Church officials seek to help congregations cope

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Despite times of war, the mission of the church remains.

If there's anything the churches want conveyed, that might be it. For as the Persian Gulf conflict continues to heat up, three Wayne pastors shared their views of the role of the church in a world confused and distraught by fear of the unknown.

While sermon content doesn't necessarily change, ministers are finding a heightened awareness for the need of prayer among their respective congregations. For some, prayer is a way of finding inner peace as well as a hope for peace in the world.

"The biblical concept of peace is not necessarily an absence of conflict but rather a peace that comes from within," says Evangelical Free Church Pastor Dave Dickinson, who is the 1991 Wayne Ministerial Association president.

"It's a relationship each person shares with Christ — a peace within, if you will, during times of conflict. I think that's what people are looking for."

WAYNE PASTORS Keith Johnson of the United Methodist Church and Fthr. Don Cleary of St. Mary's Catholic Church said congregation members are expressing their concerns through prayers. Cleary said regular prayers take on new meaning because of the crisis.

For instance, last Sunday, in which Catholics observed a Eucharist prayer, it came with a twist of irony that the prayer was for peace. Cleary said it wasn't organized like that but it seemed crafted for the occasion.

The reason some ministers don't change sermon content is because the sermons are designed around the season respective churches observe. For instance, the Catholic church has a pre-established set of readings while the United Methodist church is observing one of its seasons.

"We follow the lectionary readings which follow the Christian calendar," Johnson said. "But the emphasis of peace in a time of conflict is definitely there."

AS CHURCHES work to meet the needs of their congregation, several have noted the addition of prayer services while others are responding with a variety of support groups.

During times of crisis "people tend to think more about things that are more important — life and death issues bring our priorities into focus," Dickinson said.

"People tend to turn to their church and their faith," he added. "I can't say it's been a marked change but there's a significant difference in the way people turn to their church during tough times."

WITH CHURCHES, there is a need being expressed by younger people to help them to understand the war in the gulf. Dickinson and Johnson both said that grade school children have a heightened awareness of the conflict because it's beamed into their living rooms. Cleary added that parents are asking for guidance to help their children understand.

"Our children are so much more exposed to this war than others in the past," Johnson said. "When a bomb explodes, it's in our living room when it happens. We really can't tell what affects this will have for some time but like it or not, we're right on the Kuwaiti border. We're giving war a human face, which is something we have not had to do before."

As a minister, Cleary said he is having trouble dealing with the pride in the nation's technology and because of that, it makes it difficult for him to discuss the moral dilemmas of the conflict.

"We have to relate to this like the Kuwaitis and Iraqis who are having their children killed," he said.

DESPITE FINDING troubles in dealing with the conflicts, the churches are still providing for their congregations in various ways.

Currently ministers are striving to look for peace in a right order, according to Johnson. It's a mission that continues throughout the churches.

"Peace comes from a lifestyle — not so much from politics," he said.

Waldbaums doing their part for troops

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Just as troops in the Persian Gulf need to eat, Waldbaums is ready to help supply them with food.

The Milton G. Waldbaum Company of Wakefield is one of a number of companies under contract with the federal government to supply food for the troops in the gulf. According to Plant Manager Butch Utemark, the federal government has purchased 5 million pounds of dried eggs, of which the Milton G. Waldbaum Company is supplying 2.5 million pounds.

The contract Waldbaums is observing, however, is actually a sub-contract with Fisher Foods of Lincoln, which is packaging the product.

"The quality of these eggs is very good," Utemark said. "There's been a lot of talk of what the dried eggs used to taste like but today, they're very good."

THE PROCESS OF preparing the eggs for shipping is interesting to the outsider. Once the eggs are broken open and separated from their shells, they are dehydrated and processed into a sealed container. From there, they are boxed up and sent to Fisher Foods.

When the product arrives to troops in the Persian Gulf, all that's needed is water and a little cooking. Utemark said the 2.5 million pounds goes a long way, however. He said 6 ounces is equivalent to a dozen eggs.

"This contract was due in part to the related military buildup," he said. "It's not a direct result because the product is made for periodic military use but egg consumption does go up during military conflicts."

DESPITE THE NUMBER of eggs being sent to Fisher Foods for packaging, Waldbaums employees have not had to work a lot of overtime. According to Ted Helberg, personnel relations director, the work is just part of Waldbaums' good wishes for the troops.

"Eggs are a staple of the American diet," he said. "Anything that reminds them of home I'm sure, is helpful."

After working with Fisher Foods,

CHURCHES AROUND THE area are helping their congregations cope. St. Paul's Lutheran Church, in this line shot, is no exception.

Wayne chamber seeking businesses help to keep flags up for troop support

WAYNE - Businesses are being sought to register to hang flags throughout downtown Wayne in an effort to show support for U.S. troops taking part in Operation Desert Storm.

According to Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce Director Colleen Roeber, the request for businesses to take part in the project is in response to requests made to the Chamber to hang flags throughout Wayne. The idea stems from a proposal by the Chamber's retail council.

ROEBER SAID business officials may check out flags from the Chamber office and business owners will be responsible for putting the flag up in the morning and taking them down in the evening.

She added that any flags left up overnight which might get stolen will be at the expense of the business that checked them out.

For more information about the flag hanging effort, contact the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce at 375-2240.

Wayne Jaycees boast a list of projects as organization celebrates 37 years

WAYNE - For 37 years, the Wayne County Jaycees have been an important part of the Wayne community.

That tradition continues today, as the service organization celebrates their annual Jaycee week.

According to chapter President Ron Gentrup, the local service organization is 31 members strong. Despite having that strong membership, the group that places emphasis on leadership for young men and women is always looking for more people.

During the past year, the Jaycees have been active in its share of activities from community development projects to management development activities and individual development projects. They have also donated time and money to national and local charities.

"By taking advantage of the organization, members get the chance to chair various projects which not only help them in the workplace but throughout life," Gentrup said. "Together, we learn from the experiences we have."

OF THE PROJECTS the service organization has taken on, a number have been taken advantage of by the community. The Jaycees have conducted an Easter egg hunt last year in which over 50 children participated. They also entered a float in the Winside centennial parade in July and they took part in the adopt-a-child program at Christmas while also purchasing gifts for two residents at the Wayne Care Centre.

When the Jaycees weren't busy with a number of their community development projects, they could be found sponsoring a booth at the Wayne County Fair or organizing the Wayne County Fair demolition derby which was attended by several hundred people. The Jaycees also sold trees to the community at Christmas, in which the proceeds went to a variety of charities.

"Members get to learn a little bit more about themselves through the projects they take part in," Gentrup said.

Of the charities the Jaycees sponsor, they range from the Muscular Dystrophy Association, the American Cancer Society and St. Jude's Children's Research to Wayne United Way, Wayne Kinship and Goldenrod Hills Community Action Council. They also assisted the Dennis Schlines family when

This is a benefit that everyone should appreciate because of the high cost of health insurance."

Are You Worried About Having Enough Money For A Secure Retirement?

More than ever, future retirees will have to rely on their own efforts to secure the retirement they've looked forward to. Why?

1. Inflation will erode buying power.
2. Fewer U.S. corporations are offering traditional pension plans. Plus, they are reducing retiree benefits such as medical insurance.
3. There will be fewer workers to support each retiree. Social Security may face massive shortfalls.

Find out what you can do to secure a comfortable retirement despite these trends. Attend a no-cost, no-obligation educational seminar.

Student march organizers deserve a pat on the back

Congratulations should go out to the Wayne State College students who marched last Friday in a show of support for U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf.

The march began at the corner of Third and Main Street Friday, and finished at Ramsey Theatre on the WSC campus, where students spoke their peace about the crisis-turned-war.

The march originally was planned to be an anti-war march, but with conflict breaking out Wednesday night, local time, organizers of the event decided they would prefer to show support for U.S. troops, rather than protest political involvement.

Not only did the students handle themselves well, but they punctuated the importance of supporting allied forces. One way to turn the war with Iraq into another Vietnam is to throw dirt in our soldiers' faces. Unlike other protesters elsewhere in the United States, that, thankfully, won't be happening here. Our troops need and deserve our support. Like concrete is the foundation for a building, we are the concrete for our troops.

The event, organized by students Michael Ware, Robert Grinter and Remar Walker, punctuated the questions we as Americans need to be asking.

"While I don't necessarily support the use of force ... I want everyone to know that I support the troops now that the fighting has begun. ... When it's over, we must ask ourselves, however, if it was worth it?"

The point made by WSC Associate Professor Sayre Anderson was also well taken: The U.S. must formulate an energy policy or this type of conflict will occur again in the future.

Let's hope our government learns a lesson from the war in the gulf and while pressuring our elected representatives for energy reforms, let's pray for a safe, quick return of our soldiers.

Guest Viewpoint

Animal rights begin here at home

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following guest viewpoint was submitted by Wayne Veterinarian Dr. Ken Liska. The article appeared in the Nebraska State Veterinarian's Association Newsletter, published by the Nebraska Veterinarian Association and it was prepared for the American Beef Cattlemen.

The animal welfare/animal rights issues are issues of great concern and confusion to the livestock producers at the present time. Confusion exists because people do not understand the difference between the two terms and may feel that they are one and the same when in fact they are not. Concern exists as to how much impact the movements will have on the future of the livestock industry as we know it today.

Animal welfare is a human responsibility that encompasses all aspects of animal well-being, including proper housing, management, nutrition, disease prevention and treatment, responsible care, humane handling and when necessary, humane euthanasia. As livestock producers and veterinarians we should not be ashamed of animal welfare because in fact we have been concerned about the welfare of animals longer than anyone. We could be called the original animal welfareists.

The animal rights philosophy views animals as having rights equal to those of human beings and condemns even responsible use of animals for human purposes. The use of animals for any reason is not permissible according to strict animal rights advocates. The use of animals for any reason is exploitation of the species and the same as specism.

Certain segments of the livestock industry have received more attention than others as regard to animal rights issues. Veal calf production, confinement swine operations and intense poultry production units have probably been the most severely criticized for their production practices. Certain surgical procedures, branding and confined feeding are probably of the greatest concern for the beef producers.

Following are some actions livestock producers can take to help curb the growing tide of negativism toward the livestock industry.

1. Become Informed

Livestock producers should strive to learn as much as possible about the animal welfare/animal rights issues. Read articles in the agricultural press as well as articles by and about the different groups to get an understanding as to how they think and what actions they plan to take to further their movement. Listen to what these people have to say, remember they have their right to their opinion, but avoid confrontation with them. Most of the devout advocates are very persuasive and almost impossible to debate in a rational and convincing manner. They talk about isolated incidents as if they were the standard for the industry.

2. Become Involved

It is difficult to have much impact by individually trying to defend the industry. Become involved in your respective livestock and professional organizations and encourage them to be proactive in animal welfare/animal rights issues. Livestock groups should draft a clear and concise statement of humane livestock care guidelines. In Nebraska, as in some other states, livestock groups have formed a coalition to formulate comprehensive guidelines for animal care. A capable spokesperson should be designated to deal with the animal rights issues.

3. Conduct a self evaluation

Livestock producers should examine their own operations to see that what they are doing conforms to the standards for humane animal care. It is hard to be an advocate for an issue if what you're doing at home does not substantiate the views you voice in public.

4. Investigate candidates

In an election year, take some time to examine the views and voting records of the candidates in regard to the animal rights issues. If possible, the candidates should be questioned as to how they would represent animal agriculture in these areas. Examine their list of backers and contributors to see if they are being bought by animal rights groups. In the past, livestock producers have been sold down the river by elected officials whom were thought to be friends of agriculture.

The animal welfare/animal rights movement is here and is here to stay. It can be a threat to livestock producers but we must be willing to take the lead and be proactive and be a part of the solution and not a part of the problem.

Protests wrong

I wish to express my sincere thoughts and beliefs in the good old United States of America. As I believe in the United States and praise God we still have the freedom of speech but it comes to my mind that those who protest the conflict are not true Americans. In their protesting against our president and his sincere interest in we the people, it brings to mind that such people are as bad as draft dodgers. To this old man, those kind of people are scum, for when we refuse to fight for our country, it proves that we are not real Americans and we do not believe in what our nation stands for. I would also like to make it very clear that despite the fact I am a full-fledged Democrat, I certainly back our president 100 percent in what he's doing during this time of conflict.

I also believe it is wrong that anyone who has a high education who brings fear into our children are being outright stupid. To me it's the parent's duty to explain to our children the cause of such action taking place, not outsiders.

To this writer, because these people have this fear, it is definitely a shame and a mortal sin to express fear in our school children. Frankly and truthfully, there is already enough fear before our children with drugs and many other things before them each day of their lives.

It's time we the people speak out as the true Americans we are.

I write this most earnestly and sincerely as one who has faith and trust in our government.

NEBRASKA TIMELINE

Governor Ben Nelson is the 37th person to hold the office of governor of the state of Nebraska. Each chief executive has made unique contributions to Nebraska history and has provided a rich lode of Nebraska trivia.

The 1871 impeachment and removal from office of the first state governor, David Butler, is well-known, as is the fact that Kay Orr was our first female governor. But who recalls that Governors Robert W. Furnas and Samuel R. McKelvie both published the Nebraska Farmer, established by Furnas in 1859? Three governors, Lorenzo Crounse, Silas Holcomb, and Chester H. Aldrich, also served as judges of the Nebraska Supreme Court. Many Nebraska governors aspired to be U.S. Senators but only five made it: John M. Thayer, Charles H. Dietrich, Dwight Griswold, J. James Exon, and Robert Kerrey.

Three Nebraska governors were not elected to the office. Secretary of State William H. James served as governor 1871-73 after Butler was impeached. Ezra P. Savage moved up from the lieutenant governor's post when Dietrich resigned in 1901 to accept the senate seat. Lieutenant Governor Dwight Brooks served out Governor Ralph Brooks's term after Brooks died September 9, 1960. Brooks was the only state governor to die in office. Burney also shares honors with Dietrich for the shortest gubernatorial term. Both men were governor for just 119 days.

Ashton C. Shallenberger was the first governor to be nominated in a statewide primary election (1908). Previously the nominees were chosen at the party convention. Charles Bryan (William Jennings Bryan's brother) stands out as the only Nebraska governor to serve non-consecutive terms (1923-25 and 1931-35), and the only governor to have been a candidate for vice-president of the United States, running on the Democratic ticket with John Davis in 1924.

James Boyd, a native of Ireland, was the only foreign-born governor. The first Nebraska-born governor was George L. Sheldon of Nehawka, who served 1907-09. The first governor to occupy an office in the present state capitol was Governor Adam McMullen, 1925-29, though the building was not completed until after his term had ended. Nebraska's youngest governor was Albinus Nance, just thirty when he took office in 1879. Dwight Burney was the oldest at the age of sixty-eight.

Each new governor provides fresh material for the fund of gubernatorial trivia, with a chance to topple a former executive from some pedestal to distinction. Although new to the task, Governor Ben Nelson has made his mark by continuing a tradition that has held firm for more than three decades: No Nebraska governor since Victor Anderson (1955-59) has been from the same political party as his or her predecessor.

Medicare not always the primary insurance payer

Recently I was asked by Medicare funds pay for medical services when a Medicare-eligible person is also covered under an employer group health insurance program. I want to assure you that Medicare is not the primary payer in such situations. A person who is eligible for Medicare either because he or she is 65 or over, or because he or she has been on Social Security disability for at least 24 months who is also covered under a group health plan will have his or her medical bills paid first by the group health plan. If that plan does not cover all of the costs, the bills may then be submitted to Medicare to determine whether there is coverage under the Medicare program.

Medicare is billed as the Secondary Payer for: (1) the working aged and disabled persons who are also covered by an employer group health plan; (2) individuals entitled to Medicare because they have End Stage Renal Disease and are covered under an employer group health plan; (3) persons treated for injury or illness resulting from an automobile accident or other accident covered by no-fault or automobile medical insurance; (4) persons injured in other situations covered by liability insurance; (5) persons covered by Workers' Compensation; (6) persons receiving benefits under the Federal Black Lung Program, and (7) veteran beneficiaries under certain specified circumstances.

The goal of the Medicare Secondary Payer program is both laudable and necessary in order to ensure optimum use of available Medicare funds. It is important to remember that the monthly premium of $28.60 provides the funding for only one-fourth of Medicare Part B costs while three-fourths of the cost is paid from general revenue, i.e. tax receipts and money borrowed by the Federal government. Only Part A expenses come from the Social Security Hospital Insurance Trust Fund. Therefore, it benefits all taxpayers and Medicare beneficiaries when health care providers are notified that the beneficiary's health care costs are to be billed to Medicare only after the primary insurer has been billed.

Report on Alzheimer's Disease

It was estimated during the mid-1970's that 2.5 million older Americans suffered from Alzheimer's disease. The current number is closer to 4 million and predictions are that 10.14 million people will be affected by the middle of the next century. In 1976, the Federal government allocated $3.8 million dollars for Alzheimer's research. During the past 14 years, there has been a significant increase in Federal funding related to Alzheimer's. The allocation for 1990 is $147,990,500 and $152,802,000 has been budgeted for 1991.

Research is being conducted not only on the causes and treatment of the disease, but also on the caregiver-patient relationship because most Alzheimer patients live at home where friends and relatives provide 24-hour a day care for them. The need for information about successful home care is critical because such care is extremely stressful for the caregiver. Studies are also being conducted to determine the effectiveness of special Alzheimer units in long-term care facilities in order to plan the most useful and cost-effective means of care in those circumstances. There are now 15 Alzheimer's Disease Research Centers as part of a national program to collaborate efforts on research and patient care.

Unicam review Hefner reviews events of legislature

I was elected Vice Chairman of the Revenue Committee again. I have held this position for the past 14 years. The Revenue Committee will have a busy schedule and one of the big issues will be ag-land valuation because of the constitutional amendment that voters approved last November.

On Jan. 17 Governor Nelson sent a letter to the Legislature urging all Nebraskans to support our citizens involved in the Desert Storm conflict and the Legislature followed the letter with a moment of silence. Many of us Senators are wearing yellow ribbons on our lapels in honor of American troops.

One of the first orders of official business the second week of the Legislature was a motion to adopt permanent rules to guide the Legislature in its debate and procedures. A new rule which I supported was adopted this year, referred to as a cloture rule (pronounced: klo-cher). A cloture motion requires all debate and amendments to a proposal to come to an immediate halt and a vote is then taken on the proposal without any further debate or amendments. Under the new rule, a cloture motion may be made after eight hours of debate has occurred on any bill before the body. A vote to invoke cloture requires a two-thirds majority to be adopted.

The purpose of cloture is to stop filibusters. A filibuster occurs when one or more senators opposed to a bill offer endless amendments and debate to stop the bill from advancing or passing, even though a clear majority of the senators support it. You may recall this occurred on an anti-abortion bill before the Legislature last year. A few vocal senators stopped the bill with amendments and endless debate even though a majority of senators supported it. It never passed.

The Nebraska Legislature also voted to have the Executive Board of which I am a member decide the contested election in the 30th Legislative District. We expect to begin hearing oral arguments soon. The challenge is based on whether absentee ballots cast are to be used in determining a winner. The ballots are initiated on the front by election officials instead of being signed in full on the back, as required by state law.

The 1990 Federal Decennial Census counted college students as residents of communities where they attend college rather than where they declare their permanent residence. This gives cities like Lincoln and Omaha an exaggerated population total and reduces the number in communities where there is no college or university.

I introduced a resolution, LR 3, calling on the Bureau of the Census or Congress to change he policy on where college students are counted for the 2000 Census. Prior to 1950 college students were counted where they declare their permanent residence. LR 3 states that the policy should be changed back to the way it was prior to 1950. The resolution was discussed briefly and referred to a committee for a public hearing and further consideration.

STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT 4-WHEEL ALIGNMENT.

THREE BASIC ALIGNMENT TYPES.

FRONT WHEEL ALIGNMENT. Here, using the car's centerline as a reference, the caster, camber and toe are adjusted. This alignment is satisfactory if the thrust line matches the centerline. If they are different, the steering wheel may be cocked while driving straight ahead.

4-WHEEL COMPENSATED ALIGNMENT. Again, the front-wheel caster, camber and toe are checked and adjusted. But this time the adjustments are made with reference to the rear-wheel thrust line. This eliminates the cocked steering wheel. In addition, the rear-wheel camber and toe are checked. Recommended for cars without rear-wheel adjustment capabilities.

DELUXE 4-WHEEL ALIGNMENT. This is the ultimate in 4-wheel alignment. Here, the rear-wheel camber and toe are adjusted, aligning the thrust line with the centerline. Then, the front wheels are aligned (caster, camber, toe) with the thrust line. Since both the centerline and thrust line are now the same, all four wheels will be parallel. When you're driving straight ahead, both the steering wheel and the car will be straight.

Wayne wrestlers crowned once again

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

Although it seemed as though the chips were stacked against John Murtaugh's Wayne wrestling team heading into Saturday's fierce Plattsmouth Invitational, the Blue Devils rose to yet another level and the results were the same as every other invitational and dual this year with Wayne finishing on top.

Wayne came into the meet with out three of its varsity wrestlers as 103 pounder Todd Fredrickson and 135 pound Trevor Wehrer were out due to sickness while 160 pound Cory Wieseler was out with an injury.

Two of the three individuals who stepped up to the varsity level in those slots managed to place for Wayne as the Blue Devils scored 159 points to out distance the defending state champion Plattsmouth by 24 points.

Seward placed third with 123 while Falls City placed fourth with 103. Blair finished in the fifth spot with 87 while Auburn placed sixth with 74. Elkhorn and Wymore Southern rounded out the field of eight teams with 69 and 38 points respectively.

Eleven of the 13 weight divisions resulted in medals for Wayne as three were crowned champions and three others placed in the runner-up slot. One Blue Devil managed to get third and four others placed fourth.

Eric Cole not only celebrated the Blue Devils sixth consecutive invitational-victory of the season but he enjoyed his first ever tournament championship. Mike DeNaeyer and Jason Ehrhardt maintained their winning ways as well with individual championships.

Randy Johnson supplied the Blue Devils with some vital points as he placed runner-up as did Chris Janke and Matt Bruggeman. Bruggeman pinned his first two opponent's before going up against Jim Bauman of Falls City. The finals match ended in a 1-0 victory for Bauman.

Janke also lost a one point decision in the finals as he fell to Rod Teten of Auburn. Brent Gamble was the lone third place finisher for Wayne while fourth place medals went to Brian Gamble who filled in for the missing Trevor Wehrer, Dwaine Junck who filled in for the injured Cory Wieseler and to Jason Fink and Jesse Brodersen.

"I felt that Dwaine Junck and Brian Gamble filled in nicely for us and were able to medal," Murtaugh said. "The points they scored for us were very important." Murtaugh also said by winning the Plattsmouth Invitational was a real credit to his squad when you consider they weren't at full strength. "The area we need to improve on the most is our intensity," Murtaugh said. "In the last two meets we have not been aggressive enough. We need to correct this before we go to Albion on Saturday."

Wayne will close out its invitational schedule on Saturday and once again the Blue Devils will be tested as they clash with Valentine for the second time this season.

Wayne will dual Pender on Thursday night in Wayne's last home meet of the year. Thursday's dual will also be Parent's Night for the wrestling team.

The following is a composite of how each Wayne wrestler fared at the Plattsmouth Invitational.

WSC track season starts

The Wayne State track team began its indoor season Saturday at the University of South Dakota Open in Vermillion. No team score was kept but several of the Wayne State athletes placed.

The highlight of the meet for the Wayne State men was Lee Harper in the long jump where he captured first place honors with a 23-8 jump. That jump established a new Wayne State record and meets the NCAA Indoor National Qualifying standard as well.

There were three individual third place finishes for the Wildcats with Jeff White's third place pole vault of 12-6, Dennis Bentz's shot put of 44-7 1/2 and Scott Fleming's

Wayne girls win by 11

The Lady Blue Devils of Wayne defeated Pender Tuesday night in Pender by a 50-39 margin. Marlene Uhing's troops jumped out to a 10-4 lead after one quarter of play and led by 15 at the intermission at 25-10.

Pender trimmed the lead to eight points by the third quarters end but Wayne out scored the host team by three in the fourth quarter for the 11 point win. "We did a good job of shooting free throws," Uhing said. "We got a little too conservative in the third quarter with our lead but over all I thought we played good defense."

Wayne connected on 24 of 34 free throw attempts while Pender was 5-19. The Blue Devils out rebounded Pender 36-28 but committed 22 turnovers compared to 20 for Pender.

Jennifer Hammer continued her quality play as of late with 13 points and 11 rebounds. Liz Reeg led the team in scoring with 18 points and she hauled down six boards. Hammer and Reeg were the top two free throw shooters as well with Hammer connecting on 7-10 from the line while Reeg was 6.51 effort in the 55 meter dash. The Wildcat sprint relay team placed fourth with a 45.88 clocking and Mark Johnson placed fifth in the 1000 meter run with a 2:41.88 effort. Jason Sieschleag placed sixth in the 55 meter dash with a time of 6.94 and Todd Rolfe placed sixth in the 300 meter dash in a time of 37.36. The Wildcat 4x400 meter relay team placed sixth as well in a time of 3:45.40.

Jason Rief placed eighth in the 400 meter dash with a 54.88 effort.

In the Women's division the Wildcats were led by Stacy Dieckman who placed first in the shot put with a put of 40-1 1/2. Team-

Allen gals lose to Walthill

ALLEN-The Allen girls were defeated by Walthill, 59-51 last Friday in Allen. Allen head coach Lori Koester watched as her team struggled in just one quarter, the third, which was all Walthill needed to gain the victory.

"They came out in the third quarter and just continually got the ball to their big girl in the middle," Koester said. "Our smaller girls just couldn't stop her and 13 of her 23 game points came in the third quarter."

Allen led 30-25 at half time but were out scored 21-7 in the third quarter. The Eagles also suffered 42 turnovers compared to 35 for Walthill in a sloppily played game.

"There's really no excuse for all the turnovers we had," Koester said. "We play good defense which forces turnovers but then we throw the ball away or we travel."

Cindy Chase led Allen in scoring with 16 points while Denise Boyle poured in 15. Heather Sachau and Robin Schroeder each added seven and Christy Philbrick netted six. Boyle led the team in rebounding with 10 caroms. Allen was out rebounded 30-27. The Eagles were 13-22 from the foul line while Walthill connected on 11-21.

Wakefield girls down Wynot

WAKEFIELD-Gregg Cruickshank's Lady Trojans of Wakefield improved to 9-6 on the season last Friday night with a 59-48 victory over Wynot in Wynot. "We played well offensively," Cruickshank said. "We had hoped to get their big girl in foul trouble so that we could dominate the inside and that's what happened."

Lisa Blecke poured in a career high 34 points to lead the Trojans while Lisa Anderson scored 12. Sarah Salmon followed with five and the foursome of Kristen Miller, Wendy Kratke, Heidi Muller and Cathy Otte each netted two points.

Wakefield led 14-10 after one quarter and by halftime they led by nine at 29-20. Wakefield was 17-30 from the free throw line while Wynot was 5-13. Wakefield out rebounded the host team 32-30 as Salmon and Blecke led the way with eight and seven respectively.

Lisa Anderson and Kristen Miller each dished out four assists in the game and Anderson led the team in steals with four. Wakefield will host Laurel in Thursday night action.

Wayne girls defeated in O'Neill by 10

The Wayne girls basketball team was defeated by O'Neill, 54-44 Saturday in O'Neill. Marlene Uhing's team fell to 5-8 with the loss. Wayne trailed 11-9 after the first quarter but were out scored 16-6 in the second quarter which gave them a 12 point deficit at the intermission at 27-15.

The Blue Devils out scored O'Neill 29-27 in the second half but could not over come the 12 point advantage. "We had a lack luster second quarter," Uhing said. "I think we missed five free throws and I believe our girls let the whistles get to them."

Uhing is referring to the fact that when the Blue Devils were whistled for a foul they got timid and didn't play aggressive. They more or less played cautiously. "We had been complacent in practice the last couple days," Uhing said. "Usually when you get complacent the team you are about to play beats you."

One Wayne player however, played a terrific ball game for the Blue Devils as Jennifer Hammer poured in 18 points and hauled down 15 rebounds. "Jennifer really responded after our team discussion about complacency in practice the other day," Uhing said. "Amy Wriedt also came off the bench and played a good defensive game for us."

Wayne was miserable from the free throw line connecting on just 3-12 while O'Neill was 13-20. The Blue Devils did out rebound the host team 31-26 but committed 23 turnovers compared to 15 for O'Neill.

Following Hammer in the scoring column was Liz Reeg with 10 while Susie Ensz netted eight. Erin Pick scored six points and Danielle Nelson rounded out the scoring with two. Pick was also a force on the boards with nine caroms to her credit.

The Wayne reserves improved to 8-2 on the year following a 40-37 victory as Tami Schlus led the way with 16 points. Angie Thompson chipped in with nine.

WSC women lose to rival Kearney

The Wayne State Wildcat women's basketball team dropped a 72-62 decision to rival Kearney State Saturday night in Rice Auditorium which left the Wildcats with 9-9 record on the season while the Lopers improved to 12-5.

The Wildcats maintained a 19-

17 lead with 9:07 remaining in the first half but that was the last time they would enjoy the lead as the Lopers went on a 24-12 scoring run which left the Wildcats with a 10 point deficit at the intermission at 41-31.

Kearney State came out in the second half and scored seven straight points to take a 17 point lead with still 17 minutes remaining in the game. The Wildcats began to mount a come back but the closest they could come was seven points at 67-60 with 2:46 remaining.

Wayne State struggled from the field hitting just 26 percent for the game on 23 of 88. Kearney State meanwhile was 28-68 for the game which was 41 percent. The Cats were 13-24 from the charity stripe while the visiting Lopers were 16-23 so WSC was out shot from both the field and the free throw line despite hosting the game.

Wayne State had just two players in double figures in the contest as Lisa Chamberlin and Jodi Otjen scored 11 and 10 respectively. Lisa Schwab finished with eight and Mary Schnitzler was held to seven points for the second straight game. Fort Hays State held the prolific scorer from Battle Creek to seven points as well on Friday.

Cheri VanAuker and Keri VanVeldhuizen each added six points while Cyndi Savage, Dana Olmsted and Linda Heller all added four apiece. Kairi Backer rounded out the attack with two.

Former Norfolk Catholic standout Amy Determan led the Lopers in scoring with 17 points. Wayne State did win the rebounding battle, 59-58 as Cheri VanAuker was a dominant force hauling down 19 rebounds for Wayne State—13 of which were offensive boards. Keri VanVeldhuizen hauled down eight rebounds and Cyndi Savage managed seven boards. Chamberlin and Otjen each hauled down six rebounds. Schnitzler did lead the team in assists with five and she had four steals as did Keri VanVeldhuizen to lead the Cats in that category.

Wayne State had 19 turnovers in the game but forced the Lopers into 24. Otjen and Chamberlin led WSC in blocked shots with four and three respectively. The Wildcats will now travel to Colorado for games on Friday and Saturday against Western State and Mesa State.

Five Wildcats claim first place honors

Winside dominates Oakland Invitational

The Winside Wildcat wrestling team has picked up the pace during the last three weeks and with Saturday's championship of the Oakland-Craig Invitational it marked the third consecutive week that Paul Sok's Wildcats scored over 200 points.

This was also the first time that a Winside wrestling team, under the direction of Sok, has won the Oakland-Craig Invitational and the win was especially sweet for the Winside mentor because that is where he grew up.

"I was really pleased with the way our kids wrestled," Sok said. "To score over 200 points you have to wrestle well and we've done it three weeks in a row."

Eight Winside wrestlers reached the finals and five were crowned champions. All 12 of Winside's wrestlers medaled on the day which was another highlight for the Wildcats.

Champions on the day included Chad Carlson at 119 who has yet to lose a match this year. Carlson decided Weeping Water's Mike Sorensen, 9-8 in the finals in a match Sok noted wasn't as close as the final score. "Chad gave up some points in the last 30 seconds," Sok said. "He was in control and had a seven point lead at one time."

Shane Frahm was crowned champion at 145 and was one of four Winside champs who pinned their way through the tournament. Frahm stuck Rich McKillip of Oakland-Craig in the finals.

Jeff Gallop at 152 stuck Bryce Chapp of Tekamah-Herman's reserves in the finals which kept Gallop's string in tact of consecutive pins which started at the Winside Invitational on Jan. 5.

Jason Krueger at 189 pinned his way through the meet with Bryan Choutka of Battle Creek being the final victim in just 2:21 while heavyweight Brian Thompson needed just 36 seconds of the finals to pin Battle Creek's Troy Jones.

Marc Janssen at 112, Doug Heinemann at 130, and Kerry Jaeger at 160 all earned runner-up finishes on the day while Winside's lone third place finisher was Jason Bargstadt who pinned Brian Coufal of Howells/Dodge at 171 pounds.

Fourth place finishers for Winside included Jeff Carlson at 125, Jason Topp at 135 and Jason Magwire at 140.

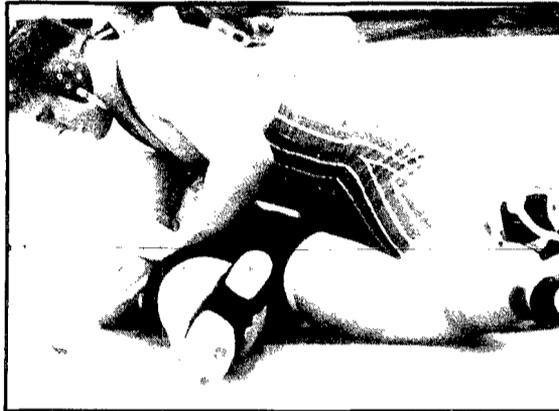

"We are still making some silly, mental mistakes on the mat," Sok said. "They are mistakes that we must correct before we get into the district tournament at Newman Grove."

Winside will travel to the Greeley Invitational this Saturday and Sok feels this tournament will be important to the Wildcats because they will see some district foes they haven't seen this year yet.

As mentioned earlier the Wildcats will be taking part in districts at Newman Grove this year. The district meet will begin on Friday, Feb. 8 at 3 p.m. with action continuing at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday the ninth.

CHAD CARLSON was well in control of this match and improved to 21-0 on the year with his championship.

Slow start hurts Winside

WINSIDE-The Winside boys basketball team got off to a slow start last Friday against Wausa and they could not over come the deficit, thus falling 84-62. Randy Geier's troops trailed 27-19 after the first period and were again out scored by eight points in the second quarter to trail 44-28 at the half.

"Wausa shot very well from the field," Geier said. "They were 32-52 from the floor including three 3-pointers. We just had a bad second quarter which really hurt us. We had just six points for the first 7:58 of the quarter then Tad Behmer hit a shot from near half court with two seconds left in the half which was one third of our quarter points."

The Wildcats did manage to cut the lead to 10 points mid way through the third quarter but the senior leadership of John Baue and Jody Jensen who scored 27 and 21 respectively, proved to be too much.

At one point in the season Geier's troops were among the conference leaders in team free throw percentage but Winside's percentage declined tremendously following a 6 of 21 performance at home Friday. The visiting Vikings hit 17 of 28 from the charity stripe.

Winside was led in scoring by Mark Bruggner who scored 18 points while Tad Behmer popped in 13 and Matt Brogren netted 10. Cory Miller and John Hancock followed with eight and seven points respectively while Cory Jensen netted five. Jason Paulsen rounded out the attack with a free throw.

Winside will host Hartington on Thursday night in a girl/boy double header.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Newly elected and re-elected Wakefield School Board members took the oath of office on Jan. 14. The board also elected officers for the coming year.

Nancy Schulz and James Clark, along with incumbent board member James Stout, took the oath of office. Retiring from the board are Larry Clay, who served four four-year terms and Diana Greve, who served on the board for six years.

Mike Salmon was elected board secretary, replacing Larry Clay. Ron Wenstrand was re-elected president of the board and James Stout is vice-president.

In his report to the board, Superintendent Derwin Harman stated the board will receive $1,349 in state funds as a result of a K-12 drug prevention program presented at the school. He told the board that tentative plans are to use the funds to implement a program called "We Care" which deals with the manner in which all staff members relate to each other and to the students.

Hartman also reported that 89 out of possible 201 parent questionnaires dealing with the school's learning environment had been returned and will be tabulated. In the meantime, Hartman requested that all board members read through the returned questionnaires to gain a better insight into how parents feel about the school. Once the questionnaires are tabulated the information will be shared with the school district patron, Hartman said.

The immediate and long term goals of the school will be researched and studied by all staff members and the findings will be evaluated by the administration and board of education, according to Hartman, as a path for the school's future is designed.

The board accepted the bid of A.T.C. Environmental Inc. to do the three-year asbestos inspection. The company previously did the initial inspection and management plan.

Scout Raue was approved as an unpaid assistant coach for boys basketball for the remainder of the season. The board also approved the sue of the large gym by the Covenant Young Adults for Saturday, Feb. 3.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

HOMES FOR SENIORS: Growing older does not necessarily mean growing significantly more helpless or more dependent. Indeed, most older folks remain mentally alert, and except for some of the changes that come with age, they basically do very well in getting around and in being able to care for themselves. The problem, however, is that most government funds earmarked for senior housing are put into facilities catering to physically and/or mentally challenged elders. While this is important, it's also important to meet the needs of those older folks who need safe, affordable housing, but not necessarily housing that also provides on-site nursing care. In Scandinavia and other European countries, housing is available for seniors who are not primarily dependent on care-giving services. The apartments have safety factors to reduce risk of injury: tubs with strong rails for support; electric ranges with deeper cooking wells to prevent a sleeve from being accidentally set ablaze; carpeting to minimize injury from falls; toilets with side bars for support, etc. While there are no medical or nursing personnel in residence, there is quick access to emergency services.

MAIL CALL: Thanks to Ms. P.J.G. of Lakehurst, N.J., for her letter. Like many retirees, she and her husband sold a home and moved to a retirement area offering good living at lower costs. In a few years, maintenance rose, taxes doubled, local problems led to further tax increases. The "straw that broke the camel's back," she says, was when the governor taxed necessities like paper, and Washington put a five-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax on top of a hiked state gas tax. She ends with a note on our skewed priorities, citing a congressman's bill to spend half a million of our TAX dollars to landmark Lawrence Welk's boyhood home!

END NOTE: To all who have expressed anger at politicians who raise taxes and threaten to cut Medicare and other benefits, by all means, vote the rascals out. But don't be misled by a false issue to limit terms in office. Republicans raised it this year because they're the minority party; if it were reversed, the Democrats would want it. Besides, in a democracy, we should be able to vote our choices regardless of how many terms they may have served in office. Ironically, Republicans pushed for the two-term presidential limit because Democrats held the White House from 1932-1952 (FDR and Truman). In 1988, Ronald Reagan supporters lamented the limit saying otherwise he'd have run again and won. Moral of the story: Limit someone else's choice today, and you set the stage to limit yours tomorrow.

Variety of activities keeps Carroll kids busy

By Joni Tietz
Carroll Correspondent

Kindergarten through fourth grade students at Carroll Elementary School have kept busy since the beginning of the 1991 year with a variety of activities, contests and programs.

First and second graders recently sponsored a New Year Baby Contest.

The contest got underway on Jan. 7 and all students of the school (kindergarten through fourth grade) were asked to bring a baby picture.

The pictures were displayed on a bulletin board and on Jan. 11 each child had the opportunity to identify as many baby faces as possible.

Youngsters with the most correct answers from each class were awarded a special baby toy gift.

Winners from each grade were Kris Roberts, kindergarten; Andrea Simpson, first grade; Lyndi Tietz, second grade; Erin Simpson, third grade; and April Lage, fourth grade.

THIRD AND fourth graders of Carroll Elementary School have been busy corresponding with penpals from Georgia and Illinois.

Each grade assembled a book about Carroll and told about the community through the alphabet. Colorings and illustrations for the book were done in groups of two.

Each page of the book features a letter of the alphabet and a picture representing Carroll, including the history, weather and current businesses.

In addition, the students put together a rhyming verse to correspond with each picture.

THE STUDENTS described Carroll, using each letter of the alphabet, as follows:

A is for animals that are raised on the farm, B is for big alfalfa bales that are stored in the barn;

C is for Carroll, the place where we live, D is for dairy cows that have milk to give;

E is for elevators that store farmers' grain, F is for farmers who always want rain;

G is for geese that fly up above, H is for houses that have lots of love;

I is for Indians who once roamed the state, J is for July Fourth for which we can't wait;

K is for kids — there are 47 in all, L is for lambs that are sold in the fall;

M is for machinery that farms the land, N is for Northeastern Nebraska where the neighbors are grand;

O is for oats that people and animals eat, P is for people who plant corn and wheat;

Q is for quiet town — a nice place to be, R is for rural area, animals and farms to see;

S is for snow that always falls down, T is for two hundred fifty people who live in our town;

U is for Midwestern United States — there you'll find us all, V is for volunteer firemen we'll give them a call;

W is for Wayne County the place where we live; X is for exciting things that our community can give;

Y is for yellow school bus the rural children ride in for free; Z is for zip code — ours is 68723.

CARROLL students also observed their annual Hat Day on Jan. 18 with winners judged in the categories of fanciest, most colorful, professional, tallest, most athletic, patriotic and most unusual.

Judges were Principal David Lutt and teachers Nicki Tiedtke, Patricia Jenkins and Sharon Olson.

Kindergarten students also performed a "waddle" show for fourth graders and paraded in penguin costumes they had made.

The performance topped off a series of studies on penguins.

WILL DAVIS SAV-MOR PHARMACY

Vitamin B-6 and PMS

Using vitamin B-6 (pyridoxine) in PMS (premenstrual syndrome) is controversial. Some researchers believe the vitamin may help relieve depression. In one study involving 13 women, four experienced a slight improvement in depression and one improved dramatically. Similar studies have shown, however, that a placebo produced the same results in other women having PMS. All PMS may not be due to the same cause. One theory suggests that prolactin levels are high in some PMS sufferers. It is also theorized that large doses of B-6 may suppress prolactin production - hence the possible relationship between PMS and B-6. The recommended daily allowance of B-6 is 2 to 2.5 mg. Doses used in PMS studies often have been higher.

By Pat Meierhenry

In one week, I have learned more about war than I ever wanted to know. Do Ted Koppel and Dan Rather ever sleep? As Tammy at the bank put it, "You hate to turn on the radio in the morning because you know you are going to hear what happened while you were sleeping safely in your bed." I've never watched so much TV.

Initially, I pictured one thousand Tom Cruises flying north from Saudi. Today, I'm worrying about those down behind enemy lines, even if the percentage is small. Too many memories of the Hanoi Hilton, I guess.

That's the other thing that intrigues me: the number of people I work with who never remember America at war. Certainly, satellite television has changed media coverage of war.

I've been reflecting again on life in a small town. I stopped at the Winside Stop Inn for coffee one afternoon, and found a note on the door that said, "Help yourself. Be right back." so I did. The coffee is on the counter at the Stop Inn.

A friend from Lincoln was invited to a wedding at Bow Valley. He reserved a room at the Hartington Motel. When he arrived on Saturday eve, a note and key were on the desk. "Went to Mass. You are in #6." On Sunday morning, he left a check and the key on the same desk; never seeing the proprietors.

Last Monday afternoon, I went into the vet's office and found no one there. Turns out the assistant was walking a dog. I went on down the street, past the locker, where I found a retired teacher friend, waiting to buy horseradish. Here, too, was an open door and no one there.

We were chuckling together about small towns, and she shared a story about stopping at a restaurant in a wide spot in the road in Kansas.

It was 2:30, and the place closed at 3:00. So the owner gave them the two remaining pieces of pie and their coffee, because she'd just be throwing it out anyway.

They noticed a table full of card players and asked what she was going to do with them. "Oh", she answered, "leave them there. Last one out turns out the light and locks the door!"

The GOLDEN YEARS

Older men and women are turning up at colleges in increasing numbers to take advantage of programs that especially fit their needs. One example is New York's Empire State College, which does not have a typical campus or scheduled classes. The college operates in small centers throughout the state and serves adults of all ages who want to work toward a degree at their own pace. Each student meets with a mentor, usually weekly, to review studies completed at home and to take up the next assignment. Many of the older students had interrupted their college studies 20, 30 or more years ago, and now want to complete requirements for a degree. For those who have developed skills in the work force, the military, or elsewhere, there is another plus: Empire State grants college credits for "life experience."

Half of all American women over age 65 are widows, according to the National Institute on Aging (NIA). One reason for this high rate, the NIA says, has been the pattern of women marrying men older than themselves. Another is the difference in male and female longevity. Life expectancy of those born in the same year is about seven years longer for women than for men.

Remember When? January 24, 1924 - The death of Vladimir Lenin, leader of the Bolshevik revolution, found Josef Stalin ready as the strongest contender to rule the Soviet Union.
