Mash: Report helps state colleges

A report outlining the role of the Nebraska's higher institutions of learning has Wayne State Col-lege President Dr. Donald Mash pleased.

The report, released last week, The report, released last week, comes as a result of a study authorized by the Nebraska State Legislature through LB 247. It outlines the roles of the various state-funded Nebraska colleges and universities and may act as a tool for the legislature to appropriate money in the future. money in the future.

According to Dr. Mash, one point he finds highly important in the report is the need for master's of business administration programs at both Wayne State College and Chadron State College Chadron State College.

AN MBA PROGRAM is something Wayne State has sought for several years following legislative approval for it several years ago. An MBA program, however, has not been added to the college's curriculum because it has not been financed by the legislature.

"They're saying that the University of Nebraska-Lincoln is claiming the turf but not delivering the goods," Mash said. "They're (the report) saying it's important to offer the masters at the state colleger for this reserve among many leges for this reason, among many

The report said that Wayne State and Chadron State should be allowed to offer a master's program in business while it said Peru

State shouldn't have such a program. The report added that doctorate level programs should be conducted only at university

MASH SAID IF Wayne State were to offer an MBA program, it would be geared differently than others offered at university schools. He said an MBA program at Wayne State would cater to the non-traditional student who is working in business and looking to move up. He said it would be more of a "practitioners degree" "practitioners degree.

report looks favorable upon the state colleges. He said progress from the report looks good at this point since the legislative committee for higher learning has already accepted it. Despite initial accep-tance, it is hard to tell what the state's lawmakers will think of the report, he added.

"A key point in this report is that the public perceives that there is no coordination of the higher education programs in Nebraska, so they think there's inefficiency and duplication," he said. "This report deals with that aspect."

Lucas makes stop in Wayne

Official offers ideas for next steps

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

During a meeting late last week, Dr. Leo Lucas provided ideas to address further rural revitalization.

Lucas, who was in Wayne while en route to Hartington, provided guests with additional ideas for economic development as part of a series provided through county extension offices in Nebraska. The meeting last week was sponsored by the Wayne County Extension Office.

The lunch meeting Thursday was used to discuss the next steps to furthering Wayne's revitalization plans as Lucas provided ideas for steps which could be taken be-yond the START plans already implented in Wayne.

"START and Take Charge both provide a good starting place for most communities because they allow citizens within communities to take control of economic development," he said.

Other programs which Lucas outlined include leadership development, FCL training, information from the Nebraska Technical Assistance Center, information about LINK, and others.

IN HIS PRESENTATION, Lucas provided insight to programs which could enhance community development. His presentation was not without some warnings, however

"There's a tendency to solve the problems of today and not plan for the problems 10 years from now," he said. "That's something we hope these programs will assist communities with."

Lucas complimented Wayne in its efforts to revitalize and continue its current growth pattern. He said once the START process is com-plete, the community should prob-ably embark on another program to continue the trend.

During the presentation, Lucas said community development is a continuous process. He said the programs offered by the University of Nebraska assist with that pro"We have a number of very good, talented people to help with community economic development in rural areas," he said. "It's a good idea to stay focused on the goals which are currently being developed but it's a good idea to stay on top of the growth by continuing with programs which are similar to those the University of Nebraska can offer." Nebraska can offer.

SOME OF THE THRUSTS in the program include: providing a statewide communications system between cooperative extension offices which can be used to economic development; improved ed-

College trustees to meet this weekend in Wayne

WAYNE - State College Board of Trustee Chair Keith Blackledge has proposed that, beginning with this meeting, student trustees will be asked for an "opinion vote" when the board votes on agenda items.

That will be the case this week when the State College Board of Trustees meet in Wayne Friday, Dec. 7 from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Hahn Assembly room at Wayne State College: In consider motions College, to consider motions for work sessions, subcommittee or executive sessions. The board will then reconvene at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 8.

ITEMS THAT may be discussed in work sessions and voted on at this meeting include a variety of items in-volving the four Nebraska state colleges but one issue which is expected to receive discussion is the LB 247 High Education Study Committee report and the state college system response.

The system office will also provide information to the poard on Nebraska's response to national education goals, post-election follow-up, the higher education coordinating commission report and the LB 332 Midwestern Higher Education Compact.

Public should not give support for Channel One in our schools

A recent research paper written by Wayne State College graduate student Elijah Powell does an excellent job of outlining the pros and cons of the Whittle Channel One TV Network, which is currently being considered in the Wayne Public Schools, but it can by no means be used by the school board as a basis for their

In an article in Monday's newspaper, The Wayne Herald also effectively outlined the proposed TV service.

While it is doubtful that the school board will use either publication as a means for its decision, the public needs to become involved in the issue. While the Channel One Network may sound like a futuristic opportunity placed before the schools, there are a number of problems with bringing the programming into Wayne aside from the "1984"ish aspects predicted by George

The first such problem is that there is no authority within the framework of the Wayne schools which has a detailed knowledge of the mass media, thus creating what Powell has referred to in his paper as a lack of "media literacy."

Being media literate requires more than picking up a newspaper and determining whether it has a "Republican" or "Democratic" format and it goes beyond understanding the motivation behind TV news or the commercialism of the various mass medias. The public needs to become more aware of the issues by understanding the motivation behind the mass media.

A second such problem focuses around the role of TV news compared with the role of radio or print news.

Because of its nature, the sound bites for TV news are written to cater for the pictures while trying to relay the basic message of the story. This differs from the print or radio news in that they try to convey the "objective" (if such a term can be used loosely) message. This is a concept which is not widely known but it is one which exists.

The final argument against Channel One is that it is motivated by money, not news. Channel One provides students with such short news programming (12 minutes a day, minus two minutes for commercials for 10 actual minutes of news) is so short, it provides a captive audience with little more than knowledge which they could use on "Jeopardy". Because of this, students will fail to understand the "issues" but they will be exposed to multi-fail to understand the "issues" but they will be exposed to make million dollars worth of advertising.

It is our hope that the public will respond to this situation by attending next week's school board meeting, Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the home economics room of the high school. The school board

Budget process needs work

The annual failure of Congress and the Administration to balance the Federal budget makes it very clear that the congressional bud-get process is not working. The budget process is mandated by law, and over and over again we see violation of that law, wasteful spending and financial chaos. Before 1974 Congress did not vote on a budget. The Federal

In 1974 a law was passed that established the House and Senate Budget Committees and provided for and annual budget to be adopted by Congress. That law re-quired that Congress pass a non-binding first concurrent resolution early in the budgeting year and a second binding resolution near the end of the year. The second con-current resolution was to be enforced by reconciliation instructions requiring the congressional committees to report to the floor the legislation necessary to meet the budget targets. In fact, Congress simply ignored the requirement that it pass a second budget reso-lution. The first Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law, which was enacted in 1985, did away with the requirement for two budget resolutions.

Congress needs to function un-der a budget process that does not allow it to avoid responsibility. A Budget Process Reform proposal has been introduced, and I support it. This reform proposal is designed to encourage early consultation cooperation

Congress and the President, and early consultation and cooperation between Congress and the Presi dent, and to produce decisions on overall budget levels early in the budgeting year. It ties each indi-vidual spending decision to an overall, binding budget total. It re-quires explicit decisions about all Federal programs, and it would prevent the annual threats of Fed-eral government shut-downs.

The Budget Process Reform Act requires that Congress enact a legally binding budget by May 15 legally binding budget by May 15 of each year. Until that joint resolution has been signed into law, neither the House nor the Senate could vote on any authorization or appropriation. That simplified budget would set ceilings on all Federal spending except Social Security and the interest on the national debt. It would set ceilings. national debt. It would set ceilings on spending in 19 summary cate-gories and is sufficiently straight-forward that it would fit on a single page. It would set the upper level for Federal spending for the fol-lowing fiscal year. Every government program and activity would fall into one of the 19 categories, but spending levels of any of these upper limit for each category had en established by law.

Any spending outside of a budget (should Congress and the President not reach an agreement) would require a supermajority vote—two-thirds of both houses. Spending in excess of the budget ceilings also would require a supermajority. The only way to adopt spending proposals by a simple majority would be to stay within the budget limit established by joint resolution.

Fixed-dollar appropriations would be required for all Federal programs. Under the present system, spending on entitlement programs is open-ended and can only be limited by the state of the system. grams is open-rended and can only be limited by enacting specific legislation. Under the proposed system, Congress would be re-quired each year to decide how much will be spent on a particular

In this proposal, the President is given the authority to rescind the over-budget portion of any spending in excess of the budget ceilings unless Congress enacts legislation that specifically disap-proves of the recipsion. This gives the President the authority to en-force Congress's own budget deci-sions.

The Budget Process Reform Act includes a sustaining mechanism that automatically reappropriates the previous year's funding level for the subsequent fiscal year if Congress fails to complete action on appropriations by October 1. This avoids the temporary shutdown of the government for lack of funds, and it prevents an increase in spending unless Congress has enacted the increase within the over-all budget ceilings.

Clearly we need to make changes in the budget process, and I believe that this proposal goes a long way in correcting the problems that we face today.

Sunday night, the Wayne United Methodist Church performed a Christmas play about the birth of baby Jesus. It was really a sight to see as church members performed an admirable version of the event. It was real and it was alive - it was one of the more real depictions of the event I've ever seen. The last act, where the birth of Christ was relived among church members was one of the most moving scenes I've seen staged in my lifetime.

THE SCENE BEGAN as two of the Inn keepers in Bethlehem were revisiting the stable, recalling the birth of baby Jesus. Then an old woman, who took the last room at the Inn 40 years earlier as a princess, visited the stable. Finally, Mary and the Inn keeper visiting Mary and the Inn keeper visited the stable.

The next thing which occurred was as the shepherds descended upon the stable, followed, of course, by the three wise men. There was nothing artificial about this as the cast made the scene come alive. come alive.

The Wayne wrestling team got their first big test Saturday at the Blair Invitational and John Murtaugh's troops passed with flying colors as the Blue Devils were crowned team champions with crowned team champions with 184 points.

Wayne came out on top of the defending state champions of Class B in Plattsmouth who finished second with 163. Tekamah-Her-man finished third with 146 points while Gretna dropped off the pace in fourth place with 89 points.

Blair was the fifth place team on the day with 83 1/2 points while South Sioux placed sixth with while South Sioux placed sixth with 60 points and Logan View rounded out the field with 51 points.

Eleven of the thirteen Blue Devil wrestlers came home with medals on the day including five champions, two runners-up, and four fourth place finishes. "I thought we wrestled pretty well for an early season tournament," Murtaugh said. "When you medal 11 of 13 wrestlers that is very good considering the quality of competition at Blair. This is a good tournament to start the season with because it gives us a good idea on what things we need to work on to get better."

Among the tournament thamps for Wayne was Todd

Among the tournament champs for Wayne was Todd Fredrickson at 103 lbs. It was Fredrickson's first tournament win ever. Incidentally, it was also his first tournament ever. Fredrickson has only been wrestling since last year and Murtaugh is pleased with his progress.

Trevor Wehrer also placed first for the Blue Devils at 130 lbs.

Wehrer, a senior, also enjoyed his first tournament win ever. "I felt that Todd and Trever both were. that Todd and Trevor both wres-tled very well," Murtaugh said. "As a team our kids did a good job of supporting each other during the course of the tournament. In order to win tournament championships, this is a must.

Chris lanke at 145 was also a championship wrestler on the day as he defeated Brian Weatherly of Tekamah, 2-0 in the finals. Jason Ehrhardt, defending state cham-pion in Class B's 189 lb. category, began the 1990-91 season in fine form as he avenged last year's only loss in the finals against Brian Clausen of South Sloux. Ehrhardt won a 5-3 decision over Clausen who placed runner-up at 189 lbs.

How my Wayne-Carroll experience helped me prepare for life after high school graduation:

The staff at Wayne High, in particular Judith Schafer and Ann Meyer, always encouraged me in my academic pursuits. Indeed, this love for learning prompted me to seek a career in the world of books. Managing a bookstore allows me to continue to promote reading and learning. Especially in these times of high illiteracy rates, I think it is important to encourage reading for all ages. Our store works with RIF and other local agencies combatting illiteracy in West Virginia. We are also working with local shelters to collect donations for the homeless. On another front, we are currently collecting book donations to ship overseas to our troops in Saudi Arabia. My experience at Wayne High and in my career has reinforced my belief that one person can make a difference."

Wayne State ladies win home opener

For the first time in the 1990-91 basketball season Mike Barry's Wayne State women got to play a game in front of the home crowd Saturday night as the Wildcats hosted Simpson College out of In-dianola, Iowa.

Wayne State's first four games of the season were in enemy terri-tory with Barry's troops going 1-3 during the stretch but the home record stands at 1-0 after an 85-74 record stands at 1-0 after an 85-74 win against the Lady Reds.

"Simpson College came in with a deceiving 1-4 record," Barry said.
"Their previous three games were against top 20 basketball teams."
After somewhat of a lackfursfer beginning the Wildcats raced to a 43-27 halftime advantage.
"We kind of took control of the game," Barry said. "But in the second half they, (Simpson), began causing problems with their zone press and they came within four at 78-74 with under a minute and a half remaining. We had control but we let them back in it."

But in the final 90 seconds of the contest WSC scored seven straight points to ice the game. Simpson failed to score in the last 1:26. "They were pretty much the first team to press us this season," Barry said, "We have to be ready to respond to whatever the opposition throws at us."

Sophomore guard Mary Schnitzler led the Wildcats with 21 points on the night. "Mary had a real nice night for us," Barry said. "She shot the ball pretty well and she did a nice job on the boards and led us in a seiter as well."

Wayne State turned the ball over 29 times compared to 27 by Simpson. VanVeldhuizen and Otjen each blocked two shots in the game while Chamberlin and chnitzler each blocked one.

Cats lose Friday In Friday night's contest at Dakota Wesleyan Barry's troops came away with a somewhat dis-appointing 91-83 loss. "It was kind of disappointing to lose this game because we felt coming into the game that we were just as good if not better than Dakota Wesleyan," Barry said.

One thing Barry did not count on however, was the fact that Dakota Wesleyan would shoot 66 free throws in the contest compared to Wayne State's 28 attempts. Dakota Wesleyan con-rected on 45 of those attempts.

"There was a great disparity on fouls," Barry said. "But you are going to get that some on the road and we have to be ready to adjust to the circumstances as they arise." arise.

Money borrowed by school district

O'NEILL - The O'Neill School Board approved last week a resolu-tion to borrow $635,000 until Aug. 31, 1991 to keep the district on a cash-flow basis.

The reason for the borrowed money, being borrowed on Tax Anticipation Notes, is due to a "lot of unknowns" when the board approved a similar measure last year, according to Superintendent Doug Nollette.

The Farmer's Wife By Pat Melerhenry

I finally have the photos from the trip in an album, with captions. But my camera isn't the greatest and neither are the pictures.

We've had a good time, though, just reminiscing and chuckling over them. There are a let of things we remember that

The other thing we craved was water. Ice water was not routinely served at restaurants. Sometimes, when it was ordered, we were charged for it. And, sometim2s, it came in bottles and had a very bland taste.

Of course, there was always beer and wine. I had no idea Germany raised so many grapes. The vines marched steeply up and down the hillsides; the farmers, who worried about

I worried about the poor pick-ers; they all must have had one short leg to go and up down those hills. But the grapes were truly de-licious; large and sweet. Everybody smokes. The Cancer Society has a terrific job to do in Europe. There are cigarette dis-pensers everywhere. I asked Mari-anne if they hadn't heard of cancer. She just shrugged.

Highways that go through the rillages are not widened. The buildings are old and will not be destroyed to make room for tour buses. The buses also went up and down and around hills. Many of us held our breath, and we could have "reached out and touched someone" many times.

The Rhine is as beautiful as everyone says. Our cruise on it was lovely and relaxing, with an old castle around every bend.

We got off the boat at Rudesheim, where we toured a brandy factory and looked in shops and visited churches. Marianne had arranged for us to have a typical German supper at an old restaurant German supper at an old restaurant

They had American flags on our tables, and we ate wieners and kraut and cake. Then the threeman band serenaded us, and we sang "There is No Place Like Ne-braska" for them.

I've found I have a natural talent—for the cymbals! All it takes is a little rhythm, and it makes a loud noise. It was a ball. And I can always say I played with a German band, right?

Fortunately, someone grabbed the camera, and I have pictures to prove it. What fun!
