Planning for board tops lists

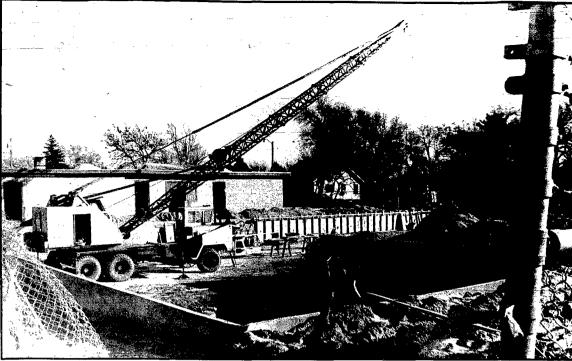

AREA - Planning the annual meeting of the Northeast Arboretum Board was the chief agenda item when the Board met at the Northeast Research and Extension Center on Nov. 5. The date for the annual meeting to which the public is invited is Friday, Jan. 11 at the Northeast Center.

The business meeting was conducted by Roy Stohler, Concord, president. Membership renewals for 1991 and recruitment of new members were discussed. Anyone interested is encouraged to become a member and attend the meetings. For membership infor-mation contact Lawrence Fuchs, Belden, 985-2486, or Norman An-derson, Concord, 584-2417.

A workshop on grafting techniques is being planned. The Northeast Arboretum will sponsor the workshop, which will be open to any interested person. Further details to be announced in spring.

Following the business meeting, the group wrapped and mulched the newly planted trees in preparation for winter.

Attending this meeting and work day were Roy Stohler and Norman Anderson, Concord; Lawrence Fuchs, Belden; Thomas N. Tomas and Doug Dittman, Hartington; Charles A. Shapiro and Ernie Swanson, Wayne; Bill and Pearl Snyder, Allen; Bob Chilvers, Neligh; Anna Marie White, Dixon; and Steve Rasmussen, District Forester, Northeast Center.

Big project making progress

AS WORK CREWS ARE MAKING progress on the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool, the camera eye caught a different look at the pool than it normally looks. As far as progress is concerned, the new shell of the pool is about threequarters complete and construction workers said they plan to lay the new pool floor sometime this week. When the pool is complete, it will have an entirely new filter system, a new deep end with diving boards and a new slide. The filters will allow for easier cleaning of the pool and the filters on the side of the structure will be aluminum. The project is expected to be complete sometime before Memorial Day in May. Construction workers said if good weather patterns hold up, then they should easily be able to make that deadline.

LISA ag grants available

Eligible persons, agencies and groups in Nebraska are invited to apply for grants relating to low-in-put sustainable agriculture (LISA), according to a University of Ne-braska-Lincoln administrator.

braska-Liricoln administrator.
Steve Waller, North Central Region USA project coordinator, said requests are being accepted for government funding for research and education grants.

This U.S. Department of Agriculture grants program, now in its third year, is designed to promote farming methods that are safer for farmers and consumers, protect water supplies and the enprotect water supplies and the en-protect water supplies and the en-vironment, and are sustainable for generations to come, Waller said.

"Teams of farmers, conserva-tionists, scientists, educators and various public and private agencies are invited to apply," said Waller, who is assistant dean of the Agri-cultural Research Division, Institute cultural Research Division, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

*Preproposals that effectively combine whole-farm economic analysis of low-input, sustainable analysis of low-input, sustainable systems with appropriate ecosystem approaches over several years are encouraged," Waller said. Multi-state approaches as well as those including public and private sectors are invited, he added.

Last year $900,000 was available in the 12-state North Central LISA Region for 10-15 projects. This year significantly more money will be available, Waller said.

"LISA funds are considered seed money for securing funds from other sources, such as state pro-grams, foundations and private organizations," Waller explained.

Projects may be funded for one Projects may be funded for one to two years. Other states in the region are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Ohio and Wisconsin

Two-page proposals must be received by the University of Nebraska, the North Central Region's host institution, by Dec. 14. All project coordinators will be notified of the outcome of the initial screening process by Feb. 8, 1991. A limited number of proposals will be selected for development into a full proposal. Final approval of the top projects will be in June 1991.

The proposals are reviewed by representatives from all states. Last year 206 preproposals were sub-mitted; 46 passed initial screening and were submitted as full propos-als. Of these, 16 passed the next screening level and nine were eventually funded.

ONE OF THE REASONS Farmers and Merchants State Bank was so interested in the Wayne loca-tion is because of what the community has to offer. Burns said in the times he has been to Wayne since Occidental Savings Bank became insolvent, he has been im-pressed with the community. "The more time I spend in Wayne the more impressed I am," he said. "There's a lot of positive things happening in Wayne and even though there might be a perceived housing shortage, that's something we see as a good posi-tion to be in. There's a lot of good things happening there and we want to be a part of it."

As part of the bank's commitment to the community, all deciment to the community, all decisions regarding the operations of it will be made in Wayne. In addition to having all the decisions regarding the banking operation in Wayne, employees will be encouraged to become active members of the community. of the community.

"We are really pleased the same people will be there," Burns said. "We will also be adding to the current staff soon so we can cater to more customer needs. ...We are excited about becoming more and more active with the community.

Gale Lawton honored

Wayne State football quarter-

Wayne State football quarter-back Gale Lawton was named NCAA Division II Offensive Player of the Week by "Don Hansen's Football Gazette." The Fairfield, California native completed 24 of 41 passes for 326 yards and two touchdowns, and added 111 yards on 19 rushing attempts to lead the Wildcats to a 23-18 win over Northwestern last 23-18 win over Northwestern last Saturday. Lawton's exploits were cited in the November 15 issue of USA Today.

Lawton's 437 total yards in of-Lawton's 437 total yards in of-fense was second only to Ed Jochum (531, 1984) in Wayne State history, his 2,233 yards in total offense for the season was also second to Jochum (2,939, 1984) in WSC history. Coach Dennis Wagner's squad finished at 7-4, only the seventh time in the history of Wayne State a team had won seven games. It was also the first winning season since Pete Chapman's 1984 team went 8-3.

"I think the player of the week award was a great honor," Lawton said. "I worked hard for it but much of the credit goes to the offensive line for the great job of blocking they did. In the last couple of weeks they have really blocked well which allowed me to put up some big numbers."

put up some big numbers."
Lawton is concentrating at the present time on finishing school but he is staying in shape and continues to throw in hopes that he gets contacted by the NFL, Cana-dian Football League or the New World Football League which is scheduled to begin in 1991.

Incidentally, Jochum and Lawton have the four highest season totals in total offense on the all time WSC charts. Jochum, 2,939 in 1984, Lawton 2,233 in 1990, Jochum 2,053 in 1985 and Lawton 1 843 in 1989

Lawton's 4,076 career yards in total offense ranks him third in WSC history behind Jochum, 5,676 in 1982-85 and Rick Lade, 4,099 in 1977-80. Lawton passed WSC All-Time leading rusher Bob Barry to move into the top three.

Lawton ranks fifth all-time in career passing yards with 2,515 in just two seasons. Jochum leads with 5,916 in 1982-85, followed by Rick Lade, 3,413 in 1977-80, Scott Raue, 2,971 in 1985-88 and Kelly Neustrom, 2,590 in 1978-81.

The Wildcats finished the season with many positive notes in-cluding Dennis Wagner becoming only the sixth coach in Wayne State history to have a seven win season. In 1931 under the direction of Ray Hickman the Cats went 7-0-1 while in 1948 Robert Kahler directed the Cats to an 8-1

Jack Wink led WSC to a perfect
9-0 mark in 1949 while Del
Stoltenberg had 7-3 seasons in 1970 and 77. Chapman was the most recent before Wagner with a 1984 mark of 8-3.

The "Dynamic Duo" of Lawton and running back Troy Jackson finished the season with 3110 yards in total offense which accounted 91.5 percent of WSC's 3397 the season. Lawton averaged 203 yards a game in total offense, throwing for 1478 and 10 touchdowns and adding 755 and four touchdowns on the ground.

NCAA statistics count sacks against a quarterback's rushing to-tal. Lawton gained 1067 yards on the ground, but was assessed 312 yards in losses. Jackson finished as the team's leading rusher with 797 yards. He also led the Cats in scor-ing with 12 touchdowns.

Jackson and Lawton each surpassed the 100 yard rushing mark in four different games this season. Jackson rushed for more than the century mark in games against UNO, Missouri Western, Kearney State and Fort Hays State with his best day coming against Missouri Western when he gained 122

Lawton's 100 yard games came against Chadron State, Kearney State, Fort Hays State and North-western with his best day coming against Fort Hays State when he gained 118 yards.

Jackson finished with 10 100 yard games in his career while Lawton had eight. Bob Barry holds the season and career 100-yard game rushing marks with seven in 1978 and 14 in his career. Junior wide receiver Marlon

Goolsby was the leading receiver on the year with 39 catches for 638 yards and five touchdowns. He caught nine passes for 169 yards including a 42 yard touchdown pass in the season-finale against Northwestern pass in the se Northwestern.

The 169 yards receiving was the third most in WSC history. Sonny Jones holds the record with 195 yards against Missouri Western in 1984 while Pat Maxwell had 180 versus Missouri Western in 1980.

Freshman Dave Mentzer made an immediate impact in his first game as a punter at WSC setting a new single game punting average against Bemidji State University. Mentzer averaged 50.4 yards per kick on five punts to eclipse Kirk Park's record of 48.3 vs. Minnesota-Morris in 1972, Mentzer hit a season long 69-yard punt in the game and finished the year averaging 36.3 yards per punt. Sophomore linebacker Jerry Kleidosty edged his friend Bob Sterba for the WSC lead in tackles. Kleidosty finished with 116 in 11 games, while All-America Sterba compiled 113, but missed a game due to injury. Kleidosty had two sacks and six tackles for losses and picked off two passes while Sterba had four sacks, four tackles for losses, one interception, forced a fumble and recovered a fumble on the season.

All-America nose tackle candidate Randy Rouse finished with five sacks and 11 tackles for losses and recovered two fumbles for the Cats. He totalled 66 tackles while being double and triple teamed most of the year. Freshman defensive end Brad Ottis finished with five sacks and seven tackles behind the line. Senior outside linebacker Mo Walker overcame early injury problems to finish third on the team with 75 tackles including four sacks and seven tack-les for losses. He also recovered two fumbles.

Junior free safety Terry Beair picked off a pair of passes against Northwestern to preserve a victory. The thefts gave him a victory. The thefts gave him a team leading three on the season.

Soil testing a good management tool

Soil testing for nitrate is an important management tool for crop producers, and a University of Nebraska soils specialist said it can help protect the groundwater quality as well.

Rising nitrate levels in ground-water in south central Nebraska may be the result of nitrogen application procedures, Richard Fer-guson of the NU South Central Re-search and Extension Center near Clay Center said. According to Ferguson, some crop producers may not be aware of the proper soil testing procedures and creditsoil testing procedures and credit-ing systems to determine how much nitrogen is present in the soil profile from year to year. He rec-ommended that crop producers follow the steps below in deter-mining the proper amount of fer-tilizer to apply for the coming crop creek is a major tributary of the elkhorn river.

· Split the field into sections according to soil type, topography or previous crop. The sections should not exceed 40 acres in size.

Plan to take two types of samples; a routine fertility sample and a subsoil sample for nitrates.

• To take the general fertility sample, collect eight to ten cores from each 20 acres. The cores can be taken with a hand probe or spade and they should be taken to a depth of six-to-eight inches. A general fertility sample should be tested for pH, organic matter, zinc, phosphorus and sulfur on sandy

 The subsoil sample for nitrate requires samples to be collected to a depth of three feet. The samples afrom each site should be separated into layers; one sample to eight inches, a second sample for the eight to 20 inch layer, and the third sample from the 20- to 36-inch layer.

• The sample from each core should be collected in clean, plastic buckets. Ferguson emphasized not to use galvanized containers as by the board for the construction of the water distribution system for Phase I of the Logan East

The Logan East Rural water system is an improvement project of the Lower Elkhorn NRD. The purpose of the $5.7 million project is to provide quality water to users in western Burt, northeastern Dodge and northwestern Washington Counties. Phase I will serve approximately 110 users in Burt County and will be funded by a loan of $611,000 and a grant of $608,000 which have been ob-

for construction of the elevated tank for the rural water system, however, the board rejected bids that were received October 8 for the water supply well. The water supply well will be rebid in midtershed in Stanton County for land treatment. A dam has been proposed on the creek five miles south of Stanton. The purpose of the dam would be flood protection and fishing recreation, as the conservation practices, such as terrace systems, to protect the creek and proposed lake from filling with sediment and from becoming contaminated by ag chemicals present in the sediment.

The board's plan is designed to accelerate land treatment by making increased cost-sharing incentives available to landowners in the watershed.

The Lower Elkhorn NRD will provide up to 90% cost-share on terrace systems, sediment retention and water impoundment dams within the Butterfly Creek Watershed. The additional costshare will be available for three years, until 75% land treatment is achieved or until the project is cancelled. The board hopes that landowners in the watershed will take advantage of the increased cost-share, so that the land will quickly be adequately protected from excessive soil erosion REGIONAL SOLID WASTE COMMITTEE FORMED The solid waste issue has become an increasing concern for many people in Nebraska in recent years. As the first step toward achieving this goal, the committee members have conducted a phone survey of city and village clerks in the area in order to determine their community's solid waste needs and concerns. Ferguson said that local extension agents have information on how to send the samples to the University of Nebraska Soil Testing Lab at the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources in Lincoln. Private commercial labs also do both tests, he said.

The main advantage to soil testing in the fall and applying fer-tilizer in the spring is that you have the winter months to do some planning, Ferguson said. A pro-ducer can take the information learned from the soil samples and "fine tune" the fertilization program to be economically and environmentally sound.
