. Everyone, in anticipation of higher prices, wanted more supply. This is true of consumers who wanted their gasoline tanks and heating oil tanks full before the next price increase; of service stations who wanted their tanks full; wholesalers who wanted to increase their bulk storage; and refiners who were looking for more crude oil. The results of all of this was to increase demand throughout the entire system and surges in demand generally result in price increases.

Question: Is it fair for the price to be raised on gasoline which has not yet experienced the higher costs associated with the Iraq invasion?

Answer: If fairness is defined as someone taking reasonable actions consistent with competitive free market principals, then yes it is fair. When the service station dealer raises his price on the gasoline he has in inventory, he is generating the necessary capital to pay for the next load of gasoline. He is raising the price in order to pay for the next load which he knows will be higher priced.

Question: Isn't it true that the price of crude oil that refineries are now receiving is based on the old price and it will be as long as two months before the higher prices are felt by the refinery?

Answer: No, that is not true. Most crude oil in this country is priced when it arrives in the U.S., not when it was shipped. Therefore, domestic refiners started paying the higher costs the day the prices went up.

Question: Do we face actual shortages of gasoline or heating oil?

Answer: Based on what has happened thus far, it is not likely that shortages will occur. Domestic inventories of crude oil are at extremely high levels and several other countries have indicated a willingness to increase production to offset the production lost from Iraq and Kuwait. Absent additional hostilities, there should be no major problem.

NEBRASKA TIMELINE

By the Nebraska State Historical Society

Political rallies provided public with entertainment

Political rallies were a common summer evening entertainment before television, especially in election years. One such rally was recorded by Ernie Pyle, then a roving reporter for the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers. Pyle's dateline was Chadron, Nebraska.

"While strolling down the street in Chadron one evening, just to pass the time away, the sound of public speaking fell upon my ears...."

"The voices came from a park, full of grass and big trees, and there in one corner, under dim electric lights, was the speaking. It was a political meeting. You can tell one the minute you see it, you know. There was a small platform, with some patriotic housewife's sheets draped over the front. And on the platform was a table and a pitcher of water and three chairs...."

"There was a chairman and two speakers....The first speaker was Rep. Harry Coffey, who lives in Chadron. The second and star orator was Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming."

"The Coffeys, I am told, are the leading family in this part of the state....Harry Coffey has served just one term in Congress. It was his first whirl into politics. He is up for re-election. He is still a fairly young man."

"We sat thru the whole meeting, and enjoyed it, much to our surprise. It was over by 9:30. It was one of the most reasonable political meetings I have ever heard."

Exaggeration and vilification were not invited in. The speakers sounded actually as tho they meant what they said....Altho Rep. Coffey did say he was dying to have a little personal chat with every voter before November, and Sen. O'Mahoney did raise his voice and wave his arms and shout 'I say to youuuuu, my friends....'

"There were big trees all around the audience. The trees were full of little boys. The biggest tree was right behind the speaker's platform. It was alive with children. They crawled from limb to limb. I knew something would happen. It did. One lad got too far out, and the limb broke with a great crack, and you could see the lad's white shirt going swiftly down thru the green leaves. The crowd caught its breath in a big unanimous gasp."

"But the kid was good. He grabbed another limb on the way down, and swayed till he got his leg up over it. Sen. O'Mahoney never missed a phrase. A man in a white suit surged around and sent all the kids scurrying. The fallen lad's mother, sitting next to us, said, 'I suppose I ought to whip him, but I'm so thankful he wasn't hurt....'

"It was a nice social evening....a 'typical American evening.'" Washington Post, Sept. 9, 1936.

Officials need to get voices heard

As November nears, little has been voiced by local school board officials about LB 1059, the school finance measure.

While LB 1059 is starting to be overshadowed by the Jaksha 2 percent spending amendment, our local officials need to either voice support or the lack thereof for the bill.

Public comments by school board members have been non-existent and in the past few school board meetings, it has only been brought up in casual conversation. That's not really a way to go out and support a bill which has brought a great deal more money into the school.

If the school board, which has endorsed LB 1059, wants to see the bill kept in place, the time is now to start educating the public about the purpose of the bill and the effect it has on Wayne.

By keeping silent on the issue, the bill may not maintain the support of the people. By voicing support, it may survive a close election.

Viewpoint

Recycling needs to be focus

At a time when Wayne is letting the dust settle over a curbside garbage pickup controversy, perhaps the city is not facing the problem but just a symptom.

The actual problem lies in the lack of recycling done in Wayne.

While several communities around the area are exploring ways of recycling, Wayne has been slow to address the issue. Although newspapers and aluminum cans are picked up once a month by the local boy scouts and aluminum cans may be turned in to the local Region IV office in return for some money, solid waste disposers are still collecting close to 300 tons of solid waste each month. That's too much.

Although price increases have forced garbage haulers to separate leaves and lawn clippings from solid waste, in which case the city buries the lawn and leaves in a pit near the airport, those clippings could be used as mulch. Why bury it in a dirt hole when it could be used as fertilizer? Such is the case with tree branches. They could be used by people who heat their homes with a fireplace. Shredded branches also make for nice decorations in gardens you don't want to use anymore.

An example of recycling exists in Randolph. According to a series of recent articles in the Randolph Times, Randolph has a recycling unit placed in one of its parks which separates glass, paper, cardboard, aluminum cans and plastic waste. Why doesn't Wayne invest in such a project. What it makes off recycling, it could use as revenue to invest in the city.

Another example exists in Council Bluffs, Iowa where they have started to recycle used engine batteries. Recycling projects are also popping up in Crete, Neb. where students in one of the schools there are recycling waste for fundraising.

We should not continue to wait. This problem deserves attention now.

Stolen purse is recovered after one and a half years

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

When Wayne resident Alta Pearson had her purse stolen nearly a year and a half ago she never dreamed that she would one day receive a telephone call telling her that the "lost" had been found.

Alta was visiting her late husband, Walt, at St. Luke's Hospital in Sioux City on April 22, 1989 and decided to spend the night on a lounge in the hospital waiting area.

"I fell asleep with the purse tucked under my arm and the blanket over me," recalls Alta.

Sometime during the night Alta's purse, containing among other items her car keys, identification cards and a small amount of cash, was taken from her.

"We looked inside and outside the hospital," says Alta, adding that she and the hospital watchman finally resigned themselves to the fact that the purse had been stolen and would probably never be recovered.

ALTA WAS more than a little surprised, to say the least, when she received a telephone call last Monday, Sept. 10, 1990, telling her that her purse had been found in a rain gutter at St. John's Lutheran Church, located two blocks from St. Luke's Hospital.

The purse was discovered by a workman who was at St. John's to repair the church roof.

Alta was even more surprised when she received her purse via UPS a couple of days later and discovered that all of its contents, except for a small amount of cash, were still inside the purse and still intact.

"They may have taken a couple of dollars from inside my billfold," says Alta, "but," she smiles slyly, "they didn't find the $5 bill which was laying inside the checkbook."

Alta holds up the $5 bill along with several other items, including her drivers license and a key chain which was a gift from her grandson in Alaska.

WHILE ALTA can only guess as to how the purse landed on top of St. John's Lutheran Church, she believes that the thieves may have thrown it there after rifling through it and taking only the cash.

"They had no use for anything else in the purse," says Alta, "and I'm sure they just tossed it up in the air to get rid of it."

Despite having "weathered" for a year and a half, all of the purse's contents were in remarkably good shape and Alta especially wants to find out the name of the workman who found the purse and gave it to the church to return to her.

"I want to send that man a reward," smiles Alta. "Not only was he good enough to notify someone that the purse had been found, but he was honest enough not to take the $5 cash which was still inside.

"There still are some good people in this world."

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

MAIL CALL: All the talk around about cutbacks on Social Security programs because of the deficit and the lowered tax revenues expected due to a slow growth economy, has generated letters in response to the attempt to make Social Security a scapegoat in the country's problems.

One writer identified by the initials A.C. from California says: "I'm well into my 70s, and (while) I believe Social Security as it was first created by Franklin Delano Roosevelt should be protected, I'm fed up with other demands for handouts being made by people everywhere. Keep Social Security for those who need it for retirement, and for widows and widowers who have no other source of income or who have young children to raise ... The more you whittle away (at Social Security funds) to take care of others, the less there'll be for the seniors who will make up the big bulk of the population in a few years ..."

Another writer, "Bill" from Texas says he's peeved at "seeing healthy young people who won't work and (who) live on welfare produce babies and expect the government to support them and their children. I didn't work hard for years paying taxes to ... subsidize people who can't take responsibility for their actions ... Make the fathers pay for the kids (and) put the kids in day care and make the mothers work..."

"Jay" from New York says: "Greedy medical leeches are hurting Medicare. Canada and England don't have such problems because they regulate what the doctors and hospitals can charge (and) both countries give their people excellent medical service ..."

On another note, a woman says she's worried her mother's nursing facility may be overmedicating her. "I think they're giving her tranquilizers, (but) the doctor says they're not prescribed for her. My mother is very excitable, and I don't feel right about her when I see her. She's too calm. How can I check this without the doctor getting upset with me?"

I suggest you ask the doctor in charge to have an outside physician (perhaps your family doctor), examine your mother and perform blood and urine tests. You may find no cause for your suspicions, or you may find she is being overmedicated. I know of at least one case where an attendant regularly gave a difficult or excitable patient an unapproved sedative. The doctor at the facility was unaware of this until the woman went into a coma. Anyway, you're entitled to the truth, and I'm sure the doctor at the home would want to cooperate with you.

Wildcats lose 42-14 to Minnesota-Morris but lose quarterback

Wayne State gridgers lose game more ways than one

By Kevin Peterson, Sports Editor

The Wayne State Wildcat football team, ranked 14th in the nation in NCAA Division II and undefeated on the season following the first two weeks, rolled into Morris, Minnesota Saturday with good intentions but the host team defeated the Wildcats 42-14 in what Wayne State football coach Dennis Wagner called his worst defeat.

"Last season I felt that Minnesota Morris handed us our most frustrating loss of the year," Wagner said. "The game we just played Saturday was even more frustrating than that one despite being the same team."

Even more frustrating perhaps than the 42-14 setback was the loss of senior quarterback sensation Gale Lawton who left the game in the first quarter with a knee and ankle injury.

Lawton injured his knee four minutes into the contest but returned later in the quarter for three plays and scored a touchdown but was taken to a hospital for X-rays following the score.

The X-rays were negative and Lawton was examined by an orthopedic surgeon in Wayne on Monday to determine if there was any cartilage damage. Unofficially, it appeared at press time that Lawton had not suffered any cartilage damage but had a severe ankle sprain and the knee was swollen. Lawton is expected to miss Saturday's home game with Bemidji State University. It is not known yet when he will return to action.

"Gale means a lot to our football team," Wagner said. "But anytime you depend on one guy to carry the load for your team you take the chance of something like this happening. We have to prepare our football team to play every game with out Gale Lawton and when we get him back it will be a plus."

Right now the job of quarterback is wide open between Mark Jacona and Clint Williams. "We have to work together and have to have solid performances out of all phases of the game to win Saturday against Bemidji State," Wagner said.

Minnesota Morris field goal kicker Joel Beyer booted a 31 yard field goal with 4:09 remaining in the first quarter to put the host team up 3-0 in Saturday's game but the Wildcats returned the favor by marching down the field and scoring on a Gale Lawton four yard run and following Blain

Branscum's point after the Cats maintained a 7-3 lead heading into the second quarter.

The second and third quarters were all Minnesota Morris as they exploded for 17 second quarter points and 22 third quarter points to take a 42-7 lead into the final period. The host team scored on a 67 yard run with 11:34 remaining in the second period and later scored on a 52 yard field goal by Beyer. Later in the quarter quarterback Kelly Lovan hooked up on a 42 yard strike to Shane Pribyl for a 20-7 halftime lead.

Rod Leman then hit Pribyl on a 38 yard pass play midway through the third quarter to boost the lead to 28-7. Leman's final touchdown pass came on a 24 yard pass to Lovan with 5:09 left in the third quarter.

The final Minnesota Morris score came on a WSC fumble in the endzone. The Cats scored their final touchdown of the game on a three yard run by Kurt Jensen with five seconds remaining in the game. Branscum kicked the point after for the 42-14 final.

"I really don't think the final score indicated what kind of football team we have," Wagner said. "We have to realize that we can't give teams like Minnesota Morris the opportunity to score like they did against us—with big plays."

Overall, Wagner felt it was a poor performance on the team as a whole. "Our offensive line did a poor job, our receivers were dropping passes and our secondary was giving up big plays," Wagner said. "We just plain were not ready to play that game."

Wagner did give credit where credit was due and that was to the play of Minnesota Morris. "They have a good football team but we made them look better by playing poorly," Wagner said.

Both teams managed 11 first downs in the game and WSC outrushed the host team by a 120-106 yard margin. The Cats however, could only muster 74 yards passing while Minnesota Morris completed 9 of 18 passes for 190 yards. Wayne State was 10 of 32 with two interceptions.

The passing edge gave Minnesota Morris a 296-194 total yard advantage. Both teams suffered eight penalties and ironically both teams were penalized 82 yards. Minnesota Morris got to the WSC quarterbacks a total of six times while the Cats could only return the favor twice.

Troy Jackson was the leading rusher for Wayne State picking up 78 yards on 19 carries while the next closest was Gale Lawton who picked up 31 yards on six carries before he was injured. Kurt Jensen added 17 yards on three carries.

Mark Jacona was 5-22 for 25 yards in the passing department with two interceptions while Clint Williams was 4-8 for 41 yards. Lawton connected on one of two passes for eight yards.

Marlon Goolsby caught three passes for 27 yards while Bill

Blondin caught two passes for 12. Lee Harper, Troy Jackson, Todd Schmaderer, Jason Garnand and Lemar Daniels all caught one pass each.

Defensively, the Cats were led by Bob Sterba with 10 tackles while Terry Bear and John Lanier had six each. Todd Alberti recorded five stops while Mike Kennedy, Jerry Kleidosty and Scott Fleming had four each. Chris Nelson, Mo Walker, Pat Murray, Joel Ott and Randy Rouse all had three stops apiece.

Pat Murray and Adam Boryca each recorded a quarterback sack. "I think Saturday's game was an all-around poor performance," Wagner said. "Our special teams hurt us, and offensively and defensively we didn't do the fundamentals," Wagner said. "That was by far the worst game I've ever seen as an offensive line coach. When a key member of the team goes down, other players have to rise to the challenge and take the pressure off. No one did that. Fundamentally and mentally, we were not very good."

Wagner said that Bemidji State is a bigger more physical team that Minnesota Morris. Defensively, they have big, rugged people up front and linebackers who like to hit. Offensively they try to run the ball at you and use play-action passes. "They're a very good football team," Wagner said. "Their coach Kris Diaz has turned the program back in the right direction."

Starting left guard Henry Rehberg will also miss the game Saturday do to a bruised left knee suffered against Minnesota Morris. "We have to play with the three big 'Es' on Saturday," Wagner said. "Those are Emotion, Enthusiasm and Effort. We have to have that or we won't be successful in any game."

Brummond wins football contest

WAYNE-The first Wayne Herald Football Contest resulted in a six-way tie for first place. However, thanks to the tie breaker Marv Brummond of Wayne came up a winner as he was the closest to the score of the Wayne High-Grand Island Central Catholic match-up.

Runner-up honors went to Jeanette Thomas of Bellevue. The other four who were involved in a tie but could not out do Brummond and Thomas for the top two places were Dean Schram of Wayne, Randal Bargholz of Wakefield, Lynette Hedell of West Point and Nick Zimmer of Fremont.

Reserves down Pierce

WAYNE-The Wayne reserve football team defeated Pierce in Wayne on Monday afternoon, 12-7. The visitors scored their lone touchdown in the first period and actually took the 7-0 lead.

Wayne came right back in the opening period and scored on a 29 yard pass from Regg Carnes to Brian Lentz. The extra point attempt failed and the score remained in Pierce's favor, 7-6. In fact, the score remained that way until the third quarter when Carnes plunged over from two yards out to give Wayne the 12-7 lead.

The game ended with Pierce threatening to score on the Wayne three yard line but the Blue Devil defense made a goal line stand and time ran out. Mike Zach led Wayne on defense with 13 tackles while Chad Paysen and Jason Brandt had 10 each. Gary Longe was in on eight tackles.

Carnes was over 100 yards passing with the bulk of the damage coming in completions of 29 yards to Lentz and 32 yards to Robert Longe. Carnes, Bobby Barnes and Jim Murphy all led a balanced rushing attack.

WSC golf teams take part

WAYNE-Junior Mindy Richards shot a 93 to lead the Wayne State women's golf team to a sixth place finish at the Briar Cliff Invitational held last Friday. The host team won the title with a 339 while WSC finished with a team score of 386.

Saturday's Buena Vista Invitational saw the Wildcats finish seventh out of the eight team field with Deena Curtis leading WSC with a 96. Coach Tom Cook's squad consistently shot in the 90's despite playing on an unfamiliar course with high winds. The WSC women will host Hastings on Thursday.

Meanwhile, men's golf coach Eldon Hutchison's men's squad placed eighth at the Northwestern Invitational—15 strokes behind the winner, Teikyo-Westmar who carded a 314.

Senior John Anthens finished fourth overall with a 78. WSC's men's team will compete in the Northeast College Invitational on Thursday before hosting the WSC Invitational on Friday at the Wayne Country Club.

WSC Student Athletes named

WAYNE-Seniors Roni Johnson and Mark Linder were recently named Wayne State College "Student Athletes of the Year," according to WSC Athletic Director Pete Chapman.

The award, in its second year, is given to the male and female student-athlete who display excellence in the classroom and on the athletic field. "Roni and Mark exemplify what college athletics are about," Chapman said. "They have outstanding accomplishments in the classroom and in athletic endeavors."

Johnson, an elementary special education major, has a 3.3 grade point average, including a perfect 4.0 last semester. She rewrote the WSC record book in leading the Wildcat softball team to a 31-22 record last season. Johnson, an All-District selection, set school marks for assists, (239), shutouts, (12), strikeouts, (225), innings pitched, (223.2), and most appearances in a season, (35). She also holds five career marks at WSC. Roni is the daughter of Bill and Betty Johnson of Wayne.

Linder, a chemistry/pre-optometry major, sports a 3.2 grade point average. He's a two-time Academic All-American, and a three-year starter on the Wildcat football team at right guard. Mark is the son of David and Becky Linder of Owensboro, Kentucky.

Softball players ink with WSC

WAYNE-Wayne State College softball coach Dan Pollard recently announced signings of four lowa high school all-state softball players. The student-athletes join a Wildcat squad that finished 31-22 last season in Pollard's first year at the helm.

The recruits are: Jenny Reuland, (Estherville, Iowa), a first team second baseman from Estherville High School. Michelle Reinhardt, (Cherokee, Iowa), a third team catcher from Washington High School. Marsha Weier, (George, Iowa), a fourth team second baseman from George-Little Rock High School, and Heather Hoffman, (Charles City, Iowa), a fifth team pitcher from Perry High School.

Pollard's Wildcats recently played a series of exhibition games against NCAA Division I semi-finalist Creighton University. Creighton edged WSC, 5-1, 2-0, and 1-0 in Omaha, but Pollard was impressed with the Wildcats' effort.

"Creighton, coached by Mary Higgins, is a quality program," Pollard said. "We felt honored to be on the same field with them, and to be competitive was a bonus for our program."

The Wayne State College women's softball team competes as dual members of the NAIA, (District 11) and NCAA Division II, and begin varsity action in the spring.

Five to be inducted in Hall of Fame

WAYNE-The Wayne State College Athletic Hall of Fame will add five members November 10 during halftime ceremonies of the Wayne State-Northwestern Iowa football game.

The Wayne State College Athletic Hall of Fame was founded in 1978. The Hall of Fame, sponsored by the Catbacker booster club, is designed to recognize those who have made significant contributions to Wayne State Wildcat athletics.

The following five inductees join 47 outstanding individuals who have been selected by the Wayne State staff, Catbacker board members, and community members.

Inductees include: The late Henry Schroeder, (Rosalia, Ne), who was a 1928 Wayne State College graduate. He quarterbacked the Wildcat football team and played center in basketball.

Cecil "Red" Lingenfelter, (Oakdale, Ne), is a 1938 Wayne State graduate. He was a center in basketball, tackle in football, and threw both the discus and shot in track and field. Lingenfelter earned 11 varsity letters at WSC.

John "Jersey" Jermier is the assistant athletic director at the University of Northern Iowa. He coached football at Wayne State from 1962-68, compiling a 37-24 record. His five winning seasons are the most by any coach in WSC history.

Sally Schwede Shively, a 1979 Wayne State graduate, is the senior program director at the YMCA in Norfolk. She was instrumental in developing the women's track and field program at Wayne State, and also served as graduate assistant coach.

Roberta "Mom" Welte was residence hall director at Morey Hall for over 20 years. She was a consultant to many student-athletes while at Morey, and has been a contributor to WSC athletics for many years. She retired in 1989.

Blue Devils improve despite loss

Wayne spikers lose to Norfolk

Wayne volleyball coach Marlene Uhing said her squad played its best defense of the year during the second and third sets of Tuesday night's home game with Class A Norfolk.

In those two sets the teams split, but Norfolk came out victorious by winning the first set 15-7. Wayne bounced back and took a 15-10 decision in the second set from the visitors but the Blue Devils, despite having their chance to win the third set, fell 15-13.

"We missed a couple of key serves late in the third set that hurt us," Uhing said. "In the second and third sets we told the girls to serve more aggressively to keep Norfolk off the net a little more and when you serve more aggressively you take a chance of missing a few more."

Uhing felt her team may have been a little intimidated in the first set. "Our blocking was a little late in that first set and when the spiker was hitting the ball we were still moving our feet," Uhing said. "Norfolk has a very quick team and they are one of the best teams we will see this year, but in the second and third sets we started playing some really tough defense. We really picked it up a lot in those two sets and we played smart. We played through our errors instead of letting them affect us."

Uhing credited Danielle Nelson with coming off the bench and doing a nice job of setting the ball. "Danielle really made a nice contribution off the bench," Uhing said.

As a team Wayne was 60-70 in serving with Rachel Haase leading the way connecting on 22 of 25 serves for 15 points and one ace. Haase had nine set assists to lead Wayne while Liz Reeg had four assists.

Jennifer Hammer had nine kill spikes in a 20-23 outing while Erin Pick had seven kills while connecting on 17 of 20 spike attempts. Deanna Schluns was 16-19 with three kills.

"We had our season high in blocks," Uhing said. Erin Pick had four ace blocks while Kari Lutt, Jennifer Hammer and Danielle Nelson had two ace blocks apiece.

The Wayne junior varsity also fell to Norfolk and that match went three sets as well with Wayne losing the first set 15-11, but rebounding to win the second set 15-5. Norfolk took the third set by a 15-8 margin. Kristen Swanson and Christi Carr led the way with seven and six points respectively.

The "C" team avenged an earlier loss to Norfolk by winning Tuesday night's match in straight sets, 16-14, 15-12. Teresa Witkowski and Sarah Hampton led the way with nine and seven points each.

Wayne will host its own invitational on Saturday with action getting underway at 9:30 a.m. with Wayne against Pierce. Madison and Wisner-Pilger will square off following the first game. The Wayne-Pierce winner will play the Madison-Wisner loser at 11:30 a.m. The Madison-Wisner winner will play the Wayne-Pierce loser at 12:45 p.m.

The consolation will take place at 2 p.m. with the championship slated to begin at 3:15 p.m.

Wildcats improve to 6-2

Winside nets win over Wausa

The Winside volleyball team raised their record to 6-2 Tuesday night with a three set victory over visiting Wausa in what Winside coach Paul Gieselmann termed an ugly win.

"We did not play very well at all," Gieselmann said. "Last year we would have lost a match playing like we did Tuesday night but that's the difference between this year's team and last year's team."

The Wildcats fell in the first set 16-14 but rebounded to win the next two sets and thus the match by scores of 15-11, 15-8. "Our serving just wasn't there," Gieselmann said. "We connected on 83 percent but it seemed like the ones we missed came at crucial times." Holly Holdorf led the team in aces with five while connecting on 15 of 21 serve attempts while Kelly Pichler and Shannon Holdorf each went 10-11 with two aces. Jenny Jacobsen was a perfect 12 of 12 with one ace while Kari Pichler was 4-6 with two aces. Patty Oberle was 4-6.

In the setting department Kelly Pichler notched 24 set assists on a 59 of 62 performance. Kari Pichler recorded a pair of set assists. Jacobsen was the leading force in spiking as she recorded 16 kill spikes while connecting on 24 of 29 spike attempts for a .379 percentage. As a team the Wildcats recorded a .301 hitting percentage. Wendy Rabe was 16 of 20 with 12 kills and a .400 percentage. Shannon Holdorf was 7-9 with three kills and Patty Oberle was 3-4. Jacobsen and Rabe each notched three ace blocks while Kelly Pichler had two.

Winside will host Stanton in action on Thursday night before taking a week off before hosting Coleridge.

WSC spikers place third at Wesleyan

Wayne State head volleyball coach Nancy Clark witnessed her squad pull off a third place finish at the Nebraska-Wesleyan Invitational last weekend. The Wildcats averaged two earlier season losses to Morningside College by defeating them 15-2, 10-15, 15-12 in the first round of the tournament.

Since it was a tournament all matches consisted of the best two of three sets. Following the big win over Morningside, Clark's crew maintained the momentum by defeating District 11 foe Peru State in straight sets, 16-14, 15-2. The Wildcats third match of the tournament pitted them against the host team in which Wayne State also won in straight sets with scores of 15-6, 15-4.

Hastings College handed WSC its first loss of the tournament with straight set scores of 15-11, 15-2. In the final match of the day Doane College defeated the Wildcats, 15-11, 15-6. Wayne

State however, placed third out of the 12 team field and Shelly Lueders was named to the All-Tournament team.

On Monday night in Rice Auditorium the Wildcats fell to Doane College in straight sets which improved the Tigers record to 18-4 on the season. The set scores stood at 15-4, 15-13, 15-13. The Wildcats fell to 5-13 following the defeat.

"We're getting better," WSC first year coach Nancy Clark said. "I was very impressed with the play of our underclassmen Amy Newton, Lisa Skradski and Cassie Vescio. They did a very fine job."

Clark said her Cats hit the ball well against Doane but Doane is a very good volleyball team. "For us to beat a team of Doane's caliber, we have to play more consistently," Clark said.

Wayne State will compete in the Augustana Tournament this Friday and Saturday in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Wayne golfers lose at Stanton

WAYNE-The Wayne girls golf team traveled to take part in a triangular at Stanton Tuesday with Stanton and Columbus Lakeview. Lakeview won the meet with a 225 while Stanton placed second with a 231. Wayne fired a 257.

Cher Reeg was the top Blue Devil player with a 55 while Jessica Rothfuss fired a 61. Jennifer Chapman was next with a 62 and Lisa Casey was fourth with a 79.

The Wayne reserves fell to Lakeview by a 302-338 margin with Brenda Agenbroad leading Wayne with a 76.

Bicycle club to meet

WAYNE-The monthly meeting of the Cycle Paths Bicycle Club will be held on Monday, Sept. 24, at the Wayne State Recreation Center. The business meeting will begin at 7 p.m. followed by the featured speaker, Ron Olson from the Human Testing and Performance Lab at Wayne State College. The topic of his speech will be fitness and bicycling. The public is invited to attend. For further information about the meeting or the club call Gary West at 375-1167.

By Pat Meierhenry

The long hot spell has finally broken. I don't ever remember one lasting so late into September. It was actually cold the last two nights.

The crickets in the basement seem to be finally slowing down, and the flies are hanging on the screens, waiting to get inside and head for the ceilings. The swatter has been busy all weekend.

Silage crews are going full blast. The modern farm wife sends them to the local cafe for dinner, which sounds like a great idea to me. I journeyed to Wayne for the volleyball game Thursday night. There were daughters of friends on both teams, and it was an exciting game. A very prominent fellow in this community actually admitted to me that he had not appreciated women's sports until recently. Gradually, we are winning them over.

The addiction akin to auctions is garage sales. Ann and her Father both enjoy these. But you have to get up early to get the bargains. Some of my friends have an annual one. Things certainly never accumulate in their closets and basements. I usually hang onto things until the only alternative is Good Will.

Besides, I'm keeping the Little Golden books, the Fisher-Price toys, and the Barbie dolls for my grandchildren.

I hope you all read that touching letter last week by my sailor friend, Terry Rhodes. And I hope you will take his advice and include the families of servicemen in your prayers. Every time I complained about the heat, I thought of the guys in tanks in the desert. And I have to chuckle, even as I worry and pray, for Sadam Hussein has done what no one else has been able to: unite the United Nations!

Let's hope we actually have an Autumn now. It's by far my favorite season. And it can last until Christmas and then warm up, as far as I'm concerned.

system. She said when the present voting laws were passed, it was a time when the technology to transmit results in a matter of seconds didn't exist. She said it's time Nebraska adapt its voting system to modern technology by changing the time frames that ballots can be counted.

"Bierman has said it will take $500,000 to change it but I've never seen it cost that much for a couple fax machines," Hansen said.

IN ADDITION TO TAKING a stand against Bierman, she said she is opposed to the 2 percent spending lid proposed by Ed Jakhsha. She said if the 2 percent lid passes it will have several ramifications which will cripple the state.

She also said she believes that the secretary of state position should remain an elected position and not one that's appointed. She added that she's in favor of laws limiting persons to two years in that job, however.

"I don't have political fever or have a career in politics in mind," she said. "I realize that as the secretary of state I must have a vision to help others work with the laws. If I know what's coming down, I can help others."

STUDENTS IN BERRY AND Bowen Halls have received the focus of attention from the counseling and campus ministry staff. Also receiving a great deal of support has been the Wayne State football team and its coaching staff.

Wayne State College employs four counselors who have handled the situation well, according to Frye. He said it's important for students to know that if they need to talk they can. He said in addition to counseling staff, some support groups have been established around campus.

Frye added that it's important for students to know that there is a crisis intervention hot line available to students 24-hours a day. The number is 1-800-672-8323. The phone number for the counseling office is 375-7321.

support by the community," she says.

THE CLOCK HAS JUST tolled 3 a.m. and Campbell takes Denise and her children to a safe house, a home anonymous to everyone except Haven House officials. After making sure the children are cleaned and Denise will be OK for the evening, Campbell leaves.

In one year's time, Haven House has experienced an increase in clients. In 1988-89, it served 39 adults and their children. In 1989-90, that figure jumped to 160 adults and children. This year's projections are even higher, Campbell said.

The support Haven House offers ranges from crisis support, which composes the greatest number (204 adults in 1989-90) to financial assistance and other areas. In 1989-90, the number of telephone calls on domestic abuse registered 412 calls while sexual abuse registered 28.

"It's essential that people who are battered have a safe place to go and United Way helps us with that," Campbell says. "Without United Way support many of our services would have curtailed."

Lower temperature helps in gains

By Lori Hallowell
 UNL Ag Communications
 CONCORD - Turning the thermostat down 10 degrees at night in nurseries housing newly weaned pigs increases daily gain and reduces operating costs by 30 cents per pig, University of Nebraska swine researchers said.

Mike Brumm and David Shelton, NU-Northeast Research and Extension Center scientists, have studied the environmental needs of three- to four-week-old newly weaned pigs for about eight years.

Brumm and Shelton found that once the pig is eating aggressively, it is more tolerant of temperature fluctuations than people have thought in the past.

"The results demonstrate that for optimum welfare, the weaned pig may not need constant high temperatures," Brumm said.

Brumm and Shelton used two nursery rooms; an experimental and a control, in their research. Beginning one week after weaning, the experimental nursery was kept at 83 F during the day and turned down to 73 F at night with both day and nighttime temperature settings further lowered three to four degrees per week. The control nursery room was kept at a constant 24-hour temperature beginning at 86 F and lowered three to four degrees per week.

Pigs that experienced the temperature fluctuations had improved gains and daily feed intake. They also showed no difference in feed conversion compared with pigs housed at constant temperatures, Brumm said. There was no difference in death loss.

The energy savings with lower nighttime temperatures averaged 30 cents per pig in a five- to six-week time frame, he said.

"Lowering nighttime room air temperatures in pig nurseries offers the potential to reduce energy costs while positively influencing weaned pig performance," Brumm said.

Before lowering nighttime temperatures in nurseries, Brumm suggested producers observe four precautions:

- Maintain good nursery facilities that are draft-free and have adequate moisture control.

- Do not reduce nighttime temperatures until the newly weaned pigs are all eating aggressively.

- Turn down the thermostat no more than 10 degrees F from the recommended daytime setting.

- Observe pigs carefully. At any sign of ill health or reduced performance, return to the recommended constant warm temperature.

The research is funded by the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resource's Agricultural Research Division and by the Nebraska Pork Producers.

United Way board in full swing with annual fundraising plans

WAYNE — Plans are underway to kick off the 1990 United Way Business Drive at a Chamber coffee on Sept. 28 at the Black Knight. Connie Endicott and Gary Van Meter are handling the Business Drive this year. The Residential Drive will begin Oct. 14, with Kathy Tooker and Ann Barclay coordinating.

In his national United Way Kick-off message, President Bush said: "For more than a hundred years, local United Ways have served to unite our society's diverse cultures and interests. United Way brings business, labor, education, religion, government, and so many others all together to build healthy communities and define lasting solutions to problems facing those communities."

"In Wayne, we hope all members of our community will participate in helping us reach our 1990 goal of $20,000" said Julie Mash. "We encourage you to give as much as you can and use payroll deduction if it is available at your workplace. All of the United Way agencies are worthy of our support. This year they are: Haven House, Hospice, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Senior Citizen Center, Kinship, the Recreation Board, and the START Task Force on Day Care."

Kinship, a program which matches volunteer adults with children in need of special attention, is a new recipient of United Way funds this year. The START Day Care Task Force, also new, plans to use their United Way share to help meet some of the costs of an after-school day care program and a child care resource center.

Diabetes - Are You A Candidate?

About 25 of every 100 Americans has diabetes, will develop diabetes, or has a relative with diabetes. Diabetes cannot be cured, it can be cared for with insulin, certain oral medicines, careful attention to diet, frequent testing of blood for glucose (sugar), and measures to prevent infection (e.g., avoidance of poor fitting shoes). Most diabetics can lead relatively normal lives and engage in the same activities as nondiabetics. Low-income persons are three times more likely to develop diabetes than are middle- and upper-income persons; women are more likely than are men; nonwhites are more likely than are whites. The chance of developing diabetes doubles for every 20-percent increase in excess weight and decade of life, with 89 out of every 1,000 persons over age 65 having diabetes.

Connie Webber
Webber set to sing at Carnegie

WAYNE — Connie Webber, soprano and assistant professor of music at Wayne State College, has been chosen to perform in a special Carnegie Hall professional week in November.

Webber was chosen as one of 15 sopranos from across the United States and Canada. Sixty professional singers (sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses) have been selected through taped auditions of specific solo literature. They will be joined by members of The Robert Shaw Festival Singers in this special musical event.

Shaw, a foremost American choral specialist, will conduct the five-day workshop. He'll direct working rehearsals and seminars which will culminate in a concert performance of Brahms' "A German Requiem." The concert is one of New York City's special musical events in connection with the international spotlight on Carnegie Hall during its 1990-91 centennial season, according to Webber.

Webber performed at Carnegie Hall in 1964 as a member of the Oberlin College Choir. The group gave a homecoming concert upon its return from a nine-week singing tour of the U.S.S.R.

Webber, a faculty member at Wayne State since 1966, is a past State Governor of the National Association of Teachers of Singing. She also serves as director of music for the First United Methodist Church of Wayne, and has done solo work for the Sioux City Symphony, and numerous Wayne and Sioux City churches.

Webber earned her bachelor of music degree from Oberlin College, and her master of arts degree from Kent State University.

Exchange student finds 'friendly' atmosphere at Allen High School

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

After spending nearly a month in Allen, 17-year-old Nick Xenitopoulos has changed his mind about sampling life in a large United States city.

Nick arrived in Allen last month from Greece and is spending the year as a senior at Allen High School through the Youth for Understanding exchange student program.

While in Allen, he is making his home with the Neil and Diane Blohm family, including children Michael, 12, Scott, four, and Christopher, 19 months.

Blohms reside on a farm near Concord and also own and operate the Allen Village Inn.

Nick Xenitopoulos

SINCE arriving in Allen on Aug. 17, Nick said he has not experienced any homesickness or culture shock. "I'm just enjoying it."

He admits it took a while to adjust to life on the farm. "The first two weeks were boring," smiles Nick, "but I really like it now that school has started." And although he has sampled many different foods during the past few weeks, Nick says he likes them all, except for ham. "Definitely not ham."

While at Allen High, Nick's class schedule includes speech, typing, world history, American government, physical education and geography. He also is a member of the Allen football team.

COMING FROM Greece's second largest city, Thessaloniki, located in northern Greece with a population of approximately two million residents, Nick said he first wanted to go some place "bigger" in the United States.

"But I've changed my mind," smiles Nick. "It's nice and friendly in Allen." Nick compares his acceptance in Allen with the logo theme the community has adopted for its 1991 centennial celebration — "One small town, one big family."

"Everybody knows me here and all the time I hear 'Hi Nick.'"

NICK'S father and mother own a solar heating factory in Greece and he has two younger brothers, 16-year-old Charis and seven-year-old Jim.

He graduated from high school in Greece this past May and said he chose to travel to the United States as an exchange student because he is undecided as to what his future plans will be.

"Everybody dreams of coming to the United States," says Nick. "I came for many reasons — to learn more about the language, customs, culture and educational system."

"I don't know what I will do when I go back to Greece. My mind's clear."

Nick said he is still waiting for the results of an exam he took in Greece for acceptance into the university there. He said he may also decide to stay in the United States and attend business school.

The GOLDEN YEARS

Much of the decline in physical fitness that aging people experience results from "rusting out" rather than "wearing out," say researchers at West Virginia University. They came to that conclusion in a two-year study funded by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. It was the first in-depth investigation into the relationship of physical fitness to older-driver performance, and it linked "rusting out" to sedentary lifestyles. The researchers showed that a closely supervised exercise program conducted at home improved the range of motion of older drivers. The exercise improved flexibility needed to look over the shoulder in order to check for blind spots, for parallel parking, and backing up.

A senior citizens golf tournament has become a major event in Westchester County, just north of New York City. Although it had been raining for a week, the latest tournament drew 106 seniors, age 60 to 91. Walter Rose, 91, played all 18 holes - and he used a pull-cart. Golf has benefited seniors more than any other sport, says the director of Westchester's five public golf courses.

Remember When? May 23, 1934 - Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, who had left a trail of holdups and gunfire throughout the Southwest, were shot dead when they drove their car into a police ambush near Gibsland, Louisiana.

Proud papa?

BRINGING IN HIS UNUSUALLY long cucumber he picked out of his summer garden, Orval Brandstetter shows off his prize. The cucumber measured over 17 inches long and it weighed about a pound. Brandstetter said he didn't do anything different in his garden this year but he thinks summer rains helped it along.

ATTENTION FARMERS! As most of you know, trying to control musk thistles in the spring can be very erratic, especially when you're working with chemicals that are noted for volatilizing and injuring nearby sensitive crops. Fall is the only and the best time to control musk thistles with Tordon 22K at 8 ounces/acre rate. So we have taken the liberty of offering you this 1990 fall program through Dale's Flying Service. Book over 100 acres pre paid for only $8.34/acre. Price includes application, 8 ounces of Tordon 22K X-77 spreader sticker and LI-700, which lowers the pH in water so that the plant will not tie up the chemical.
