Wayne schools may take part in Channel One

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

It looks as though the Wayne Community Schools might be taking part in the Whittle Channel One TV network.

Channel One was given initial approval by the Wayne School Board Tuesday night during their regular monthly meeting.

If Channel One passes evaluations by Dr. Francis Haun, superintendent of schools, and the Wayne High School faculty, students may be viewing TV news catered for them sometime in the future. The project has already been given the approval by the middle school faculty, Dr. Haun said.

CHANNEL ONE is a 12-minute daily news and information program designed to make news relevant to the concerns and studies of teenagers. It offers students a regular opportunity to digest the events of the day and to link the importance of those events to their lives.

If approved, it will be shown during the first period of the morning followed by the school's announcements.

Although the programming has fallen under scrutiny elsewhere in the nation, it has opened to favorable reviews by students and faculty in Grand Island and Alliance.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Haun, if the Whittle Channel One station is allowed to come into Wayne, it would be free of charge and it would open up the schools to technology they have never had before.

The reason Channel One has fallen under criticism is because the program shows two minutes of commercials during the 12 minute program. Commercials vary from ads for Reebok tennis shoes to Snickers candy bars.

The stipulation to the program is that schools are entered into a three year contract. Whittle Communications would provide one TV to every 23 students in the high school and middle school along with a satellite dish to enable the school to receive the daily newscast.

IN ANOTHER MATTER the Wayne School Board discussed the importance of the External Visitation Team report.

Although the report is not complete, several board members

Parent turnout disappointing for parent-teacher conferences

WAYNE — Results in the high school for parent turnout during the recent parent-teacher conferences was anything but exciting, according to information provided at the Wayne School Board meeting Tuesday.

According to information on the turnout, only 56 percent of the students' parents in the high school showed up to find out how their children were doing in school. The low turnout matches the 1988-89 figure but is down from 1989-90 (57 percent), 1987-88 (68 percent) and 1986-87 (66 percent).

"It was a little disappointing," Dr. Francis Haun, superintendent of schools, said. "But I guess parents know where their children stand since down slips went out this past week."

The senior class had the lowest turnout as only 48 percent of the parents attended the conferences. Junior parents did the best with 65 percent showing up.

Fifty-nine percent of the sophomore parents showed up while 53 percent of the freshmen parents attended the conferences.

In the middle school, 93 percent of the fifth graders' parents attended conferences while sixth and seventh grade parents were even at 69 percent. In the eighth grade, 74 percent of the parents attended conferences.

Computer use on the rise

Technology becoming important in schools

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

A recent survey conducted by the Nebraska Department of Education found that there is a marked increase in computer use in 373 Nebraska schools.

The survey found that statewide, there are 40 students in most class 1 schools to every one computer and the number is growing.

Such is the case in the Wayne Community Schools. Since purchasing their first computer in 1976, the Wayne Schools have seen the number jump from two in 1980 to 90 in 1990.

The main reason for the increase in Wayne is due to the need for increased computer education, according to Byron Heier, who teaches students how to use computers. But the reason the Wayne schools have been able to afford them is because the cost for a computer has decreased.

According to Dr. Francis Haun, superintendent of schools, the first computers in the late 1970s cost approximately $1,600 for a computer with 32K memory capacity. Today, the schools can purchase an Apple computer for $770 and its capacity is 128K. Haun noted that when you take into consideration inflation over the 10 year period, $770 is a real bargain.

FOR EXAMPLE of the increased usage in the Wayne schools, Heier said in 1976, when the first computer was purchased, 24 students enrolled for one class. Today, he instructs over 60 students in five classes.

"Eventually, we'll see all typewriters being replaced by computers," he said. "The kids are still a little intimidated by computers but we haven't even begun to touch the surface. The math classes use them some and the chemistry classes are using them more and more. Eventually, they will be used in the library and in every classroom."

Heier said someday computers may even replace the textbook. He said one such program is already being utilized in Omaha where students who can't come to school because of an illness can take a computer home with a telephone modem and study while at home.

"Will they replace the teacher? No, I don't think that will ever happen," he said. "Students still need that one-on-one instruction that only teachers can give."

IN HEIER'S classrooms, students are introduced to a variety of programs to improve their literacy skills and knowledge of the computer. He said students begin by

ESU 1 board appoints committee to discuss two Wayne programs

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

The Educational Service Unit One board of directors met Tuesday night in Wakefield and appointed a committee to study ESU 1 facility needs, specifically the two Wayne programs — the Wayne Children's Development Center, a program for severe and profound youngsters located east of Wayne in a building leased from Region IV, and the Wayne Learning Center, a behaviorally impaired program located in a building owned by ESU 1 on the east edge of Wayne.

"We're simply running into space problems," said ESU 1 Administrator Rodney Garwood in making his recommendation that a committee be appointed to study the two facilities.

Following Garwood's recommendation, Board President Ken Lahrs appointed the present building and grounds committee, comprised of Marvin Borg, Randy Hummel and Bev Novak, with the addition of ESU 1 board member Marion Arneson of Wayne, to study the two programs and present recommendations to the board.

ESU 1 board members gave unanimous approval Tuesday night on a recommendation by Garwood to purchase an occurrence policy for ESU 1 school nurses upon their retirement before age 65.

The policy would cost $110 for each retiring nurse and would provide individual protection for liability that occurred during the nurse's employment with ESU 1.

"This would be strictly for the nurse's personal liability," explained Garwood, adding that ESU 1 has a very good nurse's liability policy.

IN OTHER business, ESU board members appointed John Post as the board's representative to the Nebraska Educational Service Unit Boards Association (NESUBA).

The board also extended a three-year audit contract with Schleisman and White Associates of Omaha at a cost of $1,800 per year.

Before adjourning, the board went into executive session to discuss the coop purchase program and personnel.

Upon reconvening, board

Short agenda highlights Tuesday council meeting

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Things were short and sweet Tuesday night for the Wayne City Council.

With only one item on their agenda, the council met for approximately five minutes to resolve one item, ordinance 90-24, which will amend the city code by deleting section 1-313.

"Currently, we have two sections in the code that deal with who the city administrator reports to," said City Administrator Joe Salitros. "It's just a case of not replacing an old section."

THE SECTION which the council needed to repeal dealt with the front end of the code.

According to Salitros, the outdated code says the city administrator could speak to either the council or the mayor but neither was specified. He said upon reading the code, it was just something that needed updating.

"There was no set design in the way this was done," he said. "It just needed updating so I speak to either the council or the mayor."

He added that such will be the case in the future since more updating of the codes is likely to occur.

noted an interest in what it would mean to the Wayne schools. The board agreed that it will be used for long-term planning.

Dr. Haun informed the board that several meetings will be used to discuss the report. More information will be discussed at the December board meeting.

IN DISCUSSING the plans for a committee to study the extra duty schedule, board member Dr. Ken Liska volunteered to chair the committee and Neil Sandahl will serve as a second board member on the committee, which is composed of two board members and four faculty.

Although data is available for the committee to begin work, Dr. Haun advised the board members that it would probably be in their best interest to wait until February when teacher salary negotiations begin. He said since the school is limited to a 4 percent budget increase per year, according to laws outlined in LB 1059, then any preliminary work may prove worthless.

IN OTHER MATTERS, the board:

- Discussed the equal access policy and planned to have the new policy drawn up by the December board meeting.

- Made plans for board members to attend the State School Board Association convention which started yesterday (Wednesday). The board also discussed briefly any plans to attend the National School Board convention in San Francisco April 13-16.

- Ordered Dr. Haun to make a comprehensive request to the city for traffic surveys, specifically at the corner of 7th and Sherman and an area two to three blocks to the west and east.

- Reviewed the school audit.
- Discussed progress on the West Elementary school addition.

- Discussed the business/industry/education half-day in-service scheduled for Feb. 22.

The Library Card

This column is written twice a month to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at Wayne Public Library.

Here's an idea that can strengthen your family.

Tonight at the dinner table, read something out loud to your family. Tomorrow night, let another member read something. A news story. A Bible verse. A Robert Frost poem. A cereal box panel. History. Humor. ANYTHING. Each night a different family member can read a selection. Imagine the wide range of subjects your family will read in 365 days. What a stimulating way to have your children develop good reading habits. We have 23 million illiterate adults in America. We wouldn't have ONE, if each of them had been served reading as part of their nightly diet. It's non-fattening, but enriching. And it doesn't cost a dime.

The Library is celebrating Children's Book Week Nov. 12-18. Why not start your family reading program by visiting the library for some good read-aloud books?

Presenting 'Messiah'

Store Celebrates Its Diamond Anniversary

100 years ago this week J.G. Mines opened his jewelry shop in Wayne, Nebraska at 204 Main Street. The shop at that time featured an array of goods for the quality conscious shopper including diamond jewelry, watches, crystal, china crystal, and optical goods.

In 1915, son Paul R. Mines, came back from school to take over the shop and continued to operate at the same location until 1957 when Mine's Jeweler was sold to C.L. Costello. Mr. Costello retained the name Mine's Jeweler and operated the establishment for 23 years making several changes including carpeting, paneling, fixturing, and improved lighting to the store which has remained in the same location.

In October 1980, Mr. Costello sold the operation to Gary Van Meter who continues to carry on the founder's name as well. "Many of our customers can trace their family jewelry purchases back several generations to Mine's," says Van Meter. "It's a nice thought that whole families got their start from that first diamond purchase from the same store with the same name that is still here for

A turkey's view to Thanksgiving; not much to cluck about

The other day I had the opportunity to sit down and talk to a turkey about the prospects of Thanksgiving. While the proud beast didn't have much to chirp about the holiday, he did scratch out his ideas. The following is a description (if you can call it that) of our conversation.

"So what are your plans for the upcoming holiday?"

"Gobble, gobble (scratch), gobble," was the bird's reply.

"Oh, so you don't mind this year's event?"

"Gobble. (pause) Gobble, gobble, gobble!"

Now, while I should detail what he actually said, I have taken out the expletives. He said that this year he was one of the lucky ones to have avoided the consequences of many of his ancestors before him. He said the day following Thanksgiving, turkeys around the world will not recognize a day of mourning for those who have past but rather celebrate in the thought of those who gave the supreme sacrifice to make others sick.

"But aren't you going to sit down and watch football on Nov. 23?" I asked. "After all that's the day Nebraska will play Oklahoma."

The turkey's reply was probably not since he's a fan of the Oregon Ducks.

After our short interview (many will contest the fact that I talk to animals, just ask anyone who was at the Wayne County Fair when I talked to the goats or ask Rhonda because I do talk to the dogs), I got to thinking.

My brain, filled with visions of sugar plums dancing in my head (wrong holiday, but that's OK), I wondered why turkey processors leave the giblets, or is that jiblets or rather wiblets — whatever they're called — inside the bird for us to take out. Upon pondering this point, I turned the car around and went back to ask my fine feathered friend.

by Mark Crist

His explanation was simple: It's for all of us to remember what's inside the colorful beast.

My question answered, I returned home. I understand that many people use Thanksgiving as an earmark for the start of the Christmas season and rightfully so.

You see, it's not because of all the advertising we see promoting the holiday sales, but rather it's time to reflect on the little turkey that was hatched in a manger so long ago (wrong story again, but it fits).

On a serious note, my wish this year is for everyone to have a safe holiday filled with love and peace. As servicemen of our nation face the probability of finding themselves in a war elsewhere in the world, let our thoughts be with those facing the biggest turkey of them all.

As last year we were celebrating peace — with the decline of the Soviet empire marked by the fall of the Berlin Wall — this year we face the threat of war. Let's hope it doesn't turn to that. Let our thoughts be with those far away.

P.S. Send your giblets, jiblets or wiblets — whatever they're called — to Saddam Hussein. He deserves them.

Housing won't just go away

As the Wayne START teams gathered last week to review progress they have made, it was interesting to note that the Housing Task Force had noted the most progress. That's good, especially since Wayne has such a severe housing shortage, as their data indicated.

During times of economic prosperity, it is important to keep up with the demand for increased housing. As Wayne has seen the rapid development of five major industries here in the past 10 years, it is long past time to allow for housing development.

While it is important to keep up with the housing needs of the community, it is equally important not to get too far ahead. As we have heard recently in the media, it seems apparent that we are headed for a recession.

However, in order for the community to continue to prosper, we need to keep ahead of the housing situation. Before we draw in any new businesses, we first must make sure housing is available for people relocating in Wayne.

If we ask ourselves what came first, the chicken or the egg, we can't take too much time to ponder the question. If the chicken becomes stagnant as most economists are predicting, then it won't make any difference but if the egg hatches, then we're going to need somewhere to house all the new chickens.

A hope for positive campaigns

As elections ended a few weeks ago, it was interesting to note how the local candidates posted their campaigns. Since none of the candidates were lambasting each other, it was refreshing to cover the local elections.

While there probably is a difference in the theoretical approach by the candidates of the three city council elections in Wayne and the one county seat being taken over by a non-incumbent, it was refreshing to note that the candidates weren't busy trying to demean their opponents' campaign. Let's hope this tone continues in future local campaigns.

As the elections came to a close last week, we also saw the end of two active careers in local government politics. Wayne Mayor Wayne Marsh is stepping down after 16 years serving either as a city council member or as mayor. Such is the case with County Clerk Gretta Morris, who is retiring after 12 years in office. Their dedication to their respective jobs is something that has not gone unnoticed in the community and they deserve to be commended.

But with their respective retirements, a new era is beginning in Wayne's government. Not only was Bob Carhart elected mayor and Deb Finn chosen to be the next county clerk, but two new city council members were chosen. Patty Wieland was selected by residents of the fourth ward to serve them and Pat Prather edged out incumbent Councilwoman Carolyn Filter in the second ward.

But again, our eyes should turn to the positive elections run locally, not only by those who won but by those who didn't.

Let's hope that the federal and state races take a page from the local campaigns and instead of trying to show how great one opponent is by damaging the reputation of the other, that candidates for public office will show what they plan to do with their elected office rather than explain to us why their opponent should not win.

'Statement of sorts'

We would like to make a statement of sorts since we are occasionally addressed in The Wayne Herald newspaper by a person whose picture is in a column called "Mark 'n' the Spot". First of all, as his mother, I would like to know if the title means "Mark and the Spot" or does it mean "Marking the Spot"? You see, I get confused and want to address this journalist correctly.

Twenty-five years ago on Nov. 24, two people (a mother and a father — one of each) were truly blessed with a bouncing baby boy named Mark Richard Crist. He was a "trailer", a "late-comer" as we already had five children or as we always referred to him as "our bonus baby." Some of the readers will be familiar with these terms and know what we are saying for he has been a real blessing.

The dictionary says a blessing is "a statement of divine favor." God certainly favored us with a beautiful child whom we have enjoyed and with whom we have had companionship for 25 years. My those years have gone quickly. When we were expecting him, we called him "Sam." Samuel in my name definition book said, "a gift from God." How very true, how very perfect and how very grateful his parents have been for his life — a true gift from God. He was fun growing up and now as an adult, he is fulfilling his goals which again makes us happy and certainly proud of him.

When he was in elementary school, he announced he wanted to be a writer. There is no greater thrill for parents than to stand in awe of how a child is born, matures and fulfills roles in society. He has added to our joy a lovely young woman, Rhonda, whom we also love dearly. Mark has been the frosting on the cake. "Mark 'n' the Spot", keep up the good work and God bless on your 25th. Political figures not uncommon

In 1936, Roosevelt visited Nebraska in campaign stop

In this election year, Nebraska has been host to the president, the vice-president, and a multitude of other national political figures.

The campaigners have been whisked by jet in and out of the state, staying here only part of a day. In the fall of 1936, a more leisurely campaign trip was made by Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who was stumping for re-election. Then as now, Nebraskans responded enthusiastically to a presidential visit.

"America's smiling leader, President Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived in Lincoln at 1 p.m. Saturday and rode up O Street with the nation's first lady, while thousands of southeast Nebraskans whose guest he was returned cheer upon cheer for the gay waves from his wide-brimmed gray hat. Throughout the short drive from the Burlington station to the capitol the president was waving, nodding, and smiling constantly to the crowds which lined the sidewalks. The president walked from his automobile up the ramp to the platform on the arm of his personal bodyguard.

"I am glad to be here with my old friends," he said opening his address. He paid tribute to the capitol, towering above the packed grounds, as a "great and worthy structure worthy of a great state." Pointing to the motto graven in stone above the entrance to the capitol which he faced — "Watchfulness in the citizen is the salvation of the state" — President Roosevelt declared citizens have developed a watchfulness and an understanding greater than ever before "and will be able to distinguish the truth from the false in this election."

"There never has been and there never will be a federal tax on farms and homes as long as I have anything to do with it," he told the estimated 30,000 cheering Nebraskans. President Roosevelt's ringing declaration was directed at republican propaganda that if he is returned to the White House a federal property tax will be levied to pay the national debt.

"Captured by the warmth of the president's personality, and the sincerity of his words, the crowd roared its approval when he said: 'I believe, I know the American people know how to separate the wheat from the chaff and that's why I am confident of their verdict November 3.' to end his 15-minute address."

Was the visit worth all the trouble? Apparently FDR changed at least one vote. "An old gentleman wearing a (Republican candidate) Landon button saw the president come by, gallantly waving. As the president passed the old gentleman slowly reached up to his lapel, took off his Landon button, and dropped it onto the sidewalk."

Wildcats finish year with 23-18 win

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The Wayne State Wildcats football team completed the 1990 football campaign with a 7-4 record—just the seventh team in the Wayne State football history of 78 years to ever reach the seven win plateau.

The Wildcats culminated the season with a thrilling 23-18 win over Northwestern Iowa at Memorial Field in front of 2600 fans. With the victory head coach Dennis Wagner and his troops go into the off season with a three game win streak and that does wonders according to Wagner.

"The kids deserved a 7-4 record because they really worked hard," Wagner said. "They came into fall camp in shape and left a warning to those who didn't come to camp in shape that there isn't room on this team for slackers."

Wagner said that when he came to Wayne State that he had a four year plan and this season went right along with that plan. "I knew when I took the job here at Wayne State that I need a four year plan to turn things around and this year we had hoped for a winning record and we did even better."

Even though the Wildcats enjoyed a successful season Wagner is quick to note that there is a lot of improvement that has to be done. "Our goal next season is to make the NCAA Division II playoffs," Wagner said. "That will be a tougher assignment since our schedule is going to be much tougher but that is our goal."

Wayne State has just 10 games on the schedule in 1991 and there will be several new faces invading the confines of Memorial Field and on the road next season as the Cats have tentatively scheduled Peru State, Morningside College out of Sioux City and Southern Utah. Meanwhile, Evangel, Minnesota-Morris, Emporia State and Northwestern have dropped the Cats from their schedules.

"We have just 10 games on the schedule right now," Wagner said. "That means in order for us to attain our goal of making the playoffs we have to go at least 8-2 so we can't afford to take a step backward."

As is the case every season following the last game, Wayne State said good bye to seven seniors. "It was really tough to say good bye to our seniors," Wagner said. "All seven of them have been major impact players on the Wayne State squad."

The Cats will lose Randy Rouse, Mo Walker, Eric Colbert, Bill Hendricks, Gale Lawton and Troy Jackson to graduation. "We will still have a very young team next season," Wagner said. "We will have just five players who aren't a part of the recruits we brought in and they include Joel Ott, John Gabriel, Eric Sanders, Scott Vokoun and Bob Sterba."

In Saturday's game the Wildcats jumped out to a 3-0 lead rather quickly in the first quarter as Blain Branscum booted a 26 yard field goal with 10:37 remaining in the opening quarter.

That was all the scoring in the opening period but the Wildcats struck paydirt in the second quarter with 3:21 left until intermission as quarterback Gale Lawton hit Lee Harper on a four yard pass play. Following Branscum's point after the Cats had a 10-0 lead which stayed that way through the remainder of the half.

In the third quarter the Wildcats seemingly put the game on ice as Lawton hit connected with Marlon Goolsby on a 42 yard pass play to give WSC a 17-0 lead following Branscum's point after.

Following a Wildcat turnover Northwestern charged into the endzone on a 29 yard pass from Thad Taylor to Aaron Brandt which closed the gap to 17-6 following the missed two point conversion attempt with still 6:14 left in the third quarter.

The Wildcats suffered yet another turnover which resulted in a Kerby Huss running it in from four yards out to close the gap to 17-12 following the missed two point conversion attempt.

At the 12:32 mark of the fourth quarter Northwestern took the lead on a 67 yard run by Huss. Again the extra point attempt failed so WSC was still within one point at 18-17.

Then with 55 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter Troy Jackson plunged over from four yards out. The Wildcats went for the two point conversion but failed, and led 23-18.

Northwestern moved the ball down the field and got into range for the winning touchdown but with four seconds left and the ball at the six yard line, Terry Bear intercepted a Taylor pass in the endzone to ice the game.

"You have to give credit to Northwestern for not giving up after we led 17-0," Wagner said. "We ran up over 550 yards of offense compared to 300 by Northwestern and we won the game with a late interception. On the other hand, the trick play and the long run by Northwestern in the third quarter took care of 115 of their 301 yards of offense."

Wagner said it was a frustrating game for his Wildcats but a satisfying victory. WSC racked up 26 first downs in the game compared to 14 by Northwestern. The Cats had 209 yards rushing on 42 attempts while the Red Raiders had 113 yards on 26 attempts.

Lawton was 25-42 with three interceptions in the passing department for 345 yards while Taylor was 17-39 with two interceptions—both by Terry Bear, for 188 yards.

"Offensively, penalties really hurt us," Wagner said. "We had 12 for 98 yards and they had seven for 50. It seemed like we would gain 18 yards on three downs but we were still punting."

Wagner felt that a key point in the game came when he called a timeout and called his troops over to the sideline and told them to settle down and to quit making frustration penalties. "After that timeout we moved the ball right down the field and scored," Wagner said. "I just told them that we had other guys who wanted to play and would take their positions if they didn't settle down."

The Wildcats held a commanding edge in time of possession at 36:30 to 23:30. WSC converted six of 14 third down attempts while the Red Raiders converted just 4 of 16. WSC recorded six quarterback sacks while Lawton was sacked only once.

Lawton was the Wildcats leading rusher in the game with 111 yards on 19 carries. Troy Jackson finished his career as a Wildcat with 86 yards on 18 carries. Jackson was also 1-1 in the passing department for 19 yards.

Six different Wildcats caught passes in the game with Marlon Goolsby the leading receiver with nine receptions for 169 yards. Lee Harper caught eight passes for 106 yards while Bill Blondin caught three passes for 21 yards. Jason Garnand and Troy Jackson each caught two passes and Lamar Daniels caught one pass for 10 yards.

Dave Mentzer punted the ball four times in the game for an average of 32.2. Branscum connected on one of three field goal attempts.

Defensively, the Wildcats were led by Bob Sterba's 14 tackles including two quarterback sacks and one broken up pass play. Jerry Kleidosty had 11 tackles and Todd Alberti had seven tackles.

Randy Rouse had six tackles including a quarterback sack and one tackle for a loss. Cory Reeder had six tackles and Terry Bear had six tackles and the two interceptions.

Mo Walker and Brad Ottis had five tackles apiece with Ottis recording two quarterback sacks and Walker recording one tackle for a loss. Chris Nelson had the sixth quarterback sack for the Wildcats.

"Our eventual goal is to be the best Division II team in the state," Wagner said. "It is one of our long range goals that we can achieve by successive winning seasons and perhaps making the playoffs."

Wagner said that winning is a learned behavior. "We've broken the habit of the losing season," Wagner said. "It's important to us to maintain that habit of not losing so in that respect we took a giant step this year."

With the completion of the season Wagner will now begin the next portion of his yearly schedule which is recruiting. "I am very anxious to get out recruiting," Wagner said. "There are 8-10 kids within an 80 mile radius of Wayne who we think our legitimate scholarship players."

The signing date for prospective football players will be early February.

WAYNE STATE WIDE receiver Marlon Goolsby tries to elude to Northwestern Iowa defenders during Saturday's game at Memorial Field. Goolsby caught nine passes.

WILDCAT QUARTERBACK Gale Lawton attempts to escape the grasp of this Northwestern player during Wayne State's 23-18 triumph. Lawton rushed for over 100 yards on the day and passed for over 320 yards for a 400 plus day of total offense in his final performance as a Wildcat. WSC finished the year with a 7-4 record.

Allen spikers lose first round

The Allen Eagles volleyball team jumped out to a 6-0 lead on Hastings St. Cecilia in last Friday's first round of the Nebraska State Volleyball Tournament held at Lincoln's East High School but the Lady Hawkettes fought back to win in straight games, 15-9, 15-6.

Hastings St. Cecilia went on to capture the state championship in Class C2. "We came out and built a nice lead right away," Allen head coach Gary Troth said. "We just weren't real consistent in our play and it hurt us."

Troth noted that the Eagles serving attack hasn't been much of an asset to Allen since the conference tournament. "We started having trouble serving in the conference tournament at Wakefield and ever since," Troth said. "We made less than 85 percent of our serves against Hastings and against a team like that you have to serve well."

Heidi Lund was the only perfect server for Allen with a 4-4 outing and two aces. Christy Philbrick went 7-8 with one ace and Alyssa McGrath was 6-7 with one ace.

Carla Stapleton closed our her career as an Eagle setter with a 35-36 performance and 12 set assists. Cindy Chase meanwhile, led the hitters with a 21-23 outing and five kill spikes.

Denise Boyle was 11-11 with four kills and Robin Schroeder went 3-4 with one kill spike. Troth noted that Hastings St. Cecilia did a real nice job of digging up Allen's spikes.

"They have a real nice defense," Troth said. "They dug up everything we threw at them. I do think we had control of the net for the most part with Wendy Boyle picking up five ace blocks."

Denise Boyle and Cindy Chase each had two blocks. The Eagles finished the season at 17-8 but Troth likes the numbers that are coming back for next season. "I think we have a real solid nucleus of players coming back," Troth said. "We had a real nice season by bringing home six pieces of hardware at different tournaments."

McQuistan wins football contest

WAYNE-Todd McQuistan of rural Pender was the winner of the weekly Wayne Herald Football Contest. McQuistan missed just one game out of 13 en route to the first place prize. His only miss was taking Washington to beat UCLA.

The runner-up prize went to Keri Thomas of Bellevue who missed just two games. Thomas missed the Washington-UCLA contest and the Arizona-Stanford game.

Incidentally, it was the first contest this year where either first or second wasn't decided by a tie breaker.

Winside defeated by Spencer

The Winside Wildcats Cinderella volleyball season came to an end at Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln last Friday night as they were defeated in straight games in the first round of the Nebraska State Volleyball Tournament by eventual state champions Spencer-Naper, 15-11, 15-12.

"I was disappointed in the loss until Spencer-Naper was crowned as the state champs," Winside head coach Paul Giesselmann said. "As it turned out, we played them tougher than anyone else."

Both games went back and fourth with each team gaining momentum in different stretches. Spencer-Napers experience at the state tournament played a vital role in the Lady Pirates success.

Spencer-Naper returned five of six starters off a team that qualified for state last season. Now the shoe turns to the feet of Giesselmann as he will return five of his top seven players next season.

"I really felt that Spencer's defense won the match for them," Giesselmann said. "When they weren't making good blocks they were digging up spikes that were hit hard."

Both teams started off a little sluggish as each missed the first serve of the match, but Winside rebounded quickly and took the early lead. Despite it being the first ever trip to the state tournament for the Wildcats they weren't intimidated by the surroundings and the several thousand spectators that filled Pershing Auditorium.

Winside served 93 percent for the match on 42 of 45 attempts with 10 aces. Kelly Pichler led the way with an 11-11 outing with four aces. Freshman Kari Pichler followed with a 6-6 performance including three aces. Jenny Jacobsen was 7-8 with two aces and Patty Oberle was 8-8 with one ace. Shannon Holdorf was 5-5 and Holly Holdorf was 5-7.

Kelly Pichler was the leader in setting with 10 set assists while Kari Pichler, Jenny Jacobsen and Holly Holdorf had one set assist apiece. Wendy Rabe proved to be the most successful hitter in the match with a 9-12 outing and five kill spikes. Jenny Jacobsen was 13-16 with four kills and Shannon Holdorf was 5-9 with three kills. Patty Oberle finished with one kill.

"We ended up having a negative kill percentage and that's something we haven't done all season," Giesselmann said. "I was impressed with the way Kari Pichler played because Spencer-Naper went after her because she's only a freshman and she responded very well. She did a great job of serving and she led us in passing."

In the second game it was the Pichler girls and Jenny Jacobsen who kept Winside's chances alive with their serving. Kari and Kelly Pichler notched a total of five aces between them in just the second game.

Giesselmann however, credits his squad for their success throughout the year. "You can't complain about the season we had with our 20-3 record," Giesselmann said. "The fan support we had was also incredible and we really appreciated that."

Utility bill causes strain

Pearson upset for having to pay bill following mistake found by the city

Alta Pearson didn't feel that she did anything wrong when she received a telephone call from the city last week but to her dismay, she owes $2,076 in back utilities.

Pearson is one of six residential customers who has to pay for the consequences of a mistake by the city. She has been underbilled for electrical usage over the past four years.

As a result of the city's mistake, this Christmas may be a little lean for her, she said.

PEARSON SAID she will go ahead and pay for the bill in full so she can cash in on a $622.83 discount.

"I've tried to live very economically," she said. "I don't use the air conditioner unless I have to and I hang the clothes out on the line instead of using the dryer."

"I feel like I've been cheated. I feel like I'm paying for something that's not my mistake. I don't feel I should be responsible. If they've gone this many years, then why do they need to come back on me now?"

ACCORDING TO City Administrator Joe Salitros, an argument can be raised that if the city were a for-profit agency, like a business, then it would have to absorb the loss but that isn't the case since the city is a non-profit organization.

"We have a responsibility to all utility customers," he said. "We had to collect not because we need the money to cover our costs now but because it's fair to the rest of the customers."

"... Customers receive the benefit of the services provided but they also are not subject to profit motivation. Although most have paid their bills on time, there are a few who were, unfortunately, underbilled. We had a fiscal responsibility to collect on the mistake once it was found because the people who have been paying the right amount all these years were absorbing the costs for those who unfortunately weren't. We had to correct that and that's what we've done."

SALITROS NOTED that the error has been occurring longer than four years but because of the statute of limitations, it was all the further back legal counsel advised the city council to go.

At any rate, as a customer who has to pay the bill, Mrs. Pearson's still troubled by the ordeal.

"I told him (Salitros) right out that the council has nicer chambers than the conditions which most of us live," she said. "It will take a lot for me to pay this off but I'll probably go ahead and pay it and get it off my mind."

By paying the bill off in full, the total amount Mrs. Pearson's owes is $1,453.27.

LINK allows rural Nebraskans a chance through loans to start up new business AREA - Dialing a toll-free number may save much time and trouble for rural entrepreneurs seeking business start-up loans or help with new product marketing.

These and other queries for economic development assistance have been received on the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension LINK phone line since its inception in October 1989.

Janet Meisenbach, resource information coordinator for LINK, said that callers are referred to the proper agency or organization which can help them to solve a problem or take advantage of an opportunity. LINK generally provides a response to questions within two or three days.

City council or village board members, mayors or county commissioners can learn where to apply for funding assistance to improve public facilities, just to cite one example, she said.

The majority of calls are related to starting a small business or marketing products and services, according to Meisenbach who is a member of the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

LINK maintains a database to give a direct answer to a caller and a computer printout of information. The database covers topics related to rural revitalization such as solid waste management, economic development planning, health care, management assistance and local government functions.

LINK is affiliated with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Information Center (RIC) and the NEBASE, a resource document information service of the Nebraska Library Commission and its affiliated local libraries. RIC provides information and referral services from national databases.

LINK also has supplied information on the following topics: rehabilitation services for the handicapped, growing herbs for domestic markets, youth employment, funding for museum renovation, venture capital groups and health care issues.

LINK's toll-free number is (800) 328-2851, or in Lincoln, (402) 472-1724.

Program to encourage openings for nurses seeking rural work

AREA - A state program designed to encourage nurses to practice in rural areas is ready to operate at the Nebraska Department of Health.

The Health Department is taking applications for incentive payments to be awarded to nurses who are willing to practice in rural areas of the state, health officials announced.

Thirty incentive payments of $1,000 are available for nurses who practice full-time next year in rural Nebraska counties, said David Montgomery, program administrator with the Division of Health Policy and Planning.

"The incentives are basically bonuses for practicing in areas with nursing shortages," Montgomery said. "We hope the incentives motivate more nurses in Nebraska to practice outside Lincoln and Omaha."

Montgomery said that to be eligible for an incentive payment, a registered nurse or a licensed practical nurse must either be newly licensed, have increased his or her level of credentialing or education this year, or not have practiced in Nebraska in the past five years.

New graduates, new residents or any nurses who have increased their level of credentialing recently are eligible, said Montgomery.

For purposes of the Rural Nursing Incentive Program, all counties except Douglas, Lancaster and Sarpy in Nebraska are rural. A rural area is defined as any county having less than 60,000 population.

Nurses designated by the program will receive their incentive payments after completing 1600 hours of practice in 1991, Montgomery said. They may be eligible for an additional payment if they fulfill practice requirements in 1992.

Applications must be submitted to the Rural Nursing Incentive Program no later than Dec. 1. For more information contact the Nebraska Department of Health, P.O. Box 95007, Lincoln, Neb. 68509-5007, (402) 471-2337.

Hallgren receives fellowship for implementing program

WAYNE - Dr. Kenneth Hallgren, associate professor of business at Wayne State College, has received a Wal-Mart Free Enterprise Fellowship for implementing a Students In Free Enterprise (SIFE) Program at Wayne State.

His receipt of a $1,000 stipend is contingent upon the successful completion of the SIFE program at Wayne State.

Criteria for the program's completion include organizing a campus-wide team of SIFE students, conducting training sessions in preparation for outreach programs, documenting activities of the SIFE program's progress, establishing course credit for students participating in SIFE, and participating in a SIFE regional competition in April 1991.

SIFE's mission is to establish and direct student-generated free market economic education programs on college and university campuses, and to bring America's collegians and her citizens to a better understanding of and a greater appreciation for the free enterprise system.

SIFE team projects are educational programs that convey to fellow college students and the surrounding communities' citizens a better understanding of current economic issues.

THE CHORAL Association will sing Parts 1 and 3 of the oratorio "Messiah," including such favorites as "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted," "And the Glory of the Lord," "O Thou That Teltest Good Tidings," "For Unto Us a Child is Born," "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," "Worthy is the Lamb" and the "Hallelujah" chorus.

"This concert should prove to be a new experience, even for those who have heard 'Messiah' many times," said Dr. Moon. "We are using Handel's original conception, not the expanded version by Mozart that is frequently used."

MEMBERS of the Sioux City Choral Association come from many walks of life and from over 10 towns in the Siouxland region.

The organization is over 50 years old and usually gives two major concerts each year. The group sings selections from musicals, opera and folk music, as well as sacred classics.

FIREFIGHTERS BREAKFAST

The Wakefield Firefighters and Rescue Squad served 465 people at the breakfast held Nov. 4. The event raised $2,258.97 for the new ambulance fund. AAL Branch No. 1542 will be making a matching fund donation of $500.

The group is planning to put up a thermometer to show the progress toward the goal of $60,000, and said they would release a figure on the total amount available for the new ambulance. The organization's Fourth of July activities netted $2,445 for the fund.

During October, the rescue squad responded to seven calls, which required 156 ambulance miles and 28 man hours. The squad spent 25 hours in training including a school bus drill and emergency evacuation involving the students.

Several members of the department attended the annual convention of the Nebraska State Volunteer Firefighters Association. Don Kuhl was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the association. He, along with Dean Ulrich, Eileen Miller, Erwin Siebrandt and Short Kay represented Wakefield at the meetings. Also present were Joyce Kuhl who works in the association's office in Wakefield and Lu Kay and Deloris Siebrandt.

BLUE LIGHTS AVAILABLE

Bonnie Bressler reported that 304 Blue Memory Lights were sold during the Wakefield Health Care Center Auxiliary's annual fall festival last month. The memory light project is an annual holiday event sponsored by the auxiliary to raise money for needed items at the center.

The most recent purchase with blue light monies was six dozen bibs for resident's use. Mrs. Bressler said they also plan to purchase a laundry cart for the center with the donations received.

Blue lights may still be purchased on this year's tree. They sell for $1 and may be designated for a deceased loved one or someone still living. The blue light tree will be decorated and placed at the care center for the residents to enjoy during the Christmas season.

Team fares well in Denver

AREA - The Wayne County 4-H Livestock Judging Team consisting of Jenni Puls of Hoskins, Cory Thomsen of Wakefield, Deb Sievers and Jock Beeson of Wayne and coach Mark Sorensen, traveled to Denver for the National Western Youth Livestock and Meats Judging Competition Oct. 25-28. They joined more than 700 4-H and Future Farmers of America delegates from 24 states and Alberta Canada. The group placed third in Beef Judging and ninth overall. Individual honors were won by Puls who placed second in Beef Judging and fifth overall.

"Celebrate 4-H," the theme for the 72nd Annual Western 4-H Roundup, offered inspirational talks, educational workshops, informational tours and competitions. Helen Sutton, a training specialist with Career Tracks of Boulder, advised 4-H youth that "You Can Have It All...and Here's What It Takes," the title of her keynote address.

Howard Bruner, Colorado State University professor emeritus and consultant, told 4-Hers and volunteer leaders that "Believers Are Achievers" as part of his capstone address. A series of workshops enhanced delegates' personal growth and development.

Many Wayne County businesses and Ak-Sar-Ben helped sponsor the cost of the trip. The local support is greatly appreciated in making this trip possible.

US West foundation to honor teachers for performance in field

WAYNE - The U.S. WEST Foundation will again honor a teacher from Nebraska through the U.S. WEST Outstanding Teacher Program.

Now entering its fourth year, the program recognizes exceptional teacher talent at the elementary and secondary school levels in the 14 states served by the company's U.S. WEST Communications subsidiary.

Those selected as a U.S. WEST Outstanding Teacher in their respective state receive a $5,000 cash award.

In addition, three of the 14 honorees receive a year's salary and expenses to pursue professional development. Selection is based on how the teacher intends to apply the year-long sabbatical experience to future teaching activities in their community. No similar sabbatical program exists in the region for teachers in the kindergarten through high school grade level.

"The program looks for those teachers whose commitment to students and betterment of the educational environment can be recognized for truly reaching beyond classroom walls," said Jack MacAllister, chairman of U.S. WEST, in announcing that nominations are being sought for the 1991 teacher program.

Information about the program and nomination/application materials can be obtained by writing the U.S. WEST Foundation, 7800 East Orchard Road, Suite 300, Englewood, Colo. 80111.

STAY AWAY!

There's only one safety rule when it comes to downed power lines— Stay Away!

If you see a downed line, contact your local power supplier immediately.

If you're in a vehicle that is in contact with a downed line, stay inside until the line is removed. If you're outside, go for help but never touch the vehicle!

Never assume a power line laying on the ground is dead. It could be deadly.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

MEDICARE — WHO CARES? We do, of course, and so do some enlightened members of Congress who have been putting up the good fight to keep Medicare benefits available without stripping away the badly needed funds from Social Security recipients. As this is being written, Congress and the President are said to be nearing a compromise on the budget that will reduce the previously planned hike in premiums and restore some cuts in social programs essential to the well being of many seniors.

JOB SEARCH: A few weeks ago, I wrote a column about badly needed jobs for seniors. Apparently, this problem is far more prevalent than I realized judging by the extent of your response. So many of you wrote about the unfairness of being judged by your age rather than your competency. One woman who hadn't thought of herself as a senior — she's in her late 40s — realized how wide a swath age prejudice actually cuts. After a divorce, she went back into the job market only to be brought up short by the fact that she was being assessed as much for her age as her skills.

Ms. Julia Ferguson, Executive Director of the Eastern Oklahoma Development District in Muskogee, Oklahoma commented on how drastic cutbacks in funding are causing problems for this agency. One of their services, the Three Percent Older Workers Program has had to reduce its current budget because of these cuts and this, in turn, has reduced the services available to older people who need both job placement and job retraining.

Let's hear more from you. Meanwhile, I'll continue to consult experts in this area to see how this problem can be dealt with.

When you need us, we're here to serve you! We're your locally owned, independent bank. Serving the needs of Wayne is our first priority.

SEX AND AGING: A recent study shows that seniors are more prepared to accept sex as a natural part of their lives. However, there are some physical changes in both older men and women that could affect sexual performance. Some problems can be helped surgically or with other therapies. It may require adjusting dosage or type of prescription drugs that may be causing the problems. In any event, says Dr. Sam Nixon of the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston, "Intercourse doesn't have to be the be all and end all. Touching and hugging are important. The emotional intimacy coming from love and bonding assumes an increasingly important role compared to physical intimacy. Spiritual intimacy comes into play in the relationships of many elderly people." He adds that sex is and always has been a matter of private expression and how and when an older couple chooses to express their desires is their own business, regardless of age.

WSC professor gets music book published

WAYNE - Dr. Christopher Bonds, associate professor of music at Wayne State College, has had his book "The Musical Impulse" published by Kendall/Hunt Publishing Company of Dubuque, Iowa.

Dr. Bonds says the primary purpose of his book is "to enrich the reader's familiarity and understanding of music as a basic part of our culture. It is designed to help the reader enjoy a wide range of musical styles by showing how each style grows out of its particular culture."

His motivation for the three-year project stemmed from his teaching introduction to music courses at Wayne State. After using several texts, Bonds says he found the books were satisfactory, but not completely compatible with his teaching style or his classes.

"The students had difficulty reading the texts," he says. "I tried to create a writing style that was easy to read without writing down to anybody."

Bonds began teaching at Wayne State in 1980. He earned his bachelor's and master's of music degrees from Arizona State University, and his Ph.D. from the University of Iowa.

In addition to teaching at Wayne State, Bonds directs the college's John C. Neihardt Scholars Program, and serves as concertmaster of the Sioux City Symphony.

Training meetings scheduled

Locations many for teachings about swine records

AREA - First and second training meetings for the Swine Enterprise Records and Analysis Program have been scheduled for a number of locations around the state, the program coordinator announced.

Dale Kabes, of the University of Nebraska Department of Agricultural Economics, said 1991 is the first year the program will be offered statewide. It began as a pilot program in 1987 under the supervision of Mike Brumm, extension swine specialist at NU's Northeast

Research and Extension Center in Concord, and Larry Bitney, NU extension farm management specialist in the Agricultural Economics department. Currently, 190 eastern Nebraska swine producers are enrolled.

The program is designed to improve swine management decisions by letting producers compare their economic performance with that of others statewide, he said. In July and January producers complete an analysis at their local extension office. Results are forwarded to NU, where statewide averages are computed and returned to the producers for comparison, Kabes said.

Extension agents, Kabes and NU faculty members from Animal Science and Agricultural Economics will provide training at the sessions. The schedule for first and second meetings for the area is Columbus, Ag Park Dining Room, 9:30 a.m., Dec. 20 and Feb. 14; and Norfolk, Room 100A, McClay Building, Northeast Community College, 1:30 p.m., Dec. 21 and Feb. 15.

Producers will learn to use their own analysis along with state averages to help them make production decisions, Kabes said. The training meetings are designed to help producers learn to collect data for their analysis.

There is a $60 fee for participation. More information is available from local extension offices.

By Pat Melerhenry

A couple of years ago, the Big Farmer attended a meeting to talk about providing access to pheasant hunting for out-of-state hunters. He told the gal presiding that he would be willing to allow hunting, and that he probably would have a few neighbors who would.

We had read all the horror stories about careless hunters; but, fortunately, had not personally encountered them. Mike had once been an avid hunter and trapper. Because of CRP acres providing cover, the pheasant population seemed to be increasing again.

So we had a call from a veterinarian in Wisconsin, who said there would be six in his group, and asked if we had any spare beds.

Since we have lots of empty beds now, and running a Bed and Breakfast is my next project, we agreed to accommodate four hunters, and fix breakfast for six.

Sure enough, on opening day, they drove in, in a camper, pulling a trailer containing a freezer.

I don't like to get up early, but I rolled out about 5:00 a.m., and tried out some breakfast casserole recipes, and made lots of coffee.

I survived, and they had fair luck, and were very polite, and brought gifts of cheese and wild rice, so we counted it a positive experience.

We received a couple of Christmas cards, including colored photos of birds and dogs, and wondered if we'd hear from them again.

Finally, about the middle of October, we had a call. I told the fellow I had more available beds and that the pheasants were thick.

They stayed in a motel on Saturday and Sunday and arrived at Apex Farm on Monday afternoon. They were the original six, and two more arrived in a Suburban that night.

On Tuesday morning, the snow was coming down. But that didn't stop them, and they had their limit by 1:00 p.m. They had dogs, and waterproof gear, and were having a great time.

I offered to make a pot of chili for supper, and they took me up on it. One fellow played a little chess with Mike, one worked on a gun that was sticking, several other played Eucker.

Anyway, we got to know Scott and Dan and Fritz and Tim and Tom a little better, appreciate Bob's homemade sausage, and enjoyed Alan and Don.

They were philosophical when the hot water heater went out on Wednesday (of course, always when there are a bunch of people here-either the water or the sewer back up!)

When they loaded everything off Thursday, leaving us several filets of pheasant in the freezer, I shook hands and felt as if I was saying good-bye to my adopted sons. Certainly we count them as good friends. I can hardly wait until I can do this full time — hopefully, I can take a nap when the days start so early!

The volleyball team lost 15-11, 15-12, to the eventual champs. Winside had far more fans there than the other team, and gave the girls a standing ovation at the end of the game. There are only two seniors on this team, so we're already planning for next year!

It was a fun week, even if I did have to scrub the kitchen and porch again. It's back to corn flakes for breakfast, though; until the kids come home for the holidays.

The GOLDEN YEARS

By Bert Adams

In England, the Distressed Gentlefolks Aid Association is still going strong in its 94th year. The charity cares for nearly 400 people, average age 87, in 13 homes around the country and assists about 1,000 more in their own homes or in private nursing care. The charity's objective remains unchanged: to provide assistance to elderly people of good family and social standing who are down on their luck. Who are "gentlefolks"? Doctors, ministers, teachers, other professionals and even an actor or two. Over the years, some people have urged that the association change its name to something less class-oriented. But the general secretary, pointing out that contributions keep coming in, responds: "If it works, don't fix it."

Yattie Spiegel, of College Park, Maryland, took five years to earn her bachelor's degree in English from the University of Maryland, but she was the only graduate out of 3,700 to get a standing ovation. Why not? At age 85 she not only won her degree but earned membership in Phi Beta Kappa. She told an interviewer that her studies made her feel that "I'm not a time-waster." And: "You can't live in the past. What's gone is gone. I live for today and the future."

Remember When? September 8, 1935 — Huey Long, governor and virtual dictator of Louisiana since 1928, was fatally shot by a young doctor in the Capitol in Baton Rouge.

Vitamin/Mineral "Bioavailability"

Bioavailability refers to the release of nutrients (or medicines) from tablets, capsules, or other dosage forms. One measure of the value of a nutritional supplement is its ability to release nutrients so that they enter the bloodstream in maximum quantities. All vitamin/mineral supplements do not have the same bioavailability. For a supplement to be bioavailable, it must be formulated carefully. Ingredients that can interact chemically or physically must be separated within the tablet or capsule. Tablets must be precisely compressed so that they hold together yet quickly disintegrate in the stomach. You cannot determine bioavailability by looking at a supplement or its packaging. And a high price does not guarantee bioavailability. Ask us when you need assistance in the selection of a value-priced nutritional supplement.
