Sheffield's calculations don't include higher prices for fertilizers and pesticides, all of which are heavily dependent on petroleum. These prices can be expected to rise before the next growing season if the crisis continues, he said.

"I asked all the dealers if they were forward contracting for fertilizer or pesticides for 1991," he said. "They all said 'no' because they can't confirm prices or sup-plies from their wholesalers."

WSC playing host to art conference

WAYNE - Wayne State College will host its annual High School Art Conference Thursday, Nov. 15, on the College campus.

Approximately 238 students representing 33 high schools from throughout Nebraska, lowa, and South Dakota will be in attendance.

After registration and orienta-tion, students will engage in various workshops such as plaster/balloon sculptures, maskmaking, printmak-ing, speed screen printing, jewelry, graphic design, mural painting, black light painting, silkscreen printing, the computer (CAD sys-tem), pinhole camera and calligraphy

This conference is designed to give students from several states the opportunity to learn a broad range of art skills on the Wayne State campus, according to Ray Replogle, associate professor of art at Wayne State. He says Wayne State is continuing to reach out to its service region with special programs that are designed to enhance high school students' appreciation for art.

While this newspaper neither favors nor opposes First Step, Inc. coming to Wayne, we believe there needs to be more local control in local government.

While the clients of First Step, Inc. definitely have the right to live where they wish, and the Fair Housing Act supports that right, we need to take note that local governments are being constantly bombarded with federal and state legislation which inhibits their ability to serve local needs. Congressional legislation important

The clean air legislation approved by a House-Senate conference committee near the end of the 101st Congress is undoubtedly one of the most important pieces of legislation that will be passed by of legislation that will be passed by the Congress. Passage of this bill is long overdue. The long-range ramifications will not only benefit Americans, but will set a precedent for environmental protection leg-islation in all areas of the world. It addresses the problems of acid rain depletion of the ozone layer, and toxic auto emissions.

These amendments to the Clean Air Act will strengthen existing air pollution legislation. The Clean Air Act was last amended in 1977, but since that tie new problems have emerged that were not anticipated in the original legislation. This will be the most farreaching clean air legislation ever passed. In addition, it includes strong engagement for alternations. strong encouragement for alterna-tive grain-based fuels, and it con-tains some provisions that will af-fect Nebraska's coal-burning power

The adoption of new provision regarding clean vehicles and clean fuels will have particular significance for Nebraskans. Oxygenated fuel and reformulated gasoline provisions will require the increased use of oxygenates such as ethanol to reducé carbon monoxide and ozone-forming emissions.

This will boost market opportu-nities for alcohol-based fuels such as ethanol, derived primarily from corn. I have long been a vigorous supporter of alcohol fuels, and I am pleased that the benefits of ethanol have finally been recogethanol nave linally been recog-nized by the Congress, Corn pro-ducers throughout Nebraska can be expected to reap the benefits of these provisions over the next few years as the demand for ethanol increases.

Provisions regarding acid rain will allow flexibility for Nebraska utilities, which are fortunate to have low-sulfur coal close at hand and low-sulfur coal close at hand and have taken important steps to reduce toxic emissions. I was successful in having amendments added to the House version of the bill providing protection for NPPD's Gentleman power plant and the Sheldon Station plant at Hallam. Similar language was accepted by the conference. the conferees.

The bill includes a new air toxics pact, under which about 250 major industrial polluters, such as chemi-cal plants and oil refineries, would have to meet stricter emissions limits. If significant risks to public health remained after instillation of maximum achievable control tech-nology, the EPA would have to further tighten emissions standards to reduce the risk to nearby residents. Otherwise, the plants would have to shut down

Keeping in Touch

By Cong. Doug Bereuter

While current law contains no specific provisions that address the destruction of the ozone shield, the new law will halt production, on a phased-in basis, of the chemicals that are destroying the shield that protects the earth from harmful ultraviolet radiation. While current law contains no specific provisions that address the problem of acid rain, the new law will cut in half the pecific provisions that address the rain, the new law will cut in half the amount of sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxide that can be poured smokestacks into the atmosphere.

Under current law, maximum tailpipe emission standards are 1.0 grams per mile for nitrogen oxide and 0.41 grams per mile for hydrocarbons. Tailpipe emissions of hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides would be reduced by 35 percent and 60 percent in many new cars beginning in 1994 and in all new cars by 1996. As projections indicate dramatic increases in autocate dramatic increases in automobile use in the future, this leg-islation will be particularly effective in protecting future air quality in the nation's cities.

Bereuter provisions included In 1990 Housing Bill The 1990 Housing Bill conference report, approved by the House of Representatives in late October, included several provi-sions that I introduced. Among sions that I introduced. Among those are an amendment to increase the population limits for communities eligible for FmHA programs from 20,000 to 25,000. This provision is necessary because some decidedly rural communities, with a distinct lack of mortgage credit, will experience a population increase as a result of the 1990 census.

Homecoming for recalling

Each autumn, Nebraska schools colleges, and universities schedule "homecoming," a chance for alumni to return and remember old times. In the fall of 1929, the University of Nebraska's first graduating class—the class of '73—gathered to reminisce.

The reunion was a great success.
Attendance was 100%. The entire class of '73—all two of them-were present, alive and well fifty-eight years after their graduation.

Expectations seemed like Christmas

It was the reality that was a cold fact

It was about 7 a.m. Saturday nen Rhonda and I woke up from our first full night of Friday-to-Satcertain feeling in the air, just about like the one you get on Christmas morning. Maybe it was the chilly temperatures but perhaps it was from the expectations of what was awáiting us.

After getting dressed, we loaded the car and headed to Hardee's for breakfast. Following that, we stopped by the bank to get some money before heading to Lincoln.

Rhonda was dressed in a black turtleneck covered by a white sweatshirt with "Nebraska" written in script on the front. I was dressed in my black sweater with my yellow and white flannel shirt on undermeath. Despite the fact I was wearing Colorado's colors, it was the warmest outfit I had. (When I got to Lincoln, I bought a red

We arrived at the stadium around 2 p.m. With the game only an hour away, we had time to waste but instead of going into the stadium and sitting down, we should have gone for a cup of cof-fee. Sitting in the south endzone (with a north November wind, temperatures hovering around 30 degrees and heavy drizzle) isn't conducive to a healthy lifestyle. Nevertheless, Rhonda and I braved the winter conditions like good little 'thisker

One bullet dodged. We went nuts. It was still cold d the rain had covered our glasses with enough moisture that it was hard to tell what was going on, but we could tell — this was Nebraska's day. By the third quarter, the

We saw a Colorado player facemask Nebraska quarteroack Mickey Joseph but the referees from the Colorado-Missouri game failed to see it. We had seen Joseph score a touchdown, which probably would have demoralized and the refs had thrown several late flags - all against Ne-

(You realize this is the assessment of a Cornhusker fan.)

It was in the fourth quarter when all the chill left-my body, however, as Colorado was on the Nebraska 2 yard line and going for the first down on fourth and one. The crowd ignited into an uproar but the 'Husker defense couldn't stop the inevitable. Bienemy car-ried the ball over the endzone stripe for the second time and the blowout had begun. Suddenly the temperature began to drop. We were again freezing.

To provide an answer to what was wrong with Nebraska, it boils down to two things: Nebraska will never win a national championship as long as Tom Osborne is the coach, and Nebraska's pass de-fense leaves a lot to be desired. So much for this year's national championship.

Wayne State assured of winning season following 46-13 route of Benedictine

The Wayne State Wildcats ac-complished something in Satur-day's 46-13 route over Benedictine that they haven't done since the 1984 season guarantee themselves a winning season.

In just head coach Dennis Wagner's second season at the helm the Cats have gone from an 0-11 season in 1988, to 4-7 in Wagner's first year in 89' and now stand 6-4 in 90' with one game remaining—a home contest with Northwestern bits Standard and Assaul Maller. this Saturday in the Annual Hall of Fame Game.

Lawton turned toward the bench got the signal to pass and then hit Marlon Goolsby on a 25 yard pass for a touchdown. Blain Branscum connected with the point after to give the Cats a 7-0 lead with 12:39 remaining in the opening quarter.

The Wildcats next drive culminated in a two yard run by Troy Jackson and following Branscum's missed extra point attempt the Cats had a 13-0 lead with still 8:37

Cats had a 13-0 lead with still 8:37 left in the first period.

A little over a minute later the Wildcats had possession of the ball once again and on the first play Lawton hit Lee Harper on a 50 yard bomb. Branscum was successful on the point after and it appeared the Wildcats were headed for a walk in the park with a 20-0 lead with still 7:54 left in the first quarter. the first quarter.

Wayne State made it 30-0 early in the second quarter as Lawton found Goolsby once again—this time for a 21 yard score which was capped by Branscum's extra point.

The host Benedictine squad fi-nally found paydirt on a one yard run midway through the second quarter but missed the extra point attempt which kept the score at 30-6. Branscum however, was not finished as he connected on yet another field goal to make it 33-6

The Wildcats suffered three fumbles but lost only one while Benedictine had seven fumbles and lost four. The game was marred by 19 penalty markers as WSC was whistled for 10 infractions for 137 yards and Benedictine was flagged nine Benedictine was flagged nine times for 87 yards.

The game also saw a total of 18 punts with WSC on the booting end of eight punts and Benedictine, 10. "We were a little disappointed with the amount of penalties," Wagner said. "We as coaches felt the officials let the game get out of hand. Benedictine showed up late for the game and they started doing a lot of talking and taunting to our players and things just got progressively worse with pushing and shoving."

Troy Jackson ended up being

Troy Jackson ended up being the top Wildcat rusher with 41 yards on 16 carries while Kip Harris yards on 16 carries while kip marris rushed for 34 yards on 13 carries. Jackson was also the leading receiver in the game with three receptions for 110 yards and one touchdown. Lee Harper caught three passes for 86 yards and a touchdown and Marlon Goolsby caught three passes for 49 yards and two touchdowns. Bill Blondin caught one pass for 34 yards. Mark Jacona did the punting for

WSC and averaged 26 yards a punt. "Defensively we really played a great football game," Wagner said. "We dominated the line of scrimmage and Bob Sterba and Jerry Kleidosty were all over the field."

Kleidosty led the Cat defensive attack with 12 tackles in the game while Mo Walker followed with eight. Randy Rouse finished with six tackles while Chris Nelson finished with five. Scott Vokoun, Bob Sterba, Cory Reeder and Joel Ott all finished with four tackles Ott all finished with four tackles apiece. nice job of accepting their roles," Wagner said. "Even if they don't start they have to be ready at all times to play in case the first teamers go down."

The Wildcats will now turn their focus to Northwestern.

"Northwestern is a well coached football team," Wagner said. "If our kids come into the game as focused as they were at Benedictine we should be fine. We need to win this last game to give us a three game win streak going into the off season because it will help our recruiting, our off season lifting and our attitudes will be good." Incidentally, the Wildcats junior varsity football game that was scheduled for Sunday at Iowa Lakes Community College was cancelled because the Wildcats suffered injuries at Benedictine. "There was no way we could travel to play a reserve football game with less than 20 players," Wagner said. "And that's what would have happened if we would have played

Measuring Liquid Medicines

Medicines that can be formulated into liquids are an obvious choice for infants and children for whom it is impossible to swallow tablets or cap-sules. Many elderly indiease with which liquid dosage forms can be swal-lowed. However, problems can occur when liquid medicines are measured with the teaspoons or tablespoons found in the kitchen. A medicinal teaspoon holds exactly 5 milliliters (ml) of liquid. Some medicines come with such a measuring device. Various brands of household teaspoons will hold as little as 3 and as much as 7 ml, producing a dosing error as large as 40%. For some medicines, overdosing or underdosing poses problems. Let us reccomend a convenient dropper, cup, or other container that will measure liquids accurately

WSC looking at venture

Schools consider offering 3-plus-1 program

WAYNE - As Wayne State College and Northeast Community College search for ways to expand their programs, the two schools have started work toward offering a 3-plus-1 program in education.

According to WSC Provost Dr.

Don Whisenhunt, initial plans for the program would have students attend Northeast Community College for three years and one year at Wayne State. He said the program is an off-shoot of the 2-plus-2 program currently offered through the business department.

"It's a high priority for us to develon as many concerning educa-velop as many cooperative educa-tion programs as we can with area schools," he said. "We're always looking at other areas we can expand."

IN ALL ACTUALITY, students would only have one semester where they actually attend Wayne State. The second semester of the year would be spent steaching, Whisenhunt said.

He said this is one of several programs currently in the works between the two schools. Another rogram which could be included in the future entails health care.

"This is a community response to the absence of graduate programs," he said. "Our concern is that we get a lot of students commuting here for programs but we're trying to make it easier by taking it to them."

ANOTHER WAY which might be used to implement the 3-plus-1 program is through the NEBSAT program is through the NEBSAT networking through Nebraska Educational Public Television. NEBSAT was approved by the Nebraska legislature last year and it will take the classroom to communities through satellite technology. It involves interactive TV, where the teacher and the the teacher classroom can interact despite not being in the same location.

"The possibilities are being looked at," he said. "We don't even have state approval yet for the 3-plus-1-program- but-there-shouldn't be any problem getting it approved. The next step involves NEBSAT and that will depend on whether the money is available.

· Residues good for cattle

LINCOLN - Crop residues left in the field after grain has been har-vested are excellent cattle feed, but there are some potential problems, warns Rick Rasby, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension beef specialist.

Fortunately, management changes can overcome all these problems, allowing the livestock producer to make the most of crop residues.

Prussic acid poisoning can occur in milo fields when lush new "suckers"grow from the base of mature plants. Warmer than usual fall weather and timely rainfall can promote new growth. However, Rasby said, this new growth is po-tentially high in prussic acid.

If substantial sucker growth has occurred, Rasby recommends waiting to graze these fields until about seven days after a hard freeze in the low 20s. This will kill the new growth and convert the prussic acid to harmless com-pounds, said the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist.

Grazing alfalfa can cause bloat if there still is green coloration visible on the plants, Rasby said. As with mile, a hard freeze that kills the

An abundance of down ear corn or milo heads may cause possible problems, mainly acidosis or foundering, Rasby said. This threat can be countered by heavily stocking fields so that each ani-mal's share of grain is limited, or by cross fencing fields to limit the amount of grain available at one

Residue fields are excellent feed sources for beef cattle. Take time to check just what the animals will be grazing before they are turned out, said Rasby.

Edward D. Jones offers scholarship fund at Wayne State College

WAYNE - Through the cooperative efforts of several area brokers, the Edward D. Jones & Co. Brokers' Scholarship Fund has been established at Wayne State College. Eleven brokers who are alumni and friends of Wayne State have established the scholarship for established the scholarship for children and grandchildren of company employees. The first scholarship award will be given in the fall of 1991. Among the brokers are Kirk Hutton, Blair; Pauia Pflueger, Wayne; and Brad Pflueger, West Point. The brokers have made an initial contribution of $5,000 and an additional $15,000 has been pledged over the next four years. With 20 Wayne State College graduates working with Edward D. Jones & Co., the establishment of the scholarship strengthens the relationship between the College and the firm, according to John Bachmann, managing principal of Edward D. Jones & Co. In terms of offices, Edward D. Jones & Co. is the largest financial services firm in the country with over 1,500 offices nationwide.

As Jackie Gleason used to say, "How sweet it is!" For the first time ever, a Winside girls' team is "going to state"!

We started whispering about the possibility already a month ago, but we were afraid to say it out loud. One grandmother told

There would be four teams in the sub-districts, each of which we had beaten during regular season. One, Coleridge, had kept our team from winning the Winside

I worked Tuesday evening so another Mom could see her senior daughter's last game. I had a call about 9 p.m., saying, "The girls won!" Now there was a district game at Wisner on Thursday.

Drains Run Slow?

The secret? Clean drains don't run slow.

Slow drains, or periodic clogs, are SIGNALS that a thick layer of GOOK is choking your pipes. Grease, hair, and other waste stick to your pipes, with every use. This gook deposits along the entire length of the pipe. It chokes your pipes gradually, as it gets thicker and thicker.

Conventional drain openers can't fix slow drains. They react chemically on N slow drains. They react chemically on the surface of the gook. To be effective, they must remain in contact with the waste. Even a small tunnel through the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind.

In the past, the only way to remove this build-up was to rooter your pipes. An expensive, temporary measure number of treatments. Plumb Clean costs about 35¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.

Safe Too. Conventional drain openers are dangerous chemicals. They can injure eyes on contact. They can release deadly vapors, in some situations. Some may damage your fixtures. The GOLDEN YEARS

By Sel House

In an effort to overcome absenteeism and turnover among its reservation agents, a nation-wide motel chain decided to encourage older people to apply for the jobs. The chain found it had to overcome skepticism, because of the oldsters' previous experiences of being rejected elsewhere because of age. One prospect decided to investigate by calling the chain's toll-free reservation number and asking the age of the woman who answered. When told "78", the still-skeptical caller asked for her skepitcal caller asked for her supervisor, who turned out to be 73. About one quarter of the chain's 600 reservation agents now are over 60. Absenteeism is down to three percent and agents average three years on

JOB SEARCHES: A recent report indicates that over 2,000,000 older Americans want to work but can't find jobs. Ironically, industry needs the kind of employees that mark most older Americans. They rarely miss work; they're punctual; they're cooperative; they're usually not only qualified for the job at hand, but have a wealth of added experience that can enhance their job performance, and they tend to enrich the atmosphere of the workplace. and they tend to enrich the atmosphere of the workplace and they tend to enrich the atmosphere of the workplace. People like to be around them. (A psychologist might say the presence of these older folks represents the closing of a generational gap so many of us experience in our culture. Even when we have large extended families with grandparents and other older family members, so many of us live far from each other which makes us almost strangers to one another. The older people in the workplace become welcome surrogates for our own elder kin.)
