Lundstrom wins Pulitzer

By Mark Crist

Marjie Lundstrom sat behind her desk at the Sacramento (Calif.) Bee Tuesday anxiously awaiting the buzz of the wire service's urgent news reminder. Just before the alarm sounded to inform her word was on the way, her computer terminal went down.

But Lundstrom quickly picked up the telephone and called the Gannett office in Washington, D.C. to find out if any word had been received. Minutes later, screams across her phone speaker left her puzzled but curious.

Lundstrom, the daughter of Max and Marg Lundstrom of Wayne, won the Pulitzer Prize in national reporting on a series on child abuse she co-authored with Gannett counterpart Rochelle Sharpe. The announcement of Lundstrom's prize was made Tuesday around 2 p.m. Wayne time.

"IT'S TOO much to take in," she said by telephone Tuesday night. "It's something that's really hard to divide yourself from: the fact you just won from a series which spells out the tragedy of a nationwide problem. I guess you'd say I'm ambivalent right now — it's a lot to take in."

The board of directors of Educational Service Unit One (ESU 1), headquartered in Wakefield, has given the go-ahead for construction of a new facility in Wayne to house the unit's two Wayne programs.

The series, detailing undetected child abuse deaths caused by variations in laws from state-to-state, found its roots three months before it appeared Dec. 16-19, 1990 in newspapers nationwide. One of the alarming statistics in the series of articles is that the most unreported deaths occur in rural areas. One example involves oversights of cover-ups as nearby as Missouri.

CONDUCTING THE work on the project was never an easy task. Lundstrom said she ran into a number of doctors who didn't want to address the situation and that made her task more difficult. Despite that, Lundstrom's and Sharpe's efforts still paid off.

"Trying to find a national angle on child abuse seemed really difficult because there is no agency which mandates these investigations," she said. "We weren't sure where we could find the link between what happens in Washington and Nebraska and California, but we found it in death investigations."

IN THE SERIES of articles, research found that many children's deaths are incorrectly labeled accidental, undetermined or a result of natural causes. The series also points out that in many of the deaths of children under the age of nine, many are buried or cremated without having a proper auopsy performed. She said on occasion the series was difficult because "it's impossible to do a story about children and not take it home with you."

MARJIE LUNDSTROM, A 1974 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School, was announced as a co-recipient of the Pulitzer Prize Tuesday for a series of articles she co-wrote with Rochelle Sharpe of New York. Lundstrom is the daughter of Max and Marj Lundstrom of Wayne.

While Lundstrom said she doesn't know what elements of the series pitted it among the nation's best, the fact it's about child abuse is enough to gain people's attention.

"I hope it will result in attitudinal changes in investigating children's deaths," she said. "People are too willing to write them off and go on with their lives. Children are entitled to an autopsy. I know that sounds funny, but people need to have answers when children die."

ALTHOUGH Lundstrom left Gannett for Sacramento just before the series ran, she said she's glad she did it. She said she hopes people can learn from the tragedies of this national problem.

Lundstrom, a 1974 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School, graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1978. She performed summer internships with the Norfolk Daily News and she has held positions in Fort Collins, Colo., Denver, Gannett and now Sacramento.

Along with winning the Pulitzer Prize this year, Lundstrom has also learned that she will be receiving the White House Correspondents Association Award later this month.

ESU 1 board gives nod to project

By LaVon Anderson

The board of directors of Educational Service Unit One (ESU 1), headquartered in Wakefield, has given the go-ahead for construction of a new facility in Wayne to house the unit's two Wayne programs.

During a meeting Tuesday night, board members voted unanimously to proceed with construction of the new building to house the Wayne Children's Development Center, a program for severe and profound youngsters located east of Wayne in a building presently leased from Region IV, and the Wayne Learning Center, a behaviorally disordered program located in a building owned by ESU 1 on the east edge of Wayne.

Tuesday night's vote came following lengthy discussion regarding the need and cost for such a facility.

MARVIN BORG, chairman of the building and grounds committee, told board members Tuesday night that it was the committee's feeling that a new facility is definitely needed in Wayne.

"We do not foresee our programs diminishing," said Borg, "and if anything they will continue to grow. By building our own facility, we can incorporate everything we need to provide the services these youngsters need and deserve."

Echoing Borg's sentiments was committee member Randy Hummel, who told board members that the committee had looked into the purchase of several existing buildings in Wayne, however they would require extensive remodeling.

"We're growing too much and we're going to be in business for a long time," said Hummel. "We've been putting up with makeshift facilities and all of us on the committee feel that these kids deserve a new facility to serve them in the best way we can."

Hummel added that the committee has looked into several sites for the new facility and would ideally like to locate near Wayne State College and Providence Medical Center.

"We utilize some of the college's facilities in our programs," said Hummel, "and some of these kids are medically fragile."

Also addressing the board Tuesday night was board member Marion Arneson of Wayne, who has assisted the building and grounds committee.

"Although I am concerned about the cost of the project as a tax payer and as a private citizen, I feel there is definitely a need for this facility. This is not a short-term

Lamb pleads not guilty in shooting

PONCA - A 22-year-old Concord woman has plead not guilty to charges of first degree assault and the use of a firearm to commit a felony, according to Ponca County Sheriff Dean Chase.

Tracy Lamb, 22, of Concord, is charged with first degree assault and the use of a firearm to commit a felony following a March 23 incident in which Joseph Michael Crawford, 31, of Concord, was allegedly shot by Lamb with a .410 gauge shotgun. Crawford remains hospitalized in Marian Health Center in Sioux City but the family has requested that no reports of his condition be released.

According to Dixon County Attorney Leland Miner, the investigation of the incident is not yet complete, but he said alcohol apparently played a part in the shooting.

Officials make plans for weekend clean up

WAYNE - If you haven't had the time to clean up your yard over the past week, now might be a good time to start since Wayne will again be holding a clean up day this year.

Debris will be picked up Saturday, April 13 from 10 a.m. to noon, according to Garry Poutre, supervisor of the event.

He said that trash, yard clippings and other forms of solid waste will be collected by representatives of the Wayne County Jaycees, Wayne Kiwanis Club, Wayne Rotary Club, the Wayne Lions Club, Wayne Boy Scouts and Wayne Girl Scouts. The event is sponsored by the START Community, Attitudes, Image and Communication Task Force.

"We're hoping this program catches on and everyone can look forward to it so it can become an ongoing thing," he said. This is the second year for the event.

POUTRE SAID ITEMS that will be picked up can range from grass clippings to leaves or ordinary solid waste, like plastic containers or other scraps. He said it helps in the clean up if Wayne residents will separate lawn clippings and leaves from other forms of solid waste and place them in a central location within the block.

According to Ann Barclay, neighborhoods are encouraged to hold their clean up day on Friday, followed by a neighborhood block party or picnic. She said that lends itself to a fun neighborhood event each year. For information on holding a neighborhood party, contact Barclay at 375-1406.

FOR THE CLEAN up, neighborhoods are asked to assist elderly residents who may have trouble cleaning up their yards. In addition, Poutre said it is helpful if the waste people wish to have removed is placed in cardboard boxes or biodegradable bags.

"We want to do our part to help out the environment," he said. In future years, Poutre said he hopes one of the service organizations participating in the event will take over the annual project.

In addition to participating Wayne service organizations, Poutre said any volunteers are also welcome to help out. He said pickup trucks and manpower helps make the event go quicker. Last year, local service organizations collected almost 20 pickup loads of waste.

"We're hoping to get even more stuff this year than we had last year," he said.

ONCE VOLUNTEERS pick up the waste, it will be taken to the city transfer station and be separated. Poutre said debris is separated into different categories, including trash, leaves, grass and hard items, like cement or old bricks.

"We are asking that people not ask us to haul old water heaters, refrigerators, furnaces or other appliances," he said. "That gets to be too much."

For more information about the clean up, contact Poutre at 375-2866.

WAYNE CITY ADMINISTRATOR JOE SALITROS shows off areas of Wayne which need to take part in the cost-sharing sidewalk improvement plan. An H-shaped area in the southwest quadrant of the city received the most support from the council.

Walk projects take shape

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Areas recommended for sidewalk improvement projects and the establishment of a public hearing for the application of Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds topped discussion during a short council agenda Tuesday night.

City Administrator Joe Salitros outlined two areas which may benefit from the newly ordained cost-sharing sidewalk replacement program this summer as he presented his proposal to the city council.

Following Salitros' presentation, Mayor Bob Carhart called for a straw poll to be taken on the projects with the council unanimously favoring an H-shaped project including much of Pearl Street from Seventh to First Streets and from Third Street at the Pearl intersection to Lincoln Street and possibly beyond. The last stretch of the proposed project runs from First Street to Seventh Street.

THE OTHER proposed project, not favored by the council, would replace portions of sidewalk involving a diameter of streets from Main Street on the west to Windom on the east and from Tenth Street on the north to Seventh Street to the south.

According to Salitros, the only sidewalk that gets replaced will be those that are sunken or raised, cracked beyond repair or broken to the point they are hazardous. He added that other projects could be done later this summer once the 1991-92 budget is passed in July.

"We'd like to see the first year project go as smoothly as possible," he said. "There are other areas of town, though, that could be rolled into the project."

Project nears end as data is collected

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Wayne merchants may soon learn whether their marketing techniques toward the college population works or not, thanks to a study being conducted by the WSC business research class.

According to Wayne State Professor Dr. Kenneth Hallgren, the survey went out last weekend to a sample of Wayne State students who show an interest in taking part. The survey is sponsored by the START Business Expansion and Retention Task Force.

Hallgren added that the survey data was collected early this week and students will present oral reports on it later this month. He said once the reports are presented to the class, they will be put on public display in the resource room at Conn Library.

"It's been a really good project because your study's about who's in the class," Hallgren said. "When you're doing a study about opinion, you have the opinion sitting in your classroom."

project — this is a definite commitment."

"THERE ARE two types of children the schools are going to look to us for help," said ESU 1 Administrator Rodney Garwood.

"Those youngsters include the severe and profoundly handicapped and the behaviorally disordered."

Garwood added that the new facility would house both groups and that the behaviorally disordered program — youngsters who are unable to function in a classroom — seems to be growing rapidly.

"I'M ALSO conscious of the economy," said board member Keith Pfeiffer, "but there comes a point where we have to do justice to the children we are serving. I think we need to take this step and I'm in favor of going ahead with this project."

"This is an investment in the future," added board member Paul Steffen, "and whether we're in business or not, we will still have a tangible asset."

"Each one of us on the committee has wrestled with the economics of this," said Borg, "and we've all come to the same decision that this is the way to go."

Borg added that the new facility would measure approximately 6,000 square feet and estimated the cost at around $300,000.

"That is definitely a 'ballpark' figure," said Borg, adding that committee members will now begin the process of interviewing architects and make a recommendation to the board at the May meeting.

IN OTHER business Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members:

—Authorized the administration to proceed with the purchase of a 1991 model van for use in the two Wayne programs at an estimated cost of $21,688. Presently, ESU 1 leases a van from Wayne Public Schools at a cost of $400 a month;

—Voted to accept a building insurance package as presented by Chairman Ken Lahrs at an additional cost of $600 per year;

—Heard a report from Administrator Garwood regarding a survey to be conducted during the next year dealing with funding of the ESU 1 nursing program. "We need to visit with the schools we serve and ask them what they want in regard to nursing services and how it should be financed. No one doubts the quality of the nursing program," said Garwood. "The question is whether or not the schools are willing to assume more of the financial burden";

—Heard a report from Administrator Garwood regarding the annual unit evaluation conducted among school's the unit serves. Garwood said the survey shows the unit rating between very good and excellent in the services it provides. He added that nursing rated at the top among mill levy services provided to schools;

—Approved a list of 1991-92 certified contracts to be issued as recommended by Garwood, subject to proper placement on the negotiated master agreement;

—Met in executive session to discuss contract negotiations. Upon reconvening, Paul Steffen reported that the ESU 1 negotiating committee has met with local Education Association representatives and have reached an agreement in principle. A contractual agreement will be worked out for future approval.

Board hears about plans

WAYNE - It appears as though the Wayne Public Schools are moving forward in assessing the current facility conditions as the Wayne School Board heard an initial report from Dr. Ward Sybouts of the University of Nebraska School Survey and Planning Division.

Sybouts discussed the process of conducting a school plant survey. He said he will, with the assistance of the Nebraska Department of Education, give a report to the board later this year concerning five areas.

Included in Sybouts' report will be discussion of the school district and city population trends, the district's enrollment history, review of educational programs with regards to space requirements, a review of the district's financial status and finally, compare actual space with recommended space for the instructional and extra-curricular programs.

WHILE THE plant survey created discussion among board members, a report from high school guidance director Terry Munson on the P-ACT profile showed that WHS sophomores ranked higher in test scores than the national average.

According to Munson, the sophomore class had a composite score of 18.7 compared with the national average of 15.9.

Along with presenting the P-ACT scores, Munson also discussed the educational aspirations of the sophomore class.

ALSO PRESENTING a report Tuesday night was board member Cap Peterson, who offered some insight into the possible scenarios the school could face following the Nebraska Supreme Court ruling on the state's personal property tax formula.

Despite discussing the options, however, Peterson said there is no easy solution in front of the state legislature in sight, so it's difficult to see which way the property tax dilemma will go.

IN OTHER MATTERS, the Wayne School Board:

- Accepted the resignation of third grade teacher Karen Nelson and learned that there were no other teacher resignations as of April 9.

- Reviewed a list of 24 choice option students who have filed applications to attend the Wayne Public Schools in the fall.

- Accepted a low bid of $25 per tree from Shenandoah, Iowa nursery for replacing dying trees in front of Wayne High School. Board members Ken Dahl and Ken Liska will oversee the planting of the new trees.

- Heard a report from special education director Bob Uhing concerning a proposed contract with Educational Service Unit 1.

- Approved a list of 71 graduates.

- Gave support for a resolution by the Wayne City Council to request the Nebraska Department of Roads consider widening of Seventh Street.

Local youth included in honor band

WAYNE - On Saturday, April 6, the Bloomfield Honor Band was held for seventh, eighth and ninth grade students at Bloomfield High School.

The students practiced in the morning and afternoon with the guest clinician, whom this year was Fred Hanna, director of bands at Wayne State. At 4 p.m., students then performed a final concert for the public.

Over 300 students from 20 schools auditioned and from those auditions, only 150 students were picked to participate in the honor band.

The following ninth grade band students from Wayne participated in the honor band: Megan McLean, flute; Jill O'Leary, Terri Test, Beth Dorcay and Tami Schluns, clarinet; Claire Rasmussen, alto sax; Mark Hammer, tenor sax, first chair; Kerry McCue, French horn, second chair; Aaron Geiger, trumpet;

Aaron Schnier, trombone; Christina Schmitz, percussion.

Columbus Federal completes conversion

WAYNE - W.M. Ferguson, president of Columbus Federal Savings Bank, has announced the completion of Columbus Federal's voluntary supervisory conversion from a mutual savings banks to a stock savings bank.

Ferguson stated the conversion resulted in the sale of over $1.5 million in common stock to a group of investors. The majority of the stockholders are officers and directors of the bank. The conversion was approved by the Office of Thrift Supervision as of Feb. 8 and the conversion was completed at the close of business on March 31.

"As the result of the conversion, significant equity capital has been infused into Columbus Federal. This capital has enabled us to significantly improve the bank's regulatory capital position. The capital will also enable us to expand our lending and investment activity," Ferguson said.

Columbus Federal was originally chartered by the State of Nebraska in 1886. Currently, it has assets of approximately $91 million and offices in Columbus, Fremont,

IT ALSO appears that Wayne will be applying for CDBG funds sometime in the next few months to allow for rehabilitation of apartments for low to moderate income housing. If all goes as planned, the first funds could be used for renovation of the second floor of the hotel owned by Gene Claussen.

That was the word from Wayne's city administrator Tuesday night as the Wayne City Council set a public hearing date for April 23 at 11:30 a.m. at the Senior Citizens Center and again that evening at 7 p.m. in the council chambers.

If Wayne is granted the funds, estimated between $60,000 and $80,000, the money could be used for future low to moderate-income projects. The money comes from the Nebraska Department of Economic Development after it is provided to the state from the federal government.

Problem may create deposit for individuals buying property

WAYNE - Although the program of the City of Wayne selling property to buyers by ordinance has worked well in the past, changes may be made to the way it's done in the future.

That announcement by City Administrator Joe Salitros comes on the heels of some previous buyers returning property to the City of Wayne after reaching a gentlemen's agreement to purchase it. Salitros did not disclose who the buyers were who backed out of the agreement.

In the past, the city had a 30-day purchase agreement where no earnest deposit was required to buy property off the city's hands but because of a backout, the city may ask future buyers to place an earnest deposit on buying property in the future.

"IT WOULD be in our best interest to ask for a deposit or earnest money of some amount because that would mean the buyer would be more likely to purchase the property if their money was at stake," Salitros said. "It's not like we have a lot of lots to sell but that's not to say that we won't in the future."

Salitros said the buyers who backed out of the recent agreement, which forced the city council to nullify an ordinance directing the sale of lots in Western Heights subdivision, have agreed to pay the publishing costs, which total approximately $60.

ceived indicates that Crawford had been consuming alcohol on March 23 with his brother, Danny. When the pair returned to Crawford's residence, which he shared with Lamb, a disagreement ensued involving Lamb and Crawford.

Lamb has alleged that she was assaulted by Crawford while his brother held her down. Crawford alleges that Lamb was acting irrationally and needed to be restrained.

According to previous reports, Lamb had sustained injuries to her nose and arms.

Miner added that statements from the parties involved indicated that once Lamb freed herself from Crawford and his brother, she allegedly went into a bedroom, picked up the shotgun and fired two shots. Crawford suffered a shotgun wound to the stomach.

According to Dixon County District Court authorities, a June 26 trial date has been set following Lamb's plea Monday.

THE SURVEY IS composed of 40 questions from general information about students' age, year of study and where they live, to more specific information about overall shopping experiences and how often they shop in Wayne.

Students will answer polled questions about how friendly they believe Wayne merchants to be. They will also render an opinion on how weak or strong they believe businesses customer services are and whether they like the variety of stock on display. Students will also be able to show what types of merchandise they look for — from grocery items to clothing or furniture, to name a few.

Once data is input and processed, Hallgren said it will be interpreted to test hypothesis selected by different study groups.

For instance, "the class will chose the relationships they want to test between opinion and socio-economic background," Hallgren said. "For example, does the student (by years in school) impact how interested Wayne business merchants are in what WSC students do," he said.

The WSC professor added that he thinks survey results will be high since respondents are screened ahead of time to determine their interest in taking part.

City of Wayne announces plans for cost-sharing in alleyways

WAYNE - As in the past, the City of Wayne will pay one-half the cost of either road gravel or crushed rock, plus the necessary grading and filling for alleys, according to Public Works Director Vern Schultz.

All that is required for alley improvements is for a property owner to pick up a petition at the city clerk's office, 306 Pearl St., and circulate it throughout their block for signatures. After the petition is returned to the city clerk, the city will begin the necessary blading, filling and placement of material.

Half the cost for the alley improvement will be billed to the residents signing the petition. The cost to be divided between the residents will run at $110 for crushed rock and $45 for road gravel for a one block distance.

In keeping with city policy, the city will not participate in improvements to closed or dead end alleys other than routine maintenance. Improvements will be made only on through or open alleys for a full block distance, Schultz said.

Gun legislation sounds good, but is it the answer to our ills?

It's no wonder that a large segment of our population feels threatened by gun control legislation since we are guaranteed the right to bear arms by the Second Amendment. Infringing upon that freedom is just as endangering as tampering with the other rights we enjoy.

We need to ask ourselves where we can draw the line — whether handgun legislation represents the majority of the views of Americans.

It is certainly understandable that gun control opponents are challenged by handgun control laws proposed on the national and state levels, but there are a number of things they fail to recognize.

During a meeting last week at Wayne State College, opponents of the proposed law quizzed State Sen. Brad Ashford, R-Omaha, why he would sponsor a bill that probably won't insure complete public safety. On numerous occasions, Ashford explained that if this bill saves one life, it is worth it.

To one extreme, Ashford is right. While handgun control opponents argue that these protective measures will only have a temporary effect, they fail to recognize that this legislation is anything but short-sighted. If anyone who wants to purchase a handgun can walk into a store and get one, then there are no long-term controls.

Some who attended the meeting stopped short of calling Ashford a politician who knows how to evade the answers, but the time has come to issue a line of defense for the innocent — the victims of the misuse of handguns or any other types of weapons.

In the long-term, it is likely that fewer handguns will be circulating among the populous because of these protective measures and handguns, along with other weapons, won't be as likely to wind up in the hands of criminals. That is arguably the point Ashford was trying to make: The less circulation of handguns we have over the long run, the less likely we will be to see crimes committed.

If Ashford's measure passes, let's hope he's right.

Support shown for family in need shows strength of communities

When the public showed out en masse last week for the Bill and Sharon Corbit family benefit held Thursday, it was not only an expression of love but one of complete togetherness.

The Corbits have had a rough go of it but the participation shown by their friends, even those who don't even know the Corbits, was something to behold. It just goes to show that we all share a common concern for our fellow man — a trait which makes our communities stronger.

Congratulations should be extended to the Wayne United Methodist Church and the Concord Evangelical Free Church for the outstanding planning which went into the effort. A pat on the back should also be extended to the businesses and organizations which helped out, along with gratitude for the gracious donations by the M.G. Waldbaum Company of Wakefield and TWJ Farms of Carroll.

Way to go to everyone who participated on a job well done for a family in need of our support. We salute you for your support.

NEBRASKA TIMELINE

We usually think of newsboys noisily hawking papers on city streets, or delivering papers before the sun rises. But in a number of Nebraska communities, the newsboy was airborne. The McCook Daily Gazette was delivered by airplane in 1929-30. The story goes:

"On the evening of Sept. 12, 1929, the Newsboy, a Curtiss-Robin monoplane, sailed out over a throng of 25,000 people who had gathered for the christening ceremonies, amid cheers that marked a new epic in the history of newspapering and aviation—setting sail out over southwest Nebraska and northwest Kansas at a rate of speed approximating 110 miles an hour with its first cargo of daily newspapers for 43 different communities.

"Indeed it was a pioneering venture, which was as important to the newspaper profession as was the covered wagon to the pioneer, who with his oxen, made his way across barren prairies in the early eighties, to make this his home, rear a family, and develop a new country.

"The Daily Gazette's Newsboy not only made history in the newspaper world, but it made a 'path' which will be followed by others—it pioneered the airplane delivery service which doubtless during the next half century will be looked upon as the common type of carrier.

"Steve Tuttle, local transport pilot, was the first pilot to fly the Newsboy, being replaced after the first three months by Wm. Kinsey of North Platte, who continued the service for a period of nine months. During this time The Newsboy flew approximately 100,000 miles without an accident, and delivered a million and a half newspapers to an eagerly awaiting public which appreciated 'Today's News Today.'

"As some characterized the news service of that time, 'they had over-night moved in from the sticks to Times Square or the Loop' so far as their daily news was concerned. Just what will be the progress in newspapering in the next half century?"

The Newsboy discontinued service when the plane was damaged by a tornado on July 21, 1930. A second Newsboy, a Cessna 120, delivered the paper from 1950 to 1954. The original Curtiss Newsboy was restored in the 1960s and is on exhibit in a Seattle museum.

Hefner discusses issues surrounding living will bill in Nebraska Unicameral

The U.S. Supreme Court's decision last summer in the case of Nancy Cruzan leaves the issue of how much technology is used to keep us alive at the end of our lives squarely with the states. States may bar the removal of life-sustaining treatment from comatose patients who have not made or cannot make their desires known.

LB 671, the living will bill, has been deadlocked in the Judiciary Committee for some time, so this week the Legislature voted to advance it to the floor so it could be debated. Living wills have been introduced consistently for the past several years. The public hearings have been long and emotional. The introducer of LB 671 asked his fellow legislators to bring the bill to the floor for debate to save the time, expense and trouble of introducing it again next year.

The bill generally follows the format of the Uniform Rights of the Terminally Ill Act drafted by the National Conference of

Youthful chatter sounds pleasant Lawmakers face array of bills

COORDINATING COMMISSION FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

The addition of Kearney State College to the University of Nebraska system may change the role that Wayne State College as well as other higher educational institutions will play in the future.

Lawmakers recently gave first-round approval to LB 663 which would implement a constitutional amendment passed by voters in November establishing a new Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Post Secondary Education. The bill abolishes the existing commission that is now in place and will create a new commission with responsibilities of planning and reviewing programs and budgets of the state's colleges and universities.

The commission will also deal with the coordination of programs among the University system, the state colleges, and the community colleges. However, issues of governance, such as admissions, transfer of credits and tuition levels, will remain the function of the board of regents, the board of trustees and the locally elected community college boards.

WAYNE STATE COLLEGE
The State College System will continue to be the recipient of cigarette tax revenue for capital construction projects if a bill that I introduced this year goes into effect.

LB 799, which had a public hearing before the Appropriations Committee on March 22, would maintain the current level of funding for all projects currently designated as recipients of cigarette tax revenue. It would, however, extend the funding period for State College projects.

The State College Board of Trustees have prioritized projects throughout the system for capitol construction projects. On the top of their priority list is a Business and Technology building on the Wayne State College Campus.

Business classes at Wayne State College are currently located in an overcrowded and substandard facility that if renovated would still not be able to provide the needed space for the over 700 business majors.

Aging buildings and increasing enrollments are making responsible capital construction projects a very real priority among the state colleges.

Grocery tabloids in 'spot'light

Have you ever noticed all the publications on the newsracks at the check out stands in the grocery and convenience stores? They're a real eye-grabber, but of course, that's because they're always located below the gum and candy racks.

Once in a while, I can't help but find myself glancing over at those newsracks as I wait in line to buy my groceries.

"Boy is the son of a goat!" one headline reads. "Lady bears child of alien from Mars." Wow, what a concept.

Where do they get this stuff? I can honestly say that I don't know of anyone in northeast Nebraska who is the relative of a space alien but if there are some, kindly step forth.

ONE OF THE funny things I've found about some of these headlines is that they never exaggerate. No, really. I have no doubt that Hitler is still alive and that he's the brother of an alien who was the father of John F. Kennedy (just for clarity, John F. Kennedy is Johnathan Fredrick, not our formerly esteemed president). I also have no doubt that JFK still lives, as one headline recently stated.

Then there's the stories that appear on the front page of the tabloids. I don't know about you, but I can never find them inside the publication.

I often wonder how often these "news reporters" find their stories. Are their computers possessed by some demonic entity which relays these messages of inspiration (or was that imagination) into their machines? I'd like someone to tell me.

"Mr. Ed really did talk" was a headline I read a few years back. Of course, how else could you find a horse to move its lips in the fashion that he did? He had to have been talking. No one could have dubbed that sound into the horse's mouth motions.

AS STRANGE as it may sound, once you pick up one of these magazine marvels and start paging through it, you find out that the advertisements inside them are out of the ordinary as well.

"Lose 20 pounds in one day," reads one ad. Boy, if I could lose 20 pounds in one day, I wonder what would happen the next day. Would I gain it all back? Those insightful articles and those enticing bits of trivia will probably never be found anywhere else.

You can almost always tell when it's been a slow "news" week for some of the tabloids, though, because they'll run the same stories about the guy who bears a child or the world's largest baby weighing 300 pounds. Man, I'd like to meet the lady that delivered that kid.

I guess if nothing else, these unique publications offer some cheap entertainment.

My advise: don't pick one up. On second thought, don't even look over there.

Sluggers pound out 59 hits

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

To say that the Wayne State baseball team put on a clinic in hitting the baseball over the weekend at the Grand View Classic would be a mild understatement.

Lenny Klavers Wildcats were just that as they pounded out 59 hits in a four game stretch in 123 plate appearances which averages out to be a .479 team batting average for the weekend.

WSC however, did not get off to a quick start in the win column as they played highly tauted St. Xavier College in the opener in what turned out to be a slug-fest on the high school field they were playing on.

The two teams combined for 41 hits, 15 home runs and four errors as WSC lost 35-17. Trailing 4-0 heading into the bottom of the second inning, the Cats exploded for 12 runs to take a 12-4 lead. They led 14-7 after three innings of play but St. Xavier went on a terror after that, scoring 28 runs in the next three innings while blasting six Wildcat pitchers.

Steve Kelliher began the game on the mound and went three innings but was relieved by Troy Parrott. Parrott lasted just 1/3 inning before Larry Ballinger took over. Ballinger went just one inning but he got the loss. Bill Guenther relieved Ballinger and went 2/3 of an inning before Chris Simon relieved him. Simon went 1/3 of an inning before Dusty Sheets came in for the final two outs.

St. Xavier pounded out 23 hits while scoring 35 runs and they committed two errors while WSC had 17 runs on 18 hits and two errors. Fours were wild for designated hitter Rick Roberts as he went 4-4 from the plate and scored four runs while recording four rbi's. Roberts hit two home runs in the contest.

Troy Test went 3-4 in the contest with a double and Dave Shields went 2-4 with two rbi's and a home run. Shane Kober went 2-4 with one rbi and Tim Wobken went 1-5 with a solo home run. Mark Wewel hit a pair of singles in four plate appearances and John Staab was 2-3 with three rbi's. Chris Jones was 2-4 with five rbi's including a double and a home run.

WSC's loss to St. Xavier was the only loss they suffered on the weekend as they raised the season record above the .500 barrier for the first time at 12-11. In the second game of the tournament WSC pounded the host team Grand View, 14-4 in six innings of play.

Joe Fulcher went the distance for the Wildcats and recorded the win. Fulcher scattered seven hits, allowed four runs, two walks and struck out one. The Cats trailed 3-0 until the top of the second inning when they scored four times. They added two more in the third and four more in the fourth before scoring four times in the sixth and final inning.

WSC finished with 14 runs on 13 hits and no errors and Grand View had four runs on seven hits and no errors. Troy Test went 3-4 with two rbi's to lead WSC while Dave Shields went 2-2 with two rbi's. Shane Kober went 1-4 with a triple and three rbi's and Tim Wobken went 1-4 with a single. Rick Roberts was 1-2 with a single and Dusty Sheets hit a single in his only official plate appearance.

Jeff Lutt went 1-1 with a single and John Staab went 1-4 with a single and three rbi's. Chris Jones was 2-4 in the game with one rbi. Defensively the Cats' turned two double plays as Test took a ground ball at second and flipped to shortstop Kober at second who flipped to Wobken at first for the one and Jeff Bjerke took a bouncing ball at third and flipped to second baseman Test who threw to Wobken at first for the other double play.

Cats sweep Winona State
Wayne State then played a pair of games with Winona State of Minnesota. In the opener the Cats' won 17-5 in five innings. Jeff Gohr improved his season record to a perfect 4-0 with the win. Gohr went the distance and scattered five hits. He walked three and struck out four.

Once again the Wildcats pounded the baseball as they pounded out 20 hits en route to their 17 runs. WSC did not commit an error while Winona State had five runs on five hits and two errors.

The Cats' scored three times in the first and added 10 in the second and four more in the third while Winona State scored all five of its runs in the third inning.

Shane Kober and Jeff Bjerke were the hitting catalysts for WSC as Kober had three singles and rbi while Bjerke ripped a single, double and a home run in three official plate appearances while notching three rbi's.

Dave Shields was 2-4 with two singles and three rbi's and Troy Test was 2-3 with a single and a double and one rbi. Tim Wobken went 2-4 with a pair of doubles and two rbi's and Mark Wewel went 2-4 with two singles. Rick Roberts was 2-3 with a single and a double and two rbi's and John Staab went 2-2 with two doubles. Chris Jones went 2-3 with two singles and an rbi.

In the final game of the tournament WSC defeated Winona State 5-3 as Jeff Lutt got the pitching victory and Bill Guenther got his fourth save of the season.

Lutt went 5 1/3 innings and allowed seven hits, five runs, and three walks while striking out five. Guenther allowed two hits and struck out one in the final 1 2/3 innings.

The Cats' trailed 4-3 heading to the top of the fourth inning before scoring four runs. They finished with seven runs on eight hits and no errors while Winona State had five runs on nine hits and one error. WSC did turn one double play as Kober took a bouncing ball at shortstop and threw to Test at second who flipped to Wobken at first.

Offensively the Cats' were led by Chris Jones and Shane Kober as each belted two hits with Kober hitting two doubles and notching two rbi's while Jones smacked one double and recorded two rbi's. Tim Wobken had the Cats' other extra base hit of the game with a double. Troy Test, Jeff Bjerke and Jeff Burger all hit singles to round out the Wildcat hitting attack.

"Before the weekend the assistant coaches and I felt that this would be a very crucial weekend in our season," Klaver said. "We felt if we did something positive that it could propel us for the remainder of the season which has 29 more games."

Looking back on the 23 games completed already this season Klaver feels that there were only two games in which he felt his Cats' should have won where they didn't.

The 12 victories so far this season move Klaver closer to the 200 win barrier for his career at Wayne State. Klaver currently has 188 victories compared with 167 losses.

Wildcats nearly upset Nebraska

The Nebraska Cornhusker baseball team scored one run in the ninth inning to defeat Lenny Klavers' Wayne State Wildcats Tuesday night at Buck Beltzer Field in Lincoln.

Husker designated hitter Eddie Anderson singled with one out in the ninth and moved to third on centerfielder Gary Tackett's double. Wayne State pitcher Bill Guenther intentionally walked NU rightfielder Shawn Buchanan to load the bases for the force out on any base.

First baseman Corty Kulhanek then laced the game winning single to right field.

NU jumped out to a 4-0 lead, scoring twice in the third and twice in the fourth before the Wildcats tied the game in the top of the fifth on Shane Kober's two-out RBI single off Nebraska starter Trey Rutledge.

WSC took the lead at 5-4, in the sixth when Dusty Sheets scored from third on a throwing error by Husker second baseman Jeff Rhein.

NU's Dave Matranga earned the win, his fourth of the year by pitching the last inning and a third, giving up one hit, striking out two, and picking off two Wildcats at first. NU improved its record to 22-11 while WSC fell to 12-12.

Jeff Bjerke started the game on the mound for WSC and went 7 2/3 innings allowing nine hits, six runs, and three walks while striking out five. Bill Guenther came in for relief in the eighth inning and was credited with the loss.

Kober and rightfielder Jeff Burger each had two hits for the Cats' while Troy Test and John Staab each had one to round out the hitting attack for WSC which finished with six runs on six hits and no errors. NU had seven runs on 14 hits and three errors.

Wayne State softball team drops four games over weekend but rebound Monday with win

Dan Pollard's Wayne State softball team split a doubleheader with Dana College Monday afternoon at the College Field. The Cats' dropped the opener, 9-1 but returned the favor to the visitors in the nightcap with a 5-3 victory which left WSC with a 6-12 record on the year.

In the first game Dana led 2-1 heading to the top of the seventh when pitcher Michelle Mundt ripped a 3-run homer to cap a seven run inning. Alex Ross was given the loss as she went the distance giving up nine runs on eight hits and five walks while striking out one. In fairness to Ross however, only two of Dana's runs were earned.

Wayne State had one run on six hits and two errors. The lone run came in the first inning as Marty Hunt singled, stole second, moved to third on a ground ball and came home on a passed ball. Eva Coons had Wayne State's only extra base hit with a triple.

In the second game the Wildcats trailed 1-0 heading to the bottom of the second inning. Carla Gilbertson became the game's hero with one swing of the bat as she launched a grand slam home run to give WSC a 4-1 lead after two innings.

The Wildcats scored once in the fifth inning as Jodie Gilfillan drove in a run with her second single of the game. Jennifer McGowan got the win for the Cats' and Ross came in for relief in the sixth inning and earned the save.

McGowan allowed one run on two hits, four walks and no strike outs. Ross struck out one and walked one in her two inning stint. "I thought our team executed the fundamentals needed to win in the second game," Pollard said. "Hopefully the second game is a sign of things to come."

Wayne State will travel to Minnesota for the Southwest State Tournament on Friday and Saturday.

The Wildcat softball team struggled over the weekend at the Augustana Tournament losing four games in as many outings. In the first game the Cats' fell to the host team 4-3.

Jennifer McGowan took the loss and went the distance, allowing nine hits, two walks and no strike outs. Wayne State led 2-1 heading to the top of the sixth inning when the Cats' scored one more for a 3-1 lead. USD then scored three runs in the bottom of the same inning which was all they needed for the win.

WSC got three runs on 10 hits while USD got four runs on nine hits and two errors. Jill Gengler was the top batter for WSC with three hits in the game including two triples. Gengler also notched two RBI's. Marty Hunt and Jodi Gilfillan each had two hits in the contest while Jenny Reuland, Carla Gilbertson and Megan Dolesh all had one.

In the second game the Wildcats fell to Duluth by a 7-1 margin. Alex Ross took the loss, pitching the first five innings before being relieved by Jennifer McGowan. Duluth pounded the Wildcat pitchers by pounding out 14 hits while holding WSC to three hits.

Dee Henningsen and Michele Reinhardt each had a single for WSC while Jill Gengler ripped a triple. Reinhardt had the Cats' only RBI.

Wayne State was defeated by North Dakota State University in the third game, 7-6 as McGowan took the pitching loss. The Cats' did pound out 13 hits while earning their six runs while NDSU had 10 hits en route to its seven runs.

Marty Hunt led WSC with three hits in the game while Dee Henningsen, Jill Gengler, Michele Reinhardt and Carla Gilbertson all had two hits apiece. Eva Coons and Jodie Gilfillan each had one hit.

Hunt was also the catalyst on the base paths as she recorded four stolen bases.

Wayne State's final game of the tournament was against South Dakota State University where the Cats' were shut-out 4-0 as the SDSU pitchers scattered seven hits.

Alex Ross was given the loss from the mound for WSC. She allowed seven hits, four runs, two walks and recorded one strike out. WSC committed three costly errors in the game while SDSU had four runs on seven hits and two errors.

Michele Reinhardt had a double and a single in the game for the Cats' while Dee Henningsen, Jill Gengler, Jenni Umbach, Jenny Reuland and Ross had one hit apiece—all singles.

WILDCAT FRESHMAN HURLER Alex Ross has her eyes set on the strike zone during doubleheader action Monday at the College Field in Wayne. The Wildcats split the twinbill which moved the season record to 6-12.

WAYNE STATE SHORTSTOP Dee Henningsen lays down a bunt during the first game with Dana College Monday afternoon. Henningsen is only a sophomore but already has the career stolen base record at Wayne State.

The GOLDEN YEARS

Linus Pauling won the 1954 Nobel Prize for Chemistry and the 1962 Nobel Peace Prize, for his stand against nuclear-weapons testing. At age 89, he wasn't resting on his laurels. In the same month he delivered a speech on disarmament at a United Nations symposium in New York and published two scientific papers on chemical bonding and on use of vitamin C in treating cancer. In discussing his work at this research institute in Palo Alto, California, Pauling said, "What really interests me are the puzzles that nature presents to us...and there are plenty of them."

Company mergers, acquisitions and other restructuring affect many people in their 50s and 60s. Some high-level executives who lose longtime jobs or opt for early retirement turn to working on their own as consultants for one or more clients. Now another pattern is developing: working as executive temps. Some companies find it timely to hire newly-retired executives for short-term projects. For the high-level temps, it's an opportunity to pit longtime skills against new challenges as well as to earn steady income to augment reduced retirement income.

FATHER-DAUGHTER EVENING

Brownie Troop 68 shared an evening of fun with their dads and grandpas on March 25. Together they painted, pounded and put together an award box. Into this box the girls can put their badges, patches and pins they earned during their Brownie years and displayed them.

The Brownies also had time to make a picture using the tin-punch method. Terry and Dave Headley from Wayne provided materials and helped supervise the activities. Refreshments concluded the evening.

By Pat Meierhenry

The topic among the men after church today was the weather. Record-setting heat and dry wind makes farmers nervous.

I hate to bore you all with tales of my automobile woes, but would you believe that not one of us has an air conditioner that works! Kay's first purchase after graduation will probably be a car; Ann has had to have the transmission replaced this winter and I had something called a "spider gear" get all messed up last week. We do our part to keep Warren Gallop in business.

When I took the Ford in, he had just finished getting Monte's old Grand Prix ready for the Big Farmer. So I took it to Lincoln.

The head liner is sagging and hits my head, the window on the driver's side is out of its track, it has an oil leak, and now the gears are slipping!

I may have to go back to the old grey Buick with the crumpled fender. I had to drive it to Pierce two weeks ago, where I spoke at a Spring Tea. I parked a block from the church so they couldn't see what their speaker was driving!

We didn't make it to the Corbit benefit, but that family is in our prayers. Tragedy often seems to occur in bunches and our finite minds just cannot fathom the reasons.

We did sponsor a volleyball team in the Bryan Deck benefit at Winside school this weekend. Bryan was hit while riding a three-wheeler six months ago, and spent a long time in the hospital in Sioux City.

Yesterday, he was sitting on the bleachers next to his dad watching his mom and uncles and aunts and cousins all bat a small white ball back and forth over the net. It's wonderful to see a miracle once in a while, too.

One of the neatest things about rural communities is "the benefit". There are all kinds of expenses not covered by insurance during a lengthy hospitalization. So friends and organizations get together and play ball, eat soup, auction cakes, and make tavern sandwiches to help. And we have fun, too.

Next weekend, we'll be watching an alumni basketball tournament to benefit the Liberty Center in Norfolk.

One of the things I did in Lincoln was to take Kay to the Preservation Hall Jazz Band at the Lied Center. Two of the members of the band were past 80 years old. One picked a banjo, the other blew a trumpet. Both sang! It was the next best thing to New Orleans.

They only printed a sample repertoire because the program stated, "the musicians themselves do not know what they will play—it will be determined in large part by the audience."

Last year, we enjoyed the Robert Shaw chorale and Les Miserables there. No, that isn't "less miserables!" It is opera, but it is in English and is Victor Hugo's great classic set to music.

The Lied Center is a wonderful facility, with name entertainment the year around. We've already missed "Cats" and "Chorus Line" this year.

But, sometime between the benefits and the concerts, I have to put in forty hours at the hospital. Fertilizer has to be spread, rye seeded, and livestock fed. That darned work always interferes with our private lives!

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

DO YOUR HOMEWORK ABOUT HOME WORK!

I recently received a note from a reader who enclosed an ad for people to secure information on how to earn money stuffing envelopes at home, and to "register" for this kind of work. She rightly questions the company's request for $20 before they can send the information needed to get started on this so-called "work-at-home" project. The company tries to cover itself by noting that it needs this money to cover the costs of sending the program. It also skillfully shifts the guilt-burden onto the potential buyer of the service by saying that sometimes people are not serious about doing the work — and sending the money assures them that they're dealing with folks who have a positive attitude about the project. (If you buy that, I have a bridge in Brooklyn I can let you have at a discount!)

Anyway, the envelope stuffing scheme has taken many forms over the past several years. But anytime you read an ad promoting it — especially when money is requested, it should tickle your skeptic bone and make you very, very wary.

Keep in mind that envelope stuffing, per se, takes place "in house" — but that has nothing to do with your home. "In house" means when companies have mailers or brochures or other materials to send out, they're packaged either in the company's mail rooms or in fulfillment houses. (These are companies that handle mail order accounts for other companies.) Even if firms were looking to the outside for envelope stuffers (which is highly unlikely), they wouldn't consult a "register" such as the one indicated in the ad. They'd go directly to their own sources.

Don't miss your last opportunity...Monday, April 15, to take advantage of IRA tax savings. Call us for our IRA rates. MEMBER FDIC

Remember, although these ads urge you to get started immediately (translation, send them the money right away), the fact is, the sooner you comply, the sooner you deplete your bank account of your often non-returnable funds.

Be skeptical of any offer made via ads or through the mails — especially if it means your money has to make the first move. Call your local Better Business Bureau for information on those companies. Also call your postmaster to find out how you can check if any of these outfits have run afoul of postal regulations. Also remember, they operate under different names and can switch names with every new ad.

SUGGESTION: Suggest that your local senior citizen group, or library invite someone from the United States Postal Service, or Better Business Bureau, or the frauds bureau in your district attorney's office to tell people how to recognize and protect themselves against schemes and scams.

FRIENDS plans all-night lock-in at WSC rec center; Vohs to be featured

WAYNE - The Wayne FRIENDS (Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs) are sponsoring a drug-free lock-in at the Wayne State College recreation center April 19 from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. on April 20.

The lock-in is for youths in grades 7-12 who are pledged members of drug-free youth groups from Emerson-Hubbard, West Point, Wynot and South Sioux City.

For the young people involved, the purpose of the lock-in is fun, friendship and strengthening their commitment to remain free of alcohol and other drugs. A performance by Comedienne T. Marni Vos will be featured. Vos lives in Lincoln and travels the country conducting workshops for schools and businesses on humor. She also performs in comedy clubs.

Vos has been a featured speaker at drug-free youth retreats sponsored by the Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Council of Nebraska. She will be conducting two assemblies in the afternoon of April 19: one for the middle school students and one for high school students.

The lock-in will also include a midnight swim, a dance by Hitman, refreshments, open recreation, videos and "family groups."

Family groups consist of 8-12 young people who meet periodically and form a close-knit supportive peer "family" for one another. The groups are led by youths who have received training in group facilitation. They lead planned ice-breakers and other activities designed to promote interaction, self-esteem building and support.

The drug-free youth movement emphasizes the importance of positive peer support in helping youth to feel good about themselves, feel accepted by others and have fun without alcohol and other drugs.

For more information about the lock-in, or about FRIENDS, contact Joan Sudman or Bob Uhing at the Wayne Middle School at 375-2230.

Crop insurance important

AREA - Although most farmers in northeastern Nebraska counties have successfully arranged operating loans for planting this year's crops, having adequate crop insurance protection in force can help to assure being able to borrow money in future years, according to Arland L. Pulley, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, with an office in Columbus.

Pulley says that a producer who suffers an uninsured loss of his 1991 crops could have two strikes against him when he approaches his lender for credit a year from now. First, as a result of the loss, the chances are he will need a larger loan. Second, the fact that 1991 loans may not have been fully repaid on time is likely to make lenders more cautious about extending the requested amount of credit.

Pulley said that crop insurance provides protection for what has become one of a farmer's most valuable assets, namely his ability to borrow necessary money on the best possible terms.

Existing credit relationships can be further protected, Pulley said, by pledging a crop insurance policy as loan collateral. In the event of a crop loss, the indemnity check can be made payable directly to the designated lender. The advantage to the producer is that, to the extent of the insurance coverage, the loan repayment is immediate and there are no further interest costs. The advantage to the lender is prompt repayment.

Crop insurance in northeastern Nebraska counties is available on corn, grain sorghum, oats and soybeans. To be effective for 1991 crops, policies must be applied for by April 15. Contact your local crop insurance agent for more information and availability of other specialty crops.

FRIENDS plans all-night lock-in at WSC rec center; Vohs to be featured

WAYNE - The Wayne FRIENDS (Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs) are sponsoring a drug-free lock-in at the Wayne State College recreation center April 19 from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. on April 20.

The lock-in is for youths in grades 7-12 who are pledged members of drug-free youth groups from Emerson-Hubbard, West Point, Wynot and South Sioux City.

For the young people involved, the purpose of the lock-in is fun, friendship and strengthening their commitment to remain free of alcohol and other drugs. A performance by Comedienne T. Marni Vos will be featured. Vos lives in Lincoln and travels the country conducting workshops for schools and businesses on humor. She also performs in comedy clubs.

Vos has been a featured speaker at drug-free youth retreats sponsored by the Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Council of Nebraska. She will be conducting two assemblies in the afternoon of

The lock-in will also include a midnight swim, a dance by Hitman, refreshments, open recreation, videos and "family groups."

Family groups consist of 8-12 young people who meet periodically and form a close-knit supportive peer "family" for one another. The groups are led by youths who have received training in group facilitation. They lead planned ice-breakers and other activities designed to promote interaction, self-esteem building and support.

Crop insurance important

AREA - Although most farmers in northeastern Nebraska counties have successfully arranged operating loans for planting this year's crops, having adequate crop insurance protection in force can help to assure being able to borrow money in future years, according to Arland L. Pulley, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, with an office in Columbus.

Pulley says that a producer who suffers an uninsured loss of his 1991 crops could have two strikes against him when he approaches his lender for credit a year from now. First, as a result of the loss, the chances are he will need a larger loan. Second, the fact that 1991 loans may not have been fully repaid on time is likely to make lenders more cautious about extending the requested amount of credit.

Pulley said that crop insurance provides protection for what has become one of a farmer's most valuable assets, namely his ability to borrow necessary money on the best possible terms.

Existing credit relationships can be further protected, Pulley said, by pledging a crop insurance policy as loan collateral. In the event of a crop loss, the indemnity check can be made payable directly to the designated lender. The advantage to the producer is that, to the extent of the insurance coverage, the loan repayment is immediate and there are no further interest costs. The advantage to the lender is prompt repayment.

Crop insurance in northeastern Nebraska counties is available on corn, grain sorghum, oats and soybeans. To be effective for 1991 crops, policies must be applied for by April 15. Contact your local crop insurance agent for more information and availability of other specialty crops.

Pharmacy & Your Health WILL DAVIS SAV-MOR PHARMACY Dealing With Nighttime Bed-wetting The cause of bed-wetting often is not determined. Small bladder capacity or "weak" bladder muscles are sometimes blamed. Urinary tract infections, structural abnormalities, neurological disease, diabetes, and epilepsy are sometimes associated with bed-wetting. In 40 percent of families with a child who wets the bed, at least one of the child's parents also was a bed-wetter. Practical treatments include restricting liquids after the evening meal, having the child void before going to bed, waking the child prior to the usual time of bed-wetting, and increasing bladder capacity by delaying daytime voiding as long as possible. Prescription medicines that are sometimes effective include certain antidepressants or vasopressin hormone derivatives.
