Council schedules hearing on Providence road project

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

During its meeting Tuesday night, the Wayne City Council or-dered publication and the setting of a board of equalization hearing for Oct. 30 to review assessments for the Providence Road project, which was completed in 1987.

According to City Clerk Carol Administrator Joe Salitros who attending a city manager's confer-ence in Fort Worth, Texas, the rea-son the project has taken until now to wrap up is due to paperwork required by the federal and state governments.

Brummond said although the total project costs range in the several hundred thousands, the preliminary costs to resident tax-payers is $39,000. She said the project has 65 percent funding from the federal government, so the costs of it to local tax rolls are low.

IN A SEPARATE MATTER, the city council approved $3,000 in response to a request for money from Wayne State College.

According to Councilman Ralph

Barclay, the cooperative effort has been done for 18 years. According to a letter sent to Barclay from Jim Rarclay the Hummel, admissions and records director at Wayne State, the funds have historically been spent on items and/or activities which have promoted both Wayne State College and the community of Wayne.

All matters during the council meeting were given unanimous 7-0 approval by the council. Absent from the meeting was Councilman Stanley Hansen.

IN OTHER MATTERS, the

 Considered and approved a request by Virgil Kardell to change parking restrictions between Logan and Nebraska streets on 10th Street, where Kardell recently opened the Hair Studio. Kardell said after talking to other business owners in the area, he found no opposition to the request.

• Discovered that the city computer system will be temporarily down due to maintenance. According to Brummond, the down time is something which happens occasionally so records can be up-dated. She said due to the down time, customers may not receive their utility bills until the middle of October. Currently there are 700.000 customers on the list and the up-dating will reduce those numbers by 140,000. Brummond said the reason so many names are on the list is because the city is required to keep customer names on its books for a minimum of 15 months:

Viewpoint Congratulations Waldbaums on 40 years

For almost half a century, the Waldbaum Egg Company has provided northeast Nebraska with an industry it could rely upon.
Today (Thursday), as the company starts celebrating its 40th anniversary, little has changed. This employer of 1,200 means as much to the area as it ever has.

much to the area as it ever has.

During Wayne's annual Chicken Days celebration, Waldbaums supplies all the eggs—free of charge—for the event.

As an employer, the company employs more people than the combined population of Winside, Allen, Carroll, Dixon and Concord. That alone is an impressive feat.

In addition to helping the economy through a large payroll, the company is currently-building a new laying facility in Bloomfield—a task which will completely reshape that community's economy.

In 1987. Waldbaums was named "Supplies of the March 1987. Waldbaums was named "Supplies of the March 1988."

In 1987, Waldbaums was named "Supplier of the Year" by Pillsbury. Just this past summer, CEO Dan Gardner was honored by the Nebraska State Board of Trustees for his leadership to the area.

The Nebraska State Board of Trustees for his leadership to the area. Those awards, while honorable, cannot tell the company what it means to its people and the people of northeast Nebraska.

In addition to providing earnings for 1,200 people, it provides its employees with free day care, an exercise facility and a number of benefits not seen by many companies in rural America. What Waldbaums has done for northeast Nebraska is hard to match anywhere in the United States.

Our hats are off to Waldbaums during their ruby anniversary. Thanks from all of us.

Timing is everything in Jaksha 2 percent spending amendment

We've been inundated by in-formation in recent weeks about tormation in recent weeks about the so-called 2 percent solution. Not too far down the road we, as voters, will face a decision about whether-we think-it's-a solution or a-problem. We've heard or read a lot of opinions and predictions from mayors, county officials, state legislators, and school officials at all leyels of education. Ed Jakoba or levels of education. Ed Jaksha, or-ganizer of the 2 percent lid refer-endum, blames government at all levels for the continual increase of levels for the continual increase of taxes and erosion of public control over them. He has been successful in recruiting 72,000 voters who agree with him in theory and have signed his petitions. He claims there are "thousands and thousands more" who support his philosophy. Perhaps.

Mr. Jaksha is not a new breed. He's been trying to accomplish tax

He's been trying to accomplish tax restrictions for quite a few years. This time around his timing is ex-cellent. There is no doubt the av-erage taxpayer is on the verge of revolt. He or she is ready to sign or vote for virtually anything that even smells like tax relief.

Several state senators have re-cently indicated they'll vote for Constitutional Measure 405, the 2 percent lid. Their reasoning is that even though they have not supeven though they have not sup-ported excessive spending prac-tices passed by the legislature, the majority of our senators have. Per-haps, they say, there's no other way to stop it.

haps, they say, there's no other way to stop it.

The solution then is not a uniform lid at every level of government in the entire state of Nebraska. State officials need to stop labelling local boards who have less and less control over what they must pay out as the 'big spenders.'

Agriculture, by virtue of its property intensive nature, is one of the larger taxpayers in the state. Farmers need a lot of land for an efficient operation and in Nebraska at the high school level will be two of the first cuts in our secondary school systems because they are electives, not required courses. School buses in many public schools will no longer operate in rural areas. Farm families may need to make other transportation arrangements. At the college level ag related courses will get a very hard look by administrators because of lower student ratios and resulting higher per student/costs.

What about the roads farmers drive on daily? County funds are all subject to the axe also. Think about doing a little or maybe a lot more of your own snow removal this winter. How about getting this winter. How about getting along with one load of gravel in-stead of two or three on your county road next spring? How about closing a few more miles of the minimum maintenance roads? Maybe you could drive a mile across the field or three miles around the section to get to that back quarter because a bridge is out and not being replaced. Think about it.

Probably the biggest fallicy in lids is that all government entities can operate under the same restraints. Not true. Some are faced with increasing entollments or population. Others are just the opposite. Some have large, rich tax bases to levy against while others have been unable to provide adequate services. K-12 school boards, for instance, have very little control over their have very little control over their major expense, teacher salaries. They can give salary increases commensurate with other schools their size, or refuse and have a court of industrial relations force them to, plus court costs. Universities already complain they are los-ing staff to other states because of low salaries. There is no doubt we need to slow down the continuous escalation of taxes. What happens on the local level, however, is in-significant compared to state and federal tax dollars. Local entities are so restricted already that they have little control over where they can cut expenses. There has to be an answer, by its not the 2 percent

JUNK MAIL!

The two four-letter words we love to label on all that unwanted mail we receive from heaven

There is a variety of junk mail which caters to a variety of tastes but unfortunately not the con-

In the average week, I receive about six articles of junk mail. Some of it is mail which I chose (unknowingly, of course) to receive while other articles are addressed to "occupant" or "resident."

to "occupant" or "resident."

I love the "occupant" pieces of mail I receive. I happen to have a post office box — which has been a fancy of mine ever since I was a little boy going to the post office, otherwise known as the "obbis tobis" with my Dad — but I'd like to know how I can be the "occupant" of that box. Yes, I pick up my mail there but I don't occupy the box. How is it that I'm referred to as the occupant? Not only do I not occupy the box but I wouldn't want to, I'm too big.

As for "resident" mail: Rhonda and I occasionally receive "resident" mail at the house and that's something I don't mind. Junk mail received at the house addressed "resident" is OK because It's more accurate than "occupant" that "resident" is I'm y name. Per but "resident" isn't my name. Peo-ple_will occasionally_misspell my name "Marc" or "Christ" but at least that's an attempt to be incorrect (or correct, depending on how you look at it) but my name isn't "resident."

I'm sure some college students enjoy junk mail because sometimes it's the only thing they receive, but then again they don't have the monthly mound of bills to pay. I month's time, that all my bills were checks made out to me. That would let me get ahead for one month rather than falling behind (although I'm sure I'd lose a debate with my wife about what to do with the money).

Is there a trick to finding a use for junk mail?

After hours of analysis, I have come to a conclusion that there is and really it's relatively simple: All junk mail should have to be folded in a certain way so that it makes a paper airplane, that way it can be taken home and given to children as a play thing. The good news is that once yesterday's junk mail is destroyed, tomorrow's will replace

Of course, that leaves us with the dilemma of what to do with yesterday's junk mail.
Oh well, on to bigger and better topics.

What's for lunch?

Nebraska program important

As many Nebraska students head off for school, they'll check the newspaper to see "what's for lunch." The hot lunch program has become a taken-for-granted fea-ture of most Nebraska schools. The federal government developed the current subsidized school nutrition program shortly after World War II. But long before the government got involved, teachers and parents worked to come up with a work-able hot lunch plan, particularly for rural schools.

"... Some-rural students enjoyed a warm meal as part of the "pint jar plan." The Sarapy County Agriculturist reported in 1930, "Of about 400 boys and girls already enrolled in hot lunch work in Nebraska, 132 are working on the the 1929 plan. are working on the the 1929 plan. Each pupil brings to school in addition to the cold lunch, some nutritious food already prepared and placed in his own pint fruit jar. These jars of food are placed in a kettle of warm water at school and heated for the bot notions of the heated for the hot portions of the school lunches.

The pint jar eliminates the largest part of the labor which it requires when the hot dish is prepared at school each morning. At recess time the kettle containing the jars of food is set on the stove and by noon the food is hot for serving. Usually each pupil brings a cup or bowl and spoon in the lunch box each day. The dishes are then taken home at night to be washed."

"The pint jar plan" was a far cry from today's school lunch program, but it provided a much-needed change form the cold sandwich lunch many students ate daily throughout the school year.

Editorial correct

Thank you for your forceful editorial of Sept. 20 in opposition to the 2 percent lid. The accompanying cartoon correctly portrayed the dire effects that this measure (to be listed as measure 405 on the November ballot) would have on our local economy and community. We would like to expand on nity. We would like to expand on the sequally dire effects on the whole state of Nebraska.

Some say the 2 percent lid would help the state's economy by placing more money in private hands. Nothing could be further from the truth. The lid itself would here any such money from the truth. keep any such money from stimu-lating the economy. No community could, afford industrial growth or development since the new or expanded industry, its new em-ployees, and their children would create an increased demand for public services such as education prohibit the raising of public bud-gets to meet this demand. Some existing industries would eventually have to leave the state since inflation would eat away at the public budgets which must grow hand in hand with industrial budgets if the state is to have sustained industrial growth and productivity. Communities which are currently growing would be penalized for their growth by the retroactivity of the lid, and no other communities could afford to grow. Paralysis and stagnation would set in statewide followed by inevitable decline. Enter communities would be decimated in a downward economic hand with industrial budgets if the mated in a downward economic mated in a downward economic spiral. Residents who stay would have their property values reduced so drastically that any short-run savings in taxes would pale by comparison. Residents who leave would be unable to self or rent their houses for a reasonable orice.

their houses for a reasonable price, and massive vacancies and foreclosures would occur, further reducing the property values of those who stay. In the long run, local taxes would have to go up anyhow to cover state government's reduced contributions to local budgets.

The most charitable thing one can call the 2 percent lid is a no-growth policy. In fact it is much worse than that. It is a deliberate and malicious policy of economic shrinkage and decline. Its greatest negative impacts would be on some of those who are most inclined to support it, such as retired homeowners whose property values would plummet and senior citizens who depend on publicly funded programs for the elderly. Please consider the consequences of your actions and vote against the 2 percent lid (Measure 405) in November.

Wayne State Wildcats breeze past visiting Bemidji State with defense

Sports Editor The Wayne State Wildcat foot-The Wayne State Wildcat foot-ball team got a huge psychological lift Saturday with the return of Gale Lawton to the starting offensive lineup following a knee and ankle injury—but it was the defense who roared loudest in a

Lawton was not expected to even suit up for the game following the injuries he sustained a week ago in Morris, Minnesota, but the senior guaranteers for the suit the senior guaranteers of the sustained as well as the suit the senior guaranteers of the suit the suit of the suit a week ago in Morris, Minnesota, but the senior quarterback from California had other ideas, and led the Cats to their third win of the season in four outings.

"Gale is a tremendous competitor," WSC coach Dennis Wagner said. "Obviously he was not at 100 percent, but Lawton at 75 percent is better than many quarterbacks at 100 percent. He does a great job of preparing himself to play the game mentally."

Although the temperature at game time was only 57 degrees and the winds made it seem even colder blowing 15-25 miles per hour from the Northwest, the Cats warmed up quickly as they scored from 61 yards out on the first of-fensive play from scrimmage.

Jackson incidentally, was a high school quarterback in St. Paul, Minn, and was a back up quarterback at the University of South Dakota before transferring.

The only scoring in the second quarter came on a 37-yard field goal by Branscum with just 16 secgoal by Branscum with just 16 seconds remaining in the half. The Cats came out in the third quarter and just dominated scoring a touchdown with 9:17 remaining in the third period on a 15 yard pass from Lawton to Jackson. WSC tried for the two point conversion following a bad snap on the point after kick attempt, but it failed.

With 4:47 remaining in the third quarter Branscum hit his second field goal of the game from 30 yards out and the Wildcats maintained a 19-0 lead heading into the final 15 minutes of play.

Branscum did all the scoring in the fourth quarter on a 28-yard field goal with 9:27 remaining in the game. "Blain really did a nice job for us," Wagner said. "He had been in a slump-recently but he went 3-3 against Bemidji State. Coach Briggs had been working with him in practice."

The Wildcats defense was simply awesome, holding the visiting Beavers to just 106 total yards including 60 on the ground and 46 through the air. WSC meanwhile ran for 172 yards and threw for 128 in totaling 300 yards.

Wayne State had 12 first downs.

Wayne State had 12 first downs in the contest compared to just four for Bemidji State. The Wild-cats maintained possession of the ball for seven more minutes than their opponents. And when the Wildcats had to give the ball up the punting was spectacular as freshman Dave Mentzer averaged 50.4 yards per kick on five punt attempts.

"Dave did an awesome job of punting," Wagner said. "He had to handle some bad snaps because of the wind and he just had some booming kicks. He showed a lot of poise in handling the pressure that was put on him by Bemidji State. He has a lot of athletic ability and can run, pass, catch and punt and Wagner was especially pleased with the play of Randy Rouse and nose guard. "Anytime you play the position that Randy plays you are going to be double teamed and to have a game like Randy did with 10 tackles and a fumble recovery while being double teamed is incredible," Wagner said.

The Wildcats will now prepare for Emporia State—a team which finished runner-up in the nation last year. "They are 2-2 after the first four weeks," Wagner said. "But they are the best 2-2 team around. They lost to two teams ranked above them and believe me, they-will be mad as hornets when we invade their field on Saturday."

Incidentally, it will be the final game played between these two schools as Emporia State joins a conference next year and goes strictly NCAA Division II.

Fertilizer, ag chemical dealers seek signature

WAYNE - Gene Fletcher, Wayne chairman of the 800-member Ne-braska Fertilizer & Ag-Chemical Institute, recently urged Governor Kay Orr to sign regulations passed by the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control Council on May 18, 1990.

May 18, 1990.

The regulations are a culmination of nearly four years of work by many agricultural groups, the Department of Environmental Control, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Grand Island Senator Arlene Nelson and many other individuals.

According to Fletcher, the regulations (Department of Environmental Control - Title 198) will provide for protection of Nebraska's groundwater against point-source spills of pesticides and fertilizers.

The Regulations, as adopted by the Council, will provide that storage of liquid pesticides in quantities greater than 500 gallons, and storage of liquid fertilizer in quantities of 3,000 gallons or greater, be protected from spills and leaking by forming a dike or protective liner to prevent the spills from contaminating the environment, groundwater and water wells. groundwater and water wells.

"One provision in the regulations has come under attack," Fletcher said, "which requires protective measures for storage of fertilizer in quantities of 3,000 gallons or greater."

"It appears that the regulations may be held up because some groups want the limit on fertilizer storage to be raised to 5,000 gallons versus the current language of 3,000 gallons or greater," Fletcher said. "But, many in our trade would have preferred a 'zero-tolerance' level, and we felt the 3,000 gallon level was a fair compromise for the level was a fair compromise for the benefit of the citizens of Nebraska. At 5,000 gallons, you are talking about a full semi-load of fertilizer being spilled.

"Farmers and fertilizer and chemical dealers together support safe use of fertilizers and pesti-cides, and want quality groundwater," according to the spokesman,
"And we urge these farmers and citizens of the state to contact the Governor supporting our position."

Fletcher also applauded the governor's state agency, the Department of Environmental Control, for working so long and diligently on the issue to protect Nebraska's groundwater.

In a letter to the governor, Fletcher said, "The standards, as drafted, are some of the most fair in the country. They allow for a phasing in of diking of fertilizer containers to January 1, 1995, and allow until January 1, 1993, for the diking of pesticides and providing for load-out pads at facilities. Even though this expenditure is not something which adds to the bot-tom line for any business or farming operation, in fact, it will be rather expensive; but the regulations are fair and justified for groundwater quality in Nebraska." Fletcher further added that he Fletcher further added that he thought less than one percent of Nebraska's farmers would be affected by the regulations. "However, if we have a spill of 3,000 gallons of liquid nitrogen, we certainly have a groundwater problem," he said. "And it should not matter who is storing that product. It's the ground water we need to protect, providing Nebraskans with a safe and clean environment. environment.

"A recent study by the Nebraska Department of Health shows that 23 communities among 69 public water systems currently exceed the federal maximum contaminant level of 10 parts per million nitrates, and I think that about 80 percent of those problems can be linked to actual spills and leaks that go unreported and undetected, rather than from farm application of nitrogen fertilizers," the official said.

The Institute supports even lower standards than the 3,000 gallon requirement, for true water protection, but agreed to the 3,000 level.

"The opposition (to the 3,000' gallon level) would like to see the level at 5,000 gallons, and that would allow for a potential spill of a semi-truck load of liquid fertilizer. This would truly be a severe detriment to Nebraska's water quality," Fletcher said. "And trying to clean up a semi-load of fertilizer (approx. 4,800 gallons) could be a lot tougher than lower limits."

The Nebraska Fertilizer & Ag-Chemical Institute was part of an Advisory Task Force formed by the Department of Environmental Control, which included farm groups, dealer organizations, aerial applicators, State Senators, mem-bers of the Environmental Control Council, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Ne-braska Department of Agriculture. The Institute applauded the efforts of the Task Force and the Governor's Environmental Control Council in formulating the Regulations.

Videos sought to aid troops abroad

AREA - Donations of music and video tapes, either new or used, are being sought for shipment to troops taking part in Operation Desert Shield in Saudi Arabia.

According to organizer Marlys Rice, whose son Terry Rhodes is stationed in the Persian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS Independence, religious tapes or those deemed offensive to the Saudi culture cannot be sent, but all others are welcome.

Men in desert posts and those aboard ships in the gulf have little opportunity to hear or see tapes geared for American audiences except through the British Broadcasting Company or Voice of America Tape decks and VCR's are available in rear areas and aboard ships in most of the area to help time pass more quickly.

Anyone interested in donating Anyone interested in-donating tapes may do so through these locations: Grandma's House, 221 Main, Wayne, Neb. 68787 or Marlys Rice, Rt. 1, Box 37, Concord, Neb. 68728.

The first shipment is scheduled for the second week in October with others to follow as needed. Tapes will go to members of all the armed forces and donations will be appreciated, Rice said.

Changes inside the store will consist of a new wall decor, painting and refurbishing, a larger variety of products as well as enhanced and expanded offerings and services in the deli and laundramat.

"We're also excited about the quality of personnel working at the store," Brenner said. "We have 35 employees on the payroll now and plan to expand that number as we begin to offer more products and services."

Store hours will be extended in the future but for the present time will remain the same: 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Saturday and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Together with grocery stores in Canton and Hawarden, Brenner, said his new Wayne store will be part of an eight store "buying group" which will purchase items in high volume and pass the savings on to the consumer.

"We intend to offer very competitive, low prices," he said.

The Farmer's Wife By Pat Melerhenry

You haven't heard a word about our old vehicles all year. I thought I'd spare you. But this month has been a bad one for tires and I've been complaining. We had 200,000 miles on the faithful gray Buick and I was men-tally composing a letter to GMC. Then it got clobbered.

Then it got clobbered.

I refused to drive it to work, and Ann bought a newer-car, so I was left with the red Grand Prix. At least it had air. But it developed starter problems, only when I was planning to drive it. Once or twice, it was in the afternoon, so I could take the Ford. But once, it was on a very hot afternoon in Norfolk. Each time, it saw a different merbalic time, it saw a different mechanic.

The last straw was after a night shift, at 7:30 in the morning was averagely tiend and thinking only extremely tired and thinking only of going home to bed. The darned thing refused to start and had to be towed.

Another replacement, and $100 d it's been pretty reliable. But it looks a little tough and is definitely a teen-agers car, so I've been taking the Ford.

On Labor Day weekend, I made a Home Health Care visit on Sunday afternoon. When I came out of the apartment, I had a flat tire. There were two snow tires in the trunk and a kind gentleman helped me put one on.

The Big Farmer just didn't get around to getting it fixed that week, but we didn't really worry about it because we knew there was another snow tire in the trunk.

Five days later, after another -7 shift, I walked out of the hos-

11-7 shift, I walked out of the hospital to find another flat! One of the maintenance fellows changed it, only to see that the second snow tire was also flat! So he got the bubble, but not) one of the three would hold air.

A local garage had to come over, take one tire, take off the wheel, put another one on, and put it back on the car. By this time, it was 10:00 in the morning, shooting valuable sleeping time. Obviously, I was not a happy camper. camper.

 Now I pay higher prices for gas.
 I've had the white car washed twice, only to have it rained on, and the transmission has gone out of the Grand Prix. Please let me win

As most of you know, trying to control musk thisties in the spring can be very erratic, especially when you're working with chemicals that are noted for volitizing and injuring nearby sensitive crops. Fall is the only and the best time to control musk thistie with Tordon 22K at 8 ounce/acre rate. So we have taken the liberty of offering you this 1990 fall program through Dale's Flying Service. Book over 100 acres pre paid for only $8.34/acre. Price includes application. 8 ounces of Tordon 22K X-77 spreader sticker and LI-700, which lowers the ph in water so that the plant will not tie up the chemical. Other rates will differ for the control of Canada thistile and leafy spurge, so give us a call today and book your acres.

Yogurt versus Vitamins

Yogurt has the reputation of being a "health food." It is made from either whole milk, low-fat milk, or skim milk and has essentially the same nutritional food value - including vita-min and mineral content as the milk from which it is made. Certain types of harmless bacteria act on milk to produce the fine yogurt curd. And because sugar is often added to yo-gurt, the food is not always especially low in calories. A cup of unsweetened yogurt made from skim milk contains about 100 calories. The same amount of sweetened yogurt may contain up to 260 calories. Individuals who think they need a vitamin/mineral supplement should not rely on a yogurt as a substi-tute for a quality multiple vitamin/mineral product
