Farm Bureau celebrating 30 years

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

In its 30 years, the Wayne County Farm Bureau has established a record it can be proud of, according to three Farm Bureau members.

The Wayne County Farm Bureau, founded in March of 1961, will celebrate its 30 year existence March 16 during its annual banquet. The dinner will be held at Holy Family Hall at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne.

The organization found its roots early in the 1940s when long-time resident Wayne Gilliland first moved to his farm about a mile southwest of Wayne. Gilliland found the Farm Bureau to be beneficial to farmers prior to moving to the area in 1940 and wanted to see a county Farm Bureau established here.

It wasn't until the late 1950s, however, that his idea started to catch momentum. That was when Leland Herman and a group of ag producers saw the need for the Farm Bureau program.

"Agriculture was having problems pretty much like it does today," Herman says. "A friend of mine started working for the state and we felt there were a lot of problems we could solve on the local level better than the politicians could in Washington."

FOLLOWING THE inception of the Wayne County Farm Bureau, the local organization has established itself as a leader in the state.

For the past 25 years, the Wayne County Farm Bureau has consistently met its membership quota. According to President Don Liedman, those 25 years are a state record.

Nebraska Farm Bureau was founded in 1917 by farmers and ranchers who were concerned about the direct impact that government regulations were having on their lives and their operations. At their first meeting, two specific

Sheriff's probe results in charges

WAYNE - Following more than a three month investigation by the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, at least nine Winside youth have had charges brought against them in the Wayne County Court.

Charges were filed against Aaron Nau, Marcus Janssen, Jeffrey Carlson and Brian Thompson on Feb. 22. Additional charges were filed Feb. 25 against Kerry Jaeger, Jason Krueger, Tad Behmer, Chad Carlson and Brett Serven.

The charges range from theft by unlawful taking, a class II misdemeanor, to criminal mischief, a class III misdemeanor, and criminal trespass, a class I misdemeanor. The charges against individuals vary according to the alleged participation of the person involved.

ACCORDING TO court documents, the charges stem from an Oct. 31, 1990 incident in which the youth, who range in age from 14 to 17, allegedly entered the residence of JoAnn Holmstedt, Winside, and removed a number of items from her home.

Court records list the items removed as: a picture, a clock, a microwave oven, an Indian ceremonial peace pipe, four speakers, a television, an amplifier, cassette tapes and a car stereo.

Wayne County Attorney Bob Ensz said a large part of what was allegedly removed from the Holmstedt residence has been recovered. Ensz said some of the items were found discarded while others were turned in.

Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen said no estimate of damage to the property has been determined, but of the items allegedly taken, the dollar value is estimated at $1,000.

"Some of the individuals turned in personal property which was allegedly stolen, but I can't elaborate on names," Ensz said.

BRENT PFEIFFER AND JEANNE BROWN, two Wayne State students, record their radio program "The Ultimate Rock" Tuesday at KTCH. The program can be heard Wednesday's from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.

'The Ultimate Rock'

Program features Christian music

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Through perseverance and teamwork, Jeanne Brown and Brent Pfeiffer strive to make their radio show the best it can be.

"The Ultimate Rock", a program heard on KTCH radio Wednesdays from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m., represents one of the only Christian rock programs heard in the area. Just having the program on the air is something in which the two Wayne State College students take pride.

Getting their program on the air, however, has been a task.

When the two students met a year ago, Jeanne was a senior at Wayne High School. After meeting each other, they performed amateur Christian music through their affiliation at Grace Lutheran Church and this fall the strength of their friendship grew into an interest to broadcast Christian music.

"A number of people expressed interest in it following the David Meece concert in November," Jeanne says. "People didn't know what Christian music was so we wanted to expand it so everyone could hear it for themselves."

THE IDEA FOR the radio program was drummed up between Jeanne and her mom, Jan, following the Meece concert. Jeanne says that many don't know that Christian music can be rock and roll. "We have rock stations, country stations, folk stations and classical stations but no Christian stations," she says.

Although fitting into a time slot on KTCH, the duo admit that they're uncertain what their listenership is. They said they think that's in part to people's lack of knowledge about Christian rock.

"It's basically the same style you hear on KG95 but it's emphasis is on Christian life rather than some of the topics you might hear on regular rock stations," Brent says. "I've had quite a few students comment to me at school about it and they've liked it but the message is hard to get out to the public."

Four towns to get funds from NPPD

AREA - Four area towns are among 201 Nebraska communities which will receive a total of $6.8 million from the Nebraska Public Power District as a result of a leasing agreement between their electrical distribution systems and NPPD.

Area towns included to receive this benefit are: Hoskins, $8,424.91; Allen, $10,276.36; Concord, $4,233.92; and Dixon, $3,254.56.

According to NPPD officials, the money being returned to towns represents one half of the annual payments made by Nebraska Public Power under the terms of the agreements. The payments are for the last half of 1990 and the money can be used in any way the communities desire, according to Wayne E. Boyd of South Sioux City, a member of the NPPD board of directors.

WHILE NPPD operates the electric system and makes all additions and improvements to the property to maintain efficient service, Nebraska Public Power pays the participating communities 12 percent of the adjusted gross revenues realized within the corporate limits.

The money turned over to the communities by NPPD at this time does not include the annual 5 percent in-lieu-of-tax payments required by law.

In addition to the money realized, the agreements between NPPD and the communities provide for a one-third discount on the electricity consumed by governmental agencies within the corporate limits.

Area high school girls invited to symposium

The Wayne Chapter of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) and Wayne State College (WSC) will sponsor a one-day symposium for area high schools girls, entitled "Choices for a Brighter Future."

The symposium is scheduled Saturday, March 23 at Wayne State College and will focus on the strategies needed to mix a family with a successful career.

Julie Mash, one of the organizers of the event, said the message being presented is "Living happily ever after doesn't just happen. You help to make it happen by your choices."

Most women of today will hold jobs for 26 to 45 years. More than half of all women with children under the age of one year are in the workforce. Marriage stands a 50-50 chance of ending in divorce and there is about the same chance of women being the sole support of the family at some point in their lives.

Mash said these are some of the startling statistics which will be discussed at the "Choices" symposium.

MASH SAID teens are called upon to make some major life decisions — whether or not to stay in school, what career to go after, when and who to marry, whether or not to become pregnant.

"Some of these decisions are reversible, others are not," said Mash, adding that before a young woman begins to make those choices she needs to consider what she wants for her life in terms of both career and family.

"She needs to know what different jobs pay and what it costs to support a family. She needs to be able to see herself as having control and direction over her life."

Mash added that a teenage girl's choices are wide open if she is willing to work to make her dreams come true.

WOMEN FROM non-traditional occupations will be present on March 23 in the Wayne State Student Center to provide high school girls with insight on how to attain a "brighter future."

Professions to be represented include administration, science, medicine, financial, professional, and media/public relations.

Keynote speaker will be Beverly Wharton, senior vice president of Support Services for Iowa Public Service Company and one of the highest ranking female executives in Sioux City.

MASH SAID mothers also are invited to attend and will have the opportunity to participate in a special session, entitled "Mothers & Daughters: The Dialog."

In addition, individuals will be present to discuss such topics as how to choose a college, financial aid, and the transition to college life.

REGISTRATION forms for the "Choices" symposium have been distributed to area high schools.

Girls may also register by calling Wayne State College, Social Sciences Division (800/228-9972).

The only cost is $5 for materials and lunch for both mother and daughter.

Relief expressed over end of war

Activities keep lawmakers busy

LINCOLN - The capitol has been a flurry of activity this past week with the arrival of the girls state basketball tournament and the continuation of public hearings and legislative debate.

GULF WAR
There was a heavy sigh of relief felt in the state capitol this week with the announcement of a cease fire in the Gulf War. We should all be proud of the manner in which our troops displayed themselves while serving in the Persian Gulf.

It will only be a matter of time before our men and women will be returning home. As a Vietnam veteran, I know the importance of welcoming each one back with open arms. The courage, heroics and bravery of our troops will be long remembered by us all.

CIVIL LIABILITY LEGISLATION

On Friday, March 1, Governor Nelson signed into law LB 88, The Tort Reform Act. This legislation is a product of four years of work a negotiations between all parties.

As I have indicated in previous columns, the intention of this legislation is to make liability awards more fair for both the injured and the defendants who have to pay the judgments. Another advantage of the bill will support out of court settlements which would be less costly for all and help relieve court backlogs.

EXPRESSWAY FEASIBILITY STUDY

With the planned completion of expressways in Minnesota and Iowa, I have introduced LB 317 which will require a feasibility study of the construction of an expressway between Sioux City and Norfolk. This study includes Sioux City since it is extremely important to work cooperatively with highway developments in Iowa. The ultimate objective will be a smooth flowing transportation system that goes diagonally across the mid-west.

The construction of this expressway would be logical due to the fact that the Department of Roads currently has in its plans to widen U.S. Highway 81 from Norfolk to Interstate 80 into a four-lane highway.

If this link is completed, all of Northeast Nebraska, will be provided an improved transportation system that supports our communities mobility. In addition to the convenience to motorists, this expressway would provide economic benefits to all Nebraskans since it would be the best connecting route between Minneapolis and Denver.

Being located on this route would be a significant recruitment tool to use along with all of the other known attributes to enhance industrial development, tourism, and retail shopping needs of northeast Nebraska.

Mark 'n' the spot

By Mark Crist

Over the past two weeks we have received two letters to the editor concerning my column in the Feb. 21 edition of The Wayne Herald; one a duplicate of an editorial in The Wayne Stater, the college undergraduate newspaper. That editorial-turned-letter appears in today's Wayne Herald at the request of its author.

These letters provide a good starting point for my column series on newspapers in education during March.

LETTERS TO THE editor are the main course of any opinion page. They commonly come as a delight to the editorial staff, regardless of whether they're supportive or not. In any case, the letters space allows people to express their viewpoints; to use a timeless phrase, they're one of the things that makes this country great.

Getting back to the point, both letters criticized me for wanting to censor what others write and neither could be further from the truth. Just as our forefathers said "that I may not agree with what you say, I will defend to my death your right to say it," the same stands true for me. Not once in my Feb. 21 column did I say one word supporting censorship, although some critics may read that into what was printed.

Censorship on any level, whether it be a directive of an official within a government's or businesses infrastructure or from a neighbor down the street, violates the freedoms of humankind. I support all opinions, whether or not I agree with them, because of their nature; unless they're intended to irreparably harm an individual.

MY OPPOSITION to opinionated articles is when the material is so poorly written that it lacks literary value, especially when the author of such material has shown stronger skills in the past than those displayed in the present. Unfortunately, as human beings, mistakes in newsprint are unavoidable.

Therefore, when I, for instance, am criticized for misspelling a word, or utilizing poor sentence structure, I don't get bent out of shape, although it bothers me. On the same front, I like to know who is critiquing me for my effort. Anonymous complaints are the least constructive because they indicate that an individual is afraid to stand behind his or her viewpoint.

Commonly, I will find myself writing a piece which falls short of the goals I would like to see it meet, whether it be a column, an editorial or a news item. Like most writers, this is not only the reason for editing, but it is also the reason for erasing or rewriting entire sentences for clarity.

There are occasions, however, when difficulties arise with story material where it's difficult to make substantial changes. In most forms of newspaper writing, writers will take an objective, accurate, and occasionally ombudsman approach, to articles. Most of the time, the ombudsman approach is expressed on the opinion page, just like I'm doing here.

TASTE IS another area given strong consideration when writing any article — whether opinionated or newsy in nature. There are occasions when stories will be turned down (although in my year in Wayne this hasn't happened), because the nature of the topic lacks taste.

Writers of columns or editorials should use discretion because like it or not, an opinion expressed by any writer can influence the community to which they serve. Taking the unpopular side must be done with tact. If a writer fails to write with precision, he or she will suffer the consequences.

This is where the difference between community, weekly newspapers and dailies lies. Sparring between myself and The Wayne Stater or other journalists is healthy because it makes us look at what we do as peers and students of the profession.

IF THERE is any one problem with the journalistic line of work, it is that every journalist has his or her own code of ethics. Perhaps, had there been a standard code of ethics, neither I nor other journalists would have clashed viewpoints. On the other hand, not having a strict code encourages creative judgement among those in the profession.

In conclusion, I applaud individuals who write signed letters to the editor. They're good for the author, because they let them get something off their chest.

Letters are good for professional development and story generation and regardless of the varying opinions on any given topic, they're good for everyone who reads the newspaper.

Session one-third over

Hefner addresses issues

by Senator Elroy M. Hefner

We have now completed one-third of this Legislative session. At present we are meeting in session in the mornings and having public hearings on bills in the afternoons. It is expected that all hearings will be completed by the third week in March after which we will go into all-day sessions.

The Legislature gave first-round approval by a vote of 28-0 to LB 313 which provides American flags for funeral services of National Guard members killed while on active duty. At present guard members are not covered under laws that require the presentation of flags. This will give them the same rights to flags as reservists and regular military personnel. The state adjutant general would provide the flags.

Another portion of the bill will allow state and local governments to fly the officially recognized prisoner of war-missing in action flags if they wish. These are better known as POW-MIA flags.

A hearing was held this week on LB 139, a bill that proposes that we change our state's official slogan from "Nebraska, Where the West Begins" to "Nebraska, The Sandhills State."

The current slogan was adopted in 1967 as part of our state's Centennial celebration. However, it was pointed out that the City of St. Louis has the same slogan.

The introducers of the bill pointed out that the Sandhills, which encompass nearly 20,000 square miles in Nebraska and South Dakota, is the largest sand dune area in the Western Hemisphere. It is dotted with somewhere between 1,500 and 2,000 lakes and has such a varied ecology that it supports an abundance of wildlife. Also mentioned was the lifestyle found in much of the Sandhills - a lifestyle that, despite modernization, still retains much of the flavor of the frontier. Supporters of the bill feel the slogan would help unite urban and rural Nebraska and enhance the region's economic development. I would rather have the official slogan an the "Cornhusker State".

The 317-mile Chicago & Northwestern Railroad line from Norfolk to Chadron will be abandoned soon, according to an official for the railroad, because the line is no longer profitable. The potential total negative economic impact on communities served by the line is estimated conservatively at $112 million. This estimate includes the increased maintenance for roads and the decrease in income due to increased transportation costs.

As a result of this pending abandonment several senators introduced LB 783 which proposes that the state buy the line and hire a short line operator. The total cost is estimated at 420 million and the remaining $13 million calls for upgrading the line.

The main controversy surrounding the bill is how to pay for it. The bill calls for the money to come from the Highway Trust Fund. I am against that proposal because I believe Highway Trust Fund money should be used only to build new or repair highways, county roads, streets and bridges. The Transportation Committee is currently considering the bill's merits and has taken no action on it.

Letters

Column criticized

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter to the editor is reprinted at the request of its author, who wrote it for The Wayne Stater. It has been edited due to its length.

Last week, The Wayne Herald ran an editorial by Mark Crist which discussed the role of the small community newspaper — specifically, the Ainsworth Star-Journal and an editorial written by former Stater editor Mike Palacek. Palacek's editorial outlined his opposition to the Persian Gulf war.

In this article, Mr. Crist mentioned that "Palacek has received a number of threats and the newspaper has received numerous letters to the editor." He is also being restricted in what he can write in any future columns.

Crist's response was as follows:

"While the treats lack justification, Palacek should have known better than to publish a column which lacks the standards of a community newspaper. From professional, responsible and ethical standards, it may be a suitable thing (sic) for Geraldo Rivera or the National Enquirer to do, but it misses the mark of meeting the criteria-community journalists need to establish. In fact, the literary value of the column is so poor, most metropolitan dailies would have trashed it."

And later, Crist writes: "In most cases, the place to voice an opinion against the war — or against the soldiers in the gulf — is not in a community newspaper. Palacek apparently forgot that ... it is something that most weekly newspapers should try to avoid."

Local newspapers are the lifeline of the small community. They record every birth, meal, death and everything in between that happens in Myhome, Neb. or Yourtown, Iowa.

Censorship of the minority opinion, whether it happens in Ainsworth or is encouraged in Wayne, is an outrage to the values that my great grandfathers used to build my hometown community. It is an insult to all my grandfather and uncle fought for overseas during the wars of their times.

It is censorship, not Palacek's editorial, that is a "slap in the face to the town, as well as the soldiers serving in the gulf."

Whether I, my community, or Mike Palacek believe in this war or not — we do share a common belief as Americans in the natural right of every man and woman to express their opinion without fear of physical harm or the threat of censorship.

That includes columns and letters to the editor in small town community newspapers.

As a member of the Ainsworth community, Mike Palacek has as much right to express his views as any other citizen.

Mike Palacek sent the Wayne Stater a copy of his editorial. Mr. Crist's summation fails to mention the fact that it is clearly an expression of one individual's opinion. Palacek does not pretend to speak for the community or dictate its opinion.

If U.S. troops are fighting for our freedom, remember that without the Freedom of Speech, we wouldn't even be able to publicly thank them when they get home.

Also remember that next time it might be your opinion that gets the axe.

The first known explorer to reach what is now Nebraska was probably Jose Naranjo. Although he bore a Spanish name and was technically a Spanish citizen from New Mexico, Naranjo was a child of the Americas — the son of a Hopi Indian woman and an African man.

Probably born in the 1690's, Naranjo was a trusted scout and explorer for the Spanish government in Santa Fe. He often served as an interpreter for the Spaniards when dealing with Indian tribes from the Plains, which proves that he must have frequented the Plains and dealt with the people living there in order to learn their tongues.

Usually he explored alone, and then made a report of his findings to the governor of New Mexico, who transmitted copies to the Viceroy of New Spain in Mexico City. Naranjo made at least three exploring trips to the Platte River in Nebraska before 1720. The Viceroy was so impressed that he ordered the governor of New Spain to confer upon Naranjo the title "Captain of War," a very high honor.

In 1720, Captain of War Jose Naranjo was selected as the chief scout for the ill-fated Villasur Expedition. Forty-eight Spaniards and over sixty Pueblo and Apache Indian allies marched toward the Missouri River looking for enemy Frenchmen. They were ambushed by Pawnee and Oto Indians near present-day Columbus, Nebraska on Aug. 1720. Forty-six members of the Villasur Expedition were killed, including Nebraska's first explorer, Jose Naranjo.

Unfortunately for history, none of the reports of Jose Naranjo's explorations in Nebraska have been found by modern researchers. They may yet turn up in Mexico City or more probably among the millions of documents stored in the Archives of the Indies at Seville, Spain.

Cats end year on sour note

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The Wayne State Wildcat men's basketball team ended the season on a sour note Friday night in Rice Auditorium, falling to arch-rival Kearney State, 78-76.

Friday's contest nearly mirrored the game held three weeks earlier between the same schools at Kearney as Wayne State fell, 79-75. In both contests the Wildcats had leads of nine points in the second half and in both instances the Lopers rallied to win late.

Wayne State junior Doug Kuzak drained a long 3-pointer from the corner with just under 12 minutes to play in regulation to give WSC a 64-55 lead but seven minutes later the Lopers had made up the deficit and more as they led by two points, 72-70 with a Brian Kissinger, (So., Fairfield Sandy Creek) bucket.

The game went back and forth in the final five minutes with both teams leading. In fact, the Wildcats led 76-74 following a pair of free throws by Casey Gates who played his final game as a Wildcat.

WSC had two shots in the game's final 10 seconds but three-point attempts by Davy Summers and Todd Dusenberry fell short as the Wildcats went for the win and not for the possible tie which would have sent the game into overtime.

The win by the Lopers was the first in Rice Auditorium since January 30 of 1987 in which the visitors escaped with an 85-83 win. 1987 was also the last time either team had swept the series with the other.

Wildcat freshman Michael Parks, (6-4, Papillion) led WSC in the scoring column with 23 points including 15 in the first half. Gates, (6-6, Sr., Omaha) finished with 16 and Kuzak, (6-3, Jr., Lincoln) finished with 14. Don Smith, (6-7, Fr., Minooka, IL) was also in double figures with 10.

Gerry Sagehorn added six points and Summers scored five.

Todd Dusenberry rounded out the attack with two. Kissinger led the Lopers with 25 while Brian Nielsen, (6-6, So., Omaha) followed with 20. Mike Boss, (6-6, Jr., Aurora) was also in double figures with 12 while Steve Scheidegger scored six. Sam Somerholder and Ken Sander each scored five while Scott Somerholder and Scott Nielsen scored three and two points respectively.

Wayne State shot 42 percent from the field including a 6-13 effort from three-point range. The Wildcats were also 10-14 from the charity stripe for 71 percent. Kearney State was 46 percent from the field including a 5-10 effort from three-point range. The Lopers were 11-20 from the foul line for 55 percent.

Wayne State had just 10 turnovers in the game while the visitors suffered 14 but the Lopers had six blocked shots compared to one for WSC. Brian Nielsen had four blocks.

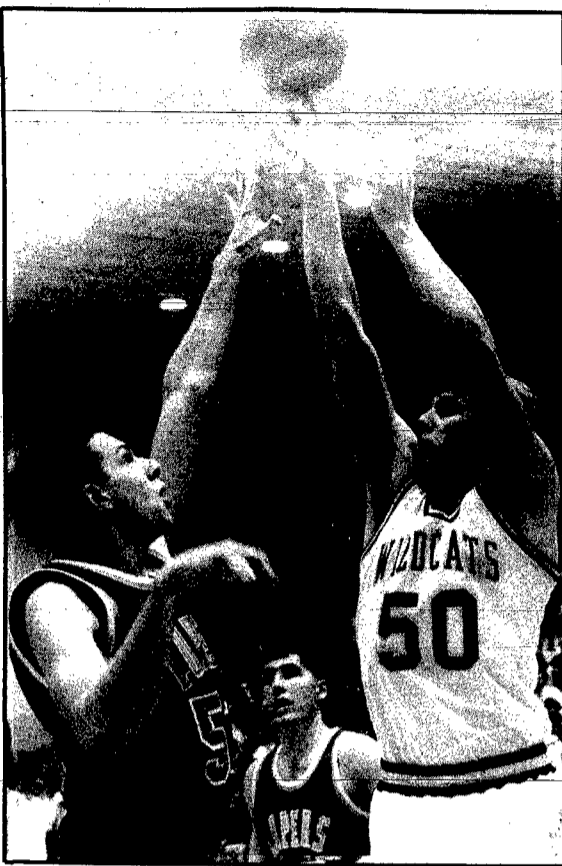

Kearney State narrowly won the battle of the boards, 44-42 despite 13 caroms by the Wildcats' Gates. Kuzak pulled down eight.

Even though both games between the two were nearly mirror images this season the records of both teams was nearly exact opposites as the Wildcats finished at 7-20 while the Lopers, who are currently in the hunt for an NCAA Division II at-large bid, are 21-7.

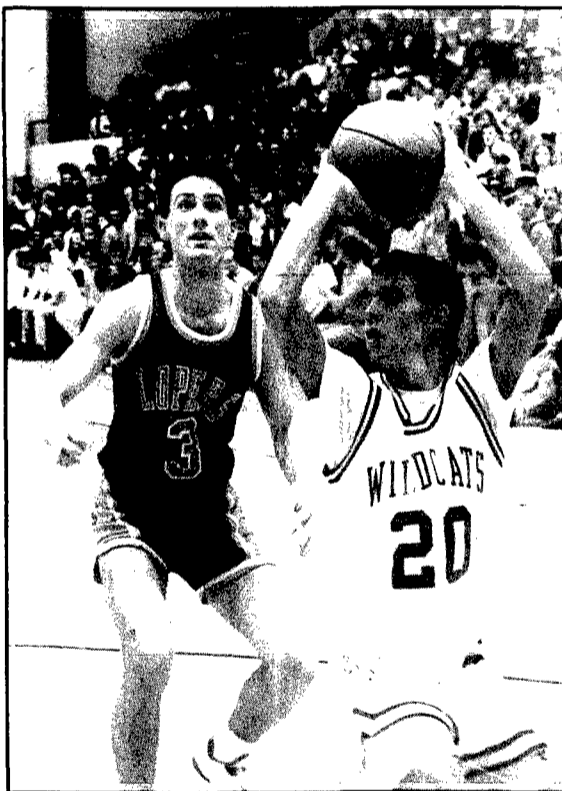

The Wildcats finished the year with seven straight losses and their last win came on Jan. 27 against Colorado Mines.

One positive note for Wayne State was its defensive performance as they held the Lopers 19 points below their season average which was ranked fifth in the nation among all Division II schools at 97.6.

Parks finishes the season as the Wildcats leading scorer with a 13.6 per game average while Gates ended his senior campaign as the leading rebounder for the Cats with 9.2 caroms per game.

The GOLDEN YEARS

It's not unusual for help-wanted ads in Europe to specify age limits for job applicants. There are no laws against age discrimination in employment comparable to what we have in the United States. But the situation is beginning to change in some European countries, mainly because of the declining proportion of young people in their populations. For example, a large supermarket chain in England launched a campaign late in 1988 to recruit older workers. It now employs more than 6,000 people age 55 or over, hires such people for middle management positions, and has raised mandatory retirement age from 65 to 70. Similar recruiting drives have been started by other companies and by government agencies, including Scotland Yard.
Elderly people who keep pets apparently enjoy better health than those who do not, according to a study by psychologists at the University of California. The study of 1,000 older persons found pet owners made fewer doctor visits than those without pets.
Remember When? May 30, 1958 — Two unknown servicemen, one from World War II and the other from the Korean conflict, were enshrined in Arlington National Cemetery next to the unknown soldier of World War I.

Farm

goals were stated: (1) to improve the net farm income; (2) to improve the quality of rural life in Nebraska.

TODAY, THOSE same goals continue, but others have been added as the Farm Bureau has grown to include 88 Nebraska counties, representing 43,000 member families of the 4 million members nationwide. Today, the additional goals are to provide farmers with stronger representation in Washington, D.C. as well as instrumental functions in White House-agriculture relations.

"There's many reasons to join," says Liedman. "I joined because of the legislative help Farm Bureau provides. The organization has been instrumental in influencing government politics. ... We must represent ourselves; alone we can't do anything but as a team, you find you have influence."

Areas the American Farm Bureau has influenced range from animal rights to farm program flexibility and conservation compliance. Additional areas of interest include foreign trade, food safety and the federal debt. At the state level, the Nebraska Farm Bureau strives for pseudorabies eradication, school financing and reorganization, waste reduction, personal property tax and other areas.

"It's given us help with getting in contact with legislators," Herman said. "It gives us a chance to speak at the ground-roots level."

He added that in the process of filing charges, it was difficult to weed out who was involved in the incident. He said he received the report two to three weeks ago and reviewed the report for approximately a week.

ACCORDING TO Janssen, there were between 15 and 20 individuals who were initial suspects in the incident. He added that due to the numbers of individuals suspected, there were a number of interviews conducted, some twice or more. He said the length of the process of filing charges took as long as it did because of the time it takes to conduct interviews.

According to Ensz, the Wayne County Sheriff's Office was contacted Nov. 2 about the incident. He said from that initial contact, it resulted in a 100-plus page report.

For youth brought up on charges of criminal trespassing, the maximum charge is one year in prison and a $1,000 fine; theft could lead to a maximum sentence of 6 months in jail and a $1,000 fine; and the maximum fine for criminal mischief is $500 and 3 months in jail.

Music

Following the program's initial broadcast Dec. 5, KTCH also received some phone calls in support of the show.

THE SHOW presently is being financed out of the money Jeanne earns working as a nurse's aid at Providence Medical Center. Together, she and her mother, have put together J and J Promotions, which not only features the radio show but it will also feature the Trace Balin concert March 16.

"We've thought about hiring sponsors (of the radio program), but so far, we haven't done that," Jeanne says.

Nevertheless, the program will continue for, at least, December. That's how long the show is under contract.

In addition to paying for the expenses of the radio program, "The Ultimate Rock" will be offering promotional incentives to the public. The incentives include free tickets to the Balin concert and free tapes of Christian music performers like Balin, Amy Grant and the group Petra.

"The music we play and promote is the same style you might hear Bruce Springsteen or other top pop artists perform but with a different message," Brent says. "After all, what you pump into your head is what comes out of it."

Legion hosts convention

WAYNE - The Third District American Legion convention will be held March 9 at Wayne, hosted by Post 43.

The event is scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. with a flag raising ceremony at the City Hall followed by registration and coffee hour.

Jeff Swanson, district commander, will conduct the legionnaire's meeting at the Wayne Vets Club. Pat Wiseman, district president, will hold the ladies meeting in the City Auditorium. Lunch will be held in the auditorium at noon.

The legion will hold an election for district officers during the afternoon and there will be reports from district chairman and state officers from both groups.

Department officers who plan to attend include Gene Schmitz, senior vice commander, Duane Bokemper, Department adjutant; Betty Dumler, Department president and Lynn Wild, Department secretary.

WSC among colleges sharing grant

WAYNE - Chadron State College, Wayne State College and Kearney State College have been awarded a $32,525 Dwight D. Eisenhower grant for mathematics and science improvement by the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education.

The directors of the Nebraska Mathematics Curriculum Project are Dr. Monty Fickel, Chadron State College; Dr. Don Neimann, Kearney State College; and Dr. Jim Paige, Wayne State College.

The project consists of a two-week workshop for Nebraska teachers, offered sequentially at western (Scottsbluff and Ogallala), central (Kearney) and eastern (Wayne) sites.

Educational Service Units and school districts will participate in attendee selection and support.

The best of the curriculum materials produced during the workshops will be supplied to the Nebraska Department of Education for distribution to math teachers across the state.

Teaching teams made up of two elementary, one middle and one high school teacher within a school district are preferred, but not required. Applications from such teams, portions of such teams, or individuals are encouraged. Stipends will be available through the grant for seven teaching teams.

The workshop will consist of content sessions focusing on the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics Curriculum and Evaluation Standards. Master Teachers and college faculty will present material and laboratory sessions for participants will be scheduled. Articulation across grade levels as well as varied instructional methods will be emphasized.

According to Dr. Fickel, this project has been several years in the making. "When curriculum standards were issued by the National Council of Teachers of Match (NCTM) in the spring of 1989, it became clear that for teachers to achieve these standards would be a monstrous task," he said. "We (the Nebraska Association of Teachers of Mathematics) divided the standards into three groups, and now focus on one group at each annual conference and in planning workshops.

"With the Title II Eisenhower Program grants available, we decided to design a pilot program involving the cooperation of the State Colleges, Educational Service Units, the Department of Education and the University (Kearney State College will become the University of Nebraska at Kearney on July 1, 1991). This fits with the recommendations of the Governor's Task Force item on science and math and the NCTM three-year plan. Our project and these events came together at just the right time."

Forest service schedules annual Tree Workshop

WAYNE - The Nebraska Forest Service and Nebraska Cooperative Extension are again sponsoring their annual Tree Care Workshop. This year, it will be held at the student center building on Wayne State College campus, Tuesday, March 12, starting at 9 a.m. and ending around 4 p.m.

This workshop will provide basic and advanced, up-to-date information on tree care to professionals such as arborists, groundskeepers, city street and park personnel, golf course managers and others who manage and work with trees.

Landscape trees will be the main focus of the workshops, though many of the topics covered will apply to trees in any situation. Some of the selected agenda items include discussions on tree physiology; plant and maintenance; conifer insects and diseases; pruning and wounds and others.

The registration fee is $15 and includes a tree care manual and break snacks. Lunch will be available at the student center or elsewhere at your expense.

Send a check or money order, payable to the University of Nebraska, to Steve Rasmussen, District/Extension Forester, Northeast Res. and Ext. Center, Concord, Neb. 68728, or call the Northeast Center for more information at 402-584-2261.

Advance registration is requested so an adequate number of tree care manuals can be available.

Northeast to hold fair

AREA - The placement office at Northeast Community College will be holding its Spring Job Fair on Wednesday, March 13, in the gymnasium, located in the activities center.

It will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 2 p.m. Businesses are invited to reserve space for the fair at no charge.

The fair is a service of the college placement office to help students find employment and to help businesses find the employees they need. Students can talk with employers about job openings, fill out job applications, and get employment information from businesses represented at the fair.

For more information about the Job Fair, call Jerry Holmberg, 644-0411.

Station officials to conduct anhydrous ammonia study

AREA - The University of Nebraska is currently involved in a research project dealing with the calibration accuracy of anhydrous ammonia applicators, which is being supervised by Charles Shapiro and Bill Kranz from the Northeast Research Center, and Bobby Grisso from UNL.

The two areas which will be studied are the Wayne and Hamilton counties and surrounding areas.

According to Wayne County Extension Agent Rod Patent, the project's objectives are to compare the applicator's goals to what they are actually applying; identify what factors affect the precision of application equipment and to develop a quick and accurate field calibration procedure for anhydrous ammonia applicators.

"We are currently looking for cooperators to work with this spring and during sidress season," Patent said. "We would appreciate everyone's cooperation in helping us."

The workshop dates are July 8-19 at Scottsbluff and Ogallala, July 22-Aug. 2 at Kearney and Aug. 5-16 at Wayne. Interested applicants should contact Jim Paige at (402) 375-7340, Don Neimann (308) 234-8552 or Monty Fickel (308) 432-6389 for more information.

"It's likely that we will submit a grant to the National Science Foundation that would extend the program for two more years, and offer it on a larger scale," Dr. Fickel said.

Allen arms activist receives citizen award

ALLEN - The Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms has announced that the late Howard S. Kimbell of Allen, has been selected to receive a Citizen of the Year award.

Kimbell died suddenly Monday at his home.

Kimbell has been selected to receive this Citizen of the Year award because of a dedication to the efforts to preserve the right of the people to keep and bear arms as guaranteed by the Second Amendment to the United States Constitution, according to committee officials.

"If it weren't for people like Howard, our Constitutional rights would have been eroded years ago," said Alan Gottlieb, Chairman of the Citizens Committee.

Criteria for selection of the Citizen of the Year Award is based upon the activities of individual members. Such as being active in local, state and national gun rights issues, by writing editors of newspapers, contacting elected officials or appearing for public testimony. It is not necessary that individuals meet all the criteria.

Tree planting allows a 15 year Conservation Reserve contract

CONCORD - Steve Rasmussen, District and Extension Forester with the Nebraska Forest Service, says the new Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) included in the 1990 Farm Bill has some added features and conservation practices designed to encourage farmers to plant trees and shrubs. Rasmussen said that as a rule, the CRP practices that involve tree and shrub plantings for field windbreaks, shelterbelts, living snowfences or wildlife habitat will have a priority over other CRP practices bid during this coming sign-up.

A second bid difference added this year is the opportunity to have a total contract period of 15 years with selected tree/shrub practices rather than the 10 year contract from previous sign-up. Only the areas planted to field windbreaks,

A final major addition to encourage more trees and shrubs on CRP ground allows a farmer who has already established a grass practice (CP1 or CP2) during previous sign-ups to plant trees and shrubs on those fields and extend that area from a 10 year contract to 15 years.

"This means the original annual rental bid will be paid an extra five years for the area of the field where trees and shrubs are added," said Rasmussen. "Establishment cost share is still available."

Rasmussen added that the CRP continues to provide excellent opportunities for tree and shrub plantings in Nebraska. The added incentives of a 15 year contract life for annual rental payments, in some areas 75-100 percent cost share assistance for establishment due to added contributions by NRD's, and the eliminated requirement of needing to be HEL ground, presents a strong desire to get wood plant material incorporated in CRP contracts.

The current CRP sign-up period is from March 4, through March 15, 1991. Interested landowners should contact the ASCS or SCS office in their county for more in depth details and guidance for signing up.

shelterbelts, hardwood tree plantations or wildlife habitat corridors can have this option available. The farmer needs to sign a 15 or 30 year maintenance easement of these practices to discourage the removal of the trees within that 15 or 30 year period.

"This is important because only 500,000 acres will be accepted nationwide and there will be only one national bid pool," said Rasmussen. "In addition, the areas enrolled for the tree/shrub practices do not have to be on highly erodible land (HEL), while most other ground bid into the CRP must first be determined as HEL ground."

There is also no minimum size limit to restrict design criteria. If the proper tree/shrub practices are selected, the ground doesn't have to meet any requirements other than being cropped or in alfalfa or multi-year grass rotation in two of the last five years from 1986 through 1990.

LENRD board announces plans to share costs of deep soil sampling

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District Board of Directors announces that the district will now share the cost of deep soil sampling and analysis for better nitrogen management with farmers throughout the 15 county district.

"Deep soil sampling and analysis is one important part of a total nitrogen management program," says LENRD Assistant Manager, Ken Berney. In order to encourage widespread use of this practice, the lower Elkhorn NRD will cost-share with landowners up to 75 percent of the cost of deep soil sampling, analysis, groundwater nitrate analysis, and fertilizer recommendations.

Landowners will hire a consultant or dealer to take the soil samples. Each sample will represent 20 to 40 acres at a maximum cost-share of $40 ($300 per landowner). A sample will consist of surface cores, subsurface cores and deep cores. The deep cores will be taken to a depth of at least 36 inches.

Each soil sample will undergo both nitrate and basic analysis. The analysis and recommendations will be made by the University of Nebraska soil testing lab.

Water samples may be taken by the landowner for the cost-share program. The maximum cost-share for the water analysis is $6.50. The water samples will be analyzed for nitrate-nitrogen by the Nebraska State Health Lab.

Berney encourages all farmers to take advantage of this new cost-share program. "By taking all sources of available nutrients into account, you may save money by cutting back on fertilizer applications, while protecting our groundwater quality."

To apply for the Lower Elkhorn NRD's Soil Sampling and Analysis Cost-Share Program, contact the NRD, your local Soil Conservation Service office or your local Cooperative Extension Service agent.

By Pat Melerhenry

It's March 1st, and the shooting has stopped. I'm afraid the work has only begun. Burning oil wells, wrecked buildings, and mines and booby traps everywhere. Iraqi prisoners who don't want to go home. Jordanians who still don't know Saddam was beaten, and wouldn't want to believe it if they did know.

Being the eternal optimist, I'm grateful we have another chance. It's the 30th birthday of the Peace Corps. Some believe that it is the Corps that kept the other Arabian countries from joining against us. Whatever, I'm sure it gives a positive impression, and we can use more of those.

It's statehood day for Nebraska. It's the 101st birthday of peanut butter. It is looking a lot like Spring. Geese have been flying north. The first calves arrived yesterday - a pair of twins.

Gals are playing basketball in Lincoln and the guys go next week. Nebraska has played some great ball this year, as have the Creighton Bluejays.

New wrestling champs have been crowned. There were some upsets and some disappointments along the way.

There are cheers of joy and excitement, tears shed after losses, new records, mistakes, adrenaline, butterflies in the stomach, all the highs and lows of a typical season.

And I reflect again how "games prepare us for life". Success and failure, teamwork, disagreements, stress, and competition.

I'm afraid I did sometimes say to my kids, "After all, it's only a game." And I've done my share of complaining and the abuse of athletics. It really is overdone in this country.

Over and over, though, I see the statistics that say that kids involved in athletics are less likely to be involved in mischief, and more likely to stay in school. I believe they acquire poise and self confidence. Performing before noisy crowds has to help achieve this. Kids defined as "coachable" have learned to handle criticism, take direction, and utilize pressure, all life-time skills.

Most of all, when the other guy gets to start, or the ref makes a bad call, or all the passes go to the other player the student-athlete learns a basic thing: "Life isn't fair!" The sooner we realize that, and prepare for it, the better off we will be.

Choir to visit Wayne

WAYNE - The Concordia College choir of Moorhead, Minn., will perform a concert at 8 p.m. Friday, March 8 at Ramsey Theater in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Building on the Wayne State College campus. The concert is part of a two-week tour, which began Feb. 23.

Included among the 70 members in the choir is Eric Runestad, a graduate of Wayne High School. He is the son of Dr. Cornell Runestad of Wayne.

Throughout its 70 year history, the Concordia College choir has had a reputation as one of the nation's best a capella choirs. In April 1990, the choir sang under the Helmuth Rilling, a world-renowned interpreter of Bach who founded the Gachinger Choir of Stuttgart, Germany.

While on tour, the choir has performed in Seattle and Eugene, Oregon; Elk Grove, Santa Clara, Orange and San Diego, Calif.; Scottsdale and Flagstaff Ariz.; St. George, Utah; Englewood, Colo., among other sites. The tour concludes March 10 in Moorhead.

Drains Run Slow?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again! The secret? Clean drains don't run slow.

Slow drains, or periodic clogs, are SIGNALS that a thick layer of GOOK is choking your pipes. Grease, hair, and other waste stick to your pipes, with every use. This gook deposits along the entire length of the pipe. It chokes your pipes gradually, as it gets thicker and thicker.

Conventional drain openers can't fix slow drains. They react chemically on the surface of the gook. To be effective, they must remain in contact with the waste. Even a small tunnel through the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind.

In the past, the only way to remove this build-up was to rooter your pipes. An expensive, temporary measure.

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes... and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean. Its totally unique formula clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. That is what allows it to liquefy even years of build-up. Plumb Clean will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, we stand behind Plumb Clean with a money-back guarantee!

Saves Money. A 1 lb. container of Plumb Clean holds up to 41 drain treatments. Even if drain openers could fix slow drains, it would take over 10 quart bottles to get the same number of treatments. Plumb Clean costs about 35¢ per treatment. We don't know of anything that cleans drains for less.

Safe Too. Conventional drain openers are dangerous chemicals. They can injure eyes on contact. They can release deadly vapors, in some situations. Some may damage your fixtures. Plumb Clean will not burn skin, or eyes. It will not release harmful fumes. When used as directed, it is 100% safe for people, and of course, all plumbing.

So, if your drains are giving you a SIGNAL, act now. Get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today!

Something Fishy

Several products containing fish oil are now being marketed as nutritional supplements. It is thought by some researchers that the omega-3 fatty acids in these products may prevent heart disease. The low heart disease rate in Greenland Eskimos and the Japanese has generated interest in the possible protective effects of their diet, which is made up primarily of fish and related foods. Experts who reviewed studies in this area concluded that "further research is required to demonstrate a clear decrease in cardiovascular mortality from consumption of omega-3 fatty acids..." It is quite possible that fish oil may help protect us from heart disease and related deaths. It is still prudent, however, to consume the low-fat, low-sodium, high-fiber diet that is recommended by most health authorities.
