Carhart discusses agenda Mayor says he has no immediate plans for the city

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

Although Mayor Robert Carhart doesn't have any immediate plans as Wayne's new mayor, he does have some ideas of what he'd like to see done. Some of Carhart's plans stem from what has been and is being accomplished through the START program recently conducted in program recently conducted in Wayne. Others range from creating open dialogue with the citizens of the community to adapting ordinances as they need changing.

I really haven't got an agenda and there's a good reason for that, he said. Wayne has really experienced some growing pains in experienced some growing pains in the last few years and that's some-thing the council will have to reckon with. We will have to decide how much the people of this community are willing to pay to

The group has three main objectives:

AREAS CARHART plans to focus attention toward deal with the current housing shortage, public facilities and recreation.

He said he believes the city will have to take the initiative in some of those areas, but he said public input is important to the process.

"I would like to see open dia-logue between the council and the citizens of Wayne," he said. "There is a definite need for elected representatives to be accessible and open to input."

One of the ways Carhart plans to approach the public is by having established, open office hours through an office located at city hall.

"Since the election, I've only had a few people who have contacted me about things and I hope that's not an indication of apathy that the public has toward public officials," he said. "They speak at the coffee shops and over lunch but not a elected representatives." but not to elected representatives. That's something I'd like to see

Council turning to third reading

Perhaps it wasn't the second reading of an ordinance to provide angle parking on parts of Second Street, Pearl Street and Lincoln Street that was the highlight of the Wayne City Council meeting Tuesday, but rather that three council members were absent.

Due to the absence of the three council members, the ordinance to designate angle parking on the west and east ends of the

on the west and east ends of the Wayne County Courthouse and the south and east sides of the new Medicap Pharmacy could not pass.

To pass the ordinance on second reading, it requires a three-quarter majority but with the ab-sence of Jane O'Leary, Sheryl Lin-dau and Pat Prather, the ordinance will have to be read a third time at the next city council meeting scheduled for Jan. 9, 1991.

THE ORDINANCE failed at the Wayne City Council meeting last week due to council members voicing concerns that the angle parking had already been planned without prior council approval. At Tuesday's meeting, Councilman Ralph Barclay and Patty Wieland continued to voice concerns about angle parking at Medicap Phar-angle parking at Medicap Pharmacy.

"I said last week that I was upset," Barclay said. "I resent having to vote on an ordinance that's already a done deal."

Although Barclay voiced his concern, he voted to pass the second reading. He said he will probably support the ordinance despite hesitation.

WIELAND SAID that requests for angle parking following the disbursement of Community Development Block Grants, either by loan or as a grant, should be given council approval before they are taken on by developers.

Taken on by developers.

"Banks and insurance companies get to see plans, so we should be able to do so as well," she said.

In addition to that concern,

Wieland questioned City Adminis-trator Joe Salitros why an out-of-town contractor had been hired to construct the Medicap Pharmacy after CDBG funds had been used for the project. She asked if the city could request that local contractors take part in future projects where such funds are utilized.

Charges dropped against many arrested in Sept. 20 beer bust

WAYNE - Each of the 103 individuals arrested in a Sept. 20 beer bust conducted by the Wayne County Sheriff's Office and the Wayne Police Department have been given the chance to enter an alcohol evaluation and education class, according to Wayne County Attorney Bob Ensz.

Of the 103 individuals arrested for minor in possession, 98 have had charges against them dropped after completion of the alcohol evaluation and education class, according to Wayne County Court records.

"Part of the reasoning behind dismissing the charges was the numbers involved and the difficulty of the charges," Ensz said. 'They were given the choice: They could go through the court process or use the option as a diversion to the charges at their own expense."

THE COST OF the alcohol evaluation and education course was not specified. If charged, those facing minor in possession charges could face a minimum of $200 in fines if found guilty.

The response to this program so far has been excellent, according to people working with the group.

According to adult sponsor, Joan Sudmann, "It is very important for kids to have a supportive network of friends who don't drink and for them to have an active and enjoy-able social life that does not involve drinking. FRIENDs gets many invitations to drug-free activities sponsored by other youth groups. The kids get a sense that there are many other kids who feel the way they do and that reinforces their decision. They have all heard the lecture from adults, but they are also bombarded constantly with the message that alcohol is the way to have fun. These kids are making lasting relationships and helping each other discover who they really are — and that's what adolescence is all about!" If you would like more informa-

Wayne FRIENDS attend drug-free retreat

WAYNE - Eight members of Wayne's drug-free youth group, the Wayne FRIENDs (Facts Raise Interest Ending Needless Drugs), attended a "Proud to be Drugin North Platte.
Students included in the retreat are: Carrie Echtenkamp, Kim Endi-cott, Susan Webber, Megan McLean, Beth Dorcey, Eileen Von-

Seggern, Jeff Hamer and Matt Chapmen. The youth traveled with their two adult sponsors, Krista Bruns and Joan Sudmann.

The eight students, along with approximately 40 other Wayne junior and senior high members of FRIENDs have signed pledges to be free of tobacco, alcohol and illegal drugs.

The retreat the eight students attended offered an opportunity to meet members of drug-free youth groups from 30 communities in Nebraska.

The trip culminated with an unexpected overnight stay in a Grand Island motel when road conditions became dangerous on Sunday's return trip.

Winside gals win, boys lose

The Winside boys and girls basketball teams hosted Wynot Tues-day night and Paul Giesselmann's girls team got their second win of the season with a 47-41 victory but the Winside boys attempt for their second win fell short as they lost in overtime, 66-62.

In the girls game Giesselmann's troops did a much better job of shooting than they did the previ-dus Friday against Coleridge. Win-side grabbed command of the game early and was never really pushed despite the final score being a six point difference.

"The closest the score really got was the final margin of six points," Giesselmann said. "I thought the girls did a nice job of playing better. There were two reasons why we pretty much dominated. One, we shot better from the field and two, we got more physical. We took control of the game and ran the game tempo to our style instead of our opponent's.

Parks nets 19 points despite loss Wildcat Cagers lose at Northwest Missouri State he Wayne State Wildcat mens basketball team fell to Northwest Missouri State University Saturday night in Maryville, Mo, 85-60. The loss dropped the Wildcats record to 4-7 on the year while Northwest Missouri State improved to 5-3 despite losing to the University of Pittsburgh and Kansas State of the NCAA Division 1.

"We just got pounded in the first half on the offensive boards,"

WSC coach Mike Brewen said. "We tried a couple of line up changes and we finally stuck in Gerard Ras. He didn't grab a lot of rebounds but he took up space which al-lowed the others to hit the boards."

The Wildcats went into the locker room down 38-25. "We felt that toward the end of the first half that we were counteracting their rebounding advantage," Brewen said. "We went into the locker room down by 13 but we had six point blank three point field goal opportunities and we missed them all. Even if we would have hit a couple of them it would have trimmed their lead in half."

Despite the deficit at half Brewen felt that his team was just one run away from possibly making it a close ball game. "The game was played in runs," Brewen said. "We felt if we could come out in the second half and get a run right away we could put ourselves in a spot to make it a close game down the stretch.

Unfortunately for the Wildcats, Wayne State came out flat in the first five minutes of the second half which allowed Northwest Missouri State to go on an 8-0 run to lead by 21:

"When you get down by that many points against a very athletic team like the Bearcats it's very tough to come back," Brewen said. "We just didn't accomplish what

As Christmas is upon us once again, let us remind ourselves of the spirit of the season.

We have much to be thankful for. We live in good, clean communities where people care about their neighbors. As we look back at the past year, we are reminded of that fact when tragedies struck two area families, but the love and grace of the communities came through to help them work around their problems.

Man helping man. That's what we're all about. We constantly witness the good hearts within our area when tragedy strikes but it's all the more important to continue that good-hearted nature

As Charles Dickens wrote in "A Christmas Carol", we should keep Christmas in our hearts all year long. Dickens' character Ebeneezer Scrooge learned that lesson; one the people of the communities in this area shide by all year long.

Although tough economic times are predicted for the first quarter of 1991, let us not lose sight of who we are. Although much work has been done to improve what we already have, there

'Broken promises'

George Bush has broken yet another of his campaign promises. Remember his promise to strive to achieve a kinder, gentler nation? After almost two years in office, here are some interesting facts supporting my claim of just another broken promise.

supporting ..., broken promise. Since the beginning of the Rea-gan/Bush era in 1981, 900,000 farmers were forced into liquidation because of market prices set below cost of production. These prices were set by farm policies endorsed and signed into law by Reagan and now by Bush. The in-ternational grain cartel (i.e. Cargill, Continental, Con-Agra, Bungie and Dreyfus) continue to manipulate market prices through control of agricultural imports and exports. This too, is supported by the Bush Administration. The congressional budget office predicts another 400,000 farmers will be forced into liquidation proceedings because of lower market prices created by the 1990 Farm Bill, signed into law by Bush and supported by the international grain cartel and congressional members such as: Grady, Tauke, Grassley, Leach and Bereuter. And Bush speaks of a kinder, gentler nation. Nearly 400,000 U.S. combat troops, from the lower and middle classes, sit in a desert thousands of miles from loved ones during the holiday season, preparing for a war we should never, never, never fight! Aren't there enough prob-lems in this country that need to be addressed instead of going out and trying to police the world? Other world nations, more depen-dent on imported oil, sit on the sidelines or at most commit mere sidelines or at most commit mere token forces, allowing U.S. forces to carry, the heaviest burden. And yes, Bush speaks of a kinder, gen-tler nation.

Economists warn of an impeding recession, possibly a depression. Few people can afford the soaring health care costs and health insurance premiums. Elderly living on set incomes cannot keep pace with inflation and other skyrocketing costs to meet their basic necessities. The number of homeless people and the number of hungry in this country continues to grow. While at the same time, the great wealth of this nation continues to be transferred from the lower and middle classes to those in the up-per class. Sad but true, this nation's great wealth continues to be controlled by fewer and fewer people. gentler nation.

Drug abuse is rampant and goes moral and legal responsibilities, either as a host or a participant In our society it is no longer just a few deviant teens who use alcohol. Today it is often the teen who does not drink who is made to feel left out. The misuse of alcohol is widespread and touches all of us; no family is spared.

There are many pressures on our youth to use alcohol. The our youth to use alcohol. The strongest pressure comes from the adolescent's peer group. Besides being aware of alcohol use by popular singers, actors and athletes, our youth are bombarded daily by television and other media messages that promote the use of alcohol to give pleasure and be socially acceptable. Some parents add to the children's confusion about the acceptability of drinking by permitting underage children to drink in their homes.

dren turn to alcohol at an increasingly younger age. It is tempting for parents to expect schools, churches, police, courts, and other community agencies to solve the teenage alcohol-abuse problem, but in the final analysis this is a problem that parents and all other concerned individuals and community agencies must solve together.

Teenagers deserve to live and grow to adulthood in an environment where alcohol is not misused. Parents can encourage their chil-ment where alcono is not inbused. Parents can encourage their children to talk openly about alcohol Parents can also set acceptable standards of behavior in such matters for their children and thematics. QUESTIONS OFTEN ASKED BY

Miraculously, the tree is up and lecorated, (thanks, Ann) and the letters are addressed and mailed. It's a horrible task, but hearing from family and friends is a major part of Christmas for me. I'd much rather receive a mimeographed letter than a beautiful card that contains only a signature. But the writers could often spare a few hundred details! hundred details!

My angel collection has grown so that there are quite a few on the tree and a bunch on the buffet. Every year, there seem to be more outdoor lights all over the

Our director, a senior at WSC, thought she needed an additional challenge to needed an additional challenge to music concerts, Madrigals, and final exams. She got one! Whipping our crew of a dozen into shape in a few short weeks is a real challenge. Somehow, listening to all the Christmas music doesn't quite cut it; we have to sing a few carols of our own. By the time we finished with O Holy Night, though, we wondered why we subjected ourselves to such stress.

I also played Santa at the hospi-

I chuckled and reflected on the signs of the times when I read about the department store Santa who asked a cute kid on his lap what she wanted for Christmas. The little girl was indignant. "Didn't you get the fax I sent you?" In the last minute hustle and Divorce is common today, but there are about two million Amer ican couples who have stayed married 50 years or more. Dr. Joanna Polenz, a psychiatrist, points out that these couples — now in their 70s or older — usually had married young in a culture that viewed sex outside of marriage as taboo. Among other differences between then and now: The added stress on today's marriages when both spouses work. Another per-spective comes from Dr. Judy Pearson, a professor of inter-personal communications. She interviewed couples aged 40 to 69 who felt they had great marriages. A common denominator: these couples didn't have unthese couples didn't nave un-reasonable expectations when they wed. "Therefore, every-thing good that happens seems wonderful," Dr. Pearson said.

Living Trusts...Are They for Everyone?

Living Trusts have created a lot of interest lately among people wishing to reduce estate and probate costs at death. We believe that living trusts can be a valuable tool in estate planning, but they are not for everyone.

Whether or not a living trust is the correct tool to preserve your estate depends on several factors. Among them are:

—the ownership status of your assets

—the size of your estate

the existence of other estate planning methods, such as trusts/beneficiaries

—the type of assets you own

Financial and estate planning is a process involving many professionals working together to help you with the estate plan that is right for your specific goals. Your personal financial planner at IDS Financial Services can play a very important role in this process.

Stop by our office at 416 Main Street in Wayne, and let us assist you toward the initial steps in arriving at your estate plan. Twenty-two years of providing financial services to the Wayne area in combination with knowledge and expertise and backed by the strength of IDS Financial Services makes for a combination that's hard to beat.

Come in and talk with us. We would be happy to discuss your particular situation. No obligation, of course. Call for an appointment: 375-

Youngsters pictured helping load boxes are, from left, fourth graders Crystal Kaup and Tara Hart, and third grader Erica Conner. The clothing and toys were collected in November during a drive conducted by students of St. Mary's School. Gary Pick, who was in charge of shipping the items, said nearly 50 boxes of toys and clothing were loaded onto the Great Dane truck last Wednesday and delivered to Wichita, Kan. A Feed the Children truck picked up the boxes in Wichita on Tuesday of this week and took them to Oklahoma City, Okla, where they will be shipped for delivery to youngsters in Romania. Pam Boehle, a teacher at St. Mary's School, said she was extremely pleased with the response from Wayne area residents who donated clothing and toys for the Romanian youngsters.

CARDS OF THANKS

MANY THANKS to everyone who sent cards, flowers, plants and food to our home since the death of my sister, Geraldine Mohr in Norfolk. Genevieve and Clarence Beck. D20

WE WOULD like to extend our sincere thanks to the Winside cheerleaders, Orville and Doug Lage, and those others who baked cakes for Bryan's benefit auction. Also, those who purchased cakes and gave donations, or helped in any way. The happiness you gave Bryan will never be forgotten. Winside is a wonderful, caring community. Thanks to everyone. Rod, Patti, Bryan, Michelle everyone. Rod, Pa and Melyssa Deck.

I THANK my family, friends and relatives for the cards, calls and flowers while I was in St. Luke's Hospital. Special thanks to my children for their many kindnesses and special thanks to Pastor Frank Rothfuss and Vicar Chuck Harris for their prayers and visits. Thanks to the doctors and nurses for their excellent care. May God bless all of you. Alvin Meyer. I THANK my family, friends and relatives for the cards, calls and flowers

I WISH to thank all my relatives and invisor to their visits, cards, flowers and telephone calls, while I was in the hospital and since returning home, for the food that was brought in. To Rev. Bertels for his visits and prayers, to Sister Gertrude and nurses at PMC for their wonderful care and thanks to Dr. Bob and Dr. Schulte. Bernice Damme.
